ROOSEVELT CARRIES QUINCY BY 110 MAJORITY OVER TAFT

STATE DELEGATES EQUALLY DIVIDED PRESIDENT TAFT 18, ROOSEVELT 18

Popular Preference Vote of the State for Taft by Plurality 3,973 by Latest Returns

Champ Clark an Easy Winner Over Wilson. Fitzgerald for Vice President

THE VOTE OF QUINCY

In fact of the strong fight made for President Taft the forces of ex-President Roosevelt carried the city. Considerering the total vote, which was over 3,000, the result is considered to be close.

The total vote of the city for President was Roosevelt 1338, Taft 1228, La Follette 21, giving the ex-President a majority of 110 over Taft. Roosevelt also carried the delegates at large, as well as the delegates from the Tenth district the majority being practically the same as that for President.

The Republican vote was a hard one to count and as was anticipated it was late before the official returns were received at City Hall. City Clerk Crane had arranged with the wardens in the several wards however to send to City Hall the results of the vote for President as soon as it was tabulated. This was a wise provision for it enabled those at City Hall to learn how the city had gone, without remaining up all night.

It was 10.10 when the first official returns were received from Ward One showing that Roosevelt had carried the ward by 40 votes. Returns from the other wards arrived at intervals of from fifteen minutes to an hour until 11.30 when the unofficial figures gave the city to Roosevelt by over 250. The official figures cut this down however to 110. A mistake of fifty votes having been made in Ward Five.

It was not until 1.30 this morning that the first official returns arrived. These came from Ward Four. Ward One came in at 2.45 and was followed at 3.10 by Ward Two. Wards Five and Six came in a little later or at 3.45

Then came a long and tiresome wait for Ward Three, the one ward of the city which holds the undisputed honor of always being the last ward to be heard from. Slowly the hands of the clock seemed to move. Would Ward Three never show up? was the frequent query of the City Clerk and the reporters who were waiting to complete their tabulations, that they too might go home as had all of the other citizens, who had thronged the office during the early evening hours.

The old town clock struck 4, then 5, 6 and 7 and still Ward Three had not been heard from. By this time many of the early birds were about and with heavy eyes the patient waiters looked out of the window and saw people just starting to begin their daily work. Finally at 7.32 an officer made his appearance with the official vote of the missing ward under his arm. It was a welcome sight. Even then an hour or more work was required to complete the tabulation so that it was after 8 o'clock before the City Clerk put on his hat and went home to get a little sleep.

It does not seem as though men with ordinary intelligence would require as long a time to tabulate votes as it always does in this ward. Every year it is the same story and the Mayor who finds a set of rapid counters for election officers in this ward will deserve a wreath of laurel.

There seemed to be but little interest in the Democratic vote of the city and the total vote of that party was but 284. These voters expressed their preference for Clark for President who received 185 votes to 99 for Wilson.

The caucuses as a whole, Tuesday was a quiet one although the lieutenants of President Taft and ex-President Roosevelt were on duty and hustling to get out the vote. Automobiles of both candidates were in use in every ward and the total vote of the city was an unusually large one for a caucus.

It was hardly thought that the city would go for Roosevelt although the supporters of the ex-President had been claiming that they would carry the city.

The total vote of the Republican and Democratic parties will be found in the adjoining tables.

☞A fixed formula keeps the flavor fine in PRATT'S BREAD.

VOTE OF STATE

Returns from all over the state, tabulated up to noon show that the delegation is equally divided between President Taft and ex-President Roosevelt. The state preference vote however, gives Taft a plurality of 3973. Of the 36 delegates, President Taft secures 18 of the district delegates, including the Tenth district, while the Colonel gets the eight delegates at large and 10 of the district delegates.

The vote of 350 cities and towns is as follows:

LaFollette,	2,063
Roosevelt,	83,144
Taft,	87,118
Taft plurality,	3,973

The vote of the same cities and towns for Clark and Wilson was:

Clark,	33,491
Wilson,	14,470
Clark majority,	19,021

The districts to elect Taft delegates were: First, Second, Third, Sixth, Eighth, Tenth, Eleventh, Twelfth and Thirteenth.

Roosevelt districts: Fourth, Fifth, Seventh, Ninth and Fourteenth.

Mayor John F. Fitzgerald was the choice of the Democrats of the state for Vice President.

President Goodhue is the present efficient liquor officer and his efforts to suppress the illegal sale of liquor in Quincy have met with the hearty endorsement of the temperance people of the city.

MAYOR STONE AT BANQUET

Abner B. Packard Camp S. of V. Celebrate Anniversary

THE PROGRAM

The third anniversary banquet of the Sons of Veterans was held in Grand Army hall Tuesday evening, and was largely attended. The first part of the evening was devoted to a repast, which was followed by an entertainment and address. Mayor Stone was among the invited guests.

The exercises were opened by Past Commander Henry C. Gould, who made a few remarks, which elicited loud applause. Commander Frank Stoddard also addressed the gathering and was favorably received.

A trombone solo by Harry Field was greatly enjoyed and he was encored several times. Misses Ruth and Dorothy Packard made a decided hit with their different renditions and were kept before the audience for a long period, in responding to the encores. Their numbers included recitations, songs, piano selections and a playlet.

John Green sang a solo that called forth prolonged applause.

A quintet, composed of John Green, Misses Ruth and Dorothy Packard and Mr. and Mrs. Frank Stoddard gave a number of selections in a fine manner.

A violin and piano selection by Mr. and Mrs. Frank Lord brought a most successful affair to a close.

The committee in charge was Benjamin F. Hodgkinson, Jr., William French, Samuel DeForest, Jr., and Guy C. Baker.

Before the gathering dispersed all present joined in singing "America."

COUNTY BOARD OF TRADE.

The first regular meeting of the Norfolk County Associated Boards of Trade since its organization was held at the United States hotel, Boston, Thursday evening, April 25th. Representatives from all the boards of Trade in Norfolk County were present. A large number of those present dined together at 6.30. The meeting was called to order at 7.30 by the president. Reports from various Committees were presented and various matters of new business discussed.

Resolutions were passed, opposing the bill at present before the Legislature, which, if passed, would include a large number of towns of Norfolk County in Greater Boston.

A resolution was also passed opposing the Spanish War Veterans Preference bill, which has passed the Senate and is now before the House. The Committee on State Legislation was requested to oppose both of these measures.

The Association voted to refer the matter of a summer outing to the executive committee with full powers to take such action as they should deem wise.

F. S. Rane, State Forester, was present as a guest of the Association and delivered an address on Forest Fires, and the best means of prevention. This was followed by a general discussion.

The meeting adjourned at ten o'clock after a very interesting and profitable meeting to all present.

HONESTY IN EVERYTHING

As we hold no stock in the Harvester Company, we have no doubt that it is a bad trust.

It seems to be an inalienable right of the "minority" to make a contest in every district where it is beaten.

Some people go so far as to say there is at least one presidential candidate who does not deserved to be jailed immediately.

Women's dresses have more buttons than ever. Considering the tasks before him, the June bridegroom may naturally feel somewhat shaky.

'Tis rumored Mr. Bryan is not satisfied with writing up the golden weddings and receiving farmers' subscriptions in potatoes, but wants to run for president.

May day and a beautiful spring day. May the whole month be equally kind in dealing out sunshine and warm breezes. There has been rain enough to make foliage and shrubs spring into leaves and blossoms if the sun does its part.

An esteemed Virgianian contemporary sings the praises of sassafras tea with a warmth of eloquence that is sufficient to convince any one who when a boy had to drink "two quarts" of it a day, in the spring, and top off at night with a heapin' teaspoonful of sulphur and molasses.

Senator Cullom, of Ill., who has been in public life for 48 years of which 30 were in the U. S. Senate has been hurled over the Tarpean Rock of defeat, because he voted to retain Lorimer in the Senate. This will be a warning as to what other Senators may expect who voted the same way.

It is good to see old places fall into good hands. We have in mind the Horton house on Hancock street occupied for many years by "Auntie" Horton as she was familiarly known to many, and since her death, by Charles H. Johnson. Henry M. Faxon recently purchased the property and has thoroughly renovated the house. It is painted attractively and is a pleasing bit of old time architecture that causes much favorable comment now that it is at its best. The Nancy Brackett house across the way is another example of Mr. Faxon's good taste.

SPOTLESS TOWN.

Today is the first of the week of cleanup days, inaugurated by the Quincy Women's club, ably assisted by the City and other organizations and we are looking for a "spotless town" when their labors are ended. It should be a matter of pride with every man, woman and child to take a hand in this cleanup and make Quincy at once the neatest and best town on the map. We may not all perhaps have beautiful places or the means to make them beautiful but we can be tidy and see that our place is in order and not an eyesore to our neighbor, which is surely the next thing to beauty.

After the yard is in order, back as well as front, there is the gutter, the street, or even the vacant lot across the way, cannot something be done there also? Children can pick up papers and be taught tidiness and help in the cleanup crusade.

Beautiful surroundings have a wonderful effect upon our lives besides giving pleasure. Travellers through Holland says the Framingham News, tells us how neat and attractive are the homes and surroundings of the common people; what a love they have for flowers as well as cleanliness. We may emulate them to our advantage and enjoyment. First let us rake up the rubbish—the old leaves, tin cans, ashes and other refuse—cart it all off to the dump and start clean, and do it early. Be very careful about kindling rubbish fires, especially where they may get beyond control and spread. Meantime study what you can do for a little flower garden this spring and summer; no matter how small, but something. The love of and care of flowers is one evidence of refinement and will make you friends, as it deserves to, but it will please and interest and profit you even more than anybody else.

ARBITRATING DISPUTES.

The probability that the threatened locomotive engineers' strike will be settled by mediation, and the fact that a similar trouble in 1910 was thus adjusted through the Erdman act, gives new hope to arbitration as a means of stopping industrial war.

With the hopeful promise of the arbitration movement about a dozen years ago, industrial disarmament seemed at hand. The National Civic Federation held enthusiastic dinners. The millenium seemed very near, as the Roman punch circulated and the skilfully seasoned terrapin was consumed.

Then came the failure of the federation to settle the coal strike, failure of arbitration in the Philadelphia general strike, the failure to settle the shirt waist makers' strikes in that way.

The reports of state arbitration boards make jobs for the state printers, but their achievement is not large.

Now look at strikes as a part of the cost of living. The Pullman strike of 1894 is figured to have cost the country $80,000,000. The coal strike of 1902 cost the railroads $47,000,000 in loss of freight alone, a small item in the general loss. The French general strike of 1909 cost that country $55,000,000, not to speak of the general discomfort and paralysis to business.

Compulsory arbitration is contrary to many preconceived theories and established traditions. Theoretically an individual and a corporation has a right to hire whom it pleases, and theoretically a workman has the right to quit work at any time.

But suppose every railroad from New Orleans and St. Paul to the Aroostook in Maine were tied up by a general strike for some weeks. The losses to the innocent public would run into the hundreds of millions.

Suppose that kind of thing should happen several years running. How long would people permit theories in black covered law books and dusty political economy to interfere with some new conception of the power of government that will provide a certain means for stopping such waste, and at the same time dealing out justice as far as our imperfect human nature will permit.

MAY DAY.

Once in Merrie England, the first day of May was an occasion of simple country jollity. Today it has more laboriously and formal functions in our strenuous social economy.

This is the traditional date when the metropolitan family, becoming weary of a flat in which you have to go out of doors to turn around, takes up the annual but elusive pilgrimage in search of a real home, with the usual result.

Over in Europe, May day is the period for Labor demonstrations. As our method of celebrating the glories of toil is to attend athletic field days Labor day, May day as a trades union celebration has never been so popular here. But occasionally the labor unions get out for a long and dusty march with white beaver hats and twirling canes.

In some of the more advanced churches, the first of May is the occasion for dancing around the May pole, after the jolly old English custom. But the simple old fashion of footing it around the village green no longer goes. The young folks have to be rigged up in their Cuban heels and white stockings and all the other fluffery.

Some of us can recall the time when the American Little Red school house used to observe May day in a fashion of its own. There were no fluffy clothes, no parading the streets, no upsetting of home ties. School marm and pupils used to get out into the woods to gather flowers. There was a charm about May day in those times that is not to be found in whanging bands of music, of slicked up children with spatted hair.

CRIMES IN LEWISTON

Slayer of Bibber May Have Been the Assailant of Women

Lewiston, Me., May 1.—Although the detectives and the local police have been working diligently following up various clues in an effort to apprehend the murderer of John Bibber and the assailants of Mrs. Wallace H. White, Jr., and Miss Mary AuCoin, the case is as deep a mystery as it was the moment John Bibber's body was discovered.

It may be several days before any arrests are made. While City Marshal Callier does not believe there is any connection between the three crimes, others are working on the supposition that the same parties were concerned in eacn case.

CLUB SERVES FINE SUPPER

Large Party Enjoy Supper of Women's Riverside Club

ENTERTAINMENT

Successful beyond anticipation was the first supper of the Quincy Women's Riverside club, Tuesday evening at the Town River Yacht club. Supper was served between 5.30 and 7.30 o'clock, followed by an entertainment, whist and dancing.

The affair was under the direction of members of the club and every detail carefully carried out. The menu consisted of ham, turkey, salads, beans escalloped oysters, cake, pies of all kinds, ice cream and coffee. The waitresses were club members. Nearly 200 enjoyed the supper.

The clubhouse had been tastefully decorated for the event, with wide streamers of red, white and blue entwined with the stars and stripes. and the tables were arranged in a most artistic manner.

At the conclusion of the supper, the post prandial exercises were in order, opened by the chairman of the committee, Mrs. Frank Hobart, who introduced Mrs. Caroline B. Mellynn, president of the club, as mistress of ceremonies.

Mrs. Mellyn introduced His Honor, Mayor Eugene R. Stone, as the first speaker. Mayor Stone was given an ovation. He congratulated the members on the principles of their organization and the influence it bid fair to have on the community. He gave a brief history of the development of the Quincy Point district from a social standpoint and said that during that period only one club had been formed by women. Mayor Stone said the Quincy Women's Riverside was the only body of women that confines its membership to a particular section of the city. He was sorry that other engagements prevented his remaining for the rest of the program. In closing Mayor Stone told of his meeting President Taft last Tuesday, of the intimate acquaintance with him in the past, and the remarkable knowledge the Chief Executive of the nation possessed regarding Quincy.Mrs. Melslyn gave an address of welcome that was received in a most apreciative manner.

Commodore Thompson B. Crane, of the Town River Yacht club made a few remarks in his usual happy vein.

Mrs. E. R. Blanchard, vice-president was introduced and made a few pertinent remarks. E. P. Barrows related a number of stories and lived up to his reputation of being the best story teller at Quincy Point. Mrs. Alice Nolan, sang a solo, responding to repeated encores, which closed the entertainment. She was accompanied on the piano by Mrs. W. C. Luther.

A large number participated in whist and dancing, the affair coming to a close shortly before midnight.

The committee in charge of the party was headed by Mrs. Frank Hobart, who was ably assisted by Mrs. George E. Spooner, Mrs. Thomas G. Smith, Mrs. John F. Roache, Mrs. James M. Gibb, Mrs. Fred Artis, Mrs. William Hayden, Mrs. William H. Godrey, Mrs. A. J. Graf, Mrs. Charles S. Jones, and Mrs. George Sprague.

Great Mine Disaster In Japan

Tokio, May 1.—The Hokkaide company's colliery at Yubari, on the island of Yezo, was wrecked by an explosion. Two hundred and eighty-three miners are entombed with little possibility, it is feared, of their rescue.

Fire Loss of Half a Million

New York, May 1.—Fire in the twelve-story Exchange building burned out three floors, causing a loss estimated at $500,000. The offices of D. Appleton, publishers, and a dozen or more printing and mercantile establishments were burned out.

Shopping Up to Date.

"No, none of these hats suggest my personality at all. You see, I'm a great racegoer, adore drama, read classics in the original, sympathize with the woman's movement, travel a good deal, and am intensely temperamental. The hat I want must convey all this."

COMING EVENTS CALENDAR.

Under this heading will be published forthcoming entertainments in the city. A one-line announcement will be inserted free of charge, but if any committee desires more publicity as to place, hour, date, admission, etc., it will be inserted at 25 cents per line each insertion. Look the list over, and if your entertainment is not included, send it in.

JEROME IN THAW CASE

Engaged by State to Keep White's Slayer In Insane Asylum

Albany, May 1.—William T. Jerome. formerly district attorney of New York county, has been designated by Atorney General Carmody to assist the state and the New York district attorney's office in opposing the latest application of Harry K. Thaw for his release from the Matteawan state hospital for the criminal insane.

Carmody announced that while it has been his policy not to engage special counsel, he felt that in view of the fact that Jerome opposed the previous proceedings brought in behalf of Thaw, and because of his familiarity with the case, and in view of his experience in connection with the examination of alienists in this matter, he felt it his duty to employ him.

RECORD MAY BE BROKEN

Advance In Prices of Meat Has Begun In Chicago Market

Chicago, May 1.—The predicted rise in meat prices has arrived in Chicago. The highest figures in two years have been reached, and it is said by dealers that all records will be broken in a few days. Packers say they are paying the highest prices for farmers' offerings in twenty years.

A search for the cause of the increase revealed that the retail butcher is blaming the wholesaler; the wholesaler the packer; the packer the farmer, and the farmer the high price of corn. Stock exchange men say corn is higher because of weather conditions.

QUINCY WOMEN'S CLUB

A meeting was held at the women's clubhouse Tuesday afternoon, under the auspices of the Legislative committee, Mrs. Ward Whicher presiding.

Mrs. Irene Chipman Tirrell, sang sweetly "Dreams' by Strelezki-Romany and "Spring Song," by Horrock, Mrs. Mary Chandler West, accompanying at the piano.

Mrs. Whicher introducing speaker of the afternoon said: "We are fortunate in having with us one who is performing a real service to humanity, a woman of rare, good judgement, who is studying the bettering of the conditions and the general uplift of those who have to toil. I have the pleasure and honor of introducing Mrs. Glendower Evans of Boston, a member of the Minimum Wage Commission who will speak on the 'Minimum Wage!

In explaining the need of legislation to regulate the underpayment of women workers Mrs. Evans said:

"Buying labor is buying human life. As things are now, labor is bought by a sort of bargain counter process. The poorer people are, the more urgent their necessities, the lower the price their labor fetches. The minimum wage bill now before the legislature sets a limit below which wages of women shall not be allowed to fall. The bill provides for wage boards which shall sit for different trades. Employers and employees shall sit together on these boards and representatives of the public too. Then wages will be settled by a sort of arbitration instead of as now by the sole say-so of the owner of the job.

"The wage board plan is no novelty. It has been in successful operation for years in Australia from where so many suggestions for our food laws have come. It has been copied in England and at this moment is being discussed in half a dozen different states in this country. Every industrial community is confronted with the same evils under which we suffer and people all over the country are coming to look to wage boards as at least a step toward a remedy.

"If you object that it is not necessary for women to receive a living wage because they don't have to wholly support themselves, and that there is always a man to help them out,—that is a very pretty theory but it does not work out in fact. Probably one out of every four or five of our working women have no male wage earner in the family, and when there is, you frequently find that he is sick or out of work and it is his wife or daughter who is supporting him. What happens then to the theory that a woman by nature has a male protector and should only be expected to earn her clothes? In the many cases where there is no male wage earner, sick or well, the family group may be a widow with a little child or a girl supporting an aged mother or an invalid sister. Then there are the women living in boarding and lodging houses. It has been estimated that in Boston there are eleven or twelve thousand of them. Among these peculiarly exposed women are some who are earning such low pay that it is impossible to imagine how they can get along. It is these extreme cases that will come within the scope of a wage board.

"Wage boards will also educate employers as to the ethics of their pay rolls. Most of them have never studied the matter from any other point of view than that of profit and loss, and it would be a wholly new idea to them to be forced to translate their payrolls into terms of life. Many employers could and would not do better by their employees if the evils of the present system were properly brought before them. As it is, big industry has created a great gulf between employers and employees. The responsible decision as to what share of the profits shall be awarded to one and another of those engaged in a common industrial undertaking,—whether one shall live in comfort and decency or shall perish inch by inch in body and spirit,—is left now to a subordinate whose own livelihood is risked if he fails to keep down expenses. It is astonishing how little some owners of a business know about their pay rolls. Sometimes they have confessed surprise and shame when their attention has been called to some of the wages they have been paying. This applies, of course, only to the large employers and is an instance of the kind of abuse that is apt to creep into the modern way of manufacturing and selling on a large scale in which the employer and his employees rarely come in contact with one another.

At the close of Mrs. Evans' address Mrs. Tirrell again favored with a group of songs singing, "So like a flower" by Chadwick and "Mighty like a rose" by Nevin.

Mrs. Whicher in introducing the second speaker Mrs. Robert E. Park said: "In a woman's club many questions are discussed and one of our own members has put much time and study into the subject of pensions for widows and children. Mrs. Park said:

"Sometimes, when you are going about your business, happy in your way, something seems to tap you on the shoulder and say, 'This way. You are needed over here?' And then sometimes new tools are forced into your hands and you are told to begin a new job, but if you respond, all will go well. The clear vision of what it all means will come to you. Whenever a clear vision of others needs illuminates the dark places through which a woman's pathway has been straight for her, by some one else, that moment something of the vision that inspired Joan of Arc comes, I believe, to every heathful and dauntless woman, who longs to do her share in the work of the world.

"In every strike, in every crisis arise women who forget that they do not known how in the simple fact that they must. Something of the fatalistic quality of Joan's surety in being led is, I believe, in every such case, carrying the person out and beyond herself, until she is able to conquer obstacles that to those more knowing would seem unsurmountable.

"I think it is this blessed immunity from doubts which has led the movement for a wide investigation of the needs of mothers with minor dependent children as far as it has gone.

"Do you remember the story of the two adventurous tailors who came to the King's palace with a magic loom which they said wove the most wonderful cloth. Only those who always spoke the truth could see it. They showed it to the king, and asked him to admire the wonderful colors and texture. The king would not admit that he could not see it, and all the court vied with him in admiring the wonderful cloth. Finally the king went out in a procession, attired in a garment of the wonderful cloth.

"But a little child cried out, 'Why, he has nothing on!' And then at last they all admitted it. So I in my surprise, when I first found out the facts, called out, quite boldly 'Why, they do nothing for poor widows in this state, except take their children away from them!' Many people would not believe this at first. They said, "Massachusetts does more for orphans than almost any other State, except those that have that socialistic new pension law." But the fact remained that they only took the children away from the mothers, except in case of very inadequate out-door relief, where the mother and children must be listed as paupers and the disgrace persists even to restrictions as to marriage in the children. So those that believed they were right and those that believed that something better could and should be done have agreed to ask for an investigation into all the facts. I had to bring out the known facts so often at the various committee meetings, for the bill for a Commission of Investigation went before the House of Commission on Legal Affairs, before the House Com. on Ways and Means and before the Senate Com. on Ways and Means, that I can tell you briefly the points that have now come out.

"But first I want to say: Here is the pen that the Governor signed the petition with last Saturday, so that what I am talking to you about now is an accomplished fact, and no longer a mere vision of a too hopeful dreamer.

"First, there is the point as to pensions in general. Do we believe in pensions at all? After the objectionable features of pensions for soldiers have been fully stated how do we feel about pensions, anyway? Well, I for one feel that in spite of the facts brought out, in spite of the fact that here and there we find people receiving pensions that should not, still, I would not turn back the page of history and have all the maimed and crippled soldiers sent to the almshouses. I would not now like to see the ancient survivors of those strenuous days eating the bread of charity and humiliated in their last days. In spite of its faults it is the right way to deal with those who risk life and limb for the good of the State, and I believe that it is the right way to deal with those who risk life and happiness in bearing children for the State.

"Now, don't think of single cases: single cases may be unsatisfactory, may have their faults, as you and I have them; only, when one is poor they are not properly entitled to have so many. You must have all the virtues, if you expect to ask for relief, or so it seems to us, at times. But think of the principle at stake, and I do not think you can go far wrong. The principle is this, that a woman has bourne children for the State, and through accident of some kind has not the means to bring them up. For a few years it is going to be hard. After that, if they have had decent food and clothing, so that they are healthy and well cared for, they are going to be able to take of her as well as themselves. Do you think it is the sensible thing to take those children away from her, or to help her to keep them where they belong, and where she can have the cheer of their companionship in her struggle, hard at the best?

The Commission is going to try and find out how many mothers of young children have succumbed to the terrible mental, moral and physical strain put upon them, how many go to the tuberculosis wards when they have unsuccessfully tried to cope with this problem. How many have learned to depend on the stimulus of drink in doing too much work on too little food and with too little clothing in winter. How many have learned to deceive the law about the ages of their children, rather than give up their children to the State, and how many children, the neglected offspring of widows who are away at work from ten to fourteen hours a day, get into trouble in the Juvenile Courts. We are going to have at least two of those on the Commission married, and one a woman. The reason we want the married is because we want those who have children of their own. So many things suggest themselves alone to those who have children. No one can know the anxiety involved in raising a family if they have not tried it. Even under good conditions there are failures, and we want to make the conditions possible, anyway. Do you know that even those wise people who made out the family budgets for the Minimum Wage reports made one mistake because they had no children. I say they had no children, although I am sure they have the greatest sympathy with childhood, and love children, because nobody who had ever brought up a child could possibly make out a list of necessities in clothing, and put in hair ribbons and leave out rubbers. Rubbers, my dear friends, are one of the things you must have. You can, at a pinch, tie up the hair with old shoe strings but if you don't have rubbers at certain times of the year you have Doctor's bills which are worse. A child, if he is careful, can get along with two pairs of rubbers a year, but they don't wear as they used to. A pair of rubbers for a child of ten, costs 65 cents.

"So there you are! If the mother must, perforce, keep her children out of school for lack of shoes and rubbers, it is bad. If the child goes in leaky shoes and minus the rubbers then we have to raise more money for the tuberculosis camps, and even then they are not happy!

"I had a very conscientious worker look at me the other day, and inquire, sadly: 'Don't you think this new law will encourage larger families among the poor?' Well, I admit, frankly, that I find this question hard to answer. Not because I have'nt plenty to say, but because I have too much to say. As long as the children have a good environment and enough to eat to make them strong and well, who is to say that the children of the poor are inferior to those of the rich. Sir Richard Arkwright, the inventor of the Spinning Jenny, who was one of the makers of modern Commercial England was not always Sir Richard. He was the youngest of thirteen children and his parents were as poor as the proverbial church mouse. I could point out many examples of great men, and I could point out citizens of Quincy today who began life as poor boys, and the youngest of a flock. Many of us would never have been born if the caution that now characterizes the modern conception of the family, had been in vogue before we were born. We need more citizens, we need them more than those who have not studied this subject can guess. Do you know that in 1905 only about 38 per cent of the adult population of Massachusetts was married at all, and many of those had no children, or only one child? We must depend on the careless gifts of the children of the poor for our population. Then shall we let them come up in any maimed and crippled and stunted way? Don't we want to make the best of them? If we are too cautious to take the risk of large families, then let us try to help them make the best of their fine recklessness. Let us let no little prospective Arkwright, or Palissy, or Bunyan escape.

"I have just been reading aloud to my young son a book about the famous inventions. Do you know that we are indebted for nearly every one of the great inventions to the children of the poor, and mostly belonging to large families? Any one who says anything like that is not a real democrat, and should go to China where the worship of ancestors has kept the country as far behind others as possible.

"The Commission is going to need the help of all of you, because we want the intelligent women to give us the facts that we need. Mrs. Rich is doing all she can, and with the help of the Federation of Women's Clubs, and the Women's Christian Temperance Union and other great organizations like the Mothers Congress, we hope to find out all we need before our report is published next winter. I hope that it will prove worth reading, and that through it we can find out how to meet the difficulties that will doubtless arise in any great reform."

Mrs. Sheppard, president of the Woman's club spoke a few words of appreciation and said she hoped all of the members would take a vital interest in these good works. Mrs. Sheppard announced a lecture on Holland by Miss Edith Randall, May 9th, for the benefit of the club.

A social hour was enjoyed during which refreshments were served, the hostesses being Mrs. John Christianson, Miss Mary Hinkley, Mrs. Frederick Breslyn, Mrs. H. Gerrish Smith, Mrs. Stanley Bone, Mrs. Herbert Lawton and Mrs. Robert E. Park.

There was a large attendance.

DAUGHTERS OF THE REVOLUTION

This year the annual convention of the General Society of the Daughters of the Revolution is to be held in Boston and will be attended by delegates from all over the country. The meeting convenes from May 13 to 18 with headquarters at Hotel Vendome.

Monday evening the Massachusetts society will tender a reception to the officers and visiting delegates at Hotel Vendome. Tuesday morning the convention will open and continue all day, also on Wednesday. Many social functions have been planned, among them a banquet at the Algonquin club; a reception and luncheon at Wakefield; trip to Plymouth and Dreamwold; auto trips about Boston and to Concord and Lexington. It promises to be a busy and enjoyable convention.

QUINCY YOUNG WOMENS' CLUB.

The last regular meeting of the Young Women's club was held Saturday evening. The occasion was a gentleman's night, which proved to be one of the most enjoyable evenings yet held by the club. The programme was in charge of Miss Mabel E. Lovejoy, to whom much of the credit for the success of the entertainment was due.

The rooms were prettily decorated in crimson, the tea room being especially attractive. The programme opened with a short play "A Fair Encounter," which prove very interesting and exciting. The parts were taken by Miss Mabel Pratt and Miss Mabel Lovejoy.

Dancing followed, music being furnished by Irving Hayden, piano and Max Pinkham, violin. The dance orders were handpainted by Miss Edith M. Lovejoy.

During the dancing, refreshments were served in the tea room, under the direction of Miss Mila Bates.

EXCEPTIONALLY FINE MUSICALE

Miss Beliveau Was Assisted by Out-of-Town Talent

ALPHA HALL

A musicale given by Miss Celina Beliveau, assisted by William W. Walker of the Schubert quartet; Carmine Fabrizo, of the Boston Symphony orchestra, violinist and Anna Louise Walker, accompanist, was held in Alpha hall, Tuesday night. The hall was filled to repletion, and the audience appreciated the fine program rendered as evinced by generous and unstinted applause.

Miss Beliveau rendered the first number, Cavatine, from Queen of Sheba, by Gounod, with remarkable ability, displaying a powerful range of tone, true and clear, the softer portions being especially effective. Miss Beliveau responded in response to an encore.

The "Deluge," by Saint Saens and Caprice Viennois, by Kriesler, by Carmine Fabrizo, were splendidly interpreted, and with much expression. Mr. Fabrizo responded to the applause.

A "prelude" by Chopin, and the Valse Chromatique, by Godard were admirably played by Miss Beliveau, who also sang "Robert le Diable," by Meyerbeer, delightfully, responding to repeated calls by singing "The Last Rose of Summer," which was very graciously and sweetly sung.

Mr. Walker rendered "A Dream," by Tosti, and was given an ovation responding with, "When you come to the end of a Perfect Day."

"Passage Birds Farewell," by Hildach, sung by Miss Beliveau and Mr. Walker was marked for strength and fulness of tone. They responded with, "Across the Still Lagoon."

"Impromptu," by Rhienhold, Miss Beliveau played with a delicacy of touch and expression.

"Lamento," by Faure, and "Liebesfrend," by Kriesler, interpreted by Mr. Fabrizo called forth persistent demonstration, until he responded.

The recital concluded with "Ave Maria," by Gounod, sung by Miss Beliveau, accompanied by Miss Walker piano and Mr. Fabrizo, violin, which was magnificently rendered.

Miss Beliveau was the recipient of many beautiful bouquets. The whole program was carried out very successfully and the audience felt it a privilege to listen to artists of such superior ability and note.

Miss Beliveau was exquisitely dressed in an embroidered white net costume over white silk. Miss Walker wore a very becoming gown of pale blue satin with corsage draped with pale pink and crystal trimmings, with pale pink draped on the skirt. Miss Walker accompanied with taste and skill and her expressive playing was an added inspiration to Miss Beliveau's exquisite voice. Miss Beliveau is decidedly to be congratulated upon her very fine and excellent concert. Lovers of good music hope there is another treat for them in the near future.

STORE CLERKS ARE BANQUETED

The annual banquet of the clerks employed by the local retail merchants was held Tuesday evening at Masonic hall banquet room and attended by upwards of 150. Albert L. Whitman, the president of the retail merchants' association presided and welcomed the clerks. After the banquet there was an interesting address by A. S. K. Clark of the state sealer of weights and measures office, who gave a talk on "How the public are faked by dealers and fakers" His address was illustrated by a number of stereopticon views showing the first scales used and some of those in use at the present time. He also showed how dishonest dealers fooled their customers with dented measures, and told of some of the cases that had come under his personal observation.

BRIEFS

The Quincy Charitable Society meets tomorrow afternoon for its monthly meeting.

Mr. and Mrs. Walter E. Simmons of Wollaston entertains the Pickwick club tomorrow night for its annual meeting.

It is anticipated that there will be a large attendance tonight at the reception given in Bethany chapel for Rev. and Mrs. Benjamin J. Willmott. Members of Bethany Circle and an able committee have the affair in charge.

CALL IS ACCEPTED.

Word has been received by the Swedish Lutheran church from Rev. Leander Hockinsen of Pennsylvania, accepting the call to become the pastor of the Quincy church, stating that he would assume charge early in June. This is the second call that the local church has extended to Rev. Mr. Hockinsen, the first call having been declined.

DANCING PARTY.

Friends of Miss Catherine Yule of Yules' hotel, Quincy Point, passed a very enjoyable evening at a social dance at her home Tuesday evening, about fifty couples being present. Willworth's orchestra of Boston furnished the music. Refreshments were served at ten o'clock and the guests departed for home at midnight. Guests were present from Weymouth, Braintree and South Quincy and the Point.

CLOSE BATTLE IN BAY STATE

Taft and Roosevelt Neck and Neck In Popular Vote

COLONEL GATHERS DELEGATES

Majority of Thirty-Six to Which State Is Entitled Will Go to National Convention Pledged to Him as Will, Probably, All Delegates-at-Large—"Silk Stocking" Ward Saves Taft From Defeat In Boston—Clark Easily Carries State Over Wilson, but Democratic Vote Is Small—Regular Slate a Winner

Boston, May 1.—Theodore Roosevelt is the choice of the Republican voters of Massachusetts for the nomination for president. Returns this morning give Roosevelt 25,451 votes as against 25,215 for President Taft. La Follette has 663 votes.

The majority of the thirty-six delegates to which the state is entitled at the national convention in Chicago will go pledged to Roosevelt.

It is probable that the entire list of delegates-at-large pledged to Roosevelt and headed by Charles S. Baxter will be elected over the Taft delegates, headed by Senator Crane. In these election districts Baxter had 26,135 votes as against 21,977 for Crane.

The Taft forces have apparently captured the delegates in the First, Second, Third, Tenth, Eleventh and Twelfth congressional districts. The Roosevelt forces lead in the fight for delegates in the Fourth, Fifth, Sixth, Seventh, Ninth and Fourteenth districts. The Eighth and Thirteenth have not been heard from. On this basis Roosevelt will have twenty of the thirty-six delegates.

Champ Clark carried the state easily against Governor Wilson of New Jersey. Thus far he has 16,819 votes, as against 7511 votes for Wilson.

The Democratic state committee slate for delegates-at-large won easily in the state. This slate was headed by John W. Coughlin of Fall River, who had 16,101 votes, as against 5435 for George F. Williams.

It is probable that Frank J. Donahue secured a place on the Democratic slate for delegate-at-large. James H. Vahey and ex-Congressman Keliher, as well as Williams, the Clark leader, were defeated.

President Taft only captured Boston by a majority of 631 votes over Roosevelt. The president's vote was 11,282 as against 10,651 for Roosevelt.

Mr. Roosevelt carried fifteen of the Boston wards. It was the silk stocking ward, Ward 11, that saved Taft from defeat in Boston. The Back Bay ward, which Roosevelt attacked so in his speeches throughout the state, gave Roosevelt 472 votes as against 1300 for Taft.

Despite the fact that the president won in this city by a narrow majority, Roosevelt captured fifteen of the twenty-six wards. La Follette received but 249 votes in this city.

Champ Clark carried the city on the preferential vote for president over Wilson with a majority of 8421 votes. Clark received 14,300 votes in this city, as against 5879 for Wilson.

The Democratic vote was extremely light. It early became evident that many who usually have voted the Democratic ticket had gone to the polls and enrolled as Republicans in order to vote for Roosevelt.

The Democratic organization ticket for delegates-at-large headed by Coughlin won easily in the city. There were only seven men on this ticket and the eighth place was won by Donahue, who was the Democratic candidate for state auditor last fall.

David I. Walsh of Clinton led the ticket in Boston, getting more votes than Mayor Fitzgerald. This was easily the feature of the vote in the city. Walsh received 14,492 votes against 14,230 for Fitzgerald.

The low man on this ticket in Boston was Charles B. Strecker with a vote of 11,371. Donahue's vote was 8678.

There was also considerable interest in the vote that ex-Congressman Keliher received as compared with that received by Fitzgerald. His vote in this city was 6290 as compared with 14,230 received by the mayor. Keliher has been mentioned as a probable candidate against Fitzgerald for the mayoralty.

The Roosevelt ticket for delegate-at-large in Boston won easily with Baxter leading with 10,913 votes as against 10,078 for Crane, who led the Taft ticket.

Many of the Republican ballots in Boston were invalidated because of nine votes being cast for the Taft delegates-at-large.

This was due principally to the fact that Frank Seiberlich came before the regular Taft ticket and there were many votes cast for him together with the eight names on the regular ticket.

The vote of the state as tabulated according to returns received up to this morning follows:

La Follette	663
Roosevelt	25,451
Taft	25,215

Plurality for Roosevelt 236.

Clark	16,819
Wilson	7,511

Plurality for Clark 9308.

The vote of Boston:

La Follette	249
Roosevelt	10,651
Taft	11,282

Plurality for Taft 631.

Clark	14,300
Wilson	5,879

Majority for Clark 8421.

Vote for Boston delegates-at-large:

Baxter (Roosevelt)	10,913
Crane (Taft)	10,078

Roosevelt delegation majority 835.

Coughlin (Foss)	13,839
Williams	4,020

Coughlin's majority 8369.

DELEGATES FOR TAFT

But New Hampshire Convention Refuses to Restrict Them

Concord, N. H., May 1.—An effort on the part of the Taft leaders of New Hampshire to incorporate their opposition to Roosevelt in the Republican party platform to the extent of forbidding the delegates-at-large to vote for Roosevelt for president under any conditions in the national convention was effectually killed by the Roosevelt faction, aided by the more conservative Taft leaders, in the Republican state convention.

Secure in the matter of pledging the state delegates to Taft, the sentiment, which had been included in the first draft of the platform, found almost no actual suport from any quarter when the opposition was broached, even the chairman of the resolutions committee offering to withdraw the sentence and expressing his personal disapproval of it.

Six delegates pledged to President Taft were elected to the national convention at Chicago in the state and Second district conventions.

The two remaining delegates to which the state is entitled will be elected at the First district convention to be held in Manchester today, where the selection of Taft delegates is conceded by the Roosevelt followers.

The Taft platform as adopted indorsed the administration of President Taft and condemned many of the measures advocated by ex-President Roosevelt as well as the latter's attitude toward the president.

ALL ROOSEVELT'S WAY

Claim That His Men Will Control Pennsylvania State Convention

Harrisburg, May 1.—The Roosevelt leaders assert that today's Republican state convention will be dominated by the Roosevelt delegates. This claim is not denied at the regular Republican headquarters, where Senator Penrose is in command.

The Roosevelt claim includes between 275 and 300 of the 373 delegates, comprising the state convention, the nomination of candidates for state treasurer, auditor general, four congressmen-at-large, twelve delegates-at-large instructed for Roosevelt as the presidential choice of the Republican voters of Pennsylvania and the reorganization and control of the Republican state committee.

No Republican convention in recent years has aroused so much interest.

TO RECONSTRUCT LIVING

Dead Bodies May Be Successfully Used For That Purpose

Chicago, May 1.—Miracles of surgery which involve the dismembering of dead bodies to reconstruct the living are declared to be possibilities of the immediate future by Drr. Roswell Park, professor of surgery of the University of Buffalo.

In a paper which dealt with his theories with a wealth of detail, Park told the American Medical association how this might be accomplished.

His plan simply is to make practical use of the live organs that remain in the corpse of a man or a woman. Since death may result from violent injury to one organ—the brain or the heart, for instance—Park says that the remaining live tissues may be grafted on the body of the injured person with the same hope of success that Burbank exhibits in grafting the flora.

STRANGLES HER BABY

Despondent Woman Then Uses a Knife on Her Own Throat

Lynn, Mass., May 1.—Groveling on the floor beside a bed on which lay the dead body of her 1-year-old daughter, Mrs. Catherine Dunn, 39 years old, a widow of one year, was found at her home with her throat gashed. The child had been strangled with a piece of cord. Beside the mother lay a blood-stained knife, with which she had tried to end her life, after killing the infant. Mrs. Dunn is dying.

The police believe that brooding over her husband's death affected Mrs. Dunn's mind, and she killed the child and attempted suicide in a fit of temporary insanity.

FUNERAL SHIP REACHES PORT

Mackay-Bennett Brings 190 Bodies to Halifax

ALL SHE COULD TAKE CARE OF

Hundred and Sixteen Were Buried at Sea, the Great Majority of Them Being Unidentified—Astor's Body Found Standing Almost Erect—Many Lifeless Forms Had Crushed Skulls and Broken Arms and Legs

Halifax, May 1.—While the city's church bells tolled and British flags fluttered at half-mast, the cable ship Mackay-Bennett steamed into Halifax harbor bearing the dead picked up from the scene where the White Star liner Titanic sank. As soon as the ship was sighted down the barbor, the canvas curtains shielding the coffins and embalmers' tents on the pier were lowered and twenty sailors from the Canadian cruiser Niobe, in the navy yard for repairs, lined up as a guard. A patrol boat took up position in front of the navy yard pier to prevent any craft docking in the vicinity.

It was announced that the total number of bodies on board was 190, and it had been found necessary to bury 116 at sea. Among those brought to port are the bodies of two women. The bodies of sixteen other women were recovered, but were buried at sea.

Among the remains were those of Colonel Astor and Isador Straus. George B. Widener's body, although previously reported as recovered, was not among those on the ship. Not one name of prominent persons missing was added to the list of recovered dead by the Mackay-Bennett's arrival.

Men with stretchers quickly came on board and the work of removal was begun swiftly.

Captain Lardner reported that relics of the great Titanic dotted the sea over an area of thirty square miles. Doors, windows and chairs by the score were found floating, but to none of them were bodies lashed. In several instances there were groups of the floating bodies numbering fifty or more; but none were lashed together. Colonel Astor's body was found dressed in a blue suit, standing almost erect in his life belt.

Small boats were lowered by the Mackay-Bennett whenever a group of bodies were sighted, and into these the dead were piled, three or four at a time. Hauled on board the cable ship, each was numbered with a large canvas tag, and the valuables and papers placed in a canvas sack, similarly numbered.

Canon Hind of All Saints' cathedral here conducted the services in connection with the burial at sea. On three separate occasions services were held.

"We buried so many at sea," said Lardner, "simply because we could not accommodate them. We had limited embalming supplies and it was absolutely necessary to consign many to the deep. Few, if any, passengers, I believe, were buried, except perhaps in the case of Mr. Widener's valet. The great majority of those sunk were unidentified, without even clothing as a means of telling who they were. We had instructions when we left here to pick up all the Titanic's dead we found, but under the conditions it was impossible to carry out these instructions."

Starting with the departure of the ship from Halifax on April 17, the commander told how fog and bad weather delayed her so that she did not reach the scene of her labors until Saturday night at 8 o'clock. "As soon as we arrived," he continued, "we stopped and let our vessel drift. During the middle watches some wreckage and a few bodies were sighted and at daylight we saw more bodies. Although a heavy sea was running we recovered fifty-one bodies that day. Twenty-four of these were committed to the deep on the same day. Most of them had been members of the Titanic's ship's company.

"We commenced work again at daylight on Monday and recovered twenty-six that day. On Tuesday morning bodies were numerous and at noon we had picked up ninety. The weather then came up thick, but in the afternoon we picked up twenty-nine more. All day Wednesday we were in the thick fog with a fresh wind blowing sou'sou-west. We saw nothing all day. On Thursday we recovered eighty-one.

"The bodies drifted in groups and the bobbing life belts which showed white as we approached made the bodies look like sea gulls on the waves. I account for the crushed skulls, broken arms and legs and other injuries by the fact that when the liner foundered, the wash of waves pounded the dying passengers against posts and stanchions.

"The Minia came up to us shortly after midnight on Friday and at daylight Saturday the two ships resumed the work together. By noon that day we had recovered fourteen more dead and we then left for Halifax, having on board all we could care for."

The KITCHEN CUPBOARD

HOW TO USE BARLEY.

BARLEY is a cereal that may be used in various ways. It is put most generally in soups.

Crusty bread, crackers or buttered croutons are always served with barley soup.

Barley water is often added to babies' milk. This barley water is made by washing about a teaspoonful of pearl barley and then boiling in one pint of water.

As a Breakfast Cereal.

Breakfast Barley.—Steam for four hours in a double boiler one cupful of pearl barley and a quart of water. Add a half teaspoonful of salt to the barley. This part of the process may be accomplished the day before. When ready to serve add a cupful of boiling water, stir well and serve with milk and sugar.

Barley Soup.—Take two tablespoonfuls of pearl barley, wash and soak in cold water for a half hour, then boil until soft. Take a quart and a half of soup stock and boil it with the barley for an hour. Beat the yolk of an egg with a half cup of cream, a tablespoonful of butter and a little of the hot stock, so that the butter is dissolved. Then stir this into the soup, having first drawn the soup pot to the back of the stove so that it may not boil again.

Barley Cakes.

Barley Scones.—If you can get barley flour you may make some very nutritious hot breads with it. Hot milk is mixed with barley meal to which a little salt has been added. Enough of the liquid should be used to form a thick paste. Roll thin and cut out. Bake in a quick oven. When served the scones should be eaten hot and with plenty of butter.

Barley Pudding.—Soak two ounces of pearl barley in cold water for several hours. Then generously butter a baking dish and put the barley in it. Pour a pint of sweet milk over it. Add a well beaten egg, sugar to taste, a little ground nutmeg and a few drops of vanilla or any other flavor liked. Place in the oven and bake for a half hour.

As a Side Dish.

Barley cooked as follows may be served as a vegetable: Wash the barley through several waters. Then place in a stewpan, cover with cold water and boil for five minutes. Drain, cover with fresh boiling water, to which a little salt has been added, and boil for four hours longer. Serve with butter and pepper and salt.

CHERRY DESSERTS.

RIPE cherries should be served with clusters of the leaves adhering to the bunches. Wash them well to remove any of the small insects that, in spite of all other precautions, seem to stick to fresh fruit. Arrange in a glass dish on a lump of ice and use the green leaves as a background.

Baking a Cherry Pie.

The best pies are made with the common red cherries. It is no objection that the fruit is a little tart.

Deep Dish Cherry Pie.—Clean, stem and stone the cherries. Make a plain puff paste and line a buttered pie dish with this. The paste must not be too thin. Then fill with the cherries, sugar to taste and sprinkle with a little flour. Cover the top with a layer of puff paste. Trim the edges and press tightly together so that the cherry juice may not overflow the sides. Also make an incision in the top of the crust. Bake and serve hot.

A Sweet Shortcake.

Cherry Shortcake.—Prepare a sponge cake foundation in two layers. The ingredients for this are three eggs, a cupful of sugar, a cupful of sifted flour, two tablespoonfuls of hot water and a tablespoonful and a half of baking powder. While the cake is hot cover with whipped cream sweetened with powdered sugar. Scatter over this the chopped and sweetened cherries. Put a layer of the sponge on top of this, sprinkle with sugar and adorn with cherries and whipped cream.

A Fruit Omelet.

Cherry Omelet.—Cherry omelet made according to the following recipe is said to be delicious: Stone about a pound of cherries. Wash them and strain off the juice. To the juice add a half cup of sugar. Beat the yolks of four eggs with a tablespoonful of thick cream. Then add the whites beaten to a froth and the cherry juice. Melt a tablespoonful of butter in an omelet pan, pour in the omelet mixture and stir gently until it sets. Then roll on a hot dish. Sift sugar over it and serve hot garnished with fresh whole cherries.

Cherry Betty.—Butter a deep baking dish and put in layers of stoned cherries and breadcrumbs. The fruit should be liberally sprinkled with sugar, nutmeg, and cocoanut. Add cherry juice enough to moisten and crumbs until the dish is full; bread on top. Cover and steam in the oven one hour, uncover and brown quickly. Serve hot with sweetened cream.

AID COMES TOO LATE FOR STARVING MAN

Death Claims Him as He Lifts a Sandwich to His Mouth

New York, May 1.—Just as he was placing a sandwich to his mouth after he had been without food for ten days, according to his story, an aged man who said he was James Allen, collapsed in an uptown police station and died before the arrival of a physician.

The man went up to a policeman on Third avenue, saying he had eaten nothing for ten days. He said he was out of work and had no home. He was taken to the station house, where kindly policemen sent for a big plate of sandwiches and coffee.

He lifted a sandwich to his mouth, but dropped from his chair, still holding the sandwich in his hand.

VILLAGE SWEPT BY FIRE

Two Lives Are Lost and Twenty-Nine Buildings Are Destroyed

Syracuse, N. Y., May 1.—The village of Croghan was practically wiped out by fire late yesterday. Two persons were burned to death and twenty-nine buildings were destroyed. Several hundred of the inhabitants are homeless.

The dead are Merrill and Mary Gounert, aged 11 and 3 years respectively. The loss may aggregate $100,000. The village has only meagre fire-fighting facilities and the efforts of the volunteers to stem the progress of the flames were unavailing.

Three hotels, the opera house and nine business structures were destroyed.

SYNOPSIS.

CHAPTER I.—The scene at the opening of the story is laid in the library of an old worn-out southern plantation, known as the Barony. The place is to be sold, and its history and that of the owners, the Quintards, is the subject of discussion by Jonathan Crenshaw, a business man, a stranger known as Bladen, and Bob Yancy, a farmer, when Hannibal Wayne Hazard, a mysterious child of the old southern family, makes his appearance. Yancy tells how he adopted the boy.

CHAPTER II.—Nathaniel Ferris buys the Barony, but the Quintards deny any knowledge of the boy. Yancy to keep Hannibal. Captain Murrell, a friend of the Quintards, appears and asks questions about the Barony.

CHAPTER III.—Trouble at Scratch Hill, Yancy's home, when Hannibal is kidnaped by Dave Blount, Captain Murrell's agent. Yancy overtakes Blount, gives him a thrashing and secures the boy.

CHAPTER IV.—Yancy is served with a warrant for assaulting Blount. Yancy appears before Squire Balaam, and is discharged with costs for the plaintiff.

CHAPTER V.—Betty Malroy, a friend of the Ferrises, has an encounter with Captain Murrell, who forces his attentions on her, and is rescued by Bruce Carrington, who threatens to whip the captain.

CHAPTER VI.—Betty sets out for her Tennessee home. Carrington takes the same stage. Yancy and Hannibal disappear, with Murrell on their trail. He overtakes them in the mountains of Tennessee. Murrell gets Yancy drunk and stabs him in a fight that followed. Hannibal escapes in a canoe.

CHAPTER VII.—Hannibal arrives at the home of Judge Slocum Price.

CHAPTER VIII.—The Judge recognizes in the boy, the grandson of an old time friend. Murrell arrives at Judge's home. Hannibal hears of the finding of Yancy's body. Price arrested as counterfeiter.

CHAPTER IX.—Cavendish family on raft rescue Yancy, who is apparently dead. Price breaks jail.

CHAPTER X.—Betty and Carrington arrive at Belle Plain.

CHAPTER XI.—Hannibal's rifle discloses some startling things to the Judge. Hannibal and Betty meet again.

CHAPTER XII.—Murrell arrives in Belle Plain. Is playing for big stakes.

CHAPTER XIII.—Yancy awakes from long dreamless sleep on board the raft.

CHAPTER XIV.—Judge Price makes startling discoveries in looking up land titles. Charley Norton, a young planter, who assists the judge, is mysteriously assaulted.

CHAPTER XV.—Norton informs Carrington that Betty has promised to marry him. Carrington bids Betty good-bye. Norton is mysteriously shot.

CHAPTER XVI.—More light on Murrell's plots. He plans uprising of negroes.

CHAPTER XVII.—The Judge and Hannibal visit Betty.

CHAPTER XVIII.—Betty is told why Norton was killed and leaves Belle Plain, taking Hannibal with her. The carriage is held up in the woods.

CHAPTER XIX.—Betty and Hannibal are made prisoners in a lonely cabin.

CHAPTER XX.—Murrell appears at the cabin and shows his hand.

CHAPTER XXI.—The Judge hears of the mysterious disappearance of Betty and Hannibal.

CHAPTER XXII.—The Judge takes charge of the situation, and search for the missing ones is instituted.

CHAPTER XXIII.—Carrington visits the judge and allies are discovered.

CHAPTER XXIV.—Judge Price visits Colonel Fentress, where he meets Yancy and Cavendish. Learns things of importance about the boy, dashes a glass of whisky into the colonel's face and a duel is arranged.

CHAPTER XXVIII.—Carrington finds Betty and Hannibal, and a fierce gun fight follows. Yancy appears and assists in the rescue:

CHAPTER XXIX.—Bruce Carrington and Betty come to an understanding.

CHAPTER XXV.—Murrell is arrested for negro stealing and his bubble bursts.

CHAPTER XXVI.—The Judge and Mahaffy discuss the coming duel.

CHAPTER XXVII.—Carrington makes frantic search for Betty and the boy.

CHAPTER XXX.—The Judge receives an important letter.

CHAPTER XXXI.—Solomon Mahaffy's last fight. Fights duel for the judge and is killed.

CHAPTER XXXIII.

A Crisis at the Court-House.

Just at daybreak Yancy was roused by the pressure of a hand on his shoulder, and opening his eyes saw that the judge was bending over him.

"Dress!" he said briefly. "There's every prospect of trouble—get your rifle and come with me!"

Yancy noted that this prospect of trouble seemed to afford the judge a pleasurable sensation; indeed, he had quite lost his former air of somber and suppressed melancholy.

"I let you sleep, thinking you needed the rest," the judge went on. "But ever since midnight we've been on the verge of riot and possible bloodshed. They've arrested John Murrell—it's claimed he's planned a servile rebellion! A man named Hues, who had wormed his way into his confidence, made the arrest. He carried Murrell into Memphis, but the local magistrate, intimidated, most likely, declined to have anything to do with holding him. In spite of this, Hues managed to get his prisoner lodged in jail, but along about nightfall the situation began to look serious. Folks were swarming into town armed to the teeth, and Hues fetched Murrell across country to Raleigh—"

"Yes," said Yancy.

"Well, the sheriff has refused to take Murrell into custody. Hues has him down at the court-house, but whether or not he is going to be able to hold him is another matter!"

Yancy and Hannibal had dressed by this time, and the judge led the way from the house. The Scratch Hiller looked about him. Across the street a group of men, the greater number of whom were armed, stood in front of Pegloe's tavern. Glancing in the direction of the court-house, he observed that the square before it held other groups. But what impressed him more was the ominous silence that was everywhere. At his elbow the judge was breathing deep.

"We are face to face with a very deplorable condition, Mr. Yancy. Court was to sit here today, but Judge Morrow and the public prosecutor have left town, and as you see, Murrell's friends have gathered for a rescue. There's a sprinkling of the better element—but only a sprinkling. I saw Judge Morrow this morning at four o'clock—I told him I would obligate myself to present for his consideration evidence of a striking and sensational character, evidence which would show conclusively that Murrell should be held to await the action of the next grand jury—this was after a conference with Hues—I guaranteed his safety. Sir, the man refused to listen to me! He showed himself utterly devoid of any feeling of public duty." The bitter sense of failure and futility was leaving the judge. The situation made its demands on that basic faith in his own powers which remained imbedded in his character.

They had entered the court-house square. On the steps of the building Betts was arguing loudly with Hues who stood in the doorway, rifle in hand.

"Maybe you don't know this is county property?" the sheriff was saying. "And that you have taken unlawful possession of it for an unlawful purpose? I am going to open them doors—a passel of strangers can't keep folks out of a building their own money has bought and paid for!" While he was speaking, the judge had pushed his way through the crowd to the foot of the steps.

"That was very nicely said, Mr. Betts," observed the judge. He smiled widely and sweetly. The sheriff gave him a hostile glare. "Do you know that Morrow has left town?" the judge went on.

"I ain't got nothin' to do with Judge Morrow. It's my duty to see that this building is ready for him when he's a mind to open court in it."

"You are willing to assume the responsibility of throwing open these doors?" inquired the judge affably.

"I shorely am," said Betts. "Why, some of these folks are our leading people!"

The judge turned to the crowd, and spoke in a tone of excessive civility. "Just a word, gentlemen!—the sheriff is right; it is your court-house and you should not be kept out of it. No doubt there are some of you whose presence in this building will sooner or later be urgently desired. We are going to let all who wish to enter, but I beg you to remember that there will be five men inside whose prejudices are all in favor of law and order." He pushed past Hues and entered the court-house, followed by Yancy and Hannibal. "We'll let 'em in where I can talk to 'em," he said almost gaily. "Besides, they'll come in anyhow when they get ready, so there's no sense in exciting them."

In the court-house, Murrell, bound hand and foot, was seated between Carrington and the Earl of Lambeth in the little railed-off space below the judge's bench. Fear and suffering had blanched his unshaven cheeks and given a wild light to his deeply sunken eyes. At sight of Yancy a smothered exclamation broke from his lips; he had supposed this man dead these many months!

Hues had abandoned his post, and the crowd, suddenly grown clamorous, stormed the narrow entrance. One of the doors, borne from its hinges, went down with a crash. The judge, a fierce light flashing from his eyes, turned to Yancy.

"No matter what happens, this fellow Murrell is not to escape—if he calls on his friends to rescue him he is to be shot!"

The hall was filling with swearing, struggling men, the floor shook beneath their heavy tread; then they burst into the court-room and saluted Murrell with a great shout. But Murrell, bound, in rags, and silent, his lips frozen in a wolfish grin, was a depressing sight, and the boldest felt something of his unrestrained lawlessness go from him.

Less noisy now, the crowd spread itself out among the benches or swarmed up into the tiny gallery at the back of the building. Man after man had hurried forward, intent on passing beyond the railing, but each had encountered the judge, formidable and forbidding, and had turned aside. Gradually the many pairs of eyes roving over the little group surrounding the outlaw focussed themselves on Slocum Price. It was in unconscious recognition of that moral force which was his, a tribute to the grim dignity of his unshaken courage; what he would do seemed worth considering.

He was charmed to hear his name pass in a whisper from lip to lip. Well, it was time they knew him! He squared his ponderous shoulder and made a gesture commanding silence. Battered, shabby and debauched, he was like some old war horse who sniffs the odor of battle that the wind incontinently brings to his nostrils.

"Don't let him speak!" cried a voice, and a tumult succeeded.

Cool and indomitable the judge waited for it to subside. He saw that the color was stealing back into Murrell's face. The outlaw was feeling that he was a leader not overthrown; these were his friends and followers, his safety was their safety, too. In a lull in the storm of sound the judge attempted to make himself heard, but his words were lost in the angry roar that descended on him.

"Don't let him speak! Kill him! Kill him!"

A score of men sprang to their feet and from all sides came the click of rifle and pistol hammers as they were drawn to the full cock. The judge's fate seemed to rest on a breath. He swung about on his heel and gave a curt nod to Yancy and Cavendish, who, falling back a step, tossed their guns to their shoulders and covered Murrell. A sudden hush grew up out of the tumult; the cries, angry and jeering, dwindled to a murmur, and a dead pall of silence rested on the crowded room.

The very taste of triumph was in the judge's mouth. Then came a commotion at the back of the building.

"Don't Let Him Speak. Kill Him! Kill Him."

TURKISH STEAMER BLOWS UP

Destroyed by Mines Placed as Defense Against Warships of Italy

Smyrna, May 1.—The steamer Texas, belonging to the Archipelago-American Steamship company, struck a mine at the entrance to the Gulf of Smyrna and sank. One hundred and forty persons on board were drowned. The Texas was flying the Turkish flag and was engaged in carrying mails from Constantinople to the Levant.

Constantinople, May 1.—Ninety passengers out of the 156 on board the Texas when she was blown up by a mine at the entrance to the Gulf of Smyrna were rescued, according to reports received here. Several of the rescued passengers are suffering from injuries. No mention is made of the crew in the report.

It is alleged that the disaster was due to the Texas deviating from the course indicated by the pilot boat preceding her through the mine field.

Bunco Man Swindled Relatives of Men Who Had Died

New York, May 1.—A fine of $11,500 and a sentence of three years and six months was imposed by Judge Holt in the federal court on George W. Post, international crook, bunco man an dall around swindler. Post is also under indictment for swindling in Boston, Philadelphia and Chicago, and will answer to those charges after he serves the sentence imposed yesterday.

Post's specialty was the working of relatives of dead men. He patronized a clipping bureau which furnished him death lists. He would write apparently to the dead man, where the individual was wealthy, telling of "being befriended and offering to let him in on the ground floor" of a profitable mining venture. Relatives would invest on the strength of these promises and Post would pocket the proceeds.

"Excuse me, ma'am," said the fashionable lady's new cook, "but would ye moind, now, if I had this address printed on my card?"

"Why, not at all, Bridget," replied the lady. "Of course, it is unusual; but this is your home now, and if you have a card it is perfectly proper for you to use your address on it."

"Thank ye, ma'am," said Erin's brawny daughter. "An' I noticed ye got printed on yer cards, ma'am, 'At home on Thursdays.' Wouldn't it be proper for me, ma'am, to have printed on moine 'Tuesdays off?'"—Ideas.

MORTGAGEE'S SALE OF THE NOTED SQUANTUM INN

By virtue of the power of sale contained in a certain mortgage deed given by Murray Smith of Boston, Massachusetts, to Charles S. Judkins and Joseph J. Wall, of Boston, dated April 15th. 1909, and recorded with Norfolk County Deeds, Book 1107, Page 286. (The one half interest in said mortgage having been assigned by the said Joseph J. Wall to the said Charles S. Judkins, by assignment dated February 28th, 1910 and recorded with Norfolk Deeds, Book 1138, Page 126,) for breach of the conditions of said mortgage and for the purpose of foreclosing the same, will be sold at public auction upon the premises hereinafter described, on Saturday the eleventh day of May A. D. 1912, at four o'clock in the afternoon, all and singular the premises conveyed in and by said mortgage deed viz:—

A certain parcel of land with the buildings thereon, situated in that part of Quincy, in the County of Norfolk in said Commonwealth called Squantum as shown on a plan made by H. T. Whitmore, dated April 1898 and recorded with Norfolk Deeds, Lib. 814, page 298, bounded and described as follows:—Beginning at the intersection of ground of the City of Boston and a proposed boulevard formerly known as the road to Squantum House, thence running Southeasterly by said ground of the City of Boston five hundred and thirty-two and 4-10 feet, thence Southwesterly by a private way called Standish Road Four Hundred thirty-six 44-100 feet, thence Northwesterly by a private way called Titus Road Six Hundred thirty-three 36-100 feet, and thence Northeasterly by said boulevard Three Hundred and twenty-nine feet to the point of beginning, containing two hundred and fourteen thousand, five hundred and forty-six square feet, more or less. Being hereby conveyed subject to the right to construct and maintain a sewer given to the City of Quincy by an instrument dated July 12, 1897, recorded with said deeds, Libro 793, page 81, and to the restrictions contained in deed given by Lillie B. Titus to John McKnight dated September 14, 1897, recorded with Norfolk Deeds Libro 796 page 361. Subject also to the taking by the Metropolitan Water and Sewerage Board, March 26, 1901, recorded with said Deeds, Book 892, page 507, the location of which taking is thought to be identical with the taking by the City of Quincy hereinabove mentioned.

Said premises will be sold subject to a prior mortgage given to Charles H. Lutton dated April 15, 1909 and recorded with said Norfolk Deeds Book 1107. On which there is now due on the principal Nine Thousand $9000 dollars, and the accrued interest. Also subject to all unpaid taxes, assessments or municipal liens, if any there are.

$500 will be required to be paid in cash by the purchaser at the time and place of sale and the balance to be paid in cash within ten days thereafter at the office of the mortgagee, 935 Old South Building, Tel. Main 325.

CHARLES S. JUDKINS,
Assignee and present holder of said mortgage.

BANQUET AND ENTERTAINMENT

Annual Affair of John Adams Aerie of Eagles

TWO HALLS NEEDED

It took both Electa and Protection halls to accomodate the large number which attended the annual banquet, held Tuesday evning, under the auspices of John Adams Aerie conclave, Fraternal Order of Eagles. The affair was a pronounced success and eclipsed any of those of previous years.

The first part of the evening was devoted to the consumption of an excellent Dutch supper prepared and served by a committee of members. At the conclusion of the supper, there was an entertainment. Addresses were made by Mayor Eugene R. Stone and Joseph J. Mullen, archon of the Conclave.

Songs were rendered by Adam Portios, Robert Greenhouse, Frederick Castere, Thomas Wafer, Frank Barney, William Lennon, Duncan McKinnick, William Kelley, James Lawlor, Donald McLaughlin and Nathaniel Burnham. William Westland was the accompanist on the piano and every contribution to the program was accorded great applause.

The success of the affair was due largely to the efforts of James H. Mullon, John T. Larkin, Harry Powell, John Bowdoin, George Woodman, Angus McArthur, John Tiekeley, Henry Langelier, Augustus Trekien, Michael Boyle, Adam Slavin, William Allen, Charles Batson, Phillip Pitts, William Russell, and William Childs.

PRESENTATION TO CHOIR LEADER

The choir of the Bethany church paid a visit to the home of Madam Beale Morey, in Malden, former choir leader of the church, Tuesday evening and presented her with a marble bust of Beethoven, and a cut glass dish. The presentation was a great surprise to Mrs. Morey, who expressed her thanks and spoke of the pleasant relations that had always existed between her and the choir. The evening proved one of enjoyment to all.

BRIEFS

The funeral of Mrs. John Carver formerly of Atlantic will be held Thursday morning in the Atlantic Memorial Congregational church at 11.45. Interment at Marshfield Hills cemetery.

Good Team Work of Local Team Pulls Out Victory

MERRYMOUNT PARK

Dispirited in no way by the 6 to 0 lead which the visitors maintained for four innings, members of the Quincy High baseball nine showed marked ability with the willow in the fifth and eighth innings and thus were enabled to defeat Cambridge Latin at Merrymount Park Tuesday afternoon, the score being 14 to 10. For seven innings the result of the game was in doubt.

The local team made five runs in the fifth inning. With the bases full McDonald, who has occupied the mound in all three games this season in a most creditable manner, knocked the ball out onto Hancock street for a home run, incidentally making one of the longest hits ever registered by a high school player. Shortly afterwards another run came in and for a time, now that the Granite City players were in the lead by a score of 8 to 6, it looked as if victory were certain.

But in the following inning, the visitors displayed a like ability to hit Greene, with two men and bases, but for a home run, which added to another run made by Cambridge Latin in the same inning, allowed the University City lads to obtain the lead for the second time during the game, this time by a score of 10 to 8.

Not to be outdone however, the local players were determined to make up for the loss and they straightway started to accomplish the task in the last half of the sixth inning. Prout hit safely. Little was out on a popped fly. Blackmur walked. Barry hit to right field for three bases, sending in Prout and Blackmur, thereby making the score a 10 to 10 tie.

Neither team scored in the seventh. In fact, the visitors did not score during the remainder of the game. In the eighth a batting rally netted Quincy High four runs.

Prout, the first player at bat, was hit by a pitched ball. Little and Blackmur were easy outs. Barry singled, scoring Prout. Holmes was safe on an error by Sands, Barry taking this and scoring on a single by O'Dowd. McDonald walked. Brown singled scoring Holmes and Blomquist brought O'Dowd across the plate by a clean hit.

The first half of the game was anything but interesting, but the hitting in the last half kept the spectators filled with enthusiasm. Both pitchers were hit quite freely, McDonald being touched up for eleven hits, while twelve were registered off McCarthy.

The features of the game were a running backhand catch by Brown, and a sensational catch of a line drive and the batting of McDonald, Barry and Greene.

O'Dowd and Holmes also played well for the winers, while McNamara and J. Dee did good work for the losers. The summary:

Innings	1	2	3	4	5	6	7	8	9
Quincy H. S.	0	0	0	3	5	2	0	4	—	14
Cambridge L. S.	3	0	3	0	0	4	0	0	0	—10

Runs—Blackmur 3, Barry 3, O'Dowd 3, Holmes 2, McDonald, Prout 2, J. Dee 2, McNamara 2, O'Connor 3, Greene 3. Two-base hits—Holmes, Barry. Three-base hits—Greene, O'Dowd, Blackmur, Barry. Home runs—McDonald, Greene. Sacrifice hits—Reardon 2. Stolen bases—Barry, Reardon, McNamara. First base on balls—off McDonald 3, off McCarthy 3. Struck out—by McDonald 12, by McCarthy 11. Passed balls—Holmes 3. Hit by pitched ball—Bloomquist. Prout. Time—2h. 30m. Umpire—LaRose. Attendance—800.

TO CO-OPERATE IN CLEANING UP

School Committee to Help Make the City Clean

TUESDAY'S MEETING

The regular meeting of the School Committee was held last evening at eight o'clock.

Present:—Bushnell, Bruce, Curtis, Foster, Hunting, McPherson, Miller, Newcomb and the Secretary.

The Mayor appeared before the Committee and stated that whatever plans the School Committee desired for the new Adams School he would authorize, and that the Committee might have exactly what seemed best to them in the way of a building for that district.

The resignation of Robert S. Schoonmaker, Sub-Master of the High School was read and accepted, and the Secretary was authorized to express to him the regrets of the Committee.

The Quincy Playground Committee was granted permission to use the grounds and toilet facilities of the Coddington school for the purpose of maintaining a public supervised playground from July 5 to August 28 inclusive on condition that suitable arrangements be made with the janitor and that the building be given proper care.

It was voted that the Chairman in consultation with the Superintendent appoint an advisory committee of five to co-operate in the management of the industrial day and evening schools.

The Chairman was authorized to send a letter to the State Board of Education, stating the purpose of the School Committee with reference to maintaining an industrial part time school, and asking their co-operation.

It was voted that the School Department co-operate in such ways as seem practicable with whatever work the Quincy Women's Club takes up in the way of cleaning yards of the city.

It was voted that the School Committee enter a protest with the Mayor against the unsanitary conditions of many of the automatic drinking fountains now in use in the school buildings.

It was voted that the School Committee meet informally at the new Adams School lot on Saturday, May 4 at five o'clock, P. M., and that the architect of the Wollaston School building, Albert H. Wright, be invited to be present.

Adjourned at ten o'clock, P. M.

THE MORNING FIRE.

The fire department was called out on an alarm from box 153 at 9.16 this morning for a fire, caused by a defective chimney, at the double house, 25-27 Farrington street, owned by Albert Nelson and occupied by Thomas A. Murphy and Daniel Sullivan respectively. It seems that the chimney had been smoking since eight o'clock this morning and the attention of the fire department was not called to it until a man who happened to be riding by on an electric car noticed the impending danger and lost no time in giving the alarm.

The house is situated near Squantum street, Atlantic. Considerable damage was caused and it was estimated that the loss would reach $500.

SHIP REFORMS ARE SUGGESTED

'smay to Consult With Constructors of Big Liners

TITANIC NOT A "SPEED BOAT"

No Attempt to Reinsure Between Time She Went Down and Hour When Real News Became Public—White Star Line Officials Said to Have Had Early Western Union Dispatch Telling of Disaster

Washington, May 1.—More lifeboats on transatlantic liners, an equipment of rafts that automatically would float clear of a sinking vessel, and the construction of great passenger steamers with double hulls and extended water-tight compartments—all these reforms, it was indicated before the senate committee investigating the Titanic disaster, would follow in the immediate future.

J. B. Ismay, president and managing director of the International Mercantile Marine company, told the committee that in his opinion this should be done. He promised to take up the question with the constructors of the big liners as soon as he returned to England.

Ismay indignantly denied that he or any representative of his company had attempted to reinsure the Titanic between the time she went down and the hour when real news of the disaster became public. He asserted that a wireless message which he directed to Vice President Franklin from the Carpathia on April 15 did not reach that official until the 17th.

Ismay said the Titanic was not a "speed boat," but had been constructed under orders given by him to make her the biggest and best-equipped vessel afloat. No cost limit had been set.

A charge was made to the committee that the White Star line officials had positive news of the disaster between the hours of 7 and 8 on the morning following the accident, but suppressed the news until twelve hours later. The information was given by E. J. Dunn, a New York business man, who said he in turn got his information in New York from the son of a Western Union employe. He refused to give his informant's name and was promptly given over to the sergeant-at-arms. He spent a long time using the long-distance telephone to New York in an effort to be absolved from his pledge of secrecy.

As a result of Dunn's testimony, Senator Smith dispatched two officers to New York to interrogate the officials of the Western Union Telegraph company, by whom was employed the man who was said to have originally made the statement. Late in the day he learned that the officers were having trouble in getting at the facts. As a result, he announced that he possibly would go to New York and conduct the investigation himself.

The hearing came to an abrupt end when Senator Smith suddenly announced that the committee would take a recess until Friday.

Senator Burton announced that he had examined Fourth Officer Boxhall and had learned from him that J. W. Andrews, builder of the Titanic, who went down with the ship, told Captain Smith after the collision that the boat would sink within an hour.

ADELINE W. WATERHOUSE.

The funeral of Mrs. Adeline W. Waterhouse was held from her late home, 98 Lincoln avenue, Tuesday afternoon. The services were conducted by Rev. Mr. Knox of Boston and burial was at Mt. Wollaston cemetery.

NO FOUL PLAY.

The police after thoroughly investigating the death of Alexander McGregor, who died suddenly Sunday at a Quincy Point boarding house of cramps have found no evidence of foul play. At his boarding house it was said that he was a man never known to drink. That he left home Saturday night and did not return until Sunday morning. About 9.30 he complained of cramps in his stomach, and was given restoratives. Nothing more was heard from him until 12.30 when he again complained of feeling ill. Restoratives were again given and he retired. Eearly Monday morning a fellow boarder heard groans coming from McGregor's room, and informed the boarding house keeper, Poseph Heton, that the man was dying. Dr. Bushnell was then called.

It has been learned that he had a brother in Roxbury, a sister in South Boston, and that his mother lived in Brookline. The body was claimed on Tuesday by his brother.

CRYSTALIZATION OF OPPORTUNITIES AND DEVELOPING OF TRADE BOARDS

George S. Smith Tells Board of Trade What Trade Boards Have Done for Business Industries

Trade Boards Have Silenced Hammers and Knockers and Sent Them to Junk Heap

One of the best talks heard in Quincy in a long time was that given to the Board of Trade Wednesday evening by George S. Smith, a former president of the Boston Chamber of Commerce. It was a talk brim full of suggestions and good advice, for the members of the Board to follow. A talk on the importance of having that get together spirit and of the burying of petty differences for the welfare of the whole community.

President Charles C. Hearn presided, and the meeting which was held at Colonial hall, was well attended by the business men of the city who were more than repaid for the time given.

There was a short business session during the first part of the evening, during which the following were elected to membership:

Joseph A. Keating	John J. Faircloth
William S. Currier	B. H. Blain
Charles E. Gill	Robert Cantly
Charles E. Barker	Charles T. Baker
Clarence Burgin	Amos T. Leavitt
Geo. W. Holden	Herman F. McIntire
Russell A. Sears	Wm. A. Bradford
Henry P. Kittredge	Thomas Swithin
Joseph A. Dasha	Harry L. Rice
Edward J. Parker	Rev. John J. Coan
Albert H. Wright	Stephen H. Edwards
Dr. Frank S. Davis

Mr. Socket then brought up the question of banks. He said the local banks were all out of money and could not accommodate people. There was no incentive to have new industries locate here and he believed there was room for a trust company. He understood that a charter had been granted to one but nothing had been done and the fact that a charter had been granted prevented an out of town company, which desired to locate here, from doing so. After some further talk a motion was voted that a committee of three be appointed to obtain information as to when the National Granite bank was to open in Quincy as a trust company. Messrs. Socket, Fallon and Whitman were appointed as that committee.

Mr. Smith was then introduced. In opening his remarks he said that he had come with no set speech. Life was too short to listen to set speeches. It was to be simply an informal chat, with a free invitation to the gentlemen present to participate, by asking any questions desired which he would try to answer. He would speak of his own personal experiences and as a text he would take the crystalizing of opportunities brought about by organizations like this and the developing of the trade boards.

We have been behind in the unifying of business men in this country. The development of forming trade organizations begun barely ten years ago. Coming together to stop abuses in our industries followed. We had now come to a time when we need to consult others how to do our business. For a time this was objected to, then men begun to rub elbows and become warmed up and to realize that the other fellow was not so bad after all and to realize that there were other men who could tell us something. Thus trade organizations grew until in Boston, there was fifty or sixty such boards, with a membership from 25 to 300. Then they began to expand and feel the need of a greater organization and thus the boards were crystalized into the Boston Chamber of Commerce.

If the Boston Chamber of Commerce or Quincy Board of Trade never did more than to crystalize public spirit locally, to create a unified public sentiment, they would have justified their existence.

From 1830 to 1900 we had as fully developed an organization of knockers and pessimists as ever existed. They said New England had seen its best days and could never come back. If it had not been for these organizations we would have proved that to have been a fact.

He then gave a few figures to show how the output of our New England industries had increased. For a business area of 500 square miles the increase had been a greater per cent than Chicago or Philadelphia. The increase was greater than in any of the fourteen larger southern states. So we have silenced the hammers and knockers and sent them to the junk heap.

The speaker then spoke of an event of national significance which would not have been but for Quincy Board of Trade, the Boston Chamber of Commerce, and other trade organizations. One of these was the invitation to send delegates to Washington for a conference on commercial industries and the necessity of having a national organization of business men. Over 500 of the larger organizations throughout the country sent 750 men and for three days they held a conference with the result of the formation of a national board of commerce.

We are the only country in the world where the business men have no national organization, to work and co-operate with the government. We are the only nation whose government does not have such a board take the initiative in the great problems of interest to the nation. So this board will impress on congress the tremendous influence of the whole country. The time is near at hand when legislation pertaining to business will be more sane than today.

Mr. Smith then spoke of the small salaries paid by this government to its consuls, $5,000 being a large sum, while Germany alone, pays its consul general in New York city a salary of $125,000. That is how other nations realize the importance of gathering information that will increase the commerce of their country.

So we have ushered in a new business era when the business men of the United States are coming to have a potent influence on the business of the legislature.

The speaker then spoke of the forthcoming international congress to be held in Boston Sept. 24 to 28. In other countries the state levies a tax for the support of its National Chamber of Commerce. Members are elected and the biggest men in the country are selected. They have from 25 to 30 men who supervise the great questions of business interest.

He then spoke of the international congress in London last year where 500 delegates from 32 foreign nations were gathered together. Boston also had three delegates. We put forth every possible interest to get the next convention in Boston and the most prominent men from all over the world will be here as delegates. We also have an agent in South America distributing literature and we expect to impress the people from that country with our importance.

RECEPTION TO NEW PASTOR

Parishioners of Bethany Church Welcome New Pastor

REV. B. A. WILLMOTT

A reception was tendered the new pastor of Bethany church, Rev. Benjamin A. Willmott and Mrs. Willmott, Wednesday night, under the auspices of Bethany circle.

In the receiving line with Mr. and Mrs. Willmott, were Mr. and Mrs. Theophilus King and Mr. and Mrs. H. Everett Crane. The ushers were Frank W. Crane, Victor E. Miller, Walter C. Sampson, A. L. Melcher, John F. Hunt, and Delcevare King.

REV. B. A. WILLMOTT.

Mrs. H. Everett Crane, president of Bethany circle, had charge of the arrangements, ably assisted in carrying out the details of this very pleasant gathering by the following ladies: Mrs. A. H. Gilson, Mrs. S. I. Beal, Mrs. George Macfarlane, Mrs. Charles Hayden, Miss Addie Park, Mrs. C. E. Guy, Miss Augusta Crane, Miss Avah Gilson.

Mrs. Cyrus T. Sherman, Mrs. Victor E. Miller, Mrs. John F. Hunt and Mrs. Charles Sampson presided at the frappe tables. The young ladies assisting were: Misses Frances Murray, Mary Stewart, Margaret Hunt, Marjorie Welch, Florence Sabian, Esther Beckford, Hortense Andrews and Gladys Hunt.

Mrs. Eben W. Sheppard had charge of the decorations which consisted chiefly of flowers arranged very tastefully.

Mrs. Victor E. Miller, chairman of the music committee, secured the services of an orchestra from Weymouth, Mrs. Charles Merchant piano, Mrs. Lena Thomas violin. The selections were very pleasing and were much enjoyed during the reception from eight to ten.

Among the ministers present were, Rev. Adelbert Hudson pastor of First church, Rev. Carl Horst of the Wollaston Unitarian, Rev. Fanny Austin, of the Universalist, Rev. T. C. Martin of the West Quincy M. E. Rev. Mr. Matheson of the First Presbyterian, Rev. Richard Armstrong rector of Christ church and Rev. Mr. Thompson of the United Presbyterian.

The very hospitable reception was very successful. Smiling faces were in evidence, cordial hand-clasps and hearty greetings were exchanged and a social informal time enjoyed. These occasions tend to cement good fellowship between pastor and people.

RECOUNTS TO BE ASKED FOR

Petitions Being Circulated for Recounts in Two Wards

ONE AND FIVE

It is generally admitted throughout the city, as well as the state that the workings of the first primary caucuses Tuesday, under the new act was anything but satisfactory. While the result of the state on the preference vote showed that it favored the renomination of President Taft, the returns showed that the eight delegates at large elected were men pledged to Roosevelt.

This seeming mystery is not hard to explain for it is believed to be due to the fact that there were two groups of names for delegates at large pledged to President Taft. One contained one name and the second eight names. Voters throughout the state were cautioned by the public press time and time again to vote for eight delegates at large only, or their vote for delegates at large would be invalidated. In spite of this warning the returns, especially those from Quincy showed that the warning had not been heeded.

In the Quincy caucus there were 2558 blanks for Republican delegates at large. This means in plain English that there were practically 319 ballots thrown out for one or two reasons. First because the voter did not vote for the entire eight candidates. That is if a man only marked his cross against seven names for delegates at large,, there would be one blank on that ballot. The second reason was that if a man marked for nine names for delegates at large instead of eight, that ballot would count as eight blanks. It is generally admitted that there were many who did this very thing, the party committee leaders sought to impress them not to do.

Just how many of the 319 ballots were thrown out for that cause is not known. If however rumors heard in City Square this morning should ma-

BRILLIANT MAY MUSICALE

First "May Morning Musicale" at Women's Club

THE PROGRAM

Patrons of the first "May morning musicale" although expecting to be well entertained were hardly prepared for the brilliant program presented on Wednesday of this week at the clubhouse under the auspices of the Music committee of the Quincy Women's club.

The soloist, Miss Margaret Louden Shepherd of Lynn who had been announced simply as one possessing a fine voice, won instant recognition as the most finished artist who ever appeared in this city. Her wonderful voice is a deep, rich mezzo-contralto of remarkable range and power, yet so beautifully controlled that even the most piano tone retains depth and resonance. She has temperament personal charm, and all the essential attributes of the truly great artist. It is certain that no ordinary professional career awaits this young singer. She was heard to great advantage in an Aria from "The Huguenots" and a group of songs, responding most graciously to the enthusiastic applause following each of her numbers. Mrs. Jennie Hocking Hunt's piano accompaniments were sympathetic and thoroughly in accord with the artistry of the singer.

The Mazah trio was delightful throughout the program, playing at all times with musicianly taste and skill. Their selections were contrasting in character and always satisfying. Mr. Ricker, in the De Beriot concerto was at his best, and played with a power and warmth which delighted his audience. His solo was a fitting sequel to the splendid singing, the whole forming an unusually well balanced program. The second musicale which occurs May 15, will be anticipated with the greatest pleasure.

The complete program was as follows:

Trio—"Marche Militaire," "Moment Musical" Schubert

Aria—"Lieti Signor Salute!" from "The Huguenots" Meyerbeer

Trio—"Serenade," Liebe
"Minuet," Haydn

Violin solo—"Scena de Ballet," De Beriot

Trio—"Pizzicato Gavotte," Pache
"Chant d'Automne," Tschaikowsky

Songs—"Shadows," Bond
"In the Boat," Grieg
"Will o' the Wisp," Spross

Trio—"Ecstase," Ganne
"Hungarian Dance," Brahms
Mazah Trio
Roscoe R. Ricker, Violin.
Miss Marion Moorhouse, 'Cello
Miss Grace M. Farrington, Piano
Miss Margaret L. Shepherd, Contralto.
Mrs. Jennie Hocking Hunt, Accompanist.

HONESTY IN EVERYTHING

Every spring bonnet has its day.

Strange to say the sailors think they also should have luxuries like lifeboats.

Probably there is nothing more expensive than the things we get for nothing.

At the National election in the fall, some old, familiar faces will disappear forever.

The past winter will be known in history as the one that could come back whenever it wanted to.

The theft of Woody Wilson's state document in Chicago serves to direct attention again to the fact that he who steals his purse, steals trash.

It was becoming modest of the German Emperor not to step forward and claim credit of Col. Goethals' interesting ideas concerning the management of the Panama Canal.

The time seems to have gone by when the politicians were willing to sit down on the Sabbath as they should and study Peloubet's notes on the Sunday school lesson.

After all, it's possible that the "jolly wobble," the latest dance fad in Washington, was not intended as a reflection on Uncle Jim Wilson's administration of the Department of Agriculture.

Commissioner Tupper seems to be starting in right when he improves City Square. If any part of the city is to receive frequent attention it should be the centre. Broad, level clean streets add much to the appearance of any community and our City Square is attractive enough to be kept in order.

We were pleased May day when walking along one of our main thoroughfares to see a young girl crush up a paper bag and throw it in the street and almost before it landed pick it up again and put it in her pocket. If every one was as thoughtful what a clean city this would be. She had the right idea and was doing a civic work.

HIGH SCHOOL FRATERNITIES.

There is a very lively fight on in educational circles against High school fraternities, according to the report just issued by the United States Bureau of Education. In thirteen states the legislatures have passed laws against such societies, while in twelve others the school boards in the larger cities are generally against the "frats."

Sympathy with the hard lot of the "barb," or "barbarian," as the "non-frats" pupil is generally called, has been a big element in this campaign.

The complaint in many places runs about like this: In the first days at school, all is lovey dovey with the girls' arms around each other. Then it is discovered that certain girls brought their own lunch boxes to school, and descended to the ignominy of subsisting on cold ham sandwiches, while more fortunate sisters went out to Papadopalous' restaurant and bought salads and college ices.

The girl who comes from a street where there are cars and shops, or who lives in a flat instead of an individual house, becomes a "barb," as being not "what we thought she was."

Dad, too, is an element in the game. At that age he thought himself lucky if he could earn 25 cents selling newspapers. But now he has to ante up for fraternity suppers, pins, drinks, smokes, and possibly chapter houses. At an age when he used to be climbing trees and hunting birds' nests, his son and daughter, rigged out in plug hats and dress suits, low necked gowns and necklaces, are trying to skip the period in life which nature assigned to childhood.

A High school fraternity is not necessarily harmful. No doubt many of them are so conducted as to give an outlet to bright young people, and create valuable friendships.

But as a whole the school authorities are more and more against them. The Review of Reviews, through one of its writers, made a canvass of 185 school principals all over the country a few years ago. It found that 53 spoke doubtfully about the "frats," with a tendency to oppose them, 128 were strongly against them, while only three believed they worked well. They seemed to think the ball ground and tennis court a better place to learn the spirit of fraternity than the chapter house.

PANAMA CANAL TOLLS.

(Special)

Now that the shock of the Titanic disaster is somewhat assuaged by the days since its occurrence, the American people are once more turning to the things in which they are vitally concerned as a Nation, the Panama canal question with its regulations as to tolls, the manner in which tonnage is to be computed and the settlement of controversies growing out of the rail and water competition looms large on the legislative horizon.

More and more is the impression growing that the question is one of the largest Congress has been called upon to consider since the enactment of the Sherman anti-trust act or the Hepburn rate bill.

W. K. Kavanaugh, of St. Louis, President of the Lakes-to-the Gulf Deep Waterway Association and one of the leading business men of the Mississippi valley, is an outspoken opponent to tolls on the Panama canal as they may apply to domestic commerce. While in Washington the past week Mr. Kavanaugh appeared before the Senate Committee on Interoceanic Canals, which is having hearings on the subject of Panama regulations, and presented arguments in favor of free tolls which were listened to with close attention by those entrusted with formulating regulations governing the users of the Canal, domestic as well as foreign.

Mr. Kavanaugh in an interview on the subject said: "This is one of the burning questions of the day. How any man in the interior of the country could urge preferential tolls on domestic commerce is beyond my comprehension. Let me cite a concrete case of a shipment of barley and canned goods from San Francisco to St. Louis via water routes and the difference between the rail charge and the water charge. If a toll is to be added to the water rate then the Panama canal will fail of its mission.

"This cargo of 1200 tons of barley and 300 tons of canned goods destined to St. Louis left San Francisco by boat. It was hauled to Colon and there trans-shipped over the Panama railroad and reshipped into a vessel on the gulf side of the Panama railroad to New Orleans. There the cargo was put on the dock and the Mississippi Valley Transportation Co. Loaded the cargo into a big steel barge and delivered the barley and canned goods to the Consignee at St. Louis at a 60 cent rate—a distance of 4500 miles by water and rail haul as against a rate of 90 cents a hundred pounds on an all rail haul from San Francisco to St. Louis.

"This is a striking illustration of the benefits of water transportation and what must come ultimately to the interior of the Mississippi valley through the agency of the free tolls on the 'big ditch' and the people of the Mississippi Valley would resent any burden in the shape of tolls or tax on any commodity destined to or from points in this watershed.

"The arguments advanced by some that the toll would be absorbed by the vessel is misleading. Any toll or tax assessed through the Panama canal must appear in the bill of lading ultimately and must be paid for by the consumer. That is axiomatic. It would be just as logical to assess tolls on the 'Soo' Canal on the sixty million tons of freight that pass through that canal or to place a burden on the commerce that passes over the Mississippi river and its tributaries as it would be to assess tolls through the canal on domestic commerce.

"So far as I know all nations uniformly follow the policy of favoring and protecting their own commerce; certainly we can do no less.

"In this connection I desire to express not only my own appreciation but the appreciation of our people living on the Mississippi of the educational work being done by the National Rivers and Harbors Congress, whose unselfish efforts to arouse public sentiment not only on the Panama canal question but on all other questions relating to the development of the rivers and harbors of the country, deserve to be crowned with success."

APPRECIATES COURTESIES

Press and Others Thanked for Kind Treatment Received

GRANITE CONVENTION

The delegates from all over the country who have been in Quincy for the past two weeks revising the constitution of the International Granite Cutters union have completed their labors and most of them have departed for their homes, taking with them many kind thoughts for the most hospitable manner in which they were received and entertained while in Quincy.

Before the convention adjourned on Tuesday the following resolutions were unanimously adopted.

Whereas, The members of this convention being gratefully conscious of the generous treatment accorded them during their stay in this city, feel the need of some expression of their appreciation and thanks.

Therefore, be it resolved, That we deeply appreciate the kind and courteous treatment we have received at the hands of the Mayor, the people, and the press of this city, and record our sincere thanks for same.

Be it further resolved, That we hereby express our thanks to President Gompers of the A. F. of L., Mr. Legien of the German Labor Unions, Mr. Golden of the Textile Workers, President Short of the Building Trades Department, Mr. D'Allessandro of the Laborers' Union, and Mr. Alpine of the Plumbers and Gas Fitters for the words, friendship, encouragement and cheer.

Be it further resolved, That we are keenly conscious of the extremely generous manner in which we have been received and entertained by the members of the cutters', polishers' and sharpeners' branches of Quincy, and appreciate and reciprocate the feeling of friendship and fraternity this treatment symbolizes. We shall value highly as souvenirs of our enjoyable visit here the neat, artistic and valuable badges presented to us, as well as the beautiful menu cards with their bright Shakespearian quotations. These both reflect great credit on the ones responsible for them.

Be it further resolved, That we recognize and appreciate the courtesies and favors shown us by our I. P. and the office force under him, and that we congratulate our Association on its excellent register system of keeping members' accounts, and the neat, methodical and businesslike organization of the International office in regard to its work.

That we thank our I. P. for the patient, fair and able manner in which he has conducted the proceedings of this convention; also Bro. James Garvey for the efficient manner in which he has performed the duties of secretary.

We shall go to our respective homes with pleasant memories of our sojourn in the oldest granite city on the American continent. Again we thank you one and all.

Be it further resolved, That the copies of this resolution be sent to the Quincy branches of our G. C. I. A. and to the local press and our Journal for publication.

BOARD OF TRADE

international congress are the uniform use of checks, postal service, immigration, postal and sanitary subjects in as many foreign countries as possible. The delegates will be entertained and taken about the country and shown what we have. We will meet these men, and the exchange of views will mean one of the greatest constructive meetings in the country.

The speaker then said that he was willing to answer any questions that might be asked.

A. L. Whitman spoke of the matter of the banks which had been referred to a committee of which he was a member and asked what the speaker would advise or suggest.

In his reply Mr. Smith said that if you were to call on the average family in Quincy you would be told that Quincy was dead. In answer to the question he would say that he thought the trouble was that the business was on one side of the street and the banks on the other. Instead of standing and throwing rocks at each other you should get together. Put away your pride and go and meet the directors personally. Go into their room and state your case thoroughly. If you can agree all right. Try and show the board what the business interests need.

President Hearn asked how the Board of Trade could create an interest in its organization.

In reply Mr. Smith said we all make a mistake of dividing our energies. We try to do too much. Too many things with the result the work is superficial. I understand you want to develop your water front and that you have an appropriation for that purpose. That it is held up because you can not agree on a location. If this board of Trade never did anything but to get together and come to a unit on this matter and start the dock it would have justified its being and worth to the business of the city.

In reply to a further question he said you must get hold of the other fellow who has a location. Talk it over and come to an agreement. As to where was the best location he did not care to take sides in a purely local matter.

The speaker was also asked several other questions of a similar nature, which to answer he would have to take sides with some one and in every case he said that he should have to decline to take sides in local matters, other than to say get together. We must have some means to co-ordinate and utilize our business interests.

Ex-Mayor Bryant asked if he did not believe that it would be better to have the utility boards of the state, such as Metropolitan sewer, water, parks, etc. in charge of a board in which the communities directly interested should have a part in appointing rather than a board appointed by the governor?

In reply to this question Mr. Smith said that as long as there are separate municipalities with no co-operation he did not see how it could be brought about. There have been many schemes for co-operation and some day some bright mind is going to discover a plan so that we will all be component parts of the Metropolitan community. Then as a district we could dictate how these utilities should be carried out.

County Commissioner Merrill then asked about the ship subsidy, and the speaker's reply in brief was that if we had a national chamber of commerce this would have been brought about long ago.

A question was then asked by John L. Miller how Boston and New England stood with New Orleans and California when the Panama canal was completed.

In reply Mr. Smith said it made no difference where New Orleans was situated. If South America needs our products it is up to us to sell them. We should send men there who can speak the language and look for trade and pack the goods as they are ordered to be packed. There is no reason why we shall not get our share of the trade. Without competition there can be no increase in business.

At the close of the talk the speaker was given a rising vote of thanks.

JAPAN DID NOT SEEK FOOTING

No Intention or Desire to Acquire Land In Mexico

TAFT'S MESSAGE TO SENATE

American Syndicate Asked State Department's Opinion When Japanese Capitalists Contemplated Purchase of Magdalena Bay Lands—Knox's Report Exonerates Japanese Government From Having Hand In It

Washington, May 2.—President Taft informed the senate that the department of state has no adequate evidence to show any acquisition of land or any intention or desire to acquire land, whether directly or indirectly, in Mexico by or on the part of the imperial Japanese government.

The president's message was in response to a senate resolution calling for information regarding an alleged purchase of land at Magdalena bay by the Japanese government or by a Japanese company.

The statement was the answer to Senator Lodge's resolution of inquiry regarding reports of a Japanese base in Mexico, transmitted to the senate by President Taft from Secretary Knox.

The reply details negotiations in which a Japanese syndicate was concerned with the purchase of land in the vicinity of Magdalena bay. The Americans, the report said, asked the state department for an opinion on such a transfer.

"There was evidence," Knox adds, "that the American syndicate felt or knew Japanese capitalists would not care to consummate the purchase of the lands without the approval of the Japanese government, and that in view of the location of the lands in question the imperial Japanese government would not give such approval unless assured the transaction would be unobjectionable to the United States.

"This department replied that it was difficult to answer the inquiries made, but that the fact ought not to be disguised that such a transfer would be quite certain to be interpreted in some quarters in a manner to cause a great outcry, and that such a result would be so obviously a cause of regret to the government of the United States that it would appear unnecessary further to comment upon the disposition of the federal government in the premises."

Knox declared the Japanese ambassador had made an "unreserved categorical denial" of any rumored purchase of land, characterizing the report as "entirely sensational and utterly without foundation whatever."

GRANTED FIRST PASSPORT

New York Workman Finds That Police Are on Their Jobs

New York, May 2.—The first passport ever issued by the police department of New York was handed to Ralph Fisher, an honest mechanic, who has been arrested sixteen times during the last few weeks on the charge of having burglar's tools in his possession.

Fisher is a night worker employed by a company which repairs kitchen utensils in big hotels and restaurants. He receives many emergency calls during the night and has to take along his tools to make repairs, he asserts.

In applying for the passport, Fisher told Police Commissioner Waldo that in addition to having been arrested sixteen times, he had been interrupted almost nightly by patrolmen and detectives who mistook him for a burglar when he was on emergency calls.

AUTO BANDITS AT WORK

Chicago Police Receive Orders to Apprehend Desperadoes

Chicago, May 2.—Strict orders have been given to policemen to watch for criminals who utilize automobiles in their attacks. The order was inspired by an attack on Marion Gorecki, who was waylaid and robbed of her jewelry by men who dragged her into an automobile, and by the depredations of a band of three men who robbed the cashier of a banking company of $1000 and escaped in an automobile.

Another automobile mystery which the police face became public with the statement of Amelia Neumann, 19 years old, that she was pulled into an automobile, abused and robbed by three men.

VERDICT AGAINST PLANT

Must Pay Smith $323,750 For Engineering Sale of Shoe Factory

Worcester, Mass., May 2.—Harry W. Smith of this city was awarded $323,750 in his suit against Thomas G. Plant, the shoe manufacturer of Boston, by a jury in the superior court, before Judge Lawton.

In his suit Smith claimed that Plant owed him commission for engineering the sale of the Plant shoe factories to the United Shoe Machinery company. Smith sued to recover $300,000 with interest.

"Free Gift" is a Bug-a-boo!

"Free Gift" means everything but FREE. It is a thinly disguised apology for under-value or over-price. It is a threadbare argument for trade from folks who like to be coaxed and are afterwards hoaxed. It has never been—never will be, the policy of this good store. FIVE MEN KILLED AS GASOLENE EXPLODES

Causes Damage of $450,000 on Cleveland Waterfront

Cleveland, May 2.—Five men were burned to death and damage estimated at $450,000 done to boats and gasolene on the docks, when Standard Oil barge No. 88 exploded last evening.

The barge, which was at the Jefferson avenue docks on the Cuyahoga river, was being filled with gasolene from a 10,000 gallon tank on the bank. Leaking oil on the surface of the river was ignited and set fire to the barge. A terrific explosion immediately followed.

The men killed were caulking another barge alongside and were enveloped in the flames which spread over the surface of the river. No one was on the barge when the oil exploded. The burning oil set fire to four other boats and the tug Wisconsin was destroyed.

AVA ASTOR IN NEW YORK

Wishes to Comfort Son and Safeguard Rights of Daughter

New York, May 2.—Mrs. Ava W. Astor, divorced wife of John Jacob Astor, who lost his life on the Titanic, arrived here, with her daughter, Muriel, on the Kaiser Wilhelm der Grosse.

It was announced on her behalf that she will not attend the funeral of her former husband. It was stated by friends of the first Mrs. Astor that she has come to comfort her son, Vincent, if possible, and also to see that the rights of her daughter to her portion of the Astor estate are safeguarded. Mrs. Astor was dressed in deep mourning.

TEXAS SUNK BY SHELL

Steamer Failed to Heed Warning of Turkish Authorities

Constantinople, May 2.—A telegram received by a shipping agency from Smyrna says that the Archipelago American Steamship company's steamer Texas, which went down in the Gulf of Smyrna with 140 persons, was sunk by a shell fired from the military fort, and not by a mine as at first reported.

The dispatch adds that two blank shots were fired by the Turkish fortification, warning the vessel that she had deviated from the proper channel, but when no notice was taken a shell sent her to the bottom.

SCHOOL NOTES.

A general teachers' meeting was held in the Coddington school hall yesterday afternoon at 4.15 o'clock at which the speaker was Mrs. Lucia Ames Mead of Boston. Mrs. Mead spoke under the auspices of the American School Peace Society and gave a strong and interesting address on the subject of "Internationalism or World Peace" giving facts as to how the subject might be allied with the teaching of patriotism in connection with history. Mrs. Mead is to give the same address in nearly all the towns and cities about Boston in the course of the present month as an aid to the observance of Peace Day which takes place on May 18.

The standing sub-committee of the Wollaston and Quincy schools have held one meeting for the purpose of separating a new district from these two old districts to be known as the Montclair district. The new district will take in pupils not only from these two schools but also from the Massachusetts Fields school, thereby relieving much of the present congestion in the north end of the city. The lines have not yet been determined and to assist the committee in its decision there will be a public hearing for persons interested on Monday, May 13 from 4.30 to 5.30 P. M., at the Wollaston school.

The school committee is to hold an informal meeting on Saturday afternoon of this week at five o'clock on the new Adams school lot to determine the best way of facing the new building that is to be erected there. There are no accepted streets or sewers yet leading to the building and these are now under consideration.

There was a meeting of the executive committee of the Quincy Teachers' Association yesterday afternoon at the Coddington school.

Sufficient boys have now been enrolled to make the opening of the half time industrial school in the fall a certainty though a few more names may yet be added if vacancies occur. The school committee has sent formal notice of its purpose to the State Board of Education and asked recognition and approval as a state-aided school. An advisory committee will also be announced by the chairman in a short time made up of people engaged in the industries who will assist in the shaping of both the day and evening courses.

The evening school has already been approved.

The resignation of Mr. Robert S. Schoonmaker as sub-master of the High school and head of the commercial department was received with much regret. Mr. Schoonmaker has been remarkably efficient in each capacity and has brought his department to a point of efficiency in advance of any it had previously reached. He had decided to change his line of work to that of expert accountant and will probably locate outside of New England. Coming at the same time as Mr. Howlett's departure, the loss to the school will be a serious one.

GRIDLEY BRYANT SCHOOL.

A large number, despite the unfavorable weather that prevailed, attended the Wood Art Exhibit held last Monday in the Gridley Bryant school. The program consisted of piano solos by Miss Rina Bizzozero, vocal selections by Frank V. Gordon of the High school, readings by Miss Nina Osthman All of the contributors were loudly applauded for the renditions. Dancing followed and the sale of ice cream, coffee and cake was in order. May baskets were disposed of in great numbers and a sum of $75 was realized.

WILLARD SCHOOL.

The same exhibition and similar exercises were held at the Willard school Tuesday, and it was estimated that fully three hundred pupils attended afternoon session, while an equal number of parents were in attendance at the eveing. Over $60 were realized and the affair proved most successful as was evidenced by the great appreciation manifested by those who were present. The following program was carried out to the delight of all, every number being the occasion for repeated encores:—

Chorus—a. Over Hill, Over Dale

LADIES' AID HOLD SOCIAL

On Tuesday evening under the direction of Mrs. Given and Miss Merrill the Ladies' Aid society of the Wollaston M. E. church held a birthday social to which the guests were invited to bring pennies corresponding to their age in years.

A program given the first part of the evening was greatly enjoyed by those present. The reader was Miss Lois A. Beil of the Emerson School of Oratory and her selections were exceptionally well rendered, "Polly of the Circus" deserving special mention.

Mrs. Samuel Scholes delighted her hearers as usual with her rich voice in several solos and also in a duet with Mr. Scholes.

Allan Paintere, a young man with a promising voice gave a solo, and Mr. Critchley rendered several pleasing cornet solos.

At the close of the program an informal reception was given to Rev. and Mrs. Wesley Wiggin in honor of their return by the Conference to Wollaston for another year, after which refreshments of ice cream, cake and fruit punch were served.

Clothes Are Like Character

And can't be judged at first blush!

Wherever a group of young fellows gather in these days, you're pretty certain of seeing some good looking clothes. The demands of young men in matters of cut, fabric, color, pattern, have done more to influence the making of clothes than any other one thing.

I have the kind of goods that strike the fancy of such young men; there's distinction and individuality about the goods and a finish in tailoring that gives the very desirable air of "class" which men always want, but don't always get in clothes.

You want it in yours, no matter who you are, or how old you are. You'll get it here; at

SECOND NIGHT COLLEGE CHAP

Drama Repeated by St. John's Dramatic Club

LARGE AUDIENCE

Acceding to numerous requests members of St. John's Dramatic club presented "The College Chap" for the second time this season, in Parochial School hall, Wednesday evening, to an audience that was equally as large as that which taxed the hall on the initial production. All the participants acquitted themselves in a manner that would reflect well upon professional talent and it is needless to say that it was pronounced the best performance yet given by members of the club.

Andrew J. Dinegan, whose career in work of such a nature, is a most enviable one, was in charge of the production and deserves great credit for the success attained. The decorations and scenic display, all of which were arranged by Miss Nellie Desmond, added greatly to the occasion. John Igo and Louis Bouchard performed the manual work necessary in the erection of the scenery and the entire outlay was the subject for much favorable comment on the part of those who were in attendance.

The play was in three acts. In the first act the scene is laid in the Occidental hotel, Minn., and shows the principal hostelry of the city in anything but a creditable condition. The College Chap has returned home, after having been expelled from school. This reprehensible conduct does not perturb him in the least, for in addition, he engages in quarrels with his father and sweetheart. He soon awakens however, to a realization of the fact that he should reform and he straightway sets out to accomplish this end.

The printing plant of the Chester Clarion is the centre of attraction in the next act. The College Chap is here shown as its editor. It seems to be a most enterprising sheet. Still possessed of his good resolutions, the College Chap determines to put some of them into practise through the columns of the newspaper. So he exposes the woeful methods that are being used to injure the welfare of the people by one Starr Clay, a wealthy business man of the town. The influence of the latter is far greater than that of the College Chap. The result is that the College Chap loses his job.

In the last act, the Occidental is again shown, this time in a most flourishing condition. The College Chap appears as its manager and the wealthy Starr, who has now lost his fortunes, is a mere baggageman at the hotel. Pleasant acquaintances are resumed, in which the College Chap plays the conspicuous part. Things are straightened out to mutual satisfaction and he finally marries Madge Clay.

Between the acts Andrew J. Dinegan sang "Nothing to do till to-morrow and Fred McDonald rendered "Look at that hat." Both were loudly applauded and forced to respond a second time. Leon Biganess assisted on the piano and came in for his full share of praise. The properties used were loaned by the Henry L. Kincaide Furniture Company. The cast of characters were as follows:

Elijah Gooding, a village product — David Curtin

ENJOYABLE MAY FESTIVAL

Ladies' Aid of Quincy Point Church Hold Annual Event

THE PROGRAM

There was a large attendance at the annual May Festival of the Quincy Point church, held Wednesday evening in the vestry, under the auspices of the Ladies' Aid society. The affair consisted of a supper and entertainment and was acknowledged to have been about the best of its nature ever held.

The following supper was served. Potato salad, beans, boiled ham, rolls, pickles, fancy cake, pies and coffee. At the close of the supper a most appreciative entertainment was in order, the program of which was as follows:

Organ Voluntary, — Mr. Irving Hayden
"Rainbow," — Chorus
"Dand's Lamentation"
"Ocean"
Solo—"Mary of Argyle," — Miss Mary McGregor
"Invitation," — Chorus
"Greenwich"
Solo—"I will extol Thee, O Lord," — Mrs. E. C. Page
"Strike the Cymbal," — Chorus
Song—"Annie Laurie," — Mr. Robert Farlane
"Cousin Jedediah," — Chorus
(Solo by Mrs. F. E. Drake)
"Grandma's Advice," — Miss Olive V. Bicknell
Anthem—"Jehovah's Praise," — Chorus
"Auld Lang Syne," — Chorus and Audience

The following members constituted the chorus: Mrs. Edward Drake, Mrs. A. B. Foster, Mrs. E. C. Page, Mrs. Mary McGregor, Mrs. W. F. Perry, Mrs. C. W. Newcomb, Mrs. Edward H. Bushnell, Miss O. V. Bicknell, Miss Helen Myer, Miss Helen Lee, Walter Holmes, Herbert Holmes, John Goodfellow, H. E. Sherburn, James Davis, E. J. Beale, E. Harley and John W. Hendry.

Vocal selections were rendered by the chorus in a manner that called for great applause. Solos by Miss Mary McGregor, Mrs. E. C. Page, Robert Farlane and Mrs. F. E. Drake, caused the contributors to merit their full share of well earned applause.

"Grandma's Advice," a sketch presented by Miss Olive W. Bicknell, proved a decided hit and she was forced to respond to repeated encores.

The singing was all under the personal direction of Thomas B. Pollard. All the singers were attired in costumes highly typical of the affair itself, entitled "Ye old Folks' Concert."

The following were in charge of the various tables, where goods of a varied nature were displayed for sale.

Fancy table:—Mrs. C. W. Newcomb, Mrs. T. R. McKennye, Mrs. M. S. Whight, Mrs. P. H. Holman,.

Apron table:—Mrs. A. H. Sherman, Mrs. Herbert Bonney.

Candy table:—Mrs. James Melville, Mrs. William Pierson.

Cake table:—Mrs. R. H. Newcomb, Mrs. T. W. Lincoln, Jr.

Surprise Kiss Table:—Mrs. W. F. Perry, Miss Harriet Leman.

The following committee was in charge of the supper:

Mrs. P. H. Holman, Mrs. Carleton McNeil, Mrs. C. A. Brend, Mrs. T. B. Pollard, Mrs. G. Thomas, Mrs. J. Fitton, Mrs. M. Wright, Mrs. James Lackay and Mrs. Jacob Peterson.

ANNIVERSARY OF MAPLE LODGE

Popular Fraternal Order Thirty-Two Years Old

ENTERTAINMENT

Protection hall was the scene Wednesday evening of the thirty-second anniversary of Maple Lodge, No, 313, Knights and Ladies of Honor. There was a large attendance and many guests were present.

The early part of the evening was devoted to the degree work, which was performed on a number of candidates. Many applications for membership were also received. The principal address was made by District Deputy Caroline Briggs.

At the initiation, all gathered around the May pole, which had been erected in the centre of the hall. Streamers of buff and blue, the colors of the lodge, were suspended from the pole. At the end of each streamer was attached a small envelope, enclosing three questions: Every one took one of the letters and submitted the answers to the questions, the prize for the best answers being awarded to Mrs. Annie Grignon. A hat trimming contest was then in order among the men. The prize going to Napoleon Reed.

The May baskets, containing lunches were distributed, first to the ladies and then to the gentlemen. The baskets had been arranged with colors to match. Each man went around the hall until he found the lady whose May basket was of the same color as his, and both ate luncheon together.

An entertainment concluded the program. The affair was pronounced the best in the history of the lodge. Much of the success was due to the efforts of the committee in charge, composed of Mrs. Rose Read, Mrs. C. P. Gould, and Fred P. Bennett.

JUNIORS PLAN ENTERTAINMENT.

Miss Irene Bewley, who was heard with so much pleasure in the reading of the play "Polly of the Circus" early this season at Bethany chapel, will read there again Wednesday evening, May 8, when the Juniors of Unity Circle present an entertainment. Miss Bewley will give a miscellaneous program, interspersed with music by the Junior quartet and Thomas N. Shufelt of Boston, baritone. A delightful evening is assured to those recognizing and aiding the earnest endeavors of these young people in their desire to raise money for the broad charities maintained by the King's Daughters.

RECOUNTS

teralize there will be petitions filed for a recount of the whole Republican ballot in this city, and it will be known.

Up to noon it was known that two petitions for recounts were being circulated. One of these was in the hands of Councilman Studley who was circulating a petition asking for a recount of the Ward One ballots.

The other was in the hands of John H. Johnson, president of the Roosevelt club asking for a recount of the votes in Ward Five. It was common talk on the street that the election officers in Ward Five made a mistake in the official returns as sent in and that a block of fifty votes credited by the election officers to Taft should have been credited to Roosevelt.

When the vote was announced at the polls early in the evening the figures showed that Roosevelt had carried the ward, on the Presidential preference by 41 votes. When the official returns were received at City Hall however they showed that the Presidential preference vote was Taft by 61. The fact was noticed by the City Clerk and reporters but no one had authority to open the package of ballots and see if a mistake had been made.

Then again in Ward Three the returns were considerably mixed up and many errors found in the addition. It was 7.40 Wednesday morning before these returns were received and it would seem as though, with the time taken to count the ballot, it should have been correct. It required considerable work on the part of the City Clerk to straighten out the book showing the result of the caucus.

In round figures the votes thrown out, or rather blank ballots, for delegates at large in each ward of the city was as follows:—Ward One, 69; Ward Two, 40; Ward Three, 89; Ward Four, 36; Ward Five, 41; Ward Six, 43.

The petitions for recounts must be filed with the registrars of voters before 5 o'clock, Friday.

BLOW AT COMMERCE COURT

Failure to Make Appropriation For the Railroad Tribunal

Washington, May 2.—By failing to report an appropriation for the recently created commerce court, the house committee on appropriations sought to abolish that tribunal. The general supply bill for the legislative, judicial and executive branches of the government is a wholesale attempt at reduction of government expenses.

The bill proposes a reduction of the salary of the secretary to the president from $7500 to $6000, the old figure, and the abolition in the department of commerce and labor of the bureaus on manufactures and statistics.

It is further proposed to abolish the mints at San Francisco, New Orleans and Carson City, Nev., and six assay offices.

BRIEFS

Miss Cora I. Young, who has resided in Dorchester during the winter months has returned to Quincy.

Miss Gladys Moore of Melrose is spending the week end with Miss Gladys DuPlessis of 43 North Central avenue.

Charles H. Sherbourne of South street has gone to Dublin, New Hampshire, where he will remain until September.

Members of the Quincy A. A. will hold the first dancing party in Music hall, tomorrow evening and the committee in charge expects a large attendance.

Friday evening, the Sunday school of First church holds its annual party. At four there will be games in the chapel; at five, refreshments; and at half past five an entertainment. After the entertainment the school will adjourn to Colonial hall, where the younger children will dance from 6.15 to 7.30. At 8 o'clock there will be dancing for the young people of the church whose friends also will be cordially welcome.

CIVIL SERVICE EXAMINATION.

A competitive examination is to be held May 29, to fill a vacancy in the position of male clerk in the office of the Adjutant General and similar vacancies as they occur. The examination will consist of letter-writing, spelling, hand-writing, transcribing rough draft, rapid copying, rapid computation, and arithmetic, including percentage and simple interest. Only citizens, who have been residents of Massachusetts for the past year and who have been commissioned officers in the military service of the Commonwealth for at least one year, have a right to apply.

Men desiring to take this examination may secure application blanks by applying in person, or by letter, at the office of the Civil Service Commission, Room 152, State House, Boston.

BURGLAR GOT FRIGHT.

The residence of Charles Jones on South street was entered by a burglar after midnight Tuesday but the presence of a nurse so frightened the man that he beat a hasty retreat. Mrs. Jones is ill and is being cared for by a nurse. Late Tuesday evening while reading in one of the rooms, the nurse was surprised to see a door open and a strange man put his head in the door. Before the nurse could make an outcry however the fellow had beat a hasty retreat. Nothing was taken.

ALEXANDER J. BIRNIE.

The funeral of Alexander J. Birnie, who died in Zanesville, Ohio, took place from the home of his father William L. Birnie, 130 Franklin street, Tuesday afternoon. Services were conducted by Rev. Mr. Thompson and interment was at Mt. Wollaston Cemetary.

CARRIES STATE ON PREFERENCE

Taft Has a Plurality of 3655 In Massachusetts

SPLIT EVEN ON DELEGATES

Roosevelt Tells His Supporters He Expects Them to Cast Ballots For Taft In Convention, but They Refuse to Comply—Leaders Off For Oyster Bay to Discuss Situation—New Primary Law Responsible For Mixup Unprecedented In Bay State Politics—Democrats Have Troubles

Boston, May 2.—The Republican political situation refuses to clear, and with the blowing away of some of the smoke of Tuesday's presidential preferential primaries come threats of continued fighting and other complications, bidding fair to continue the conflict until the Chicago convention, if not until election day.

Taft and Roosevelt are even on delegates, the president getting eighteen in the districts and the colonel ten and eight at-large.

Following is the result of the presidential preference vote:

La Follette	1,756
Roosevelt	71,153

Taft's plurality, 3655. Town of Gosnold missing.

*Three hundred and fifty towns:

Clark	33,491
Wilson	14,470

Clark's majority, 19,021.
*Three small towns missing.

Mr. Roosevelt has renounced his claim to the eight delegates-at-large to the Republican national convention elected for him in Massachusetts. He telegraphed them that he would expect them to vote for President Taft, taking this action because of the fact that President Taft carried the state on the presidential primary vote."

The new primary law has resulted in an unprecedented mixup. Mr. Roosevelt's request to the delegates-at-large elected for him to vote for Taft has already been turned down by six of them refusing to comply, on the grounds that their duty is to vote for Roosevelt. These six are Baxter, Coleman, Miles, Nason, Magenis and La Riviere.

The Roosevelt delegates believe the colonel sent the request under a misapprehension of the real situation, and after trying to unravel the tangle last night Manager Hale, Charles E. Baxter, Treasurer Ware and others started for Oyster Bay for a conference with Roosevelt, in an effort to remove this "misapprehension."

To Fight at Chicago

Whether they finally agree to accede to Roosevelt's request or not, Edgar R. Champlin, chairman of the Taft campaign committee in this state, has resolved to send the entire Taft delegation to Chicago and fight on the floor of the convention to have them seated. He and other Taft leaders seem confident that the victorious Roosevelt delegation from Massachusetts will be unseated.

Ex-Senator Seiberlich is held responsible for the defeat of the Taft delegates by the Taft forces. They charge that his name on the ballot resulted in hundreds of ballots being invalidated because the voter marked nine names instead of the required eight.

In every precinct where the vote is at all close recounts will be demanded. The Taft leaders declare they will carry the fight to the highest court in the land, if necessary, to have these ballots counted for their delegates.

Seiberlich declares that he will fight any attempt by the Taft forces to have his name scratched from ballots marked for nine delegates. "It makes no difference how small or how large the vote for me may be," he said, "I am entitled to every vote I got. They have no more right to throw out my name in order to credit the remaining eight names to Taft than they have to throw out Senator Crane's vote."

In proof of this they showed telegrams from all over the state. In some precincts where Roosevelt delegates received 70 out of 100 votes, he only received 20 votes out of 100 as the presidential preference.

Until late last evening most of the Roosevelt delegates-at-large were shut up with Matthew Hale, manager of the Roosevelt campaign, at the headquarters at 15 State street, trying to evolve some method of straightening out the wierd tangle without damaging Roosevelt's prospects.

Tangle Over Primary Law

The new primary law, advocated before the legislature and praised in his recent Masachusetts campaign by Roosevelt, has brought about a mixup unprecedented in Bay State politics.

Delegates pledged to Roosevelt have been elected, although the voters have indicated their special preference for Taft. The expressed wishes of a majority o fthe voters is not binding and jority of the voters is not binding and

The same confusion exists to a lesser extent among the Democratic delegates. All the delegates-at-large elected, except one, were down on the ticket as "pledged to Foss." The preferential vote was won by Champ Clark. Governor Foss' name did not appear in the preferential column, nor did that of any of the other presidential aspirants except Governor Wilson of New Jersey.

Most of the Democratic delegates-at-large have already issued statements that they will abide by the apparent wishes of the Democrats of Massachusetts and support Clark at the Baltimore convention.

Several of the delegates who have decided they are in honor bound to do this are known to have been in favor of Wilson.

Mr. Roosevelt's delegates-at-large hold that the placing of the presidential candidate's at the end of the ballot resulted in many voters indicating their choice of the entire Roosevelt slate and failing to mark their preference in the last column.

As to Alleged Challenge

When asked regarding the claim of the Roosevelt headquarters that the Taft delegates had refused a challenge to commit themselves as to their stand, in the event of the preferential primary vote going against their pledge, Edgar R. Champlin, chairman of the executive committee of the Taft league, said:

"The statement made at the headquarters of the Roosevelt campaign committee, in which it is said that prior to the primaries all the Taft delegate candidates were asked if they would abide by the preference vote, bears its refutation on its face. A perusal of the documents referred to in the interview shows that for some reason the Roosevelt managers were apparently undertaking to tie up in writing their own delegate candidates. So far as attempting to issue a challenge to us on the subject is concerned, I can only say that statement has absolutely no foundation in fact.

"No communication, directly or indirectly, on that subject has ever been received at Taft headquarters. Since reading of this alleged refusal to accept the intimated challenge I have talked with all of our candidates for delegates-at-large, with the exception of Governor Bates, whom I could not reach, and I am authorized by each of them to say that no such communication has been received by them from the Roosevelt headquarters or from any of the Roosevelt delegate candidates."

At the Roosevelt headquarters it was positively declared that such a pledge was sent to the Taft delegates, and that the Taft men refused to agree to it. Consequently, said the Roosevelt leaders, their opponents had not accepted the challenge.

MOVE ON FOREIGN TRUST

Bars Its Ships From Our Ports If In Unlawful Combination

Washington, May 2.—The International Mercantile Marine company, whose officials and employes have been explaining to a senate committee how the Titanic went down, is about to be attacked from the house side of the national government.

This attack is made in the Humphrey bill, unanimously reported from the committee on merchant marine and fisheries. The bill is described as intending "to protect American trade and American shipping from foreign monopolies." If passed in its present form no ship belonging to the North Atlantic or the Asiatic shipping pools may enter or clear at an American port until the court shall find that the alleged unlawful combination has been dissolved. In other words, by legislative act the federal bench is given power which, by paralyzing business, will enforce the provisions of the Sherman anti-trust law.

TRIAL OF FLOYD ALLEN

His Fate Rests In Hands of Nine Farmers and Three Merchants

Wytheville, Va., May 2.—A jury was sworn last night to try Floyd Allen, indicted for five murders in the Carroll courthouse on March 14 last. For four hours counsel interrogated a string of veniremen and it was long after dusk when a sixteenth satisfactory talesman was found. The defense then exercised its four peremptory challenges allotted and court then adjourned.

Nine farmers and three merchants compose the jury. The charge to the jury and the opening statements in the case by counsel will be made today.

500 SALOONS TO CLOSE

Water Wagon Putting Them Out of Business In Chicago

Chicago, May 2.—Chicagoans are climbing on the "water wagon" in such large numbers that saloon keepers have begun to notice their daily receipts dropping off. More than 500 saloon keepers, it is declared, will not renew their licenses, the chief reason being that men of all classes are drinking less.

Other reasons for quitting business are the enforcement of laws relating to gambling resorts and dance halls. There are about 7000 saloons in Chicago.

Strike of Lumber Workers

Burlington, Vt., May 2.—One thousand lumber workers have struck, tieing up practically all the mills on the lake front. The strikers were refused their demand of a nine-hour day with no reduction of the present ten-hour wage.

TO CONTINUE UP TO CONVENTION

No Let-Up In the Taft and Roosevelt Campaign

CANDIDATES FULLY AROUSED

Closeness of Contest in Massachusetts Expected to Add to Bitterness Already Prevailing—Maryland the Next State to Hold Direct Preference Primaries—More Divisions Expected In States Yet to Vote

Washington, May 2.—The result of the race between President Taft and ex-President Roosevelt in Massachusetts is interpreted here to mean that the fight between them will not be over until the Chicago convention speaks. Each side is making ready for the next forward move. The general expectation here is that the outcome in Massachusetts will add to the bitterness of the campaign, which is already remarkable in many respects.

The interested public will now turn from Massachusetts to Maryland, where direct preference primaries are to be held next Tuesday. Maryland is entitled to sixteen votes in the national convention, a small number compared with some of the states, but worth fighting for at this time. The president will return from Georgia on Friday and on the following day will go to Maryland. Roosevelt will already have preceded him there.

The president's Saturday trip through the state will bring him to Baltimore Saturday night, where a state Taft rally is being arranged. Whether the president and the former president shall remain in the state on Monday has not yet been decided. The outlook today is that each will make a final appeal on the day preceding the primaries. The present outlook is that the Maryland delegation will be divided. The president's friends believe that he will get a majority of the delegates.

A general survey of the situation indicates that from this date there will be determined fighting for delegates in every state that has not yet chosen them to represent the party at Chicago. Apparently neither the president nor the former president can hope for very many solid state delegations from this time on.

President Taft will undoubtedly get all the delegates from Utah, Wyoming and possibly Arkansas. In every other state where delegates are to be chosen a division is expected. The encouraging thing about the situation so far as the administration forces are concerned is that if Taft succeeds in getting one-third the delegates to be chosen he will have enough to nominate him. As a matter of fact, his managers count on an even break.

The closeness of the contest in Massachusetts will undoubtedly put new vigor into the campaigns, not only in Maryland, but in California, New Jersey and Ohio, other states that vote direct for delegates.

The president intends to make the best appeal he can for the delegates of his own state. The Ohio primaries are to be held May 21. The tentative arrangement is for the president to go into the state several days before the primaries. He will encounter Roosevelt there, as well as in New Jersey.

OVERTAKEN BY DARKNESS

Atwood Covers Seventy-Five Miles of His Trip to Portland

Wells, Me., May 2.—Harry N. Atwood came to earth in his biplane here at 6:15 last evening after having flown seventy-five miles from Saugus, Mass. It was Atwood's intention to fly to Portland, "just for the fun of it," he said, in starting, but gathering darkness forced him to alight in a little clearing here. He is the first aviator to fly into Maine from another state, although several exhibition flights have been made at fairs.

Atwood covered about three-fourths of his intended trip to Portland in the hour and a half he was in the air.

The KITCHEN CUPBOARD

PEANUT FOODS.

ONE of the most useful foods in reducing the amount of the butcher's bill is the peanut. Vegetarians have a number of ways of serving these nuts that may prove acceptable even to those of us who do not adhere to their cult.

When Buying Peanuts.

In selecting peanuts, get only freshly shelled ones. Perhaps it is advisable to buy them in the shells. The nut meats should not be exposed to the air for any length of time as the oil is rapidly affected.

Peanut butter may be used as a substitute for ordinary butter and in many ways in cooking.

These sandwiches are nice for the children's lunch.

Dainty Sandwiches and Salad.

Lettuce Nut Sandwiches.—Cut sandwich bread very thin, spread with peanut butter and lay a leaf of fresh young lettuce sprinkled with salt between the slices.

Nut and Celery Salad.—A simple salad may be thus prepared. Chop about a half cup of white tender stalks of celery very fine, press two hard boiled eggs through a colander and add a half cup of peanut butter. Chop all together and season to taste. Place on fresh young lettuce leaves and pour the following dressing over the salad.

Salad Dressing.—Rub a tablespoonful of peanut butter into half a cupful of hot water and let boil. Take off the fire, stir in salt to season and the juice of half a lemon. Beat all these together and it is ready for use.

Peanut Soup.—A nice soup may be made thus. Bake a pint of sweet milk. Rub a half cup of butter to a cream in part of the milk then stir into it the rest of the milk and add a cupful of water. Put into a double boiler and when it has reached the scalding point thicken with a tablespoonful of cornstarch flour.

A Nut Pudding.

This recipe for a pudding is said to be very good.

Peanut Pudding.—For this dish scald a pint of sweet, fresh milk, add two tablespoonfuls of butter, beat three eggs, add to them two-thirds of a cupful of sugar, two ounces of chopped peanuts and 10 drops of almond extract. Butter molds, fill with the mixture and bake for 20 minutes.

CREAMED VEGETABLES.

A DELICIOUS way of serving vegetables is to cream them. New potatoes, asparagus, celery or onions may all be creamed. A general way of creaming vegetables is to cut them up, cover with milk and let them simmer until nearly all the milk is absorbed and then dress with white sauce.

A good white sauce for the vegetables may be made by rubbing two tablespoonfuls of flour and two tablespoonfuls of butter together in a small saucepan. Then add a cupful of milk and stir over a moderate fire until the sauce boils. Add salt and white pepper. Using cream or part cream instead of all milk will make a richer sauce.

New Potatoes.

Creamed New Potatoes.—Wash and scrape the potatoes, then drop into boiling water and cook until tender. Have ready cream and butter hot, but not boiling. Drain the potatoes, sprinkle with salt and turn into a hot vegetable dish. Pour over them the hot cream, sprinkle with a little minced parsley and serve.

Canned or Fresh Asparagus.

Creamed Asparagus.—Take the tips of the asparagus, using the fresh vegetables, if available, or canned asparagus if more convenient. Strain the tips from the can and let them stand half an hour in the air.

Put them into a buttered baking dish, turn over them a cupful of white sauce and cover the top with eggs.

The eggs should be dropped from the shells without breaking whites and yolks. Bake until the eggs are set.

Parsnips or Turnips.

Creamed Parsnips.—Boil, scrape and slice parsnips. Put them in a deep dish well covered with butter. Pour white sauce over them. Cover the dish, set in the oven for five minutes and serve.

Creamed Turnips.—Boil white turnips until tender. Cut into dice, put into a hot baking dish, pour a white sauce over them, cover the dish, set in the oven five minutes and serve.

Good Nerve Foods.

Creamed Celery.—Wash and cut outside celery stalks into half inch pieces. Boil for half an hour or more if the celery is not soft enough. Drain and add a cream sauce. Put the celery in the baking dish, where it may cook for two minutes.

Creamed Onions.—Peel your onions, choosing medium sized white ones, then boil until nearly soft and add a teaspoonful of salt. Drain in a colander. Put in a baking dish, cover with white sauce and place in the oven for a few minutes.

The Prodigal Judge

Dramatized by D. Malott — By Vaughan Kester

(Copyright, 1911, The Bobbs-Merrill Company)

SYNOPSIS.

CHAPTER I.—The scene at the opening of the story is laid in the library of an old worn-out southern plantation, known as the Barony. The place is to be sold, and its history and that of the owners, the Quintards, is the subject of discussion by Jonathan Crenshaw, a business man, a stranger known as Bladen, and Bob Yancy, a farmer, when Hannibal Wayne Hazard, a mysterious child of the old southern family, makes his appearance. Yancy tells how he adopted the boy.

CHAPTER II.—Nathaniel Ferris buys the Barony, but the Quintards deny any knowledge of the boy. Yancy to keep Hannibal. Captain Murrell, a friend of the Quintards, appears and asks questions about the Barony.

CHAPTER III.—Trouble at Scratch Hill. Yancy's home, when Hannibal is kidnaped by Dave Blount, Captain Murrell's agent. Yancy overtakes Blount, gives him a thrashing and secures the boy.

CHAPTER IV.—Yancy is served with a warrant for assaulting Blount. Yancy appears before Squire Balaam, and is discharged with costs for the plaintiff.

CHAPTER V.—Betty Malroy, a friend of the Ferrises, has an encounter with Captain Murrell, who forces his attentions on her, and is rescued by Bruce Carrington, who threatens to whip the captain.

CHAPTER VI.—Betty sets out for her Tennessee home. Carrington takes the same stage. Yancy and Hannibal disappear, with Murrell on their trail. He overtakes them in the mountains of Tennessee. Murrell gets Yancy drunk and stabs him in a fight that followed. Hannibal escapes in a canoe.

CHAPTER VII.—Hannibal arrives at the home of Judge Slocum Price.

CHAPTER VIII.—The Judge recognizes in the boy, the grandson of an old time friend. Murrell arrives at Judge's home. Hannibal hears of the finding of Yancy's body. Price arrested as counterfeiter.

CHAPTER IX.—Cavendish family on raft rescue Yancy, who is apparently dead. Price breaks jail.

CHAPTER X.—Betty and Carrington arrive at Belle Plain.

CHAPTER XI.—Hannibal's rifle discloses some startling things to the Judge. Hannibal and Betty meet again.

CHAPTER XII.—Murrell arrives in Belle Plain. Is playing for big stakes.

CHAPTER XIII.—Yancy awakes from long dreamless sleep on board the raft.

CHAPTER XIV.—Judge Price makes startling discoveries in looking up land titles. Charley Norton, a young planter, who assists the judge, is mysteriously assaulted.

CHAPTER XV.—Norton informs Carrington that Betty has promised to marry him. Carrington bids Betty good-bye. Norton is mysteriously shot.

CHAPTER XVI.—More light on Murrell's plots. He plans uprising of negroes.

CHAPTER XVII.—The Judge and Hannibal visit Betty.

CHAPTER XVIII.—Betty is told why Norton was killed and leaves Belle Plain, taking Hannibal with her. The carriage is held up in the woods.

CHAPTER XIX.—Betty and Hannibal are made prisoners in a lonely cabin.

CHAPTER XX.—Murrell appears at the cabin and shows his hand.

CHAPTER XXI.—The Judge hears of the mysterious disappearance of Betty and Hannibal.

CHAPTER XXII.—The Judge takes charge of the situation, and search for the missing ones is instituted.

CHAPTER XXIII.—Carrington visits the judge and allies are discovered.

CHAPTER XXIV.—Judge Price visits Colonel Fentress, where he meets Yancy and Cavendish. Learns things of importance about the boy, dashes a glass of whisky into the colonel's face and a duel is arranged.

CHAPTER XXVIII.—Carrington finds Betty and Hannibal, and a fierce gun fight follows. Yancy appears and assists in the rescue.

CHAPTER XXIX.—Bruce Carrington and Betty come to an understanding.

CHAPTER XXV.—Murrell is arrested for negro stealing and his bubble bursts.

CHAPTER XXVI.—The Judge and Mahaffy discuss the coming duel.

CHAPTER XXVII.—Carrington makes frantic search for Betty and the boy.

CHAPTER XXX.—The Judge receives an important letter.

CHAPTER XXXI.—Solomon Mahaffy's last fight. Fights duel for the judge and is killed.

A ripple of comment, and Colonel Fentress elbowed his way through the crowd. At sight of his enemy the judge's face went from white to red, while his eyes blazed; but for the moment the force of his emotions left him speechless. Here and there, as he advanced, Fentress recognized a friend and bowed coolly to the right and left.

"What does this ridiculous mockery mean?" he demanded harshly. "Mr. Sheriff, as a member of the bar, I protest! Why don't you clear the building?" He did not wait for Betts to answer him, but continued. "Where is this man Hues?"

"Yonder, colonel, by the captain," said Betts.

"I have a warrant for his arrest. You will take him into custody."

"Wait!" cried the judge. "I represent Mr. Hues. I desire to see that warrant!"

But Fentress ignored him. He addressed the crowded benches.

"Gentlemen, it is a serious matter forcibly to seize a man without authority from the courts and expose him to the danger of mob violence—Mr. Hues will learn this before we have done with him."

Instantly there was a noisy demonstration that swelled into a burst of applause, which quickly spent itself The struggle seemed to have narrowed to an individual contest for supremacy between Fentress and the judge. On the edge of the railed-off space they confronted each other: the colonel, a tall, well-cared for presence; the judge, shabby and unkempt. For a moment their eyes met, while the judge's face purpled and paled, and purpled again. The silence deepened. Fentress' thin lips opened, twitched, but no sound came from them; then his glance wavered and fell. He turned away.

"Mr. Sheriff!" he called sharply.

"All right, colonel!"

"Take your man into custody," ordered Fentress. As he spoke he handed the warrant toward Betts, who looked at it, grinned, and stepped toward Hues. He would have pushed the judge aside had not that gentleman, bowing civilly, made way for him.

"In my profound respect for the law and properly constituted authority I yield to no man, not even to Colonel Fentress," he said, with a gracious gesture. "I would not place the slightest obstacle in the way of its sanctioned manifestation. Colonel Fentress comes here with that high sanction." He bowed again ceremoniously to the colonel. "I repeat, I respect his dependence upon the law!" He whirled suddenly. "Cavendish—Yancy—Carrington—I call upon you to arrest John Murrell! I do this by virtue of the authority vested in me as a judge of the United States federal court. His crime—a mere trifle, my friends—passing counterfeit money! Colonel Fentress will inform you that this is a violation of the law which falls within my jurisdiction," and he beamed blandly on Fentress.

"It's a lie!" cried the colonel.

"You'll answer for that later!" said the judge, with abrupt austerity of tone.

"For all we know you may be some fugitive from justice!—Why, your name isn't Price!"

"Are you sure of that?" asked the judge quickly.

"You're an impostor! Your name is Turberville!"

"Permit me to relieve your apprehensions. It is Turberville who has received the appointment. Would you like to examine my credentials?—I have them by me—no? I am obliged for your introduction. It could not have come at a more timely moment." The judge seemed to dismiss Fentress contemptuously. Once more he faced the packed benches. "Put down your weapons!" he commanded. "This man Murrell will not be released. At the first effort at rescue he will be shot where he sits—we have sworn it—his plotting is at an end." He stalked nearer the benches. "Not one chance in a thousand remains to him. Either he dies here or he lives to be taken before every judge in the state, if necessary, until we find one with courage to try him! Make no mistake—it will best conserve the ends of justice to allow the state court's jurisdiction in this case; and I pledge myself to furnish evidence which will start him well on his road to the gallows!" The judge, a tremendous presence, stalked still nearer the benches. Outfacing the crowd, a sense of the splendor of the part he was being called upon to play flowed through him like some elixir; he felt that he was transcending himself, that his inspiration was drawn from the hidden springs of the spirit, and that he could neither falter nor go astray. "You don't know what you are meddling with! This man has plotted to lay the south in ruins—he has been arming the negroes—it is incredible that you should all know this—to such I say, go home and thank God for your escape! For the others"—his shaggy brows met in a menacing frown—"if they force our hand we will toss them John Murrell's dead carcass—that's our answer to their challenge!"

He strode out among the gun muzzles which wavered where they still covered him. He was thinking of Mahaffy—Mahaffy, who had said he was still a man to be reckoned with. For the comfort of his own soul he was proving it.

"Do you know what a servile insurrection means?—you men who have wives and daughters, have you thought of their fate? Of the monstrous savagery to which they would be exposed? Do you believe he could limit and control it? Look at him! Why, he has never had a consideration outside of his own safety, and yet he expects you to risk your necks to save his! He would have left the state before the first blow was struck—his business was all down river—but we are going to keep him here to answer for his crimes! The law, as implacable as it is impartial, has put its mark on him—the shadow in which he sits is the shadow of the gallows!"

The judge paused, but the only sound in that expectant silence was the heavy breathing of men. He drew his unwieldly form erect, while his voice rumbled on, aggressive and threatening in its every intonation.

"You are here to defend something that no longer exists. Your organization is wrecked, your signals and passwords are known, your secrets have become public property—I can even produce a list of your members; there are none of you who do not stand in imminent peril—yet understand, I have no wish to strike at those who have been misled or coerced into joining Murrell's band!" The judge's sodden old face glowed now with the magnanimity of his sentiments. "But I have no feeling of mercy for your leaders, none for Murrell himself. Put down your guns!—you can only kill us after we have killed Murrell—but you can't kill the law! If the arch conspirator dies in this room and hour, on whose head will the punishment fall?" He swung round his ponderous arm in a sweeping gesture and shook a fat but expressive fore-finger in the faces of those nearest him. "On yours—and yours—and yours!"

Across the space that separated them the judge grinned his triumph at his enemy. He had known when Fentress entered the room that a word or a sign from him would precipitate a riot, but he knew now that neither this word nor this sign would be given. Then quite suddenly he strode down the aisle, and foot by foot Fentress yielded ground before his advance. A murderous light flashed from the judge's bloodshot eyes and his right hand was stealing toward the frayed tails of his coat.

"Look out—he's getting ready to shoot!" cried a frightened voice.

Instantly by doors and windows the crowd, seized with inexplicable panic, emptied itself into the court-house yard. Fentress was caught up in the rush and borne from the room and from the building. When he reached the graveled space below the steps he turned. The judge was in the doorway, the center of a struggling group; Mr. Bowen, the minister, Mr. Saul and Mr. Wesley were vainly seeking to pinion his arm.

"Draw—damn you!" he roared at Fentress, as he wrenched himself free, and the crowd swayed to right and left as Fentress was seen to reach for his pistol.

Mr. Saul made a last frantic effort to restrain his friend; he seized the judge's arm just as the latter's finger pressed the trigger, and an instant later Fentress staggered back with the judge's bullet in his shoulder.

DISPUTANTS SIGN ARBITRATION PACT

Threatened Strike of Railroad Engineers Is Averted

New York, May 2.—P. H. Morrissey, president of the Railway Employes and Investors' association, was selected by Grand Chief Stone and a committee of locomotive engineers to act as their arbiter and representative on the arbitration board which is to determine finally the demands for increased wages made by the engineers. The arbiter for the railroads has not been selected.

The threatened strike of engineers of the fifty railroads east of Chicago was averted by the signing of an arbitration agreement between the two committees representing the railroads and the engineers. The arbitration committee will consist of seven members, one from the railroads, one from the engineers and the other five to be appointed by the two.

People with kidney ills want to be cured. When one suffers the tortures of an aching back, relief is eagerly sought for. There are many remedies to-day that relieve, but do not cure. Doan's Kidney Pills have cured thousands. Here is proof:

Mrs. F. J. Reid, 81 West street, Whitman, Mass., says: "After suffering for many years with kidney complaint and spending a great amount of money for medicine without being helped, I was indeed gratified when Doan's Kidney Pills cured me so quickly. The pains in my back never ceased and I could not sleep well, getting up in the morning as tired as when I went to bed. I had begun to look bad and was growing despondent when I happened to read about Doan's Kidney Pills. Procuring a supply I began to use them and the contents of three boxes cured me.

The above statement was given on Oct. 6, 1908 and when Mrs. Reid was inteviewed on July 27, 1911, she said: "I have no reason to change my high opinion of Doan's Kidney Pills and I willingly confirm my former statement. I use this remedy occasionally when in need of a kidney remedy and always find relief."

For sale by all dealers. Price 50 cents. Foster-Milburn Co., Buffalo, New York, sole agents for the United States.

SCORES BURNS.

James Duncan of Quincy, first vice president of the A. F. of L., gave a public address at a meeting of the joint shoe council at Brockton, Wednesday evening. He scored William J. Burns for going on the lecture platform, adding that Burns did not tell the truth about the McNamara case and knew he did not every time he mentioned it.

Mr. Duncan made no effort to shield the McNamara brothers and bitterly denounced them, but he forcibly stated that the officials of the A. F. of L. were in entire ignorance of the guilt of the men until their confession. He admitted, however, that when the truth is finally known, it may be shown that the executive board of the Structural Iron Workers, or some of the board, at least, may have had previous knowledge of the crime.

PUBLIC LIBRARY NOTES.

Until May 20, the exhibit "Classic French art," will be at the library. This includes about 50 reproductions of famous paintings from the 15th to 18th centuries, the originals to be found in the Louvre, Paris.

In regard to the latter part of this period it has been said, "It is in painting that the art of the 18th century finds its most complete expression. And four great painters in a manner sum up the tendencies of the time: Watteau, Boucher, Fragonard, Greuze."

"Instead of magnificence the 18th century gives us grace. Instead of great ideals, we get every note in the scale of gallantry, of coquetry, of all that is gay, that is superficial, that is amusing in human life. Life is turned into a dainty poem and that poem is painted by Watteau. Boucher reflects the very life and spirt of his time."

With Fragonard a deeper note is struck. Fragonard laughs and mocks, and sighs and laughs again, with his Pagan spirit, his Gallic wit. We get at times a note that startles and sobers us. A note of truth and vigor that foreshadows the aims of the great painters of the 19th century, not only in thought but in actual method.

The reproductions of the above mentioned painters, and of others that are equally well-known make up the collection.

SURPRISE PARTY.

A most pleasurable surprise was given Madame Ellen Beale Morey at her home in Malden by the choir under her directorship as organist at Bethany church, Quincy. In the intercourse of a few fitting and gratifying remarks made by Mr. Beale he presented Madam Morey in behalf of the choir a beautiful bust of Beethovan in Italian marble by Marcino, also a cut glass dish—in loving remembrance of the high degree of pleasure which they have enjoyed under her efficient teaching.

Then came the happy privilege of the evening, the singing of anthems and hymns, with much enthusiasm bringing to all many pleasant recollections.

Much love and esteem has always existed between teacher and her past choir—and it is with the sincerest regret that they part with her.

Those present were Mrs. Charles England, Mrs. Anna Jacobsen Titus, Misses Ruth Gullichson, Beatrice Medlin, Ida Mattson, Mary Murray, Helen West, Winifred White, Messrs. Edwin I. Beale, Richard Bishop, Harry S. Bates, Carle H. Hayward, Robert McNairn and John Pierce.

ALBERT G. DOLLIVER

Albert G. Dolliver one of the best known residents of Quincy centre passed away this morning at his home 33 Saville street in his 66th year. Mr. Dolliver has been confined to his home for several weeks but his many friends had no intimation that his end was near. He was probably one of the best known residents of this section of the city. He always took a deep interest in what was going on in the city and was a man one would naturally seek when desiring information on matters of older Quincy.

His occupation was that of a bookkeeper and he was for many years employed in the frieght department of the Boston & Albany railroad but lost his position soon after the railroad was absorbed by the New York Central. Since that time he has followed no particular occupation although he has been in the employ of the city from time to time and has for many years served as one of the election officers in Ward One.

He married a daughter of James T. Penniman who with one daughter survives him.

He was a member of Rural lodge of Masons, Mt. Wollaston lodge of Odd Fellows and Quincy lodge of Elks. Although not a member of the Washington M. French Hose association he was always an attendant at the gatherings of this well-known organization.

He also leaves a brother Capt. Watson Dolliver of pilot boat No. 2 and a sister Miss Pauline Dolliver now of New York but formerly superintendent of nurses at the Massachusetts General hospital.

THE DAILY FIRE.

The alarm from box 39, at 1.30 this noon was for a slight fire in the blacksmith shop of A. Marnock & Co., on Liberty street. There was but little damage. The recall sounded inside of five minutes.

Explained.

"I am sorry to see you here again," said the judge.

"You're not half as sorry as I am, judge," said the prisoner.

"Bad company, my man, as I told you before, is sure to bring you back," said the judge.

"Yes, judge," said the prisoner. "But I can't help myself. I tried to avoid this vulgar cop, but he just reg'larly thrust hisself upon me."—Harper's Weekly.

GRAMMAR BASE BALL LEAGUE

Wollaston Boys Leading With Four Straight Wins

THE STANDING

With four straight victories to their credit, the members of the Wollaston School baseball nine occupy first position in the Grammar School league of this city. The Gridley Bryant players have succeeded in winning all three games which they have played this season and now loom forth as foremost contenders for the championship.

All the other teams seemed to be closely allied, Lincoln and Washington being tied for second place and John Hancock and Quincy being tied for first. The Cranch and Mass. Fields teams have yet to win a game.

The Wollaston players have an advantage over all other teams, in that all were members of the same team last year, while most of the teams that comprise the league have been developed, mainly from new players. Many of the contests to date have been close and interesting and many a gruelling struggle is bound to ensue before the season is drawn to a close. The standing to date is as follows:—

Standing of Grammar School League Base Ball games to Date.

After the Wedding

"Well, what did you think of the weddin'?" cried Miss Connelly as she bounced into the car. "Beg pardon, Stell, for steppin' on you," she continued, stumbling over Miss Larson's feet and lunging into a seat next to that young person.

Miss Larson opened one sleepy eye. "Oh, did you step on me?" she droned, yawning widely and undisguisedly. "I didn't know it."

"Sure I did," responded Miss Connelly. "I thought I'd better wake you up and tell you about it. You can go to sleep again now."

Miss Larson opened the other eye. "I wasn't sleep, Nell Connelly," she said, indignantly. "I guess a person's got a right to shut their eyes if they want to. My eyes ain't very strong and the light hurts 'em."

"Don't let's waste our perfectly good time fightin' with each other this morning," said Miss Connelly. "If we do we won't have any time left to knock the weddin'."

"Say," began Miss Frizkie eagerly, "didn't you pretty near die over the way Mame's hair was fixed? Honest to goodness, when I get married I'll have a hair dresser fix my hair up swell if I don't have so much as a pork chop to eat for a year."

"I thought her hair looked pretty good for Mame," said Miss Larson, sleepily. "It always looks like she'd slept in it."

"Her dress was a peach, though, wasn't it?" said Miss Frizkie. "At least it would have been if it had any fit to it. All that hand embroidery and that bead trimming must have cost a pile."

"Hand embroidery!" ejaculated Miss Connelly. "That's all you know about it, Jen. I was over to look at Mame's clothes Toosday evening and felt of it good, and it wasn't no more hand embroidery than nothing."

"Well, she must 'a' goth a corner on this year's crop of beads," said Miss Frizkie. "What do you think I said to the lady that was standin' next to me when Mame came into the parlor? I give her a dig with my elbow and I says, 'Say,' I says, 'Mame must have got mixed in her dates and thought she was a Christmas tree.'

"My! The lady got as red as anything. 'I designed that gown,' she says, sniffing up her nose at me, mad as she could be. 'It's modeled after a gown that was imported straight from Paris and you couldn't find its duplicate in Chicago. I'm a high-priced modiste,' she says, 'besides being Miss Peterson's own aunt.'

"Land! I just faded away like I'd been blown off the landscape."

"It's a pity you couldn't learn not to have such rude manners, Jen," said Miss Connelly.

"I guess if I could just learn to shut up and keep shut up it would help some," agreed Miss Frizkie, good-naturedly.

"Mame didn't have such an awful lot of presents as I thought she would," Miss Larson opened her eyes long enough to remark "I kind of thought she'd have a lot more'n what she did."

"Some of 'em was expensive, though, I guess," said Miss Frizkie. "Now, I bet that cut glass pitcher and them glasses cost twenty dollars."

"Nix on that," said Miss Connelly, decidedly. "I picked up every one of 'em and run my finger over 'em, and they wasn't sharp like cut glass ought to be. They was real smooth."

"Well, that shows how you can fool me," Miss Frizkie admitted. "But then I'd a whole lot rather have a showy set like that than some little dinky piece that wouldn't make no show at all."

"Same here," said Miss Larson. "Anybody would, of course. I guess Mame's ma's folks are pretty well fixed anyway. Her ma's brother gave her that dandy set of knives and forks that was layin' upon the dresser with the plates with the hand painted fruit design up 'em."

"Nothin' much to them," said Miss Connelly. "I guess they didn't cost more'n about five dollars. They was plated and it wasn't first-class plate, either."

"Plated?" cried Miss Frizkie. "How do you know they was plated?"

"Why, I took 'em out and looked at them," replied Miss Connelly, placidly. "You can't fool me. All the silver things there was plated except that little pickle fork that the two Ryan girls gave her."

"My! I'd hate to give such an awful little thing, anyway," murmured Miss Larson. "I think it was a lot better to club together like us girls did and give her something big. Our silver tray looked like it could have bought up everything else she had."

"Includin' the feller she married," said Miss Connelly. "Say, wasn't he the farmer, though? I bet he rented them clothes. He was afraid to sit down in 'em, and the way they fit was a fright. Did you pipe how he kep' hitchin' one shoulder all the time the preacher was talkin'?"

"No," said Miss Frizkie, "I didn't. I was too busy tryin' to count the beads of Mame's dress."

Miss Larson stuck her hands deep into her muff and yawned once more. "Well, I'm glad I went," she said, "but don't know as it was worth the money we put into that tray, even if it did look so grand. The ice cream I got wasn't no bigger'n a silver dollar."

QUINCY A. A. PRESENTED WITH SILVER CHAMPIONSHIP TROPHY

Gold Medals Also Presented Every Member of First and Second Basket Ball Teams

First Social Venture of Local Organization Unqualified Success

The first social venture of the Quincy Athletic Association, or as ex-Councilman Flynn so ably expressed it, "the initiatory bow," was made in Music hall, Thursday evening, and needless to say, the affair met with the same success as has attended the members of Quincy's foremost athletic organization in all the enterprises which they have thus far launched forth. Fully five hundred dancers were in attendance and guests from the most prominent athletic associations in the state, were numbered among those present.

Many city officials and representative citizens also graced the occasion with their presence, conspicuous among them being Mayor Eugene R. Stone, Ex-Mayor William T. Shea, Chief Frank Burrell, Lieutenant Daniel R. Mackay, and Inspector Fred Goodhue of the police department, City Messenger Harry H. Tirrell, Amos L. Litchfield, chief of fire department, and Sealer of Weights and Measures James M. Cantfill and Councilman Harry T. Boyd, Daniel F. Forde, John J. Mahoney, Harry T. Studley.

The guests of the evening included Hugh C. McGrath, the well-known N. E. A. A. U. official, Frank McGrath, official handicapper, Joseph V. Comerford, of St. Alphonsus A. A. of Roxbury, John J. Magee, of the Cathedral Y. M. C. A., Thomas J. McMakin, St. Mary Catholic Association, Boston, John Larabee, Cunningham Gymnasium, John J. Morton, Forest Hills A. A., John J. Fitzgerald, St. Joseph T. A. S., of Boston, and Alfred J. Lill, vice president of the A. A. A. U., and Thomas J. Riley, president of the same athletic body.

The music for the occasion was furnished by Joyce's five piece orchestra, which rendered a very pleasing repertoire between eight and nine o'clock. The grand march, which was then in order, was led by the president of the association, Charles C. McCue and Miss Margaret Mather, followed by Mayor Eugene R. Stone, and daughter, Miss Edith Stone; Hon. William T. Shea and Miss Margaret Bisson; Daniel E. Duggan and Miss May Keenan and about 100 couples.

"DREAM OF THE CENTURIES"

Extravaganza by Pupils of the Mass. Fields School

THE CAST

At the annual meeting of the Parents' and Teachers' Association of the Massachusetts Fields school held in the school hall Thursday evening the following officers and committee were elected:

President—Sidney J. Smith.
Vice president—Nicholas Kappler.
Secretary—S. J. Ripley.
Treasurer—Mrs. Charles Reynolds.
Executive committee—Mrs. Douglas Wetmore, Miss Florence Gammons, Miss Ruth Taylor.

In addition to the business meeting those present enjoyed a charming extravaganza given by the pupils of the Eighth Grade under the supervision of Miss Ruth Taylor entitled: "Dream of the Centuries."

This told the story of four children who find the study of history difficult and say they wish they could see the characters about which they are studying.

History overhears the remark and appearing to them says that she will grant their request. One after another she introduces prominent characters who tell their story and answer questions of the children.

The performance was well carried out by the children and ended with a grand march by the entire cast. Handsome costumes added to the effectiveness of the piece and all present joined in congratulating Miss Taylor upon her proficient performers.

The cast included:
History—Marie Poland.
School children—Dorothy Wetmore, Sadie Wheeler, George Whitcher, Ralph Lyons.
Mound Builder—Ernest Doring.
Indian Chief—Howard Bowen.
Spanish Adventurer—Joseph Barber.
Pocahontas—Ernine Baker.
Dutchman—Ross Whitehead.
Priscilla—Olive Axberg.
Quaker—Townsend Hingston.
Continental Soldier—Roy Brown.
Mrs. Robert Murray—Bertha Kennarie.
Soldier of 1812—Louis Northrup.
Columbia—Rebecca Bird.
Boy in Blue—Merrill Orswall.
Boy in Gray—Paul Brown.

A fine musical program was enjoyed before the play, consisting of vocal solos by Mrs. S. J. Ripley, accompanied by Mrs. A. H. Rogers, and instrumental selections by an orchestra composed of Miss May Critchley, George Critchley, Alexander McTear, M. F. S. 1910 and James Kennedy M. F. S. 1910.

The graduating class of the school was present as guests and assisted in serving the refreshments at the close of the evening.

The reception committee consisted of Mrs. Sidney J. Smith, Mrs. O. W. Altstein, Mrs. Charles Reynolds and Mrs. David H. Goodspeed. Mrs. Elisha Atkins and Miss Florence Gammons formed the refreshment committee.

The ushers were: Leslie Miller, Clarence Ralph, Edwin Ranagan and Carol McTear. This is the last meeting to be held until fall.

PETITIONS FOR RECOUNTS FILED

Petitions asking for a recount of practically the entire Republican vote of the city have been filed with the Registrars of voters. In Wards One and Five the petitions ask for a recount of the entire ticket. In the other wards the petitions only ask for a recount of the votes for delegates at large and alternate delegates.

This means a long and tiresome job for the Registrars for there are upwards of three thousand votes to count. This morning City Clerk Crane, who is also clerk of the Board of Registrars said that the recount would probably be held in the Council Chamber beginning at 9 o'clock Tuesday morning.

MAY SOCIAL AND SALE BY CHOIR

Pleasing Musical Program at Park and Downs Church

THE CONTRIBUTORS

A May day social and sale were held in the vestry by the choir of the Park and Downs Congregational church Thursday evening to defray the expenses of the music until the operetta to be held late this month.

A pleasing musical program was enjoyed which opened with selections by an orchestra consisting of Charles Richardson, Ernest Pletsch, Miss Louise Steffens, Miss Emma Bjorkman and Miss Henrietta Gram.

A quartet composed of Artemus Dingwell, Edwin Brown, Allen Painter, and Charles Richardson sang "The new medley."

A solo "Under the stars I met you, love" by Charles Tanner also found favor.

A mixed quartette with the selection "Where are you going my pretty maid" concluded the program. It was composed of Artemus Dingwell, Miss Marie Brown, Miss Ethel Axberg and Allen Painter.

The booths were prettily decorated and attracted many customers. In charge of the candy were Miss Ethel Axberg and Miss Lydia O'Neal while Natalie Scott presided over the ice cream.

The "musical grab" consisting of sheet music rolled so that the title did not show, was in charge of Mrs. S. M. H. Tanner and Mrs. J. A. Zwicker.

A number of "mystery" booths added to the fun of the evening. At the "wild animal" booth the person entering was brought suddenly face to face with a mirror.

"Paradise on earth" consisted of a "pair of dice" on a mound of "earth." "What we all like to do" was a "rubber."

The three booths were respectively in charge of: Miss Clara Coombs and Miss Ednah Shay for Paradise, Miss Myrtle Daniels and Miss Hazel Hendrie for "Wild Animals" and Miss Lillian Hall for the last.

BIRTHDAY PARTY.

Mrs. Harriet Joy, celebrated her 79th birthday Thursday at the home of Mrs. Beaulieu, Buckley street, entertaining her sister Mrs. Whitcomb, Mrs. Levi Stearns of this city, Mrs. Knapp of West Somerville and Mrs. G. Bemis of Melrose Highlands.

They were entertained by good music, Ice cream and cake were served and the King's Daughters remembered all the ladies with flowers and other dainties. She was the recipient of many souvenir postals.

NINETY-THIRD ANNIVERSARY

Odd Fellows Guests of Geo. L. Gill Rebekah Lodge

THE PROGRAM

The 93d anniversary of American Odd Fellowship was fittingly observed Thursday evening by George L. Gill Rebekah lodge on which occasion the members of Mt. Wollaston lodge and Manet encampment were present with their ladies.

The meeting was opened by an address of welcome by Mrs. Mary M. Smith, Noble Grand of George L. Gill lodge, Mrs. Smith also spoke briefly of the history of Odd Fellowship, particularly the Rebekah branch. She then introduced Mrs. Sadie M. Wood as chairman of the committee in charge of the evening's program, who with her able corps of assistants provided an unusually interesting program.

This opened with a violin and piano duet by brother and sister Noyes of Wollaston. They were followed by Herbert A. Clark who gave an hour's interesting program consisting of solos on various musical instruments, monologues, etc.

At the conclusion of the entertainment ice cream and cake were served which was followed by dancing until midnight.

As stated above the brothers of Mt. Wollaston lodge and Manet encampment with their ladies were guests of the evening and these two bodies were largely represented. In addition to these the occasion was graced by the presence of the deputy Mrs. Emma Downs and suite of Whitman.

DO NOT WANT LINES CHANGED

Certain residents of that district of Wollaston known as the "plain" are much exercised over the proposed change of the school district lines.

At present Hobart street forms the line between the Wollaston and Montclair districts, but with the completion of the Montclair school house it is proposed to move the line to North Central avenue.

This will compel the children living between these two streets who now attend the Wollaston school to be transferred to the Montclair building.

The parents of the children object to this as they say the road to the school leads through vacant fields and marshland and they do not want their children to traverse it.

A hearing on the question is to be held next week and it is expected that a large number of indignant parents will attend.

QUINCY MAN HIGHLY HONORED

Charles N. Baxter, one of our esteemed and highly respected citizens has been called to a lucrative and flattering position as librarian in the public library in Branford, Connecticut.

Mr. Baxter is an expert and authority on libraries having traveled extensively abroad and examined the most important libraries in Europe. He is very much of a student, having taken a course at Amhurst, afterward graduating from Harvard in 1902, with the degree A. B. S. B.

He has been librarian of the Boston Athaeneum for ten years, and it is with deep regret the trustees accept his resignation. He goes to his new position with a wide experience and is eminently qualified to assume the new and larger duties to which he is called. He is a life member of the Genealogical society of Boston, having always taken an active interest in historical researches and has also been an important factor in the social functions.

The library to which Mr. Baxter is going, is the James Blackstone Library given by Timothy Blackstone as a memorial to his father.

Mr. Baxter will be missed in Quincy as he was one of the trustees of the Thomas Crane public library.

His many friends extend congratulations, and wish him success, and the people to whom he is going are to be congratulated in securing so able and competent a librarian.

Some of the trust magnates are so far neglecting the lawsuits against them as to appear occasionally in their offices and open their roll top desks.

Clothes Are Like Character

And can't be judged at first blush!

Wherever a group of young fellows gather in these days, you're pretty certain of seeing some good looking clothes. The demands of young men in matters of cut, fabric, color, pattern, have done more to influence the making of clothes than any other one thing.

I have the kind of goods that strike the fancy of such young men; there's distinction and individuality about the goods and a finish in tailoring that gives the very desirable air of "class" which men always want, but don't always get in clothes.

You want it in yours, no matter who you are, or how old you are. You'll get it here; at

HONESTY IN EVERYTHING

It is charged that the Harvester trust milked the farmers, and anyway the farmers seem thoroughly cowed.

A Wisconsin man has paid $6000 for a calf, and now the question is does he expect his wife to get along with a $6.00 hat?

Most people will denounce Congressmen for not working twelve hours every day, but they can't spare fifteen minutes of their own time to vote at the caucus.

It is claimed the death knell of the bosses has been rung, but in our opinion it was merely the three round fire alarm vainly trying to wake up the voters.

Francisco I. Madere promises to put an end to the Mexican revolution in two months. He reminds us of a baseball manager before the season starts.

Chicago woman has sued a beauty doctor for $50,000 for spoiling her complexion. Just think of any girl with $50,000 worth of beauty seeking the services of a beauty doctor.

The English papers claim the Titanic investigation is undignified. It would certainly be dreadful if they should go around in their shirtsleeves to save people from drowning.

Tom Lawson says the "black devils of the System must be warned" but when any one is sent out to warn them,he usually ends by joining them himself.

The stock market has been advancing through all this disturbing politics, but how else could the lambs be persuaded that it is feeding time inside the shearing pen?

Gov. Dix complains that the New York legislature passed 143 measures that were unconstitutional, defectively drafted, and against public policy, but how does he expect to get people to take public office if all their privileges are taken away?

SUCCESS IN SPELL-BINDING.

It is an oddity of American slang, that the term "spell-binder" has come into general use to signify a political orator, at a time when the kind of thing suggested by the word is pretty well gone by.

People who have read carefully the political speeches of the delegate hunt of this spring have found little effort to weave eloquent spells of rhetoric.

The story is told of a political candidate who asked the chairman of the meeting as to what kind of arguments would appeal the best to the voters of that locality.

"Arguments? Good Gosh, young man, they don't want arguments, they want ye to whoop 'em up." In these days when such an avalanche of facts, lies, and misleading half truths is hurled at the voters, what they want most is the plain, unornamented, truthful kind of statement that the manager of a business corporation would hand out to the directors.

Every campaign committee used to have a brace of speakers whose addresses consisted mostly of strings of humorous stories directed at their opponents. The same anecdotes were used on both sides of the fence, being altered but slightly with changes of party labels. But often these stories produced a very different effect from what was intended.

W. D. Foulke tells how in one Indiana campaign a certain candidate was ridiculed for his home spun manners. A speaker in a remote village told how the candidate was scandalized in the congressional lobby when an attendant handed him three towels at the wash stand. "At home," the candidate was reported as saying, "we make one towel do for the whole family for a week." The speaker was surprised to see that his audience did not crack a smile. Afterward some one told him that probably most of his hearers also got along with one towel per week.

It takes a study of local points of view to be a good spell-binder. The same authority tells how he proposed to drive one night to a town a short distance from his own home to make a speech.

"Great Scott," said the committee chairman, "you don't want to come in with your own carriage and coachman. 'Twould hurt us worse than a dozen speeches. Leave the carriage out in the woods, and have the coachman come in the other end of the town."

PLAYED THE GAME TOO LONG.

From the point of view of the majority of our millionaires, Dr. D. K. Pearsons, who gave away a fortune of $5,000,000 and died poor last week, was something of a fool, thus to quit the money getting game.

Yet we venture to say that Dr. Pearsons' money produced the most satisfactory results for the expenditure. It brought friendships and affection instead of jealousy and revilings.

It is hard to account for some people's tastes. After any man by earning a few million dollars has shown his superiority in the game of business, one would think that the strife of competition would lose most of its zest. The pennant winners of the National league would not find much fun in playing with a team of High school boys. They would get much more satisfaction out of standing on the side lines and helping the little fellows to improve their game.

That was Dr. Pearsons' view of it. Having had all the fun he wanted out of money getting, he wished to help the other fellow to be more efficient. But the majority of American multimillionaires seem still to enjoy playing a game in which the score is in the ration of 10,000 to 1.

THE BETTER PART.

Fault is found with the Massachusetts legislature because it has voted for a federal income tax, and is now disposed, as some observers view the situation, to enact a law for a state tax on incomes of over $2,000.

It would be a good thing for this state if some of the energy displayed on Beacon Hill in devising means by which additional revenue may be secured were turned toward the reduction of expenditures. This would mean that tax-payers would be viewed more in the light of mortals who are entitled to a little consideration from reckless spenders of public money.—Salem News.

GOLDEN WEDDING.

Mr. and Mrs. William H. Cowen of West Wareham, parents of Mrs. Alfred E. Walker and Mrs. J. H. Gardiner, Jr. of Wollaston, observed the fiftieth anniversary of their marriage on Saturday evening at their home.

Invitations numbering 200 had been issued. The home was decorated with palms and potted plants and Mr. and Mrs. Cowen received the guests, assisted by their two daughters, Mrs. Walker and Mrs. Gardiner, and their son, William B. Cowen of Boston.

Invitations had been extended to California, New York, New Bedford, Quincy and New Jersey and among those invited were Judge H. K. Braley of Boston, Dr. Maurice H. Richardson of Boston, Hon. William Nye of Sandwich, Howard M. Dow of New York, Mrs. Charles Van Duyne, of New Jersey, W. W. Hicks of Cambridge, Peter B. Bradley of Boston, John L. Eyellen of Los Angeles and Horace P. Tobey of Wareham. Besides these, the office staff of the Bradley Fertilizer company of Boston, with whom Mr. Cowen is associated as a draughtsman, received invitations to share the pleasure of the evening with the couple.

A stringed orchestra from Brockton furnished music. Not only were the couple recipients of many congratulations, but they also received very beautiful and costly gifts.

Mr. and Mrs. Cowen enjoy the best of health, and Mr. Cowen journeys to Boston and back daily.

HUSTLING METHODISTS

Build and Completely Furnish Church Between Sunrise and Sunset

Spartanburg, S. C., May 3.—A church, not a stone or stick of which was standing at sunrise yesterday morning, was worshipped in last night by a great congregation that filled the building and overflowed into the street.

It had been announced by the members of Bethel Methodist church that they would erect a building in one day, the church to be known as El Bethel. There were those who doubted, but when more than 200 workmen, well organized, gathered at the scene yesterday morning it became apparent that the undertaking might be accomplished.

Motion picture machines played upon the crowds and upon the building at every stage of its erection. Last night the building stood completed, painted, papered, carpeted and furnished throughout.

QUINCY A. A. BALL

The grand march was cleverly executed and was greeted with loud applause.

There were twenty regular numbers on the dance order, with two extras. The principal feature of the evening was the presentation by Hugh C. McGrath, of the trophy and medals, to members of the Quincy A. A. basket ball teams, champions of the Greater Boston Basket Ball league.

Mr. McGrath paid a high tribute to the Quincy A. A. for its athletic efforts in the past and expressed a hope that their efforts would be crowned with the same success in the future. Ex-councilman Flynn, manager of the teams and secretary of the organization, responded in acceptance of the prizes in behalf of the members.

The silver trophy, mounted on mahogany wood, has the following inscription:

"N. E. A. A. A. U., 1912, Basket Ball Championship. Won by Quincy A. A."

P. J. Duggan	J. P. Kelly
J. B. Boyle	C. E. Hebert
J. J. O'Rourke	W. H. Flynn, Mgr.

In addition, every member of the first and second teams, was presented with a handsome gold medal, on which was engraved his name. The presentation took place during the short intermission at eleven o'clock

Dancing concluded the first annual party of the Quincy A. A. at midnight, at which time, those present dispersed, having acknowledged the event to have been one of the best of its nature ever held in local circles.

Charles C. McCue, the president, was in charge of the floor. The Assistant floor directors were: Patrick J. Duggan, John F. Joyce, Peter J. Farrell, James McLellan, J., William H. Flynn and Louis V. Smith.

The following were the aids: J. Bernard Boyle, Harold W. Chapman, Millard S. Chapman, Lester N. Chapman, Daniel E. Duggan, Peter J. Duggan, David K. Dackers, Frank M. Harmon, Charles E. HIS DAYS NUMBERED

Small Prospect of Richeson Being Saved From Electric Chair

Boston, May 3.—Clarence V. T. Richeson has seventeen days longer to live before his electrocution in the death chair at the Charlestown state prison; this in accordance with the sentence of the superior court which followed his confession of guilt of slaying his former sweetheart, Avis Linnell, unless Governor Foss intercedes.

There stands in the way of his electrocution only Governor Foss and his council, both of whom must agree to a commutation of the sentence before such action can be taken. Members of the council practically to a man have said that nothing whatsoever could induce them to agree to the commutation.

FISHING DORIES FOR LIFE SAVING

Edward R. Hall of Davis street, Wollaston recently completed an investigation of fishing dories with a view to their feasibility for saving life on passenger steamships.

This information was requested by a senator on the committee at Washington investigating the Titanic disaster and entailed the inspection of boats employed by the shore and banks fisheries.

Mr. Hill was assisted by H. G. Griffin of Gloucester and twenty-four hours after the request was received a full and detailed report was in the hands of the committee in Washington.

A high compliment was received for the clearness and directness of the report and for the excellent diagrams and photographs that accompanied the same.

MAY TIE UP COLLEGE

Students at Durham Institution Strike Against President

Durham, N. H., May 3.—Trustees of the New Hampshire college are on their way to this town to attempt a settlement of the strike of the students, which threatens to tie up the institution before another week.

Junior classmen at a meeting yesterday voted to strike should President Gibbs follow his ultimatum and expel the members of the sophomore and freshman classes if the students do not return to their studies next Tuesday.

Gibbs has refused flatly to reinstate William H. L. Brackett, president of the sophomore class, whose suspension Thursday culminated in a number of grievances and caused the strike. Should the junior class join the striking students only about forty out of 328 students would be left in the college.

IN BUTT'S HOME CITY

Taft Twice Near Breaking Down as He Pays Tribute to Major

Augusta, Ga., May 3.—President Taft and the city of Augusta paid tribute yesterday to Major Archibald Butt, the president's personal aide, who was lost in the wreck of the Titanic.

Augusta was Butt's home, and for several hours business was practically suspended while memorial services were conducted in a theatre. Flags were at half staff on most of the public buildings, and thousands crowded around the theatre anxious to hear President Taft speak.

The president was visibly affected by the tributes paid to Butt. There were tears in his eyes as he called up memories of the man who was his aide ever since he entered the White House and who had traveled thousands of miles with him. Mr. Taft made only a short address, but he came near breaking down twice.

BUT TWENTY-SIX IN A LIFEBOAT

One of First to Leave Titanic Was Not Half Filled

WOMAN'S SWORN TESTIMONY

Three Men In Small Craft, but One of Whom Was a Sailor—Says They Smoked, Despite Fact That There Was Ignitable Material Aboard—Smith Probing Report of Messages Being Withheld From Public

New York, May 3.—Senator Smith of Michigan, chairman of the senate committee investigating the Titanic disaster, who is in this city for two days trying to find out if news of the Titanic disaster was held back by the White Star line officials, announced that he had taken the sworn testimony of Mrs. J. S. White of Briarcliffe, N. Y., who left the Titanic in lifeboat No. 8, the second or third boat which put out from the ship.

"Mrs. White said that this boat contained twenty-three women and three men," Smith declared. "One of the men, she said, was a seaman, the other two said they had never handled an oar in their lives and knew nothing about rowing.

"Mrs. White said that these men were neither kind nor courteous; that they lighted pipes or cigarets, notwithstanding that there was ignitable material aboard, and that with this kind of men they were put out to sea and told to row direct for a light.

"I have concluded this light was the light of a schooner, mentioned by Captain Moore, who was about five or ten miles away. Mrs. White added that they kept rowing away toward this light and repeated that the boat, which had a capacity of at least sixty persons, was occupied by only sixteen."

Senator Smith said that he had talked, but to little effect, with E. J. Dunn, the New York merchant, who testified before the committee that he had been informed by the son of a Western Union operator that a message was received in New York Monday telling of the Titanic's fate.

Smith announced that he would hold no public hearing during the two days he will spend in New York, but expects to investigate chiefly the report that news of the Titanic disaster reached New York Monday morning, April 15.

The fact that the Titanic had sunk was anonunced Monday evening by P. A. S. Franklin, vice president of the White Star line, who has testified that he did not learn of the vessel's fate until a few minutes before the announcement was made.

Testimony taken yesterday by Smith did not reveal any facts tending to confirm the report that news of the Titanic disaster, which the White Star line made public Monday evening, April 15, had reached New York early that morning.

The senator had before him in private hearing John Bottomly, vice president of the American Marconi company and the operator of whom E. J. Dunn had testified in Washington, who returned to the city yesterday, Smith said, after having been absent since Sunday. These two witnesses were disposed to be recalcitrant, the senator said, and their examaination very unsatisfactory. He said he would call the operator again, when he hoped more definite information.

Bottomly, according to his stenographic testimony, disclaimed all knowledge of any such news being received here at the time reported.

UNIONISTS AFTER BRYCE

Say His Canadian Reciprocity Attitude Was "Treasonable Act"

London, May 3.—Unionist members of the house of commons are preparing to catechise the government regarding what they characterize as Ambassador Bryce's "treasonable act" in supporting the proposals made by President Taft in the matter of Canadian reciprocity, and as to whether the government proposes to recall the ambassador.

Arthur S. Benn is anxious to know if Bryce was aware that the object of reciprocity was to make Canada an "adjunct of the United States;" if his acquiescence therein was not treasonable, and whether, in view of the published correspondence between President Taft and Theodore Roosevelt, it is the intention of the government to recall the ambassador.

For Passenger Steamship Reforms

Washington, May 3.—The house committee on merchant marine and fisheries favorably reported a bill requiring all passenger vessels to keep wireless operators on duty twenty-four hours per day, and lifeboat equipment sufficient to carry all passengers and crew.

Army Officer Killed In Duel

Berlin, May 3.—Lieutenant Sprengen and an army surgeon named Bruening fought a duel with pistols at Rastatt under the regulations of a military court of honor. Sprengen was killed.

AMUSEMENTS

DOINGS ON THE STAGE OF

LOCAL AND BOSTON THEATRES

PLYMOUTH THEATRE.

The second month of the engagement of H. B. Warner in "Alias Jimmy Valentine," at the Plymouth Theatre, Boston, will begin on next Monday night. There is hardly any need to repeat that this play has captured the theatregoers of Boston in a manner that has not been equalled in years. As a matter of fact one might say that it is just the sort of play that Boston has been longing for, if the capacity houses at this new and modern playhouse, can be taken for any criterion. Full of rich humor and tender pathos and combined with a delicate love story "Alias Jimmy Valentine" proves a delightful evening's entertainment for all classes of theatregoers. The story of the bank burglar, who through the love and influence of a girl is made to reform proves the nucleus for a series of tense and exciting scenes the like of which has not been seen in Boston in years. The production is identical in every detail as when it enjoyed its long and prosperous Broadway run. Mr. H. B. Warner, who created the title role, and whose remarkably ingenuous interpretation of the character adds to the play's wonderful success, still heads the cast, while the others include Frank Monroe, Frank Kingdon, Charles Riegel, Charles Graham, Frank Allworth, William Turner, Phyllis Sherwood, Maude Gordon, Celene Kirk and others favorably known.

SHUBERT THEATRE.

A gorgeous glittering galaxy of sirens the most notable ever seen in America off Broadway, are gathered together in Lew Fields' luminous Jollie Follie "Hanky Panky," which will be seen at the Shubert Theatre for the third week, beginning Monday, May 6th, after two hundred consecutive nights in Chicago.

Among the stars in the two-act dazzle is Max Rogers, surviving member of the famous Rogers Brothers, whose comedy vogue was paralleled only by Weber & Fields themselves at the time of Gus Rogers' sudden death.

Carter De Haven, the dapper little "Fashion Plate," the suave player, and subtle comedian whose fame is international. Bobby North, a regular Weberfieldian comedian, who, within four years has starred in Zeigfeld's "Follies," headlined in vaudeville and appeared as the leading delineator in a Frohman Broadway play. Florence Moore, who with her partner William Montgomery, under the famous team name of Montgomery & Moore, became the talk of Broadway aver night, with absoleutely new and sensational conceptions of modern comedy.

The chorus, consisting of fifty selected young women of tried New York calibre, was the sensation of Chicago, and created more comment and discussion in that city than any other single group in its history.

MAJESTIC THEATRE.

The second annual engagement of the Lindsay Morison Stock Compnny at the Majestic Theatre, Boston, will begin Monday afternoon, May 6th, with a repertoire of all the latest American successes never before produced by any stock company in Boston. The opening production will be Augustus Thomas' greatest play, "The Witching Hour, inn which Mr. John Mason was seen at this Theatre two seasons ago for a long engagement to crowded houses. Among other plays already announced in the repertoire,—all new to stock in Boston—are: "Paid in Full," "The Third Degree," "The Commuters," "The Nest Egg," and "The Virginian."

The Lindsay Morison Stock Company as organized for this engagement during the spring and summer at the Majestic, includes a number of new faces, but Mr. Morison is confident that they will immediately become warm favorites. The leading lady will be Anna Cleveland who played the opposite role to Blanche Walsh in "The Other Woman." She is a cousin of the late Grover Cleveland. The leading man will be Henry Mortimer, recently seen at the Hollis Street Theatre in the juvenile role with Robert Edeson in "The Indiscretion of Truth." Rose Morison, who has been a great favorite in the Morison Stock Company for several seasons will also be a valued member of the organization. James R. Pitman will be the stage manager, assisted by William De Wolf, the same indispensable member of the company as last season. Dudley Hawley, a popular lamer of Mr. Morison's stock company at the Boston Theatre, has rejoined the organization.

CASTLE SQUARE THEATRE.

When "Seven Days" comes to the Castle Square on Monday it will bring with it an atmosphere of genuine amusement and wholesome hilarity. It is a farcical play of humorous incidents and entertaining characters, and from act to act it displays an abundance of variety and novelty. The plot involves the quarantinning of gay party in the home of one of its members, and although all the acts are comic it is the second which is the most laughable. At its opening comes the drawing of lots to see to whom shall be alloted the household labors. The care of the furnace falls to a woman, and of the laundry to a man, and the duties of chef and helpers to those who can enjoy a salad, but who could not make one if their life depended on it. Many words of praise of "Seven Days" have been written, but they may all be summed up in the one sentence: "The funniest play ever seen on the stage." "Seven Days," is in fact a play that is made wholly for laughter, and it will offer the merriest of weeks at the Castle Square. Its only problem is to make its audiences happy, and its purpose is to give continuous pleasure. The cast at the Castle Square will be carefully arranged in order to bring out its full humor, and with John Craig and Mary Young in the leading roles it promises to start off the spring season with flying colors.

B. F. KEITH'S.

Madame Bertha Kalich, the celebrated tragedienne, and one of the highest salaried stars on the American stage, comes to B. F. Keith's Theatre next week for a limited engagement of one week only. For her vaudeville tour Mme. Kalich has chosen a powerful one-act playlet entitled "A Light From St. Agnes." The locale of this drama is laid in Louisiana during the days when that colony was under French rule. Mme. Kalich has the part of "Toinette," a cool, haughty, indifferent Frenchwoman, seemingly content with her lowly station in life, and secretly rejoicing over the deatlf of St. Agnes, whose body lies in state in the chapel on the hill, within a stone's throw of her cabin. The declaration of "Toinette's" drunken, fiendish lover "Michel Kerowac," however, of his intention to steal the diamond cross from the dead woman's breast, arouses all the dormant fire and life in the Frenchwoman's soul. She resents his purpose, and under the ruse that she will cut the rope of the alarm bell so Kerowac may commit the desperate deed, arouses the sleeping village. Realizing what she has done "Kerawac" stabs "Toinette" to death. A Light From St. Agnes" has created a profound impression in every city where it has been presented. The New York critics declared Mme. Kalich never had a role that offered more splendid opportunities for emotional acting, and her support, including John Harrington as "Michel Kerowac" and John Booth as "Father Bertrand," is superb. Mme. Kalich will be surrounded by an excellent bill of features. Linden Beckwith, the "Magnetic Mistress of Melody," will sing several new songs;; Merrill and Otto present a bright skit called "After the Shower;" Charles Mack & Co. have a comedy, "A Son of Killarney;" The Holdsworths are clever musicians; Fero & Wilson are expert equilibrists, and Rice, Sully and Scott are three clowns on the horizontal bars.

BOSTON'S NEW THEATRE.

Boston's latest palace of amusement, Gordon's Olympia, on Washington street, opposite Boylston street, in the very heart of the theatrical and business section of the city, will be thrown open to the public next Monday morning, May 6, at ten o'clock. The Olympia will be found the last word in theatrical construction for not only is it magnificently equipped with every possible device for safety; built of reinforced concrete throughout, and superbly decorated; it will also have the biggest novelty and a greater convenience than is possessed by any other theatre in the city, and possibly in the country-escalators or moving stairways to every part of the house. And every seat in the house, is not only "a clear-sight seat" but it is individual. There are no benches in the balcony or the gallery, every patron has his or her own chair and there are no stairs to climb. One is carried direct to his seat. The Olympia will be popularly known as the "House with the moving stairs." And the management also confidentially asserts that it will also be as popularly known as the "House of big novelties; as the ideal popular-price theatre in Boston." The very best attractions possible to obtain in the music halls of London, Paris and Berlin and the highest class vaudeville acts from the theatres of America will always be presented at Gordon's Olympia amid surroundings of ideal comfort and beauty. Over one million and a half of dollars are represented in the construction and equipment of Gordon's Olympia. The house will be open continuously from 9 A. M. until 10.30 P. M.

TO RECEIVE RELIC OF MAINE

Past Commander Henry J. Matthews of John A. Boyd, camp United Spanish War Veterans has received word that the camp has been awarded one of the relics of the battleship Maine, which is now awaiting orders as to the proper directions for shipment. The relic awarded Camp Boyd, is a copper powder tank, and it was secured through the personal efforts of Past Commander Matthews.

This is the first of the relics of the battleship Maine to be awarded any military or naval organization in this locality.

When the relic arrives from Washington it is proposed to have some ceremony at its reception.

THOMAS DUFFY.

Thomas Duffy for fifty years a well-known resident of Quincy died at his home 27 Garfield street Thursday afvater a brief illness. Mr. Duffy well remembers the time when he and other Catholics of Quincy were obliged to walk to Randolph on Sundays to attend mass. His business was that of a landscape gardener and he was for many years employed by Hon. George Tyler Bigelow, Chief Justice of the Massachusetts Supreme court. He was a man known for sterling honesty, and as one who had the confidence of all. He leaves four children, Mrs. Catherine Curtin, wife of Officer Edward J. Curtin, Officer John P. Duffy, Thomas J. Duffy of California and Miss Julia F. Duffy.

TENNIS CLUB MAY PARTY

Novel Features at Wollaston Tennis Club Final Social

LARGELY ATTENDED

The final social gathering for the season of the Wollaston Tennis club took the form of a May party held at Wollaston hall Wednesday evening.

A large number attended and enjoyed the various novel Germans prepared by the committee consisting of Roy C. Baker, G. Ernest Carr and Harold Green.

The evening opened with a cut card German in which partners were found by matching up the halves of an ordinary playing card.

The Serpentine German was one of the prettiest and most novel of all. For this the ladies made a line on one side of the hall and the gentlemen on the other. Long tissue paper streamers were thrown by the ladies the end of the streamer being selected by the gentleman at random to be followed up, a fair partner being found on the other end.

For the Rover German four gentlemen were without partners and chose whatever dancer they wished by sprinkling confetti on her.

The remainder of the evening was taken up with ordinary dancing, a detached dance order, being used, and all present joined in pronouncing it most enjoyable.

IDEAL HOMES EXPOSITION.

The second Boston Real Estate and Ideal Homes Exposition will be held in Mechanics building, May 9 to 18. The first Exposition, held in Horticultural hall last April, was such a decided success that it was necessary to engage Mechanics building for this year.

The exhibits will consist of bird's-eye views of land suitable for ideal homes, showing landscape characteristics, development, etc.; concrete, asbestos and other fireproof building materials; roofings; latest improved lighting, heating, ventilating and plumbing conveniences; ideal portable summer homes, gardens, camps, children's playhouses, etc.; canvas three-room bungalow, completely furnished; portable greenhouse, fully equipped, to sell for $250, the price including benches, ventilating rods, heating pipes and boiler, complete; summer furnishings and decorations; rustic and English type of garden furniture, etc.

The feature exhibit will be the ideal bungalow, full size, completely finished and furnished in six days. Other important exhibits will be an ideal children's playground, an ideal garden for an ideal home, portable poultry house, etc. The leading architects of Greater Boston will exhibit plans of ideal houses, gardens and houseboats.

The attractions will consist of a children's theatre, with Don the world's regatest educated pony, Punch and Judy, the picture play of Cinderella, etc.; An animated picture theatre and lectures on improving the home and home grounds, ideal suburban developement, interior summer decorations, historical colonial homes of New England, etc. Ideal home concerts will be provided by George Lincoln Parker and music will be furnished by Edna Frances Simmons' Women's orchestra. A department of much interest to ladies will be the domestic science, which will show exhibits and instructive talks of labor saving devices in the home. From ten to twelve women's clubs and organizations will be invited to attend the Exposition daily as guests of the management.

Honest Election.

Much of the grim humor one hears among practical politicians has to do with these incorruptibles who owe their positions to corruption. A case in point is that of a member of the supreme court of a western state, who began his career by running for congress. The story was told to me by one of the workers who secured his election.

"One day the candidate met me," said my informant, to whom I had been introduced by a practical politician, as he took me into his confidence and began to talk as one briber might to another, "and asked me how things were going in a certain district.

"'Fine,' I replied. 'You will have a good majority there.'

"'I am not surprised,' he said enthusiastically. 'When I was speaking there I made the best speech that I made in the whole campaign.'"

The worker nudged me as he said: "It cost us just $7,000 to win that particular district for him, and he thought his speech did it."—The Forum.

TITANIC SEAMEN'S MEMORIAL.

For eighty-four years the American Seamen's Friend Society has been a marine Red Cross Society with a chain of stations along the Atlantic and Pacific Coasts ready to minister to the unfortunate sailors, cast on the shores, shipwrecked and destitute, in need of bread and a friend. At its headquarters, it has what has been designated an "agony book," which shows names of ships, and of men helped in their day of stress. When the Republic sank a few years ago the Society rendered timely aid to the brave crew. In relief work for the Titanic's crew, with the co-operation of the Women's Relief Committee, to use the words of a Boston paper, "it had a splendid chance to show that they stand for practical religion and nobly did it rise to it." Through the generous co-operation of the Ladies' Relief Committee, it clothed able-bodied seamen, stokers, oilers and stewards to the number of 139 of the surviving members of the ship's company.

It is eminently fitting that some memorial should be created to keep alive the memory of the heroism of the passengers and crew of the ill-fated Titanic, and doubtless several of them will be erected. Perhaps some of the passengers who passed through the harrowing experience may have it in their hearts to do something to record their gratitude and to help the seafarers in some other way than immediate relief. At the request of some of the Titanic's crew and the friends of seamen, a fund has been started for a Titanic Memorial to the crew and all who perished in the great ship. The memorial will take the form of a tablet in the American Seamen's Institute, 507 West Street, New York City, where the men who perished resorted in New York. It was their Clubhouse; in its concert hall they had sung, and in its game room they played, and in its Church of the Sea they worshipped.

The proposed tablet will be a simple modest one, as the sailors feel that the best memorial would be the relief of other unfortunate seamen who escape the perils of the deep. And a Titanic memorial should be something practical, that is of genuine service to seamen in the pursuit of their calling, and a Titanic Memorial Fund has been started, the interest to be used for the relief of shipwrecked seamen of all nationalities cast up on the shores of America.

Contributions should be marked Titanic Memorial, and sent to the American Seamen's Friend Society, 76 Wall Street, New York City.

It is not generally known that the life of the average seaman is short and vicarious and averages only twelve years. When the sea is in a hot mood to destroy, and when casualties and accidents happen, as they do with tragic frequency, the plain sailor leads the procession of those who die in fidelity to their calling.

The six hundred passengers who were saved from the Titanic were rescued by the plain sailors who handled the boats in a seamanlike manner When the ship went down, the lifeboats, managed by about 200 seamen were the last resource and ultimate salvation. What took place on a gigantic scale, and is classed as the greatest marine catastrophe, is no uncommon thing, only the loss of life and property is smaller. For every day in the year somewhere on the restless sea, two ships—and sometimes three—are snatched in greed by the ocean's power, and claimed as a toll by the sea reckoned tamed.

Hidden Women of Persia.

Should the women of Persia ever get a vote, they will doubtless see to it that the lot of their sex is considerably improved, for at the present time they are regarded as nonentities. A husband in Persia never speaks of his wife to his acquaintances, and, if obliged to mention her, it is by some other term than wife, as "mother of my son," of "my house." She must not exist for anyone but her husband and from all others she must be hidden—non-existing. For this reason when the harems of governors or very high personages pass through the streets of Persia the men whom they meet either turn their backs or slip down a by-street or into some convenient doorway.

On passing a European, if sure that none of her co-religionists see her, a woman, particularly if she be young and good looking, will often raise her veil, from under which a pair of dark eyes follow the stranger with a curious gaze.

Maidens wishing to get married visit the tomb of some sacred woman. There are many such tombs. Marriages are contracted very early. Sometimes, owing to family reasons, one hears of a youth of 15 or 16 married to a girl much older. The marriage for a girl is fixed at 9.—Brooklyn Eagle.

—In these days of investigations, how will it do, by and by, for an investigation to be made into the why and wherefore of burdening coal consumers with an additional tax of 50 cents, say, on a ton of coal, when the advance to the miner may represent about two cents a ton.—Salem News.

MOTHER'S DAY.

Mothers Honored in This and Other Lands.

At the inception of the Mother's day work, it was not anticipated that men and men's organizations would be leaders in making the day international, but Mother's day has not had to be argued into men's hearts! It has appealed with tender impressiveness to all who respect family ties.

There is no mawkish sentiment in a movement that deepens a man's love, gratitude and allegiance to the mother of his heart.

Y. M. C. A. in Australia.

A tribute to mothers to which attaches a curious, as well as very appreciative interest—because it comes from the other side of the globe, is an appeal sent out by the Y. M. C. A. of Sydney, Australia, to promote Mother's day in that distant land.

Every American who reads the extracts from it will surely be impressed with the fact that Mother's day stands not only for deeper filial affection, chivalry, patriotism, and uplift, but also for closer brotherhood between men and men's organizations, entering into the spirit of its observance.

The leaflet reads in part as follows: —Honor to Whom Honor Is Due— Mother's Day, Second Sunday in May. In honor of the best mother that ever lived—your mother.

The object of the day is a world-wide emphasis of the love and reverence men and women owe to a good mother.

No nation is greater than its mothers. They have ever been the most loyal and self-sacrificing of patriots. Their influence has inspired the superbest paintings, the loftiest literature, the sweetest songs, and the noblest achievements. From slumdom to palace, a pure mother wields a supreme sceptre.

True motherhood evokes homage of every clime, country, class, creed, and its world-wide honoring to light the flame of brotherhood in stranger and in foe.

The observance of the day: Honor your mother, or her memory, through some distinct act of kindness—a visit a letter. Live this day as your mother would have you live it. Have her as your guest of honor. Write her a letter of praise and gratitude. If she be not living, in glad recognition of her work, gladden the heart of some other mother. Stamp the day with kindness.

Wear a white flower, preferably a white carnation—it is Mother's day special flower. Its whiteness stands for purity; its form, beauty; its fragrance, love; its wide field of growth, charity; its lasting qualities, faithfulness. Give one to some one else to wear—remembering the sick and unfortunate in hospitals, homes and prisons.

Make the day known in churches, Sunday schools, day schools, colleges, fraternal organizations and societies, orphanages, hospitals, prisons, asylums, etc.

Strength in the idea: It is not a day of idle sentimentalism. It evokes a renewal of allegiance to our highest ideals of womanhood, and will contribute to the sanctity of home and motherhood, and a strengthening of domestic and national integrity.

First introduced in Australia last year, and wherever observed proved of great and lasting volue.

Whatever may be said of the Y. M. C. A. as an institution, if it but inculcates into the mind of the Australian young man of today nothing more than an exalted view of his mother, it will have achieved a noble purpose. On Sunday afternoon, in a crowded lecture hall of the Y. M. C. A., a stirring address was given on the "Hallmark of a Gentleman." *  The day was rightly called Mother's day. It has become a day set apart for the sacred memory of mother.—Sydney Telegraph.

Y. M. C. A. in the U. S.

But the men of these countries do not stand alone as leaders of the Mother's day movement in the "Association World." From the inception of the first public observance in the United States, Editor Frank W. Ober of the Y. M. C. A. Association Men, New York City, and Hon. A. R. Talbot of Lincoln (Neb.) Y. M. C. A., have been leaders through their active influence.

Mr. Ober of "Association Men" (the official magazine of the Y. M. C. A.) not only made the day known in this and other countries, but also advocated observance through personal letters sent out from his offices to various associations.

Mr. Talbot's activities did not end with his Mother's day proclamation to the 1,250,000 members of Modern Woodmen of America, of which he is Head Consul, but extended to the many sources all over the country where his influence stands for good.

Mother's day has been observed in Alaska, Philippine Islands, Canada, Mexico, Europe, Madagascar, Fiji Islands, Barbadoes, China, Japan, Korea, Australia, Africa, Palestine.

For You.

Can not you begin now to plan for the observance of Mother's day in your home, your church, your business, your societies, or your schools? An official badge, program, etc., are gotten out for Mother's day.

Nothing but good can come from a day inspiring men and women with a realization of their own personal responsibility and personal power to right the wrongs of motherhood and childhood in their own homes and in their own communities.

This Mother's day is such a personal day that it matters not who you are or where you live, you can help for its wide observance the second Sunday in May in honor of your home and all homes of the land.

NINETEEN SPOONS FOUND IN STOMACH

Result of Operation on Inmate of an Insane Asylum

Bangor, Me., May 3.—The mysterious disappearance of teaspoons from one of the tables in a ward of the Eastern Maine Insane hospital has just been cleared up by the discovery that one of the patients was swallowing them.

Dr. Mason and Dr. Sanger removed from the patient's stomach nineteen spoons in the operation they performed. Of these, seventeen belonged to the hospital and two had evidently been swallowed before the man was committed.

BRIEFS

The City Council Committee on Public Buildings met Thursday evening.

The W. Y. Ks. are to hold a dancing party this evening at Alpha hall and the affair promises to be a successful one.

Several papers were in circulation in City Square Thursday, asking for recounts of the votes cast at the primary caucuses.

Through a misunderstanding the lecture by Miss Randall on May 9th was announced as being for the benefit of the Quincy Women's club whereas it is for the Junior Alliance of First church.

The new court house building on Coddington street will be open for public inspection Saturday. The building is an exceptionally fine one and a credit to the architect, William Chapman of Wollaston.

The annual Sunday school party of First church is to be held this afternoon and evening beginning at four o'clock with games, supper and a good time in the chapel for the young children, ending with a dance until eight o'clock at Colonial hall. At eight o'clock there will be a dance for the adult members of the school.

SCHOOL MUSIC.

The music at the coming grammar and High school graduations will be on a higher scale than anything ever attempted before in the Quincy schools. Miss Perkins, the supervisor has already commenced rehearsals for the musical program of the graduations and it promises to be a rare treat. Opera music will be sung by the grammar school pupils while at the high school a cantata will be presented. The grammar graduation will be held June 14, and the High school June 19.

TAFT IS SURE OF NOMINATION

According to Figures Issued by His Headquarters

ALREADY SURE OF 491 VOTES

Number Necessary to Nominate Is 540, Thus Making but Forty-Nine More Necessary to Win—Roosevelt Needs 313 of the 314 Delegates Yet to Be Elected—Several States Have Not Yet Voted

Washington, May 3.—Theodore Roosevelt will be eliminated as a possible nominee of the Republican national convention at Chicago the moment President Taft or Senators La Follette or Cummins elect two more delegates against him, according to the calculations at the Taft headquarters.

In other words, Roosevelt needs 313 more delegates to control the Republican national convention at Chicago and there remain to be elected only 314 delegates, about whose position, as between the candidates, the people have not already spoken.

Both Arkansas and Nevada are ready to act finally for Taft, and these have been included in the tables showing that Roosevelt has reached the end of his political rope in this fight so far as there is any hope of his receiving the nomination at Chicago, according to the Taft managers.

On the contrary, Taft needs only 73 more delegates, not counting Arkansas and Nevada, and only 49 more, including in his table these two states. To control the national convention he needs only about one in every six delegates yet to be elected, while Roosevelt is absolutely eliminated if he loses only two out of the total of 314 yet to be chosen. "The utter hopelessness of the Roosevelt fight is apparent," says the president's supporters.

The following figures indicate the situation:

Number of delegates to national convention	1078
Necessary to nominate	540
Delegates elected	740
Delegates to be elected	338

Of the delegates elected Taft has 467, Roosevelt has 227, La Follette has 33, Cummins has 10. Total, 740.

Of the delegates to be elected Taft needs 73, Roosevelt needs 313, La Follette needs 504 and Cummins needs 530.

The state of Arkansas, 18 votes, and Nevada, 6 votes, are now ready to act finally, both being for President Taft. This means 24 additional votes for Taft and makes the real Taft figures as follows: For Taft 491. Taft needs 49.

Adding Arkansas and Nevada to the Taft total would increase the total of delegates elected to 764 and reduce the number to be elected to 314. It affects the Roosevelt table as follows: Number of delegates yet to be elected 314. Roosevelt needs 313. Hence Roosevelt has already practically lost control of the convention.

The states yet to elect delegates, not including Arkansas and Nevada, are as follows: Alabama, 2; Arizona, 6; California, 26; Idaho, 8; Kansas, 16; Maryland, 16; Michigan, 4; Minnesota, 24; Missouri, 4; Montana, 8; New Jersey, 28; North Carolina, 22; Ohio, 48; Oklahoma, 2; South Dakota, 10; Tennessee, 6; Texas, 40; Utah, 8; West Virginia, 16; Wyoming, 6; Washington, 14; total, 314.

BASIS FOR FUTURE FIGHT

Taft Forces In Massachusetts to Ask For a Recount

Boston, May 3.—Petitions will be filed today by the Taft forces throughout the state asking for a recount of the vote in the state at the presidential primary.

It is expected that the recount will show that the number of ballots thrown out because of nine crosses marked for Frank Seiberlich and the regular Taft ticket headed by Senator Crane would be sufficient, if counted, to have elected the Taft ticket for delegates-at-large.

The recount is asked for so that the Taft forces will have some basis on which to make a fight for the seating or their delegates at the national convention.

DELEGATION INSTRUCTED

Connecticut Democrats Name Baldwin as Choice For President

Bridgeport, Conn., May 3.—The Democracy of Connecticut as represented in the state convention instructed its delegation to present the name of Governor Baldwin as a "favorite son" to the national convention at Baltimore, and urge upon that body his nomination for the presidency.

Underwood Carries Georgia

Atlanta, May 3.—Counting of the ballots cast in the Democratic presidential primary shows that Underwood carried about 100 out of the 146 counties in the state by a plurality of 8577. Harmon polled 189 and Clark 692 votes.

SOON BEGIN FIGHT FOR SLATE CONTROL

Roosevelt Men Going After Bay State's "Old Guard"

Boston, May 3.—A special dispatch to The Post from Oyster Bay says:

Two important developments in connection with the political situation in Massachusetts occurred here as the result of a conference which Colonel Roosevelt held with Matthew Hale, the manager of the Roosevelt campaign in the Bay State; Arthur D. Hill, one of the prominent members of the Massachusetts Roosevelt committee, and others.

One of these developments was the absolute insistence of Roosevelt that the Roosevelt delegates-at-large elected in last Tuesday's primaries shall recede from the position that they have taken and vote for President Taft in the Republican convention.

The other was the definite decision of the progressive Republicans who have backed the Roosevelt campaign to fight Senator Crane for re-election, and to make an effort to wrest control of the state and various city organizations from the "old guard" this fall. It is understood that Roosevelt will support the progressives in such a battle.

DEATH OF DAVENPORT

School of Observation Was Academy of the Noted Cartoonist

New York, May 3.—Homer Davenport, one of the most famous of America's cartoonists, died at his home here, aged 45. He had been ill only five days.

Davenport was one of the quaintest and most original characters in his profession. He never attended an art school. The school of observation was his academy. Yet, without training, he leaped into national prominence in four years.

Politicians feared the power of his pencil, yet were compelled to laugh at the very cartoons which were hurrying them to their political grave. It was this faculty that established for Davenport a unique place in his profession.

CARGO MAKES CREW SICK

Unable to Withstand Combination of Yellow Pine and Creosote

Providence, May 3.—With the captain and eight members of her crew in need of medical attendance, the four-masted schooner Tifton of Boston arrived from Jacksonville, Fla.

A cargo of 640 great yellow pine piles, saturated in creosote, stowed away in her holds and piled high on deck, was the cause of the illness of the men. The fumes from the creosote permeated the vessel from stem to stern and contaminated all the food so that it produced sickness.

Railroads Choose Willard

New York, May 3.—Daniel Willard, president of the Baltimore and Ohio railroad, was named by the railroads as a member of the arbitration board which will settle the engineers' wage demands.

The KITCHEN CUPBOARD

FRESH STRAWBERRIES.

FRESH strawberries! Well, isn't it nice that they are in the markets again? No fruit is more popular. The berries deserve it, for they are very wholesome.

If you want a nice pastry for a bride's spring luncheon try strawberry hearts. Here's a way of making them:

Bridal Hearts.

Strawberry Hearts.—Roll some puff paste very thick and, with a heart shaped cutter, stamp out, chill and bake. Take from the oven, cut out the centers of the hearts and fill with fresh berries coated with powdered sugar. Decorate with whipped cream.

Strawberry Sponge.—Bake some sponge cake in thin sheets and cut out in fancy shapes. Hull, wash and cut in half some large firm strawberries. Dip in powdered sugar and lay on pieces of sponge cake. Cover each with another layer of cake. Decorate the tops with whipped cream and whole strawberries.

Dainty Cakes.

Strawberry Gems.—Take a granite saucepan and into it put a half pint of milk, a scant quarter of a pound of butter and let boil. Add a cup of sifted flour and boil for two minutes, stirring all the time. It should be quite smooth when taken from the fire.

Taking one at a time, beat in four eggs when the mixture has had time to cool. Butter tins and drop by spoonfuls on these. Bake in a hot oven twenty minutes.

While still warm coat with strawberry icing made by adding strained strawberry juice to ordinary icing. When cold break a gem, fill with sweetened strawberries, either crushed or whole, and serve.

A Fruit Mold.

Strawberries and Rice.—Boil a half cup of cleaned and well washed rice in two cups of milk. When it is soft pass it through a sieve.

Stir in the strained juice of half a lemon, a cup of powdered sugar and a half teaspoonful of salt. Beat the whites of six eggs stiffly and fold into the mixture.

Butter a border mold, one that provides for a hollow space in the center, and pour the mixture into it. Bake for thirty minutes in a moderate oven. Turn out on a dish and fill the hollow center with berries dipped in powdered sugar. The top may be ornamented with whipped cream and strawberries.

COOKING BEEF HEARTS.

BEEF heart is inexpensive. When well cooked it is a nourishing and appetizing meat. Baked beef heart tastes very much like plain roast beef, and when you consider that one large enough to do an ordinary family may be purchased for about a quarter the economy is obvious.

Baked With Gravy.

Baked Beef Heart.—Wash the heart carefully to remove all the blood; then wipe it dry and stuff with a plain bread or a sausage stuffing.

Place it in a pan with slices of pork skewered on the outside (if the plain dressing is used) and add a little water to keep the pan from burning.

Bake about one hour in a hot oven, basting every ten minutes with the drippings in the pan. A thickening gravy should be served with it.

The dressing may be made of breadcrumbs seasoned with onion juice, parsley and minced pepper. A large heart should be parboiled before stuffing and baking.

Mock Rabbit.

Sliced Beef Heart.—This tastes something like rabbit. The heart should be soaked and washed and parboiled very carefully. Stuff it with forcemeat. Sew it up and roast it. When done set it in a deep dish and pour some thick gravy made in the dripping pan over it.

When cold slice the heart with the stuffing and heat in good thick brown gravy in which some red currant jelly is dissolved.

Stewed In Stock.

Stewed Heart.—Clean the heart, cut in pieces and, after washing well, soak for several hours in milk. Then place in a stewpan, add a pint of stock, two slices of lemon, a bay leaf and stew slowly. When tender season with a bit of red pepper pod, a half teaspoonful of salt and a half saltspoonful of pepper. Thicken the gravy with a tablespoonful of browned flour. Then cook ten minutes more and serve.

Highly Spiced.

Spiced Beef Heart.—This is said to be one of the most satisfactory ways of cooking a heart. Clean a moderate sized heart, taking all the muscles from the inside, and wash free of all traces of blood. Then mix a teaspoonful of allspice, a half teaspoonful of cinnamon, a half teaspoonful of cloves, a quarter of a teaspoonful of nutmeg, a little pepper and four tablespoonfuls of vinegar. The spices should be ground ones. Rub some of this over the heart. Pour what is left inside and let it stay there for six or eight hours or overnight. Then bake the heart.

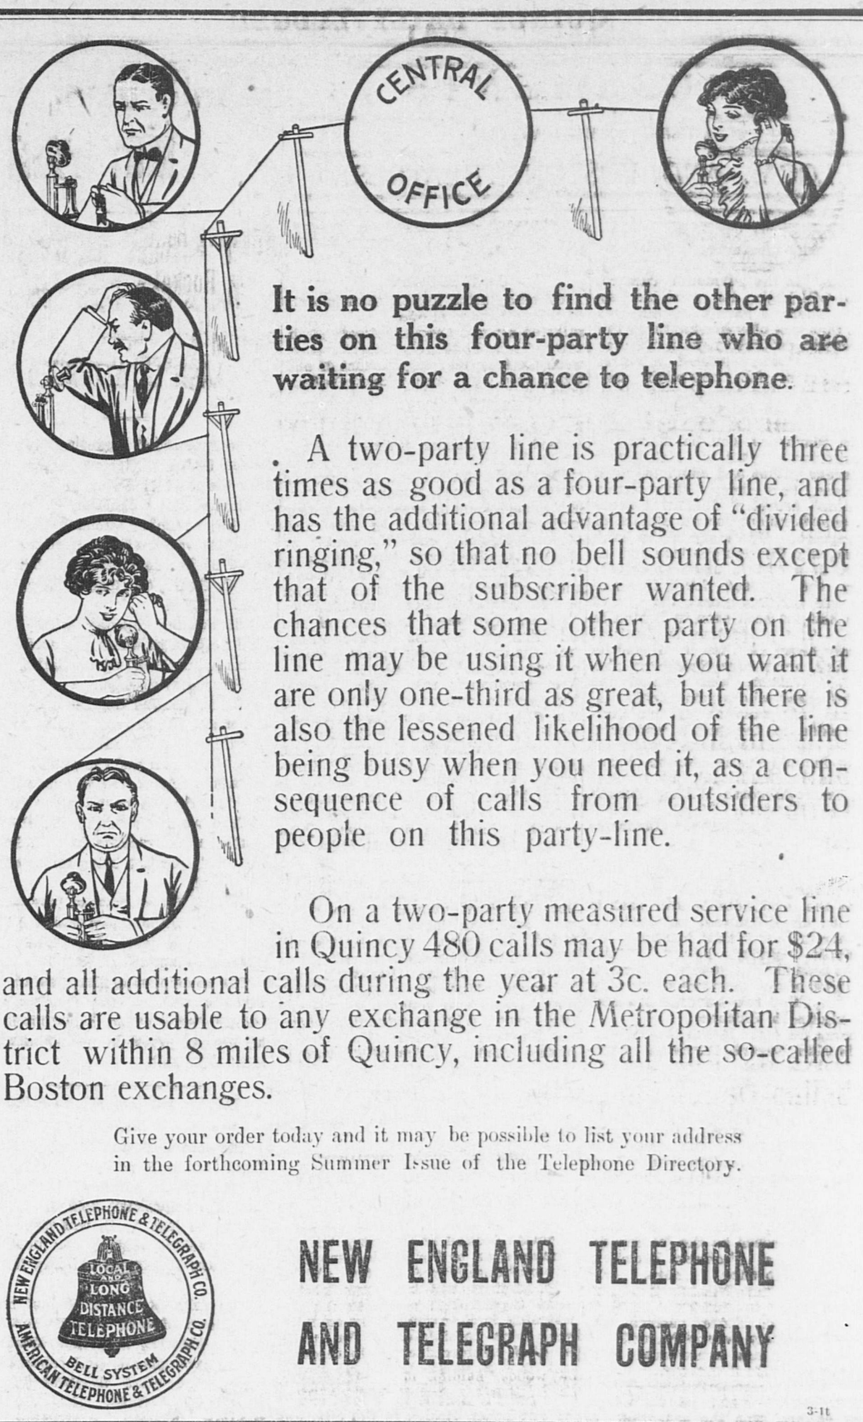
Foss Vetoes Train Crew Bill

Boston, May 3.—Governor Foss vetoed the full train crew bill, in a message sent to the house. The action is based on the ground that the executive is unable to decide whether the number of men required on a train is proper or not.



It is no puzzle to find the other parties on this four-party line who are waiting for a chance to telephone.

A two-party line is practically three times as good as a four-party line, and has the additional advantage of "divided ringing," so that no bell sounds except that of the subscriber wanted. The chances that some other party on the line may be using it when you want it are only one-third as great, but there is also the lessened likelihood of the line being busy when you need it, as a consequence of calls from outsiders to people on this party-line.

On a two-party measured service line in Quincy 480 calls may be had for $24, and all additional calls during the year at 3c. each. These calls are usable to any exchange in the Metropolitan District within 8 miles of Quincy, including all the so-called Boston exchanges.

Give your order today and it may be possible to list your address in the forthcoming Summer Issue of the Telephone Directory.

SYNOPSIS.

CHAPTER I.—The scene at the opening of the story is laid in the library of an old worn-out southern plantation, known as the Barony. The place is to be sold, and its history and that of the owners, the Quintards, is the subject of discussion by Jonathan Crenshaw, a business man, a stranger known as Bladen, and Bob Yancy, a farmer, when Hannibal Wayne Hazard, a mysterious child of the old southern family, makes his appearance. Yancy tells how he adopted the boy.

CHAPTER II.—Nathaniel Ferris buys the Barony, but the Quintards deny any knowledge of the boy. Yancy to keep Hannibal. Captain Murrell, a friend of the Quintards, appears and asks questions about the Barony.

CHAPTER III.—Trouble at Scratch Hill, Yancy's home, when Hannibal is kidnaped by Dave Blount, Captain Murrell's agent. Yancy overtakes Blount, gives him a thrashing and secures the boy.

CHAPTER IV.—Yancy is served with a warrant for assaulting Blount. Yancy appears before Squire Balaam, and is discharged with costs for the plaintiff.

CHAPTER V.—Betty Malroy, a friend of the Ferrises, has an encounter with Captain Murrell, who forces his attentions on her, and is rescued by Bruce Carrington, who threatens to whip the captain.

CHAPTER VI.—Betty sets out for her Tennessee home. Carrington takes the same stage. Yancy and Hannibal disappear, with Murrell on their trail. He overtakes them in the mountains of Tennessee. Murrell gets Yancy drunk and stabs him in a fight that followed. Hannibal escapes in a canoe.

CHAPTER VII.—Hannibal arrives at the home of Judge Slocum Price.

CHAPTER VIII.—The Judge recognizes in the boy, the grandson of an old time friend. Murrell arrives at Judge's home. Hannibal hears of the finding of Yancy's body. Price arrested as counterfeiter.

CHAPTER IX.—Cavendish family on raft rescue Yancy, who is apparently dead. Price breaks jail.

CHAPTER X.—Betty and Carrington arrive at Belle Plain.

CHAPTER XI.—Hannibal's rifle discloses some startling things to the Judge. Hannibal and Betty meet again.

CHAPTER XII.—Murrell arrives in Belle Plain. Is playing for big stakes.

CHAPTER XIII.—Yancy awakes from long dreamless sleep on board the raft.

CHAPTER XIV.—Judge Price makes startling discoveries in looking up land titles. Charley Norton, a young planter, who assists the judge, is mysteriously assaulted.

CHAPTER XV.—Norton informs Carrington that Betty has promised to marry him. Carrington bids Betty good-bye. Norton is mysteriously shot.

CHAPTER XVI.—More light on Murrell's plots. He plans uprising of negroes.

CHAPTER XVII.—The Judge and Hannibal visit Betty.

CHAPTER XVIII.—Betty is told why Norton was killed and leaves Belle Plain, taking Hannibal with her. The carriage is held up in the woods.

CHAPTER XIX.—Betty and Hannibal are made prisoners in a lonely cabin.

CHAPTER XX.—Murrell appears at the cabin and shows his hand.

CHAPTER XXI.—The Judge hears of the mysterious disappearance of Betty and Hannibal.

CHAPTER XXII.—The Judge takes charge of the situation, and search for the missing ones is instituted.

CHAPTER XXIII.—Carrington visits the judge and allies are discovered.

CHAPTER XXIV.—Judge Price visits Colonel Fentress, where he meets Yancy and Cavendish. Learns things of importance about the boy, dashes a glass of whisky into the colonel's face and a duel is arranged.

CHAPTER XXVIII.—Carrington finds Betty and Hannibal, and a fierce gun fight follows. Yancy appears and assists in the rescue.

CHAPTER XXIX.—Bruce Carrington and Betty come to an understanding.

CHAPTER XXV.—Murrell is arrested for negro stealing and his bubble bursts.

CHAPTER XXVI.—The Judge and Mahaffy discuss the coming duel.

CHAPTER XXVII.—Carrington makes frantic search for Betty and the boy.

CHAPTER XXX.—The Judge receives an important letter.

CHAPTER XXXI.—Solomon Mahaffy's last fight. Fights duel for the judge and is killed.

CHAPTER XXXII.—Hannibal proves to be Judge's grandson, and told the story of his life.

CHAPTER XXXIII.—Murrell's friends attempt to free him. Judge frustrates plans.

CHAPTER XXXIV.

Good Times Coming.

It was not strange that a number of gentlemen in and about Raleigh yielded to an overmastering impulse to visit newer lands, nor was it strange that the initial steps looking toward the indulgence of their desires should have been taken in secrecy. Mr. Pegloe was one of the first to leave; Mr. Saul had informed him of the judge's declared purpose of shooting him on sight. Even without this useful hint the tavern-keeper had known that he should experience intense embarrassment in meeting the judge; this was now a dreary certainty.

"You reckon he means near all he says?" he had asked, his fat sides shaking.

"I'd take his word a heap quicker than I would most folks'," answered Mr. Saul with conviction.

Pegloe promptly had a sinking spell. He recalled the snuffing of the candles by the judge, an extremely depressing memory under the circumstances: also the reckless and headlong disregard of consequences which had characterized so many of that gentleman's acts, and his plans shaped themselves accordingly, with this result; that when the judge took occasion to call at the tavern, and the hostile nature of his visit was emphasized by the cautious manner of his approach, he was greatly shocked to discover that his intended victim had sold his business overnight for a small lump sum to Mr. Saul's brother-in-law, who had appeared most opportunely with an offer.

Pegloe's flight created something of a sensation, but it was dwarfed by the sensation that developed a day or so later when it became known that Tom Ware and Colonel Fentress had likewise fled the country. Still later, Fentress' body, showing marks of violence, was washed ashore at a woodyard below Girard. It was conjectured that he and Ware had set out from The Oaks to cross the river; there was reason to believe that Fentress had in his possession at the time a considerable sum of money, and it was supposed that his companion had murdered and robbed him. Of Ware's subsequent career nothing was ever known.

These were, after all, only episodes in the collapse of the Clan, sporific manifestations of the great work of disintegration that was going forward and which the judge, more than any other, perhaps, had brought about. This was something no one questioned, and he quickly passed to the first phase of that unique and peculiar esteem in which he was ever after held. His fame widened with the succeeding suns; he had offers of help which impressed him as so entirely creditable to human nature that he quite lacked the heart to refuse them, especially as he felt that in the improvement of his own condition the world had bettered itself and was moving nearer those sound and righteous ideals of morality and patriotism which had never lacked his indorsement, no matter how inexpedient it had seemed for him to put them into practice. But he was not diverted from his ultimate purpose by the glamour of a present popularity; he was able to keep his bleared eyes resolutely fixed on the main chance, namely the Fentress estate and the Quintard lands. It was highly important that he should go east to South Carolina to secure documentary evidence that would establish his own and Fentress' identity; to Kentucky, where Fentress had lived prior to his coming to Tennessee.

Early in November the judge set out by stage on his journey east; he was accompanied by Yancy and Hannibal, from neither of whom could he bring himself to be separated; and as the woods, flaming now with the torch of frost, engulfed the little town, he turned in his seat and looked back. He had entered it by that very road, a beggar on foot and in rags; he was leaving it in broadcloth and fine linen, visible tokens of his altered fortunes. More than this, he could trust his hands deep down into his once empty pockets and hear the clink of gold and silver. The judge slowly withdrew his eyes from the last gray roof that showed among the trees, and faced the east and the future with a serenely confident expression.

* * * *

Betty Malroy and Carrington had ridden into Raleigh to take leave of their friends. They had watched the stage from sight, had answered the last majestic salute the judge had given them across the swaying top of the coach before the first turn of the road hid it from sight, and then they had turned their horses' heads in the direction of Belle Plain.

"Bruce, do you think Judge Price will ever be able to accomplish all he hopes to?" Betty asked when they had left the town behind. She drew in her horse as she spoke, and they went forward at a walk under the splendid arch of the forest and over a carpet of vivid leaves.

"I reckon he will, Betty," responded Carrington. Unfavorable as had been his original estimate of the judge's character, events had greatly modified it.

"He really seems quite sure, doesn't he?" said Betty.

"There's not a doubt in his mind," agreed Carrington.

He was still at Belle Plain, living in what had been Ware's office, while the Cavendishes were domiciled at the big house. He had arranged with the judge to crop a part of that hopeful gentleman's land the very next season; the fact that a lawsuit intervened between the judge and possession seemed a trifling matter, for Carrington had become infected with the judge's point of view, which did not admit of the possibility of failure; but he had not yet told Betty of his plans. Time enough for that when he left Belle Plain.

His silence concerning the future had caused Betty much thought. She wondered if he still intended going south into the Purchase; she was not sure but it was the dignified thing for him to do. She was thinking of this now as they went forward over the rustling leaves, and at length she turned in the saddle and faced him.

"I am going to miss Hannibal dreadfully—yes, and the judge, and Mr. Yancy!" she began.

"I am to be missed, too, am I, Betty?" he inquired, leaning toward her.

"You, Bruce?—Oh, I shall miss you, too, dreadfully—but then, perhaps in five years, when you come back—"

"Five years!" cried Carrington, but he understood something of what was passing in her mind, and laughed shortly. "Five years, Betty?" he repeated, dwelling on the numeral.

Betty hesitated and looked thoughtful. Presently she stole a surreptitious glance at Carrington from under her long lashes, and went on slowly, as though she were making careful choice of her words.

"When you come back in three years, Bruce—"

Carrington still regarded her fixedly. There was a light in his black eyes that seemed to penetrate to the most secret recesses of her heart and soul.

"Three years, Betty?" he repeated again.

HEART BEATS AFTER DEATH

Startling Result of Experiment In Rockefeller Research

FRAGMENTS IN GLASS JARS

Dr. Carrel Announces That Tissue Kept Pulsating For Two Months In Suitable Media—Life of Tissue May

New York, May 3.—Dr. Alexis Carrel of the Rockefeller Institute for Medical Research, whose surgical discoveries and innovations in operative procedure have amazed the scientific world at frequent intervals in the past few years, now announces that he has been able to keep pieces of the heart tissue pulsating rhythmically outside the organism from which they were taken for two months.

The fragments were preserved in glass jars, in suitable media. He found also that a fragment of tissue preserved in the same manner retained its normal function for a long time.

These experiments, which are described in the current issue of The Journal of Experimental Medicine, are part of a series to determine whether or not the life of tissue can be prolonged indefinitely outside of the body. In this connection, Dr. Carrel expressed this opinion:

"It is even conceivable that the length of the life of a tissue outside of the organism could exceed greatly its normal duration in the body, because elemental death might be postponed indefinitely by a proper artificial nutrition."

He further states, after outlining the method of cultivating the tissues, that "these results showed that the early death of tissues cultivated in vitro was preventable, and, therefore, that their permanent life was not impossible."

Dr. Carrel's most astonishing statement follows this announcement.

"Subsequently," he says, "I developed other techniques by which it might be possible to obtain permanent life of tissues."

HEARING CONTINUED

Doctor Says Marsh Murder Suspect Is Feigning Insanity

Stockton, Cal., May 3.—William A. Dorr, charged with the murder of George E. Marsh, a wealthy soap manufacturer, in Lynn, Mass., April 11, was carried bodily from the Stockton jail into the county courtroom for a hearing on a writ of habeas corpus procured by his attorney.

Limp and gasping for breath, with every indication of a diseased mentality, Dorr faced Judge Norton, who continued the hearing because of the non-arrival of the Lynn inspectors to make application for the return of the prisoner.

Because of Dorr's condition Judge Norton ordered Dr. Ladd to make a thorough examination of the prisoner. Ladd stated that he believed Dorr to be suffering from nothing but fright, and that, in his opinion, the prisoner was feigning in an attempt to deceive the authorities and was over-playing his hand.

THAW WANTS JURY TRIAL

Judge Reserves Decision and Sets Date to Hear Defendant's Claim

White Plains, N. Y., May 3.—The trial of Harry K. Thaw's application for his release from Matteawan asylum on the ground that he has recovered his sanity will take place on June 3. After listening to argument on Thaw's request that the case be passed on by a jury Justice Keogh reserved decision.

Thaw was represented by Clarence J. Shearn, while the state was represented by Deputy Attorney General Kellogg and former District Attorney Jerome, who has been retained as special counsel.

The hearing was marked by lively clashes between Shearn and Jerome. Justice Keogh announced that he would limit the number of alienists to be called to four on each side.

TAKES OFFICERS OF TITANIC WITH HIM

Ismay Departs For England on a White Star Liner

New York, May 3.—After concealing his movements and following the announcement that he was ill at his hotel, J. Bruce Ismay, president of the International Mercantile Marine company, sailed on the White Star liner Adriatic for England. He took with him Officers Lightoller, Pitman, Lowe and Boxhall of the lost Titanic. An hour before Ismay went aboard the ship the White Star officials flatly denied he was about to sail.

The managing director of the White Star line boarded the Adriatic a few minutes before she sailed and went at once to his stateroom. At first he declined to say anything, but later had the following to say:

"I have given all the testimony in the Titanic case at Washington. I have given them all the information at my command. There is certainly nothing more to say. I have no ill-feeling against the American public and think the senate investigation was thorough. I am feeling very tired and wish to retire."

Amendment to Panama Canal Bill Meets With Objection

Washington, May 3.—Senator Lippett of Rhode Island presented to the senate a petition from the legislature of his state protesting against the so-called Covington amendment to the Panama canal bill—the amendment which provides that railroads shall not own steamship lines.

"It is the traditional policy of my state," said Lippett, "to grant charters authorizing railroads to build to tidewater, to own wharves, and to own stock in steamship lines."

He pointed out that section 11 would mean great commercial and industrial disturbance in Rhode Island.

BANKER UNDER ARREST

Former Head of Cincinnati Institution Must Answer For $33,000

Cincinnati, May 3.—E. L. Galbraith, former president of the Second National bank, which has been in financial difficulties, was arrested on a warrant sworn out by Richard W. Goodhart, special United States examiner.

Galbraith is charged with abstracting and wilfully misappropriating funds and credits of the bank in the sum of $33,000.

Aerial Flagship Wrecked

Berlin, May 3.—Germany's most modern dirigible, the great Siemens-Shuckert flyer, and the flagship of the modern aerial fleet which is being formed, was completely wrecked near Biesdorf. The accident was due to a motor defect. No one was hurt.

PHYSICAL EDUCATION

Dr. J. Gardner Smith at Washington Teachers' Asso.

EXHIBITION

A large number attended the meeting of the Parents' and Teachers' association of the Washington school, Thursday evening. Joseph Felton presided and after the transaction of routine business, introduced the principal speaker of the evening in the person of Dr. J. Gardiner Smith, Physical Director in the Public Schools, who gave a most interesting and instructive discourse on "Physical Education in our Public Schools—What it is and why."

Dr. Smith's address has already appeared in the columns of this paper. He illustrated his talk with many gymnastic examples. He was tendered a vote of thanks at the close of his remarks.

After the address, gymnastic exhibitions were given by pupils of grades one, five and seven and a "folk" dance was given by pupils of grade five in addition. The teachers of the different grades were in charge and the performance of the pupils brought forth great applause from the appreciative audience.

BRIEFS

A meeting of the dramatic club of the Daughters of St. George took place at the home of Mrs. Thomas Johnston, Granite street, Thursday evening.

Rev. E. W. Kenyon who held revival services at the United Presbyterian church some years ago will hold a cottage meeting at the home of Malcolm McKenzie on School street tonight. Friends are invited to attend.

BURGLARY IN CITY SQUARE

The rooms of Enrico Barraja in the Greenleaf block were entered by burglars Thursday night and musical instruments and other goods of the value of $150 taken. Mr. Barraja was absent during the evening and the break is supposed to have been committed during that time. When he returned later the fact that his rooms had been entered was discovered and the affair reported to Officer Bishop who is on duty in City Square. One of the instruments alone is said to be worth $75. Inspector McKay was assigned to the case.

Cured Him.

Marks—By the way, old man, how about that cure for partial baldness you tried? Did it work?

Parks—You bet! I'm entirely bald now.

Helping the Poor.

"Have you no friends to help you?"

"I have some kind friends, but they bunch their gifts. I get five turkeys Thanksgiving and nothing during the rest of the year."

True.

"Now, Johnny," said the teacher after she had explained the meaning of the word, "I wish you would write a sentence containing defeat."

After a struggle which lasted for about twenty minutes Johnny announced that he was ready to be heard.

"Please read your composition," the teacher directed.

"When you git shoes dat's too tite," Johnny read, "it's hard on de feet."

Explained.

Since little Paul wrote his composition on snow his mother hopes that he may be a poet. "I don't really know what snow is," he began, "but I think it may be air with clothes on."—Youth's Companion.

There will be a good attraction at the Ward 4 Playground, Saturday where the Colonials, amateur champions of Quincy last season, will line up against the strong Sagamores of Dorchester. OPENING GAMES AT WOLLASTON

First Rounds in Amateur Golf Tournament

SOME DEFAULTS

The first rounds of the match play of the open amateur tournament of the Wollaston Golf club, was played Thursday on the Montclair links, the round was characterized by the performance of B.E. Jones of Concord and British Columbia who eliminated Brice S. Evans of Brae-Burn when the contest indicated everything in favor of Evans.

Jones, who is a mining prospector and golfer of no mean ability, about this time every spring season introduces himself to followers of the royal and ancient game hereabouts by upsetting the dope sheets of those seated on the piazza in front of the score board creating winners on paper.

That's usually the last heard of Jones in this vicinity, so far as his association with golf is concerned, until the next spring rolls around, and it has got to be so strong a habit of his to make a better golfer than he is rated kow-tow to him that his advent in the Wollaston meeting is the occasion of some such questioning as this: "Wonder what Jones is going to do in this tournament?"

Jones, beyond question, is a very capable golfer. It may be said that Evan's zig-zag drive and inconsistent playing contributed largely to the success of the Concord star. Evans brought into his game about all the freak shots one could muster. He had perhaps less control of his long game than at any time last season, and that is saying a great deal for his shortcomings in this respect. He did, however, hole out a 65-foot mashie approach at the eleventh; nearly took a wisp of hair from the head of a player in advance of him at the eighteenth and did a few other stunts that added to the glory or inglory of his game.

There were no less than ten stymies in the match. Jones laid Evans six of these and Evans came through with four of them. There was nothing particularly in favor of the medal scoring.

John B. Hylan of Vesper demonstrated his ability to come back, for he fairly smeared his opponent, C. A. Hartwell of Oakley, 7 and 5. Incidentally Hylan had the best medal score of the day, 42 for the first nine, where he was four up, and on six greens he took but one put. He was to the turn in 42, and his home holes were played no less creditably.

G. J. Murphy of Wollaston made it mightily interesting for A. G. Lockwood. Murphy was three up at the turn. He got extremely bad lies from the tee at the eleventh and twelfth and lost five successive holes. Both Francis J. Ouimet and J. M. McNamara, against whom he was drawn, defaulted. It was a question which one of them notified the committee of their default first. One of them had to stay in, irrespective of his wishes, in order to give the draw its balance. It was finally decided that McNamara was the last to default.

P. Bigelow, Jr., of Belmont Spring won the play-off of the tie for sixteenth place by pushing down a sensational three at the first hole from across theg reen, and T. A. Ashley of Allston, the only other 92 man to show up, had to watch the rest of the proceedings from the side lines.

Today's matches will be: J. B. Hylan, Vesper, v J. McNamara, Alpine; B. E. Jones, Concord, v. H. P. Farrington, Woodland; P. Bigelow, Jr., Belmont Spring, v. A. G. Lockwood, Belmont Spring; J. E. McLaughlin, Wollaston, v. F. T. Clark, Oakley.

Results of the first round matches: J. B. Hylan, Vesper, defeated C. A. Hartwell, Oakley, 7 and 5.

J. McNamara, Alpine, defeated F. J. Ouimet, Woodland, by default.

B. E. Jones, Concord, defeated B. S. Evans, Brae-Burn, 2 and 1.

H. P. Farrington, Woodland, defeated L. J. Hazelton, Brockton, 2 and 1.

P. Bigelow, Jr., Belmont Spring, defeated V. S.. Lawrence, Brae-Burn, 5 and 3.

A. G. Lockwood, Belmont Spring, defeated G. J. Murphy, Wollaston, 2 and 1.

J. E. McLaughlin, Wollaston, defeated J. H. Churchill, Wollaston, 3 and 2.

F. T. Clark, Oakley, defeated R. R. Freeman, Wollaston, by default.

The Look of It.

"Did you see where a six-mile railroad in Louisiana is to be operated by insane patients?"

"What a crazy idea!"

The Climax.

The universe is pausing!
The earth shakes, in good sooth!
The solar system's gasping!
For Baby's cut a tooth!

—Most boys have fathers, which is fortunate for the boys themselves and for society. But most fathers perhaps—at any rate, too many of them—fail to recognize fully their obligations in the matter of guiding the thoughts and actions of their sons. They leave too much of that duty to the boy's mothers. Mothers, too, are important, of course, giving the boy a kind of care which they would otherwise lose. But the father, if he be the right sort, can exert an influence which may come from no other source. Is it not worth while? Every boy who goes wrong represents a definite loss to society. To that extent civilization fails. It means a hitch in the plan of the universe which calls for a steady upward climb toward perfection.—Milford, N. H. Cabinet.

CLASS OF 1913 WIN THE MEET

Trask and Kingsbury are the Stars of Contests

THE SUMMARY

The class of 1913 carried off the honors at the annual Quincy High school interclass meet, held Thursday afternoon at Merrymount park. The juniors experienced little difficulty in rolling up a total of 61 points. The class of 1912 was second with 22 points and class of 1914 third with one point. The competitors for the freshman class failed to get a place in any of the events.

The events included 100 yard dash, 220 yard run, 440 yard run, 880 yard run, mile run, shot put, running broad jump and running high jump. Harry Trask and Kingsbury, both members of the junior class team, were the individual stars of the contest, the former capturing first place in the century yard dash, 220 yard run, 440 yard run, running high jump and running broad jump. Kingsbury finished first in the half mile and mile runs. The meet was largely attended and it is expected that contests will be arranged with other high school teams before the close of the scholastic year.

George A. Sullivan of the B. A. A., and Roache of Quincy High were the timers. Physical Director LaRose of the Y. M. C. A., was starter, Gordon, also of the High school, was clerk of course. The different events furnished some interesting contests and some exceedingly fast times, considring the condition of the track, were made.

The winner of each event was credited with five points, the sceond place man three points, the third two points and the fourth one point. Five points went to the winners of the relay races The summary of events follows:—

100 yard dash: Won by Trask, '13, second, White 13, third, Prout 13, fourth, Larkin '13. Time 11 2-5 seconds.

220 yard run: Won by Trask '13, second, White '13, third, Larkin '13 fourth, Andrews '13. Time 27 1-5 seconds.

440 yard run: Won by Trask '13 second, Atkins '13, third, Lundin '12, fourth, Safford '14. Time 60 1-5 seconds.

880 yard run: Won by Kingsbury '13, Meade '13, second, Atkins '12, third. Time 2 minutes, 14 seconds.

Mile run: Won by Kingsbury '13 Williams '13 second. Time 5 minutes, 1 second.

Shot put:—Won by White'13, second Favorite '12, third Bill '12, fourth Trask '13. Distance 32 feet, 4 inches.

High Jump:—Won by Trask, '13, second Favorite '12, third Lundin '12, fourth Andrews '13. Height 5 feet.

Running Broad Jump:—Won by Trask '13, second Favorite '12, third Lundin '12, fourth Andrews '13. Distance 18 feet, 6 inches.

Relay races.—Class of 1913 defeated class of 1912 and class of 1914 defeated class of 1915.

PASTOR GIVEN A SURPRISE

Presented with Immense Basket of Fruit and Dainties

REV. W. B. AYERS

A pleasant surprise was tendered Rev. William Ayers on Friday evening when the entire choir of the Park and Downs Congregational church dropped in upon him unexpectedly.

The pastor's first inkling that something was up was received when the door bell rang and a May basket of immense proportions and filled with fruit and other dainties was discovered.

On top was a large group picture of the choir and as the pastor gathered up the May basket the hidden choir broke out into cheers and trooped in the house after him.

Mr. Ayers was very much surprised but at the behest of those present proceeded to unpack the May basket.

At the bottom reposing in a beautiful morocco case was an exquisite travelling communion set.

At this evidence of the choir's regard Mr. Ayers was overcome for a minute but quickly recovering in a fine speech, thanked those present not only for their gifts but for their loyalty and devotion during the past two years.

The May basket was hung by Mrs. S. M. H. Tanner, director of the choir, under whose charge the affair was given.

The surprise over, the evening was pleasantly spent with games, songs, and story telling, Rev. William B. Ayers and Mrs. George H. Stebbins, excelling at the latter.

One of the hits of the evening was a solo by the pastor which was loudly applauded. Refreshments closed a delightful evening and those present departed after wishing Mr. Ayers the best of success in his pastorate.

Among those present were: Charles Richardson, Allen Painter, Charles Tanner, Artemus Dingwell, Miss Freda Klingenhagen, Miss Mildred Podbury, Miss Myrle Daniels, Miss Henrietta Gram, Miss Ethel Axberg, Mrs. George H. Stebbins, Miss Marie Brown, Miss Lydia O'Neal, Miss Leana Kilpatrick, Miss Christina Hall, Miss Lillian Hall, Mrs. S. M. H. Tanner, Miss Ella R. Musaus, Miss Fannie Fraser, George H. Stebbins, Miss Natalie Scott and Dr. and Mrs. J. A. Zwicker.

MEETING OF THE GLEANERS

The Gleaners, a society consisting of the young ladies of the Swedish Baptist church, had their regular monthly meeting last night at the home of Miss Florence Gustafson, Nightingale avenue. The meeting was unusually well represented by the members and a very enjoyable time was spent. A poem, composed by the president, Miss Lillian Lindberg was read by the secretary.

Much enjoyment and laughter was created by humorous dialogue given by Misses Alice Nelson and Alice Gustafson of Bethel beach. The meeting was enlivened by piano solos rendered by Misses Hulda Johnson, Alice Nelson and Mildred De Boer.

Ice cream and cake were served by Mrs. Gustafson. A social time was spent in singing and talking, after which the society adjourned until next month, when the meeting will be held at the home of Miss Alice Gustafson.

is the way some one described the approach of a woman.

Reminds you of an old man in bedroom slippers, doesn't it?

This woman's pumps flapped because they gaped at the sides and slipped at the heels, and the effect was slovenly.

SENATOR WORKS OPPOSES BILL

Owen's Medical Bill Would Cause Monopoly in Healing

AN ABSTRACT

Senator John D. Works of California opposed the Owen bill, for the establishment of a national health bureau, in a speech in the Senate at Washington, Monday afternoon commencing at 3 o'clock. He said, in part:

"Mr. President, I had the honor, soon after I became a Member of this body, to discuss this bill from the standpoint of Christian Scientists, to whom, in its then form, it was most objectionable. Since then it has been amended in a number of material particulars, relieving it, in some respects, from the objections then urged against it.

"I am sorry that I feel my self impelled by a sense of duty to say some unpleasant things, but I shall say them as pleasantly as I can, and without any intention of giving offense.

"I shall feel myself called upon to assail the motives and conduct of members of the medical profession, in their organized form, as the American Medical Association. But this is in no sense a personal matter. There are many high-minded, noble, self-sacrificing men and women in the profession who are conscientiously devoting their lives to the healing of disease and the amelioration of human suffering. I am not speaking of such as these.

"The avowed purpose of seeking new legislation was, in the beginning, to establish a department of Government with a doctor of medicine at its head, a member of the President's Cabinet, possessed of the almost autocratic, unlimited, and unrestrained power belonging to such a department. The League for Medical Freedom, knowing the hypocrisy of the instigators of new legislation on this subject, made common cause against it and have exposed its objects and pointed out the injurious effects of the passage of the proposed bill. One of the chief causes of complaint was that it would create a monopoly in one school of medicine, with one of their number, a Cabinet officer, at its head. This purpose was disclaimed by the author of the bill, and, I believe, with perfect sincerity; but the form of the

ORCHESTRA IS GIVEN BENEFIT

A large number attended the gathering held at Brasee hall, Wollaston, Friday evening by the John Hancock Lodge I. O. O. F. for the benefit of their orchestra.

The orchestra has been most faithful at the many social times enjoyed by the lodge during the past season and it was with view to showing some appreciation that the benefit was held.

The evening opened with the following concert program by the orchestra.

Amazon March, J. S. Zamecni
Overture: King Midas R. Eilenberg
Man and Superman Waltzes,
Theodore Bendix
Overture: The Defender, T. M. Tobani
Grand American Fantasia,
Theodore Bendix

General dancing followed, the floor being in charge of Albert Birch and John Gordon. About 40 couples enjoyed the dance and refreshments were served.

Comprising the committee in charge were: George H. Stebbins, E. A. Merrill, A. S. Kennedy, Sears Hallet, William Nettleton, Verna Beede and Joseph Pickering.

MOULDERS' SMOKE TALK

A joint smoke talk was held in Protection hall last evening under the auspices of the local branches of the Moulders' and Coremakers' Unions. There was a large attendance and the affair proved a decided success. Addresses were made on subjects affecting the interests of both branches. These were followed by an entertainment of a most enjoyable nature and refreshments were served at the close of the meeting.

Samuel Walters presided. The gathering was addressed by a number of delegates of the New England Conference of Coremakers, now in session in Boston and the matter of the elimination of women coreworkers was discussed at length. It was quite late when the delegates arrived, but the ovation accorded them was a splendid one. Many of the talent who contributed to the program were members of one of the unions.

A violin selection by John Hullsey was the occasion for much applause. Solos by Antonio Mariano, James Murphy, James, John and Charles and James Sloan were received in a most appreciative manner and all were forced to respond to repeated encores. William Rooney entertained on the cornet and the Coughlin brothers were kept busy with their Irish jig dancing. William Carey, in a song and dance, also made a decided hit. James McKenna was the accompanist and acquitted himself in most able style. A talk on "the Philippines" by Thomas Flanagan proved a source of especial interest to all in attendance. The gathering, which was most enthusiastic, dispersed shortly before midnight.

MAKE PROMPT RETURNS.

The election officers of precinct two of Ward Three think that it should be made clear that they were not the officers on duty at the caucuses Tuesday, and who required nearly eleven hours to count the ballot. The officers on duty that day were the precinct one officers. The officers in precinct two are old hands at the business and they have always been complimented on the prompt manner in which they have made their returns at caucuses and elections.

OPEN FOR INSPECTION

New Court House Building Open for Public Inspection

FINE BUILDING

The new court house building on Coddington street is open for public inspection all day today and is being visited by many people, not only from Quincy but from other towns in the jurisdiction of the East Norfolk district.

Hon J. F. Merrill, chairman of the board of County Commissioners is at the building doing the honors, and he is justly proud as there is no finer or better appointed court house in the State. It also reflects great credit on the architect, William Chapman, a well-known resident of Wollaston. The contractor was William Crane & Son, while the firm of Stone & Underhill were the contractors for the heating and ventilating system which is of the most improved pattern.

The appropriation was $100,000 which included the land, building and furnishings. The building however cost about $70,000. It is of brick with Quincy granite trimmings, is an imposing structure and a great addition to the public buildings of the city.

The interior finish is of quartered oak, the floors being of terrazzo and the walls of the corridor and stairways of Tennesse marble. The furnishings are of quartered oak.

The main criminal court room is on the first floor, leading from which is the judges consulting office and the private office of the judge. On the northerly side of the room is the dock with a stairway leading from the basement. It is up this stairway that the prisoners will be brought into the court room. On the Coddington side of the building are a number of small offices for lawyers' consulting rooms, also a large office for the clerk. At the rear or easterly end are two large offices for the Probation officer, one of which is to be used for private consultation.

On the upper floor are two court rooms, one for the juvenile session and the second for the sessions of the probate court. Here there are also a number of small offices for the judges, lawyers and others.

In the basement is a well appointed room for the court officer and a room for the police officers. There is also a cell room with two small cells and one large cell, in which a dozen or more offenders can be kept until wanted above. The prisoners are admitted to the building by a door on the west side of the building which leads to the basement. The heating and ventilating apparatus is also located in the basement.

An elaborate system on interior telephones has been installed as well as electric lighting.

Although the building is practically ready for occupancy it will probably be two weeks before the court moves in.

—Common sense applauds the French for numbering the hours consecutively from 1 to 24. It would sound a little odd at first to speak of "19 o'clock," and so on, but we should soon get used to it and then the convenience would begin to emerge. Another beneficial change would be to make the months of equal length and have them begin and end invariably on the same day of the week. This is practicable and some time it will be done.—Portland Oregonian.

Informal Opening of New Court House

The new building for the East Norfolk District Court will be open for the inspection of the public Saturday, May 4, 1912.

THE Y.F.K's. HOLD DANCING PARTY

One of the prettiest and most successful May parties ever held in this city, took place in Alpha hall, last evening, given by the Y. F. K. Girls, an organization of well-known young women. The affair was pronounced most enjoyable by fully 350 dancers who came from Boston and surrounding towns, including Braintree, Brockton, Weymouth, Milton, Hyde Park, Avon and Randolph. Music was by Morrissette's orchestra and the program comprised twenty numbers, each of which was encored.

Many pretty costumes were in evidence as the dancers tripped the light fantastic. Dancing concluded at midnight a short intermission taking place at eleven o'clock in Union hall, where refreshments were served. The affair was graced by the presence of many city officials and representative citizens, including Mayor Eugene R. Stone, Ex-Mayor William T. Shea, Councilmen Harry T. Boyd, John J. Mahoney, Daniel F. Forde, Harry T. Studley, Sealer of Weights and Measures James M. Cantfill and School Committeeman Joseph F. McPherson.

The floor was in charge of Miss Rita Lyons, whose assistants were Misses Katherine Nimerskin, Lillian Donovan, Marie Cahill, Teresa Elcock, and Louise Driscoll. The following members of the club acted as aids—Misses Annie Mullin, Louise Mullen, Lillian Berry, Katherine Berry, Cecilia Ogle, Olive Berry, Mary Doyle, Louise Curry, Emeline O'Brien, Helen Elcock, Blanche Drohan, Mary Wallace, Margaret Gibbons, Annie Buckley, Tona Shatzel, Teresa Curley, Helen Curley, Sadie Corcoran and Helen Sullivan.

ANNUAL SUNDAY SCHOOL PARTY

The annual children's party given by the officers and teachers of the Sunday school of First church to the pupils of the school was held Friday afternoon and evening. It was largely attended and as usual proved to be a very enjoyable occasion. In the afternoon at 4 o'clock the younger children of the school gathered in the chapel where there was a series of games and a short entertainment.

Following this refreshments were served after which the children adjourned to Colonial hall where there was dancing until 8 o'clock.

Then the adult members of the school begun to arrive and an informal dance was held until 11 o'clock music being furnished by Wilson's orchestra, participated in by forty couples. Mrs. A. Isabelle Davis, Mrs. James H. Slade and Mrs. Charles H. Johnson, matronized the party and the ushers were William Edwards, Donald Crane, Allan Miller and Herbert Johnson who were distinguished by pinks worn on the coat label. Punch was served throughout the evening. The whole affair proved a most enjoyable occasion for young and old.

HONESTY IN EVERYTHING

It is fortunate in view of the high cost of dolls and jumpingjacks, that some men can be entertained by walking twenty miles to capture three or four fingerling trout.

In all the high tide of spring poetry, our Office Cat never had such a case of indigestion as has been brought on by all this political literature she has had to consume.

Torchlight parades will be in fashion this fall, it is said, but we give notice that we will never march four miles out and back into the country merely for a doughtnut and cup of coffee.

All this campaign talk is demoralizing to good newspaper work. We observed a journal the other day that thought the panier skirt could be adequately covered in only a column article.

It is rumored that W. G. Shaw, after a few weeks' experience in the newspaper business has retired from the company in which he held the responsible positions of president and treasurer. We venture to say that Brother Shaw has at least got "experience" if nothing more out of his venture in journalism.

Will you help?

The Civic committee of the Quincy Women's club appeals to the residents of Quincy, to co-operate with the city in an outdoor housecleaning campaign. The city teams will collect all rubbish of any kind during the last two weeks in May, making their collections on their regular days in the various districts. The time has been changed from the first of the month to the last two weeks to give every one ample time to make a grand cleanup of their premises and be ready for the city teams when they call.

Does your back yard need attention? The city teams will carry away all the debris you collect for them.

Let all individually feel the responsibility of this general clean up.

Many will agree with the Christian Register which says editorially, "It is to be regretted that custom and public opinion have temporarily made it seem necessary for candidates for high office to show themselves to their constituents in various parts of the State or nation and expound their views in public speech. The practice was popularized, if not begun, by Andrew Johnson, who in his famous "Swinging round the Circle," exhibited himself to the people. After that a Congressman who went home "to look after his fences," and made a few speeches by the way, gave the public a chance to laugh at an evident subterfuge. Can we imagine George Washington asking for the suffrages of the American people in a campaign extending from Maine to Georgia? There are some advantages, but many evils connected with the practice. One of the worst of the evils is the temptation to vituperation and personal altercation, which expels all ideas of dignity from many a political campaign. We ought by every possible means to build up a sense of loyalty and respect for the highest offices in the gift of the people, instead of encouraging methods which increase the familiarity that breeds contempt."

We shouldn't be surprised if many who were up al' night at City Hall Tuesday will agree with the Brockton Enterprise in the following:

"While most Brockton counters at the primaries did their work pretty well, and surpassed many other places in the State in getting in the returns it seems hard to believe that any sensible man after the experience of Tuesday night and Wednesday morning really can believe there is any sane reason for keeping polls open till 9 at night. We have had elections here for many years and elections at which the vote was huge, and the men have found a way to cast their ballots by or before 4 P. M.

"Why, then, the necessity of seeking to lengthen out the already long-drawn agony by adding on five more mortal hours to the weary wait for news? The general mass of mankind in these days doesn't want to wait till next day for news of something that happens on any certain day. The counters had a weary vigil and so did the newspaper men, but inasmuch as they are paid for it the public may assume they can stand it, even if they don't want to endure the strain.

"But when you can get the complete news of an election from Boston, for example, quite early in the evening, and have to wait for complete returns from Brockton till 9 the next forenoon, the thing is ridiculous and wearing. Late returns from some precincts in Brockton are getting to be the regular thing and are expected all over the State, but why we should try to make the thing vastly worse than it has been passes comprehension. Men can vote early or at noon, and they are allowed by law two hours if they desire to take it. Let's try to make elections less of a wearisome joke and more of a smart, up-to-date and businesslike proceeding."

During our late war with Spain the men who got into service were considered by the soldiers the fortunate ones. All were ready and anxious for active service, but the number who were not called was large ,because the war was of such short duration. No man could push himself forward, he could only go when bidden. That one got the chance for active service for which his fellow soldiers were longing, can not, by any stretch of the imagination, make him braver or greater than the other. It was only a slip of the wheel of fortune which sent the poor lads from Springfield to their death instead of our boys. Who then is so ignorant of facts and history as to try to make discriminations between an officer to whom chance gave an opportunity and the one who stood anxious to sacrifice his life.

Society is composed of two classes, one is constructive and the other destructive. One builds and the other tries to tear down. One grows and the other decays. The men of one class are the sort that make the world better for their lives and influence; the men of the other class are only a menace.

Honest criticism is often helpful; while adverse criticism has its mission but ugly, spiteful remarks, with no purpose save possibly fiendish satisfaction to the utterer, can bring only destruction to him who harbors such evil thoughts.

We are thankful and glad that we have in our midst, as an honored citizen, a military man, who has won his rank through 18 years of faithful service and acknowledged merit, and we feel only shame and regret that our city can find in it one who would even try to detract from his achievement. Let us not begrudge a man, the rank he has earned, let us rejoice with him that his efforts have been rewarded.

SLOVENLY VOTING.

Some queer illustrations of careless habits of voting were given in the hotly contested Massachusetts primary.

A candidate for district delegate called a bunch of his friends into his office, all intelligent men, and asked them to see if they could mark a ballot correctly for Taft. Only one of them marked it right.

The throwing out of some 12,000 ballots in which nine delegates were marked when the ballot said in large type "Vote for eight," illustrated the slip-shod way in which many voters always perform their act. It is a general rule that the total vote under the Australian system falls off from 15 to 25 per cent from the head of the ticket to its tail. Often the local contests at the foot of the ballot come a good deal closer to our homes and our hearts than do the fights between the higher-ups at the head of the ticket.

Tammany always puts its ignorant hosts to school, so that they can mark a complicated ballot with accuracy and dispatch. It's the business man, who is used to having his papers edited by a stenographer, thatgets tangled when he is up against them unaided.

THE Y. M. C. A. SUMMER CAMP

About twenty young fellows of the Y. M. C. A. Boys' department are already making plans for the Y. M. C. A. summer camp at Camp Massaboago, Sharon Heights, Mass., on the shores of Lake Massaboago.

Each year about 100 fellows gather there from the different Associations throughout Eastern Massachusetts and this year the following will be represented: Chelsea, Somerville, Sharon, Norwood, Quincy, Malden and Melrose.

Last year the Quincy campers were located in New Hampshire and enjoyed the outing.

Monday evening there was a meeting of the boys interested in this sort of amusement and 25 turned out to hear about the camp. Boys' Work Director Blanchard is to go to Sharon Heights to inspect the locality and see if it is up to the standard.

ANNIVERSARY PATRIOT.

Work is going ahead steadily compiling and arranging the Seventy-fifth Anniversary edition of the Patriot, which it is hoped to bring out in a few weeks. A large edition of this kind means months of preparation and Mr. Colson and Mr. Newton who are attending to the detail work for the editors have been at work since January and are more than pleased with their success. It will be one of the most valuable souvenirs ever published in Quincy, containing photographs of prominent men and residences and business data.

GEORGE E. S. KINNEY.

George E. S. Kinney, Grand Army veteran and well-known resident of Jamaica Plain, died at his home, 20 Burr street, Thursday. Mr. Kinney was born in New Hampshire. He served throughout the Civil War, chiefly in coast defence duty at forts along the Atlantic seaboard. He came to Boston and established one of the pioneer men's furnishing establishments at 44 Cambridge street, and retained active control of the business until his death.

He leaves his wife, Mrs. Harriet Thayer Kinney, who is the daughter of the late Mr. and Mrs. Ephraim Thayer and sister of Mrs. Clarence B. Underwood, and Miss Blanche Thayer of Quincy, and well known here.

PECULIAR SKELETONS

They May Prove to Be Remains of Hitherto Unknown Race

Madison, Wis., May 4.—The discovery of several peculiar skeletons of human beings while excavating a mound at Lake Delvan is of great scientific interest and may prove that a heretofore unknown race once inhabited southern Wisconsin.

Upon opening one large mound last fall, eighteen skeletons were discovered. Little attention was given the bones, which soon crumbled. When another mound was opened a few days ago, however, the excavators were struck by the peculiar cranial characteristics.

The heads, presumably those of men, are very much large than those of present-day men. From directly over the eye sockets the head slopes straight back and the nasal bones protrude far above the cheek bones. The jawbones are so long and pointed that one is struck with their resemblance to those of the monkey. The teeth in the front of the jaw resemble the molars in the mouths of persons today.

The skelotons were embedded in charcoal and covered with layers of banked clay to shed water from the sepulchre. They were found from four to ten feet below the surface.

STRIKE NOT ANTICIPATED

Mine Workers to Meet on May 14 to Consider Tentative Agreement

New York, May 4.—Officials of the United Mine Workers of America, who have been in conference here for two days, express confidence that a strike of the mine workers of the three antharcite districts who have been idle since April 1 has been averted, and that a satisfactory agreement will be entered into with the operators before the end of the present month.

After being in conference for four hours yesterday, the members of the three anthracite boards issued a call for a general convention at Wilkesbarre, Pa., on May 14, to consider the tentative agreement entered into by the sub-committees representing the operators and the mine workers which was rejected by the full committee of the miners in joint conference with the operators here.

The convention will also be urged to empower the committee of ten to enter into a second joint conference with the operators and conclude an agreement, subject to ratification by a referendum vote of the mine workers.

EDITOR SERVES HIS SENTENCE NIGHTS

Court Allows Him to Publish His Newspaper Days

Pasco, Wash., May 4.—That the publication of a paper may not be suspended, H. G. Roe, editor of the Washtuena Enterprise, has been allowed by the superior court to serve out the thirty day sentence for perjury at night.

Roe, who was convicted of perjury in a case of charging his father, County Commissioner Roe, with accepting a bribe, is released from jail each morning, works on the paper all day and returns to the jail to be locked up each night.

AFTER MARYLAND'S VOTES

Roosevelt Greeted by Enthusiastic Crowds in Baltimore

Baltimore, May 4.—The Roosevelt campaign for Maryland's sixteen delegates for the national convention reached its height last night, with the former president's visit to Baltimore. Mr. Roosevelt was taken through the city at the head of a parade, with red fire and the blare of bands as a setting.

Several thousand persons trooped after him, and as the procession approached the Lyric Theatre, at which he delivered his principal address, the streets were choked with the crowds.

Mr. Roosevelt made three speeches, vigorously attacking his opponents and defending himself from criticisms which have been directed against him.

BEZENZINSKI CONVICTED

Jury Finds Former Special Treasury Agent Guilty of Perjury

New York, May 4.—A verdict of guilty of perjury was returned by a jury in the federal court against former Special Treasury Agent James O. Bezenzinski, on trial for the last ten days. The case grew out of the sugar trust exposures.

Bezenzinski worked with Richard Parr in the exposure of the weighing frauds in 1907. Parr charged that Oliver Spitzer, dock superintendent of the trust at its Williamsburg plant, tried to bribe them. Later Bezenzinski swore this was untrue.

MAY CHANGE IT'S BY-LAWS

Governor Foss on Friday signed the bill which gives the Quincy Firemen's Relief Association the permission to change its by-laws so as to provide that the present and future members of that Association may continue as members of the Association after they cease to be members of the Quincy fire department. One section of the bill provides that the act shall take effect on its passage, so the matter is now a law. The bill went through the legislature in record time, it being only three weeks since it was first introduced in the House of Representatives until the Governor handed the signed document to Representative W. J. Leslie Friday morning.

MEDICAL TEMPERANCE.

At the last meeting of the Wollaston W. C. T. U., Mrs. Frederick H. Bishop read a paper on "Medical Temperance" she said in part:—

"It is encouraging to note the decrease in the use of liquor in hospitals discovered by careful investigations. Both in the Massachusetts General hospital and Homoeopathic hospital the decrease in the use of alcoholic liquors is marked. It is also gratifying to have the support of eminent physicians who are professors in prominent medical schools. These high authorities unite in urging that no alcohol be given to children. One says 'alcohol is not a stimulant in the ordinary technical use of the term, it is to the contrary a depressant in the circumstances in which it is ordinarily used.

"Dr. Fernald, clinical lecturer in mental diseases in Tufts college said: 'I believe that alcohol is the greatest foe to the human race today. I feel that it would not be a serious harm if its use as a medicine were totally discontinued. Among my acquaintances very much less alcohol is prescribed than was even ten years ago.' Dr. Lesser, Surgeon-General of the American Red Cross in the Cuban war found that four out of six of his typhoid fever patients to whom he allowed liquor to be given died, while later he treated 63 similar cases without alcohol and one only died and he on the day that he was received at the hospital.

"Dr. Garber of Dunkirk, Indiana says: 'The fact that mortality from typhoid fever seems to be gradually lowering is no doubt due in a great measure to the non-use of alcohol, hardly a week passes that some of our Journals do not report a series of cases treated without the aid of alcohol in any form.'

"Dr Moorehead of Edinburgh said: 'If I can get a patient who has had no alcohol, I have very seldom any doubt as to an attack of pneumonia and I find that it is never necessary to give alcohol in these cases at all, in fact, the patients do far better without it.'

"The practise of giving beer and alcohol to nursing mothers cannot be too strongly condemned. Dr. William Lee Howard says that he has traced many cases of habitual drunkenness to the alcohol that babies get through nurse's milk.

"The insurance companies have been asked 'As a rule, other things being equal, do you consider the habitual user of intoxicating beverages as good an insurance risk as the total abstainer? If not, why not?' The answer was 'No' unanimously. Among the reasons why not were 'habit is liable to grow; drink lessens ability to overcome disease; more liable to colds, bronchial troubles, etc.; use affects heart, stomach, liver and kidneys.'

"The main objection to patent medicines is that they frequently injure those who take them, instead of curing and very frequently indeed, they lead to the drug habit which is even worse than alcoholism. Diverging a little from the main subject but in close connection to it is the danger that is recognized as what is known as the soft drink habit. The Bureau of Chemistry at Washington has been investigating these drinks and ascertained that over a hundred are made up of drugs, which are injurious to health, such as caffeine and cocaine.

MAY PARTY AT HOUGHS NECK

A most enjoyable affair was held at Pandora hall, Houghs Neck, last evening, the occasion being a May party, given by Miss Mary Agnes Leary, a prominent young lady of the city and sister of City Messenger Leary of Boston. A large number responded to the invitations sent out. The hall was very prettily decorated, potted plants and ferns adorning the platform while streamers of red, white and blue were used effectively.

Music was by Assner's orchestra and dancing was in order till midnight, a short intermission taking place at ten o'clock, during which refreshments were served.

Guests were present from Boston and surrounding towns, prominent among them being Dr. James McGrath, of Neponset, Drs. William and Fred Denning of South Boston, Dr. Daniel Harrington of Dorchester and Dr. Nicholas Gallagher of Malden.

The committee in charge comprised Miss Mary A. Leary, Miss Sadie McGrath, and Miss Anna Dooley.

SPITEFUL ATTACK.

Editors of Ledger:

Considerable indignation has been aroused among the people of Quincy by an attempted slur on a well-known citizen which appeared this week in an advertising sheet having the unique distinction of a free and intrusive circulation.

Any gentleman would gladly convey Mr. Roosevelt from Quincy Adams to the Quincy Station in his auto and back again, regardless of the fact that he was going to support his apponent at the primaries. It is an honor due any man of exalted station.

As to the insinuation that there was only one real Colonel in the auto, it is unworthy of anything but contempt. Both Colonels won their rank honestly and are entitled to it by all legal and military requirements.

Fair Play.

NORTH WEYMOUTH.

Mrs. Alice Ash and daughter, Virginia, have moved to Wollaston.

Miss Lillian Ruggles and Miss Ruth Robinson are enjoying a week at Washington.

John Newell and family of Somerville, are spending a week at their summer home.

The Annual election of officers at the Pilgrim Sunday school, took place last Sunday. The following officers were elected:—R. S. Gilmore, superintendent; Miss Cora Beard, assistant superintendent; Bernard Ruggles, treasurer; Miss Louisa Embree, secretary and Herman Collyer, librarian.

The Cemetery circle met with Mrs. J. H. Pratt on Monday evening of this week and elected the following officers:—President, Mrs. J. H. Pratt; 1st vice president, Mrs. E. R. Sampson; 2d vice president, Mrs. Samuel Drew; 3d vice president, Mrs. C. W. Joy; secretary, Mrs. George Ames; 1st assistant, Miss Lillian Curtis; 2d assistant, Miss Susie Pratt; treasurer, Mrs. Clara Taylor; and board of directors, Mrs. W. O. Collyer, Mrs. H. Milton Marr; Mrs. Manuel Page, Mrs. H. W. Dyer, Mrs. J. Q. Goodspeed, Mrs. John Taylor and Mrs. E. R. Sampson.

Ladd of Milton, and Abbott & Miller of Quincy.

SEN. WORKS OPPOSES BILL

bill, the fact that then and now all surgeons and other medical employees of the Government were and are of that school of medicine, and the declarations of parties interested in the bill as to their ultimate object and purpose in urging the passage of it showed conclusively that the Senator from Oklahoma was entirely mistaken.

"It became so apparent that such was the purpose, and it was so obnoxious to every man who believes in medical as well as religious freedom, that friends of the bill voluntarily offered an amendment to relieve it from this objection which they soon found would defeat it.

"Thus shorn of the things they most desired, the bill has become unnecessary and useless. I know what I am talking about when I say to the Senate that they have never abandoned their original purpose of taking over into their own hands the medical activities of the Government and of confining their administration and the enforcement of their powers in the one school of medicine to the exclusion of all others. Some of these doctors and their publications have made the most startling statements of their intention to establish and control a state medicine in its most extreme and objectionable form. Since the bill has been amended, I said to one of the most earnest supporters of the idea of a department of medicine, 'Why do you want this bill in its amended form?' He said, 'It is not satisfactory to us, but it will be a beginning and we will follow it up until we get what we want,' or words to that effect.

"Therefore, I am going to consider this bill precisely as if it provided in terms for the things to which I so seriously object, because that is the ultimate purpose which should be met at the outset, and this bill is only one step toward its final accomplishment. No two schools of medicine, or other modes of healing, agree with each other. The allopathic school of medicine is the oldest and best known. Its devotees assume that there is no other efficacious mode of healing but theirs, and that all other practitioners are incompetents and a menace to the public health. They have formed one of the most powerful organizations of any kind in the country. The American Medical Association is working in every State in the Union to secure laws which will prevent any but practitioners of their school from practicing the art of healing.

"A conspicuous illustration of their methods may be found in a late order procured by the doctors affecting the Panama Canal Zone. They had an allopathic board of health, with a former president of the American Medical Association at its head. They so defined the practice of medicine in this order as to make it a crime to attempt to ameliorate sickness or disease in any form or by any means other than their own.

"When the attention of the President was called to this fact he said at once that he had understood that Christian Scientists were not to be disturbed in their practice by the order, and that if it could be construed as having that effect he would see that it was modified. The matter was taken up with the President and the Secretary of War, who gave it the most careful and conscientious attention, and finally modified the order.

"Christian Scientists made no objection to the provision in the order protecting the sanitary regulations of the Canal Zone and their enforcement, but frankly said to the President and Secretary of War that they believed in sanitation, and that the order might be made as strong with respect to that matter as they desired to have it.

"Mr. President, when a question like this confronts us the people of this country had better look to their liberties. Prof. James, from whose address I have already quoted, opposed one of such bills because it was 'a movement in favor of ignorance.' He says, with emphasis, that The Commonwealth of Massachusetts is not a medical body, has no right to a medical opinion, and should not dare to take sides in medical controversies.

"This should be enough to impel the lawmaking power to hold its hand. But if it does not, then the courts must determine whether such law, affecting the rights of the citizen in a matter of the highest import, affecting the most sacred of his affairs, can be enacted and enforced under a Constitution like ours under the fundamental law of a Nation of freemen. No new legislation on the subject is necessary.

"But, Mr. President, I desire to go a little deeper than this into the wisdom and propriety of vesting in one school of medicine such unlimited power over the health, even the lives of the people of the country. What claims to superior knowledge and understanding have the old school or "regulars" in medicine that should induce Congress to give over to them this vast power over the public health?

"I have no animosities against the doctors, individually or as a class. They have their work to do in the interest of mankind, and should be fully protected in their right to pursue that work. It is needed in the interest of mankind, because the great majority of the people still believe in the medical doctor and his drug. So long as this is the case the physician of whatever school should be fully and amply protected in his right to administer what his patients believe in and want. That is what I call medical freedom. On the other hand, they who do not believe in the efficacy of drugs or in the services of a medical practitioner, but who do believe in another and different remedy, should be accorded the same right, and that right should be jealously protected. That, too, is medical freedom. In the name of these people, in the name of those believing in other modes of healing, in the name of a liberty-loving people, I protest against any law or regulation that will deny them the right or abridge their liberty to give or accept relief of their choice, or their religious rights."

SUMMER VACATION RESORTS.

Concise and helpful information for the man who is planning a summer vacation for himself and family is contained in the 1912 edition of Manual of Summer Resorts, just issued by the passenger department of the New York, New Haven & Hartford Railroad.

More than a thousand summering places in the most charming sections of New England are mentioned in this book. It tells the vacation seeker how to reach these places. It gives the names and locations of the best hotels and boarding cottages, together with their rates, and it contains much other information that will prove helpful to the summer tourist.

The summer resorts reached by the New York, New Haven & Hartford Railroad offer manifold attractions to vacationists. It's the combination of mountains, seashore and country that makes Southern New England such a charming place for a summer vacation.

A copy of the Manual of Summer Resorts will be sent free by the Vacation Bureau, Room 893 South Station, Boston.

HIS LIFE SAVED BY MRS. ASTOR

Immigrant Indebted to Wife of the Multimillionaire

Daniel Buckley Covered With Shawl When Other Men Were Ordered Back to Titanic as Vessel Was Sinking—Testifies That Officers Tried to Lock Steerage Passengers on Their Own Deck

New York, May 4.—The first steerage passenger on the lost Titanic to tell his story was examined by Senator Smith of the senate committee here and he swore positively an effort was made by the doomed vessel's officers to lock the steerage passengers on their own deck, following the disaster.

One man who protested was knocked down by a deck steward, but he later smashed the gate. After that the third class passengers had as good a chance as the first class to escape, but there were not enough boats for them.

The witness was Daniel Buckley, 21, who emigrated from Cork, and who is now living with relatives in the Bronx. He declared the first the steerage passengers, who were all in bed, knew of the accident was when the water began rushing into their quarters. Then they were warned by a steward to get on deck if they did not want to be drowned like rats in a trap.

"I rushed upstairs," said Buckley, "and when I got there I could find no life preserver. None of us had any. I started back down and found the water was already to the third step leading from the steerage quarters and coming in fast. I ran up and saw a steward trying to lock the gate that penned us from the second and first class decks. A man tried to stop him and the steward hit him, knocking him down the stairs. We all rushed the gate and it was broken down.

"I went on deck and say five boats launched from the starboard side. When they started to put the sixth over all of the men got in, as there were only a few women. Along came an officer and ordered the men out. A woman who I learned afterward was Mrs. Astor threw her shawl over me and I stayed in the bottom of the boat and was saved."

Up to the present Smith has been unable to confirm the alleged message received by the White Star early Monday telling of the wreck.

EACH GRAVE FULLY MARKED

Memorial Services and Burial of Titanic Victims at Halifax

Halifax, May 4.—Memorial services were held here for the Titanic victims and were largely attended. The Protestant service was attended by the lieutenant governor, a number of members of the legislature and by relatives and friends of the victims in the city.

The Catholic requiem mass was said in the presence of the archbishop of Halifax. A large number present were relatives of the victims. There were burial services yesterday afternoon at Protestant and Catholic burial grounds.

Each grave was fully marked. A complete description of every body is filed with the register of deaths and another will be held at the White Star offices in New York. Photographs of the features are attached so that friends may later identify the unknown dead if possible.

DEPORTATION OF ALIENS

Opposition to Root Amendment Is Well Organzied

Washington, May 4.—The Root amendment to the immigration bill, providing for the deportation of aliens found in the United States conspiring for the overthrow of a friendly government, will be the object of attack by those who see the right of political asylum endangered, at hearings before the house committee on immigration and naturalization.

It is learned that the opposition to the Root amendment is well organized, having the support not only of private citizens and associations but also of several congressmen. It is understood that there will be a fight on the proposition on the floor of the house.

WOMEN ON HORSEBACK

Will Head Parade of Fifteen Thousand Suffragettes in Gotham

New York, May 4.—Fifteen thousand strong, the women suffragists and their friends—men, boys and babies—will march up Fifth avenue this afternoon from Washington square to Carnegie hall. Never was such a pageant, its organizers declare, and all in the cause of votes for women.

A squadron of cavalry will lead the van—100 women on horseback, some side saddle, some astride.

Mrs. Charles K. Noblauca will be captain of this troop, and among those in her command will be Miss Inez Milholland, Mrs. Beatrice Forbes-Robertson and Miss Ruth Wellington.

BLIND STUDENT MAY BECOME A SURGEON

Meets Every Test Before Board of Medical Examiners

Chicago, May 4.—Surgical operations may be performed by a blind man if Jacob W. Bolotin succeeds in passing the examination for a physician's license which he took before the state board of medical examiners. He has met every test that has been given him, and the examiners believe he will qualify and become the first blind medical practitioner in the state of Illinois. He has been blind from infancy.

"My fingers are good eyes. With them I can detect pulsations, irritations and temperatures instantly," said Bolotin. "My ears are keen to every little sound within the human body.

"I am to specialize in heart and lung diseases, and am sure I shall succeed, for already I have been practising as assistant in the Chicago municipal tuberculosis sanatorium."

DEFENDANTS FREED

Last Chapter In the Coatesville Lynching Case Is Written

Westchester, Pa., May 4.—The lynching of Zack Walker at Coatesville, near here, on the night of Aug. 13, 1911, when he was burned after he had been arrested for the killing of a special policeman, will go unpunished, despite the unusual efforts by the State of Pennsylvania, to bring to justice the leaders of the mob.

After a jury had brought in a verdict of not guilty in the case of Lewis Denithorne, one of the six men accused of participating in the lynching who had not yet been tried, the Commonwealth asked for the acquittal of the other five defendants. The accused men were then discharged.

The Commonwealth's reason for asking for the acquittals was that it was unable to obtain convictions because of the state of mind of the people of the country.

CLERKS' SALARIES CUT

But Congressmen Vote Money For Themselves, Despite Warnings

Washington, May 4.—After cutting the salaries of clerks and minor officials in the various departments of the government, the house, by a vote of 53 to 48, voted $216,000 additional funds to itself for individual clerical assistance.

In doing so Democrats refused to listen to warnings and pleas by Representative Johnson of South Carolina, in charge of the legislative, executive and judicial appropriation bill, and turned an equally deaf ear to Representative Fitzgerald, chairman of the appropriations committee. Nothing that either could do availed.

DORR'S LAWYERS GIVE UP FIGHT

Impressed by Extradition Papers For Murder Suspect

PRISONER IS ACTING NORMAL

Nurse to Accompany Him on Journey to Lynn, as He Suffers From Breakdown Brought About by Fear—Will Start Next Monday on Trip Which Will End When He Faces Court In the Marsh Case

Stockton, Cal., May 4.—William A. Dorr, charged with the murder of George E. Marsh, in the custody of Inspector Burckes and Inspector Lane of Lynn, Mass., will leave Monday for Lynn, where Dorr will be brought to trial.

By agreement with Dorr a nurse is to accompany the prisoner. The Lynn officials arrived in Stockton yesterday from Sacramento, where they had secured the signature of Governor Johnson to the extradition papers. After inspecting the documents Dorr's attorneys stated that there was no use fighting the case.

Dorr immediately brightened up after the announcement by his lawyers and for the first time since his arrest acted normally. Dr. Ladd, who has been attending him, says that the prisoner is suffering from a breakdown brought about by fear and advised that the trip be started at once because he believed it would prove beneficial.

Inspector Burckes found that a button, which he picked up near the scene of the murder, matches the sleeve buttons on a coat that has been found in Dorr's possession. The buttons from the front of the garment were removed and others substituted, but Dorr did not take that precaution with the buttons of the sleeves.

The Lynn officials say that there is no doubt but that the evidence is conclusive, as practically every wrinkle in the case has been smoothed out and that the prosecution is backed by the strongest circumstantial evidence of any case they have ever known.

JUNIORS JOIN STRIKE

Total of 170 Students Are Now Out In Durham Institution

Durham, N. H., May 4.—The junior class, numbering fifty-five men, joined the ranks of the striking freshman and sophomore classes of the New Hampshire College, as an exhibition of indignation against the suspension of W. H. Brackett of Portsmouth, president of the sophomore class.

Brackett, who was popular with the student body, was suspended for the remander of the college year for ringing a false fire alarm on April 29 to distract the attention of the freshmen in order that his classmates might depart unmolested for Boston, to attend their annual banquet. His efforts were successful.

The strikers, who now number 170, declare that they will not return to their classes until the sophomore president has been reinstated. President Gibbs of the college says that unless the members of the freshman and sophomore classes return to their studies before May 7 they will be expelled.

COLONEL ASTOR'S FUNERAL

Body of Victim of Titanic Wreck is Buried Beside Mother

New York, May 4.—The funeral of Colonel John Jacob Astor was held today from the Church of Messiah, Rhinebeck Village, of which he was a warden.

The services were conducted by Rev. Ernest Saunders, rector, assisted by Rev. Dr. William T. Manning of Trinity Church and Rev. Dr. Ernest M. Stires, rector of St. Thomas' Church of this city.

Immediately after the services the body was taken aboard a special New York Central train and brought to this city for interment in Trinity Cemetery.

Colonel Astor's body was placed beside that of his mother, Mrs. William Astor, who died Oct. 30, 1908.

MURDER AFTER QUARREL

Slayer Says Alleged Anarchist Had Threatened to Kill Him

Peabody, Mass., May 4.—George Caras, a Greek, 30 years old, was shot and instantly killed by Nicholas Tsouklarin after a wrangle in a coffee house here last night.

Tsouklarin is 26 and unmarried. Caras was married, but was separated from his wife. Both men worked in local leather factories.

Tsouklarin told the police after his arrest that Caras was an Anarchist and Socialist and that Caras had repeatedly told him he would kill him.

Rank Outsider Wins

Newmarket, Eng., May 4.—The One Thousand Guineas Stakes of 100 sovereigns each, for 3-year-old fillies, distance one mile, was won by Tagalie, a rank outsider in the betting. There were fourteen starters.

The KITCHEN CUPBOARD

FRUIT CHARLOTTES.

A CHARLOTTE is a fruit or cream preparation poured into a mold with a cake lining. It is delicious.

Strawberry Charlotte.—Take lady fingers, split them and use enough to line a dish capable of holding a quart of strawberries. After lining the dish with cake place a layer of berries on the bottom of it and sprinkle with powdered sugar. Cover with whipped cream, then put in another layer of berries, well sugared, and more stiffly whipped cream until the dish is full. Garnish the top with berries. Stand on ice until it is to be served.

A Nice Dessert.

Orange Charlotte.—Take a third of a cup of cold water, a third of a cup of boiling water, a third of a box of gelatin, a cup of sugar, the juice of a lemon, the pulp and juice of an orange and the whites of three eggs. Soak the gelatin in cold water, then add the boiling water, the sugar and lemon juice. After straining add the orange with a dash of the grated rind. Set the mixture in a pan of cold water and beat when it begins to get cold. Then add the beaten whites of eggs and whip the mixture until it is stiff enough to drop into a mold lined with split lady fingers or sponge cakes. Garnish with whipped cream.

Bread Instead of Cake.

Baked Apple Charlotte.—Cut some slices of bread about a quarter of an inch thick, butter them on both sides and lay some of them at the bottom of a well buttered pie dish. Fill the dish with apples, cored and sliced; add brown sugar to taste, two cloves and the juice of a lemon. Put more buttered slices of bread on the top of the apples. Cover them with apple peelings to prevent their burning. Put the dish in a moderate oven for a couple of hours. At the time of serving remove the apple peelings.

Dainty Cakes.

Almond Charlotte.—Beat four eggs, whites and yolks separately first and then together. Sift together one cupful of sugar, a pinch of salt, one-half teaspoonful grated chocolate, one cupful sifted flour and a teaspoonful of almond extracts. Add the eggs. Pour in tins greased and floured and bake for thirty minutes in a hot oven. When cold cut circles in the tops of each cake. Scoop out the crumbs and fill with thick whipped cream flavored with vanilla. Replace the circles of cake lightly on the cream and the cakes are ready to serve.

SYNOPSIS.

CHAPTER I.—The scene at the opening of the story is laid in the library of an old worn-out southern plantation, known as the Barony. The place is to be sold, and its history and that of the owners, the Quintards, is the subject of discussion by Jonathan Crenshaw, a business man, a stranger known as Bladen, and Bob Yancy, a farmer, when Hannibal Wayne Hazard, a mysterious child of the old southern family, makes his appearance. Yancy tells how he adopted the boy.

CHAPTER II.—Nathaniel Ferris buys the Barony, but the Quintards deny any knowledge of the boy. Yancy to keep Hannibal. Captain Murrell, a friend of the Quintards, appears and asks questions about the Barony.

CHAPTER III.—Trouble at Scratch Hill, Yancy's home, when Hannibal is kidnaped by Dave Blount, Captain Murrell's agent. Yancy overtakes Blount, gives him a thrashing and secures the boy.

CHAPTER IV.—Yancy is served with a warrant for assaulting Blount. Yancy appears before Squire Balaam, and is discharged with costs for the plaintiff.

CHAPTER V.—Betty Malroy, a friend of the Ferrises, has an encounter with Captain Murrell, who forces his attentions on her, and is rescued by Bruce Carrington, who threatens to whip the captain.

CHAPTER VI.—Betty sets out for her Tennessee home. Carrington takes the same stage. Yancy and Hannibal disappear, with Murrell on their trail. He overtakes them in the mountains of Tennessee. Murrell gets Yancy drunk and stabs him in a fight that followed. Hannibal escapes in a canoe.

CHAPTER VII.—Hannibal arrives at the home of Judge Slocum Price.

CHAPTER VIII.—The Judge recognizes in the boy, the grandson of an old time friend. Murrell arrives at Judge's home. Hannibal hears of the finding of Yancy's body. Price arrested as counterfeiter.

CHAPTER IX.—Cavendish family on raft rescue Yancy, who is apparently dead. Price breaks jail.

CHAPTER X.—Betty and Carrington arrive at Belle Plain.

CHAPTER XI.—Hannibal's rifle discloses some startling things to the Judge. Hannibal and Betty meet again.

CHAPTER XII.—Murrell arrives in Belle Plain. Is playing for big stakes.

CHAPTER XIII.—Yancy awakes from long dreamless sleep on board the raft.

CHAPTER XIV.—Judge Price makes startling discoveries in looking up land titles. Charley Norton, a young planter, who assists the Judge, is mysteriously assaulted.

CHAPTER XV.—Norton informs Carrington that Betty has promised to marry him. Carrington bids Betty good-bye. Norton is mysteriously shot.

CHAPTER XVI.—More light on Murrell's plots. He plans uprising of negroes.

CHAPTER XVII.—The Judge and Hannibal visit Betty.

CHAPTER XVIII.—Betty is told why Norton was killed and leaves Belle Plain, taking Hannibal with her. The carriage is held up in the woods.

CHAPTER XIX.—Betty and Hannibal are made prisoners in a lonely cabin.

CHAPTER XX.—Murrell appears at the cabin and shows his hand.

CHAPTER XXI.—The Judge hears of the mysterious disappearance of Betty and Hannibal.

CHAPTER XXII.—The Judge takes charge of the situation, and search for the missing ones is instituted.

CHAPTER XXIII.—Carrington visits the judge and allies are discovered.

CHAPTER XXIV.—Judge Price visits Colonel Fentress, where he meets Yancy and Cavendish. Learns things of importance about the boy, dashes a glass of whisky into the colonel's face and a duel is arranged.

CHAPTER XXVIII.—Carrington finds Betty and Hannibal, and a fierce gun fight follows. Yancy appears and assists in the rescue.

CHAPTER XXIX.—Bruce Carrington and Betty come to an understanding.

CHAPTER XXV.—Murrell is arrested for negro stealing and his bubble bursts.

CHAPTER XXVI.—The Judge and Mahaffy discuss the coming duel.

CHAPTER XXVII.—Carrington makes frantic search for Betty and the boy.

CHAPTER XXX.—The Judge receives an important letter.

CHAPTER XXXI.—Solomon Mahaffy's last fight. Fights duel for the judge and is killed.

CHAPTER XXXII.—Hannibal proves to be Judge's grandson, and told the story of his life.

CHAPTER XXXIII.—Murrell's friends attempt to free him. Judge frustrates plans.

(Concluded from last issur)

Betty, her eyes cast down, twisted her rein nervously between her slim, white fingers, but Carrington's steady glance never left her sweet face, framed by its halo of bright hair. She stole another look at him from beneath her dark lashes.

"Three years, Betty?" he prompted.

"Bruce, don't stare at me that way, it makes me forget what I was going to say! When you come back—next year—" and then she lifted her eyes to his and he saw that they were full of sudden tears. "Bruce, don't go away—don't go away at all—"

Carrington slipped from the saddle and stood at her side.

"Do you mean that, Betty?" he asked. He took her hands loosely in his and relentlessly considered her crimsoned face. "I reckon it will always be right hard to refuse you anything—here is one settler the Purchase will never get!" and he laughed softly.

"It was the Purchase—you were going there!" she cried.

"No, I wasn't Betty; that notion died its natural death long ago. When we are sure you will be safe at Belle Plain with just the Cavendishes, I am going into Raleigh to wait as best I can until spring." He spoke so gravely that she asked in quick alarm.

"And then, Bruce—what?"

"And then— Oh, Betty, I'm starving—" All in a moment he lifted her slender figure in his arms, gathering her close to him. "And then, this—and this—and, this, sweetheart—and more—and—oh, Betty! Betty!"

CHAPTER XXXV.

The End and the Beginning.

When Murrell was brought to trial his lawyers were able to produce a host of witnesses whose sworn testimony showed that so simple a thing as perjury had no terrors for them. His fight for liberty was waged in and out of court with incredible bitterness, and, as judge and jury were only human, the outlaw escaped with the relatively light sentence of twelve years' imprisonment; he died, however, before the expiration of his term.

The judge, when he returned to Raleigh, resumed his own name of Turberville, and he allowed it to be known that he would not be offended by the prefix of General. During his absence he had accumulated a wealth of evidence of undoubted authenticity, with the result that his claim against the Fentress estate was sustained by the courts, and when The Oaks with its stock and slaves was offered for sale, he, as the principal creditor, was able to buy it in.

One of his first acts after taking possession of the property was to have Mahaffy reinterred in the grove of oaks below his bedroom windows, and he marked the spot with a great square of granite. The judge, visibly shaken by his emotions, saw the massive boulder go into place.

"Harsh and rugged like the nature of him who lies beneath it—but enduring, too, as he was," he murmured. He turned to Yancy and Hannibal, and added: "You will lay me beside him when I die."

Then when the bitter struggle came and he was wrenched and tortured by longings, his strength was in remembering his promise to the dead man, and it was his custom to go out under the oaks and pace to and fro beside Mahaffy's grave until he had gained the mastery of himself. Only Yancy and Hannibal knew how fierce the conflict was he waged, yet in the end he won that best earned of all victories, the victory over himself.

"My salvation has been a costly thing; it was bought with the blood of my friend," he told Yancy.

It was Hannibal's privilege to give Cavendish out of the vast Quintard tract such a farm as the earl had never dreamed of owning even in his most fervid moments of imagining; and he abandoned all idea of going to England to claim his title. At the judge's suggestion he named the place Earl's Court. He and Polly were entirely satisfied with their surroundings, and never ceased to congratulate themselves that they had left Lincoln county. They felt that their friends, the Carringtons at Belle Plain, though untitled people, were still of an equal rank with themselves; while as for the judge, they doubted if royalty itself laid it any over him.

Mr. Yancy accepted his changed fortunes with philosophic composure. Technically he filled the position of overseer at The Oaks, but the judge's activity was so great that this position was largely a sinecure. The most arduous work he performed was spending his wages.

"Oh, Betty! Betty!"

Certain trifling peculiarities survived with the judge even after he had entered what he had once been prone to call the Portal of Hope; for while his charity was very great and he lived with the splendid air of plenty that belonged to an older order, it required tact, patience and persistence to transact business with him; and his creditors, of whom there were always a respectable number, discovered that he esteemed them as they were aggressive and determined He explained to Yancy that too great certainty detracted from the charm of living, for, after all, life was a game—a gamble—he desired to be reminded of this. Yet he was held in great respect for his wisdom and learning, which was no more questioned than his courage.

Thus surrounded by his friends, who were devoted to him, he began Hannibal's education and the preparation of his memoirs, intended primarily for the instruction of his grandson, and which he modestly decided to call "The History of My Own Times," which clearly showed the magnificence of his mind and its outlook.

THE END

RADICAL CHANGE BY METHODISTS

Bishops Would Lift Present Ban on Amusements

Each Individual Should Be Left to Judge What Is Right and What Is Wrong, Though Church Heads Cannot Approve Dancing and Theatre Going—Cannot Fix Point Between "Turf and Stock Market"

Minneapolis, May 4.—"The American people are too far advanced longer to be restricted by church rules as to what their amusements shall be. The rule prohibiting dancing, card playing, gambling and going to theatres, circuses and horse races therefore should be abolished."

This is the gist of a report presented to the general conference of the Methodist Episcopal church by the board of bishops. In recommending this radical change, the twenty-four active bishops stipulated that the church, however, should not be indifferent on these subjects, but that the people should be left to judge for themselves what is right or wrong in amusements, having before them only the injunction of John Wesley which forbids "the taking of such diversions as cannot be taken in the name of the Lord Jesus."

"We would joyfully acclaim the day when every Christian would abstain from the amusements which have been prohibited," says the bishop's report, "but we can't repress our conviction that Wesley dealt more wisely with the danger. The bishops therefore recommend a return to the consistent treatment of this subject by Wesley, and the more earnestly because we are dealing with the American people and the intelligence of the twentieth century.

"As a church we cannot approve dancing and theatre going. They are questionable amusements. To us as to several of our sister churches they who justify these amusements as consistent with the spiritual life seem to manifest a deplorable lack of spiritual perception. Again we stand unitedly against gambling and we recognize clearly that it is the same sin in Wall Street that it is in the lowest resort, but we have never ventured legislatively to fix the point where the race track gambler, passing from the turf to the stock market, becomes a respectable business man eligible to church membership and the chairman of the board of trustees.

"In our absolute helplessness before this question we must continue to allow the world to suspect that the larger the stake and the more reckless of public weal the gain, the less vicious the crime, provided the winner pays tithes to religion or benevolence."

The reports stated that 1356 out of 2057 district superintendents had declared the amusement paragraph in the church discipline was ineffective. The bishops further recommended:

That the church, instead of having two temperance societies as represented in the Anti-Saloon League and the Methodist Church Temperance society, have only one, suggesting abolishing the church society.

That the church return to the limit of five years for pastorates, as was in force prior to 1900.

Denounced child labor and boycotting in disputes between capital and labor.

Indorsed President Taft in his attempts to promote international peace.

Denounced any attempt by any religious bodies to interfere with the civil status of marriages of their members when performed by clergymen of other denominations.

An attack on Secretary of Agriculture Wilson for attending the International Brewers congress in Chicago in October, 1911, resulted in the adoption of a resolution. After naming President Taft as having been asked to prevent Wilson's presence at the congress, the resolution declares that "those in authority have forfeited all claim on the future franchise of the Christian and sober manhood of the nation."

Secretary Wilson's explanation of his action was described as "a most invidious, fallacious and stereotyped excuse."

NOTED AS STEAMSHIP MAN

Death of Emil Boas, Who Had Been Honored by Emperor of Germany

New York, May 4.—A complicated attack of ptomaine poisoning, accompanied by pneumonia, while recovering from grip, caused the death of Emil L. Boas, resident director and general manager of the Hamburg-American line, and one of the best known steamship men in the world, at his home in Greenwich, Conn. He was 58 years old, and was born in Prussia.

Boas had been honored by the German Emperor with the decorations of Knight Royal of the Prussian order of the Crown and the order of the Red Eagle.

CIVIL SERVICE FOR FIRE CHIEF

When the bill to extend the civil service to the Chief of the Fire Department, in the City of Quincy, came up in the legislature for engrossment Friday, through some misunderstanding the bill was rejected without debate. It appears that few knew what the motion was that was being voted upon at that time. This morning Representative Leslie said that Monday a motion would be made to reconsider the vote of Friday and he did not doubt but what it would prevail.

JONES PLAYS GREAT GOLF

Will be Pitted Today Against Hyland at Wollaston

FRIDAY'S SCORES

Beverly E. Jones continued his success of the first two days at the Wollaston Golf club links, yesterday, eliminating Farrington in the second match play.

Jones and Farrington furnished the feature match of the day and it might be said, of the meeting thus far. The Concord player got right down to business at the start, and when the turn was approached he was 3 up. Between that tee and the fifteenth green Farrington got in some good work and had the match all even. There were two halves and then a brace of hard luck shots from tee and through the fairgreen cost the Woodland player his chance, for he took seven for the hole and thereby lost the match.

The cards:

Out—
Jones	5	5	3	4	6	5	4	5	5	—43
Farrington	6	6	4	4	5	5	5	5	4	—44
In—
Jones	4	5	5	3	5	5	4	4	4	—39—82
Farrington	3	5	5	3	5	4	4	4	7	—40—84

Lockwood started rather poorly in his match with Bigelow, being two down at the end of the first two holes. He took six on each, with Bigelow one under. A three on the third got back one for Lockwood, and fives on the fifth and sixth and fours on the seventh and eighth, with a halved hole in four at the ninth, gave the former champion the commanding lead of three on the break for home. Wins at the eleventh and twelfth in six and four, respectively; increased his lead to five, while a three at the fourteenth, with the intervening hole halved, gave him the win by six and four.

The summary:—

J. B. Hylan, Vesper, defeated J. McNamara, Alpine, by default.

B. E. Jones, Concord, defeated H. P. Farrington, Woodland, 1 up.

A. G. Lockwood, Belmont Spring, defeated P. Bigelow, Jr., Belmont Spring, 6 and 4.

J. E. McLaughlin, Wollaston, defeated F. T. Clark, Oakley, by default.

BUSINESS OF CITY COUNCIL

An important meeting of the City Council is scheduled for Monday evening. It has been three weeks since the last regular meeting and since that time several committees have held meetings and as a result a number of matters in the calendar will be reported upon. The Committee on Streets to whom has been referred a large amount of business has been busy during the last three weeks and has spent two days in going about the city. This committee has also held several meetings and is prepared to report on a number of matters at Monday night's meeting.

MEETING OF Y.M.C.A. PARENTS

The parents' meeting of the Y. M. C. A. will be held Tuesday evening at 8 o'clock. The speaker of the evening will be H. C. Leggat, boys' work director of the Worcester Y. M. C. A. who will speak on "The Home and its influence toward the Association."

The audience will hear brief reports on the work of the officers of the different departments as well as that of the members.

There will be music by the Y. M. C. A. orchestra and ice cream and cake will be served. A large attendance is expected.

Mrs. A. H. Hall of 37 Faxon road entertained the Friday club at a costume party yesterday. The morning was spent in playing games. At noon the guests partook of a luncheon of cabbage salad, egg salad, chicken salad, olives, pickles, coffee and cake. in the midst of which Mrs. Hall was presented with a handsome hand embroidered lunch cloth. This came as a complete surprise to Mrs. Hall. The ladies were dressed in various costumes; Mrs. Hall as queen of hearts and Mrs. G. Sprague king of hearts; Mrs. J. Wilkins, king of diamonds; Mrs. Eugene R. Stone, flower girl, carrying a basket of pansies, and a large bouquet of carnations which she distributed among the members; Mrs. Chandler, Indian girl and looked her part in every particular; Mrs. G. Dunham, who came as a deaf and dumb woman, caused much merriment Mrs. G. Spooner nd Mrs. E. Hayden were nurses; Mrs. Berry made a very charming Priscilla; Mrs. W. Drake was a school girl; Mrs. J. R Thomas a Japanese lady, and Mrs. W. White was the matron. The ladies enjoyed whist for two hours in the afternoon, after which ice cream and cake were served. Each lady was presented with a souvenir. All agreed that it was the most enjoyable meeting of the season. Mr. Spooner gave the use of his auto to convey the ladies to their homes. This club has made arrangements for a gentlemen's night at the home of Mrs. Eugene R. Stone, Quincy Point, for Saturday night, May 18th.

FOURTH WIN FOR QUINCY HIGH

Has Little Trouble in Defeating Abington High

5 TO 2

In order not to overtax McDonald, the regular pitcher, with work, Coach Staff of Quincy High changed Brown from centerfield to the pitcher's box, and had the satisfaction of seeing the new slab artist defeat Abington high 5 to 2, yesterday afternoon at Merrymount park. Brown proved to be an effective twirler, allowing his opponents but one hit and retiring nine of them by the aerial route.

Of course it was not to be expected that he would display great form on his initial appearance as a pitcher, yet Brown was able to master the situation at all times and seemed to have the visitors at his mercy, when it came to a question of hits. He threw nothing but a straight ball, yet it had enough "lift," so to speak, to it, that the Abington boys were at a loss to hit safely. It must be admitted, however, that superior work in fielding was accorded Brown at critical moments.

McGowan also twirled well, but failed to maintain the pace in the sixth inning, which he had established in the early stage of the game. He allowed Quincy High seven hits, three of which were good for extra bases and fanned eight.

The visitors scored their runs in the fourth inning. Murphy was safe on a fly to right field, which Blomquist failed to catch. Allen reached first on an error by Little. A passed ball allowed the two base runners to advance and subsequently to score when Crowley registered the first and only hit of the game credited to the Abington players.

The local team annexed four runs in the sixth when Barry started out with a clean single to right field. Blackmur reached first on an error. O'Dowd struck out. Holmes hit for three bases, scoring Barry and Blackmur. McDonald was out, McKewn to Robertson. Prout hit past second, Holmes scoring in the interior. Johnson was given a pass. Prout scored when Brown hit to deep centerfield for two bases.

The Granite City players scored another run in the eighth on a three-base hit by McDonald and a hit by Johnson.

Barry, O'Dowd and Holmes played in their usual brilliant form for the winners. The conspicuous stars of the game, however, were Brown and McKewn, the clever short-stop of the losing team, whose fielding was a feature of the contest.

Senators' Bill is Lost

Boston, May 4.—The bill requiring the names of candidates for the United States Senate to be placed on the ballot at the State election was again defeated in the Senate yesterday, this time by a vote of 12 to 19. The house had refused to accept the action of the Senate on the bill.

Clothes Are Like Character

And can't be judged at first blush!

Wherever a group of young fellows gather in these days, you're pretty certain of seeing some good looking clothes. The demands of young men in matters of cut, fabric, color, pattern, have done more to influence the making of clothes than any other one thing.

I have the kind of goods that strike the fancy of such young men; there's distinction and individuality about the goods and a finish in tailoring that gives the very desirable air of "class" which men always want, but don't always get in clothes.

You want it in yours, no matter who you are, or how old you are. You'll get it here; at

"SCIENCE AND HEALTH" THE ONE CHRISTIAN SCIENCE TEXTBOOK

Saint and Sinner Meet on Common Ground in Pages of This Remarkable Book

Instructive Lecture by William R. Rathvon, C. S B, at Long's Hall, Braintree

A very large audience attended the Christian Science lecture at Long's hall, Braintree, Sunday afternoon by William R. Rathvon, C. S. B. of Denver, Col., a member of the Christian Science board of lectureship of the First Church of Christ, Scientist, of Boston. In his lecture Mr. Rathvon said:

The intelligent study of any science should proceed by the orderly use of its text-books. Its laws and its statements thus learned are to be proved in the class room, in the laboratory, or in the field, as the case may be.

Christian Science, universal in its usefulness and in its availability is likewise to be learned from its text-book and then proved and demonstrated in all the various avenues and activities of everyday life, wherever man mingles with man or his interests touch those of his fellows.

BESIDES THE BIBLE

Christian Science has but one text-book, "Science and Health with Key to the Scriptures" by Mary Baker Eddy. It is not a book to be quickly read or hastily thumbed over as one would a shallow novel. Nor is it to be approached with bias or prejudice if one would share its riches; but its truths may be proved and in turn imparted by child or sage who turns its leaves with an open mind. Only the open flower it is that catches the dew and yields its honey to the bee.

Saint and sinner meet on common ground in the pages of this remarkable book, and though its starts all alike at the bottom of the ladder it always lifts up and never drags down. Time and again its covers have been rudely torn open by unfriendly hands in search of phrases to wrench from their context and with which to smite men of straw, yet neither force nor deceit, the blundering of the bear or the cunning of the fox can avail to divert or suppress its tidings of comfort and joy.

It has been asserted that Christian Scientists place their text-book above the Bible as the guide to righteousness. No one can honestly make this allegation who has read the book carefully, for on page 497 of Science and Health are printed these words, the first of a series of tenets of our religion:

"As adherents of Truth we take the inspired Word of the Bible as our sufficient guide to eternal Life."

What more emphatic and explicit negation of such a charge could be demanded?

The truths of Christian Science do not originate in the book of Science and Health. They find expression there but their origin is in God. They have always existed and will forever exist. What effect, then, it may be asked, does the study of this book have upon those who have previously been Bible students? Does it supplant the Bible in their reverence and admiration? Is the Book of books less precious to them than before? The answer is, "No." On the other hand Science and Health harmonizes many seeming incongruities in the Bible which have long perplexed layman and theologian; it explains apparent contradictions; it discloses unexpected riches; it gives new significance to favorite passages, and brings neglected ones into favor.

No man can read it with an open heart, and not be a better man for the reading; no sorrowing one need miss its message of comfort; none tortured by pain or enfeebled by disease need close it in despair. The simple may gather from it wisdom; the wise may gain from it simplicity.

It was written in solitude by a woman whose spiritual hearing was acute enough to catch the words that God has been speaking aloud to dull-eared mankind ever since time began. The message that rang in her ears was not for her alone, but for all her fellowmen, living and to live, and she could no more smother it into silence than the trees can knot their eager leaves when they have the message of spring to unfold.

It has fallen to my lot to have known its author intimately in the last few years of her earthly activity. One November day in 1908, Mrs. Eddy called me to her side from my home in Colorado to become a member of that historic household at Chestnut Hill which she once publicly designa-

BOY RUN DOWN BY MOTORCYCLE

Malcolm McKinnon the 8 year old son of Daniel McKinnon of 46 Rodman street was run down by a motorcycle Saturday afternoon, near Centre street, by an unknown man. After knocking the boy down the man stopped long enough to examine his machine to see that it was not damaged, but according to the boys he paid no attention to the injured lad who lay prostrate on the side of the street. It is said that some of the other boys called the man's attention to the injured boy but that the only reply he made was to say "The kid had a right to look out for himself as the horn was sounded."

The man then rode off and the other boys assisted the McKinnon boy to his home. The physician called found that no bones had been broken, but that the little fellow had received a bad shaking up.

SOCIALIST CLUB DANCE

A most enjoyable time was in order at the dancing party, held Saturday evening, in Electa hall, under the auspices of the Swedish Socialist club. There was a large attendance and many guests were present.

Music was by Constron's orchestra. A short intermission took place at ten o'clock, during which refreshments were served. Dancing concluded at midnight.

The committee in charge were: A Bergstadt, Svan Hallstrom, Carl Stenbeck, John Thoren, Aisar Carlson, Helmar Sjabon, Olof Hanson, Bernard Erickson and Hans Valin.

MAY DANCE OF CATHOLIC CLUB

Many novel and special features have been planned for the annual May dance to be given by the Quincy Catholic club, Thursday evening at Alpha hall. The floor will be in charge of Edward D. Barrett. The ushers are; Joseph A. Dasha, Charles C. Hearn, Daniel J. Deasy, Thomas J. Dunphy, Robert E. Foy, John W. Walsh, John A. McGowan, Lawrence W. Lyons, Dr. C. J. Lynch, Dr. Daniel B. Reardon, John J. Cunniff, Dr. J. W. Maloney, John J. Deasy, Harry McGrath, Edward J. Murphy, Dr. George B. Sheahan, John Malone, J. J. Reardon, Leo J. McMaster, Martin E. Cook, William A. Carey, Michael T. Walsh, Dr. Joseph Harkins, T. Byron Brown, John J. Heaney, William J. Walsh, J. W. Lynch and Leo Ford.

STREET CAR CHANGES.

There is a change of running time on the street cars to and from Neponset by the way of Hancock street, the cars leaving Quincy at 5.45, 6.20, 6.50 A. M., and every 30 minutes until 10.50 P. M., returning at 6.40, 7.10, 740 A. M., and every 30 minutes until 11.10 P. M.

Also by way of Wollaston, leaving Quincy at 6.03, 6.33, 7.03 A. M., and every 30 minutes until 11.03 P. M., returning at 6.25 6.55, 7.25 A. M., and every 30 minutes until 11.25 P. M.

BURGLAR EATS HEARTY MEAL

Burglar at National Sailors' Home a Cool One

MAKES ESCAPE

One of the most cool-headed cases of breaking and entering occurred about 1.30 Sunday morning, when the National Sailors' Home in Wollaston, where a large number of Uncle Sam's bluejackets, who have long since become incapacitated for services, owing to old age, are spending the remainder of their days, was entered by some one by the way of the ground floor at the rear of the house.

Instead of making a survey with a lantern, armed with the necessary implements, the intruder first satisfied his appetite. He secured what food he wanted, cooked it to his own satisfaction and ate it. Nor was this all, for in addition to having an early morning repast, he prepared a luncheon, which he evidently intended to take away with him when ready to make his exit.

Having made a most careful survey of the cuisine department, he set out to inspect the upper floor. In order to do this he was forced to gain entrance through window of the office of the Commandant of the home, Harry A. Whitelaw. Mr. Whitelaw had purchased a box of cigars the day before, which he intended to enjoy on the Sabbath, but the cigar exercises were opened up and conducted under most favorably auspices by the seemingly fearless visitor, who caused the Commandant's office to become filled with the aroma of cigars that could be cut with a knife. This task having been accomplished, the visitor treated himself to some candy, which Mrs. Whitelaw had left on her husband's desk.

One would think, as the fellow began to wend his way to the sleeping quarters, that he was about to retire for a few hours' rest, but, no, he chose a different course and entered the room of one Joseph Knowles, a resident of Boston, who was the guest of the Commandant. Why the inquisitve one picked out Knowles could not be surmised, yet Knowles was deprived of a sum of money, which was in a pocketbook, a pair of gloves and two coats. His next move was thwarted, for Knowles awakened and espied him crouching at the corner of the bed, and as he began to depart Knowles ran after him. The visitor, greatly refreshed after his supper, was much more fleet of foot than Knowles and succeeded in getting away without leaving any clue as to his identity.

Knowles aroused a number of the inmates in an attempt to catch the fellow, but the visitor had vanished.

—The Providence Journal wants to know whether "things have blown over enough so that Richeson may be spared his life and Thaw may go free." Don't know about the former, but the latter contingency seems likely to obtain some day if the Thaw family are willing to be "held up" for plenty of money, spent where it will do the most good.—Brockton Enterprise.

HAS SAMPLE OF MONUMENT

Henry P. Kittredge returned Saturday from a trip to Washington, D. C. where he went on a political errand. While in Washington, he attended the hearings on the Titanic disaster before the United States Senate Committee and was given the four complete reports of the testimony of the witnesses, which make very interesting reading. He brought home a sample of the marble of which the Columbus statue which fronts the Union station in Washington was cut which he will present to Quincy Council Knights of Columbus at its next meeting. The statue is now nearing completion at a cost of $100,000. It is of white marble from the Piedmont valley in Georgia. The monument will be unveiled June 8, and many members of the two Quincy councils will be present.

MRS. MARY BEAL DRAKE.

Mrs. Mary Beal Drake widow of Charles A. Drake of 58 Standish avenue, and one of the oldest ladies in Quincy died Saturday at her home aged 88 years. She leaves four children, Mrs. L. M. Carr of Somerville, Mrs. David Phelan of Wollaston, L. B. White of Mansfield and A. L. White of Whitman. Funeral services were held from her late home this afternoon.

BRIEFS

Mrs. Thomas Hewson of Newcomb place, is entertaining her granddaughter from Waltham.

William Caldwell holds a whist party in Stone's hall, Washington street, Quincy Point, Thursday evening.

Mrs. William Loud of Washington street, has been entertaining her father from Waltham, the past week.

Eugene Neal has severed his connections with C. P. Gould, and with his family have moved to Portsmouth, N. H.

Mrs. Lizzie McIntosh who has been at the city hospital a few weeks, the result of an accident, was removed to her home on Franklin street, last week.

Mrs. George Richardson and son Earle leave for New York Tuesday, from which place they will sail on the following day for England on the Lusitania.

Several members of Maple Lodge K. and L. of H. are to attend the annual Grand Lodge convention, in I. O. O. F. hall, Tremont street, Boston, on Wednesday.

Some fine pictures of the crowd about the depot last Monday to welcome President Taft were taken by the Fore River photographer and are on exhibition in some of the City Square stores.

There will be a meeting of the Ward Six Fourth of July Association, Thursday, at 8 p. m., at the home of Frank E. Badger, Clive street, for the purpose of incorporating the Association. A large attendance is anticipated.

Many of the grocery and provision stores will close every Wednesday afternoon at one o'clock until Oct. 1. Those advertised in another column are R. E. Foy & Co., Brown & Crowell, John Casey, E. H. Doble & Co., Frank Brewer and J. P. Prout.

The regular monthly meeting of the Ladies' Benevolent society of Memorial church will be held in the Church parlor, Wednesday afternoon of this week. Officers will be elected for the ensuing year. Refreshments will be in charge of the president, Mrs. S. E. Butler.

Roscoe Ricker of Quincy who has become a familiar figure in the affairs at New England Conservatory of Music, Boston, was prominent on the programme presented by the students of the big school on Saturday. Mr. Ricker is studying in the violin department and on this occasion he appeared in two numbers—Beethoven's Trio in B flat, Op. 11, for pianoforte, violin and violincello, and Mozart's Adagio from Trio in B flat major for the same instruments. Both selectinons were enthusiastically applauded by a large audience.

McDONALD HAS A BAD RECORD

John H. McDonald was arrested by Inspector Goodhue as he was released from Charlestown jail Saturday on a default warrant for larceny at Quincy. McDonald was arrested in Quincy last year for larceny of money from George Peterson at Houghs Neck and sentenced to six months in jail. The sentence was suspended however until September to allow him to make restitution. Then he skipped and was later arrested in Boston for larceny and given eight months. McDonald has a bad record. He has served two years time in Cranston, R. I., for larceny and also one year for the larceny of a horse and team in Quincy. He was in court this morning.

FINED FOR DISTURBANCE

Bartholemew F. Foley, who claims to hail from Charlestown paid a visit to Houghs Neck Sunday and on his way back to Quincy created a disturbance on the street cars. The conductor called Officer Phillips who placed him under arrest. This morning in court he was fined $25 for creating a disturbance on a public conveyance.

UNCLAIMED LETTERS.

Letters remain uncalled for at the Quincy Post Office for: Mr. Abraham, Mr. and Mrs. Baxter, John W. Bennett, John Craig, Luigi Desantis, Julia Dick, Olli Kuitinen, Rosi Lliderehknlf, Lindsay Bros, (Inc.) W. J. Lorward, Wm. Morgan, Selmer Siahlam, Mrs. S. E. Stelfon, Miss Mila B. Stephen, Wm. Tamplin and Mrs. Patrick Toohey.

THOMAS DUFFY.

The funeral of Thomas Duffy, one of Quincy's long-time residents, who died last week was held this morning from St. John's church. The services were very largely attended. Mass was celebrated by Rev. John J. Coan. The burial was at Mt. Calvary. There was a profusion of beautiful flowers that completely filled one carriage.

ENTERED HOUSE BY MISTAKE

William J. Keegan was arrested by Inspector Goodhue Sunday as being the party who entered the house of Charles Jones on South street Tuesday evening. As the young man entered the house he was confronted by a nurse and beat a hasty retreat. It is reported that he was somewhat under the influence of liquor and his entrance into the house was a mistake.

ALBERT G DOLIVER.

The funeral of Albert G Doliver was held Saturday afternoon from his late home 33 Saville street, and was largely attended. The services were conducted by Rev. Dr. Adelbert L. Hudson of the First church. The services were attended by a large delegation of Rural Masonic lodge, Mt. Wollaston lodge of Odd Fellows and the Washington M. French hose association. After the services the body was taken to the Forest Hills crematory.

CHENEY CRAVATS

Without quibble or question there is or can be no truer index to the expression, no better key to the individuality than the scarf.

With the exception of collars, more scarfs are bought than any other one item of dress—by them not only taste but mood is reflected.

The selection of Cheney Cravats compliments your taste—confirms your judgment—stamps you as of the cognoscenti.

Designed in famous art studios, woven on art looms—tailored as are few scarfs selling at twice their price—Cheney Cravats are quality through and through. The backbands are reinforced, the neckbands slide easily—they are crease proof, pin proof and knot proof—no amount of hard service will make them limp or stringy.

Buy Cheney Cravats—get more quality for less money than you have ever known.

The price is but a half dollar, and every scarf is guaranteed.

HONESTY IN EVERYTHING

Every one is trying to reduce the cost of living by voting for higher prices for their own products.

Much is being said about the "silk stocking" vote, and we are also fearful of the silk-tongued vote.

Instead of going out hand in hand to pick Mayflowers on May day, Will and Theodore exchanged turnips as a pledge of affection.

The Pope of Rome must feel awfully lonely when he thinks that everyone else that amounts to anything has been put into the Ananias club.

There is a campaign to simplify legal papers, which would be a great mistake, as then the public might know what they mean.

It costs so much to build a house nowadays, that it might be cheaper to give the carpenters the material and the lot before they begin.

It's pretty hard to keep up your reputation as a good live motorist unless your Sunday afternoon trip winds up in the hospital.

A six years' term for president would prevent the people from having their minds distracted by politics from base ball half the time.

George Borup's tragic death in Long Island Sound emphasizes the truth that every canoe should be properly equipped with life boats, particularly when you take out your best girl.

It would seem as if any one that could size up the shell game at country fair should have been able to size up the pledges to revise the tariff downwards, but it appears that they weren't.

Three thrifty trees of five years' growth set out by the Quincy Women's club on Coddington street, have been sacrificed to the new Court House. Wonder if they will be replaced at some more convenient location or if the Court house will stand high and shadeless. One class of citizens try to make Quincy attractive while others chop down trees as though it were a real pleasure to do so.

One of the most effective ways for local merchants to oppose encroachments of mail-order houses is to advertise liberally in the home paper. Too many merchants sleep on their oars while the catalogue house comes in and takes a large portion of their trade. They demur at undertaking anything like a thorough system of advertising, contending that the drift to the mail-order houses is bound to come; and yet they make free complaint over the inroads of the mail-order houses into their particular trade. The fact of the matter is, the trade belongs rightfully to them and would come to them if they were progressive enough in inviting it with good, live advertising.

MEN AND RELIGION.

"Not a dent was made in the civic conscience of New York" by the Men and Religion Forward Movement, according to one speech delivered last week to the United Presbyterian Ministerial Association.

Yet a ringing story of honest work for better living was presented at that Convention. A struggle with the boy problem at Kansas City, better housing at Dallas, homeless men at Des Moines, the loan sharks in Maine, regulating moving pictures at Grand Rapids—these are a few sample incidents of this "going after souls on a business basis."

Why are the men of New York and other cities so indifferent to such human appeal? The speaker before the Ministerial Association called it "money madness."

Any one who is carrying the responsibility for any kind of religious or civic work must be impressed with the enormous difficulty of getting men to serve on committees, or sacrifice any of the sacred moments that are the property of St. Mammon.

Formerly men used to teach in Sunday schools. The older churchmen all have big gilt-edged leather covered pulpit bibles given them in recognition of patient honest work in Bible study and friendly tutorship in good living. To-day Sunday school classes are taught largely by immature young girls who have time on their hands, and conscientious and overburdened married women, who fill the gap while their husbands are reading the Sunday newspaper or straightening out their tangled ledgers.

There is a large amount of unpaid public work that must be done if our city is to keep clean, high-minded, if boys are to come up gentlemen and white men, and if larceny is to be kept out of public office. It truly will be a glorious thought, when we quit our desks for the final twilight, if our whole time has gone into the salting of dollar signs away in our safe deposit boxes, letting the other fellow or nobody do the work that makes a city worth living in.

One thing should be said to the churches: "Make your work business like enough so as not to repel business men by a toleration of inefficiency. Don't pay two preachers, two janitors, two choristers, two organists, two coal bills, to do the work of one, merely so that one preacher shall perform his functions in a white gown and the other in a black frock coat.

SNAKING.

The annual crop of spring snake stories is now coming in. But somehow one gets the impression that snaking as a pursuit of youth is out of favor with the Modern Boy.

In the district school of years ago, snaking was a regular function of spring, like playing marbles. To fail to get out after the annual hunt of black and striped snakes was like missing the huckleberry season or neglecting the annual trip to your neighbor's early fruit tree.

Care and thought was given to the selection of a suitable weapon with which to attack the squirming enemy. Boys became connoisseurs, and a good snake stick was cherished like a good bow and arrow or a finely hung top. It had to be limber enough to fit to a certain extent into the hollows of the ground in which the foe lay curled. Yet it must be heavy enough to strike a cutting blow.

The good snaker was hardened beyond all effeminate shrinking from the slinking antagonist of man. Never did he hesitate to grab a serpent by the tail and pull him out of his hole, severing his vertebrae by a few swift, practised snaps.

After visiting the traditional haunts along the rocks where the snakes come out for their sun baths, the next proceeding was to swing the slippery carcasses over a snake stick. Supported by two boys, the prey was transferred to the school yard. There the dead serpents were placed in life-like positions along the way where Teacher and the girls would pass. The results demonstrated the futility of teachers, the inherent cowardice of femininity, and the gallantry of the male mind.

But to-day? Do any boys go snaking?

The antipathy to the snake is so universal, that there is not the slightest tinge of lawlessness about its pursuit. The boy snaker feels too conscious that he has the approval of the grownup world, to make the chase interesting.

Something in which he can assert his own personality against the pedantic maxims of existing law, custom and authority, has greater fascination. Stoning the bull frogs, rocking the sparrows, or discharging air guns at the song birds, gives a larger sense of self-assertion and individualistic power.

JEST ASK DAD.

John D. Larkin.

Our family is the queerest one
I'll bet you ever see;
There ain't but one in all the batch
With a good quality.
The rest o' us have lots o' traits,
But all of 'em are bad,
An' if you don't believe me, why,
You jest ask Dad.

There's sister Kate and sister Nell
Their fault is makin' breaks;
They ain't like pa a single bit,
Because they makes mistakes.
They ought to have been better with
The trainin' they have had,
But if you don't believe me, why,
You jest ask Dad.

Next comes my sisters Bess and Sue,
With fault of too much style;;
They seem to think o' nothin' else,
They talk it all the while.
They keep us in hot water with
Some fool, expensive fad,
An' if you don't believe me, why,
You jest ask Dad.

Now last, not least, comes Bill and me
Fergittin' is our trait.
It ain't no habit we've acquired,
It seems to be our fate.
We all take after ma, we do—
No wonder we're so bad,
An' if you don't believe me, why,
You jest ask Dad.

CHRISTIAN SCIENCE LECTURE

ted "the happiest group of Christian Scientiests on earth." I was privileged to share her daily counsels for more than two years, and from the time of my first half hour's heart-to-heart talk with her, down to the afternoon, when standing at her side I saw her marvelous hands shape her last written words, "God is my life," I have never wavered in my conviction that she has been the chosen evangel of Truth, intrusted with those good tidings of great joy that have been waiting man's readiness since the days when Jesus trod the dusty fields of Syria, and sailed the blue waters of Galilee.

The establishment of a great religious organization whose 1200 growing branches belt the globe, the installation of a simple form of service which fills those churches twice each week with throngs of worshippers who are drawn neither by music, eloquence, nor sensational sermonizing; the building up of efficient agencies and institutions for the dissemination and protection of a radically new system of ethics; and the launching of a great metropolitan daily in the interests of clean journalism whose success has set a new mark in the newspaper world—these things or any of them would give eminence to the life-work of the most ambitious of men. To a modest woman, Mary Baker Eddy, belongs the credit of them all.

But these achievements, grand as they are, weighed little with her compared with the fruits of her consecrated endeavors to bring more and more of peace on earth and good will to men, and to guide us to a clearer and more practical understanding of the Fatherhood of God and the brotherhood of man. The applause of men, like their abuse and condemnation, she brushed aside as cobwebs when she was once assured of the approval of God.

In contemplating God as infinite Principle, we find our life problems must be worked out according to this unerring Principle of Being, or they will be failures, precisely as failure follows the work of the student in algebra, who ignores the principles of mathematics. The mistakes we make in life and their afflictive results are due to our ignorance of Principle, or to our disregard of the laws expressing Principle, and in all cases are assignable to our shortcomings and never to Principle itself. The deplorable mistakes in man's history which he designates as sickness and suffering and failure and disaster will diminish in frequency and virulence as he apples himself to gain a better understanding of divine Principle, and persists in using that understanding in the affairs of his everyday life. He must give it expression to the limit of his cognition, for a principle unexpressed is as futile as a theory untried.

Christian Science stands before the world as a demonstrable religion, one that is to be lived, not merely believed. The standard of proficiency for the Christian Scientiest is not how much he believes, but how much of that belief he is using in his daily life, in his dealings with his fellow men and in the sanctity of his innermost thoughts.

Hence it is that there is no such thing as a purely theoretical Christian Scientist. No man can become a Christian Scientist by merely believing in the teachings of its textbook without practising them. We are Christian Scientists only as we put into our constant practise our knowledge of our religion, be that knowledge great or small. We are Christian Scientists only as we are kind and helpful in thought and deed; only as he think health and talk health instead of disease and disaster. We are Christian Scientists only as we say to evil mental suggestion, "Peace, be still!" Only as we are loving and courageous and resolute and unswerving in our warfare against sin, sickness and death.

BODY'S REPONSE TO MIND.

It is often charged against Christian Scientists because they rely wholly upon Mind that they do not "do anything" for the sick. When the average man considers the needs of a sick person, his thought at once turns to the medicine bottle and he believes there is nothing being done for the sick man unless he is made to swallow something. According to his peremptory opinions, the sick man should be treated with something that he can taste or smell or feel, something that the senses can perceive. Otherwise "Nothing is being done for him." He may tell you that attempting to change the condition of a man's body through mind alone is foolishness. And yet—this same intelligent citizen will readily admit that a man's body commonly and frequently undergoes sudden and very marked changes due entirely to mental causes. He will admit that salt water will flow from his eyes if he is subjected to great grief. That sudden fear will produce cold perspiration. That anger will cause the face to flush or pale, the heart to thump, the voice to change.

Now grief, anger and the like are obviously mental, but because their effect on the body is of every-day occurrence, as commonplace as eating and drinking, the lesson they disclose is lost upon the man who hastens to censure Christian Science for achieving what he styles the impossible, yet which has been a part of him since the day when as a crying infant he on his mother's arm shed his first tears.

If then it is conceded that the state of mind may disturb the secretions, causing the tears to flow; or that the state of mind may quicken the action of the heart, causing the blood to rush to the face or away from it; or if the state of mind can affect the organs of the throat causing huskiness, then it is plain that the state of mind may be held accountable for other derangements of the organs of secretion, of circulation and of speech. And if of these why not of other organs of the body? If changing grief into joy will stop the flow of tears, or in other words if a change of thought will change the flow of fluid to the eyes, why will not a change of thought change the flow of fluids to the stomach? Is it not more rational then to treat dyspepsia with mind than with tabloids and powders?

And so it is with all other bodily diseases and derangements, they have one and all responded to the curative influence of Mind, administered in Christian Science.

HEREAFTER.

In considering the immortality of man one is confronted by the questions, "What of the hereafter? How am I to regard the change called death? What and where is heaven?" Christian Science makes direct answer to these very natural questions. That which is called death, though always an enemy and finally to be overcome, as the Bible declares, is no more to be feared than is sleep. In the present state of our development both are incidental to the experience of mankind; both interfere for the time with man's activities; and the awakening—alike in both cases—will, we believe, show no substantial change in individuality or advancement. The gates of heaven do not swing open at the touch of death, but are to be entered by right thinking and right living, here and hereafter.

The work of regeneration and reformation left unfinished here will have to be done hereafter. The stirring command, "Work out your own salvation," follows us wherever we may be and through whatever changes we may pass. Death does not silence it nor modify its demands. Love of life, not fear of death, is in Christian Science the great incentive to action and achievement.

Most men have found they can get all they want of heaven's antithesis, hell, right here on earth, and there are many who believe they have already had more than their share of it, and perhaps they have. But they should know that it does not come from the hand of God. Sin brings its own punishment. It has been truly said that man is not punished for his sins, but by his sins. By sin is meant what Paul defines as transgression of the law, whether due to man's ignorance of God's law or to his wilful disobedience of it. The child who, through ignorance or disobedience, picks up a piece of hot iron suffers because of his ignorance or disobedience. His loving father has had nothing to do with his suffering, and "Our Father which art in heaven," loving every one of His children, sends upon them neither pain nor penalty. From Him cometh only the "good and perfect gift."

How necessary, then, it is for our salvation, for our health, for our safety and our well-being to understand God's spiritual laws that we may obey them. Many of us for years sought this understanding in the churches and out of them, seeking peace of mind and health of body and finding neither until we turned to Christian Science, where we found them both and with them gained a measure of the understanding of God that has transformed our lives.

LOVE VS. FEAR.

There is a short and cheering message that Christian Science has to deliver to all who have ears to hear. It is not a new message. It has reassured the children of men ever since they first felt the chill of fear. The loving mother encouraging her toddling infant, the gallant captain cheering his men to greater valor, the gentle Saviour quieting his affrighted disciples, all use it. That message is "Be not afraid."

Frequently it is said, "It is all well enough to say 'do not be afraid,' but how am I to get rid of fear and worry and anxiety? I use all the will-power and determination I can command, yet I do not get rid of worry. It comes in about as fast as I drive it out."

Attempting to get the mastery of fear and worry by will-power alone is like trying to beat back the ocean with a baseball bat, or trying to chase clouds away with a broom. You cannot get rid of them by fighting them, but you can readily get out of their reach by rising higher. The waves of fear and the mists of worry do not extend upwards and if you will but climb to the hilltop of selflessness where Love stands waiting to welcome you with outstretched hands, you will no longer be buffeted by fear or befogged by worry. For centuries St. John has been telling this to the world in these words, "Perfect love casteth out fear."

Love for God and man is the one indispensable element of all true and lasting success. The world of today is slow to rise to the appreciation of this great truth. The world of commerce, of industry, of the professions is still constructing its various undertakings out of the raw materials of energy, determination, skill and enterprise, each of which is measurably useful in its particular channel, but all are lacking in the one essential needed to make them enduring and truly beneficent. That one thing needful is love for God and man.

Did you ever consider how our great cities are made up of buildings, large and small, each constructed by laying one brick on top of another until their walls tower upward and the streets stretch, how all of this is possible only through the universal use of that commonplace and homely material known as mortar? And did you ever consider how these miles of walls would totter and crash to the ground if the countless millions of pieces which composed them were not cemented together by the mortar that binds every brick and stone?

So it is with our thoughts, our actions, our endeavors. They are brick and stones out of which our lives are constructed. However well shaped, however carefully laid they may be, unless they are bound above and below with the cement of love for God and man, they may in time tumble into a tangled mass of mediocrity like mortarless bricks. But when laid with the cement of love into the structure of our lives, they will protect and shelter and beautify the affairs of all who enter them.

DISCOURAGEMENT.

Christian Science brings the Truth to human comprehension, gives freedom from whatever enslaves and thus bestows mental, moral and physical liberty. In the process of liberation it sifts out certain pernicious practises and propensities, generally regarded as harmless, but which are to be shunned as allies of evil. It shows us that we have indulged in moods and inclinations that we believed were guiltless, if not commendable, but were in reality neither wise nor harmless. We find we have been warming in the incubator of our favor the eggs of serpents that we believed belonged to doves. Perhaps the most common of disease-inviting habits of thought is discouragement. I daresay we have all been on intimate terms with it one time or another and while we have never found it cheerful company, we have not looked upon it as a sinister visitor. Yet that is just what Christian Science shows it to be.

Discouragement wears the invisible livery of evil and is constantly and consistently working for its master. It is always pulling down and never building up.

Did you ever know any one to accomplish anything worth while when in the grip of discouragement? It paralyzes effort, stupefies thought and dissipates purpose.

An effective plan to drive out discouragement is to bring into thought some measure of gratitude or praise. There can always be found something to be grateful for if we will hunt for it honestly and earnestly. The good old-fashioned practise of counting our blessings, the things we have we would not like to do without, generally brings gratitude to the surface for along every man's pathway in life there are blooming the sweet flowers of gratitude and if he will but stoop and pull one and wear it he will find its fragrance a magic dispeller of discouragement. Or if the day be cold and dreary and the flowers covered with snow, he can find that warmth of soul which always banishes discouragement, if he will but heed that part of a favorite passage of Jesus from Isaiah, where we are commanded to put on "the garment of praise for the spirit of heaviness."

It never fails.

LIGHT AND DARKNESS.

I have thus far spoken more of the results of Christian Science than of its methods. For the latter I would have you consult the pages of its textbook "Science and Health with Key to the Scriptures," by Mary Baker Eddy. You will not lay it down with disappointment if you take it up with sincerity.

But that you may carry away with you tonight some elementary precept to test for yourselves, I would place before you this simple fact. The Christian Science method of getting rid of things that are wrong is to introduce things that are right. This is not fighting evil but destroying it. It has been proved in millions of instances that a wrong thought which is the father of a wrong action will invariably vanish into nothingness if you will but introduce a right thought in its place. Good destroys evil as surely and as quickly as light destroys darkness. Remember that for you will find it helpful if you are ever disposed to try Christian Science for yourselves. If you will associate in your thought good with light, and evil with darkness you will have before you a flash-light glimpse of the impotence of evil in the presence of the good. Not all the darkness in the universe can extinguish the light of one tiny lamp. Wherever it goes it chases away darkness, which is always without power to move, or even to be in the presence of light. So with the light of good and the darkness of evil.

The comparison is a good one, but it is not mine. You will find it many times in the pages of your Bible. Remember then, if you will, that the Christian Science method of banishing evil—darkness—is to bring in the light—good. If you were to try it for a single day you would be surprised to find what a new sort of day you would be giving to yourselves. Every time you find yourself thinking unkindly about your neighbor, bring in a good thought about him. It will help him and it will help you.

Every time your thought drops to the level of the beast, lift it as near the stars as you can raise it. If thoughts unclean, unjust, malicious or obstructive are there, bring in something of purity, of justice, of helpfulness, of love. When you have done your best in this line of noble endeavor, you have accomplished much. You have taken a step, a little one to be sure, but it leads in the direction of the understanding of God—the knowledge of Him, whom to know aright is life eternal.

SUNDAY IN OUR CHURCHES

Topics and Anncuncements For Coming Week

SUNDAY SCHOOLS

WOLLASTON CONGREGATIONAL.

A large congregation was in attendance at the Sunday morning service, and found inspiration and comfort in music and sermon. The quartet rendered two beautiful anthems and J. F. Morse a tenor solo. Rev. Edward A. Norton chose for his text Song of Solomon 2:4, "He brought me to the banqueting house, and His banner over me was love." The sermon was appropriate to the comunion service which folowed.

Tuesday afternoon at 3 o'clock, The Ladies' Auxiliary of the Woman's Board of Missions will hold a meeting in the vestry, and Mrs. Sowle, a missionary from Turkey, will speak. This will be an important business meeting and all ladies of the congregation are cordially invited to attend.

Same hour and place on Wednesday The Ladies' Benevolent society will hold its annual business meeting.

At 3 o'clock on Friday, the annual business meeting of the Woman's Auxiliary of the Y. M. C. A., will be held. Mrs. D. H. Goodspeed, secretary.

At 7.45 Friday evening, the regular mid-week service will be held and Mr. Norton will speak of "Geronino the Martyr of the Sixteenth Ceneury." These meetings are really an important part of the church life.

Sunday, May 19th, will be observed as "Old Folks' Day," with special morning and vesper services, to which the public is cordially invited. Good old hymns, with familiar solos, anthems, and choruses will no doubt prove attractive, not only to the older friends, but also to all who attend, old or young. Suggestions as to favorite hymns or anthems are solicited by the committee, and may be addressed to C. J. Hogue, 19 Lincoln avenue, Wollaston, who will consider such suggestions a favor. Earphones are installed in some of the pews to assist those whose hearing is impaired. A means of conveyance will be provided for those who by reason of ill health, or distance from the church, would be otherwise unable to attend. Will all who wish to avail themselves of this privilege kindly notify Mr. Hogue —address above—stating which service they wish to attend. Morning service at 10.45 A. M., vesper service at 4 o'clock. Both services largely musical.

WOLLASTON UNITARIAN.

This church accepts the religion of Jesus, holding in accordance with His teaching, that practical religion is summed up in love to God and love to man.

Rev. Elvin J. Prescott, pastor of the First Parish in Gloucester, which was organized in 1642, is a classmate of Rev. Mr. Horst. Of this class Mr. Horst is the third to serve the Wollaston Unitarian church, the other two being the Rev. James E. Bagley and the Rev. Frank Wright Pratt.

The pastor officiated this afternoon at the funeral of Mrs. Drake of 58 Standish avenue.

The annual meeting of the Earnest Workers Lend-a-Hand club will be held with Miss Ruth Jones, Tuesday, at 3 P. M.

The annual Unitarian May meetings will be held in Boston the week beginning May 20. The anniversary sermon on Tuesday evening, May 21, will be preached by the Rev. Prof. Lawrence Pearsall Jacks of Manchester college, Oxford, the editor of the "Hibbert Journal.' Rev. Frank W. Pratt, our indefatigable missionary in the Canadian Northwest will come and give some account of his inspiring labors in that great and rapidly growing country. Mr. Pratt, who was formerly minister of this church, will receive a hearty welcome from his many friends in Wollaston.

The next meeting of the Norfolk Conference of Unitarian churches, to which our church belongs, will be held at Sharon, June 5.

Any person desiring to give memorial flowers any Sunday is kindly requested to notify the flower committee.

As the weather gets warmer, there is a tendency to smaller congregations This tendency can only be overcome by each one making an effort to be present each Sunday until the church closes for the annual vacation.

The Catholics have just issued an encyclopedia, which, for size, scholarship, comprehensiveness, moderation and breadth of spirit, will take very high rank, rejoicing the hearts of all Romanists and helping Protestants in many ways. In many subjects it shows great modernness. Very significant are these words: "Alcohol is never a food in any sense, be the quantity large or small, but always a poison in health; in disease it is a drug."

Rev. Carl G. Horst holds himself in readiness to perform any service within his power for any one he can help at any time.

The annual Unitarian summer meetings in New Hampshire, will be held at the Veterans' Grove, Weirs, N .H., August 4-11.

The beautiful hymn "In the cross of Christ I glory" was written by a Unitarian, as was also "Nearer My God to Thee."

WOLLASTON BAPTIST.

The following persons received the Hand of Fellowship at the morning service: Edward H. Sears, Mrs. Ethel C. Sears, Bernard King, Mrs. Ethel B. King, Mrs. Elizabeth Oxner, Mrs. Annie Holmes and Miss Alice E. Sawyer.

The pastor Rev. Joseph Walther preached on "Christ the Bread of Life." There was a large attendance.

The Sunday school met with 312 present. Lesson subject: "Poverty and Riches." Four new scholars were enrolled. In the men's department Rev. W. F. Armstrong, D. D. of Burmah gave an address.

The Junior Endeavor society held a special meeting at 3.30 in the chapel, Miss Ethel M. Campbell in charge. In harmony with the fact that it was Massachusetts Junior Endeavor day the program arranged by the State Board was carried out. The pastor gave an address on "Sunshine Juniors; Who they are and how they become such." A good number of children were present.

The Y. P. S. C. E. meeting was held at 6.00 in the chapel, preparatory prayer service was held at 5.45. Mrs. Selden H. Nickerson led the meeting, subject "Unselfishness."

At 7 o'clock the evening service was held in the auditorium. Rev. Mr. Walther preached on "Modern Gallios" or "Men who are indifferent." There was a good member present.

Tuesday morning the pastor attended a meeting in Tremont Temple, Boston, at which time Richard Watson, superintendent of prison work, spoke on "At the Prison Gate." At 5.45 a number of our people attended the monthly meetings and banquets of the Boston Baptist Social Union at Ford hall and the Woman's Baptist Social Union at Park street church, Boston.

Tuesday beginning at 10 A. M. an all-day sewing meeting will be held in the ladies' parlor. In the afternoon at 3 the annual business meeting of the Social and Benevolent society will be held in the chapel. Members are urged to attend this meeting at which officers for the ensuing year will be elected and action taken in regard to by-laws referring to annual banquet and secretary's report at banquet. At 4 the pastor's class in the Fundamental Principles of the Christian Faith will meet at the parsonage.

Wednesday afternoon at 4 the pastor's second class in the Fundamental Principles of the Christian Faith will meet at the home of Mr. and Mrs. H. J. Grass, 52 Ardell street, Montclair. In the evening at 7.45 a cottage prayer meeting will be held at the home of Mr. and Mrs. James C. Porter, 109 Taylor street; Selden H. Nickerson leader.

Thursday evening at 7.45 the Nearer and Farther Lights society will meet with Mrs. May I. Saffell, 12 South Central terrace.

Friday evening at 7.45 the regular meeting for praise, prayer and testimony will be held in the chapel, subject: "God's Promises and Ours."

FIRST UNITED PRESBYTERIAN.

The pastor's morning topic was "Christ's finished work," John XXII-4. Henry Patterson sang a solo which was well received.

The attendance at the Sabbath school was fair. The women's class taught by Malcolm McKenzie and the Men's class taught by the pastor, also the young men's class taught by James Ross have taken on new life, and the attendance in these classes has greatly increased within the last three months.

Attendance at the young people's meeting was not as good as usual.

The evening service opened at 7.30 o'clock and will be held at that hour during the summer months. The pastor's topic was: "The wrong use of riches." The attendance was large.

The pastor announced that the Carnegie Corporation of New York will provide the last half of the cost of a pipe organ for the church when the first half has been collected by the congregation, which is pleasing news to the church people.

Unnecessary Repetition.

Little Jean Elizabeth was being baptized. When the minister put the water on her forehead she said, loud enough for all the congregation to hear: "My muzzer washed my face." —The Delineator.

NO INCONSISTENCY.

Wollaston, May 4, 1912.

To the Editor of the Quincy Ledger.

Dear Sir:—I fail to see any inconsistency or "straddling" on the part of Colonel Kincaide, when at an urgent request from myself (one of his personal friends) he drove the most eminent living American from Quincy Adams to Quincy depot in his automobile (on account of an accident to mine,) in order not to disappoint the citizens of Quincy—and two days later paid his respects (with hundreds of other good citizens who are Roosevelt supporters) to the President of the United States.

Mr. Kincaide's attitude is absolutely irreproachable (regardless of whom he may have voted for at the primaries,) and if other citizens of this city would take pattern by the example he has set us all, we would soon get political contests an a basis of manly courtesy, to those who happen to think differently from ourselves, instead of the villification, bitterness and mud slinging which have too often characterized past political campaigns, and which prove nothing, and are a reproach to our civilization and an insult to our intelligence.

Respectfully,
John H. Johnson.

CHILD MISSING THREE DAYS

Police and Citizens Institute Search For Exeter Girl

Exeter, N. H., May 6.—The Exeter police have started a general search for 12-year-old Elsie Jennis, who has been missing since Friday evening from the home of her foster parents, Mr. and Mrs. Wallace Day, on High street.

After an all-night search Day reported the disappearance to Chief of Police McGaughe. The chief notified officers in all towns near by, but as yet he has found no clue.

It is considered possible that the child may have been drowned in the reservoir of the waterworks company, half a mile from her home. The theory is derided by Day, who believes the child simply has run away. He also flouts the suggestion that she has been kidnapped.

OLYMPIC CREW UNPUNISHED

Magistrates, Viewing Circumstances, Decide to Discharge Them

Portsmouth, Eng., May 6.—The seamen of the White Star liner Olympic who quit that vessel after the strike of the firemen were allowed to go by the magistrates sitting in the police court here, where the men were tried on a charge of mutiny.

The magistrates decided that the charges were proved against the fifty-four matineers, but expressed the opinion that it would be inexpedient to imprison or fine the defendants under the circumstances which had arisen prior to their refusal to obey orders.

Could to Pay Visit Here

St. Petersburg, May 6.—The American ambassador, Curtis Guild has left with his wife for a short visit to the United States. They are expected in Boston about the last of this month.

SUFFRAGETTES' LINE OF MARCH

Watchers Prepared to Ridicule and Are Lost In Amazement

FIFTEEN THOUSAND IN LINE

Women of Note of This and Other Nations In Line—New England Well Represented—College Girls, Working Women and Professional Women and Household Matrons Carry Julia Ward Howe In Line

New York, May 6.—Those who figured that it was beyond woman's nature to assemble 15,000 or so of her at a given hour and at designated places had the surprise of their lives. To emphasize the triumph over tardiness, there were those in the parade who had come all the way from the furtherest boundaries of the union to report on the dot and step forth when the marshals blew lustily on their little silver whistles. From Maine to California and from Wisconsin to Louisiana came standard bearers in the cause to assemble under the six-starred flag of suffragism. Also from lands across the sea came alien but allied workers to make Saturday's demonstration international in its scope.

Unlike three former processions held in this city by the suffragists, Saturday's was seldom assailed by flippant remarks from the spectators. They gave every indication of being much impressed by the scene as well as being highly entertained.

A roll call of the paraders would have met with responses from women doctors, lawyers, nurses, writers, artists, actresses, milliners, dressmakers, laundresses, hairdressers, secretaries, bookkeepers, manicures, telephone operators, saleswomen, wives, sisters and best girls. The responses also could have been framed in many togues other than English. Mrs. Loo Lin was there, carrying a banner boasting of the success of woman suffrage in China. Messages from other lands were also displayed.

The women in the New England divisions attracted general attention because of the attribute which vulgar New York dominates "class." The percentage of college women and women who evidently commanded some attention at home was noticeable.

Just ahead of the Massachusetts women marched the women of Connecticut, commanded by Mrs. William T. Hincks, state president, who marched with her executive board. Behind a banner that bore the cabled greetings of Miss Adelaide B. Hyde from Paris nearly 200 Connecticut women swung along.

Mrs. T. P. Curtis, marshal of the Massachusetts delegation, wearing a suit of corded white trimmed with lace, was indeed a commanding figure as her tall form led the column with its rhythmic swing up the famous avenue.

With her marched a large delegation, among whom were Miss Anne Page, Mrs. Marian Jelly, Mrs. Mary H. Page, Mrs. Susan W. FitzGerald, Mrs. Stanley McCormick, Mrs. John Leonard, president of the Massachusetts Association for Suffrage, Miss Alice Carpenter, Miss Margaret Foley, Mrs. E. B. Townsend, Mrs. Maude Howe Elliot, Mrs. Florence Howe Hall and Mrs. A. E. Grant.

Among the fluttering yellow streamers and ribbons Mrs. Maude H. Elliot and Mrs. Florence H. Hall carried the new suffrage banner given to the delegation by their mother, Mrs. Julia Ward Howe. The picture of the great suffrage leader was blazoned on the banner her daughters proudly carried.

Likewise there came the New Hampshire division, led by Mrs. Agnes M. Jenks and which contained Miss Harriet Huntress, Mrs. George Rublee, Mrs. Winston Churchill, Mrs. Henry G. Ives, Mrs. Charles Platt, Mrs. Robert Johnson, Miss Phoebe Jenks and Miss Anna M. Whiting of Newton, Mass., who marched with the New Hampshire folk because of her property interest in their state.

A delegation which attracted much attention marched under the red banner of the Harvard League for Woman's Suffrage. Nine undergraduates in cap and gown walked in open order behind the flag and provoked either applause or jeers all along the line. Among these marched Lionel De Jersey Harvard, the great-great-grandson of the founder of Harvard college. He was one of the most enthusiastic of the men.

Presidency Offered to Meiklejohn

Providence, May 6.—It has become known here that Alexander Meiklejohn, dean of Brown university, has been asked if he would accept the office of president of Amherst college, succeeding Dr. George Harris, who resigned.

WHOSE MARYLAND DECIDED TODAY

Both Factions Claiming Terrapin State Convention Delegates

Baltimore, May 6.—The activities of the supporters of the president and Theodore Roosevelt are being devoted to electing state convention delegates. Expert opinion is divided as to the outcome. The president seems assured of the control of the state convention through the delegates chosen today if there is actual justification for the representations made by the Taft leaders,. But the Roosevelt leaders appear to be equally confident that they will command the state convention and instruct the sixteen delegates at Chicago for the colonel. The Roosevelt calculations are based upon the assumption that the colonel will carry the city of Baltimore and the western part of the state.

No discussion or prediction as to the result fails to establish the negro brother as the major premise. Forty percent of the Republican vote is polled by negroes. The percentage in Baltimore is seven higher than that. The negro brother realizes the advantages of his present opportunity. The colonel starred him in his speeches last week and the president did not overlook him.

The leaders of both factions agree that the negro voter has more successfully negotiated the intricacies of the new ballot than the majority of the white voters. The reason is that the negro brother has been coached, rehearsed and trained by enlightened representatives of his race, so that he will probably be qualified to make a better job of casting his vote than a good many white men.

In downtown circles there is some betting, and the odds are $10 to $6 in favor of the president.

Beef is the highest for twenty years, and still going higher, and boarding house hash is reduced to potato with a slight meaty discoloration visible under the microscope.

GRAVE CHARGES FOR ARCHBALD

President Personally Asks Report Be Kept Secret

HOUSE ASKS INVESTIGATION

Attorney General Turns Report Over to House Judiciary Committee—President Believes Report Should Be Handled With Caution—Commerce Court Judge May Be Impeached—Committee Sits Tomorrow

Washington, May 6.—Attorney General Wickersham has turned over to the house committee on the judiciary the results of the investigation by the department of justice of the charges of improper conduct preferred against Judge Robert W. Archbald of the United States commerce court.

The finding of the special agents of the department of justice are of such a serious and sensational nature that President Taft has personally advised Speaker Clark that he believed they should not be made public until they have been sifted thoroughly and until the committee decides whether or not public welfare necessitates publicity.

On April 25 Representative Norris of Nebraska introduced a resolution asking that the full charges against Judge Archbald and the results of the investigation of the department of justice be turned over to the house.

It was in reply to this resolution that President Taft wrote to Speaker Clark and made the peculiar request that the papers, temporarily, at least, should not be turned over to the house, but should be kept secret by the judiciary committee.

Chairman Clayton of the judiciary committee announced that his committee will examine the report from the department of justice at a special executive session tomorrow, and until that time, at least, no publicity will be given to the charges or the findings of the investigators.

It is the opinion of those members of the committee who were willing to discuss the case that the papers undoubtedly contain data that will result in impeachment proceedings being brought against the accused judge.

Members pointed out that the president would have made no such request as he did unless the matter contained in the investigators' report were of a sensational nature.

BASS WANTS PEACE

Trustees Meet Today With Hopes of Arbitration In View

Durham, N. H., May 6.—A committee of trustees of New Hampshire college, where the three lower classes are on strike, met today with President W. D. Gibbs in an effort to settle the grievances. One hundred and seventy students have been on a strike for five days.

The trustees are: Warren Brown of Hampton, N. H.; H. L. Boutwell, '82, of Malden, Mass., and Edward Watson of Nashua. They met committees from the striking classes and probably will demand concessions both on the part of the students and President Gibbs.

The special committee of students, consisting of D. B. Keyes, '13, of Needham, Mass.; H. C. Wyman, '15, of Haverhill, Mass., and H. R. McCartney, '14, of New London, N. H., have interviewed every trustee. They presented the student side of the case and asked the trustees to act. The trustees assured them that the matter would be settled amicably.

Governor Bass, who is a trustee, talked with several of his associates. It is understood that he wishes to have the strike ended as soon as possible and to have the students return to classes.

President Gibbs refuses further discussion of the strike. The penalty in case the sophomores and freshmen do not return to college exercises by noon today is expulsion, without honorable dismissal papers. Juniors will be expelled unless they return by Wednesday noon.

Resolutions expressing disapproval of the faculty action in suspending Brackett but directing the striking seniors to resume studies until the trustees have had time to act upon their complaint, were adopted at a meeting of that class.

FUNERAL OF COL. ASTOR

First Wife Not Among the Few of Family In Attendance

New York, May 6.—The funeral of Colonel John Jacob Astor took place in the Church of the Messiah at Rhinecliffe-on-the-Hundson.

Astor's first wife, Mrs. Ava W. Astor, was not present. She spent the day with her sister, Mrs. Benjamin Guinnesss.

Mrs. Madeline Force Astor, the wife; Vincent and little Muriel Astor, children by the first Mrs. Astor, were in the little company of mourners who heard Rev. Ernest C. Saunders recite the church's liturgy for the dead. Rev. Dr. Saunders was assisted by Rev. Dr. William T. Manning. The Episcopal ritual was followed.

JUDGE R. M. ARCHBALD

Member of Commerce Court Under Charges In the House

LINERS RECEIVE NOTICE

Must Carry Lifeboat Capacity For All Passengers and Crew

Boston, May 6.—The board of supervising inspectors of the steam inspection service at Washington have notified all the local steamship officials that the tonnage basis for lifeboats has been abolished on ocean liners and that hereafter it will be required that sufficient lifeboats must be provided for everyone aboard, including passengers and crew.

This order means that more lifeboats must be put aboard every steamer not provided with sufficient boats for each and every person. Practically every transatlantic steamer operating between Boston and Europe has taken on extra lifeboats and rafts since the Titanic went down, and the new regulations will not inconvenience them much.

CHILD LABOR IS ROUNDLY SCORED

Methodists Pledge Their Ministers to Fight the Evil

Minneapolis, May 6.—The Methodist Episcopal general conference, in session here, has pledged its 19,000 ministers to work against child labor, particularly in textile mills. A commission was appointed to investigate charges that many children were maimed in textile mills and to recommend legislation against child labor. Harry J. Coker of Denver said the fact that "one hundred baby hands were lost yearly in the textile mills," was a parody on civilization.

Sections of a resolution adopted reads as follows:

"In their greed for gain, employers have in this country put about 2,500,000 children under 16 years of age in mills, mines, factories and messenger service. Of the 80,000 children in the textile mills, we are informed that 20,000 are under 12 years, and in those mills yearly about 100 baby hands are cut off by machinery.

"In the glass factories there are 7500 children; in saw mills 8000 and in cigar factories there are 12,000 children handling cigars at the rate of 8 cents a thousand. This is an appalling commentary on modern civilization. Who is it we hear crying on the street corners: 'Suffer little children to come unto Me?' Is it Jesus Christ or the greed of gain?"

ANDROSCOGGIN CLAIMS TWO

Lewiston Journalist and Bates College Student Drown

Auburn, Me., May 6.—J. Osborne Faulkner, sporting editor of the Lewiston Journal, and William E. Lovell of West Springfield, Mass., a senior at Bates college, were drowned Sunday afternoon when their canoe was capsizing while they were making an attempt to shoot the rapids on the Androscoggin river near Keene's Mills, about ten miles from this city.

Young Lovell was one of the most popular men at Bates. He had held many honors and was manager of the 1911 football team. He was an excellent basketball player. Faulkner was a native of Turner. He had been in the employ of the Lewiston Journal eight years and was widely known among the newspaper fraternity of the state.

Fire Causes Three Fatalities

Ware, Mass., May 6.—Three Polish operatives were burned to death in a fire which ruined a six-story wooden tenement in Gilbertville, five miles north of here.

Boston, May 6.—Recounts have been ordered in the cities of Malden and Somerville on the recent presidential campaign.

The KITCHEN CUPBOARD

RAGOUT OF MUTTON.

PLAIN mutton stew under its French name of ragout may be a trifle more ornamental on the bill of fare, but it tastes no better.

Mutton stew is one of the cheapest and most wholesome dishes we have. The neck or breast makes good and inexpensive stews. Cut the mutton into pieces before cooking.

With a Cereal.

Mutton with Rice.—After the mutton has been stewed stir in three or four tablespoonfuls of chopped onion and salt and pepper to taste. After cooking for several minutes add half a dozen carrots and herbs to flavor. The herbs may include parsley, thyme and bay. Cook the mutton and vegetables in a quart of water for an hour more. Then stir in half a pound of rice. Pour a little boiling water over the rice and let it cook about a half hour longer.

Highly Flavored.

Mutton with Herbs.—Take two pounds of neck of mutton, an ounce and half of flour, two ounces of drippings, a large onion, a pint and a half of stock, one carrot, one turnip, herbs in season, two sticks of celery, a tomato, two teaspoonfuls of red currant jelly and salt and pepper to taste.

Divide the mutton into cullets and remove all but a narrow rim of fat from each. Melt the dripping in a saucepan, lay in the pieces of meat and fry them quickly until each side is browned.

Lift the meat out on to a plate. Put the flour into the dripping and fry this carefully until it is a light brown. Stir it now and then lest it burn and give the gravy a bitter taste. Next add the stock and stir the gravy until it boils. Put back the meat and add the bunch of parsley, thyme and marjoram, the sliced celery, onion and quartered carrot, turnip and tomato.

Simmer all gently for about an hour, or until the meat feels tender.

When done lift the meat into a hot dish, add a seasoning of pepper and salt and the jelly. Take out the carrot and turnip and cut them into neat dice.

Strain the gravy, after well skimming it, to take off the fat over the meat, which should be arranged neatly in a hot dish. Garnish the dish with heaps of the cut vegetables.

CHICKEN SALAD.

CHICKEN salad when superfine is made only with the white meat of the young chicken. When a large quantity is needed, as for a reception or afternoon tea, both white and dark meat are used, and the chicken is eked out with a portion of well cooked veal. Mixed with the chicken the veal is not noticed. The chicken must be freed of bones and skin.

In selecting celery to be used in the salad tender white stalks should be chosen. About one-half as much chopped celery as chicken is required.

The General Method.

When cutting either the meat or the celery chop it on a board in preference to running it through a meat chopper.

Moisten the celery and chicken very slightly with French dressing. Arrange on overlapping lettuce leaves so that two or more may be served with one portion of the salad. Cover the top with mayonnaise, halved or quartered olives and slices of hard boiled eggs. Capers may be used instead of olives.

In serving chicken salad it is convenient to lay a couple of lettuce leaves on each of the individual plates. Then it will only be necessary to place on these a large spoonful of the salad, a small spoonful of mayonnaise, a slice of hard boiled egg and two or three olives or capers.

A Cream Dressing.

Chicken Salad With Cream.—After you have cut the white meat of the chicken into dice let it stand in a cold place until needed. Select the white, tender parts of celery and cut into half inch lengths. Throw them into cold water and let them stand to crisp. To a pint of chicken take two-thirds of a pint of celery. Three-quarters of a pint of mayonnaise mixed with three quarters of a pint of whipped cream are used on the salad.

When ready dry the celery, mix it with the chicken, sprinkle with salt and white pepper, lay on a bed of lettuce leaves, cover with the dressing and garnish with celery tips taken from the small white heart of a dwarf bunch.

Easily Digested.

Minced Chicken Salad.—Grind the chicken in a food chopper. Mix with the ground meat of one chicken a cup of chopped celery, four hard boiled eggs chopped, the stock in which the chicken was boiled cooked down to a cupful, a cupful of chopped parsley, salt and pepper. Mix well, arrange on lettuce leaves in individual plates and put a spoonful of mayonnaise on each salad.

Chicken salad is economical when made from left over fowl. It is best when prepared with freshly cooked chicken.

DORR TO START EAST TONIGHT

Officers and Nurse Could Not Secure Reservation Earlier

Stockton, Cal., May 6.—The return of William A. Dorr, charged with the death of George E. Marsh, at Lynn, Mass., was postponed until today because Inspectors Burckes and Lane, who have the prisoner in custody, were unable to obtain suitable train accommodations.

The arrangement was complicated by the presence of a nurse, who will accompany the prisoner. Dorr is much improved in health and smokes a pipe, eats heartily and talks freely about anything but the Marsh murder.

The officers are reticent about giving out the documentary evidence in the case, although they admit that there is a great deal. One sentence, however, in the diary which Dorr mailed to his aunt, Miss Orpha Marsh, and which was secured by Chief of Police Briare of this city, was given out by Chief Burckes. It reads:

"Only got a glimpse of Marsh today, better luck tomorrow."

SEARCH TO CONTINUE

Canadian Government Sends Steamer to Hunt For Wreck's Victims

Halifax, N. S., May 6.—The search for Titanic bodies is to be continued and the Canadian government steamer Montmagny sailed today, relieving the Mina, which is expected with less than twenty bodies.

The White Star line officials tried hard to get another steamship, but failed. The two cable ships which have been searching are required for their regular work.

As a last resource, an application was made to the Dominion government for the Montmagny. At first the officials of the marine department at Ottawa were disinclined to allow the vessel to go, but a request was made direct to Hon. R. L. Borden and through him to the minister of marine, and the steamship ordered to get ready.

The government steamer in prosecuting her search will steam along the edge of the gulf stream, and it is expected that bodies will be found in cold water as far north perhaps at 100 miles from the place where the Titanic went down. The Mackay-Bennett reported bodies drifting northeasterly and the Montmagny's cruise will be in that direction.

LIGHTS PIPE, DEATH RESULTS

Stick of Dynamite In Pocket Causes Accident

HOLE BLOWN THROUGH LEARY

Hundreds Attracted to Fatal Spot Believing Ice Houses Had Blown Up—Electric Lights Broken For Radius of Three-Quarters of a Mile—Homes Shaken and Great Anxiety Caused In Sharon Households

Sharon, Mass., May 6.—The accidental explosion of dynamite he was carrying in his pocket last evening instantly killed Thomas J. Leary, tree warden, blowing a hole through his body with a roar that was heard for miles.

The remainder of the body was hurled twenty feet. The face and shoulders, as well as the lower parts of the legs, were unscarred.

A great hole was ripped out of the bank at the side of the road, where it is supposed Leary seated himself. So terrific was the force of the detonation that the incandescent bulbs of the street lighting sytem were broken for a radius of nearly a quarter of a mile.

No one saw the explosion. The last person to see Leary alive was John A. Rich, whose home is about 100 yards from the place on East Foxboro road, where the body was found. Leary had stopped at the Rich home to borrow some matches with which to light his pipe.

A few mintes later every house in the neighborhood was shaken to its foundation by the shock of the exploding dynamite. It was noticeable at a distance of three miles.

William Fitzpatrick and John O'Brien, who were at opposite ends of the street, were the first to reach Leary. He was lying face downward, with his arms outstretched. It was not until they turned the body over that they discovered the identity of the man.

Pieces of flesh from the gaping hole in Leary's trunk were scattered about for a radius of 150 feet. Some were lodged in the electric light wires. His hat, torn to shreds, was found fifty feet from the body. Great gashes were torn in his hands, exposing the muscles.

Hundreds of people were attracted to the scene of the explosion. Many came from the other side of Lake Massapoag, believing that the big storehouse of the Boston Ice company had been blown up.

Fitzpatrick and O'Brien notified Chief of Police Derry, who called Medical Examiner Faxon from Stoughton. Dr. Faxon immediately pronounced it accidental death.

ROOSEVELT SWEEPS TEXAS

Wilson Wins More Than All Three of His Opponents

Austin, Tex., May 6.—It is now definitely known that Roosevelt practically swept the state in the precinct primary convention held Saturday, although the early reports indicated that Taft was in the lead.

Colonel Cecil Lyon, the Roosevelt manager, claims a solid Roosevelt delegation of forty votes will be sent to the national convention.

Quite a number of primary conventions did not instruct, but their delegations are said to be favorable to Roosevelt.

Taft carried the Tenth congressional district due chiefly to the efforts of General Webster Flannigan, United States international revenue collector at Austin, in his behalf.

It is planned by the Taft supporters throughout the state to make another fight in the county conventions next Saturday in the hope of capturing some of the delegates to the state convention which meets May 18. It is assured that many split conventions will be held, and these will be used as a basis to send a contesting delegation to the national convention by the Taft men.

In the Democratic precinct primary conventions, Wilson led Harmon, Clark and Underwood by receiving more instructed votes than all three of his opponents combined. Wilson carried every county in which Senator J. W. Bailey made a speech for Harmon.

Serious Strike In Chicago

Chicago, May 6.—Eight Thousand freight handlers and clerks, employed on twenty-four railroads running into Chicago, have struck. They are demanding half days off on Saturday, with full pay; double time for work on Sundays and holidays; time and a half for all overtime and a minimum of 25 cents an hour. Unless the strike is speedily adjusted it will seriously handicap traffic in and out of the city.

Son's Life Saved by Father

Bridgewater, Mass., May 6.—Breenelle Hunt, principal of the Model school of this town, saved the life of his son, Norman, by giving a quart of his blood by transfusion to the 5-year-old lad. Hunt returned to his home here with the satisfaction of knowing that his son's life would be saved.

Sharing An Orphan

(Copyright, 1912, by Associated Literary Press)

"And there is no hope?" asked Burke softly.

Eunice Telford shook her head.

"I like you very much—very much," she said slowly. "But I don't think that it is more than liking, Burke."

Burke Edwards gritted his teeth hard as he looked out over the water for a moment, but when he turned his head again the pain had gone from his features and he was again the Burke that Eunice liked so well.

For a long time they had been good friends—Eunice liked to call it chums—and more than once he had asked for a reconsideration of his proposal, but Eunice always shook her head. She liked Burke; liked him better than any of the other men she knew, but he seemed to lack tenderness and that was the quality Eunice most admired. She was sorry to inflict pain and suggested that they might go in if he wished.

"No, thanks," he said evenly. "It's more pleasant out here on the drive."

Across the road three boys were playing ball. On the curb sat another boy of about their age dressed in the gingham apron that was the uniform of the orphanage up the street.

'How absurd," said Eunice. "That boy must be twelve and yet he is wearing an apron like a little boy of six."

"They all have to wear them," explained Burke. "They are easily washed and they are cheaper than coats. They wear them the year 'round."

"Not in winter," gasped Eunice.

"Sure," explained Burke. "My sister's house overlooks their yard and you can see them playing in the snow. I don't think there is an overcoat in the place. Mostly they tie the aprons about their waists in a vain endeavor to suggest a shirt waist when they are let out. It's the reward of especial merit to be permitted to come over to the drive alone."

The ball slipped from one of the players' hands and came rolling toward the orphanage boy. He sprang up to toss it back, but the player came rushing up.

"You leave that ball alone," he demanded hotly. "We ain't goin' to have you charity kids swiping our ball, are we, fellows?"

The others had joined the first and the assent was unanimous. "You girls are getting too fresh," went on the first speaker. "Why don't you stay in your prison and play by yourselves? We don't want girl-boys over here. Who wants to play with a boy who wears dresses?"

The orphan had sprung to his feet at the first approach. There was cold welcome to the orphans from the boys in the fashionable apartments along the drive and the first demonstration of hostility was sufficient warning. Now he faced his tormentors hotly.

"I'm no girl," he cried, "even if I do have to wear an apron. I'm not to blame for that."

"You are a girl," insisted the aggressor. "You don't wear a coat and you do wear a dress. Go on. I could lick you with one hand."

By way of illustration, his fist shot out and bruised the pale cheek of the orphan. With a cry, Eunice sprang up, but Burke's arm held her back.

"Wait a moment," he said quietly. "It would be a treat to see some of those young snobs get thrashed."

The boy had answered the blow and the fight had become general. It was three against one, but that one was holding his own bravely and Burke looked on approvingly. The orphan, smarting under a sense of wrong, was a match for the three and fought them savagely.

He had them in retreat almost before Eunice realized that the battle was over. The elevator boy in one of the houses bordering the drive, came running over, seeing in prospect a fat tip for taking the part of the tenant's sons, but Burke was beside the boy as he came up and the newcomer hesitated.

"Those youngsters got what they deserved," he said shortly. "Clear out of here."

"I've been wanting to see some of these young bullies trimmed up for some time," he said with a satisfied smile. "Those kiddies cannot help the absurd fashion in which they have to dress and the young snobs know it. I'm going to adopt that boy."

"Just because he is a good fighter?" asked Eunice contemptuously.

Burke turned to her with a new expression on his face, a light in the kindly blue eyes that she had never seen before, though the men he worked with knew it and were warned.

"Because he has the spirit to avenge his wrongs," he answered. "Because he deserves a better chance than he can get in that institution. I am going to give him the chance that is his heritage because he has in him the makings of a man."

Eunice put out her hand. "Forgive me," she cried. "I did not understand. I want to share you' orphan, Burke. It was because you seemed to care so little for others that I feared to marry you. I am not afraid now, dear."

His hand closed over hers as he softly quoted: "And a little child shall lead them."

AUTO RUNS INTO FREIGHT

Senator Quigley and Editor McDonald Among Those Injured

Boston, May 6.—Senator Frank X. Quigley of Holyoke, Donald McDonald, publisher of Practical Politics of Boston, G. H. Riddell and Chauffeur George MacLoud barely escaped being killed in an automobile accident at the Boston and Maine railroad crossing at South Sudbury, when their automobile, a big six-cylinder, high powered car, ran into a freight train.

The party was coming at the rate of twenty miles an hour from Worcester to Boston over the main highway and they were followed by several other automobiles. It was only by the presence of mind of Senator Quigley and Mr. McDonald that all the people in the five other cars did not meet with a similar accident.

A freight train bound for Boston had stopped with the last car blocking the highway at the railroad crossing. The crossing gates were not lowered and no lanterns were displayed, the autoists claim.

Senator Quigley and Mr. McDonald were thrown to the ground, McDonald sustaining two fractured ribs and Quigley was internally injured, it is feared, but it will be several days before it wil be possible to determine the exact nature and extent of his injuries.

PRESIDENT BREAKS DOWN

High Officials Attended Services In Memory of Maj. Butt

Washington, May 6.—The life of Major Archibald W. Butt as a soldier, newspaperman, aide to presidents and lodge member, and his heroic death on the Titanic, were comemorated by his commander-in chief—a president, a secretary of war, a senator of his native state, a contemporary in the newspaper field, and a fraternity of Masonry, at an impressive memorial service here Sunday.

President Taft spoke with difficulty and he was forced to an abrupt ending by a failure of voice and a steady flow of tears.

LOCKWOOD WINS WOLLASTON CUP

The final match in the open amateur golf tournament at the Wollaston links Saturday was won by Arthur G. Lockwood who defeated Waverly E. Jones by 5 and 3. Lockwood paired with J. E. McLaughlin in the morning match by 5 and 3, and Jones won his way into the final match by defeating John B. Hylan by 1 up. The final match between Lockwood and Jones was an interesting one. The cards

Lockwood	5	4	3	4	5	6	5	4	3	—39
Jones	4	3	4	5	5	7	5	5	4	—42
Lockwood	4	5	4	5	5	3	4	4	5	—39—78

OPENING RACES.

Ideal weather, a good track and a large attendance were the conditions that greeted the Old Colony Gentlemen's Driving club at South Weymouth, Saturday afternoon at the opening races. Class A furnished the best racing with Altro L and Willie John going a nip and tuck contest, which Willie John captured with scarcely a head's lead. The fastest time was made in class B by Edith R in 1.10 and 1.08 1-2. The winners in the several classes were as follows:—

SOCCER FOOTBALL.

The Fore River soccer football team had little difficulty in defeating the United Shoe Machinery team, at the Fore River grounds, Saturday. The score being 4 to 1. The game was very closely contested in the first session, but the local team, by displaying superior all round work, were enabled to kick the ball down the field to great advantage in the second half. Many sensational features marked the struggle.

YOU need the Ledger every day.

BRIEFS

The Taft committee held a meeting Saturday evening. There was but little business to transact.

The minstrel show of the Houghs Neck associates was presented before a large audience Saturday night.

William Harding of New York, formerly of Atlantic, spent the week end with his parents on Botolph street.

James Houston, of Popes Hill, who is well known in Atlantic, is spending the week with friends in the West.

Allen Arthur of Seattle, formerly of Atlantic, is on a short vacation with his relatives on Hollis avenue.

More evidence of the uncertainty of New England weather. Sunday it was pleasant, mild and warm. Today it is cold, raw and stormy.

An interesting letter from Senator Barnes giving his position on the new Presidential Primary law will appear in Tuesday's Ledger.

The City Treasurer floated the loan today for the taking of land for the widening of Hancock street, between the Ledger office and School street.

Sunday was a busy one with the police. In addition to the usual number of drunks pulled in, there were several arrests of burglars, disturbers of the peace, etc.

All of the South Quincy stores and some of the down town stores have agreed to close their stores at noon on Wednesdays, during May, June, July, August and September.

Sunday, May 12th, is to be observed as Mother's Day in Memorial church. There will be a special sermon in the morning and in the evening will be the monthly Sunday school concert.

Important meeting of the City Council tonight. It may be a short meeting or debates may prolong it until midnight. It is one of those things one can never tell.

Mr. and Mrs. George G. Roberts of Lincoln avenue, returned home Saturday. Mrs. Roberts has been spending three weeks with relatives in Baltimore and Washington, D. C., while Mr. Roberts was on a business trip.

Miss Alda LeClair of Copeland street returned last week from the New England Woman's Hospital where she has been since the first of January. Her convalescing has been tedious, but her many friends hope to see her fully recovered soon.

DIRECTORS' CUP.

The second run for the directors' cup at the Wollaston golf links Saturday resulted as follows:

W. F. Kearns defeated F. D. Collins 1 up.

C. M. Hart defeated H. B. Driver 2-1.

D. H. Goodspeed defeated L. M. Baxter—21 holes.

F. G. Thayer defeated M. G. Mackey 2-1.

Semi-finals will be played May 11.

C M. Hart defeated W. F. Kearns.

D. H. Goodspeed—F. G. Thayer.

SATURDAY ON THE DIAMOND

Results of Base Ball Games on Local Diamonds

MANY GAMES

MAKARIA—MELROSE.

In a game which had a tendency in the first two innings of being close and interesting, but which in reality proved to be one of the most listless ever witnessed in local circles, the Makarias defeated the Melrose nine, 17 to 4 Saturday afternoon at Merrymount Park. "Charlie" Ganzel's team, by batting the ball in a manner almost beyond description; made five runs in the third inning and ten in the fourth.

Rice twirled for the home team and played a fine all round game. The visitors were so disgusted with their exhibition of baseball, that they allowed the game to be called in the sixth inning in order that they could make their exit from the ball park.

The score by innings:

Innings	1	2	3	4	5	6
Makarias	1	0	5	10	1		—17
Melrose	1	0	1	0	0	2	—4

Batteries:—Rice and H. Chapman, Smith and McLetchie.

ORIENTS WIN.

The Orients, composed of one of the fastest aggregations of amateur ball tossers in this city, played their first home game of the season with the Pettengill—Andrews team of Boston, on the Ward Three playground Saturday afternoon, winning 6 to 3. The visitors led, 2 to 1, for six innings, when the home team took the lead by a batting rally.

There was a large attendance at the game and many interesting features were noticeable. The Orients won the game in the eighth, when three runs came across the plate on four hits and two errors. The score by innings:

Innings	1	2	3	4	5	6	7	8	9
Orients	1	0	0	0	0	2	0	3	0	—6
Pettengill	0	1	0	0	1	0	0	1	0	—3

Batteries—Bradley and Allicon; White and Westland.

COLONIALS—ALL STARS.

On the failure of the Sagamores of Somerville to put in appearance on the Ward four playgrounds Saturday afternoon, the Colonials, in order not to disappoint the large number of fans who were present, crossed bats with a picked team of West Quincy players and won by a score of 12 to 8. The game proved to be one of the best of the season and was replete with many spectacular plays.

Up to the sixth inning, when the Colonials annexed four runs, the All Stars were leading by a close margin and until this crucial moment, it looked as if they were to emerge in victory. The score by innings:—

Innings	1	2	3	4	5	6	7	8	9
Colonials	1	2	0	3	0	4	1	1	0	—12
All Stars	1	1	3	1	1	1	0	0	0	—8

Batteries, McPherson and Leary; Desmond and Barry.

SO. QUINCY—BRAINTREE

It took the South Quincy baseball team to administer the first defeat of the season to the Braintree White Sox nine on French's Common, Braintree, last Saturday. "Lefty" Ford was on the mound for the visitors and twirled in an effective manner, having 16 strikeouts to his credit.

The home team led by a score of 3 to 1 up to the fourth inning, when the South Quincy players brought four runs across the plate by timely hitting. "Ted" Galvin and Ganzel played well for the winners, each getting three hits. Scollard of the Braintree team also made three hits, two of which went for extra bases.

The South Quincy boys rolled up 16 hits, while the White Sox had nine. A feature of the game was a throw, on an assist, from deep centre to home, made by Pratt. The score:

Innings	1	2	3	4	5	6	7	8	9
So. Quincy	0	1	0	4	0	0	0	3	1	—9
Braintree	1	1	1	0	0	0	0	0	0	—3

Batteries—Ford and Nixon; Moralis Levangie and Delorey.

WOLLASTONS LOSE.

The Wollaston baseball nine, composed of a number of residents of that district, who have already acquired fame in collegiate and semi-professional ranks, played their first game of the season with the T. R. and T. team, of the Middlesex league, at Lowell, Saturday and lost, the scoring being 7 to 6. The losers made four runs in the eighth inning and tied the score. The home team made a run in the last half of the same inning, thereby winning the game. Keller was the star of the game, getting 6 hits and striking out 14. The score by innings:

Innings	1	2	3	4	5	6	7	8	9
T. R. & T.	1	0	0	1	2	2	1			—7
Wollaston	0	0	0	0	0	2	0	4	0	—6

Batteries—J. Condon, D. Condon and Manning; Keller and Smith.

QUINCY Y. M. C. A.

Newton Y. M. C. A. administered a coat of whitewash to the baseball team of the local association, at Newton Saturday, rolling up runs to the unlucky number of thirteen. Foster, who twirled for the local team was touched up for thirteen, many of which went for extra bases.

Errors figured largely in the defeat of the local players and they were outclassed in every department of play. The losers registered only three hits. The score by innings:

Innings	1	2	3	4	5	6	7	8	9
Newton Y. M.	0	1	2	1	0	4	0	5		—13
Quincy Y. M.	0	0	0	0	0	0	0	0	0	— 0

Batteries: Echelbeck, Bills and Porter: Foster and Holmes.

SUNDAY IN OUR CHURCHES

WOLLASTON M. E. CHURCH.

At the Wollaston M. E. Church Sunday morning Rev. Wesley Wiggin, pastor spoke on "Known by their Fruits." Sunday School in charge of Mr. J. A. Sedgwick, the Superintendent. Every officer and teacher were present. At the close of the lesson study Mr. Herbert Sutermeister the Boy's secretary in the Y. M. C. A. Hartford Conn., spoke. He told of the work they were doing for the boys and how they are reaching them and interesting them in wholesome sports and games and thereby winning them for the association. He spoke of the Bible classes that had been formed during the past winter and how they were interesting the boys in the study of the word of God. Mr. Sutermeister took up his work in this field last autumn having gone out from the Methodist Sunday school. He received a cordial welcome and all were glad to meet him and to hear of his work.

Miss Nettie Critenden had charge of the Junior League in the absence of Miss Marion Nevers.

The pastor led the Epworth League service at 6 o'clock. Miss Rena M. Chamberlin took the last part of the service speok on the early church which she began several weeks ago. She gave a very interesting talk. She spoke of the early persecutions, describing the tortures which the christians had to be subjected to. She told how brave and trle they were through it all and how the church grew in spite of all the hardships.

At 7 o'clock Mr. F. G. Bennett led the praise service and the pastor preached taking for his theme "Some Lessons from the Life in Cannan," using for his text words found in Gen. 12-8. "And there he builded an altar unto the Lord, and called upon the name of the Lord."

He said in part:

"These were the first two acts of Abram in Cannan. Abram took his religion with him. He made it a practical thing. Where we cannot take it is no place for any christian man or woman. Abram observed religion in the family. He erected an altor. Family religion, worship and instruction have fallen into decay in far too many instances at the present time. Prosperity, the rapid rate of living and the hustle of life has led many a one to neglect his religious duties in the home and far too often it has led to the neglect of one's duty in the church until the place of worship which once was their delight and which found them constantly in faithful attendance seldom finds them present with little or no interest in the great cause of Christ.

Our best service belongs to God. We are largely self-centered. We give our first thought to self or self interest. How little of self sacrifice or self denial there is in our lives, for Christ or his cause. We spend dollars for self where we spend penies for God. We give hours for service for self interest where we give moments for God's service. We are commanded to seek first the kingdom of God and his righteousness.

That which we do for God is indurring, that which we do for self is only for time. To build for God is to build for eternity to build for self is to build for the present."

ON THE FUNNY SIDE

Wisdom Born of Experience.

"Ah, Jack, old fellow! Haven't seen you since your wedding two year ago. How goes matrimony?"

"Very well, thanks; but, Jove, it's expensive comfort. The dressmakers alone! If I had only known——"

"You would have remained single, eh?"

"No, no—but I would have married the dressmaker."—Judge.

The Peace Offering.

Husband—Here, my dear, is a beautiful bracelet to pay for my staying out late last night. And I promise you it shall never happen again.

Wife—Make no promises, darling. I think I might forgive you again—under like circumstances.—Fligende Blatter.

Not Much Relieved.

"I suppose you felt when you got back from Reno as if a great weight had been lifted from your mind?"

"Oh, no, I really didn't notice much of a difference. You see he hadn't made any effort at all to get possession of the children."

The Trouble.

"What's the matter with your telephone service?"

"It's entirely too cautious."

"Too cautious?"

"Yes; it refuses to answer."

Real Comfort.

Patience—I suppose your father takes much pleasure in his library?

Patrice—Oh, yes; it's the only place where he is allowed to sit with his feet higher than his head.

The Hardest Part.

"He has managed to convince himself that his poor children need a new mother."

"Got her picked out, too, I s'pose?"

"Yes; all that remains now is to convince the children."

An Open Question.

"Do you take this woman for better or for worse?" asked the preacher.

"That will depend on whether her father is going to loosen up or not," replied the absent-minded bridegroom.

THREATENED TO SHOOT PINARD

Mrs. William Vila was summoned into court this morning by Chief Burrell on a complaint charging her with threatening to shoot Mr. Pinard one of her neighbors. The trouble grew out of a line fence. Saturday Pinard was busily at work building a fence which separated his property from the Vila house when it is alleged that Mrs. Vila appeared on the scene with a gun. It is alleged that she leaned over the fence and told Pinard that if he continued to build that fence she would shoot him.

Pinard said that he was very much afraid that the woman would do him bodily harm and he swore out a warrant against her. In court this morning after hearing the evidence the woman was placed under $50 bonds to keep the peace for two months.

Forms of Utterance.

"Money talks," said the ready-made philosopher.

"No," replied Mr. Dustin Stax, "money doesn't talk any more. It has to be coaxed to sing a little once in awhile, like a grand opera prima donna."

Prisoner's Plea.

"Want to say anything about your sentence?" asked Judge Sanderson.

Replied one Healey, up for breaking and entering: "Your honor, I've been working steadily all the time, off and on."

—A clean, honest, kind criticism is wholesome, but an underhand thrust, intended to be smart, is dangerous. There is so much of this flippant criticism these days. We are nearly all guilty of it, and yet it is a kind of sin that keeps the right from succeeding. There are instances every day where a noble fact is kicked aside by a disparaging remark, intended only as a slap. The serious trouble with these flippant criticisms is, they never leave a truth behind; it is always a blotch. The thing to do is to leave off the flippant and make a criticism sincere, thoughtful, frank and kind. If a criticism is not thus attended, it is false and flippant, unworthy of a true man or woman.—Milford, (N. H.) Cabinet.

LARGEST GUARANTEED CIRCULATION IN THE CITY

Vol. 27 No. 108 QUINCY, MASS., TUESDAY EVENING, MAY 7, 1912 PRICE TWO CENTS

TO ASK LEGISLATURE'S AUTHORITY TO REFUND $150,000 OF LOAN DEBT

City Council Takes Action Toward Relieving the City of its Existing Temporary Loan Burden

Large Amount of Important Business Transacted at Monday Night's Meeting

A very large amount of business was transacted at Monday night's meeting of the City Council. There was but little debate however and the business was put through with dispatch. The important matter of the evening was the report of the Special Committee on Financial Investigation. This committee made an exhaustive report, going into the financial situation in detail, particularly in regard to the large outstanding loan, which had now practically become a permanent debt. It wound up its report by offering a resolution requesting the Mayor to petition the legislature for authority to refund $150,000 of its temporary loan debt, to be paid at the rate of $15,000 a year. This resolution was adopted with but little debate.

The Committee on Streets reported on a large number of petitions which had been referred to it. Several reports were received from the Committee on Public Buildings calling for the finishing of the hall in the Quincy school building, for an athletic field, etc., while the Committee on Finance sent in reports on several of the matters before it.

In addition to these the License Committee reported orders granting nearly one hundred minor licenses.

All members were present.

CITY PHYSICIAN.

The Mayor forwarded a communication appointing Dr. John H. Ash as City Physician, to fill the vacancy caused by the death of Dr. Hallowell. Placed on file.

The Mayor also appointed A. L. Leavitt as a constable. Confirmed.

SEWER HOUSE CONNECTIONS.

The Mayor forwarded a communication from the Commissioner of Public Works asking for an appropriation of $3,000 for house connections with the sewer. Laid on the table until later when Councilman Ericson offered an order for that amount. Referred to Committee on Sewers.

A large number of applications for minor licenses were received and referred to the Committee on Licenses.

TREES REMOVED.

Petitions for the removal of trees on Revere road and Bedford street were received and laid on the table until later when Councilman Ericson offered an order for their removal. Adopted.

Councilman Sandberg presented a petition for the acceptance of a part of Morton street. To Street Committee.

A communication in relation to the incorporation of the Norfolk Downs Improvement association was referred to the Committee on Licenses.

Late in the evening a communication was received from C. E. Decker asking permission to examine the books of the tax collector. Referred to the Executive.

The Mayor also sent in a late communication recommending the acceptance of the first five sections of Chapter 101 of the Revised Laws relative to the removal of dilapidated buildings. This was laid on the table and a few minutes later an order offered by Councilman Abele accepting the act which was adopted .

SCHOOL LOT.

The Finance Committee reported ought to pass on the order appropriating $666.09 to meet deficit bill on the new Wollaston school building. Read and placed in Calendar.

DEFICIT BILLS.

The Finance Committee reported bills of the Board of Health. Ordered to a second reading.

SUBSTITUTE ORDER.

The Finance Committee reported a substitute order for orders appropriating $335 for fire alarm boxes and $425 for an automatic whistle attachment. The substitute order consolidates the two orders. Ordered to a second reading.

LICENSES.

The Committee on Licenses reported a large number or orders granting common victualler's, Sunday fruit and other licenses all of which were adopted.

POLE LOCATIONS.

The Committee on Streets reported an order granting the Electric Light Co. a location for poles. Ordered to a second reading.

CRANCH SCHOOL.

The Committee on Public Buildings reported an order for $1,500 to drain and grade the Cranch school lot and build drives. To Finance Committee.

WOLLASTON LOT.

The Committee on Public Buildings reported an order appropriating $6,000 to grade the new Wollaston school lot. To Finance Committee.

QUINCY SCHOOL HALL.

The Committee on Public Buildings reported an order for $7,000 to complete the hall in the Quincy school building at Atlantic. To Finance Committee.

ATHLETIC FIELD.

The Committee on Public Buildings reported an order for $1,500 for an athletic field and cinder track at Merrymount park. To Finance Committee.

ALMSHOUSE GAS.

The Committee on Public Buildings reported ought not to pass on the order to pipe the Almshouse for gas. Accepted.

STREET MATTERS.

The Committee on Streets reported upon a number of matters as follows:

Reference to the Executive on the orders for resurfacing Safford street and to repair Washington court. Accepted.

WEST STREET.

Ought to pass on the order for $2,500 to complete the rebuilding of West street. To Finance Committee.

PENN STREET.

An order for $7,000 to pave Penn street from Quincy street toward Columbia road. To Finance Committee.

WATER STREET GATE.

A resolve requesting the Mayor with a committee of three members of the City Council and three members of the Central Labor Union to confer with the officials of the N. Y., N. H.. & H. R. R., and the Railroad Commissioners if necessary relative to eliminating the present danger at the Water street crossing of the railroad. Adopted. The Committee,—Councilman Richards, Gauthier and C. A. Ross.

Leave to withdraw and ought not to pass on the following communications, petitions and orders.

Relative to paving City Square.

To accept a new street from Furnace Brook Parkway.

To extend Winthrop street to Rock Island.

To accept Parker and Carlson streets.

To accept Mears avenue.

To accept Holmes street.

To accept Roselin avenue.

For crosswalks on Brooks avenue, Beale street, Centre street, and Coddington street.

For drain on South Walnut street.

For culvert over Sachem brook.

An order for a public hearing June 3 on petitions to accept the following streets under the betterment act.

Saville avenue, Fairmount way, Glendale road, widening Sea street, Curtis street, Taber street, Nelson street, Doble street, Vernon street, Hamilton street, Davis street, Muirhead street, Stanton street, Norfolk street, changing grade Elm street, Cherrington road, Montclair avenue. Adopted.

GASOLINE LICENSE.

A public hearing was held at 8 o'clock on the petition of the Town River Yacht club to keep and sell gasoline. There was no opposition and the order was laid on the table until later when Councilman Carruthers offered an order granting the license which was adopted.

The Finance Committee reported an order apportioning a sidewalk assessment. Adopted.

CITY FINANCES.

The Special Committee on Financial Investigation made a partial report as follows:—

The most serious financial problem now confronting the City is the large and constantly growing deficiency in our revenue, the growth of which covers the entire period since Quincy became a city. It has resulted from two causes, the failure of the assessors to make adequate assessments, and the failure of the tax collectors to collect. The amount can only be determined approximately as during the early years of the City the books were not accurately kept and in one instance a discrepancy of something over $16,000 is found in the accounts, due doubtless to carelessness and lack of system. Each succeeding administration should have been aware of this condition of affairs but nothing has actually been done to meet the difficulty; on the contrary, the deficiency has been carried by temporary loans made in anticipation of taxes. As the deficiency has increased in amount so also have the loans. As these loans are made in anticipation of taxes assessed for the particular year during which they are made, they should not legally at any time exceed in amount the uncollected taxes and the unappropriated cash balance on hand, and in fact should be considerably less. According to the figures furnished to your committee by the State authorities which are the latest figures available

SUNDAY SCHOOL UNION MEETING

South Shore Branch Holds Annual Meeting Monday

OFFICERS ELECTED

The Annual Meeting of the Sunday School Union of the South Shore Branch was held Monday afternoon and evening with Trinity church, Weymouth, in Pythian hall.

The afternoon session opened at four o'clock with prayer and an address of welcome by the president, Rev. Mr. Bartow, of Cohasset. The reports of secretary, Rev. Mr. Steenstra of Wollaston, and Mrs. W. S. Bryant were then read and accepted. Other business matters were discussed.

The topic for the afternoon was, "How much and what sort of church teaching should we give our children in the Sunday School." Papers were read by the following; delegates; Miss Edith Fox of Quincy, Miss Agnes Hyde of Weymouth, Mrs. Whitman of Hingham and Mr. Theodore Parker of Wollaston. No reports were made from Cohasset, Plymouth or Whitman, the delegates being absent. After the papers were read a lively discussion was in order by those present.

A committee was appointed consisting of Miss Hyde, Mrs. Matthews, Mrs. Bryant and Mr. Parker to nominate officers for the ensuing year. This committee reported after supper.

Promptly at six o'clock the delegation wended their way to the supper table and partook of a splendid supper furnished by Trinity church, Weymouth. After grace by Rev. Mr. Bartow, the happy gathering commenced to do away with the dainties before them and were in much better trim for the evening meeting.

This session was opened at seven o'clock and was more largely attended. In all there were seventy-one present, a splendid showing owing to the inclemency of the weather.

The South Shore branch includes the parishes of Braintree, Bridgewater, Brockton, Cohasset, Duxbury, Hanover, Hingham, Middleborough, Plymouth, Quincy, Weymouth, Whitman and Wollaston.

The nominating committee reported and declared the officers as follows; President, H. K. Bartow; Vice president, Rev. William Hyde; .Secretary, Rev. F. H. Steenstra; Treasurer, Mrs. W. S. Bryant; Delegates, Mrs. Bill, Rev. George F. Wells, Mr. Ward and Miss E. H. Fox.

The topic for the evening was, "The Organization and Administration of the Sunday School." Papers were read by Mr. Frank E. Sladen, Rev. Allen Jacobs Mr. Arthur Newton, Mr. Alfred E. McCauseland and Mrs. David Fulton.

Owing to the lack of time these papers were not discussed. Rev. Mr. Mills Secretary of the Diocesan Board of Education, delivered a very eloquent address. The next meeting will be held on October 15, 1912 with the Church of Our Saviour, Middleborough.

TODAY'S COURT.

Ernest Lutz and William O'Brien were arraigned for ringing a false alarm of fire at Holbrook, and were ordered to make restitution of the cost of calling out the fire department.

James C. Hude was fined $15 for disturbing the peace at Quincy.

PRESIDENTIAL PRIMARY LAW

Senator Barnes Makes His Position Clear on New Law

RESULT AS PREDICTED

Senator George L. Barnes in an open letter to Frank J. Shay, of Wollaston makes his position on the new Presidential Primary law, which had its first practical test last Tuesday very clear, and the result of the test was as predicted by the Senator. Senator Barnes favored the original bill, as presented in the senate, and argued and voted for it. When it came back from the House in its amended form he opposed the bill, and results show his reasons to have been sound. He has been taken to task in some quarters for his vote and the letter, which follows, should set him right with the voters of the First district.

Mr. Frank J. Shay
Wollaston, Mass.

Dear Mr. Shay:—

As I contemplate the circumstances concerning the balloting of last Tuesday and the results of the operation of the new Presidential Primary law, I cannot resist the temptation to recall to you that this result and the confusion attending the voting upon that form of ballot was just what I had predicted previously to you would happen, in which conclusion, as I recall it, you agreed with me.

While I regret exceedingly the confusion in minds of the voters which resulted in the throwing out of so many ballots, yet I cannot at the same time, help some feeling of satisfaction that the judgment of those of us who opposed putting the names of the delegates at large on this ballot has been vindicated.

You will recall that the Presidential Preference bill first came to the Senate in a form which provided for the election of all the district delegates, twenty-eight in number by direct vote of the people of the several districts and also provided an opportunity for the voters of the whole state to express their preference for president. In this form, the bill received my support on the floor of the senate and upon a roll call I voted in favor of it.

The bill then went to the House and the House put on an amendment abolishing the state convention and placing the eight delegates at large upon this same ballot. The bill then came back to the Senate for their concurrence, with that amendment.

I think you will recall that I stated to you I opposed that amendment for the reason that the placing of these eight delegates at large upon the ballot was going to make it complex and confusing and that it was totally unnecessary because the district delegates were to be elected by direct vote of the people and the presidential preference was to be upon the ballot and therefore it was perfectly clear that the delegates at large however elected ought to follow the preference of the voters as expressed by their votes on the ballot. It seemed to me that the state convention which, under the form of the Senate bill would have elected the eight delegates at large, ought not to have been abolished, for the reason that these eight delegates at large could then be selected from the most prominent men in the state. It seemed to me undesirable for the further reason that Massachusetts has always held an important position in our national conventions by reason of the men of national reputation who were at the head of our delegates and for this reason, twice in the last fifty years, Massachusetts has had the honor of the chairmanship of the National Republican Convention.

The people I do not believe were so much interested in the personnel of these eight delegates at large as they were in having their wishes carried out after they had expressed their preference for president and it seemed to me clear that the election of the eight delegates at large by the state convention would avoid the very confusion which has resulted in the election of last Tuesday and at the same time these delegates should carry out the wishes of the people as expressed in their votes on the presidential preference. I therefore voted against the House amendment for the reasons above stated which seemed to me not only sound but absolutely unanswerable.

You will recall that there was some criticism at the time, of those of us who took this position, and not only criticism but a great deal of absolute misrepresentation of the facts. One Boston newspaper, neglected to set forth these facts and in the passion of its partisanship stated that we had opposed the bill itself which was of course not the truth. More than that, certain members of the Senate who publicly favored the amendment told me privately that they believed as I did concerning it but they were going to swallow it because they were afraid the bill itself might be lost.

It is hardly necessary to suggest that that is an argument of expediency rather than an argument as to the real merits of the situation.

In view of the clamor that was raised against some of us who believed that our oath of office, to do what we believed to be the right thing to do, was the only compass by which we should steer our course, I think you cannot blame me if I now express some satisfaction that the results have justified our conclusions.

It would of course have been much easier and more pleasant and agreeable to have jumped into the arena and shouted with the crowd even though we knew the bill was poorly framed and even though we felt certain of the unsatisfactory nature of the ballot which must be placed before the people under the bill with the House amendment. The fact that we did not do so, ought at least to be some indication that we were trying to perform our duty as we saw it and not allowing ourselves to be swept off our feet and frightened into voting for something that we knew was not a scientific or satisfactory arrangement to place before the voters of the state.

Permit me once again to repeat that this question was not at all a question of submitting the right to express their preference to the voters of the state that was contained in the bill as passed by the Senate and if the Senate bill had become a law the trouble experienced last Tuesday would never have arisen.

I wanted to write you this letter simply to make clear that the matters you and I discussed concerning this bill and the conclusions we arrived at were not very greatly in error as proven by the results.

Respectfully,
George L. Barnes.

VICTIM WAS ON WAY TO QUINCY

Body of Henry Kvillar Had Quincy Address in Pocket

A DRAUGHTSMAN

An echo of the sinking of the steamship Titanic was heard in Quincy this morning when Mayor Stone received, in his mail, a letter from the Red Cross Relief Committee in New York making inquiries of a man whose body was among those recovered, and which is now in Halifax waiting identification. The letter was as follows:

To His Honor the Mayor of the City of Quincy.

Dear Sir; I am informed this day, by telegram from our representative in Halifax, that among the bodies recovered from the wreck of the Titanic is that described as "Henry Kvillar" An address found in the clothing is 45 Edison street, Quincy, Mass. The body is being held subject to further instructions.

I shall greatly appreciate your kindness if you can find out whether or not the man mentioned above was a passenger on the Titanic, and if so, I shall be pleased to be put in touch with his relatives to learn what assistance, if any, we can be to dependent relatives, if there are any such.

With many thanks for early attention to this matter, I remain

Yours sincerely
W. Frank Persons
Director Red Cross Relief Committee,
1 Madison avenue, ew York.

Mayor Stone immediately turned the letter over to Chief Burrell to investigate. The Chief paid a visit to 45 Edison street and found it to be a vacant lot. He did find however that there was a 45 Edison Park which was a boarding house kept by a man named Brooks, which is probably the correct address.

Mr. Brooks did not know the man but gave the Chief the name of a German employed at the Fore River whom he said might know something about it. This man is a Mr. Addleberg, a marine draughtsman. Chief Burrell got in touch with him and learned that he did know Kvillar. He said that a few weeks ago he received a letter from Kvillar, but could not remember just what the letter said. He however thought reference was made in the letter about Kvillar coming to America to get work at the Fore River yards. The letter Mr. Addleberg said was at home and that it would be impossible for him to get it before night.

Chief Burrell then arranged to meet the man tonight to see what the letter says. It is thought that Mr. Kvillar was coming to Quincy to seek work at the Fore River and that the address which was found in his clothing was to assist him in locating his friend Addleberg in Quincy.

HONESTY IN EVERYTHING

The Congressmen are still talking to the usual audiences of bridal couples and door-keepers.

In the good old days you could see your opponent's hand at election for a postage stamp, but now it takes some very fat coupons merely for the ante.

Few persons can be persuaded to hang out food for the birds in winter, but almost any one will start a garden and then present it to the insect pests for their sole benefit.

Mr. Howells says young authors should never write for money, but in our experience glory can rarely be swapped for lamb chops at the butcher's.

If ambitious authors desire to get their stuff into the county paper, they would do much better with a treatise on the cultivation of beans than with poems on the Titanic disaster.

Unlike some others, the engineers and the railroads think they would prefer to put money in their own pockets, rather than have the satisfaction of taking it out of the other fellow's pocket, so they agree to arbitrate.

MOTHER'S DAY.

It will be a pretty act to celebrate Mother's day—second Sunday in May—by wearing a white flower for Mother's memory, or a bright flower if she is living. If mother is still with us on earth, it would be still more appropriate to go out and dig up the garden in which she is trying to beautify the home, instead of letting her toil with aching back.

The older mothers were brought up in a more toilsome generation. They have never thrown aside the traditions of thrifty industry of the former days. They seem to enjoy life much better when darning stockings for the grand children than when going to the theatre.

Our older mothers follow these pursuits so untiringly that one needs to watch over them to see they do not sacrifice themselves needlessly. Every dancing party where the young fry gather in their fluffy gowns means that a band of mothers have sat up till weird hours of the morning, in order to finish the last seams with their blurred eyes and trembling needle.

It is often pathetic to see the older mothers trying to keep up with the slang and amusements and society of the children. Their minds were not trained in that school of froth and sparkle. They think more naturally of making bread and saving household leaks.

Feeling themselves awkard and put of place in the society of the period, they often retire into the shell of home tasks for the benefit of the youngsters.

It is then up to all of us blessed with a Mother in the house, to see that their declining years are of a lovely holiday, affording rest from toil and calm enjoyment of life's good things. Take her along when you go off on a blow-out! Make the entire year a Mother's Day

SHORT TROUSERS.

Every spring and fall regularly occurs an effort on the part of the makers of men's fashions to establish certain radical novelties.

Usually these changes run to startling colors. The purpose is that in so far as men can be persuaded to buy clothes not merely for warmth and covering, but for personal adornment, the receipts of the sellers of clothes will be much increased.

In accordance with these tendencies against which we have ever firmly set our face, it is announced from Londan that men's trousers are to be shorter, for the purpose of showing more of the sock. As this evidently involves fancy stockings of sunset hues and rococo patterns, it is all a part of the scheme to turn man into a perambulating rainbow.

It all reminds us of the chapter in Darwin's "Descent of Man" where he alludes to the fine tail feathers of the rooster, and his swaggering and glowing comb, as his effort to make an impression upon the susceptible hens. Verily there will be a "Descent of Man" if he submits to this decree without a battle.

In our days of youth short trousers were the sign of awkward and ungainly rusticity. Well can we recall the jokes, promulgated by travelling minstrel shows, about the clownish vulgarians of the country, who wore "high water pants."

It was on such an occasion as this that we finally isued our ultimum to Ma against that deadly combination of short "pants" and white stockings which long we had dimly felt to be the sign of rural uncouthness. It was only after pleading that Ma gave up the economy of the white stockings, which untainted with corroding eyes could be bought cheap and would wear long.

And considering how we fought for the franchise of trousers that should connect with our boots, we are loath to abandon the fruits of that early assertion of manhood.

A newspaper writer may properly protest against these decadent manners in dress, because bold and conspicuous fashions obtain less hold on the newspaper fraternity than elsewhere. A "journalist" may wear a "plug hat" and rainbow stockings, but we are proud to say that but few "newspaper men" have thus worshipped the gods of vanity.

GOOD ROADS.

One of the big questions of the near future, close observers predict, will be the good roads movement, and every editor should be studying it and educating his readers on the subject.

There is a good deal of truth in the statement of some writer in the World's Work that "A good road is the best thing to build and the dreariest thing to write about in the whole world. When you have said that the difference between a good road and a bad one is the difference between an efficient civilization and the jungle, you've told the whole story." But it is a subject of much importance, destined to receive much attention in the state legislatures and in congress.

Some editors, who make a study of the subject, will write interesting articles, for the question has many sides and affects many interests. Farmers and town people are alike benefitted in a commercial way. Good roads are in the interest of economy, and the most effective advertisement any country or section of state can invest in.

Thousands of Americans visit Europe every summer and spend months motoring over the country on the fine roads found everywhere, and many of them take their cars with them. Many millions are expended annually in this way. If we had a few good roads from the Atlantic to the Pacific and between all the principal cities much of this money would be spent at home and many foreigners would motor in America.

It is not only the coming question but it is one of the most important questions and will mean much for the social and intellectual, as well as the material welfare of the nation. It is a question in which every country, town and school district is interested, or should be, and for that reason every editor should be studying it. It may not be a prominent question in your section yet, but it will be soon or the signs of the times are deceptive.—Norwood Messenger.

GOING TO VERMONT.

Quincy friends of Mr. and Mrs. Henry Tirrell of Dysart street will be sorry to hear that Mr. Tirrell has accepted a position at Bennington, Vt., and moves from Quincy this week. Mr. Tirrell has always lived here. Mrs. Tirrell came here as a bride and soon made many friends. She is active in the Quincy Women's club, the First church, the Quincy Choral society and various organizations and will be greatly missed.

TURK'S SEIZE AMERICAN

Captain of a Vessel Held as an Italian Spy

Athens, May 7.—In spite of the protests of the American and Greek consuls, the captain of the steamship Texas, which was blown up a few days ago in the Gulf of Smyrna, was forcibly removed from the Greek hospital to a Turkish prison infirmary. The Turks accuse him of spying in Italy's behalf.

The American consul has notified the embassy at Constantinople and it is said that the first secretary of the embassy and the captain of an American cruiser have been sent to Smyrna. A large number of the pasengers and crew were drowned when the Texas sank. An inquiry into the disaster showed that the Turkish forts had fired a number of solid shots at the steamer, one of which is supposed to have exploded a mine or the vessel's boilers.

WASHINGTON LETTER.

The bitter fight between President Taft and Ex-president Roosevelt is drawing special attention to the resolution which has been introduced in the Senate by Senator Works of California, and in the House by Representative Clayton of Alabama, to extend the presidential term from 4 to 6 years and prevent any president from serving more than one term.

No measure has been introduced into Congress in recent years which has received such an overwhelming approval by the business men and voters, throughout the country, North, South, East and West. It is a demoralizing spectacle to see the presidential office assailed the way it has been by the politicians recently throughout the country. This however, is not the only object of the bill. In fact the essential object is to diminish the trade of politics with which this country is so sorely afflicted. We do not finish one presidential campaign before we are plunged into another, thus creating uncertainty and hesitancy in business. Business men and industrial workers in all lines expect a "presidential year" to be dull, so why should we have presidential election so often when there is very little difference between one set of rulers and another. The charge has been freely made that when a president is inaugurated he immediately sets about to secure a renomination and re-election at the end of his term, so instead of serving his country and endeavoring to make a brilliant record in statesmanship, he sets to working for his personal ambition. This bill would end this practice so that when a president is inaugurated he would know that at the end of six years he would leave the White House forever and he would thus be inspired with an ambition to make a "record" to which he and his descendants may point with pride.

A bill has been introduced into Congress which is quite a radical amendment to our Patent Laws. At the present time when an inventor files an application for a patent he must pay the Government a first fee of fifteen dollars which is to cover the cost to the Government for examining and passing on his application. The bill increases the first fee from fifteen dollars to twenty dollars thereby adding five dollars to the expense to each and every inventor in applying for a patents and if the Patent Office should refuse to grant the patent the inventor would lose the entire amount and he would then be twenty dollars out instead of fifteen as at the present time. Another provision of the bill is that the officials of the Patent Office will be empowered to judge whether or not an application is of "sufficient importance" to warrant the issuing of a patent. This is a dangerous departure. At the present time when an application is filed, if the Patent Office finds that the invention is "new and useful" they are compelled to issue a patent and it is none of their business whether it is important or not as that is for the inventor to judge. The only thing that the patent office is to pass upon at present is whether is it "new and useful" and they are certainly not competent to judge of the importance of an invention, because the inventor himself is the best judge of that, and it is usually a necessity which he has felt that causes the production of the invention.

Another provision of the bill is one empowering the officials of the Patent Office to prevent any new attorneys from entering upon the patent practice if they feel inclined to do so. That is the patent office can stop the literature of any attorney simply on the ground that they considered it "improper." At the present time the Post Office Department will bar anyone from the use of the mails who sends out "false or deceptive" literature though they have never been empowered to judge what is "proper" or improper, and it would be a dangerous idea for this government or any bureau thereof to pass on the propriety of the literature of any establishment. However, it is not believed that the bill or any other similar bill will pass congress beause in effect it authorizes the Patent Office to sit on the necks of the "attorneys and the inventors" and it would enable those officials to "play favorites" if they choose to do so with both of these classes.

NOTEWORTHY ANNIVERSARY.

100 Years of Peace with Britain; Great Bridge at Niagara Proposed.

Christmas eve, 1914, will mark the completion of a hundred years of unbroken peace between the United States and Great Britain. For on Christmas eve, 1814, in the Cathedral of Ghent, was signed the treaty which ended the war of 1812.

With a view to celebrating the century of harmonious relations, by some sort of permanent memorial, committees have been organized in both countries to develop a program of action. Senator Burton of Ohio and Representative Littleton of New York have introduced in the Senate and the House identical bills appropriating $7,500,000 and calling for the appointment of seven commissioners to expend it in a manner worthy of the occasion.

As suggested, the commemoration would involve something more than meetings and parades, although these would not be neglected. It is proposed to erect several permanent monuments on the Canadian-American boundary—an unfortified international frontier 3,840 miles in length.

For this purpose the Niagara River is regarded as a particularly desirable point, as it contains Niagara Falls, the great national wonder of the North American continent, and a joint possession of the United States and Canada. One of the most popular suggestions, therefore, is for an international bridge over the Niagara River at Niagara Falls.

It is expected that before the time of the celebration arrives Congress will have enacted legislation in conformity with the treaty recently negotiated between the United States and Great Britain for the preservation of the gigantic cataract. By this treaty definite limits to the diversion of water have been set. The limits were fixed after surveys by Government engineers, and will keep the Falls unimpaired as a heritage of beauty to the future.

At present 15,600 cubic feet of water per second are used on the American side. As Gen. Bixby, Chief of Engineers, United States Army, has stated that the use of the additional 4,400 cubic feet allowed by the treaty would have no appreciable effect on the Falls, it remains for the disposal of this quantity to be determined upon. The treaty, by its provisions for the permanent protection of the Falls, renders unnecessary the present restriction, to 160,000 horsepower, of the importation of electrical current from Canada.

It is a coincidence that international provision for preserving Niagara comes at a time when a century of peace between the United States and Great Britain is to be celebrated.

IMMIGRATION CONSIDERED

Subject of Grave Discussion by Methodist Conference

INCREASE BISHOPS BY FIVE

President Taft Receives Commendation For Non-Intervention In Mexico—Women of the Church Ask the Right to Representation and to Occupy Pulpit—Church a Day Erected—Much Work Among Foreign Born

Minneapolis, Minn., May 7.—Though a definite report on the episcopacy will not be forthcoming from the Methodist general conference until the first of next week, it is known that five new episcopal residences have been agreed upon. This means that at least five new bishops will be elected. At least that number of bishops will be retired on account of age.

Americanizing and christianizing of the millions who are coming to this country from various parts of the world is one of the great problems of the church today, according to the report of the board of home missions and church extension. The total appropriation for work among non-English speaking people in the United States, according to the report, is $613,768.

"The immigration problem is a fact that is fast involving all national problems," says the report. "One-half the people of the United States are foreign-born or of foreign parentage. The thirty-three largest cities of the union are more foreign than American.

"The question of immigration has grown until it includes most of our other problems. It means tenements where people are herded like cattle, and in surroundings more unsanitary. New York has more rooms without windows than any other city in the world—360,000—largely peopled by foreigners. This means disease, the sweatshops and the slums."

In connection with church extension, the report says that an average of one church a day has been added for a generation of time, and that the total net receipts from 1865 to Oct. 21, 1911, including home missions, is $14,562,754.63.

The general conference unanimously adopted a resolution commending President Taft for his refusal to intervene in Mexico, and asking that he continue to avoid intervention.

The resolution was introduced by J. W. Butler of the Mexico delegation, and charged that newspaper report of disorders in Mexico grossly exaggerated the situation there.

Women of the Methodist church have demanded that the ban on them be removed. They want women ministers, and twenty-eight delegates to the general conference will fight for the revocation of the church rule which forbids the ordination of women as ministers.

TITANIC BELLBOYS DROWN

Pastor Francis Claims That Lap Dogs Were Saved

Boston, May 7.—Saving fifteen dogs in the first lifeboat of the Titanic disaster and allowing sixty bellboys from 12 to 14 years of age to go down in that steamship was scored by Rev. Dr. James A. Francis, pastor of the Clarendon Street Baptist church, before the Methodist preachers' meeting in Wesleyan hall.

"It was a most damnable thing on board of that Titanic to tell sixty bellboys from 12 to 14 years, when they came up on deck to be saved to go and sit down, until they were called and then take fifteen dogs in that first lifeboat," said Dr. Francis.

"There they are today in a water grave, waiting to be called. Now do you blame people for condemning this sort of distinction between dogs which belong to the wealthy and bellboys who belong to the poorer classes?

"I tell you today we want a new ministry and a new church to take exception of having the wealth of this land controlled by so few and so many suffering for the necessities of life."

SUNDAY IN OUR CHURCHES

Topics and Anncuncements For Coming Week

SUNDAY SCHOOLS

ATLANTIC MEMORIAL.

At the Memorial church Sunday morning Rev. T. W. Davison preached on "The Need of Fellowship," saying in part:—"The first communion service was a celebration of the Jewish Passover where Christ and the disciples met in an upper room the evening before his crucifixion.

"Instead of that feast being a cold formal gathering as the church has often made it, it was a semi-social feast where the disciples as one family met and drew near to Christ. This drawing near to Him led them to a thoughtful heart-searching time. Jesus sorrowfully told them that one of them should betray Him. That sorrow communicated itself, and the disciples entered somewhat into fellowship with the sufferings and sorrow of Christ.

"The humiliating effect on the disciples removed all contention of whom should be greatest, and put each one to searching his own heart. They did not answer with assertions of their faithfulness, but each one in fear and trembling said—'Is it I?' Not is it my neighbor? Nor, it is just what I expected of him! But each one realized the great possibility of falling. Fellowship with Christ brings men to self-searching and watchfulness.

"There would be nothing serious about a Christian doing wrong, and it would not seem so fatal if the sin did not bring the reproach upon the cause of Christ. We may not betray as Judas did, but any man can do that which answers to, and is almost as deplorable and shameful as the betrayal of Judas. Close fellowship with Christ only can save us from it. We can do the cause of Christ a greater injury today than any of the disciples could.

"Unfaithfulness, infidelity, disobedience and negligence are affecting the cause of Christ by far more today, and unconsciously we are all betrayers. The communion brings us face to face with life as it is, and if we claim fellowship with the divine, and attachment to the Son of God there must be a growing stability of character, a life superior to temptation, and a confidence in the keeping power of God as found in a holy purpose.

"We resolve at almost every communion that we will live a better life, but in thoughtless moments, self-assertion and bad temper lead us to do and say the things that destroy the fellowship we have with Christ. This self-assertion comes easy where we think we are striving to uphold some religious principle which if looked at from the proper standpoint is only a religious prejudice.

"Our fellowship one with another is to show our personal attachment to the Son of God. Christians interested in each other and showing loyalty to Christ must be the greatest testimony to a thoughtless or unbelieving world. It is a witness of the redeeming, atoning and reconciling death of Christ."

HALL PLACE M. E.

Rev. T. C. Martin of the Hall Place M. E. church, took for the subject of his morning service, May 5th, "The Christian's Right of Eminent Domain" and said in effect, that just as scientists have the right to take the lives of the lower animals to further the lives of men and women by experimenting on them along the lines of science, and as the law has the right to take from people certain properties which can best be used for the larger good, as in the taking of private land to build a railroad or similar projects so the Christian must not only believe that God can do certain wonderful things and bestow large blessings on His children, he must exercise his right of eminent domain and take these same blessings from God, who when He sees His children believing that they have what He is able to bestow will give the desired blessings more abundantly and in larger measure, but faith must play a large part in the possession of God's blessings.

A very interesting lesson on "Poverty and Riches" taken from Luke's Gospel was studied in the Sunday school. The Bible class studied the lesson as a continuation of last Sunday's lesson on the Beatitudes as recorded by Matthew, the lesson of this Sunday being the Beatitudes as recorded by Luke and the four attendant woes and the story of Lazarus and the rich man. The contest between the boys and girls of the school is steadily gaining. Previous to May 5th the girls have scored the largest number of points every Sunday but this week a surprise was given them, the boys scoring a 100 points more than the girls. At this rate of increase the boys will soon be ahead.

The Juniors met at 3 P. M. in charge of the pastor. The pastor lead the Epworth League service at 6.15 on the topic "Modern Heroes."

The subject of the evening sermon was "How a Christian may use poverty as an asset of wealth." The text was taken from Phil. 4-12. "I know both how to be abased, and I know how to abound everywhere and in all things I am instructed both to be full and to be hungry, both to abound and to suffer need." Many people have riches yet do not know how to use their riches and so are poor, while many people being poor yet knowing how to use their poverty as a means of advancement are in reality rich.

The cabinet of the Epworth League met at the close of the evening service.

The annual meeting and election of officers of the Epworth League was held Monday night and was followed by a Maybasket social.

The Ladies' Aid society will meet in the vestry this evening for important business.

The choir will hold their rehearsal on Wednesday evening of this week.

The midweek prayer meeting will be held in the vestry Thursday at 7.30 P. M.

Next Sunday, will be observed as Mother's Day with an appropriate sermon in the morning and a special service will be held in the evening at which a number of persons will speak in tribute to "Mother." Everyone is requested to wear a white carnation for Mother's sake.

Sunday, will also be Epworth League anniversary day. A large attendance is desired at the League service.

During the month of May while the general conference is in session at Minneapolis the pastor purposes to take five minutes every Sunday morning to speak on what the conference has done up to that date.

SWEDISH LUTHERAN.

On Sunday at the Swedish Lutheran church on Granite street the officiating clergyman, Prof. S. A. Lawzen of Newton read a letter from Rev. Leander Hokinsen of Ridgeway, Penn., accepting a call from the parish to become its pastor. This is the second time the invitation has been extended to Mr. Hokinsen and the parish is much pleased at his acceptance at this time. He comes to Quincy June 1st to assume his duties.

DURHAM STRIKE NOW SETTLED

New Hampshire University Malcontents Really the Winner

CRACKETT LIGHTLY PUNISHED

University President Relents Greatly —Trustees Plead With Pleasing Results—Class President's Sentence Reduced to Two Weeks' Suspension and Is Prohibited Athletic Entry—Many Students Had Gone to Homes

Durham, N. H., May 7.—The striking students of the freshman, sophomore and junior classes of the New Hampshire college returned to their studies at 8 o'clock this morning.

The strike ended shortly after 6 o'clock last night, but not until the executive committee of the trustees, consisting of Hon. Warren Brown of Hampton, N. H.; Hon. H. L. Boutwell of Malden, Mass., and Hon. Edward H. Mason of Nashua, had been in session all day with the administration committee of the college and the committees of all four classes in college.

The penalty inflicted upon W. H. L. Brackett of Greenland, the sophomore class president, who had been suspended for the remainder of the college year, was shortened to two weeks. His term of suspension will end one week from next Wednesday. However, he has been place don probation for the remainder of the college year.

During the term of his suspension he is not allowed to attend college exercises, and can not reside in Durham. When his suspension is over he is allowed to return to Durham, but while on probation is not eligible for college athletic teams.

The strike ended far more peacefully than was expected. Both sides were forced to give in. The students return to college without loss of scholarships and without having to reregister, as threatened by President Gibbs. The time limit expired yesterday noon, but the penalty was postponed pending the action of the trustees.

Students who had gone home will be given a reasonable length of time to return to their exercises.

SEVEN STEEL POOLS

Government Has Started Proceedings Against Trust

New York, May 7.—The government has begun its suit to dissolve the United States Steel corporation by attacking one of its largest subsidiary holdings. The American Wire company, with the intent to prove that ever since its organization in 1899, down to a year ago, it had been a party to pools, agreements or understandings to restrain trade.

The testimony, taken before Henry P. Brown of Philadelphia, special commissioner in the case, was given by two witnesses, Wallace Buell of Port Chester, N. Y., a retired indepednent wire manufacturer, and George E. Holton, president of the Bryden Horse Shoe company of Catasaqua, Pa., who, with others, was indicted and fined in the so-called "wire pool" cases about a year ago, after a plea of nolo contedere.

Seven of these alleged pools, covering different kinds of wire, are mentioned in the government's complaint, and Holton testified as to the formation of the American Horse Shoe association in January, 1911, three months before the organization of the United States Steel corporation. The association, he said, was organized to fix the price of horseshoes and was composed of nine concerns, among them the American Steel and Wire and his own concern. These, he swore, entered into a pooling agreement, a copy of which he produced. It provided penalties of not less than $500 or more than $1000 for the failure of any member to abide by it. The agreement was continued, he said, down to March, 1909, when the American Steel and Wire company withdrew.

LIABILITY BILL PASSES

All Amendments Increased the Benefits In Same

Washington, May 7.—The workman's compensation bill has passed in the senate, 64 to 15, substantially as framed by the employers' liability committee, and amended only to increase its benefits. The measure now goes to the house.

The principal changes provide that compensation for accidental injury and death of railroad employes shall continue to children until they are 16 years old and would extend payment in the case of daughters until they are 20, unless sooner married.

Another Trust "Dissolution"

Chicago, May 7.—The National Packing Company, which figured in the trial of the Chicago meat packers, contemplates "an amicable dissolution," following a conference between Ralp Crews, chief counsel, and United States District Attorney Wilkerson.

CITY COUNCIL

from that source, at the end of the year 1910 the temporary or tax loans outstanding amounted to $370,000. To offset this we had uncollected taxes assessed for that year amounting to $281,737.69 and a free cash balance of less than $10,000. In other words we were then borrowing at least $80,000 in excess of the face value of the security back of the loan. Until ten or twelve years ago the tax loans for any one year were generally reduced at least one-half. At the end of the year 1911 a tax loan of $475,000 had only been reduced $75,000 leaving a balance outstanding of $400,000. All this shows that something is radically wrong, and clearly bears out our contention that the temporary loans are carrying the burden of this deficiency in revenue. We have had an approximate estimation of this deficiency made by Mr. Wardell of the Bureau of Statistics a statement of which computation we herewith submit, showing that the amount is approximately $150,000.

In order better to understand the causes of this deficiency it should be borne in mind that the duty of the assessors is to make provision for a tax levy which with the estimated receipts from various sources shall be sufficient to meet the city's current expenses, state, county and metropolitan assessments, interest and maturing debt. They should also include in the tax levy an amount sufficient to cover such abatements of taxes as may be made during the year. As a matter of fact the assessors have too often failed to do their duty in these respects. Sufficient provision has not been made for abatement of taxes and we find that since 1889 the assessors have actually abated over $28,000 in taxes for which no provision was made in any of the tax levies. The tax rate has become a football of politics and successive administrations have shown more anxiety to secure a low tax rate than one calculated to produce sufficient revenue to meet the city's needs. To reduce the tax rate, receipts used in determining the tax levy have too often been over-estimated. Incidentally, we find also that the method of computing the sewer assessments is no longer adequate, the computation being based upon the cost of labor and material seventeen years ago. We are now preparing and will soon report a new computation made by the Commissioner of Public Works which, if adopted, will prevent any further deficiency in revenue from that source.

Your committee is of the opinion that the installation of the uniform system of accounts by the state in accordance with the vote of the Council at its last meeting will tend to prevent any further growth of the deficiency through failure on the part of the assessors to make a sufficient levy. The cardinal principles of the new system are simplicity and publicity,—simplicity in the keeping of accounts and publicity of all the essential facts necessary to show the actual financial condition of the city, at any time. The failure of the assessors to provide for a sufficient tax levy will be readily apparent and the remedy simple.

The other cause contributing to the present deficiency in revenue has been the fialure of the tax collectors to collect. We believe, after consulting with the tax collector that there are now unpaid taxes assessed prior to 1910 amounting to about $21,000 which are uncollectible, and should be abated. We found in the list, taxes assessed upon real estate on which the lien of the city has now been lost through lapse of time. This is absolutely inexcusable and we cannot condemn such conduct too strongly. That politics and favoritism have interfered with the proper collection of taxes is only too evident. We have urged the tax collector to take vigorous measures to collect the old taxes so far as possible. Your committee does not believe that any further recommendation is necessary, as the present legislature has recently enacted a law that undoubtedly will have a strong tendency to prevent such laxity in the future. We refer to Chapter 272 of the Acts of 1912 entitled "An Act Relative to Settlements by Collectors of Taxes." The law in brief places the tax collectors of the various cities and towns under the direct supervision of the Tax Commissioner, and provides also that when it appears at the end of three years from the commitment of any warrant to a collector any taxes upon such warrant remain uncollected, or if collected have not been turned over to the city treasurer, the Tax Commissioner shall bring suit against the collector for the taxes uncollected and unaccounted for. As a matter of fact the Tax Commissioner has already taken action under this new law. This is a great step toward removing the collection of taxes from local politics and putting it on a sound business basis.

Feeling assured that any further considerable growth of the deficiency of revenue cannot arise from these causes your committee believes that the time has now come when the city should squarely face the problem of providing some means for taking care of this deficiency so that there may be nothing to prevent a healthy financial condition in the future. As we have already stated the temporary loans in anticipation of taxes are carrying the burden of this deficiency. We are now renewing from year to year temporary loan notes to an amount of over $150,000. The loan is temporary in form but permanent in fact. Your committee has given the matter much consideration and after conferring with Mr. Gettemy, the Chief of the Bureau of Statistics, under whose direction the uniform system of accounts is to be installed earnestly recommend that the present legislature be at once petitioned for authority to fund that portion of the temporary loans which was created by this deficiency of revenue. As the deficiency is a growth of many years we believe that the funding should be in the form of serial notes to cover a period of not less than ten years, $15,000 to be paid each year. This will insure the payment of a portion of the deficiency by each successive administration and the entire disappearance at the end of ten years. In making this recommendation we are acting upon the advice and with the endorsement of the State Bureau of Statistics.

We strongly recommend the adoption of the accompanying resolution.

Respectfully submitted,
George W. Abele
Charles W. Bailey,
Albert N. Murray,
Harry T. Boyd,
Robert T. Craig,

Amount of temporary loans outstanding December 31, 1911, $400,000.

Total amount of uncollected taxes of all years, about $360,000.

Excess of temporary loans over all assets, $40,000.

The law (R. L. ch. 27, Sec. 6) however provides that temporary loans shall be paid from the tavxes assessed for that year.

Total amount of uncollected taxes for all years, due Dec. 31, 1911, $361,766.

The uncollected taxes assessed for 1911, $255,145.

Amount of uncollected taxes assessed for previous years which cannot legally be applied to the payment of the temporary loan, $106,621.

Add to this the actual excess of temporary loan over all assets, $40,000.

Total deficiency, $146,621.

The necessary abatements for all years when made will be about $30,000, which is equal to the amount of free cash on hand, and therefore the free cash may be disregarded in this computation.

The resolve which accompanied the report was authorizing the Mayor to petition the legislature for authority for the city to refund $150,000 of its indebtedness caused by money borrowed on temporary loans.

Councilman Richards questioned as to the best method of getting at the question. There were taxes amounting to $202,000 of 1910. There was a question if it would not be preferable to force the collection of the taxes due, even if it was necessary to have a deputy collector. If we do this we could show the legislature that we were doing all we could to relieve the situation.

Councilman Abele said that the report was at the suggestion of the State Board of Statistics. Sixteen other cities have already taken the same action and he had been informed that favorable action had been taken on eight of them. If we do not do this of our own accord we may be forced to do it. We have done all in our power to take care of the leakage and prevent it in the future.

Councilman Bailey said we have a temporary outstanding loan of $400,000, and the only funds to meet it are taxes of 1911, amounting to $225,000, making a deficit of $145,000. He was anxious to put the city on a legal and financial basis.

Councilman Cunningham said the only question was as to the amount. He did not want to borrow $150,000, to take care of $75,000. Since Jan. 1, 1912, the city had collected $33,000 of the 1910 tax, so that the deficit will be but $75,000. He believed that if the city asked authority to refund $100,000 it would be sufficient. He also thought that it should only be for five years and not ten years.

He moved to amend the resolve by making the amount $100,000.

Councilman Abele opposed. We have taken the figures given us by the expert.

Councilman Bailey also opposed. We ought to do a first class job while we are at it.

The amendment was lost and the resolution adopted.

NEW BUSINESS.

Councilman Craig offered an order discontinuing the soldiers' relief paid Colby Sampson, as he had no settlement in Quincy. Adopted.

JUDGE SCORES AUTO DRIVER

Gives Six Months Sentence To Worcester Man

Worcester, Mass., May 7.—James D. Curwen, Worcester county agent of an automobile concern, was sentenced to serve six months in the house of correction by Judge Utley here on a charge of reckless driving of his automobile on the night of May 2, when Leander F. Spinney of Dorchester was thrown from the machine and killed.

Judge Utley, in giving his decision, referred to the Titanic disaster, saying:

"We have had a horrible example of what the speed mania will effect in the recent sea tragedy. While I am not an authority on marine affairs, I do think we have the same thing to fear on the land.

"The spirit of recklessness has fast taken hold of the American people. If anybody trying to cross a street here gets out alive, it is due to Providence."

ENTIRE PARISHES DESERTED

Louisiana a Stricken State—Dangerous Conditions Increased by Heavy Rains—Even Concentration Camps Have to Be Moved—Loss of Life on the Increase—Towns Cut From Communication With Outside World

New Orleans, May 7.—Thousands of anxious people in the flood menaced districts of Louisiana are disheartened by heavy rains that pelted at levees already strained to the bursting point by the swollen Mississippi. All night long armies of workmen fought to strengthen those dikes that held firm while other embankments gave way before the flood that now covers portions of eighteen parishes.

Reports of life loss were received at several concentration camps. While these have not been specifically verified, it is conceded that many persons perished as the flood waters rushed upon their homes. An urgent appeal reached here begging for more motor boats to go after people imprisoned in the flood-swept district north of New Roads.

The first levee breach reported occurred on the Atchalafaya river, near Elba. The flood pouring through this new break adds to the menace about the town of Melville.

Flood refugees reaching New Roads declare there has been loss of life in that part of Louisiana inundated by the overflow of the Mississippi river, through the breach in the levee at Torras. It is known that motor boats sent to take numerous persons from floating house tops arrived too late.

Appeals for help reached New Roads from Lettsworth, directly in the path of the Torras torrent. There are at least 1000 people who remain to be rescued from the inundated country west of Lettsworth and Batchelor. Some of them are drifting about on hastily constructed rafts.

At Grosse Tete the Texas and Pacific and Southern Pacific railroads already have been put out of commission.

Upon orders from Governor Sanders militiamen have rounded up every negro in Morganza, Melville and Baton Rouge and forced them to work on the levees. Since the government started issuing rations in this section hundreds of negroes have been living off the government, but when an effort was made to have them work on the levees they refused. They will now work under a guard of militia.

Washington, May 7.—The senate appropriations committee has favorably reported a joint resolution appropriations $1,239,179 for temporary relief of the flood sufferers in the Mississippi and Ohio valleys. The committee increased the amount appropriated in the house resolution, passed Saturday by $542,000.

SEAT MORE DELEGATES

Chicago Colesuim Convention Hall Increases Number of eSats

Chicago, May 7.—An arrangement of seats in the Coliseum for the Republican national convention is being perfected whereby 10,000 persons, or about 1200 more than were present when William H. Taft was nominated, may be taken care of.

The sub-committee in charge of the arrangements, headed by Harry S. New of Indianapolis, will meet here on May 14, when the seating arrangements will be definitely passed upon.

Under the direction of Alexander R. Smith the work of inspecting and tabulating credentials has begun at national headquarters.

Mr. Smith says he has received so far the credentials of only 110 of the delegates elected in the various states.

EXPLOSION FOOLS MANY

For Miles Around Sensation Like An Earthquake

Springfield, Mass., May 7.—The residents of several sections of Massachusetts and Connecticut thought they felt an earthquake, but the shock was caused by a terrific explosion at Hazardville, Conn., south of here, where a powder mill of the Dupont company blew up.

The explosion shook the country for a distance of twenty-five miles. In the vicinity of Lowell, about eight-five miles away, a shock similar to an earth tremor was felt.

The explosion badly damaged the Hazardville plant, but no person was injured.

Ohio Draws Four Candidates

Columbus, O., May 7.—With President Taft and William J. Bryan in Ohio, the state headquarters of the various presidential candidates here took on unusual activity. Four presidential candidates will make speech-making whirls through the state. The Woodrow Wilson headquarters has general direction of the Bryan speaking tour, which began last night at Chillicothe.

England's Premier Absolves Minister From Great Britian

London, May 7.—Through Prime Minister Asquith the government has repudiated the suggestion that Ambassador Bryce had influenced the Laurier government of Canada, in its reciprocity action.

Mr. Asquith, in the house of commons, replying to a question by Henry P. Croft, said the Taft-Roosevelt correspondence on the subject of reciprocity was private and confidential, and there was no reason for believing the ambassador to the United States had anything to do with it.

Henry P. Croft, Rowland Hunt, Shirley Benn, Sir Clement K. Cook, Morton Griffiths and the others who are determined not to let President Taft's "blazing indiscretion" pass unnoticed, then gave notice that they would reopen the subject before the night's adjournment.

EUROPEAN TRIP IS POSTPONED

Archibald Witness Held by House of Representatives

Washington, May 7.—An alleged plan of one of the most important witnesses involved in the charges of misconduct against Judge Robert W. Archbald of the commerce court to escape jurisdiction of the house of representatives is said to have been frustrated by the quick action of the house Saturday in passing a resolution of inquiry into the charges.

It was said that warning reached Chairman Clayton of the committee on judiciary that one of the men interested in the negotiations with the Erie railroad for the culm bank property, around which the charges centre, was planning to leave for Europe. Quick action by the house Saturday resulted in a deputy sergeant-at-arms being sent to Scranton, Pa., for the witness.

E. J. Williams of Scranton, who is said to have negotiated for the purchase from the Erie railroad of the culm banks involved in the charges, at a cost of $3000, was among those whom Clayton expected would appear as witnesses.

Titanic Passengers Lived After the Vessel Had Foundered

Halifax, May 7.—Only one of the seventeen persons whose bodies were recovered by the cable ship Minia in the vicinity of the Titanic tragedy died from drowning, in the opinion of the cable ship's physician. The other sixteen perished from exposure, death ensuing some four hours after the vessel sank and long after the last lifeboat had drawn away.

This was demonstrated by an examination of the lungs of the bodies. In the lungs of but one was water found.

CHINESE FLEE MEXICO

Seek Safety Within Borders of United States

Washington, May 7.—Several hundred Chinese, fleeing from the disturbed zone in the state of Cohuila, Mex., are appealing to the United States government for a temporary asylum in this country. Terror-stricken by the memory of the Chinese massacre of the last revolution, Chinese are pouring into Piedras Negras, oposite Eagle Pass, Tex.

As an immigration problem is involved, Secretary MacVeagh will consult with Secretary Nagel of the commerce and labor department.

The KITCHEN CUPBOARD

PRESERVING RHUBARB.

HOUSEWIVES sometimes can rhubarb in order to have it for pies when the fresh plant cannot be obtained.

To preserve rhubarb in its fresh state take the stalks when young and tender, wash, pare and cut into pieces about two inches long. Then pack in jars that have been sterilized and fill these to overflowing with water. Let them stand for ten or fifteen minutes. Drain off the liquid and again fill with fresh cold water. Screw on the lids to the jars after you are sure there are no air bubbles in the water. See that the jars are air tight. When needed this will be found equal to fresh rhubarb.

A Simple Method.

Canned Rhubarb Sauce.—Wash, pare and cut up the rhubarb into small pieces. Add the sugar as for rhubarb sauce and put into a covered baking dish in a hot oven, using no water. Bake until reduced to a fine sauce. Then put into air tight jars.

With a Delicious Tang.

Ginger Rhubarb.—Dry your rhubarb after washing and cut into pieces an inch long. Weigh and put into an earthenware jar or bowl. Add an equal amount of sugar and a little whole ginger. Cover the vessel and let it stand for three days. Then stir it and pour off the sirup. Boil this in a saucepan to a third of its original bulk. Then add the rhubarb and boil until it is transparent. Then put into jars.

A Rich Preserve.

Fig and Rhubarb Jam.—Take five pounds of young rhubarb, wash and cut it into small pieces. Use a pound of dried figs to every five pounds of the rhubarb. Add to these the grated rind of a lemon, also its juice, and let these stand in an enameled saucepan or bowl all night. The next day cook very slowly for an hour. Then pour into glasses and seal.

A Wholesome Jelly.

Rhubarb Jelly.—Take some rhubarb, wipe it with a clean wet cloth, peel and cut into pieces an inch long. To each pound of rhubarb put three-quarters of a pound of white sugar. Put it to boil for about ten minutes or until the juice is well drawn. Strain the juice, let it boil quickly until it clings to the spoon, skim and put it into jars. The quickest way to know if it will set is to drop a little on a plate to cool

PUTTING UP CHERRIES.

CHERRIES should be put up when they are cheapest and at their best. Select firm fruit. It is better that it should be a little underripe than overripe.

If you are so fortunate as to grow your own cherries pick them and put them up as they ripen. Then only will you get the most delicious flavors. If the cherries are picked from day to day and a few jars are handled at a time the labor of preserving will be much lightened.

For Small Families.

When putting up fruit use small jars if your family is not large. A pint jar of fruit is enough for a moderate family at a meal, and if fruit stands after it is opened it may ferment.

All jars should be sterilized before using. When they are to be filled they should be taken from the boiling water in which they stand and placed on a cloth wet in hot water. Then the jars will not crack from the heat of the fruit when it is poured into them.

Careful Preparations.

Use the utmost vigilance in the selection of the rubbers. Old ones should never be used. Economy in this respect has cost many a housekeeper some of her best fruit. See that no air bubbles are in the jar when the fruit has been poured in.

With the Stones.

Canned Whole Cherries.—By this is meant cherries preserved without stoning. Some persons think the stones add to the flavor. To each pound of the cherries allow a third of a pound of sugar. Put the sugar in the preserving kettle with half a pint of water to three pounds of sugar. Stir until the sugar is dissolved. When it is boiling add the cherries, which should have been stemmed and well washed. Cook for three minutes and then put into jars.

The Popular Way.

Stoned Cherry Preserves.—Wash, stem and then stone your cherries. Save all juice. Put the sugar and water into the preserving kettle and on the fire stir until the former is dissolved. A quart and a half of sugar and half a pint of water should be used for every six quarts of the cherries. Put in the cherries and heat to the boiling point. Boil for ten minutes, skimming carefully. Then put into jars.

Highly Spiced.

Spiced Cherries.—Prepare as for ordinary canned cherries, using, however, to one quart of sour cherries three cups of sugar. Add half a cupful of vinegar and boil until thick. Then stir in a quarter of a teaspoonful of cloves, a dash of nutmeg and a teaspoonful of cinnamon and boil for a few minutes.

ASTOR FORTUNE GOES TO SON

Widow Gets Trust Fund as Long as Single

New York, May 7.—Counsel for the family made public last night the will of John Jacob Astor, as drawn in this city in September last, only a few days after his marriage to Miss Madeline T. Force and approximately seven months before he perished with the sinking of the Titanic.

Vincent Astor, a son, who will come of age within the year, is made the principal beneficiary and residuary legatee.

Valuations of the estate run anywhere from $75,000,000 to $150,000,000. A close friend of the family said that in his opinion the smaller figure was nearer the correct estimate.

Aside from the provisions for Vincent Astor, the will provides for unconditional bequests of only $276,500. Among these there is but one of a charitable nature. This is $30,000 to St. Paul's school at Concord, N. H. The remainder of the legacies are to relatives, friends and faithful servants.

Nearly all the other provisions of the will, as made public, deal with the trust funds, of which there are three: $5,000,000 for the young widow, $5.000.000 for the colonel's young daughter, Muriel, the child of his former wife, and $3,000,000 for the expected posthumous child of the present widow.

No provision whatsoever is made for the wife who divorced him, and if the young widow dies or marries again the $5,000,000 trust fund and the town house and other property left to her reverts to Vincent Astor.

She receives, however, $100,000 outright, without further stipulation; and until the income from the trust fund shall become available the trustees are directed to pay her an income of $200,000 a year.

Maine Blaze of $30,000

Hampden, Me., May 7.—Three business buildings in the centre of the town were destroyed by fire with a loss of $20,000. Help was called from Bangor, and with the aid of the firemen from that city the local men were able to prevent a serious conflagration.

Uncle Cottle's Wooing.

"I'm going to get married, Tim!"

Uncle Cottle sat very upright in his chair and spoke with an air of invincible decision.

"What, again?" drawled his nephew wearily.

"Again, sir? When was I married before?"

"But this isn't the first time you've been going to do it, uncle that's what I meant," Tim explained. "Do I know the favored lady?"

"It's Miss Sybil Holt, Tim," said Uncle Cottle confidently. "The most lovely—the—the oh h! I met her the other evening at Mrs. Dynham's silver wedding party, and she—er—quite seemed to take to me. I'm older than she is," he sighed pensively, "but I look a good 10 years younger than I am don't you think so?"

Young Tim regarded him critically, without hazarding an opinion. He was past middle age, and looked it—a full bodied little gentleman, with short, dumpy legs and a bland, moon-like face, whose prevailing expression was of imperturable simplicity.

"Have you proposed?"

"Why, no. I've only seen her once. Besides," Uncle Cottle sighed again. "I'm so shy, you know, Tim—so infernally shy! The only time that I ever managed to propose was when I wrote to that widow—you remember, you helped me with the letter—and she never answered. You didn't say," he added, "whether you knew Miss Holt?"

"I don't remember to have met her."

"Ah! If you had you couldn't forget her. She's an aunt you'll be proud of, my boy."

"But she may not appreciate the honor of obtaining me for a nephew."

"If she refuses me, Tim—if I lose her as I've lost the others." cried Uncle Cottle, wildly, "I shall think there's a curse on me, and I'll give in—I'll never love again! I'll live and die single!"

Young Tim hoped he would. Uncle Cottle had been his guardian ever since he was quite a boy, but since he came of age some six years ago, he had rather reversed the position of affairs, and looked upon Uncle Cottle with the jealous eye of a sole proprietor who didn't want anybody to meddle with his business.

"I'm his only relative," he complained to his crony, Ted Merrows, as they sat at breakfast next morning in the chambers they tenanted in common. "What's his is mine. He's said so lots of times. If he gets married, though, his wife will expect at least half, and if he has children—there'll be no meat left on the bone for me!"

They were both reading for the bar, but Ted Merrows put aside his paper for the moment and placed all his intellect at the service of his friend.

"What's the use looking black about it? Don't put on the poultice prematurely—first catch your cold He's been going to marry often enough before—"

"But he's never seemed to determined as he is now. He's dyeing his hair and cultivating a figure."

"Gone so far as that!" exclaimed Ted. "Then I'm afraid nothing will stop him."

"I shall try, anyhow," growled Tim. "If I can't hit on anything better shall tell him I've found out she is engaged. I've stopped him twice like that he's so nervous and afraid of seeming presumptous. That widow was the most dangerous—three months ago. I really thought I lost him that time. He was so bewitched he was going to call at her house only I persuaded him it wasn't etiquette, and that he ought to write first and disclose his sentiments and ask permission to call. I undertook to post the letter on my way home here to the Temple, and I put it in the fire. When he got no answer he wished he hadn't written—felt he had been impertinent and she was offended."

"Suppose he meets her and mentions it?"

"He daren't; I know him too well. He'd be so ashamed and panic stricken he'd run away at the sight of her."

"Well, you've been lucky so far, but it can't go on like this forever," observed Ted Merrows. "Take my tip and make hay while the sun shines."

"How do you mean?"

"You are old enough to marry, and as your uncle's sole heir you'd be a valuable article in the matrimonial market. But if he marries you'll find yourself on the shelf among the damaged goods and remnants. Dispose of yourself while you are still an heir and the fitting lord for an heiress. You can't stop the old man marrying, but you can take care he doesn't spoil you by marrying first."

"But I don't know anybody," remonstrated Tim. "How am I to find the heiress, get introduced and engaged and marry her out of hand in——"

"You might find one through the matrimonial journals."

"Nonsense! Heiresses don't advertise."

"Don't they? All heiresses are not in society. Some of them want to get there, and they advertise They wouldn't marry a gentlemen with nothing, perhaps, unless they happened to be old or ugly; but they would be glad to snap up a man like you, moving in good society, with a liberal allowance from your uncle, and hopeful prospects. Then if your uncle deserts you afterwards, her money will keep the wolf from the door and save you from working yourself to death."

* * * * * * *

Young Tim had a morbid horror of poverty and overwork, and that story haunted him all day. It shone through his dismal forbodings like the moon through a mist; it seemed almost too good to be true. He dined alone that evening at a restaurant in the Strand, and passing a news agent on his way back into the Temple, he noticed some matrimonial journals in the window, and went in and bought one. He was somewhat relieved on entering his chambers to find that Ted Merrows was not yet home. He opened the journal and studied the crowded columns in private, and lighted at length on a business-like advertisement that impressed him favorably.

Maud, young, dark and good looking, with private income, wishes to correspond with middle-aged gentleman of means and position, with view to matrimony. References exchanged

Replies were to be sent to a letter of the alphabet at the office of the paper.

Tim was not middle aged, but he considered that if anything, that should tell in his favor. He read and re-read the advertisement till, from feeling tempted to answer it just to test the probability of Ted Merrow's story, he began to succumb to fresh fears for his future, and became anxious to answer it for his own sake.

"There's no harm in writing," he argued. "If I change my mind, or it doesn't seem good enough, I can drop it."

And while the impulse was upon him he wrote. He wrote vaguely of his income and said nothing of his age. If he explained his precise position he feared she might fancy it was too insecure to render him eligible. But if he could see her he flattered himself that the charm of his conversation and personal presence would dazzle her and divert her attention from his less pronounced monetary qualifications. He signed his own name, "T. Cottle," because if the negotiations came to anything it might shake her confidence when he had to acknowledge he had approached her under a false name. At the same time, as she had withheld her surname and address, he felt justified in requesting her to direct her reply in the first instance to the postoffice in Bayswater Road, to be left till called for.

"I can look in for it next time I go to see uncle," he reflected. "If it turns out a frost, I needn't tell Merrows anything. H'd only grin about it. I'll get the letter off before he comes in."

He half regretted his impetuousity when he contemplated what he had done in the cold light of the next morning.

Nevertheless a couple of evenings later he journeyed to Bayswater and inquired at the postoffice for his letter, but it hadn't arrived. So he walked on to see Uncle Cottle, but as his uncle was not at home he told them to say he had called, and wouldn't wait.

His interest in his rash matrimonial project had cooled considerably; but going to see his uncle on the following Saturday afternoon, he inquired casually at the postoffice again, and was not altogether displeased that there was still no letter for him. He decided that his epistle had not created a satisfactory impression and that he should hear no more of it.

Turning a corner a little beyond the postoffice, he was surprised to run into Uncle Cottle, gorgeous in a new white waistcoat and with a flower in his buttonhole.

"Tim, my boy," he ejaculated, "I've been expecting you daily. Sorry I was out when you called last—I was out on particular business."

"Oh!"

Tim had dim premonitions of disaster. He only upbraided himself for neglecting the affairs of Miss Holt.

"Yes." Uncle Cottle winked his left eye and whacked his nephew on the shoulder exuberantly. "I was arranging to get married."

"To Miss Holt?" faltered Tim.

"No," laughed Uncle Cottle. "You'll never guess. It's the widow—Mrs. Netley. You remember we wrote to her. She answered my letter that evening, an hour before you called."

Tim was too confused to grasp what he heard.

"But you said," he stammered, "that if Miss Holt rejected you you'd know there was a curse on you, and—"

"I haven't asked Miss Holt. Besides, it's three months since I wrote to the widow, so in any case, she has a sort of prior claim over the"—

"The other curse," Tim suggested, bitterly.

"Here's her letter," said Uncle Cottle, disregarding his interpolation. "Read it for yourself."

He thrust the missive into Tim's hands, and he read it dazedly as they walked on together.

"Dear Sir: If you care to call on me I shall be pleased to see you. I regret you did not give me your own address, as I should have thought it implied either a want of confidence in me or candor in yourself, had it not been that we are almost neighbors and I had the pleasure of meeting you a few months ago and know you by reputation. Under the circumstances you will appreciate my preferring to send this to your private address, which I have taken from the directory.

Yours truly,
Maud Netley."

"That's all right, Tim, ain't it," chuckled Uncle Cotton.

Tim realized in a flash that this was his "Maud," and that it was his letter she was answering,not his uncle's; but he could not see his way to saying so.

"What does she mean about your address?" he said.

"Why I was nervous when I wrote that letter, and I must have forgotten to put my address in—that's why she didn't answer before; she couldn't. And it's just occurred to her to look in the directory.. See? I meant to have asked her about it, but she was so nice and amiable and smiling, and I was so—so— well, I hardly know how I was— but there didn't seem any need to apologize, and, in fact, I never thought about it till I was coming away."

"Is she young?" asked Tim for the sake of saying something.

"I thought at first she was nearly 40, but she's only 29—she told me so herself. I showed her my bankbook and a list of my securities. 'Oh that's all right,' she says, laughing. 'Then when's it to be?' says I. And its going to be next month."

"I'm going to the vicar's now to put up the banns. You can come with me. And. I say! she's an orphan; so we want you, my boy—age don't matter; it's only a matter of form—to be a father to her at the wedding and give her away."

Tim was gloomy and reckless, and said he would. Why shouldn't he? He had given away his prospects; he had given away his uncle. He might just as well do the thing thoroughly and give away the widow as well. Then he would have nothing and nobody left to keep—but himself!—Tit Bits.

SLIGHT LEAD FOR TAFT

While Clark Has Safe Majority Over Wilson

Baltimore, May 7.—Returns from the presidential primaries in Maryland have taken a turn that show a marked gain for Taft.

Incomplete results from Baltimore city and all the counties but two indicate 63 Taft delegates to 61 Roosevelt out of the 129. The needed majority is 65.

The Democratic contest was not so close, returns giving Clark an estimated 52 delegates and Wilson 35. Harmon has but four.

Because of the heavy vote cast and the complicated conditions it is not believed that the result in the state will be available until tomorrow.

EFFORT TO SAVE RICHESON

Date Set For Execution Not Far Distant

Boston, May 7.—There is very little, even if there is any, probability of a public hearing before the executive council council in the Richeson case.

The attendance probably will be confined to the counsel, the witnesses in the case and the newspaper reporters, the public being present only as represented by the newspaper men.

Evidence submitted by Richeson's counsel declaring the minister-murderer insane, is before Governor Foss. Should he refuse to recommend a public hearing before the council on the petition for commutation the sentence of death in the electric chair will be carried out during the week of May 19.

Every doctor who has ever attended Richeson has been located by counsel for the defense, and their depositions regarding his sanity will be presented in behalf of the condemned man.

Richeson's father will come to Boston in an effort to save his son's life by appearing before the council. It is said Mrs. Edmands, mother of his fiancee, will testify as to his mental condition while her guest.

Among other relatives who are expected to come to Boston are his sister, Miss Katherine Richeson, of Saranac Lake, N. Y., a brother from Chicago, a married sister from Philadelphia and another brother, a minister, now in the southwest.

According to his counsel Richeson is resigned to whatever fate may come to him. He is in the best of health and spirits, and confident the governor will grant his plea for commutation.

MUNICIPAL FINANCES

The City Auditor has just issued a plan showing at a glance what became of the revenue derived from the taxes of 1911, and ordinary receipts, exclusive of money borrowed. The document is an interesting one and shows that for every dollar collected, 24 cents goes for debt and interest; 22 cents for education; 21 cents for state and county; 6 cents for fire protection; 6 cents for streets, including street watering; 5 cents for street lighting; 5 cents for police protection; 2 cents for Board of Health, including inspection and care of all things pertaining to health; 2 cents for charities and 7 cents for all other departments.

BRIEFS

The dramatics at the High school are to be held Friday evening, May 17.

Bob Johnson has gone to his farm in New Hampshire for a ten days' stay.

Mt. Wollaston Lodge I. O. O. F. is to visit Herman Lodge of Boston Wednesday evening.

A regular meeting of the Order of Eastern Star was held Monday evening in Electa hall.

Raymond H. McGuiness, of Garfield street, has gone to Peekshill, N. Y., to engage in business.

C. B. Hill of Dayton, O., is the guest of his brother H. H. Hill of South Central avenue terrace.

D. J. Seward McCurdy has returned from a five weeks' sojourn in the northern part of the state.

Mrs. Waldo J. Tyler of Blake street, has been confined to her home by illness for the last two weeks.

Joseph Thomas of Moscow street has a bad case of blood poisoning in his arm caused by the scratch of a pin.

The weather is trying hard to be pleasant today. The wind still holds to the east however, and the air is cold.

The many friends of Ambrose Reinhalter are congratulating him on having received a certificate as a registered druggist assistant.

Timothy J. Carey, former Tax Collector, now located at Springfield in the interests of the State Board of Charity, is in the city renewing acquaintances with his many former friends.

Mrs. George E. Pfaffmann of Goffe street is to open her house tomorrow afternoon for a whist party from half past two to five o'clock, for the benefit of the hospitality committee of First church.

JOHN DRISCOLL.

The body of Captain John Driscoll, of Cambridge, father of Mrs. Charles Mueller of Washington street, was brought to Mt. Wollaston cemetery, Monday, for burial. The deceased was for many years a well-known figure in the Quincy Point district and enjoyed the acquaintance of a wide circle of friends who now mourn his loss.

Speaking of Dieting.

"Yes, I lived on water for three years."

"Goodness! Didn't you get awfully run down?"

"No, but we had a narrow escape once in the harbor of Marseilles."

MOTOR BOAT LAWS.

Quincy residents with homes along the shore front will be pleased that the motor boat laws are to be strictly enforced this summer and that therefore it will be more quiet by day and night upon the water.

Acting under instructions from the Secretary of Commerce anl Labor, Collector of Customs Curtis will enforce the laws regulating proper life-saving apparatus and fire extinguishers on motor boats more stringently than ever this season.

In the past, about 200 motor boat owners have had nominal fines of from $1 to $5 imposed upon them by Judge Dodge of the U. S. district court. Sec. Nagel suggests that the maximum fine of $100 be imposed for each violation hereafter. Daniel A. Shea, special assistant district attorney at this port, will have charge of the prosecution of the cases.

The collector will be assisted in enforcing the law by the customs revenue cutter Winnisimmet, Capt. Bowen, and the revenue cutter Gresham, Capt. Warren. The collector is in hopes that the government will purchase a fair-sized motor launch that will be used in shallow and narrow passages of water where the revenue cutters cannot go.

Particular attention will be paid to motor boats cruising in bodies of water off the following places: Newburyport, Amesbury, Salisbury, Newbury, Haverhill, Ipswich, Medford, Cambridge, Roxbury, Dorchester, Cohasset, Hingham, Weymouth, Hull, Quincy and Worcester.

The overcrowding of motorboats is another nuisance that Collector Curtis intends to put a stop to this year. He will stringently enforce the laws in that direction.

RECOUNT OF CAUCUS VOTES

Few Changes Noted When Counters Adjourned for Lunch

THOSE IN CHARGE

Although no official tabulations were given out, when those engaged in recounting the votes for presidential preference and delegates to the convention adjourned for an hour at twelve thirty today, for dinner, it was generally thought that little, if any, changes would be made when the recount was finished. The members of the Board of Registrars, together with assistants and those assigned to represent the interests of different delegates, began the recounting at nine this morning and when the recess was taken there remained but a few votes to be counted.

The Board of Registrars included City Clerk Emery L. Crane, Michael B. Geary, Dennis Ford, and Henry W. French. The assistants were D. J. Seward McCurdy, Michael T. Sullivan, Thomas B. Davenport and Ezekiel C. Sargent, City Engineer. Frederick G. Thayer was present in the interest of the Roosevelt vote. Harry G. Studley represented Lucius Tuttle, a Taft delegate. Percy Taber looked out for the interests of Samuel B. Capen, a delegate pledged to Taft. Frank Prescott took part in the recount in the welfare of Lee M. Friedman, alternate district delegate. John H. Johnson, chairman of the Roosevelt tenth Mass. district committee, besides taking charge of the Roosevelt ballots, also took care of the votes recorded for William B. Willicutt.

FIRE CHIEF BILL PASSED

The Senate Monday reconsidered its action of last Friday whereby it rejected the bill which would place the office of Chief of the Quincy Fire Department under the civil service rules. Senator George A. Barnes, of Weymouth, moved the reconsideration of Friday's action and obtained it. The same senator then moved that the bill be passed to be engrossed and the Senate did so, with no voice raised in opposition. The measure now having passed through both branches of the legislature, will go to the Governor today and will doubtlessly be signed by him within a few days.

CLAIM THAT HE STOLE CLOTHING

Lieut. Daniel R. McKay arrested Frank L. Anderson of Granite street Sunday on a complaint charging him with taking goods valued at $114 from the rooms of Joseph Barraja-Frauenfeider in the Greenleaf building on Thursday evening during the temporary absence of the occupants. A large amount of clothing was carried away. The police claim that Anderson is one of the three young men who made the break and he was arraigned in court Monday before Judge Avery and the case continued until Saturday, May 18. for hearing.

SUPPORT NEEDED.

All that is needed to make soccer foot ball a success are a few good rooters. The Fore River team is putting up a good game but needs to be encouraged. It should not be forgotten that the Fore River team is the champion of eastern Massachusetts and few teams have much show with it. Give the team a little encouragement and some good sport is assured.

NEW YORK FRILLS.

Furbelows on Fussy Dresses yet Skirts remain Narrow—Folds Popular—Three Tier Skirts—Mousseline and Maline Jabots and Ruches—Silk Eyelet Embroideries—Macrame Lace.

Fussy taffeta frocks and suits of this and other silks are a feature notable wherever the well dressed assemble. Changeables are a veritable craze and are used not only for frocks and hats and their trimmings but for bags, linings, scarfs and coats.

THE "QUAKER BAG."

The new Quaker bag in long saddle bag style with rings in the centre to close it is out not only in silk but in English Morocco. This bag opens at both ends where gilt frames and secure fastenings hold it for the closings hang downward in carrying. One end holds the purse and the other the vanity fittings, between the two, in the centre, are the rings and chain for carrying. In leather this style costs $10, in moire less, while in white pique trimmed with lace and fringe it can be made at a very moderate figure.

NECK AND SLEEVES.

Hand embroidered Quaker collars and cuffs edged with Irish or Cluny lace are fashionably worn, and frills of hemstitched lawn or fine net finished most of the three quarter sleeves that are popular for both tailored frocks and coats. These ruffles can be bought with rubber ribbon fitting them to the arm which saves sewing in. Macrame lace for waist trimmings in bands and collars and cuff shapes is well endorsed and is most often used with decidedly contrasting textures. A waist of fine Brussels net will be dressed up with the heavy lace, or it will relieve the flat look of taffeta or satin. Girdles of velvet ribbon that tie once and have the ends weighted with fringe or other danglers, and similar contraptions of silk or satin are universally worn. Very fancy belts of leather in two colors of soft crushable styles are also desirable additions now that the shirt waist season is upon us.

NEW WAISTS.

Severely tailored shirt waists in washable silk are in excellent vogue. These have soft, close fitting collars of the material closed with links to match those in the turned back cuff of similar shape which finishes the sleeve. White satin shirt waists made after the same fashion are quite practical also since these wash perfectly in lukewarm soapy water and are ironed on the wrong side when nearly dry after the same method as the regulation wash silks.

NEAT AND TRIM.

Neat and trim and comfortable also is the woman, even of very full figure who wears above the top of her corset a well designed brassiere, This while light and flexible holds the upper waist gracefully erect, securing a flat straight back by means of a patent strap across the shoulder, just at the top of the corset. Another clever feature in this "La Reine" brassiere is a little hook that catches in the corset laces and thus prevents it from slipping out of place.

WHIP CORDS AND SERGES.

Whipcords and serges are the materials most employed for woo tailormade attire and every woman who can compass it is having as many white serge costumes as her purse or needs permit. These are so useful and becoming if well selected that their popularity is easily understood. Wool fringe is used considerably as a trimming but discreetly. If it follows the overskirt lines that run in the fashionable diagonal on the skirt the lapels and sleeve cuffs are apt to want it, and be finished in broadcloth or ribbed facings of silk, wool or cotton corduroy or terry cloth. Figured pongee printed in dull tones of red or blue makes effective revers and sleeve facings.

WHITE SKIRT, COLORED COAT.

A white skirt worn with a colored coat is one of the present fads and coats of this sort are apt to be built either on Blazer or Norfolk lines. Blue coats are first favorites, but black and other tones are permissible if preferred. The dark coat usually has white facings and buttons and is often outlined with the heavy cording which is one of the late wrinkles.

New York, May 4, 1912.

—Springfield women are said to be wroth over a local postal regulation there which says that men can get mail at the general delivery window up to 10 P. M., but women must apply not later than 8. Is the Springfield postmaster favoring a sort of curfew law to keep women off the streets at night so far as lies in his power? What can be the reason for such discrimination?—Brockton Enterprise.

SPORTING "DOPE"

By B. A.

Don't Knock, Just Boost.—B. A.

With a clean record of four straight victories, Quincy High encounters its toughest proposition of the season this afternoon at Newton, where conclusions will be tried with the aggregation of players who wear the colors of the High school of that city. Both combinations are bitter rivals and any one who will recall the keen spirit of enthusiasm that was demonstrated by the supporters of both cities, when Newton High and Quincy High were contesting in gruelling form for the basket ball honors of the state, knows full well what influence the memory of the past winter is bound to have upon the result of today's game.

Happily for the local boys, Brown, who was taken from center field and placed on the slab, proved himself an apt twirler in the game with Abington High last Friday, the result of which will mean that he should henceforth prove a valuable asset to the team, and at the same time materially increase the pitching staff. McDonald who has already brought home three victories for the Granite City players has shown himself to be a twirler of no mean ability. He is cool headed and effective and keeps an alert eye on every play during the game. He has an abundance of curves, which added to the speed with which he delivers the assortment, classes him as one of the best pitchers ever turned out at Quincy High. It can safely be said that it would be a difficult task to find an interscholastic pitcher who can excel him in hitting.

The rest which he enjoyed last week should be productive of much good and if he can maintain the pace which he has established thus far this season, there is no reason why the local team should not return this evening in triumph. The playing of the team as a whole has shown marked improvement in every game and such being the case we look to see Quincy High exhibit its best article of base ball against Newton High.

Another player who can be depended upon at opportune moments is "Chris" Barry, who covers the left outer garden for the Quincy High school combination. His hitting in every game thus far has been a feature and he gives every promise of rounding out into one of the best outfielders in the city. Little also is a player who is showing up to great advantage at short stop and with little more development in hitting will be able to take rank among the best among the school boy players. O'Dowd and Holmes are also playing in good form and have helped greatly in offsetting the opinon that was first entertained, namely, that this year was not to be a very prosperous one for the local High school, when it came to a question of the base ball outlook.

For a long time the fans of the city have been anxiously awaiting any news that would appease them in the least way and great fear was felt lest there were to be no first-class semi-professional teams in this city. Enthusiasts who have witnessed many an interesting contest in this city in past years were inclined to feel that the worse season ever, would be experienced his year. But thanks to the number who had the interests of the base ball rooters at heart, there is to be a local league this year and the teams that are to comprise it should produce the sort of ball tossing that has yet to be excelled.

The league will be composed of the Makaria, Quincy A. A., South Quincy and West Quincy. In this way every part of the city is adequately represented and keen rivalry is bound to be in evidence at every game. "Gus" Bates himself a ball tosser of the old school, is president of the league with such men as "Charlie" Ganzel, the well-known catcher of National league fame, Ex-councilman Flynn, a local athletic promoter, whose ability as a ball player has been shown frequently in the past, coming to the fore, working in the interest and welfare of the project there is no reason why one should not believe that this season is to be the best and most successful we ever had.

All that is needed now is the co-operation of the fans and this no doubt will be forthcoming at the ushering in of the season Memorial Day, when Makaria and Quincy A. A. cross bats on the Water street grounds.

LENGTHY TASK FOR FRANCE

Undoubtedly Years Before Morocco Is Completely Quiet

Paris, May 7.—The disturbed situation in Morocco is causing fears here that that country will not be made a French protectorate without a long campaign and much shedding of blood. Reports from southern Morocco show that the tribes there are openly hostile to the French.

It is now officially known that during the recent fighting at El Maaziz, where a French detachment engaged in reconnoitering was attacked by Moors, the French troops lost seventeen killed and twenty-seven wounded, many of them dangerously.

Considerable anxiety is shown as to the atitude of the sultan himself. One minute he declares that it is his intention to abdicate and the next he says he wants to go to Rabat and then to France. Eugene Regnault, the French minister, is planning to accompany the sultan to Raba, but he hesitates to leave Fez as a large force of hostile Moors is encamped near the capital.

General Lyautey, the newly appointed governor, is hastening his plans to go to Morocco, where he will take supreme command, and additional warships have been ordered to cruise along the coast. A prominent French general is quoted as expressing the belief that twelve years will be required to subdue Morocco.

LARGEST GUARANTEED CIRCULATION IN THE CITY

Vol. 27 No. 109 QUINCY, MASS., WEDNESDAY EVENING, MAY 8, 1912 PRICE TWO CENTS

MANY CLARING ERRORS FOUND BY REGISTRARS IN RECOUNT

One Block of Fifty Roosevelt Ballots in Wollaston Credited to Taft. Other Changes

Recount Also Shows 147 Voted for Nine Taft Delegates-at-Large

It was about 8.30 Tuesday evening when the Registrars of Voters completed their recount of the votes of the caucus of April 30. The entire vote for delegates at large, district delegates and presidential preference was only counted in Wards One and Five, while the vote for delegates at large was counted in all of the other wards.

There were two sets of counters, and they kept steadily at it from 9 o'clock in the morning. The most glaring error was as anticipated in Ward Five, where it was generally known that in the presidential preference vote, one block of fifty votes for Roosevelt had been credited to Taft by the election officers through an error. No one was surprised to find this to have been as rumored. Then there were some other minor changes in the different wards so that the result is that the presidential vote of the city went 211 for Roosevelt instead of 110 as announced after the caucuses.

A very large number of clerical errors were found in the Ward One vote which makes a number of minor changes in the delegates at large and district delegates. The greatest loss noted however was in the vote for alternate Roosevelt district delegates. Hinsgton losing 62 and Crane losing 75, while the district delegates for Roosevelt both made gains that of Miller being 10 and Wilcutt 11.

Of the Taft district delegates Gallagher loses 20 and Ham 18. Friedman gains 159 and Russell gains 171, showing that there must have been some loose counting somewhere.

On the delegates at large there are some minor changs. Some gaining a few and others losing a few votes.

One of the interesting things of the recount however, was the opportunity of learning how many ballots were invalidated by the voters voting for nine Taft delegates instead of eight delegates at large. It was found that 147 had made this error in the entire city. That is, that number voted for Seiberlich in addition to the regular eight Taft delegates. Had this number voted for eight delegates only for Taft, as directed, the result would have been that the Taft delegates at large would have come near, if they did not actually carry the city.

It is also interesting to know in what wards these errors were made. This was found to be as follows:—Ward One, 33; Ward Two, 12; Ward Three, 37; Ward Four, 8; Ward Five, 32; Ward Six, 25. Total 147.

The following tables give the result of the vote for delegates at large, district and alternate district delegates and the presidential preference vote, as announced by the election officers and the vote for the same as found by the recount.

REFUND BILL FILED TODAY

Representative Piper filed the petition of Mayor Stone, asking for authority to refund $150,000 of the temporary loan debt, in the legislature today, accompanied by a certified order as passed by the City Council Monday evening. The petition and order was referred to the Committee on Rules. As the matter is one appertaining to a municipality, it is probable that the Committee on Rules will admit it.

SACRAMENT OF CONFIRMATION

Bishop Anderson Administers Rite to Large Class

ST. MARY'S CHURCH

"Life is nothing more than a continual warfare," declared Rt. Rev. Joseph G. Anderson, D.D., auxiliary Bishop of the archdiocese of Boston, in his address on "The Sacrament of Confirmation," delivered previous to his administering the sacrament to a class of 84 boys and 76 girls in St. Mary's church, West Quincy, this morning. The services opened with a mass, celebrated at ten o'clock by Rev. Fr. Michael J. Cuddihy of St. Margaret's church, Dorchester.

At the conclusion of the mass, Bishop Anderson spoke for about a half hour, explaining the significance of the sacrament of confirmation and laying down at the same time the effects it should have upon those to whom it has been administered. The various methods adopted in conferring the sacrament were told of in detail by the Bishop, who concluded his remarks in a most forceful and eloquent manner.

Bishop Anderson dwelt at length on the evils that are rampant at the present time and laid especial stress on those principles that have to be inculcated in order that one may be enabled to go forth in the world and encounter such difficulties. Steadfast adherence to faith, at the sacrifice of all other worldly motives, was the one thing which the Bishop wished to have those in attendance, and especially those who were confirmed, bear in mind at all times.

The music for the services was rendered by the regular choir, together with a chorus of children, under the direction of Mrs. Mary McKay Reardon, organist. The edifice was well filled with a gathering of relatives and friends of those who received confirmation.

Bishop Anderson was assisted in confirming by Rev. Henry T. Grady, pastor of St. Mary's church, and Rev. John P. Cuffe, pastor of the Church of the Sacred Heart, Atlantic. The sponsor for the boys was former City Clerk, Charles J. McGilvray, while Miss Annie Galvin acted in the same capacity for the girls.

ANNUAL MEETING EPWORTH LEAGUE

The annual meeting of Epworth league of Hall Place M. E. church was held in vestry, Monday evening. The president called the meeting to order. The secretary's reports were read and accepted and the treasurer's report for the year showed good work done, all bills paid and money in the treasury. A full report of the work of the first department was given by the first vice president. The second and third vice presidents were absent. The fourth vice president reported the work of her department for the time she has been in charge and also made special mention of the work of the committee appointed by the League to improve the church grounds.

The following officers were elected for the ensuing year:

President—J. M. Frances.

1st Vice President—Miss Maud Nichols.

2d Vice President—J. Lawrence Martin.

3d Vice President—Miss M. E. Hodgkinson.

4th Vice President—Miss Helen E. Martin.

Secretary—Julius Fuller.

Treasurer—Camille Fuller.

The anniversary service has been postponed until arrangements can be made for the installation of officers for the coming year.

After the business session a Maybasket social was enjoyed, each person present receiving a Maybasket.

SECOND Y.M.C.A. PARENTS' NIGHT

H. C Leggat Tells Parents How to Manage Boys

SOUND ADVICE

The second annual Parents' night was held in the banquet hall of the local Y. M. C. A. last evening with H. C. Leggat, Boys' Work Director of the Worcester Y. M. C. A. His subject of the evening was: "How the Parents may co-operate with the Y. M. C. A."

In his talk he spoke on how the home should be the place for the boy at all times of his early life, and how it was the best place on earth for the boy. As he spends most of his time there, it is the place for him to learn the early religious part of his life.

And again the parents should know the boy in all his habits, in fact in all the boy does when he is away from home. That sometimes it is impossible for the parents to find out where the boy has been for the day, is the reason that the parents have not taken hold of the boy in the right way that he should be taken hold of. That one of the ways for the parents to get hold of the boys is to first find out his habits, and the amusements in which the boy takes delight, and if the parents do not know the facts of the amusements, they should learn the facts and then talk to the boy on the subjects that most interest him and in that way you will get a kind of hold on him that will make him tell to you the things that he thinks you should not know, and above all get things that will appeal to the boy.

The reason that boys do not like to stay at home is that not enough reason and time is put upon the boy, and therefore he is going where the people will take notice of him and talk upon subjects that will be of interest to him and not upon a subject that has no interest to him.

Outside of his home there are things that appeal to him such as church affairs, athletics and above all the effect of the girls upon the character of the young boy.

Following the ideal, there is a time in the life of the boy when the girl forms an important part of his future life. But do not think that I mean for every mother and father not to let the boy go with a girl but to not let it take too great a headway. There is not a better thing for a fellow to do than to have what he will consider a sweetheart.

To illustrate more clearly Mr. Leggat gave several instances of his own life.

He also urged that the parents come in closer touch with the Y. M. C. A. and its officers and to send their children there and to let them get in all the activities of the "Gym".

Also to encourage the boy to interest himself into the Y. M. C. A.

Refreshments were served after the address.

We hope to hear from H. C. Leggat soon in the future Y. M. C. A. activities.

WORK FOR TENS MAPPED OUT

The King's Daughters held a meeting in the vestry of Bethany church, Tuesday evening, with a large attendance. After the devotional exercises, the reports of different secretaries were read, and work for various tens mapped out.

A very delightful entertainment was given by the following talent: piano solo, "The Robin's Return," Miss Esther Brooks; song "Life," William Griffiths;; recitation "Leak in the Dyke," by Phebe Cary, Miss Catherine Yule. Miss Yule responded by reciting "European Guys," by Mark Twain. Mr. Griffiths sang for the closing number, "I hear you calling," Miss Brooks accompanying at the piano.

The audience was much pleased and a vote of thanks was extended to Mr. Griffith, Miss Brooks and Miss Yule for their entertainment.

RECEPTION TO SENIOR CLASS

A large number of parents and friends attended the reception at Livermore hall Tuesday evening, given the senior class by the faculty of the Quincy Mansion school.

In the receiving line were the following members of the graduating class: Miss Florence Arnold, Miss Clarice Doble of Quincy, Miss Rachel Drinker of Quincy, Miss Helene Hamilton, Miss Helen Hutchinson, Miss Evelyn Lawton, Miss Inez Levy, Miss Lucretia Perry, Miss Loraine Richards, Miss Alice Sanborn, Miss Mary Scheffield, Miss Edith Stone, Miss Helen Weil and Miss May Faxon of Quincy.

They were assisted in receiving by Mrs. Horace M. Willard and the faculty of the school, the junior class acting as ushers.

A pleasant feature of the evening was the singing of Bertha Cushing Childs who rendered several groups of songs to the delight of those present. She was accompanied by Miss Hanscall. Refreshments were served.

The reception was attended by over 250, many prominent people coming from Quincy as well as from a distance.

Among those present were Hon. William P. Sheffield of Newport, R. I., Mrs. Lieutenant Sparrow of Washington, D. C., editor and Mrs. Gamble of Cambridge, Mr. and Mrs. Nathan Haskell Dole of Jamaica Plain, Dr. Kennedy and Mrs. Briggs of Brookline and Mr. and Mrs. Wellington Kidder of Jamaica Plain.

The guests of the evening included a number of the alumni besides local and other clergymen.

BE READY FOR CLEAN UP DAY

On Monday the thirteenth of May (unlucky 13 for filth.) the Board of Health will begin to remove from your premises all rubbish or waste matter of any sort, that they may co-operate with you in thoroughly cleaning your premises . This wagon will visit you on the day that your ashes are usually collected or as soon afterward as is practicable. This clean-up collection will last until June 1st. Filth means flies and flies mean disease.

We might forget that there was a Turko-Italian war if it were not for the occasional reports that steps are being taken to end it.

YOUNG PEOPLE'S DANCING PARTY

Alphia hall was the scene of a pretty and most unique dancing party, Tuesday evening, given by the Young People's Religious Union of the First church. A number of guests were in attendance and the affair was most enjoyable.

The matrons were Mrs. James H. Slade and Mrs. George W. Saville. Music was by Pinkham's orchestra, which furnished a pleasing repertoire of selections from eight until nine o'clock.

The program comprised eighteen numbers. Dancing was in order till midnight and frappe was served during the evening.

The committee in charge included—William E. Weston, L. Brewster Walker, Miss Ruth Packard, Miss Edith M. Lovejoy and Miss Kathlyn Saville.

FAREWELL PARTY.

Miss Annie Dorley of River street, who is about to leave for New York for an extended trip was given a farewell party Tuesday evening by the members of the So So club of which she is a member. The evening was passed in a pleasant manner with games, music and refreshments, Miss Eleanor Moriarty contributing several vocal solos. Miss Dorley was wished a pleasant trip and a safe return.

BENEVOLENT SOCIETY ANNUAL

The annual meeting of the Social and Benevolent society was held in the chapel of the Wollaston Baptist church Tuesday afternoon, the following officers being elected for the ensuing year: President—Mr. J. Arthur Jewell; vice president—Mrs. Charles B. Hall; secretary—Mrs. Moses L. Brown; treasurer—Mrs. Charles E. Goodspeed.

The annual business of the society was transacted and annual reports were read by the secretary Mrs. Wellington Record and the treasurer Mrs. Charles E. Goodspeed.

Mrs. Edward Bullock reported the excellent results obtained in providing clothing to be sent away under the direction of the Benevolent committee.

The wish of the society to pass the 100 mark has been fulfilled, said Mrs. Charles B. Hall in her report for the membership committee, and we now have a membership list of 103.

Mrs. Joseph Walther reported for the Emergency committee, Mrs. Amos D. Albee for the Devotional committee and Mrs. William Wade for the Supper committee.

A large number of members attended the annual meeting and the society looks forward to a most successful year.

HONESTY IN EVERYTHING

The "ifs" now have it.

All aboard for strawberry shortcake.

Sugar has dropped in price again. Is that an act of gratitude on the part of the indicted sugar mandates recently set free

The money trust investigators are going to probe campaign contributions. If they are'nt careful they will scare away some good liberal buyers.

The Methodist bishops favor letting church people decide for themselves on amusements. This will remove high low jack from the hay-mow to the parlor.

Senator Jeff Davis says that in the proffered hand of friendship, the railroads are concealing a dread dagger. Be calm, Jeff, probably it is merely the conductor's punch.

That report of the exceptionally small percentage of "old maids" among the graduates of the University of Wisconsin is likely to overcrowd that institution.

ADVERTISING THAT HURTS.

The feeling against disfigurement of country and woodland scenes is growing every year. As towns and cities become more thickly populated, people get more and more weary of brick walls and suggestions of commercialism on every hand. They long for green grass, spreading shade trees, and beauty spots where thoughts of business are far away.

Bursting in on this mood with a staring bill board is much as if you sent a salesman up to a man's house when he was in bed and trying to sleep. He would be more likely to throw a boot out of his chamber window than come down and buy some of your goods. When the traveler sees an advertising sign along a pretty country road, his first impulse is to take a club and smash it, rather than to buy some of the merchandise there offered.

It is the beauty of newspaper advertising that it never offends. It is omnipresent, picked up and read at a time and place when people are in the mood to think about business, and at times when they are not in a mood for business, it is not thrust upon them.

SEED TIME.

As the farmer's boy puts on his heavy boots at 5 a. m., and goes out for a day of exhausting toil in the field he sees little poetry in the season of seed time. It is the opening of another cycle of exhausting toil, untempered by any eight-hour laws, unbroken by any week-ends at summer hotels.

The philosopher, however, with a bit of leisure to lean over the fence and watch the other fellow work, finds plenty of romance about the scene. The birds are caroling forth their joy at this season of eternal renewal of life, animate and inanimate. The sun bathes the world in a radiance that sets all the earth aglow without scorching.

The renewed fertility of the earth, but so recently a desert under cold rains, snow, or ice, now again become productive, springing into fertility at the mere touch of man, is one of the wondrous mysteries of life.

The coming of the farm machinery seems to remove the grace and pastoral quality of the work of the hand sower. But in essence we witness today the same act as that which inspired one of the greatest parables of Jesus 1900 years ago.

If we should rummage among the old tablets which they are digging up in Babylonia, dating back 10,000 years before Christ, we would probably find that some of them contained scientific treatises on seed time and harvest, handed down from the fathers of a still more hazy antiquity.

Somewhere back in historic dawn, some half human creatures discovered that if instead of devouring the nuts and fruits and grains which he found ready-made for his use, he should drop them in the earth, they would be reproduced a hundred fold, and serve him through seasons when earth's fertility is for the time being suspended.

In the suburbs of towns and cities, where a laboring or professional man has room for a bit of garden spot, the planting season promotes social intercourse. The minister who is so very scholarly in his pulpit, finds that the unlearned mechanic next door has possession of certain facts regarding seed germination that he must know if he is to eke out his slender salary from the potato patch. Garden lore is exchanged across the back yard fence, and a basis for friendship is formed.

STOCK TRANSFERS.

Whether the tax would fall upon the investor, or upon the broker, was one of the points raised in the House debate over the bill to tax transfers of stock. The question was upon acceptance of the adverse recommendation by the committee. One hundred and eight members, as it happens, voted in favor of the acceptance of the report, while only 71 representatives opposed. Thus the question will remain unanswered. Had the bill became a law, we fancy that the investor would have been obliged to stand the levy. The tax commissioner was quoted as having estimated that the revenue to the state treasury from the proposed levy would reach $700,000 per annum. The rejection of the bill, which is in line with similar action by a preceding legislator, leaves New York, we think, the only state where the public revenues are swollen by a tax on stock exchange transfers.—Salem News.

NEWSPAPER ADVERTISING.

A big outdoor show now in the west has decided to try newspaper advertising and cut out the billboards. The plan was first tried in Los Angeles, where in each of the city's daily newspapers a full page was used for a week in booming the show. The billboards meantime were left bare so far as the show was concerned. When the show opened, according to the reporter for the Fourth Estate who was interested in watching the situation, the tents were crowded to full capacity and thousands were turned away. Certainly the billboards could have done no more than that. In this instance at least the value of the newspaper was made plain to every observer. It is made plain in every instance where the advertising is conducted with ability and where the advertiser has something to back the advertising. In fact, sometimes it has been made manifest in instances where the advertiser had mighty little back of the advertising.—Brockton Enterprise.

CUTTING OFF IMPOSTERS.

"Where are your credentials?" is a reasonable question to ask of every solicitor—especially if the solicitor is unknown—for an ostensibly philanthropic enterprise. It is an easy question to ask, and where the solicitor is honest should be an easy question to answer. A prospective giver is entitled to know who asks for aid, and the applicant is under obligation to furnish the knowledge. In view of numerous cases of imposition, it would also seem to be an obligation on the part of the giver to be certain that he was not made a victim.

Probably New Bedford has no more been made the prey of bunco-steerers in the name of charity than other cities have been, but it has had enough of these experiences to warrant thinking whether for the sake of genuine charity, if for no other reason, there is not a way of prevention. Is it really necessary to indulge in a generous act at the expense of being fooled, when so many philanthropies are cramped for lack of money? Otherwise, why should not intelligence have some share in the matter?

We suppose that the ingenuity of the confidence man is equal to getting the better sometimes of any plan that is laid to circumvent him. Yet a very simple and practical co-operation of a few agencies, added to the co-operation of generously-minded people, will make his pathway far more difficult than it now is. Experiments in this direction have been made in cities where the evil has grown acute, and with some measure of success. We have now the by-laws of the Charities Endorsement Committee of Omaha, which is intended to safeguard giving. This committee is made up of three representatives of the Commercial club and two of the Associated Charities, with the assistance of the general secretary of the latter organization. Briefly stated, the object of the committee is "first, to protect the worthy organizations doing charitable work in the city, and second, to protect the business community from fraudulent and ill-advised solicitation on the part of charitable societies, or individuals purportng to solicit for philanthropic objects." We need not here enter into description of the details, but the committee satisfies itself that a philanthropy has a genuine claim; and then furnishes its solicitors with credentials which certify to their reputability and authorization. Of course this has no force of law. A solicitor may go out lacking credentials and people may give as much and as often as they choose quite regardless of the lack. But for those who have an interest in being assured that their gifts go as intended, and who have not the time nor the faculty for making their own investigations, the plan offers protection which is often sadly needed.

The Omaha plan runs out into details which perhaps would not be advisable in New Bedford. We are not quite sure that it is wise for such a committee to exact some of the conditions which are exacted in the western city. But the main idea of a body which undertakes the work of seeing that solicitors for charities working with the public in general shall be what they purport to be, and that they shall be certified to that effect is worth more than a passing thought. If the Omaha way were adopted in this city the committee would be designated by the Board of Trade and the Associated Charities. The work should be simple, and the expenses light, while the results should be the assurance of givers and the benefit of worthy enterprises.—New Bedford Standard.

SEVEN POOLS IN WIRE TRUST

Hearing of American Steel and Wire Corporation Under Way

SECRET METHODS EXPOSED

Government Opens Strongly by Witnesses—List of Supposed Parties to the Combine—Prices Fixed on Government Bids For Goods—Association Had Fines For Violation of Their Agreements

New York, May 8.—The American Steel and Wire company, one of the largest subsidiaries of the United States Steel corporation, was a partner to pool agreements with other manufacturers whereby prices on United States government bids were fixed and the business divided among the members, according to testimony given at the hearings of the government suit to dissolve the corporation under the Sherman anti-trust law.

The testimony was given by Samuel J. Bailey of the office of E. E. Jackson, "supervisor" of the famous wire pools whose members were indicted and fined a year ago.

Bailey acted as secretary of the Horse Shoe Manufacturers' association, one of the seven pools, and explained in detail how the horse shoe business of the country was managed.

Bailey identified a copy of the rules and regulations of the horse shoe association, explaining, that the original rules as well as the minutes of the meeting at which they were adopted had disappeared.

The evidence was introduced by the government in support of its contention that the American Steel and Wire company itself was an illegal combination.

In brief, the rules fixed the price per keg at which all members of the association should sell horse shoes, prices being changed when necessary, the witness explained, at monthly meetings.

Each member was allotted a certain percentage of the business, and in case his sales at the end of the month exceeded his allotment he was to pay cash into the association an equivalent to the amount of the excess. If they were less, the association was to make up the deficiency by cash payments to him. A deposited penalty of $1000 was provided for violations of rules.

In the case of government bids, Bailey said that Jackson selected the member who was to make the lowest bid and instructed the other members to bid higher.

Wallace Buell, the retired wire manufacturer, was recalled as the government's first witness. He was again asked to state what companies, afterward incorporated in the American Steel and Wire company, were competitors of his own company, the Washburn and Moen Manufacturing company.

Reading from a list contained in an application of the American Steel and Wire company to list stock on the stock exchange in 1899, the witness named as his former competitors: American Mill company, Cleveland Rolling Mill company, Pittsburg Wire company, Oliver Wire company, Consolidated Steel and Wire company, Kilmer Manufacturing company, Worcester Wire company, Elwell Manufacturing company, Asheville Wire company, Laidlaw Bale Tile company, Garden City Wire and Spring company and the Salem Wire Nail company.

MAINE NOMINATIONS FILED

Full Preparation Made For the June Primary Contests

Augusta, Me., May 8.—Nominating petitions for Maine's first direct primaries to be held June 17 have been filed by about 850 candidates for the 283 offices to be filled at the biennial state election in September.

Yesterday was the final day for the receipt of petitions at the secretary of state's office. Governor Plaisted, United States Senator Gardner and Congressmen McGillicuddy and Gould, all Democrats, have no opponents to their renomination by the Democrats, While Congressmen Hinds and Guernsey, Republicans, are renominated without opposition on the Republican side.

PROCLAIMS SELF PRESIDENT

Rebel General Orozco Refuses to Acknowledge Gomez

Juarez, Mex., May 8.—Emilio V. Gomez issued a proclamation here formally assuming the provisional presidency of Mexico. Senor Gomez had intended to leave for Chihuahua to establish the provisional capital and to confer with General Orozco, but the latter's departure for the front upset Gomez's plans and this city will be temporary headquarters of the rebels.

General Orozco has refused to recognize the provisional government established by Gomez. On the march southward he telegraphed Gomez threatening him and his associates unless they left Mexico.

ASTOR WILL STUDY LAW

This Was Father's Advice, That He Might Better Handle Fortune

New York, May 8.—William Vincent Astor, who will reach his majority next November, as the richest resident landlord of New York, will not reside abroad with his mother.

He will remain an American citizen, study law to aid him in handling his vast estates, and will seek to carry out his father's plan of family business management, none of which offer any comfort to such speculative interests as may seek to win the favor of the interesting young man.

Pensions Increase $35,000,000

Washington, May 8.—The report of the conferees of the two houses of congress on the general service pension bill has been agreed to by the senate. The bill will necessitate an average increase of appropriations of $2,000,000 a year for the next five years. The greatest increase will occur next year when it will reach $35,000,000.

Cavalry to Mexican Line

Cheyenne, Wyo., May 8.—Orders were received by the Colorado and Southern railway to seize all empty cars and to to send them to Fort D. A. Russell for shipping horses and equipment of the Ninth cavalry which is expecting orders to move to the Mexican border at any hour.

COIN OF OUR DADDIES

Bargain Hunters to Have Three Cent and Half Cent Pieces

Washington, May 8.—A 3-cent piece and a ½-cent piece will make their apearance and the old copper cent of our daddies will be withdrawn from circulation if a bill that passed the house is enacted into law.

The bill as originally presented provided only for a 3-cent piece, in response to a demand from the city of Cleveland, which has an ordinance imposing a 3-cent fare on the street cars. When the measure was submitted to the secretary of the treasury a report was made suggesting that provision also be made for a ½-cent piece.

Secretary MacVeagh said there was a demand between the 1-cent piece and the 5-cent piece and also for a smaller unit than the 1-cent piece.

It is argued in behalf of the coins of the denominations proposed that their use will encourage economic buying.

COMING EVENTS CALENDAR.

Under this heading will be published forthcoming entertainments in the city. A one-line announcement will be inserted free of charge, but if any committee desires more publicity as to place, hour, date, admission, etc. it will be inserted at 25 cents per line each insertion. Look the list over, and if your entertainment is not included send it in.

CHENEY CRAVATS
Without quibble or question there is or can be no truer index to the expression, no better key to the individuality than the scarf.
With the exception of collars, more scarfs are bought than any other one item of dress—by them not only taste but mood is reflected.
The selection of Cheney Cravats compliments your taste—confirms your judgment—stamps you as of the cognoscenti.
Designed in famous art studios, woven on art looms—tailored as are few scarfs selling at twice their price—Cheney Cravats are quality through and through. The backbands are reinforced, the neckbands slide easily—they are crease proof, pin proof and knot proof—no amount of hard service will make them limp or stringy.
Buy Cheney Cravats—get more quality for less money than you have ever known.
The price is but a half dollar, and every scarf is guaranteed.

MAY MORNING MUSICALE.

At the second May morning musicale of May 15, at the Women's Clubhouse, the soloist will be Miss Myra Louise Eckhoff, soprano. She has a sweet, lyric voice of very high range and sings with ease and with exquisite finish. Her technique is remarkable in rhythmic phrasing and purity of tone and she is sure to please her audience. The selection of Miss Eckhoff as soloist is of especial interest as she is the new soprano of the Westland quartet, taking the place of Mrs. Mabel Dadmun Everett. This will be her first appearance in Quincy and she will sing an aria and group of songs. The program will also include a 'cello solo by Miss Marion Moorhouse and several delightful selections by the Mazah Trio. It is certain that the second musicale will be as pleasing as the first which is saying a great deal.

CIVIC CLEAN-UP.

Club women, other women and citizens generally should not forget the dates for the annual clean-up of our city, May 13 to June 1. The city advertises to have the city teams call in each ward on the same days as they now call for ashes.

Rake up the cellars, rake up the yards and get the rubbish all together in neat piles or receptacles ready for the collectors. Do it now and every day until your premises, the vacant lot next door and the streets are as tidy as possible.

JUNIOR FRIDAY CLUB.

One of the pleasantest business meetings of the Junior Friday club was held Monday afternoon with Miss Georgiana C. Lane of Goffe street as the hostess. Pleasure preceded business, club members being entertained at luncheon at one o'clock by the hostess, which proved delightful in every way, the delicious viands and repartee being equally enjoyable. Pink Maybaskets were given each as souvenirs.

At the business meeting the following officers were elected for the coming year: President, Mrs. Perry Lawton; vice president, Miss Georgiana C. Lane; secretary and treasurer, Miss Etta M. Prescott; program committee, the above officers and Miss Clara L. Baxter and Miss Edith Randall.

A meeting will be held Friday to arrannge next season's program.

QUINCY DAY NURSERY ASSO.

A largely attended meeting of the Quincy Day Nursery Association was held Tuesday afternoon at the home of the former president, Mrs. Dexter E. Wadsworth, Presidents hill, which was delightful in every way, the business meeting being followed by a reception to the new president Mrs. William H. Doble and Miss Jenny Purchase, secretary of the Associated Charities.

Many subjects about the Nursery were discussed and the new matron was present to meet the people and gave a short report, showing the Nursery to be in a flourishing condition with 28 to 30 children in daily attendance and three or four babies.

Plans were begun for "tag" day which contributes so much to the yearly support of the Nursery.

A committee was chosen to increase the membership of the Association in order to make all mothers interested in the work that deals with mothers and children.

The new president in her introductory remarks said it seemed to be one of the highest forms of charity in Quincy.

After the business meeting adjourned a most delightful reception was held attended not only by members but by several members of the Associated Charities. A delicious collation of tea, coffee, sandwiches and cake was served by Mrs. Wadsworth with Mrs. George E. Pfaffmann presiding at the coffee and Mrs. Walter E. Burke at the tea urns.

Members are much pleased that Mrs. Wadsworth is not to sever her connection with the Nursery although retiring from the presidency, as she will act as president pro tem through the summer during the absence of the president.

The new matron by her cheery and pleasant ways and plans for the advancement of the good work is giving general satisfaction and members are much pleased to have her in charge of the Nursery.

QUINCY CATHOLIC CLUB.

The annual meeting of the Quincy Catholic club were held in the K. of C. rooms Thursday evening. Reports read by Miss Sarah E. Dunphy, financial secretary; Mrs. D. J. Deasy, treasurer, and Mrs. Joseph A. Dasha, chairman of board of directors. This report gave an interesting account of the work done among the poor and sick the past year.

Officers elected for the ensuing year were as follows: President, Mrs. D. J. Deasy; Vice president, Mrs. E. J. Murphy; Secretary, Miss Nonie O'Connor; Financial secretary, Miss Sarah E. Dunphy;; Treasurer, Miss Mary W. Dinegan; directors—Mrs. John Lyons, Mrs. Mary Carey, Miss Sara Maline, Mrs. F. E. Dunn and Mrs. William Reardon.

FRIDAY CLUB.

Friday club wound up its season last week with a business meeting at the home of Mrs. Frank A. Page, Wollaston, combining business and pleasure most delightfully. Officers elected for the coming season are: President—Mrs. Ernest O. Cockayne; vice president—Mrs. George G. Saville; secretary—Mrs. Frank A. Page; executive Committee—the three officers and Mrs. Zenas S. Arnold and Mrs. Henry M. Faxon.

GEORGE ESSON.

George Eson, a well-known resident, died at his home 29 Gilmore street at midnight, Tuesday, after an illness of nearly a year's duration. Mr. Esson was a granite polisher by occupation but has been unable to follow his occupation for some time. He leaves a widow, four sons and three daughters.

One of his daughters is the wife of ex-Councilman Alexander W. Russell, one the wife of Superintendent Thomas Gammon of the street railway, and the other is the wife of James Marr of South Quincy.

IRISH POTATOES RECEIVED

Over 2,000,000 Bushels Pass Through Boston and Portland Customs

Boston, May 8.—Potatoes to the amount of 1,645,111 bushels have been received at this port since Jan. 1 from England. The government has collected $411,266 in duties on the tubers at the rate of 25 cents a bushel.

Receipts this year have been unprecedented, owing to shortage in the domestic crop. Thousands of bushels of imported potatoes, principally Scotch and Irish, have been placed in storage in this city.

Imports of potatoes at Portland, Me., since Jan. 1 totals 86,140 bushels.

Dorr Is On His Journey

Boston, May 8.—A telegram from Stockton, Cal., says that William A. Dorr, charged with the murder of George E. Marsh, the Lynn soap manufacturer, is on his way east. He resisted being carried from the taxicab in which he was taken from his cell to the train, and when entering the train attempted to block one of the officers accompanying him.

—Few people realize the importance of the motion pictures business in our every day life. During the present fiscal year the American exports and imports of motion pictures will amount to about 75,000,000 feet in length, or sufficient to reach more than half way round the world.—Medford Mercury.

ANTI-FLY CRUSADE.

Fly season is at hand. What are the good housewives going to do about it? Do they intend to allow these hot weather pests and breeders of disease to multiply from a few flies into a million eggs and from a million eggs into tens of millions more flies? If not, an early campaign is in order.

Extensive preparations are being made in Florida for a war of extermination against the "Typhoid Fly." The state health commission after consultation with the United States health authorities, has already issued instructions as to the methods of dealing with the evil, and posters depicting in vivid illustrations the habits of the house fly and its proclivities for gathering and disseminating disease germs are being scattered broadcast throughout the state, as the unusually warm weather this spring has started the fly on his rampage earlier than usual. In Georgia and Louisiana a similalr anti-fly campaign is on, the movement in Atlanta and Savannah being already exceedingly active.

Until comparatively recent years, the common house fly, like the mosquito, though considered an irritating discomfort, was thought to be otherwise harmless. Even now, though the house fly is recognized by the best sanitary authorities as a dangerous disease carrier, comparatively few families practically recognize it as such. But the inauguration of such campaigns as those now on in Florida, Georgia and Louisiana cannot fail to quicken the popular recognition of the necessity for abating the fly nuisance, not merely as a means of comfort, but as a protection against typhoid and other infectious diseases.

While it may be possible to exterminate the flies and mosquitoes, yet this danger and trouble may be greatly lessened by the proper use of screen doors and window screens. In this day of inexpensive screens and wire cloth, there is no excuse for any householder of even moderate means being without screens, which add so much to the comfort, health and security of the home.

The State Food and Drug Commissioner of Tennessee, is in deadly earnest in the anti-fly campaign and as evidence of this he has offered two gold medals to be competed for by the school childrenn of the state under fifteen years of age. These medals will be given to that child who writes the best composition on the subject: "How is the House Fly Dangerous to Life and Health?" "How May Such Dangers Be Avoided?"

The Board of Health of Galveston, Texas, has taken up the fight against the fly and is going after this winged disease carrier with a vengeance that promises an early extermination of the pest if that civic department obtains proper co-operation from the people. They have issued a bulletin intimating that regulations should be adopted, each of which will be a step toward the abatement of the nuisance and prove fatal to the fly if persistently practiced.

The women of California have organized to exterminate the mosquito and to fight the Typhoid Fly.

In New Jersey the Department of Labor issued an order that all bakeries in the state should be screened so as to prevent the access of houseflies to rooms in which bread is made or stored.

Several states have ordinances requiring screen doors and window screens to be placed in all stores, restaurants, and other places where food stuffs and drinkables are sold or prepared. People themselves can do much toward enforcing this law to the fullest extent by refusing to buy from a grocer or butcher who does not keep his store carefully screened. Neither should they eat at a restaurant or drink at fountain where the proprietor does not use every effort to prevent the entrance of flies. Screen doors and windows not only protect from flies, but they also prevent, to a large extent, the admission of dust.

Careful observations have established the fact that the spread of Typhoid Fever in war time among the troops in the field was due chiefly to the agency of flies, and bacteriologists have reached the conclusion that a great many other forms of contagion and infection are propagated in the same way.

How much better it is to prevent sickness than to cure it. How much safer and easier it is to keep flies out of our homes by proper screening than to get them out when once they are in!

MOOSE TO HOLD SMOKE TALK

A fine program has been arranged for tomorrow evening in Faxon hall, where the Quincy Lodge of Moose holds forth in its third "smoke talk" of the season. The best talent available have been secured and the committee in charge promises a gala time to all who attend.

A feature of the evening will be an exhibition in wrestling by Samuel Anderson, the world's middle-weight champion and Gustave Anderson. A vaudeville will be furnished and a most enjoyable evening will certainly be in store for all. Refreshments will be served at the close of the program.

MONDAY NIGHT'S COUNCIL MEETING

Some idea of how busy the City Council was Monday night may be had when it is understood that 32 new orders were reported in addition to eight orders granting minor licenses, which were reported by the Committee on Licenses.

FALSE ALARM.

An alarm was sounded from box 48 at 1.15 this morning, followed in a few minutes by the recall. When the department arrived no fire could be found and it was evident that the alarm was false. It is thought to have been sounded by some drunk.

SCIENCE CHURCH GAINS ITS SUIT

Court Rules "Valid Trust" Was Created by Gift

THE PLAINTIFFS MAY APPEAL

Court Upholds the $2,000,000 Bequest —Church Thus Benefits by Mrs. Eddy's Will, a "Charitable Trust" Having Been Created—Truth of Science or Religion Not For Court to Determine

Concord, N. H., May 8.—The residuary clause of the will of Mrs. Mary Baker G. Eddy, founder of Christian Science, bequeathing the $2,000,000 residue of her estate to the First Church of Christ, Scientist, of Boston, creates a "valid trust," in the opinion of the supreme court of New Hampshire. The court holds that "the residuary clause is not a gift to a church, but a gift for religious purpose sustainable as a charitable trust."

The court's decision was given on the bill in equity brought by George W. Glover of Lead, S. D., Mrs. Eddy's son, in the Merrimack county superior court to have the residuary clause declared invalid on the ground that it violated a New Hampshire statute limiting the amount which can be bequeathel to any single church to a sum far below that left by Mrs. Eddy. The case must now be tried in the superior court, although the decision disposes of the principal contention of the plaintiff.

In its opinion, comprising 2,000 words, the court holds that the sole request of the plaintiff is for advice as to his rights.

"As the plaintiff is not entitled to such advice the petition should be dismissed so far as any proceeding thereunder is based upon the plaintiff's right to maintain it. Issue of fraud and undue influence in securing the will are not open in this proceeding. The decree of the probate court allowing the will is a judgment establishing the document to be the will of Mrs. Eddy.

"The residuary clause is not a gift to a church, but a gift for religious purposes sustainable as a charitable trust. Mrs. Eddy had the constitutional right to entertain such opinions as she chose and to make a religion of them and to teach them to all others. Her legal right to teach was not ended with her death.

"The practice of Christian Science was brought to the attention of the legislature fifteen years ago and neither at that time nor at any time since has the legislature considered that the public good required that its practice should be prohibited or regulated. No inference can be drawn except that in the opinion of the legislature restrictive legislation is not required. This conclusion of the legislature binds the court.

"The truth of Mrs. Eddy's science or religion is not to be determined by the court.

"As a religion she had the right to believe and teach it. If the scientific principles she believed in run counter to the general belief of the time, she had equal right to believe and to teach them. In the absence of legislative reprobation found in express enactment or in the general course of the legislation of the state, action in accordance with her teachings is not illegal. As neither her belief nor the acts under it are necessarily illegal, the trust to promote the principles she attempted to inculcate is not illegal."

An amendment may be filed by the plaintiffs, according to the decision since, should they be able to show that the bequest is for the pecuniary private profit of the church, the trust would be void.

Brown Offers New Senatorial Bill

Boston, May 8.—United States Senator Crane may have to go before the Republicans of Massachusetts for renomination if a bill drawn by Senator Charles H. Brown of Medford is passed. Brown's bill provides for the nomination of candidates for United States senators by vote of the parties. It differs from the Donahue bill, killed by a tie vote in the senate, in that it provides for nomination of candidates along party lines, while the Donahue bill only called for the placing on the ballot the name of the senatorial candidate.

Hay's Body at Montreal

Montreal, May 8.—The body of the late C. M. Hays, president of the Grand Trunk railway, one of the victims, has arrived here from Halifax. Representatives of the Grand Trunk system were at the station. The body was removed to the Hays residence, where the funeral was held today.

Reward Offered In Bibber Case

Lewiston, Me., May 8.—The investigation of the death of John W. Bibber took a new impetus following the offer of $100 reward by the board of aldermen. The lodge of Elks, of which Bibber was a member, will also probably offer a reward, and may seek to bring members of a detective agency to this city.

The KITCHEN CUPBOARD

APPLE CAKES.

APPLE cake is delicious when made with fresh apples. The tart early apples are especially good in such cases.

Apple Bread.—Sift together a pint and a half of flour, a teaspoonful of salt and two teaspoonfuls of baking powder. Take half a pint of apple sauce, which should be quite free of lumps, and stir into it a half pint of sweet milk and sugar enough to sweeten. Then add the flour and mix to form a batter. Pour into a greased pan and bake at once in a moderate oven for about forty minutes.

Flavored With Apples.

Apple Sauce Cake.—Take one cupful of apple sauce, one-half cupful of butter, one cupful of sugar, two cupfuls of flour, one-half teaspoonful of soda, one-half teaspoonful of spices and one-half cupful of seeded raisins.

Cream the butter and sugar, add the apple sauce with the soda beaten into it, then the other ingredients quickly. Bake thirty minutes. The cake will be better the second day than at first and will keep fresh a week if placed in a tin box or stoneware crock and kept covered.

With Cornmeal.

Apple Corn Cake.—Scald three cupfuls of white cornmeal, add a teaspoonful of salt and cover and allow to stand for half an hour. Then add a cupful and a half of milk and mix well. Stir in three cupfuls of finely cut cooking apples. Put into a mold and steam for a couple of hours. Serve with sugar and cream. Instead of steaming, cover the baking dish and bake in the oven for an hour and a half.

A Steamed Cake.

Steamed Apple Cake.—Grate a half pint of stale breadcrumbs, to these add a teacupful of butter, half a teaspoonful of baking soda, a little flour, a teacupful of sugar, the strained juice and grated rind of a lemon, a breakfast cupful of finely chopped apples, a little grated nutmeg and two eggs. Mix well. Butter a basin, put in the mixture and steam for one hour and a half. Serve with sweet sauce.

Served With Cream.

Crusty Apple Cake.—Mix one pint of flour, half a teaspoonful of salt and a teaspoonful and a half of baking powder. Rub in two tablespoonfuls of butter. Pour on this one egg and two-thirds cupful of milk beaten together thoroughly. Spread the dough about a half inch thick on a baking pan. Place in rows upon this dough four large apples which have been pared, cored and cut into eighths, sprinkle with two tablespoonfuls of sugar and a slight sifting of cinnamon. Bake in a quick oven for about twenty-five minutes. Serve with sugar and cream or a simple sauce.

EGGS AND TOMATOES.

EGGS may be combined with vegetables, one of those with which they blend most satisfactorily being the tomato. Here are some recipes for dishes of this kind which may be served for breakfast or luncheon:

On Buttered Toast.

Scrambled Eggs With Tomatoes.—Take a can of tomatoes, add a pinch of soda and place in a saucepan with a small piece of butter. When hot put in three eggs and stir gently. Add a scant teaspoonful of salt and a quarter teaspoonful of pepper and serve on buttered toast.

In Individual Dishes.

Parisian Eggs.—In a certain famous French restaurant eggs are prepared thus: Stew a large, ripe tomato, place it in a shallow baking dish; then season with salt and a pinch of paprika. Now add a dash of garlic, two good teaspoonfuls of butter and a few grains of sugar. Break over the tomato one or two eggs, dust with salt and pepper and set in the oven for the eggs to poach. These may be served in the baking dish or on buttered toast. The recipe is for one portion only. This makes an attractive dish for an invalid.

Dressed With Sauce.

Eggs in Tomato Sauce.—Take three eggs, one cupful of tomatoes, one-half teaspoonful of onion juice, one-quarter teaspoonful of salt, a dash of white pepper, half a teaspoonful of cornstarch, three slices of stale bread. Boil the tomatoes in a saucepan with the onion, salt and pepper three minutes.

Mix the cornstarch with a little cold water and add to the tomatoes. Boil one minute. Strain on to the other platter or baking dish, which has been brushed with butter. Place the rounds of bread in the tomato, then in the center of each round put an egg, being careful not to break the yolk. Dust with salt and pepper and put a small piece of butter on the top of each egg.

Place in a moderate oven for ten or fifteen minutes or until they are firm. Remove from the oven and serve in the dish in which they were baked in. Garnish with parsley.

Four In Room Too Many

Boston, May 8.—Prospect of going to Baltimore late in June, when the weather is likely to be hot, and bunking four in a room did not look good to the Democratic delegates, who held their first meeting yesterday at the Democratic state headquarters. The matter of accommodations was the principal subject discussed.

TWO RAILROADS MAY ELECTRIFY

Legislature Likely to Pass Consolidation Bill to Compel It

RAILROAD BOARD TO STAND

Great and General Court Making Good Progress to Prorogation—Last Year's Record Broken.

In 1910 the people of Massachusetts elected a Democratic Governor and a House of Representatives almost half of whom were democrats. There followed in 1911 a year of strenuous investigation of the conduct of the state's affairs by former republican administrations, of strenuous opposition to legislation proposed by republicans and of strenuous advocacy of legislation proposed by democrats. The result was a session protracted almost up to the first of August and a general feeling on the part of the public that time had been wasted and that the public business had been neglected. (5-6)

That feeling showed itself last fall when election day arrived in the election of a House of Representatives with a republican majority of forty-nine as against a republican majority last year of only fifteen. The wisdom of this return to greater control of legislation by the Republicans has already shown itself in the despatch with which legislative business has been conducted. Up to April 29 the Committees of the House had reported on 2067 bills as opposed to only 1697 bills reported on up to the same time last year, so that although a considerably larger number of bills were presented this year than last year, there are left only 51 bills not yet reported on as against 357 at the same time last year.

The prospect for adjournment early in June or possibly at the end of May is therefore favorable. Speed, however, is not the only thing to be considered. The people do not want their representatives to dawdle but they do want them to spend all the time that is necessary to enact legislation beneficial to the Commonwealth.

Railroad Electrification In This Bill.

There is one bill still pending which particularly interests all the men, women and children in the Commonwealth who ever find themselves standing on the platform of a railroad station watching a steam engine come snorting in to the station belching out black smoke, and who in summer find themselves sweltering in a hot train with no ventilation except when a door or window is open filling their eyes with cinders and their lungs with smoke. That is the bill to provide for the leasing of the Boston & Maine Railroad by the New York, New Haven & Hartford Railroad on the express condition that all the tracks of both roads in the metropolitan area shall immediately be equipped with electricity and that a tunnel connecting the two roads shall be built under the City of Boston.

Everyone wants electrification at the earliest possible moment and the moment now seems to have arrived. The railroads are not satisfied with the merger bill enacted several years ago under Governor Draper. They say that it has helped them to better the transportation facilities of the State but that the closer affiliation of the two roads which would be made possible by a lease would enable them to go much further.

What the Railroads Are Asking.

Their proposition is this: Give us the right to combine these two roads by a lease as has been done again and again with success in Massachusetts and we will electrify our roads in the metropolitan area and we will put the cities and towns of northeastern Massachusetts in close connection with the cities and towns of southeastern Massachusetts by building a tunnel, for through railroad service, under the City of Boston. It seems like a good proposition,—one involving the expenditure of millions of dollars, one apparently essential to the welfare of the people of Boston and vicinity, and one holding out more hope for the future electrification of all the railroads in the state than any which has ever been presented.

This plan was suggested to Governor Foss a short time ago and he has recommended it to the Legislature, but he has made use of it to try to get through one of his own pet schemes. In a message to the Legislature he admits that electrification is essential and that the tunnel is a good idea, but he says that we must not have them unless the railroad commission, and the gas and electric light commission, and the commission having supervision of telephone rates, are abolished, and the Foss plan for a high salaried "Public Utilities Commission" to take charge of all public service interests and to be appointed by the present Governor, is adopted. It made no difference to him apparently that there has been so little demand on the part of the public for such a change that at two separate hearings on the matter before the Committee on Ways and Means of the House not a citizen apeared to urge it. Nor, apparently, did it make any difference that almost every member of the Legislature, so far as appears, believes in electrification and the building of the tunnel, whereas many members believe that such a change as has been suggested in our method of regulating public service corporations would overturn a system which has worked well in the past and would probably result, as it has in New York, in having one member of the Commission in charge of the railroads, one in charge of gas companies, one in charge of electric lighting companies and one in charge of telephone companies, none of them knowing about more than a quarter of the matters on which they have to vote and never being able, except in extraordinary cases, to get the benefit of each other's advice and experience.

To Divide the Question.

The putting of these two matters into one message and the attempt to make the one dependent on the other will probably be supported by some democrats of the Legislature, but the republicans can divide the question and they undoubtedly will do so. In fact they have already made a beginning by having so much of the Governor's message as refers to the lease, electrification and the tunnel, referred to a different committee from the part relating to a "Public Utilities Commission." There is a feeling among the members that if the terms of the lease can be satisfactorily arranged the Legislature will take this opportunity to get all the advantages of electrification without giving up the careful, intelligent supervision of our public service companies which has characterized our railroad, and gas and electric light commissions, during all the years that they have been blazing the way for the rest of the country in the matter of state regulation.

The Preferential Primary Law.

The primaries just held for the choice of delegates to the presidential conventions have demonstrated that something is lacking in the new law to make it work successfully. It would seem as if the fact that many thousands were practically disfranchised through marking for nine candidates for delegates instead of eight proved that. Some method should be devised so simple as to make it impossible for such an error to occur again, if the preferential presidential primary is to be retained.

RICHESON SEES SISTER

Miss Richeson Also Calls on Governor Foss at State House

Boston, May 8.—Miss L. V. Richeson of Saranac, N. Y., the heartbroken sister of Clarence V. T. Richeson, visited her brother not in his cell at Charles street jail, nor in the famous jail rotunda, but in the library of Sheriff Quinn's house, adjoining the jail building.

Miss Richeson gave her word to the sheriff, before her brother was brought in, that she would not attempt to approach the condemned man, that she would not even rise when he came in, that she would not kiss him, embrace him, shake him by the hand or make any other effort to come in personal contact with him.

These conditions were exacted by Sheriff Quinn as the merest precaution. He is taking absolutely no chances of any kind with a prisoner who has given the jail the trouble that Richeson has.

Miss Richeson remained with her brother an hour and twenty minutes. The taxi in which she arrived was driven into the jail yard and Miss Richeson with Attorney Morse entered it there to avoid the camera men.

Later, accompanied by her brother's attorneys, Miss Richeson called on Governor Foss to talk with him about commuting the prisoner's sentence.

Miss Richeson was in conference with the governor for about ten minutes. After she had departed Governor Foss said he had told her nothing of what he proposed to do in the case.

TWAIN MEMORIAL GIVEN BIRTHPLACE

Home of Famous Author Presented City of Hannibal

Hannibal, Mo., May 8.—The house in which Mark Twain (Samuel F. Clemmens) was born, and which was built by his father in 1844, was presented to the city of Hannibal by Mr. and Mrs. George A. Mahan, both native Missourians.

There was also unveiled a bas-relief portrait of Mark Twain and the tablet designed and modelled by a New York woman, Miss Angelica S. Church, daughter of the late Benjamin S. Church of that city. This bas-relief portrait has been pronounced by Rev. Joseph F. Twitchell of Hartford, Conn., for years one of the late author's close friends and the original of Jo in "Innocents Abroad," a marvelous likeness of the deceased author.

The school children of Hannibal and many prominent people took part in the presentation ceremonies.

PRESIDENT MAY SUMMONS NATIONS

International Maritime Conference at Instance of U. S.

Washington, May 8.—An international maritime conference and the immediate equipment of all United States army transports with life saving apparatus are provided for in bills passed unanimously by the house.

Both measures were introduced as a result of the Titanic disaster, and record was made in their passage. It is expected that equal speed will be made in the senate. The international conference would be held in Washington and the president is authorized to open negotiations with all maritime powers to send delegates.

The conference would consider the broad question of life saving equipment on merchant vessels, investigate the desirability of having an international patrol fleet in the North Atlantic during the seasons when icebergs abound, and the practicability of compelling large liners to have convoys on their trips. The bill providing for the equipment of army transports appropriated $30,000 for the installation of lifeboats and rafts would make compulsory the installation of sufficient boats and rafts to care for every passenger and member of the crew.

Two Mexicans Not Wanted

Washington, May 8.—It is not probable that the state department will receive Dr. Policarpo Rueda, who is to represent the Mexican revolutionists in Washington, if he should call to argue his cause. It was explained that any intercourse with the representatives of the revolutionary party might be seized upon as bearing political significance and lead to the belief that the United States was recognizing the belligerency of the insurrectos.

A Boarding House Blaze

Franklin, N. H., May 8.—Fifty persons were forced to flee to the street in their night clothing when fire broke out in the boarding house conducted by George Gignac. They were cared for by neighbors. The loss is estimated at $3000, fully insured.

MARYLAND GOES TO ROOSEVELT

Colonel Wins by a Majority of One Delegate

OHIO IS NEXT BATTLEGROUND

First Maryland Reports Favored Roosevelt, Then Taft and Back to the Colonel—Negro Vote Solid For Roosevelt—Taft Greatly Worried as to Conditions In His Own State—Will Make Hard Fight There

Baltimore, May 8.—Colonel Roosevelt will control the Maryland state convention on May 14, by the narrow margin of one vote, insuring Maryland's quota of delegates to the Chicago convention to the Roosevelt list.

Roosevelt captured 66 delegates to the state convention, against Taft's 63. Sixty-five is a majority.

Champ Clark swept the state as the Democratic choice, receiving 80 to Wilson's 45. Harmon secured two.

A peculiar feature of the Republican contest was the fact that in one of the districts in Baltimore Roosevelt won in the preference vote, but four Taft delegates were elected to the state convention.

Roosevelt made a complete sweep in Baltimore, carrying every district and ward, in all 12,695 votes against Taft's 7283. The colored vote went to the colonel solidly.

Taft carried the eastern shore and Southern Maryland by substantial majorities.

Clark's preferential vote in Baltimore was greater than Wilson's and Harmon's combined. The Democratic machine swept him to victory in the counties.

Cincinnati, O., May 8.—President Taft's home state, bids fair to become the battleground where the president and Theodore Roosevelt will fight to a finish one of the decisive "actions" of the present campaign for the Republican presidential nomination. Friends of President Taft declared that the result of the Maryland primaries made it certain that the struggle for Ohio would be hard and fierce.

The Ohio campaign will wind up only a few days before the primaries May 21, and from his home state the president probably will turn his attention to New Jersey, which gives her opinion of the presidential candidates one week later. So far no invasions by the president of other states in which primaries are to be held have been planned. The president is resting for the first time in several weeks, but today he starts north on a sixteen-hour tour that ends in Columbus late tonight and on which he will make at least fourteen speeches in towns of all sizes.

The president is said not to be discouraged by the fact that Roosevelt won out in the Maryland primaries. Mr. Taft spent only one day campaigning there, and was said to feel that he had done well, although other members of his party were disappointed.

FLOODS DO NOT SUBSIDE

Lack of Boats Hampers the Rescue Work In Louisiana

New Orleans, May 8.—Unless boats are hurried to remote sections of the inundated country in Pointe Coupee parish it is feared hundreds of persons will perish. Word was received in Morganza that great numbers of people still are marooned in the country south of the levee breach at Torras. The lack of boats is a distressing handicap. Stories of awful suffering among flood refugees reached here yesterday.

Governor Sanders cancelled his engagement to attend a banquet given in his honor at New Orleans by his military staff and the cash to be expended on the dinner was telegraphed here and added to the relief fund.

Fifteen thousand persons, driven from their homes by the rapidly spreading water, coming through the crevasse at Torras, La., already have been rescued, and several thousand others are in peril, according to reports to Major Normoyle, in charge of the government relief headquarters at Vicksburg.

Hundreds of people living in the "back country" of Louisiana, got to warning of the flood until the torrent swept upon them. They took refuge on housetops and in trees and on rafts, and now, for several days they have been without adequate food and shelter from the heavy rains. Scores of such refugees who were brought to Morganza in the relief boat say there are hundreds more to be taken from their flood prisons. The majority of these people lived so far back in the country that couriers did not reach them. Or, in many instances, if they were warned, they scoffed at the advice to leave. "The levees have always held," they argued, "why should they not hold now?"

Chinese to Be Admitted

Washington, May 8.—The department of commerce and labor has authorized the admission of the refugee Chinese to Eagle Pass under the supervision of the government. They number 280.

FOREIGN MISSIONS BY THE WOMEN

Society Makes Its Report to the Methodist Conference

Minneapolis, May 8.—The Women's Foreign Missionary society of the Methodist Episcopal church have reported to the general conference that good results had followed the development of the society into the home and foreign departments; the establishment of new enterprises; great increase in receipts; and the uniting of the society with women's boards of other denominations in establishing and maintaining union enterprises in the foreign field. The report showed a total membership of 283,172 and the receipt of $3,052,609 in the last four years. Much of the report was devoted to a review of the work in foreign lands. Of the China missions, the report says:

"The medical work with but twelve hospitals as centres, is gaining the respect of the people; 142,531 patients were treated last year. Chinese girls are gladly taking the medical course to become physicians or nurses. The revolution in China is giving the missionaries access to many who could never before be reached. It is elevating Christian men to official position and giving new influence to the women of the households."

Favorable comment is made on the mission work in India, Japan, Korea, Malaysia, the Philippines, Africa and South America.

BUT LITTLE IS KNOWN OF VICTIM

Chief Burrell has a conference with Gustave Appleburg of 45 Edison Park, Tuesday evening relative to the body of the man, now at Halifax, that was recovered among the victims of the Titanic disaster. It was thought that the man was coming to Quincy, but Mr. Appleburg could throw no light on that question. He told Chief Burrell that five years ago he worked with a man in Bohuslan, Sweden by the name of Henrik Y. Kvillner, which is probably that of the body recovered. Mr. Appleburg said that he knew the man to have a cousin named Albin Yand who resided in Byggnadekontor, Stockholm, Sweden.

Kvillner was a mechanical draughtsman but Mr. Appleburg said he had not heard that he was coming to Quincy. It is thought that there was another man with whom the victim had communicated, but who was not in Quincy at the present time. Chief Burrell forwarded what facts he was able to learn to the Red Cross people in New York.

QUINCY WOMAN ON COMMISSION

Governor Foss, this morning named Mrs. Robert E. Park of Wollaston as a member of the Commission to study the question of the support of the dependant of minor children of widowed mothers.

The other two members of the Commision are to be Prof. Robert F. Foster of Cambridge as Chairman, and David F. Kelley of Boston. This is a newly created commission, established by this year's legislature.

TODAY'S COURT.

Henry F. Lowell was fined $125 on account of costs for violation of the express liquor law at Weymouth.

The continued case of Frank L. Anderson for breaking and entering at Quincy, was called and he was defaulted.

The continued case of William J. Keegan for breaking and entering the house of Charles Jones on South street, was called and the case dismissed for want of prosecution. On the complaint against Keegan for drunkenness he was sent to the State farm.

John H. Anderson was arraigned for non support at Quincy, case continued until December, he to pay his wife $3 per week.

Many new houses have been built on Cranch hill the last winter.

The house of W. E. Blanchard, 12 Avon way has been recently renovated.

Clyde Hannant Q. H. S. '14 has accepted a position with Couflin & Donovon.

Lynfield Littlefield of the Y. M. C. A. has been confined to the house with a slight illness.

Mr. and Mrs. William G. Shaw of Butler road are at Atlantic City, New Jersey, for a short stay.

The Y. M. C. A. Senior baseball team will play the Marshalls of Everett at the upper field, Merrymount park, Saturday at 3 o'clock.

A. H. Blanchard leaves today for Sharon Heights to inspect the Y. M. C. A. camping grounds. M. S. Dening will give Mr. Blanchard a special demonstration.

The Boys' Work directors' retreat will be held at Camp Becket the 3, 4, and 5 of June . A. H. Blanchard, Boys' Work Director of the Y. M. C. A. will attend and get a few points that will be very helpful in his work for next year.

Miss Edith Randall is to give her interesting lecture on Holland tomorrow evening in the chapel of First church, for the benefit of and under the auspices of the Junior Alliance of the church. Miss Randall sails the 18th for a summer tour of Europe, accompanied by a Brookline friend.

R. D. Wetherell who has been scouting around the neighorhood for a suitable place for the Bethany Sunday school picnic has visited Randolph Grove, Glen Echo Park, and others, but up to date the places so far visited are not up to the standard and as usual the old reliable will be used, that is Nantasket Beach.

A most interesting and instructive talk on Holland will be given in the Chapel of the First Unitarian Church, Thursday evening, May 9, 1912, at 7.45 P. M., by Miss Edith Randall under the auspices of the Junior Alliance. The talk will be illustrated by colored post-cards selected by Miss Randall during her trip abroad. Mr. J. Barraja-Frauenfelder during the evening will sing Dutch songs. It is hoped there will be a large attendance as a very interesting evening is expected.

POSTAL SAVINGS SYSTEM.

Information Concerning Postal Savings Bonds to be Issued July 1, 1912.

By applying on or before June 1, 1912, depositors of the Postal Savings System may exchange the whole or a part of their deposits for United States registered or coupon bonds in denominations of $20, $100, and $500, bearing interest from July 1, 1912, at the rate of 2½ per cent per annum, payable semiannually, and redeemable at the pleasure of the United States after one year from the date of issue, both principal and interest payable 20 years from that date in United States gold coin.

Postal savings bonds are exempt from all taxes or duties of the United States, as well as from taxation in any form by or under State, municipal, or local authority.

Applications for the conversion of deposits into bonds on July 1, 1912, must be received on or before June 1, 1912, by the postmaster at the depository office where the certificates were issued. The postmaster will supply an application form, which must be made out in triplicate. The depositor must indorse and surrender with his application postal savings certificates covering the amount of the bonds desired, for which the postmaster will give him a receipt. When the postmaster receives the bonds applied for he will notify the depositor and will deliver the bonds on presentation of the receipt for the certificates surrendered.

The conversion of deposits into bonds at a date less than one year after the certificates began to bear interest forfeits interest on the deposits as in the case of withdrawal for any other purpose.

Postal savings deposits converted into bonds are not counted as a part of the maximum of $500 allowed one depositor, and there is no limitation on the amount of available postal savings bonds which may be acquired finally by a depositor. The echange is considered as taking effect on July 1, and a depositor who has applied to convert into bonds all or part of the maximum balance of $500 may deposit an additional amount in July, though the bonds may not yet have been delivered.

Postal savings bonds can be procured only by the conversion of postal savings deposits and will not be issued to persons who are not depositors. They may be sold or assigned to any person, however, by the holder, and when a registered bond is assigned a new bond will be issued in the name of the owner.

Interest on registered bonds is paid by checks drawn at the Treasury Department in favor of the registered holder. These checks are sent by mail to the post-office address of the holder, and the holder of a registered bond should notify the Secretary of the Treasury (Division of Loans and Currency) of any change in his post-office address at least 15 days before the interest falls due. Checks for interest on registered bonds, as well as interest coupons detached from coupon bonds, are payable on presentation at the United States Treasury or at the office of any assistant treasurer of the United States. Interest checks and coupons covering interest on postal savings bonds may be cashed by postmasters under the same conditions as other Government paper.

Payment on registered bonds that have been lost or stolen may be stopped by notifying the Secretary of the Treasury (Division of Loans and Currency) at Washington. If the coupon bonds are lost the Government does not undertake to protect the owner against the wrongful holder, but recognizes the bearer only. The owner has recourse only to such means as he could use to recover any other valuable property. When bonds, either registered or coupon, have been destroyed wholly or in part, or defaced, a claim may be filed with the Secretary of the Treasury under certain prescribed conditions for their replacement. Such claims will not be allowed for coupons which have been detached from coupon bonds.

CARD OF THANKS.

In behalf of the family, I extend sincere thanks for the kindness and sympathy, shown us by our friends, in our recent bereavement.

Julia F. Duffy.

COSTLY ERRORS LOSE THE GAME

Loose Playing by Quincy High Boys in First Game

11 TO 0

Twelve errors tell the tale of the 11 to 0 defeat sustained yesterday at Newtonville by the Quincy High school nine and administered by the strong Newton High combination. It was the first loss that the local boys have suffered this year and it was at first thought that they would fare much better against the Newton players, owing to the fact that they had a clean slate of four straight victories to their credit.

McDonald was on the mound for the local team and twirled well, despite the listless support accorded him by his team mates.

To add to the unfortunate experience of Quincy High, Mattson, who relieved Prout in the fourth inning at third base, was spiked accidentally in the foot and forced to retire from the game. Barry then was changed to third base, Blomquist going to the left outer garden.

Spalding did the slab work for the home team and held the Granite City players to four hits. The star of the game was Captain Nash, of the winners, who got three of the nine hits made by Newton High. A batting rally, by the winners, aided by a combination of errors on the part of the losers, netted Newton High seven runs in the fourth inning. Conroy and Lyons also played well for Newton High while O'Dowd and McDonald excelled for the local players. The score:

Added Years

"If you desire to realize that time is flitting and you are getting old," said the girl who likes to talk, "go live at a summer resort for a few years!

"I still can swim a half mile and I yet break into a speedy run when I am in a hurry. I don't use crutches nor false teeth. Nevertheless, this season a crushing sense of my antiquity has descended upon me. When I investigated the queer feeling that surrounded me I found it was the atmosphere of the shelf I was upon. There I was, tucked away coldly! I've been peering out over the edge lately at what is going on down below and, believe me, it is both appalling and entertaining!

"Just a few years back the Daggett children used to go by with their nurse. They were scrawny and quarreling and Tom Daggett always made Susie cry. I used to think what a mercy it was that their parents were blind enough to love them, because, goodness knows, no other human being would have done so!

"I wish you could see Tom this year. He is the best looking creature in five counties and all the girls are crazy about him. They hang on his slightest word and if he asks one to go canoeing she nearly faints with joy. The other night he led the cotillon at the party. As for Susie—I helped her make a doll's dress just yesterday, I believe, and yet at that same dance I found myself admiring a willowy, dark eyed, rose cheeked, haughty young person, and bless me if it wasn't Susie Daggett!

"It seems perfectly absurd that she should be sitting up later than 8 o'clock! She isn't satisfied with being a belle among the boys of her own age, selfish thing! but she has to grab out for the older men, too! I'll have to box her ears if she doesn't look out.

"Just a year ago I realized only vaguely that the Crosbys had a daughter. Lillian was a shy, silent little thing, always slipping out of sight and mooning by herself and scared to death when any outsiders appeared. I don't know what has happened to her, but I suspect that some one told her she was pretty, and that settled it. I can't turn around now without setting eyes on Lillian Crosby in the most distracting outing suits, working her eyelashes till I know they're getting frayed and smiling at precisely the angle to show her dimples!

"'We're going to have a hay ride,' she told me casually once when there was nobody else to talk to. 'The young crowd, I mean. Dear me, I should think it would be so stupid for the rest of you, with nothing to do!'

"I restrained myself from grasping her firmly by the shoulders and shaking her! Haven't I taken hay rides till I had so much hay down my neck and in my ears and eyes and throat that I never wanted to look at a haystack again as long as I lived? Haven't I had suppers on the beach and eaten sand in the deviled eggs, ants in the sandwiches and June bugs in the cake and thought I was having the time of my life? Haven't I sung 'We're here because we're here, because we're here' till I swallowed mosquitoes all the way home? Haven't I fallen over the fence trying to get into the front door in the pitch dark? And then that infant has the nerve to act as though all the joys of life were denied me, just because she was going on a scratchy, uncomfortable, choked up expedition instead of sanely eating supper at home!

"The last straw, however, was when Jim came over from Chicago to see me. Naturally, I wanted to show him the place by moonlight. It was not at all that we were hunting secluded spots! Besides, all the chairs on our front porch were occupied. Quite casually we headed for the summer house on the lake shore, but as we stepped inside I heard some one murmur: 'Did you ever care for another girl before me!' It was Lillian and Tom Daggett!

"I should have spanked them both and sent them home, but I contented myself with saying, in a stern tone: 'Oh, excuse me!' Then we walked on. I knew of a most charming retreat under the wild grape vine, where you have a lovely view of the moon. Just before we stepped around I heard a deep masculine voice of nineteen or twenty blurt out: 'Susie, did you ever care for another man as you do for me?'

"I grabbed Jim hysterically at this and we ran. There was another infant couple at the end of the pier and still more infants were out in all the rowboats. There didn't seem to be any place on earth for Jim and me except under the lake or up with the old people under the glare of the arc light telling stories about what happened before the war.

"Jim growled in disgust: 'Before I come here again I wish you'd manage to kill off a few dozen of these pestiferous children! There are so many of them that a few more or less won't really matter, and then we'd have room to breathe!'

"I think I'll have to! I'm going to begin with Tom Daggett's freshman friend. He said that the resort would be a nice place if there weren't so many old folks around cluttering up the verandas and the ferry boats and making things uncomfortable for people."—Chicago Daily News.

The Art of Baking

has advanced rapidly in the last few years. The reason lies in the superior facilities afforded by gas ranges. Gas makes the most easily regulated and dependable fire for baking. You can get just the temperature you want for bread, pastry, or meat. Have you a gas range in your home?

Iron-Tubing Imports of Japan.

Iron tubing valued at $2,125,000 was imported into Japan in 1911, of which the United States contributed $778,000 worth. The valuation placed on iron tubing imported into Japan in 1910 was $1,613,000, and during the year 1911 Germany nearly doubled its importations, while Great Britain's increased approximately 25 percent. The importations of American iron tubing during 1911 remained stationery as compared with 1910, the importations for the latter year being valued at $775,000.

Work for Hair Dresser.

Sir Edward Sugden, a celebrated English lawyer, who was elected to parliament in 1835, having heard that he had been turned into ridicule for being the son of a hairdresser, replied: "So I am, and I come into the house to give a dressing to the Whigs."

TAX COLLECTORS RESPONSIBLE FOR OLD TAXES UNDER NEW LAW

Present and Former Tax Collectors of Quincy Have Been Officially Notified

Tax Collectors Who Are Amendable Under New Law For Taxes Uncollected

The present and former Tax Collectors of Quincy have been notified by the Tax Commission that under the new law, passed by the Legislature in March they will be held responsible for all taxes in their respective jurisdictions that remain unpaid since 1896. This announcement has caused the tax collectors throughout the state to sit up and take notice.

As far as the City of Quincy is concerned the bill will only affect taxes dating back to 1903, for all taxes, unpaid previous to that year, have been abated by the Assessors. According to the City Auditors reports there remains due the City of Quincy for taxes up to May 1, including the year 1903 the sum of $226,061.41.

These are divided as follows:

1904	1,341.90
1905	1,945.65
1906	2,954.67
1907	3,689.70
1908	4,302.54
1909	6,760.50
1910	52,904.13
1911	150,670.25
Total	$226,061.41

As stated above the present and past Tax Collectors covering these years have been notified, that they are to be held responsible. The former collectors who are affected in Quincy are Edgar G. Cleaves, who was the Collector in 1903 and 1904, James H. Cunningham Collector in 1905, 1906 and 1907, Henry G. Fay who was Collector from August 1906 to February 1907. Timothy J. Carey and John J. O'Hara who served during the four years of Ex-Mayor Shea's administration.

Just how the Tax Commissioner is to collect from these Tax Collectors is not explained. It is of course well understood that while they held office they were under bonds. It is also well understood that when a successor was appointed, qualified and took office, that the bonding company was released from the retiring collector.

It is generally considered that the new law is working a hardship on past collectors, and furthermore it is well understood that it is practically impossible to collect much of the now outstanding taxes in Quincy, that were levied during the first few years in which Quincy is concerned by the new law.

It is understood that Tax Commissioner Trefry says that he will give the collectors six months in which to formulate plans in which to meet the demands of the new law.

Herbert S. Child, the present collector when seen this morning said that he was appointed to collect the taxes of the city and that he proposed to do it without fear or favor. That while the law in a way did not hit him, it made no difference and that he was now sending out notices to delinquents which he believed would bring many of them to time.

LAST MEETING MEN'S CLASS

The men's class of the Quincy Point church hold their last meeting on Sunday and Mayor Stone and another speaker have been secured. The chairman extends a hearty welcome to all men to attend the meeting and asks them to notify Mr. Fitton of their acceptance so that the refreshment committee will be able to take care of all.

The promised attendance has already passed the 100 mark and the outlook at the present time promises even more. This does not mean that there will not be room enough for you and your friends, the vestry holds many more than that number. Mr. Fitton has worked hard on this meeting and anticipates it will be the largest and best meeting that the club has ever held.

MAKARIA LADIES' NIGHT.

The ninth annual ladies' night of the Makaria Fraternity is to be observed on Friday evening. There will be an entertainment, social and refreshments as attractions. Mrs. Isabelle Davis will give a few readings and other local talent will assist at the entertainment. All friends are cordially invited to attend.

SPANISH WAR VETERANS' BILL

Bill of Representative Leslie Vetoed by Governor Foss

HIS REASONS

The bill introduced in the legislature by Representative Leslie, which was known as the Spanish War Veterans Preference bill, and which was sent to the Governor for approval, has been vetoed by Gov. Foss. The bill in brief provided that Spanish War Veterans in taking the civil service examination should be allowed a certain per cent for having served in the Spanish war. The Governor in his veto message says:

"Our existing civil service rules afford extra credit, with respect to 'experience' papers, to persons who have served in the United States Army or the State Militia, in recognition of their special training for faithful public service.

"The present bill extends special credit to veterans of the Spanish War upon all subjects of examination, and thus gives them the preference over other candidates solely on the score of their military service.

"I cannot believe that the young men who volunteered for the Spanish War and who thus manifested their loyalty to our Government and our institutions have so far forgotten that loyalty as to pull down the standards of our public service.

"Individual fitness and ability should be the prime requisites for admission to public office. To enter upon the public payroll anyone who cannot meet on terms of equality with his fellow citizens the just requirements of public employment—is an act destructive not merely of efficiency in such service, but of the very foundations of Democratic government and of good citizenship itself."

ARRESTED FOR ROBBERY

Inspector Goodhue went to Hingham Wednesday and arrested a young man who gave his name as William B. Locke, aged 24 years, of Lafayette street, on a John Doe warrant for robbery from Ida Clark of Quincy Point.

According to the Clark woman she visited Nantasket last Sunday and in the late afternoon met Locke who had an automobile. Learning that she resided in Quincy, Locke volunteered to bring her home in his automobile, which invitation was accepted. The automobile was a closed one and in charge of a driver. Mrs. Clark claims that on the way to Quincy Locke assaulted her. When the car reached Quincy, it slowed up and the Clark woman jumped out. She had a small hand bag with her at the time, which contained some bonds and $4.50 in money. When she left the car Locke threw the bag after her.

On her arrival home she found, on examining the contents of the bag that the money and bonds were missing. She then notified the police. She could not give much of a description of the man other than he wore a white sweater. Inspector Goodhue who was assigned to the case visited Hingham Wednesday and soon located the man wanted, and had him placed under arrest for robbery. He denied that he had robbed the woman but said that he did assault her. Inspector Goodhue however found the woman's pocketbook and bonds in Locke's room. He was arraigned in court this morning for robbery and held in $300 until next Wednesday.

—Twelve Cornell students, it is reported, have started a club to reconstruct religion and to put it on a rational basis. Which reminds the Philadelphia Ledger of the two Oxford students who discovered that there is no ruling power in the universe, and were told by the celebrated Dr. Jowett that they must find one before morning or leave college.—Taunton Herald.

CONFIRMATION AT ATLANTIC

The rite of confirmation was administered to a class of 72, including boys and girls, at the Church of the Sacred Heart, Atlantic, Wednesday afternoon by Rt. Rev. Joseph G. Anderson, D. D., Auxiliary Bishop of the Archdiocese of Boston. The Bishop was assisted by Rev. Fr. John P. Cuffe, pastor of the Sacred Heart church, and Rev. Fr. John J. Coan, pastor of St. John's church. The confirmation class was in charge of Rev. Fr. James F. McNiff, assistant to Fr. Cuffe.

Previous to administering the Sacrament of Confirmation, Bishop Anderson talked to those present for about a half hour. The subject of his discourse was "The Sacrament of Confirmation and its Significance."

In the course of his remarks he laid down the need of fostering those principles that are necessary to offset and combat the evils of the present day. He spoke eloquently of the dangers which beset one at all times and said that the effects of confirmation should be such that the one who receives it should sacrifice every worldly motive for the proper pursuance of faith.

The church was well filled with relatives and friends of those who received confirmation.

SQUARE STREWN WITH OLD RAGS

A worn out wagon heavily loaded with bags of old rags met with disaster in City Square this morning, when one of the rear wheels collapsed under its load, near the head of Granite street. The result was that the square was strewn with bags of old rags, some of which burst open scattering the rags over a wide space, giving the turnout the appearance of having been struck by a cyclone. The driver of the team gave his name as Levin. The car tracks were blocked for a few minutes.

THOMAS O'CONNOR.

Thomas O'Connor, of 24 Wesson avenue, West Quincy, for years one of the most widely known and highly respected residents of this city, passed away at his home early this morning. The late Mr. O'Connor was in his 70th year, and for the past few weeks had been ill with pneumonia.

The announcement of his death came as a severe blow to the many acquaintances, which he enjoyed, and a large number now share with his wife and two sons, Stephen and Thomas J., in their bereavement. Both sons are connected with the Metropolitan Park Police and are very favorably known. Funeral services will be held tomorrow morning from St. Mary's church.

CREAMERY IN HOUGHS NECK.

An industrious, enterprising young man, J. Herbert Trott, is to open a creamery and delicatessen store in the new block at the corner of Sea street and Rock Island road, Houghs Neck, and announces a grand opening next Wednesday. The store is located on the corner, and has been fitted in a most tasty manner. Mr. Trott is well known at Houghs Neck and in Boston, where he has made his home for many years. He was formerly employed by the Arthur E. Dorr Co., as manager of their creamery department and later with Bryant & Ordway.

CONCERT BY UNITY CIRCLE

Junior Members of Circle Present Fine Program

BETHANY CHURCH

The concert and recitations given under the auspices of the junior members of Unity Circle, King's Daughters, Wednesday night, was worthy of especial mention.

The opening number, "Little Papoose," sung by Dorothy Edwards, first soprano; Marion Edwards, second soprano; Margaret Hunt, firsa alto; Florence Labean, second alto, was very effectively rendered. Their voices blending very harmoniously and sweetly. They received generous applause, and responded graciously.

The recitation by Miss Bewley of "The Mission Box," was charmingly rendered, and she was greeted with a round of applause, responding with a sketch from "The adventures of Jimmie Brown."

Thomas N. Shufelt sang a group of songs, "Regret," "In a Little Garden," and "Until." Mr. Shufelt has an exceedingly fine baritone voice, deep and resonant, and his selections gave marked pleasure. He gave "So Like a Flower," in response to repeated applause.

Miss Bewley gave a sketch from Mrs. Wiggs' Cabbage Patch, an incident of "Lovey Mary," which was rapturously applauded.

Mr. Shufelt sang "Three for Jack," responding by repeated calls.

Miss Bewley gave "The Lost Joy," which so delighted the audience, she responded with "Mud Pies," and in response to continued applause very expressively rendered "The White Rose Bud, Just Out of My Reach." Miss Bewley is a perfect artist; her selections are full of pathos, humor, comedy and wit, and her portrayal of them gave great pleasure to the audience.

The evening's entertainment closed with "The Cradle Song," by the quartet of young ladies.

The junior members of the King's Daughters are certainly to be congratulated upon the entertainment which was an immense success, socially and financially.

LAST MEETING OF SO. SO. CLUB

The So. So. club held its last meeting of the season Tuesday evening at the home of Miss Gertrude C. Dean, of Whitwell street. Mrs. Thomas A. Addison of Washington street who organized the club several years ago, was the guest of honor. This club is the outcome of the Busy Bee club, which laid the corner stone as it were for the Day Nursery.

After the business was transacted a social hour was enjoyed during which the hostess presented Mrs. Addison with a bouquet of carnations.

A letter was read from Miss Catherine Callahan of South street, who is now in Richmond, Va., for her health, and an answer to it was sent her, in which each member wrote a page. Refreshments closed a most delightful evening's enjoyment.

NEW OFFICERS ARE ELECTED

The Ladies' Benevolent Society of Memorial church met in the parlor Wednesday afternoon. The nominating committee, Mrs. T. W. Davison, Mrs. Elijah Hall, and Mrs. Robert Harding, brought in the following names for officers for the coming year: Mrs. Sarah Butler, president; Mrs. Harry Read, vice-president; Mrs. L. J. Hayford, secretary; and Mrs. Roger H. Wilde, treasurer; and who were elected also as the executive committee, the above officers and Mrs. T. W. Davison, Mrs. George Height, Jr., Mrs. A. H. Hall, Mrs. B. F. Thomas, Mrs. Walter Blake, and Mrs. Robert Harding. A very enjoyable afternoon was spent. Refreshments were served by Mrs. Butler, Mrs. Hayford, Mrs. Davison, Mrs. Hall and Mrs. Height. This was the last meeting of the season, and perhaps the most enjoyable one. A large number were present in spite of the rainy weather.

KAFFEE-KLATSCH LUNCHEON.

The Diauthus club of Atlantic were entertained Tuesday, at the home of Mrs. W. F. Harden, Hunt street, by the ice cream committee which served the club gentlemen's night. This committee includes Mrs. E. E. Sodergren, Mrs. Paul Butler, and Mrs. W. F. Harden.

Upon their arrival the members were ushered upstairs into Mrs. Sodergren's apartments to dispose of their wraps. Here each lady was presented with a decorated cardboard letter, and escorted down stairs to Mrs. Harden's apartments. The letters enabled each to find her proper place at the dining table where corresponding letters were found.

A Kaffee-Klatsch luncheon was served at 12.30. This was a new departure from the usual order of procedure, but it proved very enjoyable. When all were seated they were quick to observe that their letters spelled the words Dianthus club, Mrs. Deans having been given letter D, Mrs. Ida M. Hayford letter I, Mrs. Addie Hartley letter A, and so on. The names of the members fitted in very nicely in the following order:

Mrs. Deanes, Ida M. Hayford, Addie Hartley, Nellie Rogers. The hostess, Mrs. Harden. Mrs. Hill, Ulia (Julia) Rogers, Mrs. Sodergren, Carrie Smith, Lucy Butler, (Ugeniaa) Brown, Bernice Pray.

The decorations were carnations. After luncheon the club had their picture taken in a group, after which whist was played, the first table consisting of those whose letters were D, I, A, N; the second table, T, H, U, S;; and the third, C, L, U, B. Souvenirs were won by Mrs. Rogers and Mrs. Harden, and the consolation was given to Mrs. Deans, the latter being a miniature pair of shoes about one inch in length, done up in a shoe box of extraordinary dimensions. The box was labelled, "For de feet," and it caused a great deal of merriment.

The ice cream committee had proved itself full of original ideas and highly capable of carrying them out, an dthe club were all sorry when the hour for departure had arrived.

The next meeting on May 21, will be in charge of the prize committee, Mrs. Smith, Mrs. W. Hill and Mrs. B. Pray, at the home of the latter, 97 Walker street.

RIVERSIDE WOMEN'S CLUB

Interesting Papers Read at Wednesday's Meeting

REFRESHMENTS

A regular meeting of the Quincy Women's Riverside club was held Wednesday afternoon in the club house of the Town River Yacht club and in spite of the weather a large number of the ladies were present. Several new applications for membership were made and other business came up and was acted upon after which a very pleasant social hour was spent.

A most interesting paper written and read by Mrs. Eleanor D. Hill on the Royal Family of England was enjoyed by all. Mrs. Hill in her younger days was employed in the studio of the royal family and had the pleasure and honor of finishing many photographs of them, Her position in the studio gave her the opportunity of meeting many of the Royalty and many very pleasant reminiscenses were told in her paper.

Another very bright paper was read by Mrs. Eva Williams, wife of Quincy's well-known optician. Her paper opened with a beautiful poem entitled "Little at first, but great at last." by Chas. Mackay. As she finished the reading of the poem she compared the new club just formed to the little acorn which falls to the ground and becomes such a large tree and she felt that our little club of 65 or more members had before it a bright future and like the little acorn would grow and develop into one of which Quincy might some day be proud.

After the reading of the papers the committee in charge of the refreshments gave out word that they were all very much opposed to washing dishes so they would pass around a basket filled with bags of peanuts and that any one throwing the shells on the floor would be fined. The peanuts proved to be crackers which were enjoyed by all. Tangerines in paper napkins were also served.

This club meets every Wednesday afternoon.

PRES. BOWLES ON USE OF CANAL

President Bowles of the Fore River Shipbuilding Co., was before the Senate Committee on Inter-oceanic canals at Washington Wednesday, and said that railroad-owned ships should be allowed to use the Panama canal. He contended that their exclusion from the canal and the coastwise trade would discourage the shipbuilding industry and result in a general monopoly of water traffic by large independent interests. He further said that while his company could not compete with foreign shipbuilders in constructing merchant vessels, it could compete in the construction of battleships.

The "Pre-darned" Sock

Socks are bound to wear out. The real question is: How long from the first wear to the first darn.

It's easy enough to make coarse, thick socks that will wear. But to make light, sheer socks that will wear is another matter.

Interwoven Socks are as light and sheer as the finest socks you ever saw; yet they wear.

They are wear-proofed at every wear-point---toe, heel, sole, and ankle---with the most durable knit fabric known.

That is, Interwoven Socks are darned before you buy them.

Machines of almost human intelligence do this pre-darning.

They do it so ingeniously that the entire foot of an Interwoven Sock is as smooth, soft, and fine as it is wear-resisting

The machines not only properly pre-darn Interwoven Socks, but also give them the ankle hug, without a seam to give 'way or hurt the feet.

HONESTY IN EVERYTHING

Gradually the politicians are getting back to the front page, top column.

Uncle Sam has put his stamp of approval on the "baseball trust."

If Mr. Ismay's boat should run into the iceberg belt going home, it is possible that he might venture to offend the captain's dignity by mentioning the subject.

By pitching the first ball at the opening game the Vice-President once more gets his name in the public prints It is Sherman, as well as we remember.

The Charleston News and Courier assumes that the most prominent bills at the Baltimore convention will be the hotel bills. Anyway, you can't beat 'em.

There are many versions of the way Captain Smith of the Titanic died, but any one of them the public chooses to accept leaves him still a hero and a gentleman.

The picture men secured good films of the killing of the Paris bandits. A good, industrious and enterprising burglar has talents that would make him a success in the moving picture business.

Although we saw a dark haired olive skinned man on the streets of this city the other day, we decline to believe the report that the Japs are trying to establish a military station in our suburbs.

Secretary MacVeigh's determination to have bank notes made smaller will be all right, but it will not command the enthusiastic support that would be given to a workable scheme to make them easier to get.

FIGHTING SHORT WEIGHTS.

Candor compels the admission that whenever or wherever there has been inspection of the scales and measures used by venders of goods in markets, retail shops, and all other places where, without strict supervision, green goods are sold to consumers either by farmers, gardeners or middlemen, there has been disclosed a state of ethics not comforting to the citizen who is an idealist. With the efforts of the nation and the states to put an end to adulteration of foods there has gone a process of education of buyers that now makes them much more critical than they formerly were, especially as to the quality of the edibles purchased. But it is said now that not a few manufacturers, having been forced to furnish the quality that they advertise to give, are skimping on the amount given the consumer in his package.

The rigor of the effort to make small incomes meet current prices has forced, in New York City, formation of the Housewives league, with several thousand members. With experience gained by some of these protestants in the Consumers League, they are now proposing to use the boycott both on legislators at Albany who oppose short-weight legislation and on makers of packaged food known to be less in amount than advertised. There is no limit to the effectiveness of this procedure, because it attacks the pocket. Unsold goods preach speeches and resolutions make no dent on the crafty vender. If he cannot market his "short-weight" product then he will try and meet the demand for an honest package.

The wonder is that women do not oftener use this device of the boycott. Were state federations of women's clubs to debate thoroughly the issue of "white" or "yellow" journalism, then come to substantial agreement as to standards to be insisted upon, and then turn the machinery of the state and local organizations on newspaper publishers, they could do more to bring about "clean journalism" than can be done in any other way, unless it be in the schools, with principals and teachers giving adequate attention to their duties as guides in reading of periodical literature. It is far more important that a boy or girl should know the difference between a fit and an unfit journal than it is that he should know the difference between the poetry of Spenser and the autobiography of Herbert Spencer.—Christian Science Monitor.

PUBLIC LIBRARY NOTES.

There has been a demand recently for books containing plans, suggestions for interior decoration, and furnishings for small houses, cottages, and bungalows. The library has a number of very helpful books on this subject. Perhaps the most popular work is H. H. Saylor's Bungalows: their design, construction, and furnishing, with suggestions also for camps, summer homes and cottages of similar character." Other books of the same kind but not so limited in scope are, "Crafstman homes," by G. Stickley, "The house: its plan, decoration and care," by Isabel Bevier, "Flats, urban houses and cottage homes," by W. S. Sparrow and others; and "Building a home," by H. W. Desmond and H. W. Frohne. For photographs and floor plans of America's best country and suburban homes of moderate size, consult "Inexpensive homes of individuality," edited by H. H. Saylor, also "The art of building a home" by Barry Parker and Raymond Unwin. The latter work gives descriptions of the smaller middle class hemo and the art of designing small houses and cottages.

In periodical literature some of the most helpful ideas along this line may be obtained. The magazines to be especially recommended are, "American homes and gardens," "The craftsman," "The house beautiful," and "Country life in America."

TRUST PAPERS BURNED

Worcester Man Testifies It Was Done by Order of the President

New York, May 9.—Just how the papers containing all the evidence against the American Steel and Wire company and every concern that participated in the steel rope pool, and on which the government relied in the dissolution suit against the steel trust, were burned after the action was begun, was related before the referee.

Harry A. Whitney of the Worcester, Mass., plant of the American Steel and Wire company, testified regarding the gathering of these documents; of bringing them to the office of George A. Cragin, assistant sales manager of the American Steel and Wire company in New York, placing them in a trunk and shipping them to his office in Worcester.

"What did you do with them then?" demanded Jacob M. Dickinson, representing the government.

"Had them taken down stairs to the boilerroom and directed the fireman to shovel them into the boiler fire. I stood by and watched until this was done," was the reply.

"The president of the American Steel and Wire company came to my office. He asked me if I had the papers and I told him I had. He told me to destroy them."

FLOOD HORRORS ON INCREASE

Women Refugees Stood In Water For Three Days

TWENTY THOUSAND RESCUED

Couriers Still Warning People to Flee —Louisiana's Governor-Elect Asks All Inaugural Ceremonies to Be Eliminated—Fires Are Kindled In Streets to Warm Sufferers—One Man Swims Five Miles For Aid

New Orleans, May 9.—While armies of relief worked among thousands of the homeless in Louisiana's flooded territory, workmen engaged in strengthening those levees which still remained intact, continued their task. Late yesterday there had been no new breaches in the dikes but the flood water continued to spread over new territory. The torrent from the crevasse at Torras reached New Roads and hundreds of people in territory that had been considered safe from the oncoming flood are now endangered. Couriers have been sent into the water-menaced country, warning the people to flee.

Governor-elect Luther E. Hall, whose inauguration as chief executive of Louisiana is to take place May 20 at Baton Rouge, wired the arrangement comittee there asking for the elimination of all the inaugural ceremonies.

The destitution and distress that follows in the path of crevasses had a practical demonstration here when the steamer Whitman, with 750 refugees from the McCrea section of Pointe Coupee parish landed at Melville last night. Many, however, refused to be taken away, preferring to remain and guard the overflowed property. Some of the number on the boat were blind; women and children, with their clothing torn and wet, were pale and fatigued, and prominent planters with bearded faces, gaunt from worry and hardship, were among the rescued. Fires were kindled in the streets over which coffee was made in large buckets. This was passed around in dippers.

Twenty thousands persons have already been rescued in Louisiana.

Two hundred men and women were marooned on a little patch of elevated ground near Opelousas and were rescued yesterday. One of the party swam five miles to summon aid.

It is believed that practically all the marooned inhabitants of Pointe Coupee parish will have been rescued by the end of this week. The Texas and Pacific railroad has transported about 7000 people. The Texas and Pacific station at New Roads is crowded with white refugees waiting to be taken to the relief camp at Baton Rouge. Among them are four women who were rescued near Morganza. They had stood in water several feet deep for nearly three days, when boatmen reached them. The women, who were on the verge of collapse when rescued, lost everything except the clothing they wore.

FOSS VETOES BILL

Opposed to Granting Spanish War Veterans Special Concession

Boston, May 9.—Governor Foss has vetoed the Spanish War Veterans' bill, to give men who served a certain amount of additional credit at civil service examinations.

"I cannot believe," he says, "that the young men who volunteered for the Spanish war, and thus showed their loyalty, have so far forgotten that loyalty as to pull down the standards of our public service. To do so would be an act of destruction not only to such service, but to the very foundations of Democratic government and to good citizenship as well.

DANDYISM SERVED HIM WELL

Unwilling to Go to the Guillotine Without His Boots, Condemned Man Cheated Death.

In the French Revolution a feuilletonist named Schlaberndorf, who possessed considerable ability as a writer, by heartily espousing the cause of the Girondists in all that emanated from his pen rendered himself obnoxious to Robespierre, and at the dictation of that fierce leader was incarcerated. When the death cart one morning came to the prison for its load of those that were that day to be butchered, Schlaberndorf's name was on the list of the condemned. The jailer informed him that such was the case, and the writer dressed himself for his last ride very nonchalantly and—he was extremely fastidious as to his personal appearance—with great care. His boots, however, he could not find. Here, there, everywhere, assisted by his jailer, he looked for them to no avail.

"I am quite willing to be executed," said he to the jailer, after their fruitless search, "but really I should be ashamed to go to the guillotine without my boots. Nor do I wish to detain this execution party," he added, smiling grimly. "Will it make any difference if my execution is deferred until tomorrow? By that time I shall probably succeed in finding my boots."

"I don't know that it will matter particularly when you are guillotined," responded the functionary, between whom and Schlaberndorf there had existed a sort of friendship. "Suppose we call it tomorrow, then?"

"All right," and the jailer allowed Schlaberndorf to remain, not unwillingly, as owing to his universal good humor he was especially liked by all the jail attendants.

The following morning when the cart drew up before the prison door for its batch of victims Schlaberndorf, dressed in his best, including the boots that had been found, stood waiting the summons of the jailer to take his place therein. Meantime, however, a new jailer had taken the place of the old one, the latter himself having suddenly been displaced by reason of suspected disloyalty to the revolutionists, and Schlaberndorf's name was not called that morning. Nor was it called the next morning, nor the morning after that; nor, indeed, ever again. It was believed by all outside of his friends in the jail that he had perished on the morning originally set for him. He remained in prison until the sway of Robespierre had ended. Then he regained his liberty, as did the rest of those prisoners whose heads had not fallen beneath the blood-stained ax.

Where the Power Lies.

"My dear, sir," said the visiting Englishman, "you people in this country don't know what a real republic is. Your president has vastly more power than we permit our king to exercise."

"Oh, we all realize that, but you seem to forget the power your queen is permitted to exercise."

He Knew Him When.

"Why do you hate him so? Has he ever done anything or said anything to injure you?"

"No, but, confound him, I can remember when he had nowhere near as much as I had—when, as a matter of fact, I didn't always care to recognize him."

SCHOOL NOTES.

At its last regular meeting the School Committee authorized the chairman to appoint an advisory committee of five apart from the school board whose services would be rendered in the interests of the industrial classes both day and evening which will be maintained hereafter.

This action is in accord with the requirements of the State that such a committee be established, that shall more directly represent the industrial interests than the average school committee is apt to do, both from the standpoint of the employer and of the employee. This committee will be composed of men representing the dominant manufacturing interests of the city and its function will be, as its name indicates, that of an adviser to the school department in pointing out courses and methods by which the industrial education proposed will reach the needs of the greatest number of those employed in various occupations. In this way, the school committee will have suggested to it, specific plans which it will be worth while to try in order to develop this phase of education to its fullest efficiency. For instance, a certain course may be offered to men in the granite industry, another to apprentices in the building interest, another to machinists and so on. As registration is insisted upon in advance, in the case of any evening industrial course, the school committee may make the attempt to offer a number of varied lines of work but will only begin upon those where a sufficient registration is shown to make it worth while. This whole problem of attempting to reach, on the educational side, the industrial needs of the city is by all odds the most interesting and likely to be the most profitable of any school work the city has even undertaken.

Mr. Charles H. Johnson gave the illustrated lecture "Historic Quincy" before the Parents' and Teachers' Association of the Quincy school at its meeting on Tuesday evening. The audience completely filled the corridors of the school which are used for assembly purposes. Mr. Johnson has given this lecture a number of times this winter before various associations of parents and always with large audiences. A number of new views have been added lately made from old pictures that he has happened upon from time to time so that the lecture is constantly growing in interest and value. In a community that is growing so rapidly as Quincy there will always be many to whom the facts and pictures will have a live interest so that the lecture as a whole bids fair to become a standard Quincy institution.

The Art Exhibits which have been held in several of the schools of the city during the past month or two, the Willard and the Gridley Bryant being the latest, have proved very successful both from the side of profit and of attendance. A large number of new pictures of good subjects and fine artistic merit will be acquired and hung on the school walls, as a result of these exhibitions. The attempt to secure worthy pictures for school room decoration brings out the fact that a great number of the school rooms have walls too dirty and discolored to beautify with pictures. A considerable amount could be expended on paint and kalsomine to good advantage in several of the districts of the city before any effort is made to secure pictures.

WOODWARD INSTITUTE.

Owing to the continued rain and dampness during this week, the Field Day which was to have been held next Saturday by the Woodward Institute girls has been postponed. This field day is an annual affair at the Institute and the athletic rivalry between different classes and individuals is usually settled that day. In addition the fancy dancing which is always a feature of the day together with the luncheon by classes at the noon hour tends to make the day one of great enjoyment to those who are privileged to attend.

ADAMS SCHOOL.

An inspector of public buildings, sent out by the State visited the school last Friday. He inspected the building from top to bottom, asked many questions and left with the remark that the building "Is in very poor condition."

Thomas Curley of the Massachusetts Civic League will speak tonight at the Parents' and Teachers' Association on "The New Boy and Man Maker." As this is the final meeting of the year the election of officers will be held. Music will be furnished by the class of 1912, under the direction of the Supervisor of Music, Miss Emma S. Perkins.

CRANCH SCHOOL.

The pupils and teachers of the school are proud of the fatt chat not a case of tardiness has been recorded in the building for fourteen weeks. Grade IV, Miss Annie C. Healy, teacher, has not had a tardy mark since school opened last September.

At the next meeting of the Parents' and Teachers' Association, May 16, Edward H. Chandler, secretary of the Twentieth Century club, will speak. He has chosen a very timely and instructive subject. "Children and the Theatre." He will have much to say about the cheap moving picture show and its effects on children.

MASSACHUSETTS FIELDS.

The parents and teachers were afforded a most enjoyable evening at the last meeting of their Association on Thursday. The pupils of grade 8, under the direction of Miss Taylor, presented a short play entitled "A Dream of the Centuries." The musical program consisted of vocal solos by Mrs. S. J. Ripley, and selections by an orchestra composed of graduates of the school assisted by Mrs. Rogers, pianist. It being the annual meeting the following officers were elected for the ensuing year: President—Sydney J. Smith, vice president—Nicholas Kappler, secretary—Samuel J. Ripley, treasurer—Mrs. Clara Reynolds, executive committee—Mrs. Douglas Wetmore, Miss Florence Gammons and Miss Ruth Taylor.

A committee of parents assisted by the pupils served ice cream and cake. The meeting closed with a social hour and much appreciation was expressed to those who had helped to make the year one of the most successful.

On Thursday afternoon the pupils presented the play "A Dream of the Centuries" to aid the base ball team. A small admission of 5cts was charged and over ten dollars netted.

SONG FOR INTERMEDDLERS.

Is it anybody's business
If a gentleman should choose,
To wait upon a lady,
If the lady don't refuse?
Or, to speak a little plainer,
That the meaning all may know,
Is it anybody's business,
If a lady has a beau?

Is it anybody's business
When that gentleman doth call,
Or when he leaves the lady,
Or if he leaves at all?
Or, is it necessary,
That the curtain should be drawn,
To save from further trouble,
The outside lookers on?

Is it anybody's business,
But the lady's if her beau
Rideth out with other ladies,
And doesn't let her know?
Is it anybody's business,
But the gentleman's, if she Should accept another escort,
Where he doesn't chance to be?

If a person's on a sidewalk,
Whether great or whether small,
Is it anybody's business
Where that person means to call?
Or, if you see a person,
While he's calling anywhere,
Is it any of your business,
What his business may be there?

The substance of our query,
Simply stated would be this:
Is it anybody's business
What another's business is?
Whether 'tis or whether 'tisn't,
We should really like to know,
For we're certain, if it isn't,
There are some who make it so.

If it is, we'll join the rabble,
And act the noble part,
Of tattlers and defamers,
Who throng the public mart:
But, if not, we'll act the teacher,
Until each meddler learns,
It were better in the future,
To mind his own concerns.

People Had Never Before Read the Sheet With So Much Interest, but "the Interests" Drove Him and His Partner Out of Town.

[Copyright, 1912, by Associated Literary Press.]

I HAD worked six days for a farmer and had $9 in my pocket. I might have worked longer, but the farmer got mad because his wife and I sang "Annie Laurie" together, and he said I was climbing up altogether too fast for a hobo.

That's the way it goes in this business. We are advised to climb up and be somebody, and we no sooner get a start than we are advised to climb down again and be durned to us.

After hiking for five miles I entered a village, and over the door of almost the first building I came to I saw the sign, "Roseville Weekly Herald." I looked through the window and saw a pale faced young man eating a slice of bread and butter and a raw onion. As he ate the tears ran down his cheeks, and my hobo heart was touched.

Moved to Compassion.

Raw onions do produce tears, but I felt that in this case grief had something to do with it.

"Whence and why?" I asked as I entered.

"Busted!" was his lonesome reply.

"No cash?"

"Not a red."

"No more Heralds?"

"Never more. Printer gone—no cash—no white paper. This community runs to pork sausage instead of intelligence. In the hobo business?"

"Yep; pushing it along."

"You look literary."

"I have written Fourth of July orations for lawyers to deliver, but they always beat me out of the price."

"If you only had the money!" he almost sobbed.

"But I have. Will $9 help out any?"

"Will it? Will it? Oh, my soul!"

"If it will we'll go into partnership. I can't stick type, but I'll edit the paper while you do the other things."

"Saved, saved!" he cried as he arose and threw himself into my arms and rubbed the remains of the onion against my nose. "Why, hobo, $9 will run the Herald for nine weeks to come even if a cent doesn't come in on subscription. Truly, Providence must have guided your footsteps this way."

What the Paper Lacked.

We then and there formed a copartnership, and after I had looked over a number of past Heralds I said:

"What this paper lacks is character."

"She surely does," he agreed.

"It wants vim."

"Just so."

"It wants snap."

"Give her plenty."

"We must give the people something to talk about."

"We will."

I began my editorial work within an hour. The very first article was one denying that Jonah was swallowed by a whale or that there ever was a critter named Jonah and offering $25 reward to any one that could prove it.

The second one read as follows:

"When we affirm that this is the laziest and most ignorant town in seven states we are simply voicing outside opinion. It's a godsend that we keep clear of the itch. Should it appear here our people would be too lazy to scratch. There isn't a dollar in the town, and nine-tenths of the inhabitants live on boiled turnips to save washing the dishes."

"Got to have character to our paper," I said as the young man looked doubtful.

"Go in."

My next effort was:

"A skunk got under the postoffice the other night and raised a smell, but our people rather liked it. If some old horse were to drop dead in front of the church and stay there for a month this surely would be a happy town."

A Firm Policy.

As soon as the paper came out five different men called at the office to remonstrate. I met each one with firmness and dignity and took him by the neck and threw him out. The lack of firmness and dignity is killing some weekly paper every week.

Another editorial was:

"The Herald has never said that Deacon Smither licks his wife, but when it gets ready to announce the fact it will not be deterred by any fear of consequences."

It was sure that the deacon would pay us a call, and we were ready for him. He was pulling off his coat as he entered, and he had got as far as "By the living jingo!" when my firmness and dignity jumped in on him and landed him on the street. He was a soft mark. The only exercise he had had for the last five years was scratching a hog's back with a stick.

As to the Fair Sex.

"Any more vim coming?" asked the proprietor, as he smiled at me.

"Got to get out of the rut, you know."

And then I wrote:

"We don't say that Miss Hannah Wray, the old maid postmistress, is a gossip, a slanderer and ready to marry anything wearing trousers, but if she'd do less tattling the mails could be distributed ten minutes sooner. If she wants to advertise for a husband we'll cut our usual rates in two."

Over came Miss Wray. Same firmness and dignity, only she wasn't taken by the neck and pitched out. As soon as she began to talk I began to repeat "Sheridan's Ride," and by the time I had repeated it ten times she was out of voice and had to withdraw.

We had tried in vain to work a six months' subscription out of the leading merchant of the place, and I returned to the office to write as follows:

"Is Bagley a robber on his prices?

"Has he ever swindled you?

"Does his store remind you of a hogpen?

"Are his books correctly kept?

"Have you any reason to believe he is a notorious liar?

"Has he paid a cent of pew rent in the last five years?

"Did you ever hear that he kicked his wife?

"Is it true that he is sailing very close to bankruptcy?"

To the Road Together.

All the above and much more were contained in the edition I handled. There was snap. There was vim. There were things to make Roseville sit up and think. With firmness and dignity I met all callers until thirty-five had passed through my hands. Then a bunch of forty came together. They had axes and clubs and firebrands.

"It's the end," said the proprietor.

"Come on and we'll hobo together. There's more in it than in running a weekly."

"Sure Mike! Out of that window!"

And out we got and made for the good old railroad tracks, and the song we sang as we journeyed together was, "For he's a jolly good feller."

Glass Houses.

Dr. W. E. Gell, the explorer, was talking about the Chinese love of opium.

"The Chinaman from one province," said Dr. Gell, "is always telling you what an opium fiend the Chinaman from another province is, and vice versa. There's a story about it.

"A Su man was condemning the opium excesses of the Flowery Miaos. He said he was once traveling in the Flowery Miaos' country, and in a desert region a Flowery Miao overtook him and said:

"'Stranger, I will give you my coat for one pipe of opium.'

"But the Su man refused. So the Flowery Miao said:

"'Stranger, for a pipe of opium I will give you my coat and jade ring.'

"Still the Su man refused, and the Flowery Miao then said:

"'Stranger, give me a little opium. See, I offer you my coat, my jade ring and even my chain of gold for it.'

"At this point a listener said to the Su man impatiently:

"'Well, did you give him the opium or not?'

"'Give him the opium!' snorted the Su man. 'Give him the opium! And me with thirty miles to go and only enough opium for about fifteen pipes for myself!'"—Washington Star.

A Sign.

When a young girl begins to impress upon a young man's mind how sweet and lovely her mother is it's a sign that she wants him to take her away from mater.—Detroit Free Press.

Time to Pray.

A new preacher at the close of one of his sermons said, "Let all in the house who are paying their honest debts stand up." Presently every man, woman and child, with one exception, rose to their feet.

The preacher seated them and said, "Now, every man not paying his debts stand up." The exception, clothed in his last summer suit, slowly assumed a perpendicular position.

"How is it that you are the only one among us who does not meet his obligations, my friend?" asked the preacher.

"I run the newspaper here, and these people are my subscribers," said the man. "They haven't"—

"Let us pray," said the preacher.—Warrenton (Mo.) Banner.

Millions, But—

Markley—Skinner has been trying to get me interested in a land boom in New Jersey.

Wiseman—Pshaw! That tract of his is practically worthless. I don't believe anything could ever live there but mosquitoes.

Markey—Ah, I guess that's what he meant. He told me there were "millions in it."—Catholic Standard and Times.

VERY WELL INVESTED.

A Loan That Carnegie's Old Kinsman Didn't Want Repaid.

Andrew Carnegie told the following story with great relish. When his father was leaving his native country to settle in America he borrowed £20 from a relative. The family had an uphill battle on the other side of the Atlantic, but when the tide of prosperity turned with the son he remembered his father's indebtedness and determined to clear it off, together with its accumulated interest. He started by remitting the sum of £20 and for several years sent the same amount, a dividend equal to exactly 100 per cent.

Returning to Scotland, the Pittsburgh ironmaster met his old relative. "Well," said Mr. Carnegie, "having paid up a good deal of the interest, I should like now to clear off the principal."

"Ay, ay, Andrew, dinna ye fash yersel' aboot the loan! A'm pairfectly satisfied with the interest."

"Oh, but I'm rich enough now, I think, to clear off the principal!" replied the millionaire.

"Dinna mind the principal, Andrew," said the relative. "It's very weel invested as it is!"—London Family Herald.

OF INTEREST TO LABOR MEN

The ruling of the Supreme Judicial court on the bill pending before the legislature in relation to the marking of prison made goods, that is goods made in penal institutions, so that it may be known that they are so made, is one of interest to the labor men.

The bill requires in express terms that "all goods, wares and merchandise made by convict labor in penal institutions in this, or any other state offered for sale in this Commonwealth shall be marked, branded or labelled in such a way as to conspicuously indicate the source of manufacture."

In its finding the court says the purpose of the bill is to directly effect interstate commerce and its terms if complied with would compell the branding, etc., of every convict made article brought into the state. "The general principle is that under the constitution of the United States no state can pass any law which impairs or restricts in any degree the freedom of interstate commerce."

Continuing the opinion says "The present bill, in our opinion, goes beyond a lawful exercise of the police power in its direct effect upon interstate commerce."

In conclusion the opinion says "The result is that we feel constrained to advise that House Bill 833, if enacted would be unconstitutional."

BRIEFS

Annual May dance of Quincy Catholic club tonight at Alpha hall.

Mrs. Charles H. Brooks of Bent terrace, has been confined to her home by illness the past three weeks.

Congratulations are being received by Mr. and Mrs. Andrew S. Isaacsen of 15 Gothland street, on the birth of a son, born May 7.

In the legislature Wednesday the Senate refused to reconsider the vote in concurrence with the House fixing the salary of the Norfolk County Probate judge at $6,000.

Two important meetings will be held at City Hall tonight. One by the Mayor's advisory board, and the other by the Special Committee on Financial Investigation of the City Council.

Maple Lodge K. and L., of H., was honored Wednesday at the annual convention of Grand Lodge held in Boston by having one of its members, past protector Mrs. Agnes G. Fletcher, elected to the office of Grand chaplain.

JUDGE'S ALLEGED OPTIONS

Witness Claims Archbald Interested In Culm Properties of the Erie—Alleges Sale Proposed a 100 Percent Profit—Investigation Will Be Short—Much Testimony to Be Withheld Unless He Is Impeached

Scranton, Pa., May 9.—For the first time since charges that Judge R. W. Archbald of the commerce court had engaged in a questionable deal with the Erie Railroad company were laid before the interstate commerce commission by W. P. Boland, an independent coal operator of this city, representatives of the interests allied with the prosecution have given out several specific instances on which the charges are based.

Chief among the allegations, the men say, is the recent deal whereby, it is said, Judge Archbald and E. J. Williams, a former mining man, were to buy the Katydid culm dump at Moosic, from the Erie Railroad company and an outside interest for $3500, and sell it to the Lackawanna and Wyoming Valley railroad, an electric line, for $35,000.

Next in importance, it is said, is an allegation that Judge Archbold had, through Williams as an intermediary, suggested that the Marian Coal company by selling its property to a client that he had in mind, could escape the trouble and expense involved in a prosecution being carried by the company against the Delaware, Lackawanna and Western railroad, before the interstate commerce commission and a suit against the company by John W. Peale, commercial sales agent of New York. A note for $500 endorsed by Judge Archbald and offered by E. J. Williams to Boland for discount, will also be featured in the case, it issaid .

COLLECTORS RESPONSIBLE

New Law Held to Make Collectors Liable For Unpaid Taxes

Boston, May 9.—Notice was served on City Collector Bowdoin S. Parker and four former city collectors by Tax Commissioner Trefey that they would be held responsible for the uncollected taxes on the books of the city during their respective terms of office, the total amount of which is rising $300,000. The notice was given in accordance with chapter 272 of the acts of the present year and has been sent to all city and town collectors in the state. In Boston, besides Colonel Parker, the men who received notices were Nathaniel H. Taylor, collector in 1896; Courtenay Guild, 1900; Garrett W. Scollard, 1906, and Charles R. Brown, 1908.

The provisions of chapter 272 declare in susbstance that after taxes have remained uncollected for more that three years the tax commissioner may bring action of contract against the collector to compel him to meet the delinquencies. The commissioner is further empowered to sue upon the bond of the collector in case the latter is not personally able to meet any judgment that may be secured. Colonel Parker's bond is for $75,000.

The abolition of the order which made the payment of a poll tax a requisite for voting has made it much harder for the department to collect.

AUTOMATIC STOKER FATAL

Worcester Fireman Drawn Into Furnace by Cog Wheels

Worcester, Mass., May 9.—Brainslaw Maslowski, 35 years old, was burned to death when he was dragged through an automatic stoker and thrown into a blazing furnace at the Millbury power plant of the Consolidated Street Car company.

Maslowski had been employed at the powerhouse for about three years and was in charge of several of the automatic stokers. While he was regulating one of the machines, his clothing caught in the cogs and he was gradually drawn into the vortex of coal and then quickly thrown into the fiery furnace.

Sea View Hotel Burns

York, Me., May 9.—The Sea View hotel and eight other buildings were burned to the ground and the whole Long Sands section of York Beach was threatened by a fire which called out 400 volunteer firemen with handtubs and caused a call for help to be sent to several towns. The loss amounted to $40,000.

Grant's Widow Sails

New York, May 9.—Mrs. Frederick D. Grant, widow of Major General Grant, and daughter, Princess Cantacazune, have sailed for Europe. Mrs. Grant is to pass the summer with her daughter, whose home is in St. Petersburg.

Morse to Return Soon

Bath, Me., May 9.—Charles W. Morse, the former banker, is expected to arrive in Bath in three weeks to pass the summer.

GOMEZ GREATLY WORRIED

Lacking Support of Orozco, He Can Scarcely Maintain His Position

Juarez, Mex., May 9.—The provisional government established here last Saturday by Emilia Vasquez Gomez hangs in the balance. The repudiation of the civil authority, which Gomez, as provisional president, created to govern the destinies of the revolution, is worrying him greatly. Gomez and his associates declare a misunderstanding has occurred.

Should Orozco and Gomez fail to agree eventually, Gomez is likely to find himself in an embarrassing position. The Mexican government will arrest him on a charge of treason should he venture into federal territory.

To return across the Rio Grande into the United States friends of Gomez believe impossible, as it is reported that American special agents have gathered evidence charging Gomez with fomenting revolution against Mexico while on American territory.

Much depends upon the military achievements of Orozco in the next few days. News of a decisive battle somewhere between Torreon and Jiminez is expected hourly.

Gomez has a strong following in the south, but has little popular support in the north, where Orozco is the dictator.

LEADS AS OYSTER STATE

Rhode Island Outranks All Others In Bivalve Profits

Providence, May 9.—Thirteen states derive receipts of $303,241 from their oyster industry and spend $278,178, leaving a net revenue of $25,063. Rhode Island's receipts for the year 1911 were $119,590, with disbursements of $13,027, leaving $106,921 as net income, a sum $81,858 greater than the net income derived in the thirteen other state included in the statistics. Oysters rank as the third industry of the state.

While far in the lead in the matter of revenue, Rhode Island spends proportionately less than seven of the other states for the maintenance of the department.

EACH FACTION IS ARMING FOR STRIFE

Taft and Roosevelt Plan Extension of Ohio Campaign

Columbus, O., May 9.—President Taft charged here in a speech that Theodore Roosevelt, his campaign manager, Senator Dixon of Montana and Democrats in the senate were responsible for the "emasculation" of the arbitration treaties with Great Britain and France, and that in consequence of their action the pacts were so changed as to be of doubtful utility.

Winchester, O., May 9.—President Taft will spend the last seven days before the Ohio primaries, May 21, in this state, it was announced on his special train.

Oyster Bay, N. Y., May 9.—After hearing reports of President Taft's campaign in Ohio, Colonel Roosevelt decided to lengthen his speaking tour in that state. He will start westward on Monday of next week instead of Tuesday, and will probably remain in Ohio until the eve of the primaries.

Boston, Bay 9.—Matthew Hale, the manager of the Roosevelt campaign in Massachusetts, sent a letter to President Taft putting straight to the latter the matter of whom the Taft delegates elected in the Eighth and Tenth congressional districts, should vote for in the coming Chicago convention. These districts were carried by Roosevelt on the preference vote.

PRESENTED TO COUNCIL

Various Clerks and Trustees Nominated by the Governor

Boston, May 9.—Governor Foss submitted these nominations to the executive council:

Clifford B. Sanborn, Norwood, clerk district court of northern Norfolk.

Harry T. Knight, Winthrop, trustee soldiers' home in Massachusetts.

Robert F. Foerster (professor), Cambridge; David F. Tilley, Boston; Clara C. Park (Mrs. Robert E.), Wollaston, commission to study the question of the support of dependent minor children of widowed mothers.

Equal Suffrage In Sweden

Stockholm, May 9.—The suffrage bill just introduced by the government indicates that Sweden will be the first independent country to grant women the fullest electoral privileges. The bill provides that women shall have the vote on exactly the same conditions as men.

Strangers Replace Strikers

Hudson, Mass., May 9.—The management of the Hudson worsted mill has brought eighty men from Baltimore to take the places of operatives who struck last month for higher wages.

La Follette Will Be In Ohio

Columbus, O., May 9.—Senator La Follette will begin his tour of the state at Cleveland May 18 and plans to remain in the state until after the primaries on May 21.

The KITCHEN CUPBOARD

SPRING ASPARAGUS.

WE are now getting from southern markets fresh asparagus that is available for many delicious spring dishes.

A Convenient Arrangement.

If you lack a special boiler the asparagus may be cooked by tying the shoots together and standing the bunch in the salted water in the saucepan. When they have boiled about a quarter of an hour they may be laid flat and covered with water until done. The time for boiling asparagus is from twenty to twenty-five minutes.

A Delicate Soup.

Cream of Asparagus Soup.—Take a bunch of asparagus, a pint of sweet milk, one pint of boiling salted water, two tablespoonfuls of butter and two of flour. Wash and cut asparagus. Cut off tips. Cook in boiling water until tender. Drain and save the water in which they were cooked. Cook the remainder of asparagus for fifteen minutes. Press through a colander, put in double boiler, add flour and butter and cook until smooth and creamy. When hot add asparagus tips. Serve with croutons of bread.

Tomato Baskets.

Asparagus and Tomato Salad.—Select as many firm, medium sized tomatoes as you have people at the table. Cut the tops off these. Slice a lemon the round way about one-eighth of an inch thick. Remove the rind from each slice in one piece. Cut all the strips of lemon peel the same length. Slip a strip of lemon peel into the soft part of a tomato to form the handle of a basket; then lay five or six asparagus tips on top of the tomato in the basket and put a spoonful of mayonnaise on each basket. Serve on lettuce leaves.

In a Baking Dish.

Baked Asparagus.—For this use only the tip end of the stalk, cutting it in half and again subdividing into pieces about an inch long. Boil for a quarter of an hour in salted water. Butter a baking dish and sprinkle this with breadcrumbs, pepper and salt, bits of butter and hard boiled egg which has been passed through a coarse sieve. Put in another layer of asparagus, then one of the crumbs, seasoning, butter and egg, and so fill up the dish. The last layer should be crumbs. Bake for half an hour and serve hot in the baking dish.

NEW POTATOES.

EVEN if new potatoes are less wholesome than the old ones, when they make their appearance in the market their popularity is assured.

In Their Jackets.

Boiled in the Skins.—Wash and scrub, but do not peel the potatoes. Put some water on in a saucepan, salt and bring to a boil. Put in the potatoes so that the water will cover them well and boil for fifteen or twenty minutes.

Now pour off the water. Even if the potatoes are not quite soft, they may be made so by putting on the cover and being allowed to stand and steam on the back of the stove. Then sprinkle with salt and shake until the skins crack. Serve in a folded napkin.

Browned and Baked.

Crumbed Potatoes.—Scrape and boil some new potatoes in the ordinary way. When soft lift them out and dry lightly. Then cut each in half lengthways, sprinkle some salt and pepper over them, lay them on a hot dish and pour over them a little warmed butter. Lift them out and cover with browned crumbs. Lay on a hot buttered pan and bake about ten minutes in a hot oven.

Miniature Potatoes.

Potato Balls.—Pare a pint of new potatoes, throw them into a pan of cold water and with a cutter shape into balls. Place these in cold salted water until they are needed. Heat two tablespoonfuls of butter in a saucepan, drop in the cut potatoes, put on the cover and cook slowly.

Move the pan about so that the potatoes may roll over and be cooked evenly. Test with a darning needle or a hat pin, kept for that purpose. Add a teaspoonful of salt and a teaspoonful of chopped parsley when ready to serve.

Diced and Stewed.

Stewed Potatoes.—Take one-half tablespoonful of beef dripping and the same amount of butter. When melted in a frying pan stir in one tablespoonful of flour and one onion chopped fine. Stir for a few minutes, then add one quart of new potatoes cut in cubes and a dash of salt, sugar and cayenne pepper. Cover with just water enough to cook.

With Thick Gravy.

New Potatoes and Gravy.—Pare and cut some new potatoes into dice and lay them in cold water for an hour. Put them on the fire in salted boiling water and cook until tender. Drain and pour over these a cupful of well seasoned gravy. Thicken with flour and butter.

"Good Company"

If you never needed to call the butcher, the baker or the candlestick-maker a telephone in your home or apartments would be worth while for its companionship.

It is the great antidote for loneliness. A woman cannot be lonely if she knows her friends are within call. The mere knowledge that she can telephone to them, if she needs to, is sufficient. The telephone is "good company."

When residence telephone service may be had as low as $1.75 to $2.00 per month in the Suburban Districts, why not decide at once and give us your order now, so that you may be listed in the next Boston Division Telephone Directory.

RICHESON SAID TO BE MORMON

Boston Elders Assert Whole Story Is False

COUNTER AFFIDAVITS MADE

Mrs. Brittain, Former Member of Church, Brings the Charge—Says She Has Recogniezd Him as Such For Years—Denials Made by Mormon Officials In Boston and Salt Lake City

Boston, May 9.—That Clarence V. T. Richeson, now awaiting execution for the murder of Miss Avis Linnell and who occupied a Baptist pulpit until his conviction, is a Mormon elder and has high standing in that faith is the claim made by a Mrs. Loule E. Brittain of Boston in an affidavit. Mrs. Brittain claims she formerly was a member of the faith and now is active in a crusade against Mormonism. She says that she has known Richeson for several years as an elder, has exchanged the signs of the faith with him and that it is not strange that he has preached in and pretended to be a minister of an Evangelical church, because she knows of a few other clergymen who are doing the same. She tells of the secrecy put upon the followers of Brigham Young.

Mrs. Brittain, in addition to making the affidavit, told of having known Richeson as a Mormon under his own name. She believes that he became a member while studying at William Jewell college at Liberty, Mo. The Mormon creed, with its authorization of plural "celestial" marriages, would in the opinion of Mrs. Brittain, explain many of the episodes of Richeson's career. Thus Avis Linnell, she thinks, was his "celestial" wife, and as such considered herself beyond criticism, for the "marriage for eternity" is praised above all others by the Mormon church.

Three elders of the Mormon faith, John H. Whitesides, Lawrence W. Richards and Leslie H. Van Dyke, who say that they are the official representatives of that faith in Boston, have made a counter affidavit. Their action was taken as an answer to the affidavit made by Mrs. Brittain, whom they say was excommunicated for alleged improper conduct and for alleged misrepresentation of the church's doctrines and practices.

These elders declare that they know of their own personal knowledge that Richeson is not and never was a member of their church and that the murderer never attended any of their meetings in this city.

A telegram from Salt Lake City, headquarters of the Mormon faith, says that C. W. Penrose, second counsellor to Joseph F. Smith, president of the Mormon church, denies that Clarence V. T. Richeson was a member of the Mormon church. Mr. Penrose says that Richeson was in no way affiliated with the Mormon faith.

Washington, May 9.—Senator Smoot issued a formal denial of the statement that Clarence V. T. Richeson is connected with the Mormon church.

TWO HELD FOR MURDER

Soldiers' Home Case at Togus Where the Janitor Was Murdered

Augusta, Me., May 9.—Henry Gazette and Fred W. Levere were held without bail for the September grand jury in the municipal court for the alleged murder of Alexander J. Turner of New York, janitor of the headquarters building at the National Soldiers' Home at Togus.

Gazette is a veteran of the Spanish-American War and belongs in East Douglas, Mass. Mrs. Elfa V. Levere, wife of Fred W. Levere, gave bail in $500 for her appearance in September as a material witness. The prisoners pleaded not guilty and waived a hearing.

Faculty to Cut Living Prices

Chicago, May 9.—The faculty of the University of Chicago will drop political economy, ethnology and bacteriology and turn their united attention to cutting down the high cost of living. They plan to send direct to the farms, purchase their staple foods, transport and distribute them among themselves. Already the plan looks so good that the professors have agreed to share it with numerous clergymen, business men and plain citizens.

JOHN M. NELSON

Leader In Congress on Beef Charges

SENSATIONAL CHARGES

Wisconsin Congressman Claims Lax Federal Inspection of Beef

Washington, May 9.—With Secretary of Agriculture Wilson hotly denying any irregularity in the federal meat inspection service and Representative John M. Nelson of Wisconsin insistently declaring that an investigation will reveal a startling condition whereby the packers have influenced the administration of the law, the house committee on expenditures in the agricultural department opened an investigation which both sides promise to be full of sensations.

Nelson charged laxity in meat inspection; that packers practically indicated the regulations prescribed for slaughter in their establishments and that the department's administration as a whole was rotten. Wilson asserted that the charges were "skilful blending of half truth and falsehood, aparently for a purpose, constituting a wanton and unjustifiable attack on the department." He intimated that Nelson was seeking political capital out of them.

Nelson declared this defense "wasn't worth the paper it was written on" and that it constituted an hysterical effort to prejudice the people's minds against the resolution.

Among other points, Representative Nelson said:

"What will Solicitor McCabe and A. D. Melvin say when I prove conclusively that dead cattle were passed and cut up for food—wholesome, sound meat? What will they say if I should show their inspectors passed sheep's tongues as food after it had been cut from a lumpy jaw?

"What will they say if some of their former inspectors, men who have resigned from the service because they would not stand for the game—should describe how sausage is made from meat fairly wholesome and other meat that ought to be used for fertilizer?"

Mrs. Caroline B. Crane, whose investigation in various packing plants are said to form the basis of many of the Nelson charges, was ready to take the witness stand.

COMMITTEE VOTE FOR R. R. MERGER

Bill For Consolidation of New Haven and Boston and Maine

Boston, May 9.—The legislative committee on railroads unanimously voted to permit the New Haven and Boston and Maine railroads to consolidate.

The bill which the committee reports to the legislature provides that the consolidated railroads must spend $80,000,000 in improvements, building two tunnels and electrifying all the New Haven traffic within the Greater Boston district, all within five years.

The bill does not, as reported by the committee, provide for the establishment of the public utilities commission asked for by the governor.

The New Haven shall acquire two-thirds of the stock of the Boston and Maine.

Boston and Maine minority stockholders opposing the lease shall have the value of their shares adjudicated by the railroad commission.

The bill provides for the expenditure of $80,000,000 by the New Haven at the rate of $16,000,000 a year.

The electrification of all railroads within the metropolitan district; electrification to be completed within five years.

BOSTON WORLD'S FAIR

Urged by Board of Trade In New Hampshire

Exeter, N. H., May 9.—The New Hampshire board of trade, in session here, passed a resolution urging that a world's fair be held in Boston in 1920 to commemorate the 300th anniversary of the landing of the Pilgrims at Plymouth.

The board also endorsed the proposed extension of the grand Trunk across New Hampshire.

Homer Lea Returns Ill

San Francisco, May 9.—Partly paralyzed and almost blind, Lieutenant General Homer Lea, the American adventurer, who realized boyhood plans by becoming one of the leaders of the Chinese revolution, has arrived from China on the liner Shinyo Maru. He is accompanied by his wife and a personal representative of Dr. Sun Yat Sen. General Lea was carried from his stateroom to a carriage on a stretcher.

Swept Over Dam

Augusta, Me., May 9.—Several hundred factory hands stood helplessly by and watched Meno Klosa, 20, their fellow employe, swept over the dam in the Kennebec river to his death in the boiling waters below. The young Greek had been to dinner at his home on the west side of the river and was returning to his work in a boat, as had been his custom.

A CORROBORATION

Of Interest to Quincy Readers.

For months Quincy citizens have seen in these columns enthusiastic praise of Doan's Kidney Pills by residence of this locality.

Would these prominent people recommend a remedy that had not proven reliable?

Would they confirm their statements after years had elapsed if personal experience had not shown the remedy to be worthy of endorsement?

No stronger proof of merit can be had than cures that have stood the test of time.

The following statement should carry conviction to the mind of every Quincy reader.

John Callahan, 55 Prospect Street, Brockton, Mass., says: "I am pleased to recommend Doan's Kidney Pills, as I have been greatly benefited by their use. I was annoyed by a lame and aching back and my kidneys did not act regularly. I finally used Doan's Kidney Pills, and they gave me entire relief. I am glad to confirm the statement given in their praise by a member of my family in 1908."

For sale by all dealers. Price 50 cents. Foster-Milburn Co., Buffalo, New York, sole agents for the United States.

New Commission to Which Quincy Woman Was Appointed

TEXT OF BILL

The Ledger of Wednesday briefly noted the fact that Governor Foss had that morning appointed Mrs. Robert E. Park of Wollaston as a member of the Commission to study the question of the support of dependent minor children of widowed mothers. The bill which is known as Chapter No. 82 is entitled a Resolve to provide for the appointment of a commission to study the question of the support of dependent minor children of widowed mothers and reads as follows:—

Resolved: That the Governor with the advice and consent of the Council, shall, within thirty days after the passage of this resolve, appoint a commission of three persons, citizens of the Comonwealth, at least one of whom shall be a woman, to study and investigate the question of the condition of widowed mothers within the Commonwealth having minor children dependent upon them for support, and to report to the next general court, on or before the second Wednesday in January, as to the advisability of enacting legislation providing for payment by the Commonwealth for the purpose of maintaining such minor children in their homes, submitting with the report such drafts of bills, if any, as may be deemed admissible to carry the recommendations of the commission into effect. The commission shall serve without pay, but may expend such reasonable sums for travel and other expenses, not exceeding in the aggregate $1,000, as may be authorized by the Governor and Council.

The bill was approved April 7.

Representative Leslie was one of the Representatives who spoke on the floor of the House in favor of the bill.

TENNIS TEAM SCHEDULE

The matches for the Y. M. C. A. tennis team are as follows:

McArdle vs Bartlett.
LaRose vs Berrian.
Smith vs Miller.
McFarlane vs Corthell.
Beal vs Jenkins.
Hallowell vs. Childs.
Tourtelot vs Hoxie.
Blanchard vs Allstrom.

All these matches must be played before the 17th of June and probably will be played on the courts of the Quincy Tennis club.

LaRose and McArdle seem to be the most forward of the men at the present time and Blanchard and Hallowell have had more or less of the game at some time or other and from the outlook at the present time these men ought to get into the finals if any of the stars do.

TODAY'S COURT.

Frank J. Anderson who was defaulted in court Wednesday came into court this morning and explained that he misunderstood the date to which his case had been continued. The default was then removed.

Richard G. Badger was fined $20, George B. Sanborn $10, and Bernard Gilbert $15 for exceeding the automobile speed limit on the parkway.

William B. Locke was arraigned for robbery at Quinmy and was held in $300 until next Wednesday.

—The National Association for the Study and Prevention of Tuberculosis declares that a consumptive who exercises sufficient precautions in the disposal of his sputum need not be a menace to anyone. The association goes further, however, in saying that when a consumptive refuses to adopt the proper precautions necessary to prevent the spread of his disease, he should be forcibly isolated and segregated in a special hospital provided for the purpose.—Milford Mercury.

TWO CAR LOADS OF LIQUOR A DAY

Comparison has been made between Quincy and Brockton in regard to the granting of liquor permits. That is that while Brockton is a much larger city than Quincy but seven express liquor permits were granted, while Quincy granted nearly twenty. One of the grounds taken by the license committee of the City Council was that there would be just as much liquor transported to Quincy with half a dozen expressmen as with twenty and the granting of a few meant a monopoly.

It appears, from what reports the committee has been able to glean, that is just what has happened in Brockton, where the number of permits was limited, for one express company alone in that city has two car loads of liquor brought to Brockton every day by freight, the amount being more than the twenty Quincy expressmen bring for several weeks.

MRS. HANNAH GRADY.

The funeral of Mrs. Hannah Grady, wife of Michael Grady, of 17 Wilson street, took place from her late home this morning. A high mass of requiem was celebrated at 9 o'clock in St. Mary's Church by Rev. Fr. Henry T. Grady, the pastor. The regular choir under the direction of Mrs. Mary McKay Reardon furnished the Gregorian chant during the mass and burial was at St. Mary's Cemetery. A number of relatives and friends attended the funeral services. The deceased was one of the most widely known residents of the west section of the city.

LADIES' BENEVOLENT SOCIETY.

The annual meeting of the Ladies' Benevolent society of the Wollaston Congregational church was held in the vestries Wednesday afternoon with a large number of the members present. The following list of officers was elected for the ensuing year: President—Mrs. Mary T. Taylor, first vice—Mrs. A. E. Rhoades, second vice-Mrs. W. H. Streeter, secretary—Mrs. H. G. Kingman and treasurer—Mrs. George Fleming.

The annual reports of the treasurer, Mrs. E. R. Johnson and the secretary Mrs. H. G. Kingman were read. The society has made generous contributions to the various mission stations during the year besides doing a large amount of other benevolent work. It is in good financial standing and has a large number of members, Mrs. E. E. Smith reported for the cutting committee, Mrs. Mary T. Taylor presided.

Why Animals Fear Man.

The universal antipathy of animated nature for man can scarcely be explained as the teaching of experience. Man has played his role of universal meddler for too short a time to have impressed himself on the memory of each individual line. There must be something in his attitude of mind that communicates itself to them and induces its proper automatic reflex. The mouse that runs over the lion's foot and gnaws at his bone goes to earth like a flash when man comes near. The bee hangs in the air and then goes on because man stands by her favorite foxglove. Even the witless snake stirs in its sun smitten sleep and is moved by a feeling in the air to seek its den.—London Nation.

Bee Stings.

If stung by a bee rub off the sting instead of pulling it out with the nails of the thumb and forefinger and thus forcing more venom into the wound. Ammonia applied to the wound made by a bee sting will usually afford immediate relief.

FIRST AMERICAN FLAG.

Some Hitherto Unwritten History From Hull House.

HERE is a story that has come through from Chicago's Hull House. Miss Addams suggested to the children of Hull House that they write a play without the aid of the grownups. She gave them suggestions as to the necessity for a climax at the close of each act—a climax which would carry on the interest. They decided to write a play about "The First American Flag." The first act curtain went down on a group scene showing George Washington surrounded by his generals.

"Gee!" said General George Washington to his chiefs of staff, "ain't it fierce that we ain't got no flag?"

"Yes, George; it is fierce," they murmur sympathetically.

The curtain of the second act drops over a tableau in the camp at Valley Forge. General George Washington is discovered leaning on his sword in front of his tent, while a chill wind shakes its canvas. The faithful generals are also there, leaning on their swords.

"Gee!" said General Washington. "This is fierce. We ain't got no flag yet."

"That's right, George," his aids responded. "It sure is fierce that we ain't got no flag."

The third act curtain upon rising discloses a domestic scene. General George Washington, sword at side, is seated in a rocking chair in the home of Betsy Ross. Betsy is rocking to and fro on the other side of the stage, a baby in her arms.

"Gee, Mrs. Ross," said General George Washington, "ain't it fierce? We ain't got no flag!"

"That's right," said Betsy Ross softly. "It is fierce." Then, rising and crossing the stage toward General Washington, she adds:

"I'll tell you, George. I'll make a flag if you'll hold the baby."—Cincinnati Times-Star.

The greater a man is the more difficult he finds it to rest on his laurels without mussing them.—Puck.

Wayside Cookery.

Happy childhood that has not yet learned to be afraid of germs—or of appearances! No doubt Ned and Stephen could not guess why they were punished.

"I've just spanked Ned. I don't know what course you'll pursue with Stephen," remarked Mrs. Williams' intimate friend.

"What have the boys been up to now?" she apprehensively asked.

"About the very last thing you'd imagine. They've been eating luncheon with the Italian laborers working along the car track. And you might as well know the worst at once—they've been eating meat cooked in a shovel."

With the frantic vision of a hopelessly germ ridden child, Mrs. Williams called her son to immediate account.

"I didn't eat luncheon with any strange men!" he indignantly persisted. "Those men are all my dear friends. And I didn't eat any meat cooked in a shovel, either."

"What did you eat then?"

"Only some gravy cooked in a shovel by one of the men." Then seeing the alarm in his mother's face, "But it was clean, all right, mother, for I saw the man wipe off the shovel with his hat before he poured in the gravy."—Philadelphia Public Ledger.

REV. ELLERY C. BUTLER DEAD

Passed Away at 2.30 This Morning After Long Illness

HIS LIFE

Rev. Ellery Channing Butler, for eighteen years, the beloved pastor of the historic First Congregational society, passed away at his home on Russell park at 2.30 this morning, after an illness of nearly a year's duration.

Mr. Butler's health had been failing for some years, and at the annual meeting of the parish in March 1911, a letter was read from him, in which he tendered his resignation to take effect at the annual meeting this year. He continued to occupy the pulpit until June. At the last Sunday in June, after which the Sunday services were to be discontinued for the summer months, Rev. Mr. Butler occupied the pulpit, which was practically the completion of his seventeenth year as pastor. The following day he sustained a shock, since which time he has been confined to his home.

His life was at a low ebb for some months. Then he seemed to rally, and while there were no hopes of his ultimate recovery it was thought that his life might be spared, and that he would again be able to get about. During all these months of illness he has continued to take an interest in what was doing in the city and in the work of his parish.

There have been many touching incidents during his illness which touched his heart, notably the fact that after any social gathering at the church, a basket containing remembrances found its way to his home. But most of all however was his re-appointment by Mayor Stone as a member of the Board of Trustees of the Thomas Crane Pub-

HOW HEALTH IS BEING GUARDED

Chairman Teasdale Addresses Ward 4 Association

OTHER BUSINESS

A large number of members of the Ward Four Improvement Association listened to a very interesting discourse on "The Board of Health Department of Quincy," delivered in St. Jean's hall, West Quincy, Thursday evening by William H. Teasdale, chairman of the Board of Health. Mr. Teasdale handled his subject in a most able manner and brought out many points that added greatly to the success of the occasion.

In the course of his remarks, Mr. Teasdale outlined the duties and obligations that were incumbent upon the members of the Board in the proper transaction of affairs dealing with that department. He told of the different things required by law and of the great precautions that must be used in specific cases. He spoke of the benefits that are bound to accrue in the event of the adoption of such means as will make for the general advancement of sanitary conditions in this city.

He cited a number of cases of a diverse nature and told of the care that must be exercised in dealing with all in a most impartial manner. He was roundly applauded at the conclusion of his remarks and was given a vote of thanks for his acceptance to address those present at the smoke talk.

The remainder of the evening was devoted to a discussion of various things affecting the interests of the West Quincy district and to the transaction of routine business. A communication was read from the Railway Commissioners, stating that they

SMOKE TALK OF THE MOOSE

Four Hundred Members at Third Event of Its Kind

PLEASING PROGRAM

Fully four hundred members of Quincy Lodge, Loyal order of Moose, were present at the third smoke talk, Thursday evening in Faxon hall. No efforts had been spared by the committee in charge to make the occasion the best yet and no one could be found at the close of the program who did not agree that it was up to expectations. It was the most successful event ever held by the local lodge.

The talent was of the best, every contributor meriting the applause accorded. Several numbers proved such decided hits that the audience by repeated encores secured many responses. Matthew Fay, with his whistling solos, acquitted himself in his usual brilliant style and was the recipient of prolonged applause. A song by George Boutilier, accompanied by Frank Boutilier was received with great favor and he responded a second time. Fred McDonald entertained in his usual inimitable way and receiving loud applause.

A wrestling match by Samuel Anderson, middleweight champion of the world and Gustave Anderson, of this city, proved a great attraction for fifteen minutes. The champion stated at the outset that he would throw his opponent in that length of time, but on failure to do so, announced at the conclusion of the bout that he would like to challenge his opponent again and added that if more time were alloted, he would guarantee to get a fall. Both wrestlers were loudly applauded for their remarkable exhibition. Physical Director Fabian of the Clapp Memorial, Weymouth, officiated as referee.

Miss Grace Durfee gave a number of selections that kept her before the audience for a long time. Francis and Crawford proved a great attraction with their sketch and showed themselves to be artists of the first class order.

Campbell and Clark also won loud applause and kept those present in a state of laughter, while they were performing. Hawley and Smith accredited themselves to great satisfaction and were given rounds of applause.

Miss Gertrude Carlyle was kept busy responding to repeated encores and captvated the entire audience. Peter McNally, the world renowned swimmer, closed a program that bids fair to be remembered for many a day. The accompanist at the piano was Miss Blanche Hewston, who deserves much commendation for the efficient manner in which she played for every number.

Frank W. Sampson, was master of ceremonies and proved himself an announcer of no mean ability.

The entertainment committee comprised Carl W. Wexler, chairman, Joseph Hulter, treasurer, Walter F. Carman, secretary, assisted by the following committee of arrangements: Ernest Wilding, Henry Biganess, Richard Buckley, Silas Perkins, Isaac Sussman, Samuel Cashman, John Crotty, Edward Killin, James Ross, William Ellis, Henry Johnson, J. William Johnson, Benjamin Leavitt, Albert Jardine, Herbert Seldon, John Heffernan, Albert Bean, Chester Wright and Charles McCoombs.

THE LABORERS' PENSION ACT

Will Be Submitted to Voters at Next City Election

FULL TEXT

The voters of Quincy will be given an opportunity to extend the pension system to the laborers employed by the city, at the next city election, in accordance with chapter 503 of the revised laws, enacted by this year's legislature. This is one of the most sweeping acts relative to the application of the pension system yet devised by any legislature, and undoubtedly it will be made the subject of very earnest endeavor on the part of organized labor and the laboring people that it may be accepted locally. The act provides for the retirement of laborers working for the city, after twenty-five years of service, providing they have become incapacitated mentally or physically. Those laborers who are 65 years of age and have worked for the city 25 years, will be allowed to retire on half pay even though their health and faculties are unimpaired.

In most of the cities of the Commonwealth some or all of the provisions of this act have been put in force by special ordinance, but under the act any city or town accepting the same by popular vote will be relieved of the necessity for these special ordinances. The full text of the act is as follows:

Section 1. Any laborer in the employ of a city or town which accepts this act who has reached the age of 60 years and has been in such employ for a period of not less than 25 years, and has become incapacitated for labor may at his request (and with the approval of the mayor in cities and of the board of selectmen, in towns) be retired from service, and if so retired he shall receive from the city or town, for the remainder of his life, an annual pension equal to one half of the average annual compensation paid to him as a laborer during the two years next prior to his retirement. Any laborer in the employ of such city or town who has reached the age of 65 years shall be retired from service and shall receive from the city or town an annual pension computed in the manner above set forth.

Section 2. This act shall be submitted to the voters of each of the cities and towns of the Commonwealth at the next annual state election for their acceptance or rejection and shall take effect in any city or town upon its acceptance by a majority of the voters of such city or town voting thereon.

Section 3. Not less than two weeks and not more than four weeks before the election at which this act shall be submitted to the voters, the city clerk shall cause to be mailed to each of the registered voters in his city a copy of this act, together with the statement that it is to be submitted to the voters at the coming election.

Section 4. This act shall not apply to the city of Boston.

The act became a law on April 16, although it was not signed by Governor Foss. Neither did the chief executive veto it, but simply allowed it to lay on his table for five days after it was presented to him. By a technicality of the constitution of the State, any measure which passes through the legislature and is presented to the Governor for his approval or objection, and which is not signed or returned to the legislature by him within five days after presentation, becomes a law.

Whether or not this becomes a law in Quincy it will entail an expense of about $125 for postage alone on the letters notifying the voters of the act, as prescribed in Section 3 above. An additional expenditure will be necessary for printing, clerk hire and stationery, but it is felt that it is an important piece of legislation, and that it will be made a feature of the next election.

CATHOLIC CLUB DANCING PARTY

Alpha hall was the scene Thursday evening of a most unique and charming function, the occasion being the annual May party of the Quincy Catholic club. The affair was largely attended and pronounced the most successful yet held by the organization. Potted plants and ferns added to the beauty of the decorations which with the scenic effect of the stage, made the hall most attractive. Fully three hundred were in attendance. Many city officials and representative citizens were present, noticeable among whom were Rev. Fr. John J. Casey and Rev. Patrick J. Scannell of St. John's church, Hon. William T. Shea, Counilman John J. Mahoney and Councilman Harry T. Boyd.

Music was by Wilson's orchestra and there were eighteen regular numbers and four extras, on the program, all of which were encored. The special feature was the ninth number, the German Favor, executed in a manner similar to a grand march and led by Grand Knight Edward D. Barrett and Mrs. Barrett, in turn were followed by about one hundred couples. Six young ladies distributed the favors. The gentlemen received caps which were worn while the number was in progress and the ladies paper carnations. The number was a decided success and carried out to perfection.

The following young ladies distributed the favors, Misses Agnes Reardu, Lillian McDonald, Emily Dinegan, Anna Heenan, Stella Brown and Carmel Brogan.

The floor was in charge of Edward D. Barrett, who was ably assisted by the following ushers: Joseph A. Dasha, Charles C. Hearn, Daniel J. Deasy, Thomas J. Dunphy, Robert E. Foy, John W. Walsh, John A. McGowan, Lawrence W. Lyons, Dr. C. J. Lynch, Dr. Daniel B. Reardon, John J. Cunniff, Dr. J. W. Maloney, John J. Deasy, Harry McGrath, Edward J. Murphy, Dr. George B. Sheahan, John Malone, J. J. Reardon, Leo J. McMaster, Martin E. Cook, William A. Carey, Michael T. Walsh, Dr. Joseph Harkins, T. Byron Brown, John J. Heaney, William J. Walsh, J. W. Lynch and Leo Ford.

PATRIOTIC ASSOCIATION.

A meeting of the Ward Six Patriotic Association was held Thursday evening at the home of Frank E. Badger, Clive street, to incorporate the association. The meeting was a very enthusiastic one, the ward being well represented. The constitution and by-laws were unanimously adopted, and the following officers elected for the ensuing year:—

President—Frank E. Badger.

Vice President—Louis F. R. Langelier.

Secretary—Herbert G. Beeman.

Treasurer—Charles E. Cherrington.

Board of Directors, the above named officers and Josiah C. Fulier, James Thomas, James Smith, William L. Buckley and Joseph P. Clarke.

It is planned to have the best celebration this year that Ward Six has ever had. The meeting adjourned, subject to the call of the chair.

The "Pre-darned" Sock

Socks are bound to wear out. The real question is: How long from the first wear to the first darn.

It's easy enough to make coarse, thick socks that will wear. But to make light, sheer socks that will wear is another matter.

Interwoven Socks are as light and sheer as the finest socks you ever saw; yet they wear.

They are wear-proofed at every wear-point---toe, heel, sole, and ankle---with the most durable knit fabric known.

That is, Interwoven Socks are darned before you buy them.

Machines of almost human intelligence do this pre-darning.

They do it so ingeniously that the entire foot of an Interwoven Sock is as smooth, soft, and fine as it is wear-resisting.

The machines not only properly pre-darn Interwoven Socks, but also give them the ankle hug, without a seam to give 'way or hurt the feet.

HONESTY IN EVERYTHING

The imprecatory psalms sound feeble compared with the political speeches.

The politicians are mighty and will prevail when there isn't any better news to print.

Whenever there is nothing else to do in New York they investigate Harry Thaw's insanity.

Arthur Howells advises young men not to write for money. Well it rather depends on whom you are writing to, doesn't it, boys?

Newspaper men will ever cherish the thought that those precepts of fidelity and honor, which Archie Butt so nobly followed in the army he first learned as a reporter.

Just as we had almost forgotten about it, the announcement comes from Washington that there is to be a vigorous probe of the money trust. When?

They are trying to put the consular service on the merit system. The proper basis of course will be the number of delegates captured for successful politicians.

President Baer says that "in the long run the public must pay" if the miners' wages are raised. That is some confession on his part. Usually he makes the public ante up Johnny-on-the-spot.

Col. Green—he is the son of the richest woman in America gives out the information that he has received 1,000 proposals of marriage, and he is getting tired of the rush. Still it isn't anything to the worry he would have if he accepted all of them.

Is the manure at stables in your vicinity always covered and ventilated as the Board of Health requires? Here and in open vaults and in garbage from overturned or leaky garbage pails do flies feed before they are found on your food, on the babies, milk nursing bottles and nipples, even on its mouth. Do you wonder that all of us, the babies in particular have diarrhoeal diseases in the season of flies?

POLITICAL BITTERNESS.

These are harassing days for the Man of Peace, who has opinions of his own, but respects the sincerity of his neighbors.

If he so much as alludes to the present political strife by remarking that he hopes some good man will be elected president next November, his neighbors remark that his favorite candidate is "Fossilized," or an "Anarchist," or a "Lunatic."

In order to make it clear that he is not quite ready for the Asylum for the Feeble Minded, the Man of Peace must then hand over some hot ones. He begins to pound on his desk, the clerks snicker as they hear the voices ascend five full musical tones, passers-by turn their heads to see.

It is not necessarily true, if you speak tolerantly to your neighbor, that you lack power and force. We have just been re-reading that matchless human interest story, the "Autobiography of Benjamin Franklin," greatest of all printers, and have been interested to see the contrast between his courtly graciousness, and the bluff bluntness of our times.

It was one of Ben Franklin's principles in argument, not to say that a certain thing is so, but "I conceive, I apprehend, or I imagine a thing to be so or so" or "it so appears to me at present."

Franklin goes on to say that "The modest way in which I proposed my opinions procured them readier reception and less contradiction."

And yet with all this modesty Franklin probably made a greater impression on the nations of Europe than any other American. Washington did the fighting, but it was Franklin who accomplished the perhaps greater task of persuading the Shylocks of Europe to give up their gold on the visionary security of a bush republic.

The courtly manners of his school are gone by and are out of date. But it still remains true that if you want to persuade any one to do anything, or to accept any political belief, you must find some common ground of tolerance and mutual respect for other people's convictions.

HOMER DAVENPORT AND CARTOONING.

Homer Davenport, who died a few days ago, once declined $30,000 a year offer to draw cartoons for a newspaper. Don't tell that to your boy who wants to be a newspaper artist! The mere fact that he can draw likenesses that are vaguely recognizable is no sign that he can succeed in this most difficult path of journalism.

Many young men with ambitions for artist life are fluttering around the newspaper offices nowadays with productions of their dubious genius. If they would devote themselves to drawing buildings and bridges and wall paper, they could support families. But put them to satirizing Taft and Teddy and Champ Clark, and they are hopelessly beyond their depth.

You may not like Homer Davenport's politics, but you must admire his wonderful ability to make every stroke of a pencil tell a story or preach a creed.

Take his famous picture of Uncle Sam being robbed by the railroads. Observe his wonderful gift for setting out contrasts, so that one figure emphasizes the strength or weakness of the other. Uncle Sam is a clerk-like looking personage, who looks as if he lived in-doors, did not get enough fresh air, never exercised his muscles, and had no flesh on his bones.

This frailty by contrast emphasized the artist's conception of the railroads, as brutal figures, with swelling biceps, thick lips, pillar-like legs, bull neck. The little mail carrier in the background bending under his load still further pictured the conception of Uncle Sam and his servants as powerless in the grip of titanic forces.

One of the greatest secrets of good cartooning is the power to take a man's physical peculiarities and link them up with some fault or charge against him. One of the finest instances of that was in the case of Ben Butler. Butler never cared a hang about the torrents of invective showered on him. He rather liked it. It testified to his prowess.

Then one day an artist came along, and twisted Butler's famous cock eye into the form of a spoon, referring to the old story of his confiscating spoons at New Orleans. The trick spread all over the country, and was said to have stirred Butler more than all the invectives in the dictionary.

His Good Qualities.

"I hear your daughter is to be married to young Midgeley."

"Yes. They've decided to have the wedding in June."

"I think I heard you say once that you would rather follow a daughter of yours to her grave than see her become the wife of that fellow."

"Oh, well, that was before I had found out about his good qualities. He showed me how to quit slicing my drive."—Chicago Record-Herald.

lic library upon which he has served for many years. He greatly appreciated the honor that had thus been conferred upon him and the visit, of the then City Clerk McGilvray, to his home for the purpose of administering his oath of acceptance of the office was especially pleasing. Since that time several meetings of the Board of Trustees have been held at his home.

A few days ago it was again noticed that his health was failing and last Saturday he sustained a second shock, from which he did not rally. He continued to fail rapidly until 2.30 this morning when he passed away.

Rev. Ellery Channing Butler was born in the beautiful village of Cooperstown, N. Y., the scene of the famous Cooper novels. The early part of his life was spent in wandering over the hills and valleys of those famous Indian hunting grounds, and he became intimately acquainted with them and the head waters of the Susquehanna river, and there from comes his fondness for field sports and walking through the woods a habit that he has always followed. It was his daily custom when weather permitted, and it had to be a bad day to prevent, to take a long walk through Merrymount park and along the shore front.

His early education was obtained from the schools of his native place, fitting for college in the academy there. He then entered Antioch college in the southern part of Ohio, and was a student there at the same time as was the late City Clerk Keith. It was here that these two formed an early acquaintanceship that lasted through life.

On leaving college he taught school for some years afterward entering the theological school at Meadville, Pa., from which he graduated in June, 1869. Immediately after graduating he accepted a pastorate at Fairhaven, Mass., where he remained for three years.

On invitation of Prof. E. J. Young, then of Harvard college he went to Beverly to supply the pulpit of the First parish church. It was his first visit to that town but the parish immediately gave a call and he accepted beginning his pastorate in 1872.

He remained there until 1894 when he received a call from the First church in Quincy which he accepted. The first church was then without a pastor, Rev. Daniel Munroe Wilson having resigned in 1892.

Rev. Mr. Butler was installed as pastor of the church June 5, 1894 and the event was a notable one in the history of the church, such well-known Unitarian clergymen taking part in the exercises as Rev. Charles T. Billings, Rev. Paul Revere Frothingham, Rev. Edward A. Horton, Rev. James DeNormandie, Rev. John W. Day, Rev. Daniel M. Wilson and Rev. James E. Bagley. The welcome to the city was given by Rev. Edward Norton the then pastor of the Bethany church.

As pastor of the First church Mr. Butler became chairman of the board of managers of the Woodward Institute which position he has since held. He has also been for many years one of the trustees of the Thomas Crane Public Library.

During all his years in Quincy the utmost harmony of relations has prevailed between Mr. Butler and his parish which has steadily progressed.

Mr. Butler married soon after going to Fairhaven, his wife being a sister of Pres. Cary of the Meadville Theological school. She was a daughter of the late William H. Cary of Medway. They had one son who died some years ago. The death of his only son was a severe blow to Mr. Butler.

Mr. Butler was affiliated with the Masonic fraternity, Royal Arcanum and Quincy Historical society. He was also at one time chaplain of the second corps of cadets.

AFTER ARCHBALD

The Investigation Gives Material to Those Favoring Power of Recall

Washington, May 10.—Satisfied from the disclosures so far that a most thorough investigation had been made of Judge Robert W. Archbald's entire judicial career, the house judiciary committee took a recess yesterday in order to go over all the papers and evidence submitted by President Taft.

The committee will meet again this afternoon with the expectation of continuing its sessions daily until all the evidence is in.

Meanwhile Edward J. (Option) Williams, Archbald's alleged partner in the culm coal deals, is detained, practically under arrest, in care of the sergeant-at-arms. Only a part of Archbald's business deals with Williams have been bared, it was understood. Today the committee expects to sound them a... out. Several undisclosed transactions, said to involve Archbald, will be probed.

That the department of justice is not aiding Archbald became evident when Ridgley Brown, a special agent of the attorney general, was called to assist the committee. Brown is acting apparently as advisory counsel for the "investigation." He made the investigation at Scranton and other cities in Pennsylvania, securing phototographic copies of important letters, coal contracts and other documents, upon which the inquiry is based.

Advocates of the recall of judges are finding much capital in the Archbald affair, believing it is furnishing explosive ammunition for their propaganda, illustrating the difficulties in removing a judge by protracted "investigations," and long delayed discussion in congress before a trial is reached in the senate.

STEEL COMPANY INJUNCTION DENIED

Court Gives Trust Benefit of the Doubt

Trenton, N. J., May 10.—The application in the United States district court here for an injunction to restrain the United States Steel corporation and a number of its subsidiary concerns from the destruction of books and papers which might be used in evidence in the suit of the government for the dissolution of the steel corporation was dismissed in a per curiam opinion filed by Judges Gray, Buffington and McPherson, except as to the American Steel and Wire company, one of the steel corporation's subsidiary concerns.

The opinion then goes on to say that it is not shown that the other defendants were in any respect connected with its acts and that without evidence the court cannot grant the present petition. The petition is, therefore, refused except as to the American Steel and Wire company, but the government is given permission to renew the petition if at any time counsel shall deem such a step as necessary or desirable.

Evidence as to How the Meat Inspection Law Is Nullified—Department Lowered Inspection Standards—Furnishes Members of Committee With Humorous but Positive Evidence—Packing House Interests Take a Back Seat

Washington, May 10.—Rev. Caroline B. Crane of Michigan told the house committee on expenditures in the agricultural department how, in her opinion, the meat inspection law was vitiated by regulations made by the bureau of animal industry in the department of agriculture. Mrs. Crane resented the suggestion that she charged a conspiracy between the beef trust and the department of agriculture. She said she was simply trying to show how the regulations by the department lowered the requirements of meat inspection established by law, and to show the possibility of fraud and deception by the packers. Her only contention was that under the regulations it was possible for the packers to defraud the people and that these same regulations reduce the protection of the public afforded by the law.

"Here is an object lesson," said Mrs. Crane, producing a lard can embellished with the label of a well-known packing house. Attached to the label was the legend "Inspected by the United States Department of Agriculture and Passed." Inside the lard can was the government seal. Quickly breaking the seal, Mrs. Crane exhibited the "lard." It proved to be a couple of pounds of brown taffy done up in tissue paper. When the laughter had subsided Mrs. Crane passed the candy around and remarked that her object lesson showed how easy it would be to pass a can of lard to the consumer with the government's guarantee on the label, although it meant absolutely nothing.

Representatives in Washington of the live stock interests, who at first were striving to head of an inquiry, have at last decided that it is better that the facts should come out. The attiude of the department is illustrated by the fact that Solicitor McCabe attends the hearings regularly, takes notes thereon, and that from the department he issues daily a press statement giving its news story of recent events. It is thought that the White House has ordered the publication of these bulletins.

FLOODED SECTIONS SAFER

Three Days Without Rain Brings Some Relief

New Roads, La., May 10.—By tearing away 1400 feet of the south end of the Torras crevasse, a wall of water from eight to ten feet deep and a half mile in width is bearing down upon the already overflowed area of Pointe Coupee, St. Landry and several other parishes to complete its work of ruin.

New Roads, heretofore considered practically safe from the Torras flood, is rapidly becoming inundated. Boats are being built and other preparations made by the townspeople for a hurried exit.

This section of the parish being thickly populated much rescue work will be required. Motor boats and skiffs are being concentrated here by the government representatives. In some instances the officers confiscated boats and are holding them in readiness.

Farmers, driving their livestock in advance of the flood, arrived here yesterday from the country around Fordoche. They report hundreds of people are marooned in their homes in that vicinity who are in urgent need of relief. Motorboats were unable to reach that district yesterday.

Looters in skiffs are reported to be reaping a rich harvest.

Over 1000 refugees have passed through New Roads during the last twenty-four hours. All of them tell the same story of hardship, misery and suffering. Most of them have been rendered penniless.

New Orleans, May 10.—More sunshine and three days' absence of rain in the lower Mississippi valley have served to bring about marked improvements in flood conditions in this district. The task of providing for the flood refugees continues. A freight train load of clothing, shoes, medicin and supplies left New Orleans for the refugees' camp at Opelousas, Lafayette, Rayne and other towns.

Zapatistas Offered Amnesty

Mexico City, May 10.—Amnesty has been offered to the rebels in the south in view of the approach of the time to plant the crops. A proclamation has been circulated through the towns of Morelos and of Puebla urging the followers of Zapata to lay down their arms and offering a 40 percent reduction in land rentals to those who return to their homes.

AMUSEMENTS

DOINGS ON THE STAGE OF

LOCAL AND BOSTON THEATRES

BOSTON THEATRE.

Everybody is talking about the wonderful success of Julian Eltings in "The Fascinating Widow" at the Boston Theatre. The name of Eltings is a household word in this city, where the famous young actor was born and reared until he went forth to claim the attention of the theatre-going world. He returned crowned with his well-earned success to the Boston Theatre and his welcome must have made his heart beat the quicker, for the reception accorded him proved the undeniable and marvelous hold he maintains on the affections of his admirers in this city. We cannot praise the artistic accomplishments of this young man too highly. All the flattering things which could be said of his wonderful impersonations of the feminine sex would require columns of space. It suffices to know that he stands supreme and unrivalled in this line of endeavor.

To display Elting's artistry to its best effect, "The Fascinating Widow" could not be improved upon as a vehicle. It permits the famous A. H. Woods' star to introduce his delightful specialties, and at the same time demonstrate his cleverness as a straight light comedian of the William Collier type in the early scenes. The supporting cast is remarkably good.

A word must be said of Elting's "widow" gowns. They are without doubt the most beautiful products of the modiste's art ever exhibited and well worth going a great distance to see.

B. F. KEITH'S.

Zelda Sears, the late star of "The Nest Egg," Harriet Burt, the prima donna of "The Time, The Place, and The Girl;" Trovato, the Filipino violinist; and the Charles Ahearn Troupe of cyclists, will be among the principle features of a great all-star bill announced for next week at B. F. Keith's Theatre. For her vaudeville engagement Miss Sears has secured one of the funniest and most original comedies ever written. It is entitled "The Wardrobe Woman," and deals with the life behind the scenes in a small one-night stand theatre in the far West. The show has 'busted up' to use the slang expression, and the company is stranded without a cent to pay for their next meal. In the person of the tough property man of the troupe, Miss Sears has a splendid foil for her peculiar type of humor, and her impersonation of the illiterate but witty wardrobe mistress is a real gem. Harriet Burt has not appeared in Boston in several years. She brings a number of new and novel songs and dances. Trovato, the crazy violinist, will be another great feature. J. Waldo Connolly and Margaret Webb will present their surprise finish, "A Stormy Hour; and Sampson and Reilly are known as "The Fashion Plate Entertainers."

HOLLIS STREET THEATRE.

Frances Starr has added to her glory as an actress and David Belasco to his fame as a producer by the new Edward Locke play, "The Case of Becky," which will open its last week at the Hollis Monday night. Mr. Belasco has certainly found a play different from anything he has produced, and Miss Starr a role that few actresses would dare attempt. That Miss Starr has scored a sensational success in Boston in this difficult part is an evidence of her lasting claim to be one of the greatest emotional actresses. She endows the chief role in "The Case of Becky," with great charm and girlishness, and with wonderful artistry. Her's is the difficult task of representing two different characters embodied in one person—a role of dual personality.

As Dorothy, Miss Starr is lo able, intellectual, refined, pure-minded and good; in her other personality, which is the Becky principle in her, she is cunning, mischievous and vicious, hating Dorothy with an intense hatred, always, playing tricks upon her, in short, doing all she can to humiliate and hurt her. The play is one of great power. There are times when every man and woman in the audience longs for an opportunity to choke Belzamo, the hypnotist; other times when the emotions are overwhelmed by the seemingly utter hopelessnes of Dorothy's situation, under the baneful influence of her foster father.

CASTLE SQUARE THEATRE.

The public has taken to "Seven Days," and consequently John Craig announces it for a second and positively last week at the Castle Square, beginning next Monday. There is no doubt of its persistent humor. Audience after audience has laughed at it during the past week, and still there is a greater and greater demand to see it. The playgoer who enjoys it once is certain to want to see it and its hilarious scenes again. For three acts "Seven Days" continues its series of unbroken comic events: All of its scenes are filled to overflowing with humor and wholesome comicality, and the critic who said the "Seven Days" is the funniest farce ever written was not far from the mark.

They are all real characters in "Seven Days," and they are all acted at the Castle Square as if they were real people. During the coming week, the cast will be unchanged, with John Craig, George Hassel, Donald Meek, Mabel Colcord and Mary Young in the leading roles.

CONTROLS ALL VAUDEVILLE.

B. F. Keith has purchased the Percy G. Williams' circuit, composed of the eight largest and finest high-class vaudeville theatres in New York City, and by the consummation of a deal with Meyerfeld & Beck of the Orpheum circuit, Mrs. C. E. Kohl, of Chicago, and Max Anderson of New York, has clarified the vaudeville situation and brought about the biggest amalgamation of interests ever known in the theatrical world. It involves millions of dollars, and by the purchase of interests in each others houses East and West, practically makes a gigantic combination of all the high-class vaudeville theatres in America. In Chicago, it will be under the direction of Mrs. C. E. Kohl, Max Anderson, and the Munroe Amusement Company, who were associated with Mr. Keith in the original purchase of the Percy G. Williams' circuit. West of Chicago, the Orpheum circuit, under the direction of Morris Meyerfeld, Jr., and Martin Beck, will have control. This is the closest amalgamation of interests that has ever been attained by vaudeville managers in this country. The bookings of both the great B. F. Keith circuit and the Orpheum circuit, reaching from Maine and California, will all be done together in the Putnam building, Times square, New York City. It is stated that even a more liberal policy will be adopted in the character of the performances.

Tragedy of the Stage.

An elderly actor said in despair to a theatrical agent one day:

"Is there nothing you can do for me? I've hung around your office, out of work, for eight months now."

The agent as he polished his diamond ring with his red silk handkerchief answered thoughtfully:

"Look here! Bring yourself up to date. The turkey trot is all the go. You train some animal or bird to do the turkey trot with you, and I'll get you on one of the circuits at a three figure salary."

The old actor thanked the agent gratefully. He bought an ostrich from a retired circus man, and after a lot of hard work he taught the bird to turkey trot with him splendidly. Then he reported himself to the agent again.

But the agent, for all his promises, had nothing to offer. The poor fellow turned up every day for awhile, then every other day, then every third day, but there was nothing doing, and at last a week went by without his appearance at the agent's office.

Then the agent sent for him and said:

"Well, I've fixed you up at last. I've booked you for that turn of yours at"— But the old actor interrupted sadly:

"It's too late now," he said.

"Too late? How is it too late?" said the agent, frowning.

"I've had to eat my partner!" muttered the old actor.—St. Louis Globe-Democrat.

Water at Meals.

There is a very popular fallacy abroad—namely, that a person should never drink water with his meals. There is one and only one danger in this. That is the temptation to wash down half masticated food with water. There is one distinct advantage in the digestion of food when water is taken with the meals. As food is swallowed it goes to the stomach in a lump about the consistency of a bread dressing. One can see that it requires a great length of time for the digestive juices to penetrate the mass and come in contact with the food particles. If the food is diluted with water the digestive juices can easily have access to it. In this and in other ways water keeps the digestive tract clean. If people drank enough water there would be no operations for appendicitis.—Kansas Industrialist.

COMING EVENTS CALENDAR.

Under this heading will be published forthcoming entertainments in the city. A one-line announcement will be inserted free of charge, but if any committee desires more publicity as to place, hour, date, admission, etc., it will be inserted at 25 cents per line each insertion. Look the list over, and if your entertainment is not included, send it in.

THOMAS O'CONNOR.

A large gathering of relatives and friends attended the funeral of Thomas O'Connor, one of the city's most widely known and highly respected citizens, which took place from his late home, 24 Wesson avenue, this morning. A high mass of requiem was celebrated in St. Mary's church at nine o'clock by Rev. F. William J. Duffy. The regular choir, under the direction of organist Mrs. Mary McKay Reardon.

Burial was at St. Mary's cemetery. The deceased was in his 70th year and had been ill with pneumonia for a few weeks before he died. He was one of the oldest residents of the city and was employed on the Metropolitan Park Reservation for a long time. He is survived by his wife and two sons, Stephen and Thomas J., both of whom are connected with the Metropolitan police.

Mother of Dorr In East

Boston, May 10.—The mother of William A. Dorr, accused of the murder of George E. Marsh of Lynn, is in or near Boston, and is making arrangements to defend her son.

CONFEDERATE VETERANS

Annual Gathering Accepts Invitation to Join G. A. R. at Gettysburg

Macon, Ga., May 10.—Colonel Bennett P. Young of Louisville, Ky., commander of the Army of Tennessee, was elected commander-in-chief of the United Confederate Veterans. It was Colonel Young over whom a controversy raged three years ago at the time of the Champlain tercentenary that the Confederate veteran led the raid from Canada against the city of St. Albans, Vt.

The veterans accepted an invitation to join with the Grand Army of the Republic the semi-centennial in 1913 celebration of the Battle of Getysburg. The invitation came in a letter from General Trimble, commander-in-chief of the G. A. R. This decision was reachel after the committee on resolutions had unanimously advised the organization to decline the invitation.

As soon as the committee reported a storm broke forth in the auditorium. Veteran after vetran denounced the report of the committee and declared it would be a disgrace for southern veterans to refuse to meet the northern veterans.

Chattanooga, Tenn., was chosen as the next convention city.

REBEL PRES. PRISONER

United States Receives Word That Gomez Is Held

Washington, May 10.—Emilio V. Gomez is held a prisoner in the customs house in Juarez, according to advices to the state department. A heavy guard has been thrown around the building.

The department is further advised that Orozco probably will not confirm Gomez as president. The reports indicate the rebels have been defeated in the mountain pass El Purto Del Carmon, between Monclova and Cuatro Cienegas, Coahuila.

ABOLISH COMMERCE COURT

This Is the Tribunal In Which Judge Archbold Presided

Washington, May 10.—The house voted, 120 to 49, to abolish the United States court of commerce, many Republicans voting with the Democrats.

The commerce court has been under fire since its first decision, reversing the interstate commerce commission. The opposition to the new federal tribunal has been based on the charge that its existence has nullified to a large extent the power of the commission over the railways and that it has consistently favored the latter in all litigation.

POSTAL DEPOSITS OF MILLIONS

Analysis Shows Three-Fifths of Accounts Are Steady

Washington, May 10.—Funds on deposit in 7163 postal savings banks on March 31 last aggregated $16,200,000, according to statistics made public here by Postmaster General Hitchcock. Of this amount $6,437,641 was on deposit in thirty-two cities. each having a population of more than 150,000.

Great differences appear among various cities with respect to rank in population and rank in postal deposits. Portland, Ore., twenty-eighth in population, is third in deposits; St. Paul, twenty-sixth in population, is fourth in deposits; San Francisco is eleventh in size and fifth in deposits; Cincinnati is thirteenth in size and sixth in deposts; Philadelphia third in size and eleventh in deposits; Baltimore seventh in size and twenty-eighth in deposits, and St. Louis fourth in size and tenth in deposits.

An analysis of the figures for the number of accounts opened to date and of the number remaining open on March 31, shows that in every city three-fifths or more of the accounts opened still remain open.

PORT OF BOSTON

Makes Welcome a Gulf and Panama Steamship Line

Boston, Ma 10.—The state senate by an unanimous vote and without debate adopted an order inviting the Southern Pacific Railroad company to establish a steamship line from Boston to Texas and Gulf ports.

Both branches of the legislature and the city council of Boston have now gone on record in favor of the extension of the Southern Pacific Railroad company's lines to this port.

Drowns In Glen Lake

Rutland, Vt., May 10.—William Carvey, 18 years old, was drowned, and his older brother, Thomas, and George and Thomas Kelly barely escaped a similar fate when a rowboat which they were paddling capsized on Glenn lake in West Castleton.

Gary to Have a Rival

Chicago, May 10.—A large steel plant to cost approximately $11,000,000 and to employ about 5000 hands is to be built at Hammond, Ind., by a syndicate of Milwaukee capitalists headed by Ferdinand Schlessinger on a tract of 415 acres within the limits of the city, the purchase of which was closed yesterday.

DORR'S CONDITION QUITE SERIOUS

Remains In His Berth During Trip to Chicago

Chicago, May 10.—William A. Dorr, alleged murderer of George E. Marsh, the wealthy soap manufacturer of Lynn, Mass., is seriously ill aboard the train speeding from Stockton, Cal., according to a dispatch from Inspector Kane from Omaha, Neb. Dorr has given the officers no trouble since leaving Stockton. He has remained in bed nearly the entire time.

Despite the efforts of the trained nurse, Miss Florence Thomas, who is making the trip with Dorr, he has become seriously ill. Inspector Kane said: "Dorr appears like one insane."

Dorr arrived in Chicago this morning at 8:30.

Inspectors Burckes and Kane have made arrangements by wire to leave here this forenoon over the Lake Shore for Boston.

They expect, if Dorr is able to stand the ride without stopping, to reach Boston Saturday afternoon and Lynn by 6 o'clock.

Coatesville Has Lynching Fever

Coatesville, Pa., May 10.—Posses of citizens, armed with every style of weapon and with minds inflamed to the lynching point, are searching for the negro who caught 17-year-old Lillian Hassen by the throat within a few blocks of her home, and was only prevented from assaulting her when she tore herself from his grasp and ran to the home of a relative.

POLITICAL "AD" NOT ILLEGAL

The effort to stop political advertising in newspapers by the legislature was defeated Thursday in the House. The Committee on Election Laws voted leave to withdraw. An effort was made to substitute a new bill, that varied but little from the original bill, Thursday an effort was made to strike from the new bill the clause which made newspaper advertising permissible. This was carried on a yea and nay vote 136 to 75 both Representatives Piper and Leslie voting yes.

At the afternoon session the House by a vote of 103 yes and 109 nay refused to accept the substitute bill after which the adverse report of the Committee on Election Laws was accepted. A motion to reconsider this vote was also lost by 88 yes and 119 no.

HOLDS RICHESOH IRRESPONSIBLE

Opinion of Dr. J. H. Coriat After Examination

REPORT IN GOVERNOR'S HANDS

Recognizes Right and Wrong—Diseased Nature Forced Wicked Actions—Story of Jail Interview and Examination—Richeson Was Not Truthful In Conversation—Case Will Probably Go to Executive Council

Boston, May 10.—After a secret examination of Clarence V. T. Richeson Wednesday morning, Dr. Isador H. Coriat, head of the neurological department at the City hospital, has reported that the slayer of Avis Linnell is afflicted with a distinct form of mental disease which makes him partially irresponsible for his acts.

The alienist's signed report is now in the possession of Governor Foss. It probably will be submitted to the executive council this week, together with the murderer's plea for commutation of the death sentence.

Dr. Coriat spent much of the morning in the Charles street jail with Richeson. He did not make a physical examination of the condemned man. He encouraged Richeson to talk of his early life. He asked skillful questions and compared the subject's answers with the true facts of the former clergyman's history supplied the alienist by the attorneys for the defense.

Richeson has lost the suave self-confidence which made him the idol of feminine members of his congregation. He was very pale and nervous. Aparently he was doing his best to convince the mental expert that his mind is unsound.

He did not always tell the truth. Sometimes he tried to evade pertinent questions regarding unpleasant incidents of his career.

All these things—Richeson's falsehoods or veracity, his willingness or refusal to reveal certain phases of his history, his early environment and experiences, were considered by Dr. Coriat in arriving at his positive decision that Richeson is not sane today, nor was he fullly responsible for his act when he handed pretty Avis Linnell a deadly drug, and with lying protestations of love promised the frightened young girl that the "medicine" would relieve her anxiety.

Dr. Coriat was not acting in behalf of the Edmands family. This positive statement was made by one of the attorneys.

"I made my examination of Richeson Wednesday morning. I was alone with him, except for officials of the jail. My examination lasted for two hours or more. It was very thorough. It did not take very long for me to form my opinion. But, of course, in such an important case, an expert should go into every phase of the case and leave no possible chance for mistake.

"I found him a very interesting person to talk with. He was not at all reluctant. It is true that, as a general rule, an insane man will do everything in his power to convince those about him that he is sane, while a sane man who wishes to escape the consequences of his crime will try to affect insanity. But there are exceptions to this rule. This particular case is such an exception.

"However, the mental expert can instantly detect a fraud of this nature. I am willing to stake my reputation upon the correctness of my report. I am confident that any other competent alienist who examines Richeson will agree with me in my opinion."

Governor Foss made it absolutely clear last night that he will refer to his executive council the petition of Clarence V. T. Richeson for commutation of the death sentence upon the presentation to him of satisfactory evidence that Richeson was insane when he handed Avis Linnell the poison that killed her.

Grand Trunk Starts Operations

Pawtucket, R. I., May 10.—Ground has been broken for the construction of the Grand Trunk railroad extension from Palmer, Masss., to Providence. A large steam shovel was put into action near the Valley Falls pond, and will be operated along the new right of way for four miles. Other steam shovels will follow as fast as they can be set up and the battery will extend along the route from Palmer to Providence.

Washington Sees President

Washington, May 10.—President Taft arrived in Washington yesterday for a twenty-four-hour stay. This evening he will start for Princeton, N. J. Director McKinley of the Taft campaign headquarters, boarded the president's train at Baltimore and conferred with his chief during the ride to Washington.

Earthquakes All Day Long

Gaudalajara, Mex., May 10.—More than a dozen earthquakes were felt here at intervals from 6:30 o'clock yesterday morning up to 5:50 in the evening. The last shock was the most severe and some adobe houses were damaged.

The KITCHEN CUPBOARD

CANDIED FRUIT.

IN the summer when fruits are available candied fruits may be made which can be kept until Christmas. Almost any fruit may be candied or crystallized.

Fruit is glazed by dipping it into sirup and drying as quickly as possible in the open air or by an electric fan. To crystalize fruit it should be dipped in the stringy sirup and dried slowly in the oven or sun.

White grapes, sections of orange, dates or cherries may be candied by dipping once or twice in the sirup.

A Delicious Confection.

Candied Cherries.—There are a number of ways of candying cherries. This one requires that the cherries should be cooked in the sirup. For the latter put into the kettle a pound of sugar and a half cup of water for each pound of fruit. When this comes to the boil the cherries are added. The sirup must be skimmed to keep it clear. The fruit should cook slowly, and when transparent the sirup may be poured off. The cherries are then laid on dishes and dried in the sun or in a slow oven. Sprinkle with sugar and put away in layers on glazed paper.

An Orange Confection.

Candied Oranges.—Peel the oranges and quarter them, then take three cupfuls of sugar and one of water and boil to a sirup. Strain in the juice of a lemon. Take up each piece of orange on a fine knitting needle or hatpin and dip into the sirup; then set aside on a dish to harden. Seven or eight oranges may be candied in this amount of sirup.

A Delicate Process.

Candied Pineapple.—Allow a pound and a half of sugar to each pound of the fruit. Place the pineapple after it has been peeled and sliced into a kettle with water enough to cover. Boil until it becomes tender; then lift on a dish and let it cool while the sirup continues boiling until it thickens; then put the pineapple into the sirup and let it cook for several minutes longer. Take out, spread on platters and dry.

Preserving Melon.

Candied Citron.—Take the pulp and seeds from the inside of a citron melon, peel the rind or shell, cut it into strips, then weigh these and allow to each pound of them a pound of granulated sugar and a teacupful of water. Put sugar and water in a kettle and boil to a thin sirup, then lay in the citron and simmer until this is tender. Remove and spread on platters while you add to the sirup enough ginger to give it a slight flavor; then boil until thick. Add lemon juice to taste, return the citron rind to the sirup and cook until coated with sugar and candied.

WAYS OF ROASTING BEEF.

ROAST beef need not always be served in the same way. Methods of preparing it are numerous. For plain roast beef choose a nice piece of rib or sirloin. If the sirloin has a heavy layer of fat on top or a thick piece of gristle eschew it, for these are signs of age and toughness.

A Southern Way.

Roast Beef a la Dixie.—Here is a way of roasting beef that is popular in some southern households. Dust the piece of beef with salt, pepper and flour before putting in the pan. Add a little piece of bacon, a small piece of onion and a carrot cut in two. Pour in a cupful of meat stock. Lay the roast on the bacon and vegetables and place in a moderate oven. Cook a quarter of an hour for each pound. Baste frequently with the drippings and watch carefully so that it does not scorch.

An English Method.

Roast Beef With Yorkshire Pudding.—This is the way roast beef is liked in the north of England. So far as the meat is concerned, it is prepared in the ordinary way for roasting.

For the pudding beat three eggs until light, then add a pint of milk. Put a cupful of sifted flour into a pan and pour the milk and eggs over it. Add some salt and beat thoroughly.

Grease a baking pan and pour the batter into it. Bake for about three-quarters of an hour and baste with the roast beef gravy. Some cooks bake the pudding in the same pan with the beef, placing it upon a rack with the batter underneath.

With a Savory Dressing.

Stuffed Roast Beef.—Mix a stuffing as follows: Mince an onion and one pound of fat bacon with savory herbs. Add a pinch of celery salt, a little powdered cloves and allspice. Work all together with an egg.

Lay the beef in the pan in which it is to be roasted and with a sharp knife make incisions in it. Stick the knife deep into each and twist it around to make the place large enough to hold the stuffing.

Rub the beef with dissolved butter, dredge thickly with flour, set some water in the pan and put in the oven. Baste constantly and dredge on more flour. Thicken the gravy and serve.

Many Memorials Presented on Various Subjects—Demand Title "Presiding Elder" Be Again Adopted—Use of Tobacco Bars Election at General Conference—Abolishment of Amusement Clause Finds Favor

Minneapolis, May 10.—Scores of memorials are pouring into the general conference of the Methodist Episcopal church in session here. Far in the lead is that relating to the famous paragraph 260 of the church discipline, which prohibits dancing, card playing and kindred amusements. That this section will be amended at the present session to leave the question to the "conscience" of the individual member is the belief of many of the delegates. Another memorial which has appeared frequently is that changing the name of the "district superintendent" back to that of "presiding elder."

Indian Commissioner Robert G. Valentine was commended for his order directing that in government schools all insignia of any particular denomination be removed and those wearing a distinctive church garb lay such aside while engaged in government duties in a resolution adopted by the conference. Included in work done by the conference are the following items:

Adopted resolution preventing the election to any office of the general conference of any man who uses tobacco in any form.

Adopted the Rice resolution declaring that the Methodist Episcopal church would prosecute mission work in so-called Roman and Greek Catholic countries despite the action of the Ecumenical Missionary conference at Edinburgh, which went on record as opposed to mission work by Protestant churches in such countries.

Went on record as favoring union of Methodist Episcopal churches and Methodist Episcopal Church South.

Ordered reconsidered by committees in order that it may be made more drastic, a resolution concerning the Kenyon-Shepherd bill now before congress which prohibits the introduction of liquor into prohibition states.

Referred to a committee, a resolution asking that each member of the church give to the church one-tenth of his income.

The episcopacy committee of the church is said to be deadlocked on the number which will be superannuated at this session of the conference.

The Rice resolution reads as follows:

Whereas, in all those lands which form a large part of the missionary field of the Methodist Episcopal church, the teachings and practices of Romanism deprive the people of the Bible, pervert many of the fundamental doctrines of Christianity, and foster superstitions which alienate the thinking classes and bind heavy burdens upon the poor; therefore, be it

Resolved, That the Methodist Episcopal church recognizes its plain duty to prosecute its missionary enterprises in Greek and Roman Catholic countries with increasing zeal, and, be it

Resolved, That it is our duty to oppose the machinations of Romanism and to counteract its attempts to gain an ever-increasing control of our public schools, to use the public funds for sectarian schools, and finally, be it

Resolved, That we feel the deepest sympathy and love toward the priests and people within the Greek and Roman Catholic churches who are working toward a more spiritual interpretation of the Christian faith.

State Secures Crawford Notch

Concord, N. H., May 10.—The governor and council have won their case in the supreme court for the acquisition by the state of Crawford Notch and other scenic property in Hart's location. The court appointed as commissioners Hon. E. G. Eastman of Exeter, H. G. Moulton of Lisbon and J. E. French of Moultonboro. The state will provide surveys for the work.

New Shrine Officers

Los Angeles, Cal., May 10.—Ernest A. Cutts of Savannah has been elected imperial outer guard by the Imperial Council, Nobles of the Mystic Shrine. Dallas, Tex., has been selected for the 1913 conclave. William J. Cunningham of Baltimore succeeds John F. Treat of Fargo, N. D., as imperial potentate. William S. Brown of Pittsburg and Benjamin W. Rowell of Boston were re-elected imperial treasurer and imperial recorder, respectively.

MORTGAGEE'S SALE.

By virtue and in pursuance of the power of sale contained in a mortgage given by Murray Smith of Boston in the county of Suffolk and Commonwealth of Massachusetts to Charles H. Lutton of said Boston, dated April 15, 1909 and recorded with Norfolk deeds book 1107 page 283, by him assigned to Albert E. Pillsbury and by him reassigned to the undersigned, by assignments duly recorded with Norfolk deeds, and for the purpose of foreclosing the same for breach of the conditions thereof, the undersigned will sell at public auction at the Squantum Inn, on the mortgaged premises, on Saturday the 18th day of May, 1912, at 12 o'clock M., the premises described in said mortgage, namely:—

A certain parcel of land with the buildings thereon, situated in that part of Quincy in the county of Norfolk in said Commonwealth called Squantum, as shown on a plan made by H. T. Whitman dated April 1898 and recorded with Norfolk deeds Lib. 814 page 298, bounded and described as follows:—Beginning at the intersection of ground of the city of Boston and a proposed boulevard formerly known as the road to Squantum House, thence running southeasterly by said ground of the city of Boston five hundred and thirty-two and 4-10 feet, thence southwesterly by a private way called Standish Road four hundred thirty-six and 44-100 feet, thence northwesterly by a private way called Titus Road six hundred thirty-three and 36-100 feet, and thence northeasterly by said boulevard three hundred and twenty-nine feet to the point of beginning; containing two hundred and fourteen thousand five hundred and forty-six square feet more or less; subject to the right to construct and maintain a sewer given to the city of Quincy by an instrument dated July 12, 1897 recorded with Norfolk deeds, libro. 793, page 81 and to the restrictions, contained in deed given by Lillie B. Titus to John McKnight dated September 14, 1897, recorded with Norfolk deeds libro 796 page 361. The premises will be sold subject to unpaid taxes, assessments or municipal liens if any there be, and to a taking by the Metropolitan Water and Sewerage Board on or about March 26, 1901, recorded with Norfolk deeds book 892 page 507, believed to be substationally identical with that given to the city of Quincy as above mentioned.

Terms, $1,000 in cash at the time and place of sale, balance on delivery of deed within 20 days.

Miss Jane Wanted the Child.

Tears welled into Miss Jane's eyes. Subtly aggrieved always, she felt more than ordinary depression on this spring morning when everything in nature expressed living hope. "I wish I could help somebody. I might as well be dead."

Mrs. Barnes—Miss Jane's companion for ten years past—did not offer any protest against a complaint to which she had grown accustomed. But something which had happened made the wontedly repressed woman say, after a moment's deliberation: "That poor soul I told you about, the mother they brought to the almshouse in March, has died."

"I wish I had died," declared Miss Jane, passionately.

Mrs. Barnes bent lower over her mending: "Maybe if we didn't trust the Lord to do what's best, we might wonder why he takes mothers, sometimes, instead of people who haven't any children."

Meek-spirited Mrs. Barnes was not prone to answer back; Miss Jane straightened herself aggressively.

Instead of waiting for Miss Jane to resume the conversation, however, Mrs. Barnes went on, hurriedly for her: "The woman made an awful time because she had to die and leave her little girl all alone in the world. You remember, don't you? She lost her husband six months ago, and she was worn out, taking care of him, and there wasn't any money, so the selectmen had to put the mother and child into the almshouse."

Miss Jane turned her handsome head languidly. "I remember you told me all this," she said, as if dismissing the subject.

"That just broke the poor soul's spirit," persisted Mrs. Barnes. "She had known better days, they say. The night before she died, she just begged and begged the matron, Miss Gates, not to keep the little girl there, but to find a good home for her. And Miss Gates—who's kindhearted, for all she has to do with miserable pauper creatures most of the time—she says she just had to promise so that the woman might die peaceful-like. She was telling me about it, down town this morning, and she says she's dreadful put to, to know where to find a home for that friendless little girl, who hasn't got any folks or any money."

This had been an unusually long speech for Mrs. Barnes her hands were trembling and moisture dimmed her spectacles, so that she took misshapen stitches.

Miss Jane had not listened closely; she had heard enough, however, to answer drearily: "You only make me feel worse, telling me such matters. The world is a terribly hard place." Hands clasped listlessly, a melancholy droop to her mouth, Miss Jane was a picture of the luxury of grief as she sat there surrounded by the comforts of life.

"The world will be a terribly hard place for that little slip of a girl if somebody doesn't give her a home." Mrs. Barnes began, nervously folding her work.

"I suppose it's a poor, puny child—girl, you said? Probably deformed, or has rickets or some such dreadful disease," Miss Jane remarked with a shudder.

"No," returned Mrs. Barnes almost curtly. "It's a well-favored, sort of old fashioned-looking girl. I told Miss Gates to bring her over this afternoon to see if any of my Mary's clothes would do for her. The child misses her mother." Mrs. Barnes continued agitatedly: "It must have been terrible for the mother. I can feel just how she felt. Only I missed my little girl—that's the difference—Mary didn't have to miss her mother."

Mrs. Barnes went precipitately out of the room. Miss Jane sat apathetic, thinking. Deep down in her heart, self-pity was stirring at the thought that she herself had no child to grieve over.

She was a woman of about sixty years, with dark, restless eyes, hair just whitening, and a fresh complexion; she was fairly vigorous in health—despite her extreme care of herself—and full of nerves, full of imaginary troubles. Always generous of money, she seldom gave of herself. Her fellow townsfolk spoke of her as "the rich Miss Peters, who's going to be queer if she doesn't look out."

Miss Jane was alone in the world, save for an older bachelor brother who visited her punctiliously and briefly, twice a year, and who under no consideration would have taken up his abode in the old New England homestead with his aimless, low-spirited sister.

"What time is that child coming?" queried Miss Jane, when Mrs. Barnes, as usual, announced dinner precisely at one o'clock.

"About four, I didn't want to have your nap disturbed," replied Mrs. Barnes, waiting duly at the door of the dining room.

"It isn't likely that I want to see the child," replied Miss Jane haughtily. Then, seating herself, she bowed her head to say the accustomed grace.

Miss Jane's nap ended at three. She dressed herself carefully, but without interest, and descended to the library to take up her usual afternoon pastimes of a little reading and much thinking, so to speak. It was the first balmy day of April. A glow of color suffused the twigs that danced on the bare branches of the trees; the grass had more than a tinge of green. The suggestive oncoming of the springtide vaguely emphasized Miss Jane's loneliness that afternoon. She was, in fact, alone in the world. Wealth was all she had.

Meanwhile, upstairs, Mrs. Barnes was trying to choke back her tears as she tenderly handled the little dresses and underclothes which she took from a trunk in the depths of the roomy closet. She was roused from her task by the ringing of the front door bell. Hurriedly she went downstairs, to intercept Hannah in opening the door.

From her seat near the library window, Miss Jane had seen a plainly-dressed woman turn into the flagstone path, leading a huddled, red-shawled figure of diminutive size, who dragged behind evidently not so much from reluctance as from shortness of legs. Miss Jane heard Mrs. Barnes' swift descent, the visitors' entrance, and Mrs. Barnes' words: "Come right up to my room."

"Bring the people in here." Miss Jane rose with a sudden impulse; she would have a look at the child.

But Mrs. Barnes was already leading the way upstairs. Miss Gates, following, alone heeded, and turned to say over her shoulder: "Sorry, ma'am, but I haven't got any time to spare."

Miss Jane, her soft silk skirts held back in one hand, waited doubtfully a moment by the massive newel-post, watching them. Mrs. Barnes, a wiry, straight-lined figure, the tall, gaunt matron, and the little child still hurrying, yet obliged to go up by putting not one foot on one stair after the other, but both feet squarely on each stair.

"Plucky little thing! I wonder why she doesn't cry," thought Miss Jane. Then slowly, as if against her will, she followed upstairs.

When, a moment later, she saw the child's face, she saw why the child had not cried.

A winsome face it was; delicate, yet determined in oval outline; a touch of color in the cheeks from hurrying; a few stray tendrils of brown hair escaping from under the faded blue tam-o-shanter shaded the fair, high forehead; the soft line of mouth was firmly shut and there was such a pathetic, steady braveness in the violet blue eyes, that a sudden real pain gripped Miss Jane's heart.

Miss Jane stood there, in the doorway, without a word, while Mrs. Barnes, her face tense with feeling, held out two or three little dresses, measuring them to the child. The unpinning of the cumbersome shawl had revealed a slight figure, sturdy looking withal, despite the thin knees which showed beneath the too-short skirts.

"Those will do; and so will the blue jacket and the white hat with pink roses," said Miss Gates, her practical eyes taking in the layout on the bed. "Can she have the underclothes, too? The better dressed she is the more chance there is of somebody's adopting her."

The child's eyes were fixed roundly, rather dreamily on the pink roses; one soft little hand reached slowly out to touch them.

Mrs. Barnes hesitated almost imperceptibly, before answering Miss Gates. "Yes, she can have them all, if they will do her any good."

"Some of the things are too big, but she'll grow to them," replied Miss Gates, "She's worn out 'most everything she had when they came to the poorhouse."

Miss Jane started forward. It was suddenly terrible to have "poorhouse" associated with this wistful-faced, steady-eyed child.

Just then the little girl looked up at Miss Jane, and, unheedful of what had been passing, said in a voice with an irresistible cadence: "Those is like the roses in my muvver's garden at my home."

For a moment Miss Jane and the child looked at one another, the child's fearless gaze studying the woman's face, Miss Jane's heart expanding with a great overwhelming purpose.

Kneeling suddenly, she put her arms about the slight figure and said. "You haven't any home now?"

"No. O yes, the poorhouse." The child corrected herself with a trembling lip, yet with a quick, grateful glance at Miss Gates, who had stopped talking to look and listen.

"How old are you, dear?" Miss Jane asked.

"Four years old last Janvuwary," the voice was like delicate music.

"And what is your name?"

"Dorothy."

"Will you come to live with me, Dorothy?" asked Miss Jane, struggling to control her voice.

"Haven't you any little girl?" questioned the child shyly.

"No, Dorothy."

"I haven't any muvver here now," said the child lowly, "and you haven't any little girl?"

"No," said Miss Jane; then with a strange new tenderness in her voice she repeated: "Will you come to live with me?"

"I like you," sighed the child, leaning forward in wistful abandon against Miss Jane's shoulder.

Mrs. Barnes stared out of the window, swallowing great sobs. Her plan had met with a success far beyond her expectations.

"She may as well stay now," Miss Gates spoke very gently. "I can send over her things by Tim."

"I will send for them immediately." Miss Jane looked up, already defensive.

That evening, when the earth and the trees had been lulled into quiet by the south wind, Miss Jane sat in the dim-lighted hall upstairs, just outside the spare room where Dorothy lay asleep.

"She seems like a flower—that dear little face and that big white pillow," Miss Jane said, rather incoherently, to Mrs. Barnes, who had just wandered restlessly from out her own room.

"There's nothing like a baby in all the world, except two babies—or twenty!" replied Mrs. Barnes unsteadily.

"It's just as selfish of old maids as is is of married women, not to have children; maybe worse," continued Miss Jane. "The Bible says more are the children of the married than of them who have husbands. I shall be proud of my bonnie baby girl." Years had dropped from Miss Jane as if by magic. Her face glowed with a new life.

"When folks are proud, they have things taken away from them." Mrs. Barnes' voice trembled.

"If the Lord should take away this little girl, I would find another one," said Miss Jane, with solemn conviction. "I suppose you never thought of such a thing as my adopting the child."

Mrs. Barnes was spared answering, for Miss Jane went on, eagerly: "In fact, when Dorothy is eight or nine years old, I think I shall adopt another one, every few years, as long as I live. Each child will save the other from being spoiled and selfish. As for me, it will mean that I shall always have something around of the morning and the springtime. That is just what children are, morning and springtime."

For the remainder of the evening, Miss Jane kept watch over the sleeping child, while Mrs. Barnes in her room, sat in the dark, thinking.—Edith A. Sawyer.

STAN BATES IN BOX SATURDAY

The local W. M. C. A. team will cross bats with the strong Marshell class of Everett tomorow afternoon at Merrymount park. The local boys will have Stan Bates in the box for them with "Chick" Holmes behind the bat, and ought to get away with a victory. The Marshell class has yet to be defeated this season, having won 5 games. Last year this team finished second in the Greater Boston Sunday school league, and this season the players mean to capture the pennant, as several new men have been added to the line up.

This game will start promptly at 2.30 o'clock and will be called at 4 o'clock, as the Makarias are scheduled to meet the strong semi-pro team of Somerville, the "Northwesterns," Rice and Chapman will be the battery for the Makarias.

"THE NEW MAN AND BOY MAKER"

Address before the Adams Parents and Teachers

NEW OFFICERS

"The New Man and Boy Maker" was the subject of a most instructive address delivered Thursday evening before the Parents' and Teachers' Association of the Adams school, in the school building, by Thomas Curley, a well-known attorney, a resident of Waltham and a member of the Massachusetts Civic League. The retiring president, Alfred O. Diack was in the chair, and the meeting was attended by the largest number in the history of the association.

In the course of his remarks, the speaker dwelt mainly with a discussion of playgrounds and the great playground movement. He told of the influence the establishment and proper supervision of playgrounds is bound to have on any community and laid down the marked benefits that would accrue to the youngsters who indulge in recreation, especially when it came to a question of moulding such characters as would conduce to the true types of manhood and womanhood. He spoke of the playground movement in his own city of Waltham, told of its history and progress and the results it had on the boys and girls of the city. He cited the report of the chief of police, who said that the playground was responsible for the lessening of misdemeanors among youngsters and for the elimination of tactics that formerly caused the greatest of trouble.

He also spoke of the twenty-four playgrounds that were in the city of Worcester and commended the efficiency in which all matters pertaining to playgrounds there were carried out. The speaker added that a playground, without proper supervision, was practically as bad as none at all. Mr. Curley then went into a discussion of playgrounds in Quincy and spoke of the necessity of having every section of the city properly provided for in this respect. He laid down the need of having them properly attended to at all times and concluded by stating that the results noticeable, in the event of the proper playground system being adopted would be most beneficial. The suitable localities for playgrounds in local circles were also dealt with and the speaker was warmly applauded at the conclusion of his address. A vote of thanks was tendered to him by those present.

The music for the occasion was furnished by the graduating class, under the direction of supervisor of music, Miss M. S. Perkins. All the selections were rendered in a most able manner and caused the contributors to merit loud applause. The election of officers for the ensuing year took place and School Committeeman Newcomb gave a few remarks on the proposed school building. He said that the school committee had conferred with the mayor, who informed them that he was willing to abide by whatever decision was favorable to the committee and would willingly approve of any plans they might care to adopt. At the meeting of the school committee Mr. Newcomb said that preparations were being made to start the building as soon as possible.

It will be patterned after the Wollaston school and will be located on the Madison avenue lot, the site agreed upon, both by the school committee and members of the Parents' and Teachers' Association as the most suitable.

The following were elected officers of the Adams School Parents' and Teachers' Association for the ensuing year:

President—Robert E. Foy.

Vice President—Charles Hobart.

Secretary-Treasurer—Mrs. Lucy B. Page.

Executive Committee—Nelson Spencer, Miss Mary Griffin and Mrs. Roderick McLennan.

TOMORROW'S GAME.

The Orient A. A. will cross bats with the strong Lincoln A .C., of Everett on the Ward 3 playgrounds tomorrow afternoon. The Lincolns are represented by a fast bunch of players who are confident that they will make the Orients taste the bitter pill of defeat. "Bode" Bradley who last Saturday held the Pettengill-Andrews nine to five hits, will again be in the box for the Orients. Ciardi will undoubtedly be again found behind the bat and judging from his showing on last Saturday, should put up a good game. The Orients will be strengthened by the addition of two fast players in Allan and McVey.

BRIEFS

The flags on City Hall and Woodward Institute are at half-mast out of respect to Rev. Ellery Channing Butler.

Mrs. Frances A. Dalrymple of Summit avenue, mother of Mrs. Frederick H. Bishop passed away today after a few weeks illness.

Rev. J. E. Lillback, pastor of the Finnish Congregational church has accepted an invitation to take charge of a series of special meetings to be held in Fitchburg next week by the Finnish Congregational church of that city. Rev. K. F. Hendrickson, a former pastor will preach in Quincy church Sunday.

The annual meeting of the Quincy Playground Committee of One Hundred will be held at the Y. M. C. A., Tuesday, at 8 P. M., for the election of officers, the consideration of work to be done the coming year, and other business. All interested in the playground movement in our city are invited to attend.

The Colonials will have the strong Dedham Athletics as their opponents at the Ward 4 playgrounds Saturday. The home team will be greatly strengthened by the addition of Mulligan who will play short. Williamson formerly of the Fore River Apprentices will be seen in the box. The scouts for the new West Quincy team will be on hand as they are trying to annex one of the Colonial stars.

THE AFTERNOON FIRE.

The alarm from box 27 at 2.12 this afternoon was rung in by an excited individual who saw smoke coming from the basement of Mrs. H. E. Hardwick's house on the corner of Washington street and Revere road. There was no fire, simply a smoking furnace.

BUBBLE FOUNTAIN.

A bubble fountain cooler is being placed in the corridor of City Hall for the use of the public. It is connected directly with the water main so that there will always be a supply of drinking water. Inside of the cooler is a coil of pipe through which the water passes to the bubble on top. Ice is packed about this pipe which keeps the water cool at all times. There is also a pipe from which a pitcher of water may be drawn if necessary.

ITALY'S LUCKY TRAMPS.

The State Shelters Them and Food and Drink Come Easy.

Assuredly the tramp in Italy is a man to be envied! Save for a coat to his back and shoes to his feet there are few things which he need worry about as he passes from village to village in that country of blue skies and sunshine. Food he can find in the vineyards and on the fig trees, drink is obtainable almost for nothing, so plentiful is wine, and shelter is provided for him gratis by a benevolent government.

"I was often struck during my recent journey in northern Italy by the delightful public dormitories which are erected by the roadsides throughout the country, especially in the valleys leading from the Mediterranean coast to the hill towns of Liguria.

I visited a dormitorio publico on the highway near Camporosso, in the Nervia valley, and surely no wayfarer could desire a more charming resting place. The authorities have placed it under the shade of the olive trees, so that, however hot the sun may be, the footsore traveler can obtain his much needed siesta in a perfectly cool place. It looked so attractive, standing there in the shade, that I myself was almost tempted to escape from the sunshine and seek refuge beneath its hospitable roof."—Wide World Magazine.

Pert Answer.

In his book, "The Spice of Life," Thormanby, the author, says that he knew a learned counsel once who always boasted that he looked twenty years younger than he was, but he had an awful blow one day when he was cross examining a very self possessed young lady. He wanted her to tell him the age of somebody she knew or at least to make a guess at it, but he couldn't get a satisfactory answer from her.

"Come; you can generally form an idea of age from people's looks," he said, coaxingly. "Now, how old would you say I am?"

To which the lady replied. "You might be sixty by your looks; but, judging by the questions you ask, I should say about sixteen."

What Wearied Him.

Finding one of her pupils in peculiar distress over his lesson, a teacher in a primary school inquired as to the trouble. The boy stated this arduous problem:

"If Richard has three red apples and John has four, how many have they both together?"

"Is that so very hard?" she asked.

"Yes, ma'am."

"But surely," the teacher continued, "you know already that three and four make seven. There can be no trouble about that."

"I know that, ma'am," was the pathetic response. "But the process! It's the process that wears me out."—Lippincott's.

ANCIENT SURGERY.

They Used a File In Trepanning Operations In Hippocrates' Time.

There is no doubt that some rough form of surgery must have existed from very ancient times, but it is strange to find that so complex and delicate an operation as trepanning is one of the oldest.

So far as actual records go, Hippocrates gives us the earliest account. He wrote treatises on fractures, dislocations and wounds of the head, in which he described the method of procedure to be followed in the case of a fractured skull. His direction was to cut away a piece of bone so that the pressure on the brain might be relieved.

There are also records about this time and later of a file being used for this purpose, which at a time when anaesthetics were undreamed of must have been, to say the least, painful.

According to Dr. T. Rice Holmes, the operation of removing pieces of bone was performed long before historic times. The effects on the skull are easily seen after death and are visible so long as the bones are preserved.

From inspection of certain skulls of the later stone age in ancient Britain Dr. Holmes has come to the conclusion that some of these had undergone the operation, which must have been performed with a stone implement.—London Standard.

Laziness a Disease.

Laziness should be regarded as a disease when no organic cause of ill health exists, and people should be compelled to get through their allotted work as they would have to take their powders of quinine if they were suffering from influenza. There are scores of self pitying loafers on the sick list of every doctor who need, not drugs, not "treatment" of any sort, but simply work. To prescribe rest cures for this type is directly inciting them to a lazy life, when their dissatisfaction, general seediness and lack of vitality are the direct outcome of having too little to do already. It is not more rest that they require, but compulsory, methodical, regulated work six days out of seven. Work is the best medicine in the world, the ideal stimulant, because it leaves no ill effects.—London Express.

ASSAULT CASE IN COURT

Rev. David H. Keyes, pastor of the Methodist church at Holbrook was arraigned in court before Judge Avery this morning on a complaint charging him with assault on Russell Chapman at Holbrook last Sunday evening. Rev. Mr. Keyes entered a plea of not guilty and asked for a continuance until Saturday morning that he might secure counsel.

The complainant in the case was the boy's father, Alfred D. Chapman, and there were three witnesses in addition to the complainant and his son Russell. They were Etta Kent, Ella Bennett, and George Lewis.

The town of Holbrook is considerably wrought up over the squabble and especially so as Rev. Mr. Keyes has been active as a member of the town committee for the suppression of vice, being the leader in the anti-vice campaign that has been waged in the town.

According to Mr. Keyes a group of boys entered the church last Sunnday evening and created a disturbance.

He stopped the service and reprimanded the young men. Alfred D. Chapman, father of the lad, Russell, says his boy, with another young fellow attended the services Sunday evening and were chewing gum. The boys were invited to take a front pew but they took no notice of the invitation, and after the sermon the Rev. Mr. Keyes is alleged to have approached them. One of the boys ran from the church but the Chapman boy remained.

The boy was shaken by the pastor and forcibly ejected from the church. Some members of the church sustain the pastor and declare that the boys were disturbing the service and should have been ejected. Others condemn his action as ill advised.

It is expected the case will be bitterly fought. The minister has been the leading anti-vice campaigner of the town. He is one of the committee for the suppression of vice in the town.

did not feel at the present time as if they were in a position to comply with the request of the Ward Four Society, relative to the establishment of the so-called "missing link." A committee was then appointed to confer with the Mayor and have the matter brought before the City Council and subsequently brought up with the Railway Commissioners.

A committee was also appointed to use its efforts towards having a certain portion of Willard street accepted as a State Highway. A conference with the officials of Braintree will also be held in regard to the same project. It was voted to appoint a committee to confer with the County Commissioners with a view to having the old Granite street bridge rebuilt. Refreshments were served at the close of the meeting and the affair was pronounced most successful.

SHOWS WORK OF WOMEN'S CLUB

Report of Secretary to Brackett Charitable Trust

COMPREHENSIVE

The annual report of the secretary as read at the annual meeting of the Brackett Charitable Trust is so comprehensive in showing the great work of the Quincy Women's club that it is given in full below for the careful perusal of our readers:

To bring the work of the club for the past year clearly yet concisely before the members of the Brackett Charitable Trust it has seemed best to take each committee separately and in alphabetical order.

The Art committee, Mrs. H. H. Kitson, chairman, superintended all arrangements for the annual Twelfth Night Revels, held this year on Tuesday, Jan. 16 at Alpha hall. A brilliant success, excelling in artistic effects the first affair of this kind inaugurated the year before. For this committee's date on the club calendar, April 23, a splendid loan exhibit of paintings in oil and water colors, Japanese prints, marbles, bronzes, rare lace, hand-worked silver etc., was arranged at the club house, the articles on exhibition being valued at twenty thousand dollars. Many noted artists were represented. This exhibit was also open to the public the following two days at a small fee. The committee promises a larger and "better in every way" exhibit for next year and feels that all work of this kind is in the broadest sense, social service work. The club is of course fortunate in having at the head of this department so noted an artist as Mrs. Kitson.

The Arts and Crafts committee, Mrs. Alfred Jelinck, chairman, a sub committee of the Art department, has had classes in dressmaking, basketry, jewelry, millinery, etc., and has arranged several exhibits of class work on regular meeting days.

The Civics committee, Mrs. Oscar A. Blaisdell, chairman, has had the care of the grounds around the Atlantic station and the clubhouse grounds, has tried to improve conditions at the Quincy station in having the waiting room and lavatories in a more sanitary condition etc., with somewhat better success than in former years: but the railroad officials have stated flatly that no better state of affairs than the present can be undertaken until the city of Quincy provides public lavatories in the centre district. This committee arranged the annual assembly at Music hall. Their date on the program April 9, announced a debate, the first ever held in the club; the subject "Quincy—dead or alive?" It drew one of the largest audiences of the year, the verdict, "Quincy is dead," causing much comment and discussion. This committee has arranged to clean up some of the unsightly spots mentioned in the debate and has inaugurated a "clean up" time with the co-operation of city teams, for the last two weeks in May. School Supt. Barbour approves the suggested co-operation of the children in this work and everybody is asked to help if only in work on their own premises. This committee reports for the success of the School Savings Bank System an approximate deposit of $30.000 in four years.

The Custodian's committee, Miss Emily Wilde, chairman, has reported sums taken as guest money, fines etc, in excess of that received in other years, showing increased interest in the club meetings by non-members.

The Education committee, Mrs. Charles R. Safford, chairman, began work early last spring in preparation for the Children's gardens and summer classes. The gardens numbered 1,000 and at the season's close, August 11, there was an exhibition of results at City Hall which attracted universal attention extending to many surrounding towns. The collections of wild flowers, cultivated flowers, vegetables, sloyd work of boys and cooking and sewing of girls was very impressive. Members of the City Council were especially interested in this splendid work and expressed appreciation of it as something which must of necessity be far reaching in results. This committee's date on the club calendar, Nov. 14, was filled with a program by Rev. W. W. Sleeper and May Sleeper Ruggles in Bulgarian Folk Songs and echoes from the Balkans; educational in the sense that it created an atmosphere of the every day life of these people:

Mrs. Safford resigned her chairmanship Dec. 1 and Mrs. John W. Sanborn was elected to this place. Under her efficient management has recently been given the annual children's Festival at Music Hall, April 27. All the established customs were observed and it was reported a great success. The net proceeds will be used for the summer work as usual.

The Home Economics committee, Mrs. Stanley Bone, chairman, has introduced sales of useful and novel kitchen articles at regular club meetings, and on their calendar date, Nov. 28, a lecture by Mrs. Mary H. Abel of Baltimore on "The new principle of scientific shop management as applied to housekeeping" was most inspiring and instructive to house keepers and home makers in general. This committee arranged a lecture free to the public, at the clubhouse on the evening of April 8, by Prof. Hodge, on the "Extermination of the house fly." They have distributed, with the co-operation of school Supt. Barbour, 100 posters on extermination work and are planning a very broad work in this line for next year.

The Hospitality committee, Mrs. Herbert S. Barker, chairman, has kept this work up to the average and has provided abundant refreshment for all dates arranged on the calendar. A recent gift from this commitee is a table for use on the platform of the audience room.

The House committee, Mrs. William B. Nichols, chairman, has attended to all repairs, painting, varnishing, various leaks, repairs to outer wall, etc., and to enlarging the platform. This committee has been exceptionally faithful and efficient in every way.

The Legislative committee, newly formed this year, Mrs. William Ward Whitcher, chairman, first became

OFFICER BISHOP MADE SERGEANT

Popular City Square Officer Promoted by Mayor Stone

TAKES EFFECT MONDAY

This morning Mayor Stone promoted Officer Ernest H. Bishop to the position of Sergeant to fiill the position made vacant by the death of Sergeant David J. Barry. The promotion is made under the civil service rules. Early this week the Mayor named Officer Bishop for promotion and Wednesday he was given a non-competitive examination at the state house, Boston, for promotion. He received the unusual high per cent of 96.87 The appointment is to date from Monday, May 13, at which time he will assume the position as night desk man at police headquarters.

Officer Bishop was born in Guilford, Maine, July 19, 1871 and received his early education in the public schools of his native town. He has however been a resident of Quincy for many years.

His first duty as a police officer was in the year 1900 when he was appointed a special policeman. The following year he took the examination for a fireman and was appointed to the fire department April 12, 1901. In 1904 he again became a special police officer and resigned from the fire department. He was assigned to regular duty as a patrolman Feb. 18, 1905. When the Reserve police force was created in 1906 he became a reserve officer doing duty as such until 1907 when he was appointed a regular patrolman by ex-Mayor Thompson.

Four years ago he was assigned to the night beat in City Square, the change to this most important beat in the city, being in the nature of a promotion. He has continued to guard the peace in City Square ever since. He is looked upon as an officer of exceptional executive ability and the only regret at his promotion is that he is to be taken rom the City Square beat.

SALES FROM THE SILVER SANDS

What promises to be a most novel event will take place at the Park and Downs vestry Tuesday.

At six o'clock in the morning the observance of D. O. club day will be started under the auspices of the D. O. club, a girls' organization of the church. From six until nine breakfast will be served by some of the attractive misses of the club.

In the afternoon from two until five "Sales from the silver sands" will take place. While this feature will be of interest to all, it is promised that it will especially appeal to the children.

In the evening a fine entertainment of music and readings will be enjoyed. The program will include Miss Rosetta Kay, soprano soloist at the new Old South church, Boston; Miss Lois Annabelle Beil, post graduate of the Emerson College of Oratory, reader; Miss Marion Moorhouse, cellist; W. Allen Stoddard, baritone; accompanists, Mrs. S. P. Moorhouse, Miss Amee Lister, and Miss Emily Bjorkman.

The affair is in charge of Miss Ella R. Muzaus, under whose direction a number of successful entertainments have been given in the past, and promises to be a great attraction. She will be assisted by a large and efficient committee.

STORE TO CLOSE.

The following provision and butter and egg stores are to close Wednesday afternoons through May, June, July, August and September.

DISCUSS LOCAL IMPROVEMENTS

Meeting of Wollaston Park Improvement Association

THE BUSINESS

At the monthly meeting of the Wollaston Park Improvement Association in the vestry of the Park and Downs church Thursday evening the proposed moving picture theatre and bowling alleys at Wollaston beach came up for a most thorough discussion. After protracted speaking on the question it was finally voted to defer action on the same until a full investigation could be made as to the exact nature of the enterprise. With this in view it was laid on the table to be brought to the attention of the association at its meeting next month.

President Woodward presided and after the reading of the minutes the membership committee reported a respectable list of new members.

Mrs. Antoinette S. Paige, chairman of the committee on trees and shrubbery, asked for instructions and it was voted to co-operate as much as possible with the newly-appointed tree warden.

The damage of trees by electric wires was taken up and the question of permanent sidewalks on Willow street discussed.

The resignation of Lieutenant James D. Willson, owing to a press of other duties, was received and his successor will be appointed at the next meeting of the directors.

Chairman Gaffney of the legal committee reported on the nuisance acts recently passed by the City Council making possible the prosecution of nuisances persisted in.

Announcement was made of the hearing to be held June 3rd on the relocation of the car tracks on Elm avenue. It was the wish to have the association attend in a body.

Other matters that came up for attention were objectionable henhouses and the collection of refuse. The Park and Downs Vestry will be the regular meeting place of the association for the present.

RESIGNATION OF MISS B. C. ROSS

Miss Bessie C. Ross, clerk in the office of City Clerk Crane, at City Hall, severed her relations as such this noon, to accept a position in the National Mt. Wollaston bank, which she will assume May 20. Miss Ross tendered her resignation several weeks ago and Mayor Stone immediately appointed Miss Marguerite S. Lyons as her successor. Miss Lyons has been on duty in the clerk's office since that time learning the ropes.

Miss Ross began her duties as clerk to the City Clerk in October 1905, having been appointed by ex-City Clerk Harrison A. Keith, and has held the position ever since. Few were more familiar with the multitudinous duties, and important detail work of the City Clerks office, where accuracy is the first and of the uttermost importance, than Miss Ross. That she was well qualified for the position was readily recognized by ex-Mayor Shea, who on the death of Mr. Keith appointed her as City Clerk pro tem until the vacancy was filled, and it was with regret that her resignation was accepted.

Miss Ross takes with her the best wishes of the City Officals and clerks at the hall for her success in her new position.

Miss Lyons begins her duties Monday morning.

—Senator Brooks of California spoke the other day in the United States senate in behalf of Christian Science. He said that if Jesus Christ were practising his healing in New York today as he did in Judea 1900 years ago, he would be subject to fine and imprisonment under the laws of that state. Very likely too, the punishment would be inflicted.—New Bedford Standard.

WOLLASTON Y. C. OPENING SMOKER

An audience of about 125 members and guests attended the smoker and entertainment of the Wollaston Yacht club held in the club hall Friday evening. The evening was in charge of A. N. Potterton, chairman of the entertainment committee, and after cigars had been passed he introduced Commodore Bean who welcomed those present most heartily.

A fine entertainment was enjoyed consisting of songs by Dr. F. E. Dawes, whistling solos by Mr. Fay, selections on the violin by Roy Lothrop and cornet solos by Clifford Sass. Mr. Broderick presided at the piano.

Following this part of the entertainment, song sheets were passed and William Field took the floor. With Frank Lavery at the piano those present joined in popular songs in a manner that nearly raised the roof.

Commodore Bean then gave an account of the condition of the club. It was decided to hold an opening banquet on May 25th.

Dr. Dawes, the club's delegate to the Interclub Association and the Massachusetts Yacht Racing Association told of the work he had accomplished in securing a favorable date for the club's open race.

The entertainment Friday evening was in celebration of the completed repairs to the runway to the clubhouse.

LADIES' NIGHT OF MAKARIAS

The annual ladies' night of the Makaria Fraternity was held Friday evening in the chapel of Bethany church attended by upwards of fifty of the fellows and their ladies. The program was in charge of Delcevare King which was a sufficient guarantee for its excellence and included a piano solo by Miss Frances Murray, cornet solo by George Critchley and several laughable monologues by Mrs. A. Isabelle Davis. Following the entertainment refreshments were served and there was a social hour during which some of the Makaria games were played.

The committee in charge were Richard Jones, Matthew Nichols and John Wilson who were assisted by several young ladies.

PUBLIC HEARING ON PLAYGROUND

Great interest is being manifested by the residents of Wollaston in the public hearing to be held Wednesday evening, before the Public Grounds committee at City Hall upon the question of retaining the old Wollaston school lot for park purposes.

Public sentiment heartily endorses this movement to make this open space a thing of beauty as a park or playground, rather than to cut it up into houselots, upon which apartments might possibly be built.

The lot in question fronts on Beale street, the main thoroughfare, and its position in close proximity to the new school building and several churches makes it well fitted for the purpose in view.

Public spirited citizens are successfully at work on the collection of a fund at the present time and if the plot is reserved as a park there is no question but that the grounds will be properly cared for by the citizens of the fifth ward.

FOR FIELD SECRETARY.

The directors of the New England Sabbath Protection League have asked the Rev. Dr. James Todd, pastor of the Fourth Presbyterian church of South Boston, to become the organization's field secretary for New Hampshire and Vermont. He has not decided whether to accept. He has been in his present pastorate for eight years and previous to that was pastor of the First Presbyterian church on Water street, South Quincy.

NOVEL FEATURES AT MAY DANCE

Sixty couples were present Friday evening at the May dance given by Quincy chapter, Order of the Eastern Star at Alpha hall, and a most enjoyable evening it proved to be. The dance opened with a march led by the chairman of the committee, William E. Tarbox and Miss Elva Leonard, and was prettily executed.

There were several novel features, the first of which was the presentation to the ladies of individual bouquets. Then there was a favor waltz at which a souvenir dance order with leather card case was presented to Miss Julia Thomas. During this dance fancy caps were given the ladies while the gentlemen wore comical masques the combination making a unique scene. Then there was a two step entitled the "Broom Dance" which created much amusement.

Provost's orchestra furnished the music. Punch was served during the entire evening and at intermission refreshments were served in Union hall. William E. Tarbox was chairman and Mrs. Clara R. Catrius floor directress. She was assisted by the following ladies:—Miss Annie E. Rose, Miss Mildred L. Crowley, Miss Clara E. Call, Miss Bessie E. Roberts, Mrs. Leonora Gibb, Mrs. Sarah T. Roache, Mrs. Nellie Podbury, Miss Myra E. Lester, Mrs. Mary P. Sinclair, Miss Jennie M. Laing, Miss Charlotte Barnicoat, Mrs. Josephine Schools, Miss Eleanor Files.

HONESTY IN EVERYTHING

The Suffragettes had a brilliant parade in New York, but we entertain the suspicion that Hubbie's hash was burned that morning.

Kaiser Wilhelm is investing in sheep farms in Africa, but he can never sell any dollar a word articles about lambing and shearing.

Anyway we foresee an intermission between elections from about Jan. 1, 1914 to March 1, 1915, when the president will be able to consider public business.

Chicago people fought to get newspapers during the pressmen's strike, but it was not from anxiety to secure the comment on the International lesson for Sunday school!

Unless Mr. Taft and the Colonel make up pretty soon, we shall have to serve their meals in their own rooms when they come to visit us, as we can't have the peace of the dining room broken this way.

The mosquito is with us again. This means malaria. This rainy week means a large crop in three weeks. Have your screens put in immediately and thereby insure your family from resulting disease and expense.

The Board of Health is beginning a crusade against mosquitoes by covering all marshes and bodies of stagnant water with petroleum. All bodies of still water are being drained for these are the mosquitoes breeding grounds. Co-operation on your part will reduce the number of these pests in your vicinity, and encourage the Board of Health in their good work.

TOWN PARTNERSHIP.

A village, a town, a city, is a partnership. All of us here in this place are in business together. We have our own individual ownership of property, but our prosperity as a whole is very closely bound up with each other.

If you have a house to rent, goods to sell, labor to sell, your success in getting a good price for such services depends wholly on the prosperity of your neighbors. If they are doing a good business, they will pay you good prices, and as times go the prices paid you will tend to increase from year to year.

On the other hand, if your neighbors are not prosperous, they will haggle over the last cent for your house, your goods, your labor, and the prices for these services will tend to fall.

When you buy goods away from home, you work to reduce the prosperity of your neighbors, making them both less able and less willing to do anything to advance your prosperity. When you buy goods at home you increase the prosperity of your neighbors, and they become better able to advance your interests, and entertain a kindly feeling toward you that makes them want to do so.

It would be interesting to trace in detail sometime the actual result of buying goods at home that you previously bought somewhere outside. Suppose your wife orders a $25 bill of clothing at A's dry goods store, instead of buying it on some trip to another city. The merchant of course has to send a large portion of that $25 out of town to pay the jobber for the goods. But a large share of the expense of any business is in labor, rent, taxes, etc., spent at home. It would not surprise us if $10 of that $25 stuck right at home. In some lines more more than that would do so.

This portion that remains at home spreads out in a circle of usefulness. In this case it would pay the wages of a clerk for a week, enable the clerk to pay house rent for two or three weeks, permit the landlord to pay the carpenter to put his property in better repair, allow the carpenter to pay the interest on his mortgage on the bank, help the bank to lend money to a mechanic to build a new house, and so on. Think it over

TRAGEDY OF THE WEATHER.

The rainy weather has long since passed the limit of being a joke. It is now more like a menace all around, and in the south it has brought about a gigantic tragedy. The loss of life is pitiful. The loss of property is enormous; and the end is not yet. We ought in the nature of things to be enjoying a little warm weather, and to be watching ball games, and wandering in the woods, and automobile or trolley riding, and saying "Isn't it warm?" Instead we are traveling around much of the time in heavy overgarments, only an idiot has discarded the thick winter "underneaths," fires are still run part of the time in many homes, everything underfoot most of the time is oozy and sloppy as soon as you get off the paved streets, every day's news includes a list of baseball games called off and more loss for the managers, and everything seems backward and dull and there is desolation and the grouch everywhere.—Brockton Enterprise.

CLEANLINESS OF STREETS.

In the turmoil of house cleaning it is not surprising that the busy housewife loses sight of the fact that everything is not sanitary and faultless when the house is cleaned. The cleanliness of the streets and alleys of many foreign cities should point a moral for the American who neglects the alley or the drainage of the streets and curbstones. Here disease and filth are allowed to spread at times to the cleanest and most beautiful homes. In one of the consular reports from Bavaria we find the following:

"There are so few flies in Bavaria that they can in no way be regarded as a pest. This is perhaps due to the extreme cleanliness of Bavarian cities. Courtyards, alleys, vacant lots, etc., are kept clean, and the hallways and entrances of the houses are as fresh as oap and water can make them. There are no quarters that could be justly designated as slums, not even in the districts where buildings hundreds of years old are the rule. Garbage is collected in tin or inc cans and regularly removed in closed wagons in such a manner as to be inoffensive to either sight or smell."

Here is a lesson which Americans need to learn. In the annual spring cleaning remember that you can't have a sanitary highway if the back streets are left to weeds and garbage; that you can't rid the community of flies and other germspreading nuisances until the breeding places are attacked and eliminated. Clean cities are just beginning to be regarded as a desirable thing in this country. The increasing attention to public health and morals and civic beauty should shortly cause them to be regarded as a necessity.—Haverhill Gazette.

FRANCES HEWETT DALRYMPLE.

Twenty-two years ago next August Frederick H. Bishop came with his family to live in their new home in Wollaston. Almost ever since that date Mrs. Dalrymple, mother of Mrs. Bishop has had her home with them. She became a member of the Wollaston Unitarian church and active in its Ladies' Aid society (now the Alliance) the Unity club and in church and community work. She was one of the first members of the Quincy Women's club, retaining her membership until the last.

Although qualified by regular writing for publication to become a member of the New England Woman's Press Association, she never made application for membership but for a quarter of a century met with them frequently and shared their interests. She was interested actively in the world's work and eager to the last to learn of progress in any direction.

Very few women not in active public life have been so widely known and loved. She was a direct descendant of Pergrine White, through the Mayo and Harwoods' and qualified to belong to Revolutionary societies also.

Her married life was spent in Springfield and in Grafton, Massachusetts and she came to Quincy soon after the death of her husband John Dalrymple in July 1890 to make her home with their only child. She was a graduate of Millbury academy under the well-known principal A. P. Stone. She was intensely fond of nature in all forms, particularly of flowers and birds and her garden was famous throughout her home town.

To the last her message was of joy "I want you to have a good time" she said to each one. There was no going about with hushed voices, she wanted music and merriment and busy life. Except for sicknesses common to children her first sickness was her last and this was without pain, only the discomfort of indigestion and the weakness that could not be averted. She passed on in quiet sleep Friday noon, May tenth leaving her daughter and family, a sister Mrs. Julia S. Hicks of Hartford Connecticut, and her family and other relatives to miss one whose entire life was of helpful service and loving tender consideration of others.

THE WRECK OF THE TITAN

by MORGAN ROBERTSON

MORGAN ROBERTSON.

PROLOGUE.

A wonderfully prophetic fiction story written fourteen years ago of the wreck of the TITAN, which, like the Titanic, was the world's largest and most palatial vessel and generally regarded as unsinkable and indestructible. Like the Titanic, too, the TITAN was wrecked by an iceberg in the month of April when speeding along the northern lane route of the Atlantic. The wreck in the fiction story happened in about the same place that the Titanic disaster occurred, and there were not sufficient life boats and rafts to take off the passengers and crew. Read and you will see that there are many other remarkable and startling coincidences between the wreck of the TITAN, the largest steamship of the world of fiction, and the wreck of the Titanic, the largest steamship of the material world.

CHAPTER I.
The Unsinkable Titan.

SHE was the largest craft afloat and the greatest of the works of men. In her construction and maintenance were involved every science, profession and trade known to civilization. On her bridge were officers, who, besides being the pick of the royal navy, had passed rigid examinations in all studies that pertained to the winds, tides, currents and geography of the sea. They were not only seamen, but scientists. The same professional standard applied to the personnel of the engine room, and the steward's department was equal to that of a first class hotel.

Two brass bands, two orchestras and a theatrical company entertained the passengers during waking hours, a corps of physicians administered to the temporal and a corps of chaplains to the spiritual welfare of all on board, while a well drilled fire company soothed the fears of nervous ones and added to the general entertainment by daily practice with their apparatus.

From her lofty bridge ran hidden telegraph lines to the bow, stern, engine room, crow's nest on the foremast and to all parts of the ship where work was done, each wire terminating in a marked dial with a movable indicator containing in its scope every order and answer required in handling the massive hulk, either at the dock or at sea, which eliminated to a great extent the hoarse, nerve racking shouts of officers and sailors.

From the bridge, engine room and a dozen places on her deck the ninety-two doors of nineteen water tight compartments could be closed in half a minute by turning a lever. These doors would also close automatically in the presence of water. With nine compartments flooded the ship would still float, and as no known accident of the sea could possibly fill this many the steamship Titan was considered practically unsinkable.

Built of steel throughout and for passenger traffic only, she carried no combustible cargo to threaten her destruction by fire, and the immunity from the demand for cargo space had enabled her designers to discard the flat, kettle bottom of cargo boats and give her the sharp dead rise—or slant from the keel—of a steam yacht, and this improved her behavior in a seaway. She was 800 feet long, of 70,000 tons displacement, 40,000 horsepower, and on her trial trip had steamed at a rate of twenty-five knots an hour over the bottom, in the face of unconsidered winds, tides and currents. In short, she was a floating city, containing within her steel walls all that tends to minimize the dangers and discomforts of the Atlantic voyage, all that makes life enjoyable.

Unsinkable, indestructible, she carried as few boats as would satisfy the laws. These, twenty-four in number, were securely covered and lashed down to their chocks on the upper deck, and if launched would hold 500 people. She carried no useless, cumbersome life rafts, but, because the law required it, each of the 3,000 berths in the passengers', officers' and crew's quarters contained a cork jacket, while about twenty circular life buoys were strewn along the rails.

In view of her absolute superiority to other craft, a rule of navigation thoroughly believed in by some captains, but not yet openly followed, was announced by the steamship company to apply to the Titan. She would steam at full speed in fog, storm and sunshine and on the northern lane route, winter and summer, for the following good and substantial reasons: First, that if another craft should strike her the force of the impact would be distributed over a larger area if the Titan had full headway, and the brunt of the damage would be borne by the other; second, that if the Titan was the aggressor she would certainly destroy the other craft, even at half speed, and perhaps damage her own bows, while at full speed she would cut her in two with no more damage to herself than a paint brush could remedy. In either case, as the lesser of two evils, it was best that the smaller hull should suffer. A third reason was that at full speed she could be more easily steered out of danger, and a fourth that in case of an end-on collision with an iceberg—the only thing afloat that she could not conquer—her bows would be crushed in but a few feet farther at full than at half speed, and at the most three compartments would be flooded, which would not matter with six more to spare.

So it was confidently expected that when her engines had limbered themselves the steamship Titan would land her passengers 3,000 miles away with the promptitude and regularity of a railway train. She had beaten all records on her maiden voyage, but up to the third return trip had not lowered the time between Sandy Hook and Daunt's rock to the five day limit, and it was unofficially rumored among the 2,000 passengers who had embarked at New York that an effort would now be made to do so.

Eight tugs dragged the great mass to midstream and pointed her nose down the river; then the pilot on the bridge spoke a word or two, the first officer blew a short blast on the whistle and turned a lever, the tugs gathered in their lines and drew off. Down in the bowels of the ship three small engines were started, opening the

MOVE FOR NEGRO BISHOPS IS MADE

Plan to Reduce Membership of the General Conference

Minneapolis, May 11.—A development at the Methodist general conference was a renewal of the movement of negro delegates to secure a bishop of their own race. The plan has twice been rejected, but the negroes decline to believe that there is any chance of trouble through having their bishops preside over white conferences.

A plan to reduce the size of the general conference was the special order. The present basis of representation is one ministerial and one lay delegate to each forty-five members of the annual conference sending them.

Three new candidates for the episcopacy have entered the field. They are Dr. H. C. Jennings, head of the Methodist Book concern at Cincinnati; Dr. J. B. Hingley, secretary of the general conference, and Andrew Gillies, a Minneapolis pastor.

BRIGGS REPORT NOT IN

Fitzgerald Asks Foss Not to Pardon Richeson

Boston, May 11.—Mayor Fitzgerald feels called upon as Boston's chief executive to protest against any possible clemency being extended toward Clarence V. T. Richeson, and he sent a letter to Governor Foss based on the reports in the morning papers that Dr. Coriat had declared the prisoner insane and that the case, therefore, would be referred by the governor to the executive council.

The mayor draws the conclusion that, as Richeson "was sane enough a few months ago to admit his deed, it is inconceivable that he could be adjudged insane now." He says the power of money was shown in the Thaw trial in the testimony of so-called alienists and he asks the governor what protection there is for the community at large, if some men who commit crimes can, with unlimited money, secure the services of alienists to declare them insane.

So far no report has been made by Dr. L. V. Briggs, the alienist, on the mental condition of Richeson and the doctor is not sure just when it will be ready.

Immanuel Baptist church of Cambridge, where Richeson formerly preached, has named a committee to select a new pastor.

Mrs. Louie E. Brittain at the anti-Mormon meeting in Pilgrim hall reiterated her charges that Richeson is a Mormon and an elder of that church. She then introduced William Baxter, who claimed that Richeson was one of the Mormon elders who visited his house several times before his wife and daughter suddenly departed for Salt Lake ity. "I know it was the same Richeson," he said.

Sheriff John Quinn had all his arrangements made for the removal of Richeson to the death chamber at the state prison late yesterday afternoon, when a telephone message from the executive chamber at the state house stopped him. The condemned man will be held at the county jail until after the meeting of the governor's council next Wednesday.

Miss Myra Louise Eckhoff who will sing at next Wednesday's morning musicale at the clubhouse, is a concert singer of note and has a beautiful soprano voice, pure and sweet, and of a bird-like quality which is very rare. She excels in singing coloratura music, which means that she has given to the art of singing, years of earnest study. Few students of today are willing to work hard enough to reach this goal. In addition to a group of songs, Miss Eckhoff will sing "Sicrome un di caduto il sole," a coratina from "The Pearl Fishers" by Bizet, and one of the most musical and pleasing of the many arias in the repertoire of this popular singer.

Miss Alice Redding of Washington street went to her summer home at Plymouth today. Her friend Mrs. George Anderson of Elm street, Braintree opened the cottage Wednesday and with her husband is spending a fortnight there.

Mrs. Bessie Laighton of Roxbury is the guest of Mrs. Thomas A. Addison of Washington street.

The Sophomore tree ceremonies at Vassar college were given Saturday and will long be remembered by students and friends of the college for their beauty and gorgeousness. Their huge success was largely due to the untiring efforts of Miss Muriel Badger of Wollaston, Miss Dorothy Smith of New York and Miss Katherine Lonebard of Winchester, three very popular member of the class of 1914. The special feature of this year's ceremonies were the dances of the elements, fire, water and wind lead by Miss Muriel Badger.

Mrs. Arthur L. Mitchell and daughter, Miss Lucy A. Mitchell of Atlantic, were the guests this week of Mrs. Elizabeth Follett of Putnam street.

Mr. and Mrs. S. F. Copeland left this week for Grand Lake Stream, Maine, for the summer.

* * *

Mrs. Charles J. Anderson of Oakland avenue who has been ill for two months is now able to go down stairs, though her convalescing is very tedious. On her birthday, May first many rememberances were sent her by friends, including a large birthday cake, flowers, gloves and two large Maybaskets filled with goodies. Her family gave her some beautiful cut glass pieces.

Mr. Herman Payne and Miss Rose Sturgis both of Springfield, Mass., were united in marriage Monday evening at the home of Rev. T. W. Davison. Mr. Payne was a member of Mr. Davison's church in Springfield.

BRIEFS

The City Council Committee on Streets met Friday evening.

The Sea street dream summer theatre opens Sunday afternoon and evening for the season.

Commissioner Tupper is being congratulated on the fine job which he is doing in City Square.

Mrs. Agnes G. Fletcher of Garfield street is to hold a whist party on Monday evening at her home.

No meeting of the City Council will be held Monday evening. The next regular meeting will be on May 20.

Do not forget that tomorrow is Mother's Day. Wear a white carnation and see your mother or write her if possible.

Whatsoever Circle of King's Daughters will meet with Mrs. Robert Schoonmaker, 260 Belmont street, Monday, May 13th.

The last session of the Parliamentary law class was held Tuesday morning at the Women's clubhouse and was successful in every way, so much so that a class is being arranged for the fall with Mrs. Sherman as the leader.

FLOODS SWEEPING ON NEW ROADS

A Breach of 3,000 Feet Spreads the Waters

New Orleans, May 11.—Desperate conditions in the flood territory north of this city continue unabated and the torrent flowing through breaks in the west levees reached out for more towns, but in New Orleans the river showed a fall of two-tenths of a foot in the last twenty-four hours.

Most of the flood water is coming from the great gash in the levee at Torras. This breach is 3000 feet wide. Water pours through it with the speed of a mill race. The flood is strongest through Pointe Coupee parish, where thousands of fertile sugar cane acres have been inundated.

A new menace appeared in the flood when carcasses of hundreds of animals came floating in the back water between New Roads and Torras.

In replying to telegraphic inquiry from Mayor Gaynor of New York concerning conditions in the flooded districts of Louisiana, Governor Saunders informed the mayor that there were 5000 refugees in Baton Rouge and as many more due to arrive.

Louisiana has approximately 17,000 people made homeless by the crevasse in the Mississippi levee at Torras alone. Of this number 12,000 are dependent upon the bounty of the United States government.

active in arranging "Gentlemen's Night," the calendar date being Jan. 8. This was very successful and to it were especially invited the heads of all city departments and of all local improvement and charitable organizations. It was considered well to bring these men, if possible, into close touch with the club, its work and its home, under the roof of which all the club work is planned and much of it executed. This Committee has been actively interested in all Legislation pertaining to child welfare, one of its members, Mrs. Clara Cahill Park, being really the cause of the recent appointment of a committee to report to the Legislature upon the "Pension for Mothers of dependent and minor children" bill, about which the daily papers have said so much lately. A large class in Parliamentary Law was started March 5, continuing through the season and on Tuesday April 30 a special club meeting was arranged when Mrs. Glendower Evans spoke on the "Minimum Wage" and Mrs. Park on "Child Welfare." Music and a social hour helped to fill the afternoon and it was pronounced one of the pleasantest of the season. Through this committee's influence the Quincy Women's Club was one of a number announced in the Boston papers, as patrons of the lecture at Huntington Hall on Jan. 12 by Rabbi Wise on "The Institution and the Child."

The Literature committee,, Mrs. John O. Short, chairman, held two dances to raise money for Library Extension work, in particular for a reflectorscope. A course of lectures was arranged in "Current Events" under Mrs. May Alden Ward, and another in "Modern Literature" under Mrs. Herbert J. Gurney. Although both were for pay, the last meeting in each course was open to all club members, followed by social teas and were much enjoyed. Finding that the present city government was inclined to cut the appropriation for Library Extension work now established in West Quincy, the following sentiment was expressed at the Executive Board meeting "As the safety and progress of this country depends largely on the diffusion of knowledge, all are asked to co-operate in arousing public sentiment to the value of Library Extension work as something which the city cannot afford to drop." The Literature committee's calendar date, Jan. 9, was filled by Dr. Samuel McChord Crothers, his subject, "American Temperament."

The Music committee, Mrs. Jennie B. Worster, chairman, has furnished music at every club meeting, their calendar date being Dec. 12, the "Annual Musicale," held this year in Music hall and opened to the public for the regular guest fee. A course of May Morning Musicales at the clubhouse, May 1, 15 and 29 is proving a great satisfaction and pleasure. These were inaugurated as a means of recognizing the talent of three young musicians who have formed the Mazah Trio. This trio is the foundation of the programs and this recognition of their ability by the club will be of undoubted value to these young players.

The Philanthropy committee, Mrs. Chandler W. Smith, chairman, has furnished many entertainments for the inmates of the City Home, notably at Thanksgiving, Christmas and Easter and has done much to brighten their lives. It was largely instrumental in establishing the Associated Charities and there is co-operation constantly in this work. A joint meeting at the clubhouse to introduce the new secretary, Miss Jennie M. Purchase, was a successful and happy affair. This committee will hold a June Breakfast in two wards to raise money for the philanthropic work of the club. Their calendar date was an open one, their speakers Judge Avery, on the "Benefits of Probation" and Dr. Jeffrey R. Brackett on "Our Duty Concerning Offenders."

The Press committee, Mrs. Frederick H. Bishop, chairman is a second new committee this year. The chairman sees that her subordinates prepare their copy in a manner to accord with the dignity of the club and that only matter suitable for publication is submited. Three reporters attend to the Quincy and Boston papers.

The Printing committee, Mrs. Zenas S. Arnold, chairman, has acquitted itself admirably as usual.

The Program committee, Mrs. Edward B. Marsh, chairman, in addition to assigning all dates on the calendar, provided entertainment for three afternoons; Jan. 23, a professional reader of Dickens' works: Feb. 13, the Annual Dramatics at Music hall, "The Honeymoon" by Tobin, acted, staged and coached by club members. March 12, a lecture by Ralph Parlette, the western humorist, on "Some of the things that make me rich." This committee also arranged the Children's Party at the clubhouse, on April 13. The children of waiting list as well as regular members were entertained.

A Reception commitee, was formed in the mid-year. Mrs. Walter S. Pinkham appointed chairman, and has proved a valuable aid in promoting the social side of regular club meetings.

The Visiting Nurse committee, Mrs. Albert N. Murray, chairman, has been especially active, realizing from the first the necessity of enlarging the work to meet the growing demand for service. At the first board meeting of the season an increase over other years in the amount of summer work was reported. Miss Robinson resigned as nurse on July 15 and Miss McEwan, the present nurse was first hired for two months on trial and later was permanently engaged. After some intermittent assistance in the work the first of the winter, the need of permanent assistance seemed necessary and an assistant nurse, Miss Pierson, was hired on March 11 for a two months trial. Her service has been very satisfactory. Extra furnishings for the nurse's room were acquired by a special committee. Mrs. Murray has inaugurated new methods of financing the work, believing that everybody should contribute towards its support. She has been able to renovate the nurse's rooms, making them much more comfortable and has broadened and systematized the work in many ways. Her reports to the Executive Board each month show an approximate average of 200 calls per month through the year. On Thursday April 25 there was at the clubhouse a talk by Miss Kate Creamer, superintendant of Visiting Nurse work in Cambridge. All interested were invited to attend. This committee's date on the calendar was an open date. Dr. Richard C. Cabot of Boston spoke on "The Work of the Visiting Nurse," Dr. George M. Sheahan on the work in Quincy and the nurse, Miss McEwan gave an account of one day's work covering all parts of the city.

The Women's Exchange committee has had sales of home cooked food, preserves, candies etc., at nearly every regular meeting and special candy sales at some of the large meetings outside the clubhouse. A considerable sum of money has been earned, some of which has been donated to the Visiting Nurse work and to the Anti-Tuberculosis society and some to repairs on a room in the club house.

The club in February voted to take a $5 membership in the Massachusetts Forestry Association and has in the past year voted to support many movements towards the betterment of existing rules in various branches of work and in matters pertaining to legislation. Many papers referring to such things are sent to the president and the most important of these are presented for action. The club has appointed delegates to all important conferences on matters pertaining to public welfare and has listened to many interesting reports on these matters. It has met all obligations justly and promptly. Action in all its affairs has been dignified and earnest. With a waiting list of 165 and the constantly increasing interest in its regular meetings, the time seems nearly ripe for action on enlarging the membership, holding regular program meetings in Alpha hall and devoting the clubhouse to the ever increasing uses of the departmental work which shows more and more its possibilities of growth.

That the Brackett Homestead will become more and more a centre for humanitarian, social and literary work as the years move on becomes increasing apparent to those closely in touch with the club legislation. —Irene Chipman Tirrell, Recording Secretary, Quincy Women's Club. Quincy, May 4, 1912.

PUBLIS TOWEL DOOMED.

The State Board of Health has officially set the date for the beginning of the enforcement of the Common Towel Act, as prescribed in the act of this year for June 1, 1912. Therefore beginning on the first day of next month, it will be strictly against the law to maintain a public or common towel in any building used as a public institution, hotel, restaurant, theatre, public hall, public school, in any railroad station or cars, or in any ferry or steamboat. The word "common towel" is construed to mean a roller towel or one available for use by more than one person using facilities for washing in those places. Following close upon the heels of the drinking cup law, this step forward in the prevention of contagious diseases is regarded as the most important health measure enacted this year.

On and after June 1, whoever violates the law regarding common towels, will be adjudged guilty of a misdemeanor, and will be fined twenty-five dollars for each such offense.

Wireless For Scholars

Chicago, May 11.—With the approval of Mrs. Ella F. Young, superintendent of Chicago schools, the school management committee has adopted a recommendation urging the teaching of wireless telegraphy in the public schools. The Titanic disaster, it is said, caused hundreds of boys in city high schools to petition for instruction in wireless telegraphy.

FRAZER IS FOUND

Missing Secretary-Treasurer of Seamen's Union Will Be Indicted

Boston, May 11.—William H. Frazier, 48 years old, the secretary-treasurer of the International Seamen's Union of America and the Atlantic Coast Seamen's union, wanted in this city for the alleged larceny of funds of the local branch, has been arrested for the Boston police in Butte, Mont., according to a dispatch received by Deputy Watts at police headquarters.

The necessary requisition papers are now being prepared and Inspectors Rooney and McCauley will leave in a few days to bring Frazier back.

The "Pre-darned" Sock

Socks are bound to wear out. The real question is: How long from the first wear to the first darn.

It's easy enough to make coarse, thick socks that will wear. But to make light, sheer socks that will wear is another matter.

Interwoven Socks are as light and sheer as the finest socks you ever saw; yet they wear.

They are wear-proofed at every wear-point---toe, heel, sole, and ankle---with the most durable knit fabric known.

That is, Interwoven Socks are darned before you buy them.

Machines of almost human intelligence do this pre-darning.

They do it so ingeniously that the entire foot of an Interwoven Sock is as smooth, soft, and fine as it is wear-resisting.

The machines not only properly pre-darn Interwoven Socks, but also give them the ankle hug, without a seam to give 'way or hurt the feet.

BETHANY CHURCH.

Bethany church observes Mother's day Sunday evening when the pastor will speak on "Our Mothers." The music for the day will be: Morning—Organ prelude, "Weihnacht's pastorale" by Merkel, Choir anthem "Hymn of peace" by Callcott; solo, Mrs. Moore Postlude "Introduction and Fugue" by Dunham.

Evening—Offertory, Andante from Beethoven's First Symphony for piano and organ and for the postlude "Choral with variations" by Whiting.

The evening choir music will be given by the girls' choir from the Episcopal mission in Braintree.

The large audiences which are assembling—both morning and evening—from Sabbath to Sabbath are not only tributes of welcome to the new pastor, Rev. Benjamin A. Willmott, but also evidence of desire and appetite for strong earnest messages on the great problems and facts of life. Many of the prominent and popular pulpits in our land today are those not aiming at popularity, but which are passing along the spirit, call and comfort of the Great Teacher to a hungry, weary people who are cherishing a vision of better life towards God and man.

ATLANTIC SHAKESPEARE CLUB.

The annual meeting of the Atlantic Shakespeare society was held at the residence of Mrs. Roger H. Wilde, Thursday, and officers for the coming year were elected as follows: President—Mrs. W. Ward Whitcher; vice-president—Mrs. Edward S. Tenney; treasurer—Mrs. Lyndon D. Gurney; secretary—Miss Mary L. Hinckley, executive committee—Mrs. Whitcher, Mrs. Tenney, Mrs. Gurney, Mrs. Coe, and Miss Hinkley. Music committee—Mrs. Cecil H. Marble, Mrs. F. J. Peirce and Mrs. L. D. Gurney.

Three new members were admitted, they having served as substitutes—Mrs. W. A. Jackson, Mrs. F. J. Bartlett, and Mrs. Elijah G. Hall.

The reading of the last two scenes of act third in Hamlet completed the readings for the year. Mrs. Tenney, in the absence of the president welcomed the incoming president in her usual cordial manner. Mrs. Whitcher spoke a few words of greeting. Mrs. Tenney extended a hearty invitation to the members present and past and to those who had substituted the past year to visit her bungalow at Scituate for the annual outing in June.

BRIEFS

Mrs. William E. Alden is to give an account of a vacation in the Maine woods, at the meeting of St. Margaret's Guild of Christ church on Friday evening in the parish house. Members are to be allowed to bring a friend to the meeting.

Monday evening the last monthly meeting of the officers and teachers of First Church Sunday school will be held in the chapel at 7.45. Arrangements will be made for Floral Sunday in June and for the reopening of the school in the fall.

Sunday will be observed as Mother's day at the Hall Place M. E. church. In the morning the pastor will preach a sermon appropriate to the day and at the evening service various persons will speak in loving tribute of "Mother."

Mother's day will be observed in the First Presbyterian church on Sunday morning at 10.30. The pastor will preach an appropriate sermon. Mothers are urged to be present.

John H. Wyburn, superintendent of the famous Water street Rescue Mission in New York city, and treasurer of the National Federation of Gospel Missions which holds a conference in Park Street Church, Boston, May 13-15 will speak of the rescue work in New York in the First Presbyterian church Sunday evening at seven o'clock. Mr. Wyburn is a product of the rescue work and tells a most interesting story. We are most fortunate in securing his services in Quincy on Sunday evening and invite all to this service to hear one who has seen the lower sides of life and has through the gospel lifted men to a higher plane.

The Walther Men's class will meet Sunday at 12.15 in the Wollaston Baptist church. Rev. Joseph Walther will lead the discussion, subject: "Loving our Enemies. Blessing them that curse us. Turning the other cheek to those that smite us. Giving to every one that asks of us. How far are we to practice these things today?" Men not in other similar classes invited.

Miss G. C. Gorham of Arlington street has moved to Old Colony avenue.

The regular monthly meeting of the Wollaston Parents' and Teachers' Association will be held at the the new Wollaston school on Monday evening at eight o'clock. Address by James D. Howlett, principal of the High school on Co-operation in Education. Music by the seventh grade of Wollaston school. This will be the anual meeting with election of officers.

The Charles H. Wilkins family of Old Colony avenue, Wollaston moved this week to Dexter avenue, Watertown.

The Glee club concert to be given at Alpha hall Thursday evening under the auspices of the Woman's Guild of St. Chrysostom's church. Mrs. George B. Curran, director, promises a most delightful evening's enjoyment. Assisting the club will be Miss Estelle Wilcox, reader, a graduate of the Emerson school of Oratory; Mrs. Herbert Y. Follet, vocal soloist and Miss Helen Parkhurst violin soloist from the New England Conservatory of Music.

Mrs. L. J. Hayford has just completed an index of Memorial Church and Sunday school which minister to two hundred and eighty-seven families.

Mrs. Fred Sutherland is to play the violin at the Winthrop Congregational church Sunday evening.

W. F. Cummings who was the efficient chairman of the building committee of Memorial church gave a talk some time ago at the Faneuil church, Brighton, on raising funds for church building; and has been invited to meet with them at the beginning of their campaign to raise money and give suggestions from his Atlantic and Y. M. C. A. experiences.

BLOOD SHED MARK RIOTS

Foreigners Causing Trouble In Coal Regions

POLICEMEN WERE STONED

Scranton and Pottsville Centres of Great Unrest—Two More Rioters Wounded—Funeral of One Miner Held—General Purchase of Arms by Foreigners—Mounted State Constabulary May Be Ambushed

Scranton, Pa., May 11.—Cayuga breaker of the Delaware, Lackawanna and Western company in North Scranton, formed the background of an ugly riotous demonstration. Foreign workers broke through the police lines, rushed the firerooms and dragged out men, turning them over to others who beat them and threw them aside.

State police on duty all night at the Leggetts Creek mine, a mile away, hurried over, and their coming rallied the local police together, and the officers charged the mob.

Some shots were fired by the police as Policemen Peter Marker and Louis Davis fell, both with heads battered by cobblestones. The state troopers then rode into the crowd, firing their revolvers. Mike Placka and another foreigner dropped to the ground, the former shot through the abdomen, the latter in the leg.

The foreigners threatened all kinds of trouble but the police and troopers now seem to have the situation under control. William Littlejohn, going to fire duty at the Leggetts Creek mine was badly beaten by women.

Pottsville, May 11.—The funeral of Bolo Washkavish, who died from gunshot wounds received in Wednesday's riot at Minersville, was attended by about 3000 foreigners, headed by a band. The best of order prevailed throughout. The American residents of Minersville stayed off the streets during the hours of the funeral and the state police withdrew from the town.

The bitterness engendered among the foreign speaking miners of Minersville when three of their countrymen were shot by the state police during the riot was intensified late yesterday when Michael Mullange, one of the trio, died. An autopsy revealed the fact that his death was caused by a 44-calibre bullet, whereas the state troopers use 38-calibre weapons. It is believed that he was shot by by somebody in the mob. That trouble is brewing is apparent from the number of firearms being purchased by naturalized foreigners. Several dealers in Minersville have practically sold out and there is also a big demand for firearms in Pottsville.

Officers of the state police fear that an attempt may be made to lead their men into an ambuscade along some of the mountain roads. They believe that the naturalized foreigners are distributing the firearms to their countrymen with this object in view.

SOCIALIST CONVENTION

General Opinion Is That Debs Will Again Head Ticket

Indianapolis, May 11.—After arranging details for the national convention, which will begin here tomorrow morning, the Socialist national executive committee went on record as demanding free speech, but condemning "free speech fights" and the methods by which free speech is being sought by the Industrial Workers of the World.

That Eugene Debs will again be nominated for president was the opinion of most of the Socialist leaders that gathered at their headquarters. Others mentioned for the head of the ticket if Debs should decline were Emil Seidel of Milwaukee; Job Harriman, Los Angeles; Max Hayes, Cleveland; Duncan McDonald, Springfield, Ills., and Charles Edward Russell, New York.

John N. Work of Chicago, national secretary of the party, reported a gain of more than 300 percent in membership in the last four years. He reported that in 1908 the total membership was a little more than 41,000, but that now it is more than 142,000.

FEDERALS WIN BATTLE

Orozco Loses First Real Engagement of Rebellion

Mexica City, May 11.—Ninety insurrectos were killed and more than 100 wounded in a battle between 1000 rebelts of General Orozco's army unger General Gargoza and a wing of General Huerta's federal army under Brigadier General Rabago near Tlahualilo.

In an official report of the battle received it was stated that only seven federals were killed. This is the first decisive victory of the federals in the north since the campaign against Orozco began.

REPUDIATES TESTIMONY

Williams Denies Some Statements Made Against Archbald

Washington, May 11.—Edward J. Williams of Scranton, Pa., chief witness so far against Judge Robert W. Archbald of the commerce court, practically denied before the house judiciary committee some of the testimony he gave against the judge on Wednesday. Williams was a partner with Judge Archbald in negotiations for buying a culm bank from the Erie railroad, to sell at a profit of $12,000 to the Lackawanna and Wyoming railroad.

The judge at that time had the Erie's so-called literage cases in his court. The committee is investigating to decide if impeachment proceedings should be brought against the judge.

BATTLESHIP VISITED BY W. S. BURGESS

Successful Hydroplane Voyage Creates Enthusiasm

Salem, Mass., May 11.—That aviation is one of the coming innovations in naval warfare was aptly demonstrated to those on board the battleships Georgia and Rhode Island at about 6:30 last evening, when out of a clear sky came the hail from the bridge "an aeroplane standing this way." This was at once reported, and it created a stir among both officers and the crew.

When nearing the Georgia, the aviator, W. S. Burgess, gave a very pretty demonstration of what a hydroplane was capable of doing by swooping down in the water, where he remained for a few seconds, and then gracefully flying skyward.

When a little way from the ship he made a perfect circle around the Georgia, alighting again and again in the water on her port beam, where a line was sent to him and he and the machine towed to the quarter-boom, where it was tied up.

He was received on the quarter deck by almost all the officers on board. As he steped aboard he was greeted with a cheer by the crew of the vessel, which could be heard on shore three miles away.

All on board are firmly convinced that in the very near future the call of "lay aft the first aeroplane's crew" will, in reality, become an important factor in naval warfare.

Rear Admiral Fiske expects to fly with Mr. Burgess in his hydroplane today.

PANAMA SEEKS ARMS

Peaceful Elections If They Have to Fight For Them

Little Panama Wants Large Supply of Arms and Ammunition

Washington, May 11.—Panama is preparing for its approaching presidential election by negotiating with the United States for the purchase of arms and ammunition.

Dr. Arias, the minister from Panama, has asked the war department to sell his country 500 of the Krag-Jorgensen rifles discarded by the regular army, and 500,000 cartridges.

The election is scheduled to take place on the first Sunday in July.

"No Bill" For Emery

Alfred, Me., May 11.—No bill was reported against former Sheriff Charles O. Emery by the grand jury of the supreme court. Mr. Emery was bound over on charges of bribing and attempting to bribe Asa A. Richardson of Kennebunk while the latter was serving as county attorney. He already had been exonerated by the state legislature which investigated the charges.

A BOSTON GIRL'S BUDGET.

Bostonians Advised Not to Bathe—Massachusetts Suffragist Shows that Men Don't Want to Vote and Don't Know Enough to Vote.—Bears and Birds Will Soon be on Exhibition in Boston's Brand New Zoo—The World's Largest Flying Cage Now Stands in Franklin Park.

"Don't buy booze if your children need shoes. We don't want that kind of money." Thus reads a sign in a cafe in greater Boston, to which considerable attention has been attracted. It is a refreshing example of a management which is in the business of catering to the desires of the public, so long as their gratification does not rob the family of the necessities of life. it is pretty safe to assume that the proprietors do not lose money by their exhibition of humanity and decency, for many people whose expenditures on good cheer mean loss to no one but themselves have been attracted into becoming regular patrons by the touch of justice and right thinking in the little motto.

Victory for the small boy—but how on earth are the rest of us to know whether we should wash our faces? We have been listening to exhortations on the necessity of cleanliness to health for some time past, but here comes an eminent physician, Dr. A. Howard Powers, who lectures us on using too much water and soap. He declares among other things that many children have been washed from this world into the next, that dandruff and shiny faces are due to too much soap, that the tub bath, of whatever temperature, is likely merely to dilute the dirt and bacteria with which the skin is covered, redistributing them over the body but not removing them. Dr. Powers by no means advocates abandonment of the bath, but he emphasizes the necessity of following the bath with the friction of a good coarse towel, of not using the strong soaps, and of bathing delicate children with olive, palm or almond oil in preference to water, which is apt to irritate the skin. The oil is both cleansing and nourishing. Whether the small boy will submit gracefully to having his face washed in olive oil is doubtful, but perhaps he will not kick any harder than he does against water.

A Boston woman who belongs to no suffrage organization but who "sometimes thinks" recently wrote to the editor of a local paper a letter which the Boston girl takes the liberty of quoting herewith:

"Apropos of the shameful mess which several thousand intelligent Republicans of this state made at the primaries on Tuesday," writes the correspondent, "it seems strange that some one does not come forward with two dogmatic statements:

"First, that when approximately 10 per cent of the for-Taft men failed to properly mark their ballots, it is a sure sign that men as a sex, 'ought not to vote. They are not ready for the ballot.'

"Second, that as 100,000 Republicans of Massachusetts did not go near the primaries on Tuesday, it is conclusive proof that men, as a sex, 'do not want the vote.'

"I would respectfully refer the above to the members of the 'Society Opposed, etc.,' were it not for the fact that the virus of their peculiar and fantastic theories is generally thought to be a complete annihilator of any sense of humor.

"May I add that, if I read 'Vote for Eight candidates in this column,' I feel reasonably sure that I should not vote for nine? I can both read and count; but, of course, I don't want to be so radical as to presume that any other woman is as accomplished as I, or that she would exercise such profound and wonderful intelligence as mine, were she allowed to vote.

"Truly, the responsibilities of being a male citizen in this state are great. I wonder that so many survive!"

People who have journeyed to Franklin Park this spring have returned enthusiastic over the prospects of Boston's new zoological garden, the first installation of which is due to be finished in the early summer. Greater Boston is at last about to outgrow its unenviable distinction of being the only American community of more than 300,000 population which has not provided animal collections for the instruction and entertainment of its people. The forthcoming opening represents the culmination of a long period of agitation started by the Massachusetts Zoological Society and finally brought to success through the readiness of Mayor Fitzgerald and the Boston city council to appropriate a portion of the income of the Parkman fund for zoological purposes. In the efforts now making to popularize the various land and water parks of the metropolitan district the zoological garden at Franklin Park and the new aquarium at South Boston will naturally be important. The zoos of other cities are the most largely attended of local attractions. The ease and quickness with which Franklin and Marine Parks are reached will be a factor in taking very large numbers of people to them. Not only are two sections of the Franklin Park zoo nearly complete and ready for the inspection of visitors; but some of the collections are already at hand while a quest is being made for others. At the service yard on the park's southern side may be seen a large group of pheasants, ducks, geese and other terrestrial and aquatic birds presented to the park commission by Col. John E. Thayer of Lancaster. These birds which are temporarily confined in common-place and lowly coops await admission to a vast flying cage which has been specially constructed with reference to their needs. One other preliminary exhibit is also on view at the service yard. This is the pretty little black she bear Oso, whom Newton Newkirk, the humorist, some time ago presented to the commission. Mr. Newkirk, it seems, received Oso as a cub and undertook to bring her up as she should go in the family circle. She proved rough and boisterous but good natured, and the experiment seemed to be succeeding well until suddenly the young lady bear discovered that she had claws, which would scratch. With the first trickle of human blood it appeared necessary to send Miss Oso to boarding school. She was gladly accepted as the first donation to the zoo. Miss Oso will shortly have as companions some 20 or more young brown bears, reared in the fastnesses of the Rocky mountains. These, at least, are reported to be headed for Boston. Six polar bears are also due here about June 1.

FORCED TO CANNABILISM

Horrors of Starvation Beyond Description In China

Shanghai, May 11.—Reports of terrible suffering from starvation and horrible tales of cannibalism were brought by a courier from the districts of Kiangsu and Anhwei. Famine has been imminent since last September, the floods swept over the rice fields and ruined the entire crops.

It is said one-third of the population has already starved to death. The roadways are strewn with the dead who dropped in their flight from the stricken districts, and along the grand canal can be seen the corpses of those who sought to escape by boat.

300,000 R. R. Men Vote

Kansas City, Mo., May 11.—Over 300,000 shopmen, employed by forty-seven railroads west and south of Chicago, are balloting to decide whether or not they wil strike in sympathy with men now out on the Harriman lines.

To Promote Forest Conservation

Boston, May 11.—The senate, by a vote of 33 to 9, went on record in favor of the amendment to the constitution providing for the taxation of wild and forest land at a rate that will promote conservation of the forests.

Italy Landing Troops

London, May 11.—A special dispatch from Constantinople says that an Italian squadron is off the island of Chios in the Aegean sea. It is reported that the warships are disembarking a large force.

DIARY GIVES NEW EVIDENCE

Now In Custody of Stockton Chief of Police

DORR'S SWEETHEART COMING

"I Will That Old Man Marsh Yet," Dorr Told His Fiance—Body Found After Date Dorr Mailed Diary to Aunt—Police Claim This Written Evidence Will Convict the Accused Prisoner

Boston, May 11.—Inspectors S. R. Burckes and W. H. Kane, who will reach Boston and Lynn this evening with W. A. Dorr, have been unable to get one word from Dorr regarding the case.

Dorr is unaware of the fact that the officers claim to have secured a complete chain of evidence against him since they started from Stockton. The inspectors found a diary which Dorr kept, detailing his movements from the time he left Sacramento until he mailed a letter to his aunt, Miss Orphia Marsh, at New York, on the morning of April 12 at 8:40. He sent the diary with this letter to his aunt. In the letter he told her Marsh was dead.

This was before the body was found at Lynn, it being 9:45 when Thomas Brennan, the wood-picker, found it. "It is all over," is a phrase written at the bottom of the page in the diary under date of April 11, the day George Marsh was murdered. Another entry is: "Oh, my God! The nigger has done it."

The entry April 11 then tells how Dorr got up early and then went out and waited near the home of George Marsh. How he saw the old man walking about the Marsh home talking to neighbors, tells of Marsh's trip in the electric in company with a woman neighbor to Central square and how Marsh entered the tailor shop of Parker & Stone in the Seymour hotel and that Marsh then left there at 3:45. Dorr also told how he waited for Marsh.

The diary is in the possession of Chief Berle of Stockton, being held there by order of the court. The judge ordered the clerk of courts to forward a certified copy of the diary to the Lynn inspectors within a few days.

To support the letter and diary the inspectors learned from Miss Julia Ballinger, Dorr's sweetheart, that Dorr had told her the parties who were handling the estate left Miss Orpha Marsh in Stockton were "a pack of thieves," and he closed by saying: "I ill go east and get that old man Marsh yet."

Dorr's sweetheart is willing to come east and testify against her former lover as a result of treatment he accorded her before he left Stockton to go east.

ONE KILLED BY COLLAPSE

Another Boston Building Caves In and Injures Several

Boston, May 11.—One man is dead, another dying and five others more or less seriously injured as the result of the collapse of part of a new building at 17 and 19 Edinboro street. Workmen in the basement knocked away temporary props and allowed three heavy iron girders that supported the floor timbers for the first, second and third floors to fall into the basement, together with the beams, a pile of lumber and a hand derrick. Two of the victims were standing on the third floor handling lumber that was being passed up from the first floor. Two others were on the street level and the others were in the cellar.

Louis Aaronson of Chelsea, a mason, died soon after reaching Tufts emergency hospital, where all the injured were taken.

Last January an old four-story building on the site was torn down and a three-story structure started to replace it. The owner is Morris Gutlon of Roxbury. Max Hurwitz of Roxbury was the contractor and he had twelve men at work on the new building.

Persons in office buildings across the street said that they first heard warning shouts from the men and then a crash as though several loads of lumber had been dumped into the street at once. There was a cloud of dust and then the workmen who were not injured were seen in a frantic effort to rescue their comrades.

Apparently the timbers and masonry used in the new building were up to the requirements, but the mistake of the workmen was responsible for the accident. The section of the building that collapsed was about thirty feet in depth.

Pardon Given Ingersoll

Augusta, Me., May 11.—A pardon was granted Richmond H. Ingersoll, former treasurer of the York county Savings bank at Biddeford, who is serving a two-year term in the York county jail at Alfred, for embezzlement of certain funds of the bank, by the governor and council.

THE WRECK OF THE TITAN

throttles of three large ones; three propellers began to revolve, and the mammoth, with a vibratory tremble running through her great frame, moved slowly to sea.

East of Sandy Hook the pilot was dropped and the real voyage begun. Fifty feet below her deck, in an inferno of noise and heat and light and shadow, coal passers wheeled the picked fuel from the bunkers to the firehold, where half naked stokers, with faces like those of tortured fiends, tossed it into the eighty white hot mouths of the furnaces. In the engine room oilers passed to and fro, in and out of the plunging, twisting, glistening steel, with oil cans and waste, overseen by the watchful staff on duty, who listened with strained hearing for a false note in the confused jumble of sound or a clicking of steel out of tune which would indicate a loosened key or nut. On deck sailors set the triangular sails on the two masts to add their propulsion to the momentum of the record breaker, and the passengers dispersed themselves as suited their tastes. Some were seated in steamer chairs, well wrapped, for, though it was April, the salt air was chilly; some paced the deck, acquiring their sea legs; others listened to the orchestra in the music room or read or wrote in the library, and a few took to their berths, seasick from the slight heave of the ship on the ground swell.

The decks were cleared, watches set at noon, and then began the never ending cleaning up at which steamship sailors put in so much of their time. Headed by a six foot boatswain, a gang came aft on the starboard side with paint buckets and brushes and distributed themselves along the rail.

"Davits an' stanchions, men—never mind the rail," said the boatswain. "Ladies, better move your chairs back a little. Rowland, climb down out o' that; you'll be overboard. Take a ventilator. No; you'll spill paint. Put your bucket away an' get some sandpaper from the yeoman. Work inboard till you get it out o' you."

The sailor addressed, a slight built man of about thirty, black bearded and bronzed to the semblance of healthy vigor, but watery eyed and unsteady of movement, came down from the rail and shambled forward with his bucket. As he reached the group of ladies to whom the boatswain had spoken his gaze rested on one, a sunny haired young woman with the blue of the sea in her eyes, who had arisen at his approach. He started, turned aside as if to avoid her and, raising his hand in an embarrassed half salute, passed on. Out of the boatswain's sight he leaned against the deck house and panted, while he held his hand to his breast.

"What is it," he muttered wearily—"whisky nerves or the dying flutter of a starved love? Five years now and a look from her eyes can stop the blood in my veins—can bring back all the heart hunger and helplessness that lead a man to insanity—or this." He looked at his trembling hand, all seamed and tar stained, passed on forward and returned with the sandpaper.

The young woman had been equally affected by the meeting. An expression of mingled surprise and terror had come to her pretty but rather weak face, and with acknowledging his half salute she had caught up a little child from the deck behind her and, turning into the saloon door, hurried to the library, where she sank into a chair

He Started and Turned Aside as if to Avoid Her.

beside a military looking gentleman, who glanced up from a book and remarked: "Seen the sea serpent, Myra, or the Flying Dutchman? What's up?"

"Oh, George—no!" she answered in agitated tones. "John Rowland is here—Lieutenant Rowland. I've just seen him; he is so changed; he tried to speak to me."

"Who—that troublesome flame of yours? I never met him, you know, and you haven't told me much about him. What is he—first cabin?"

"No; he seems to be a common sailor. He is working and is dressed in old clothes, all dirty. And such a dissipated face too. He seems to have fallen—so low. And it is all since"—

"Since you soured on him? Well, it is no fault of yours, dear. If a man has it in him he'll go to the dogs anyhow. How is his sense of injury? Has he a grievance or a grudge? You are badly upset. What did he say?"

"I don't know. He said nothing. I've always been afraid of him. I've met him three times since then, and he puts such a frightful look in his eyes—and he was so violent and headstrong and so terribly angry that time. He accused me of leading him on and playing with him, and he said something about an immutable law of chance and a governing balance of events that I couldn't understand, only where he said that for all the suffering we inflict on others we receive an equal amount ourselves. Then he went away in such a passion. I've imagined ever since that he would take some revenge. He might steal our Myra—our baby!" She strained the smiling child to her breast and went on. "I liked him at first, until I found out that he was an atheist. Why, George, he actually denied the existence of God and to me, a professing Christian."

"He had a wonderful nerve," said the husband, with a smile. "Didn't know you very well, I should say."

"He never seemed the same to me after that," she resumed. "I felt as though in the presence of something unclean. Yet I thought how glorious it would be if I could save him to God and tried to convince him of the loving care of Jesus, but he only ridiculed all I hold sacred and said that much as he valued my good opinion he would not be a hypocrite to gain it and that he would be honest with himself and others and express his honest unbelief—the idea! As though one could be honest without God's help—and then one day I smelled liquor on his breath—he always smelled of tobacco—and I gave him up. It was then that he—that he broke out."

"Come out and show me this reprobate," said the husband, rising. They went to the door and the young woman peered out. "He is the last man down there—close to the cabin," she said as she drew in. The husband stepped out.

"What! That hangdog ruffian scouring the ventilator? So that's Rowland of the navy, is it? Well, this is a tumble. Wasn't he broken for conduct unbecoming an officer? Got roaring drunk at the president's levee, didn't he? I think I read of it."

"I know he lost his position and was terribly disgraced," answered the wife.

"Well, Myra, the poor devil is harmless now. We'll be across in a few days, and you needn't meet him on this broad deck. If he hasn't lost all sensibility he's as embarrassed as you. Better stay in now. It's getting foggy."

BRIEFS

Manet encampment had a number of visitors at its meeting Friday evening. The patriarchal degree was exemplified on two candidates. Following the meeting refreshments were served.

The Quincy Day Nursery donations during the month of April were as follows: Mrs. Joseph Dasha, 3 dozen oranges; Mrs. Thomas Addison, cleaning cloths;; Mrs. V. Ross, blueberries, eggs and parsnips; Mrs. J. Joss, eggs and milk; Mrs. Frank Davis, baby carriage; Miss Margaret Fay, crib; Mrs. Charles H. Porter, parlor croquet game.

Dr. Fenimore L. Andrews of Wollaston who had an office at South Quincy for several years is to move his office to City Square, having rented what is known as the Judge's room in the Hancock building. Dr. Andrews will occupy as soon as the District court moves from the Hancock building to the new Court House, and will have pleasant and commodious quarters.

Taft Delegates In Maryland

Baltimore, May 11.—President Taft's friends will control the Maryland state convention next Tuesday. This wa sassured by the official returns from Prince George county, which showed the election of four Taft delegates. The total Taft vote in the convention will be 71, six more than a majority, but the intention of the president's friends so far as known is to give sincere support to Roosevelt, who received a majority of nearly 4000 in the preferential vote.

Minister's Nerves Shattered

Montpelier, Vt., May 11.—Rev. Luther B. Grice, the Shady Hill minminister, who disappeared from his home a few days ago, went to Boston, attempted to enlist in the navy, then changed his mind and returned here, is on the verge of brain fever. He took to his bed immediately upon his return, according to his physician, and is suffering from nervous prostration. He declared that he disappeared because he was the lonesomest man in New England.

Lawrence Rioter Guilty

Salem, Mass., May 11.—Salvatore Bruno was found guilty in the superior court of attempting to kill two policemen in the textile strike at Lawrence. He will be sentenced later.

UTOPIAN CLUB.

Electa hall was the scene of a most charming dancing party, Friday evening given by members of the Utopian club, composed of a number of popular young ladies of this city. There was a large attendance of dancers and many guests were present.

The music was by the Wollaston orchestra and dancing was in order till midnight, with a short intermission taking place at ten o'clock, during which refreshments were served. The hall itself had been very prettily decorated for the occasion and presented a scene of great lustre.

The matrons were Mrs. Patrick Kennedy, Mrs. James Shea, Mrs. Myer Abrams and Mrs. Bernard McGilvray.

The floor was in charge of Miss Mary Stevens, who was assisted by Miss Sadie Abrams and the following aides: Misses May Kennedy, Mary McGilvray, Julia Shea, Florence Belcher, Carrie Godfrey, Evelyn Moriarty, Mary Marr and Erna Schenkler.

National President Revokes Their Charter and Cards

Chicago, May 11.—President James J. Freel of the International Stereoaction is to place all stereotypers emdrastic action against local No. 4, now on strike. He and his associate members of the executive council cancelled the charter and declared it out of existence.

In addition President Freel cancelled all traveling cards issued to any of its members. The effect of this action is to place all sterotypers employed in Chicago outside the union ranks. President Freel plans to organize another union.

Strike conditions confronting the newspapers continue to improve. The publishers are confident that the vote of Typographical union No. 16 will be against any violation of existing contracts with the publishers.

MET DISASTER IN THE TENTH

Quincy High Gets Rattled and Hingham Piles up 7 Runs

17 TO 10

The remarkable feat of "Dick" Crane, who stole home from third base in the eighth inning, causing the score to stand an 8 to 8 tie, was put in the shade in the first half of the tenth when his Quincy High team mates allowed the Hingham High baseball combination to tally seven runs, in the game played yesterday afternoon at Merrymount Park and subsequently emerge in triumph to the tune of 17 to 10. In the first few innings of play, the game gave no evidence of being one that was to require extra innings and the playing was so ragged throughout that there was not a spectator, among the 400 who were present, to be found who did not give vent to his opinion of the contest by declaring it to have been the worst exhibition of baseball ever witnessed in local circles.

Errors and hits played the leading parts in the game and the fielding of the home team especially was so listless, that it would indeed be difficult to commend the work of any individual players. The local players took the lead at the start and maintained it by a score of 8 to 5 for five innings, when the visitors, by bunching hits and aided by errors, made the score stand 8 to 8 at the end of the inning. In the sixth and seventh innings, Hingham High made runs and was leading 10 to 8, when two runs in the eighth by the Granite City players made the score stand even for the second time during the game.

After this, Quincy High failed to do anything, save make errors. Perhaps the great trouble experienced by the local team was due to the fact that McDonald, the first string pitcher, was unable to occupy the mound, owing to failure to attain the required average in his studies. Brown, who acquitted himself in splended style in one game this season, started the game and fared well for about five innings. But the Hingham boys soon began to fathom his delivery and he was forced to retire in favor of Barry, who was the only player Coach Staft had available to put in the pitcher's box. It was Barry's first appearance on the mound and his inexperience, aided by a consecutive array of errors, allowed the visitors to tally seven runs in the tenth inning.

Mitchell started the first half of the tenth by knocking a home run. The next five players each got a hit which, added to a like number of errors gave Hingham the game. Despite the fact that the game was anything but interesting, it was characterized by a few features. Blomquist threw from deep right field in the eighth inning and caught a man at the plate who was trying to annex a run. In the fourth inning, with one out and the bases full, O'Dowd cracked out a home run, thus bringing in four runs. Considerable changes were made in the lineup of the local team, but even these failed to produce the article of ball that the Quincy boys have displayed already in four games this season.

In the fifth inning, Rich, the plucky right fielder of the winning team, while trying to recover the ball on a three-base hit by Holmes, fell on some glass, with the result that he cut his left arm so badly that Dr. Hardwick, who teated him had to take ten stitches to close the wound.

Mauss played a splendid all round game for the winners, while O'Dowd displayed his usual brilliant form for the losers. The score:

BRAINTREE

Carrol M. Bill of Hollis avenue has returned from the Azores, on the Canopic, from a five weeks' vacation.

Mr. and Mrs. George A. Arnold and children were the guests Sunday of Maro S. Brooks and family of Brookline.

George W. Stewart and family have moved from 139 Arnold street and will spend the summer at Duxbury. They desire to rent a house in Braintree in the fall.

Mrs. Cora Keith Warren is spending a few weeks with her sister on Washington street. As she returns to Japan in August, this will probably be her last visit in Braintree before sailing.

There was a large attendance from the thirteen churches of the South Shore Branch of the Sunday school union in Trinity church, Weymouth, May sixth. The papers read were both interesting and instructive, emphasizing particularly teaching along the lines of church history, the ritual the catechism and prayer book.

Miss May F. Custance of Franklin street was given a surprise party at her home, by a number of friends from this town, and Quincy on Wednesday evening. She was presented a gold ring by Walter Norling. The evening passed very pleasantly with music, dancing and games. Refreshments of ice cream, cake, fruits and candy were served. Among those present were Misses Mary Gorman, Helen Bain Elsie Carlson, Lottie Frazier, Rosie Schlager and Lillian Carlson. Messrs. Walter Norling, T. Morison, James Buckley, Louis Schwiinn, Fred Johnson, Nicholas Werne, John Johnson, Eris Norhing, Henry Gorman, William Sandblom and Verner Johnson.

SOUTH BRAINTREE

Mrs. A. F. Hollis of Taylor street who has been quite ill with congestion of the lungs is reported to be much improved in health.

The election of officers of the Krowelden Society will be held Tuesday evening at the home of Miss Anna M. Thayer, Tremont street.

Mr. and Mrs. Douglas Hayden of Franklin street welcomed a little son to their home the first of the week and are receiving many congratulations.

Mrs. Downs and suite of Campello visited Amana Rebekah lodge, No. 96, on Thursday evening and witnessed the creditable work done by that lodge.

Mrs. H. Sands Burgess will speak before the members of the Noah Torrey School Association at the regular monthly meeting next Wednesday afternoon.

Mr. and Mrs. I. W. Beane have moved from their late home 115 Plain street to Adams street where they will live until their new residence is completed.

Mr. and Mrs. J. Cole of Hall avenue attended the wedding of their son Albert which was solemnized in Andover last Sunday. Mrs. Cole has been spending the past week in Andover.

Mr. and Mrs. Fred A. Powdrell and family of Brookline, for some time residents in this section of the town, are planning to go abroad in the near future and will spend the summer in England.

The selectmen have appointed Fred Tenney, fire chief of precinct one in place of Mr. C. V. Cothell, resigned. At a meeting of the fire board last night Frank O. Whitmarsh was elected chief and J. Samuel Hill, clerk.

The Park Congregational church at Worcester or which Rev. C. F. Hill Crathern is pastor was erected in 1893. In 1887 the society was organized and this week the twenty-fifth anniversary is being observed. The souvenir programs contain a fine picture of Mr. Crathern, the pretty church and the three former pastors.

NO UNNECESSARY FORCE WAS USED

Holbrook Minister Not Guilty of Assaulting Boy

INTERESTING CASE

The local District Court was the scene of one of the greatest demonstrations of gladness and enthusiasm about 11.30 this morning when Judge Avery discharged Rev. David H. Keyes, pastor of the Holbrook Methodist Episcopal church, who had been arraigned on a charge of assault on Russell Chapman, 12 years alleged to have taken place in the church last Sunday evening. No sooner had the Judge given his decision than a large number of the Holbrook people who were in court gave vent to their feelings by applauding in a most uproarious manner. The court officer happened to be away at the time and it was some seconds before the applause had sussided.

The case started at 1.30 o'clock and continued for an hour. James W. Murdock of Brockton wast he attorney for Rev. Mr. Keyes, while Phillip H. Sullivan, of this city appeared in the interests of the complainant. The court room was filled with spectators many of whom were evidently parishioners of the church at Holbrook.

The first witness called was Russell Chapman. He stated that last Sunday evening he was seated in the church, in question, in one of the rear seats, in company with his chum George Lewis. He said that the minister was speaking, that he noticed him stop in the course of his remarks and admonish him and his chum to observe quiet Young Chapman added that he did not know what he had done that should prompt the minister to look in his direction and single out the two that he did. The lad stated that the minister requested him and his chum to take seats in the centre aisle and thus keep out of harm's danger. When questioned as to any disturbance going on at the time, Chapman said that he was chtwing gum, and like many others was laughing at one John Blood, who had his arm around a girl, evidently making love to her. This caused the disturbance in the church and was noticed by a number in the congregation, according to the testimony of the lad.

Young Chapman said that the minister stopped a second time in his sermon, left the pulpit and approached near to where he was sitting. According to Chapman, the minister "grabbed him, wrestled him, shook him, knocked him against the door and finally threw him out." He exhibited black and blue marks on his arm, where he said the minister used much force. He said he was thrown out of the door and jumped over the steps. He also claimed that similar marks were on his shins. When asked to the disturbances in the church on previous occasions, the lad said that the minister seemed to think that he was the main cause of them.

Miss Etta Bennett, 15, was the next witness and practically bore out young Chapman in his statements. She said that she saw the minister pull the boy by the arm, but did not see what happened after the boy had beenpushed out to the door. She said that many in the church were laughing at the young man who was making love to the girl.

George Lewis, the companion of Chapman said that when he saw the minister leave the pulpit, he left the church and thus did not see tho whole of the alleged assault. He did state however, that he saw Chapman jump over the steps as soon as he had been led past the door of the church. He said that he and Chapman were causing no disturbance other than that, as many others, laughing at the fellow who was making love to the girl.

Miss tta Kent, 15, said that young Chapman struck the door when he was being pushed out by the minister. She said that the minister pulled the boy by teh arm and used him ratther roughly.

Rev. Mr. Keyes next took the tsand. He stated at the outset that he had been affiliated with the church about two years and had known the Chapman boy off and on forabout four or five months. He said that Chapman and Lewis came into church last Sunday evening after the preaching had been going on a short while. He said that he noticed them laughing and creating a disturbance in so doing, such that would either necessitate te stopping of the sermon or the use of such means as would bring about quiet. "When I saw, continued Rev. Mr. Keyes, that the boys still persisted in causing a disturbance, I said, "You boys have been creating a disturbance on two or three ocasions. I have complained of you before. Now this disturbance must cease—we will have no more of it.& The minister then added that he continued with his sermon for about fifteen minutes, but still the disturbance was noticeable. "I then said pointing to Chapman and Lewis, "You boys move over to the middle row of seats." They refused to do so, and he was compelled to leave the pulpit, to restore order. The minister then said that as soon as he started, Lewis got up and left the church. He said that Chapman was standing between two settees that he took him by the coat and moved him to the door and placed him on the landing.

As soon as the minister placed the boy outside the church, the latter cried out "I'll have you atended to for this." Later, after the services were over, the boy came back and said to the minister "I have been to see Chief of Police Crooker and he told me that you can be brought into court for what you have done." I said "All right, go ahead," broke in Rev. Mr. Keyes. After he had put the boy out of the church, Rev. Mr. Keyes resumed the sermon where he had left off. When asked as to the length of time it took to eject the boy and the force used, Rev. Mr. Keyes said that the boy went out quite deliberately and that no more force was used than was necessary to restore quiet. Rev. Mr. Keyes said that the boy struck his arm against the door on the way out, and that he assumed a very defiant attitude throughout the situation. The minister said that he communicated by mail with the mother of the boy the following morning.

Rev. Mr. Keyes was then questioned in vehement style by the local lawyer, who seemed to be in a most aggresive mood. The subject of the examination seemed to deal with the topic of the minister on the occasion. It was "What is that in thine hand." Rev. Mr. Keyes was speaking of the treasure in every body's hand, when the disturbance was caused presumably by those who thought that the remarks were pertinent to the young man who had his arm around the girl.

The minister disclaimed any knowledge of the love affair that was going on whilst he was speaking. The only one the minister saw laughing was a girl in the choir. The minister said he was not mad or hot, as the pugnacious "Phil" would have it, but felt righteously indignant at the disturbance. It seems that the mother of the minister was in the congregation at the time and Attorney Sullivan, in direct form, asked him did he remember her saying "Oh, he'll kill him," as he was in the act of putting the boy out of church. The minister added that he heard no such words uttered by his mother.

Miss Rose Pratt, a member of the choir, was the next and last witness. She told what she saw of the affair from the choir and said that the minister did not use the Chapman boy roughly or otherwise unjustly. She said that young Chapman and Lewis were causing a disturbance in the seats. It was now the fourth round of the trial and the quick witted "Phil" was seen to examine his witness in a dazed manner. He had lost his punch and the judge broke in and saved him from taking the count. Mr. Sullivan remaining seated, exhausted from his struggles, Judge Avery said that he did not see any need of prosecuting further, in so far as the minister had used no more force than seemed to be necessary in order to restore order or was otherwise called for in putting the boy out of the church. Judge Avery told the clergyman to have his sexton preserve order and save himself from any future misunderstandings.

QUINCY SUITS FILED AT DEDHAM

Among the civil cases filed at Dedham are the following Quincy cases:

John R. Richards sues the N. Y., N. H. & H. R. R. Co., for $5000 in an alleged breach of contract for the rental of switch and land apurtenant at Quincy of $1 per day for 3672 days.

Vittorio Merzi sues the Granite Railway Company for $6000 for alleged personal injuries said to have been received by being struck by falling granite alleged to have been improperly fastened on Feb. 24, while he was in the employ of the defendant company.

Alfred Dalquist sues the Bay State Railway Company for $115,000 for alleged personal injuries received Nov. 11, 1911, on Squantum street, Quincy, through a collision of a car and a horse he was driving.

Mrs. Laura P. McLaughlin sues the Bay State Railway Company for $15,000 for alleged personal injuries received Nov. 6, 1911, from being thrown to the ground by the careless starting of a car from which she was alighting. Her husband, James W. McLaughlin sues for $2500 as a result of the alleged injuries to his wife.

In a suit for $5000 against the New York, New Haven & Hartford Railroad William A. Copeland of Wollaston alleges that while riding from Wollaston to Boston, Feb. 23, 1910, he was injured by being violently thrown in the car.

Mrs. Ann Winters of Weymouth, as administratrix of the estate of her late husband, George M. Winters of Weymouth, is suing the Old Colony Street Railway Company for injuries sustained by her husband March 20, 1911, from which he died. She also sues for $5000 as the widow. She says in her declaration that while her husband was between two cars changing the trolley a third car struck one of the cars in such a manner that he was crushed, receiving injuries from which he died.

Witness was a conductor on the Old Colony street railway and was injured on the Quincy avenue line near the Fore River.

APPOINTED AS COURT OFFICER

Judge Avery has appointed Arthur B. Hultman as assistant court oficer the appointment to take effect June 1. The appointment was provided or under a special act of the legislature passed this year, as it was recognized that when the court moved into its new quarters two court officers would be necessary.

Mr. Hultman has been acting as Probation Officer since the first of the year succeeding Francis A. Spear.

The appointment of the Probation Officer has not been made as yet, and there is considerable speculation upon whom the mantle will fall. There are a dozen or more candidates for the position each of whom thinks he has the inside track. Judge Avery however has not made the appointment public as yet.

LARGEST GUARANTEED CIRCULATION IN THE CITY

Vol. 27 No. 113 QUINCY, MASS., MONDAY EVENING, MAY 13, 1912 PRICE TWO CENTS

POLISHING MILL DAMAGED $8,000

Visited By Fire, Premises Completely Gutted

TWO ALARMS SOUNDED

The fire department was called out at 2.33 Sunday morning for one of the most stubborn, and largest fires the city has had for many months, when the polishing mill of Mrs. Thomas Mitchell on the corner of Columbia and Centre streets was gutted by fire, entailing a loss of $7,000 on the building and $1,000 on the granite.

The fire was discovered by officer Duane, who was half a mile away. He saw the flames shooting through the roof and rather than run a half mile to the box near the fire he rang in box 136, knowing that the firemen on the way would be guided by the flames. About the same time officer Dinneen also saw the fire and was about to pull in another box when the first round of box 136 sounded. Ten minutes later someone in passing box 136, saw it open and pulled in a second alarm. This was mistaken only by Hose 4 company at Quincy Point, which responded.

The apparatus made a quick response, but long before they got to the fire the roof of the building had fallen in and the flames were threatening the granite sheds of Birnie & Diack, the Columbia Granite Co., Thomas McIntosh and Collins & Sons. Good work on the part af the firemen however saved this property.

Four hydrant streams were used and two streams from the steamer, and with these the building was surrounded and thus saved the adjoining property as well as the office of the plant destroyed.

Chief Litchfield said that he believed the fire to have started in the boiler room and that it must have been burning a long time before discovered.

REV. E. C. BUTLER LAID AT REST WITH IMPRESSIVE SERVICES

Men in All Walks of Life Paid Simple Tribute to Memory of Beloved Clergyman

His Work Here and Elsewhere the Subject of Sincere Eulogy

The funeral of Rev. Ellery Channing Butler, pastor emeritus of the First Congregational church, was held Sunday afternoon at 3 o'clock, from the church, whose pulpit he had filled as pastor for nearly eighteen years.

The services were of a simple, yet impressive nature and were very largely attended, not only by the parishioners of the church but by many from the other churches of the city, as well as a large delegation from the church at Beverly, over which the deceased was pastor previous to his coming to Quincy. There were also a number of city officials present who included Mayor Eugene R. Stone, who was one of the honorary pall bearers, ex-Mayor William T. Shea, Albert L. Barbour, superintendent of schools, the trustees of the Thomas Crane public library of which Mr. Butler was chairman and others representing the several departments of the city government.

Others present included Col. J. F. Dalton of the 2d corps of Cadets, Colonel at the time Rev. Mr. Butler was the chaplain of the corps, Judge Everett C. Bumpus, Judge E. Granville Pratt, and the following clergymen:—Rev. Richard D. Armstrong of Christ church, Rev. Carl G. Horst, of the Wollaston Unitarian church, Rev. Calvin Stebbins of Framingham, Rev. Benjamin R. Buckley of the Beverly Unitarian church, Rev. Thomas C. Martin of the Hall Place Methodist-Episcopal church, Rev. J. A. Matheson of the First Presbyterian church, Rev. A. M. Thompson of the United Presbyterian church, Rev. Charles P. Marshall of the Washington Street Congregational church, Rev. Charles A. Allen of Waverley, Rev. Benjamin A. Willmott, pastor and Rev. Edward Norton, pastor emeritus of the Bethany church.

A delegation from Liberty Masonic lodge of Beverly of which Rev. Mr. Butler was a member, was also present.

The arrangements at the church were in charge of Charles H. Johnson as chief usher. The other ushers were Albert M. Parker, Morton Smith, Herbert L. Johnson, Albert D. Parker, John S. Pfaffmann, William C. Edwards, Harry Glover, Eliot Johnson and C. Abbott Johnson.

The honorary pall bearers were Hon. Eugene R. Stone, Hon. John O. Hall, Henry M. Faxon, James H. Stetson, Brooks Adams, Thomas Fenno, Fred H. Smith, J. Henry Emery, George H. Field, Frank W. Reed, sitting master of Rural Masonic lodge, L. H. H. Johnson, John D. McKay and Rupert F. Claflin.

The active bearers were Arthur W. Hall, C. Eaton Pierce, George E. Pfaffman, Henry W. Porter, Henry Holden, Charles A. Price.

Previous to the public service at the church there was a brief service at the home by Rev. Adelbert L. Hudson, the present pastor of the First church.

The casket containing the remains was met at the entrance of the church by the honorary and active bearers, the officiating and visiting clergymen and the delegation from Beverly Masonic lodge, who escorted the casket down the centre aisle, Rev. Mr. Hudson preceding the procession, reading from the scriptures. Arriving at the altar the casket was placed in front of the pulpit, which was almost hidden beneath a wealth of beautiful flowers.

The services opened with a hymn by the church quartet, Miss Wilhelmina Baldwin, Mrs. Bertha Carlson Potter, Herbert Kearns and Tracy R. Engle, with William E. Weston as organist, who sang "O Grace Divine, encircling all."

Then followed scripture reading by Rev. Dr. Hudson, and "Crossing the Bar" by the quartet. Rev. Dr. Samuel A. Eliot, president of the American Unitarian Association offered a prayer with response by the quartet.

The eulogy was given by Rev. Louis G. Wilson, secretary of the American Unitarian Association who said in part, "When I think of him while here what he had to do with these old walls and its great mysteries, then I think of the quality of his faith. I think of him not for his academic qualities but as an incarnation of absolute conception. He put his whole soul into what he accepted. What he did not know he did not believe. He would shake his head at the great mysteries. He must have something tangible on the surface. He had a multitude of friends." The speaker said "I never knew a preacher who was so interested as your minister. He knew that because of his service to this world life would be enriched. He was often sought after as a speaker and a councillor. He had the unconscious habit of fusing his life with others. It was a great privilege to pay tribute to such a life without stint or reservation. His was an illumination of human faces as he walked through life. The greatest of heroes because his race was that of a hero."

At the conclusion of the eulogy the quartet sang the hymn, "For all Thy Saints, O God" and the benediction was pronounced by Dr. Hudson.

As the casket was borne out of the church the bell in the steeple was tolled. The remains were taken to the Forest Hills crematory where a committal service was conducted by Rev. Dr. Hudson.

Among the many beautiful flowers about the pulpit were, an open book from the Trustees of the Thomas Crane Public library, Square and Compass from Liberty Masonic lodge. Wreath from the Sunday school, a beautiful set piece from the Bethany church and hundreds of bouquets, wreaths and other flowers from his multitude of friends.

MEN'S CLASS CLOSE SEASON.

More than 140 men were present at the meeting of the Men's Class of the Washington street Congregational church, held in the vestry last evening. It was the last meeting of the season for the class and proved to be the most successful. Previous to the meeting a social hour was enjoyed, during which time refreshments were served.

The speaker for the occasion was Rev. B. A. Willmott, of the Bethany Congregational church, who gave a most instructive discourse on "Personal Religion." Joseph Fitton presided and at the conclusion of the address, the pastor of the church, Rev. Charles P. Marshall, answered a number of questions, concerning social christianity, that had been submitted to him in writing at the previous meeting. The orchestra, under direction of James Melville, gave a number of selections, while Robert McFarlane rendered a number of solos in a manner that caused him to merit repeated applause.

GIGGLING GIRLIES HAD PICTURES TOOK.

The grounds in front of the Woodward school for girls on Hancock street was the stage of a lively scene just before the dismissal hour this afternoon. Chairs and settees were circled around in front of the building and the girls assigned places, the taller ones standing in the rear while the smaller ones were grouped in front, the ensemble forming a crescent. A camera on a tripod in front of the group explained the significance of the scene.

It took the photographer and two assistants fully twenty minutes to get that crowd of giggling girlies quiet long enough for the camera to make its circle and take in the whole party. The task was finally accomplished. It was difficult for the girls to keep still long enough. When released they gave a sigh of relief, broke ranks and rushed to the building to secure books and wraps and beat it for home.

FIVE LIVES JEOPARDIZED AS AUTO CRASHED INTO POLE

Braintree Scene of a Thrilling Accident Last Night at Eleven O'clock

Nearby Homes Turned Into Temporary Hospitals for Injured

Five persons, two women and three men were badly injured by an automobile accident at the corner of Adams and Elm streets, Braintree, last night about 11 o'clock. The injured are:

James H. Spaulding, real estate dealer, living at corner of Washington street and Sherbrooke avenue, Braintree; both legs broken and possible internal injuries.

Mrs. James C. Marlowe of 1863 Dorchester avenue, Dorchester, broken ankle, breastbone also fractured and right knee badly bruised.

James C. Marlowe of 1863 Dorchester avenue, Dorchester, husband of the injured woman, left leg sprained, lacerations and abrasions of the body and severe shock.

William Everett of 1863 Dorchester avenue, Dorchester, sprained ankle and minor injuries.

Miss Grace Reynolds of 1863 Dorchester avenue, leg sprained, lacerations of face and lips, severe shaking up.

Mr. Spaulding and Mrs. Marlowe who were on the operating table of the Quincy hospital at midnight last night were reported resting comfortable at noon today.

The machine is owned by James H. Spaulding, who operated the large touring car and Mrs. Marlowe was on the front seat with him. The Dorchester people had been in Braintree to look over land which Mr. Spaulding has for sale, then went to Nantasket and returned planning to take the train for Boston from Braintree.

They are said to have been going fast.

It was very dark on the road and it is supposed that Mr. Spaulding missed his calculations when he started to turn from Adams into Elm street.

Just finishing an uphill climb, the car took a wide swerve and ran into a telephone pole.

There was a crash and the occupants were thrown into the street. The telephone pole was splintered and the automobile, turned over upon its side, practically demolished. The women screamed for help and soon residents of the vicinity were out, some in scant attire, to give what help they could.

Spaulding and Mrs. Marlowe, who were on the front seat, received the full force of the impact when the pole was hit. When the first citizens arrived to aid the injured it was impossible to obtain a stretcher and Spaulding was left in the street, being made as comfortable as possible with cushions. He was almost unconscious when later taken away to the hospital.

The other injured ones were taken into the home of Morris Lilley, which was turned into a temporary hospital. Drs. C. H. Gile, C. A. Sullivan, C. R. Martin and W. Porter Prfatt of Braintree and Dr. Lewis W. Pease of Weymouth responded to hurry calls and many women of the vicinity volunteered as nurses and aided the physicians who dressed the wounds.

Upon the request of Chief of Police Loring of Braintree, the Quincy police sent their automobile ambulance to the scene and Spaulding, Mrs. Marlowe and Miss Reynolds were taken to the Quincy Hospital. The ambul ance then returned here and took Marlowe and Everett, the remaining two injured men, to the hospital.

eorge O. Wales of Braintree took Miss Reynolds, Everett and Marlowe to their homes after they had received the attention of the physicians at the hospital.

BEER AND CARDS FIGURE IN RAID

Early Sunday morning Inspector Goodhue heard loud noices coming from a house at 34 Union street. Going to the rear of the house to investigate, he saw that a game of cards was in progress. It was then in the vicinity of one o'clock. The police station was notified and the wagon with Officers Cahill, Ford and McNamara sent down. These officers then entered the house and arrested five men. Four for playing cards on the Lord's day and one for keeping a liquor nuisance. The officers also seized sixty bottles of beer together with a lot of bottling apparatus. The men were all in court this morning.

WARREN G. SPEAR.

Warren G. Spear formerly of Quincy died on Sunday at his home in Somerville in his 79th year. He was born in Quincy and spent his early life here, where his two surviving sisters live, Mrs. Joseph F. Berry of Hancock street, and Mrs. Emily E. Blake of Cottage street.

His wife passed away three years ago. He is survived by a daughter and three sons.

Funeral services will be held Tuesday afternoon at one o'clock at his late home 26 Wigglesworth street, Somerville, and burial will be in the family lot at Mount Wollaston cemetery, Quincy.

YACHTSMEN TO SMOKE.

The opening smoker of the Quincy Yacht club will be held Thursday evening at its club house, Houghs Neck. The program of the evening is arranged in the form of a yacht race. That is, there is to be a starting gun at 8 o'clock, and there will be music by the Quincy trio. Other guns will follow at intervals of fifteen minutes each of which will announce some feature. The features will include stereopticon views by Charles H. Johnson of Historic Quincy, water front views and Quincy industries. John J. Conley, entertainer and Williams Ward Whitcher who is a whole show in himself. At the conclusion of the program a clam chowder will be served.

The date for the Wollaston Yacht club interclub race coming on a day when the tide is wrong the club will combine with the Squantum club on July 6, in an interclub race.

The Squantum Yacht club will open its club house for the season May 16. A general good time is being arranged for.

JOSEPH COUPAL DEAD.

Joseph Coupal, died at his home, 178 Highland avenue, Wollaston, yesterday, after long and severe illness, aged 61 years. He leaves a widow and several children. The funeral will be from the family houme Wednesday afternoon.

HONESTY IN EVERYTHING

No barrel head oratory wanted. The people want the bar'l's contents.

More lives were sacrified yesterday to the senseless speed mania which prevails among people.

Turning turtle appears to be a favorite pastime of automobiles to the danger of the life and limb of the occupants.

An Indiana farmer is to sow his oats by an aeroplane, but that is nothing new, as wild oats have long been sown by our high fliers.

A proper presidential costume for next inauguration day would not be the customary silk hat, frock coat, etc., but a pugilist's fighting clip and tights.

Richeson would undoubtedly find less discomfort on the electric chair than he does on the seat of uncertainty which he now occupies.

If the voters will persist in marking crosses wherever they see a bit of white space, it will always be hard to tell what their ballots mean.

It is reported that some of the farmers are voting this year without asking the editor of the country paper what they should do.

As though the Republican presidential nomination campaign was not unpleasant enough questions of religious bearing are now injected into the contest.

The real fighting of our neighbors across the southern boundary is lost sight of in the interest centering around the bloodless political battle waging on this side of the line.

When the good housewife awoke this morning with another rain greeting, she may not have uttered profanity, but her thoughts would have equalled those of a militant suffragette.

The Mexican battles are pretty near parallels of the numerous French affairs on the field of honor,—very much brag and bluster and little real blood shed.

It is said that people are speeded up too fast nowadays, and if some one will kindly have the Wolf pursue them a little less swiftly, no doubt every one will be glad to slow down.

It now transpires that whichever presidential candidate wins, the White house will have one or more maidens fair. What a novel sight it will be if all the girls take it into their head to campaign for themselves and incidentally for papa.

The Colonel is carrying the war into the enemy's own country. One wonders if the situation will be the same as 14 years ago on the occasion of another battle when the Oyster Bay man is reported to have experienced a chill at his own impetuosity.

For more than three days Uncle Sam's Jackies have revelled in that most friendly port, Boston, and there is nothing to indicate but what they behaved better than the average citizen, which is most creditable when it is considered that only once in about three months do they get ashore with a chance to "cut loose."

WOMEN VOTED RELIGIOUSLY.

Whatever the attitude of a person with regard to the woman suffrage movement of the present day, and there are many views,—the accusation cannot be made against woman that when given the right to vote, she neglects that privilege in the manner in which men do. The most earnest advocate of woman's rights in this country does not approve of the disgraceful scenes enacted by their more militant sisters in the shopping districts of London, a short time ago. Such scenes as those bring discredit upon any movement no matter how just it may be., and so, the London sisters, while gaining notoriety for themselves securing, as they assumed, their halo o prison martyrdom, did just so much toward giving their cause a backward movement by the measure of public sentiment which was turned against them.

Some people contend that every great movement is met with opposition its promoters and advocates persona-cuted and tortured and all that before the great mass of the public awaken to the perfect realization of the justness of the measure advocated.

Possibly this may be applicable to many such efforts and history shows that riot and blood-shed, passion and strife have followed and been part and parcel of great upheavals for the benefit of mankind; efforts which have been for the establishment of freedom of either individuals or nations.

The rise from oppressive measures usually leads to horror and cruelties perpetrated on the one hand to main tain an established position and on the other in retaliation, revenge, expressive of the desire that consumes the downtrodden one and as a warning to the taskbaster. But the women suffragettes were not persecuted to the extent of offering a semblance of excuse for their wanton measures in London.

In this country, the movement is conducted in a more orderly and becoming manner and this sedateness measures up better in the long run in gaining friends for the cause.

Cambridge, Mass., gave an illustration of this a few weeks ago and also demonstrated that the women take a more sincere and earnest interest in voting than the men.

The women were interested in a certain effort to oust a member of the school board. They registered in large numbers. When the time came to vote, over 80 per cent of the women registered appeared at the poles. They did not stop to gossip. There were no women politicians on hand to buttonhole them.

They marked their ballot with extreme intelligence, and with several thousands of them it was the first time they had been inside a polling place.

Compare this condition with exhibitions which are given of men voting. The average turnout of registered voters at a regular election is 69 per cent. If it reaches 75 it is considered wonderful.

The vote of the male population at caucuses is extremely low. It is not that we advocate woman suffrage, but as an object lesson to the intelligence of the people that these indisputable facts are presented for consideration for just what they are worth.

RAINY WASH DAYS.

An exchange reports the fact that in its neighborhood the women are groaning over the fact that there have been recently eight consecutive rainy wash days. Whether this has been general or not there has been an unusual amount of dull and rainy weather in the country at large.

Perhaps the thing of most interest in the above is the suggestion that the home Wash Day still exists. Many people had supposed that Wash Day was as extinct as the dodo. It is not popular with the modern domestic, who has social competitions to meet that her predecessor the "hired girl" never knew. Arms reddened by the hot wash tub would not be conducive to obtaining partners at the dances.

Our grandmothers reconciled themselves to the rigors of the festival by writing verses about the beauty of soap suds and the spiritual significance of the cleansing act. But a good bout in the laundry does not help one in getting up papers for the Browning club, or winning prizes at bridge whist.The modern man can't say much. He wouldn't do it if he were in his wife's place.

The suggestion of the exchange with whose observation this article began, however, encourages the belief that there are still left simple hearted souls who are able to get a lot of fun in life out of the money they save by being their own laundrywomen. Our hat off to them!

CARDS, DANCING, THEATRE.

John Wesley, founder of Methodism, never vetoed any amusement but cock fighting. But the modern Methodist church has been austere enough since 1872, to prohibit the trinity of amusements named above, hence the struggle renewed in the general conference this year, to leave this to the conscience of individual members.

If you leave a child alone in the house with the jam pot and a long spoon, he will get indigestion and smear his clothes, even if you tell him not to. If he is allowed to have his jam at the table with the grown-ups, he will get what he needs to stimulate his appetite, and keep well and clean. The same principle applies to amusements.

The diversions named above, at their best, render very distinct services. Card games wake people up, teach them to decide and act quickly. Dancing promotes physical self-control, gives a gawk at least the bearing of the gentleman. The drama teaches truth with a force that no oratory, pulpit or otherwise, can ever acquire.

The Christian who is forbidden these diversions thus loses a chance to become socially more efficient, and to become of more service in the world.

While it is very true that these amusements at their worst are demoralizing, it is also usually true that a man who has self-control enough to avoid such diversions altogether, has self-control and discrimination enough to use them in a way to get good and not harm from them.

Once the pipes of an organ in church were deemed to be peculiarly a haunt of the devil, and novel reading was a sin. By and by men were sensible enough to see that the Lord might as well have the organ pipes working for him as for Satan, and that an enormous amount of human suffering was being saved by the publicity given to abuses by writers like Dickens. In the same way one never hates lies and hypocrisy quite so much as when their true effect is set forth by the realistic pictures of the theatre.

A TRYST.

Cellia Thaxter.

From out the desolation of the North
An iceberg took its way,
From its detaining comrades breaking forth,
And travelling night and day.

At whose command? Who bade it sail the deep
With that resistless force?
Who made the dread appointment it must keep?
Who traced its awful course?

To the warm airs that stir in the sweet South,
A good ship spread her sails;
Stately she passed beyond the harbor's mouth,
Chased by the favoring gales;

And on her ample deck a happy crowd
Bade the fair land good-by;
Clear shone the day,with not a single cloud
In all the peaceful sky.

Brave men, sweet women, little children bright
For all these she made room,
And with her freight of beauty and delight
She went to meet her doom.

Storms buffeted the iceberg, spray was swept Across its loftiest height;
Guided alike by storm and calm, it kept
Its fatal path aright.

Then warmer waves gnawed at its crumbling base,
As if in piteous plea;
The ardent sun sent slow tears down its face,
Soft flowing to the sea.

Dawn kissed it with her tender rose tints, Eve
Bathed it in violet;
The wistful color o'er it seemed to grieve
With a divine regret.

Whether day clad its clefts in rainbows dim
And shadowy as a dream,
Or night through lonely spaces saw it swim
White in the moonlight's gleam,

Ever Death rode upon its solemn heights,
Ever his watch he kept;
Cold at its heart through changing days and nights,
Its changeless purpose slept.

And when afar a. smiling coast it passed,
Straightway the air grew chill;
Dwellers thereon perceived a bitter blast,
A vague report of ill.

Like some imperial creature, moving slow,
Meanwhile with matchless grace,
The stately ship, unconscious of her foe,
Drew near the trysting-place.

For all the prosperous breezes followed her,
And half the voyage was o'er,
In many a breast glad thoughts began to stir
Of land that lay before.

And human hearts with longing love were dumb,
That soon should cease to beat,
Thrilled with the hope of meetings soon to come,
And lost in memories sweet.

Was not the weltering waste of water wide
Enough for both to sail?
What drew the two together o'er the tide,
Fair ship and iceberg pale?

There came a night with neither moon nor star,
Clouds draped the sky in black;
With fluttering canvas reefed at every spar
And weird fire in her track.

The ship swept on; a wild wind gathering fast,
Drove her at utmost speed.
Bravely she bent before the fitful blast
That shook her like a reed.

O helmsman, turn thy wheel! Will no surmise
Cleave through the midnight drear?
No warning of the horrible surprise
Reach thine unconscious ear?

She rushed upon her ruin. Not a flash
Broke up the waiting dark;
Dully through wind and sea one awful crash
Sounded, with none to mark.

Scarcely her crew had time to clutch despair,
So swift the work was done;
Ere their pale lips could frame a speechless prayer
They perished, every one!

MANY CONTESTS LOOM UP

Political Managers Each Claim a Safe Majority

Washington, May 13.—The make-up of the Republican national convention, so far as the original selection of delegates can determine it, will be practically settled within a week. More than 200 delegates are to be selected in the seven days ending next Saturday. About 100 will then remain to be chosen, including forty-eight from Ohio and twenty-four from New Jersey.

The widely divergent claims of the Taft and Roosevelt managers make it apparent, hoever, that a determination of the actual control of the convention is impossible in advance of the meetings of the Republican national committee on June 6. The committee will take up at that time contests involving the seats of at least 164 delegates and it is not unlikely that additional contest cases will be announced by the time the committee begins work.

The number necessary for a choice, provided all are present, is 540.

Representative McKinley, head of the Taft campaign, claimed 483 delegates for the president and concluded 237 to Roosevelt. Senator Dixon, manager of the Roosevelt committee, claimed 319 for Roosevelt and conceded 143 to Taft.

The 200 delegates to be selected in the coming week, include 26 in Texas; 26 in California; 24 in Minnesota; 14 in Washington; 22 in North Carolina; 16 in West Virginia, and scattering delegations in many other states.

DEATH WIRES

Electrical Connections Kill Three of Somerville's Fire Horses

Somerville, Mass., May 13.—The three two-story wooden buildings of the Anchor Bundle Wood company on Water street Somerville, were burned Sunday with a loss of $10,000.

Three alarms brought all the Somerville apparatus to the fire. Cambridge firemen also responded.

Three horses of Hose 5, omerville, were killed by electricity as they stepped on the railroad tracks, an arc light wire having fallen across the track.

BOY KILLED BY STATE TROOPERS

Foreign Miners Cannot Be Held Under Control

Scranton, Pa., May 13.—With the exception of an outbreak in Dickson City, near here, in which a 15-year-old boy was killed by a state policeman there was but little disorder in the anthracite mining region.

The boy, Louis Drogorovich, who was taking no part in the disorder, was shot, it is alleged, by Robert Dace, a member of Troop A, whose headquarters are at Greenburg, Pa.

The shooting occurred while a detachment of state police were dispersing a crowd of foreigners who were making a demonstration at the Oliphant colliery No. 1 of the Delaware and Hudson company. The boy was standing in the yard of his home when he was shot.

"I drew my gun to fire," said Dace. "Just then a stone struck my horse, animal jumped and the revolver was discharged. The bullet went wild. I did not aim at the boy." Dace was arrested but was released by a magistrate in order that he might arrange for bail.

According to the troopers, almost every foreign miner is armed, and violence is being openly preached on all sides, the foreign leaders urging their men to attack the police, for whom they have little regard. The sight of the black clad state troopers and their long riot clubs is about the only thing that restrains the rioters.

The officers of the United Mine Workers are doing all they can to keep the foreigners quiet, they say, but their orders appear observed only by the American and other English speaking men.

PENSION BILL IS LAW

Over 400,000 Veterans Will Benefit By Its Generous Provisions

Washington, May 13.—The president signed the increased pension bill, passed by the house and senate. The measure was signed and became a law just before midnight Saturday in the executive offices at the White House.

As finally agreed upon the bill provides increased pensions for 420,965 veterans, acording to the estimates of the house conference committee. Every veteran serving ninety days or more in the naval or military service during the Civil war, who has been honorably discharged and who is more than 62 years old, is cared for by the new law.

Inquest In Bibber Case

Lewiston, Me., May 13.—An inquest into the death of John W. Bibber, the prominent clubman and tailor who was shot to death in front of his boarding house on the night of April 24, will be held in a few days, according to a statement made by Coroner Howard A. Teague, who has the matter in charge.

Prisoner, Nurse and Detectives End 3,000 Mile Trip

ANOTHER INSANITY EXCUSE

Condition of Prisoner Baffles His Companions—Man In Stupor Nearly All the Time—Miss Marsh Made Dorr Her Heir, Who Was to Receive Estate In 1916,—Mother of the Prisoner Retains Counsel For Him

Lynn, Mass., May 13.—After an uneventful trip across the continent, during which the condition of their prisoner continually baffled Inspetors Burckes and Kane as to its genuineness, William A. Dorr of Stockton, Cal., accused of murdering George E. Marsh on April 11, was delivering to Sheriff Johnson at Salem jail late Saturday afternoon.

A shadow of the rugged man he was when arrested, Dorr reclined throughout the automobile trip, his eyes and mouth open. He was apparently in a stupor. Miss Florence Thomas, the nurse who had come with the party from the west, expressed the opinion that he was suffering from a mental breakdown caused by fright. She said he was not insane and was not shamming.

"I have watched him for hours," said Inspector Kane to a reporter, "and the only thing that I can make out of him is that he has completely lost his nerve. There is no doubt of the collapse of his mental faculties. But he is not insane, for he is perfectly able to look out for himself and throughout our long trip he never failed to ask for things that he wished. He may be bluffing, but if he is, he is he best bluffer that I have ever heard of."

While in California the Lynn inspectors learned that Miss Orpha Marsh had made Dorr her heir. She was to have come into her full inheritance of $140,000 from the estate of the late James Marsh in 1916, or upon the death of George E. Marsh, the executor, if such death should occur earlier than 1916.

Ex-Mayor Charles N. Barney has been retained as counsel for Dorr. Mrs. L. U. Dorr, mother of the arrested man, interviewed Mr. Barney and he consented to take the case.

She was formerly president of the W. C. T. U. of California, but has been in Boston for several months past. In very poor health, the murder of Marsh and arrest of her son have shocked her and for some time she has been under the care of a physician.

ANOTHER JUDGE MENTIONED

Net Drawn Around Archbald Encompasses Successor on Federal Bench

Washington, May 13.—There were many ramifications in the testimony and on the strength of some of the statements made, new avenues of investigation are expected to be followed. One of these subjects of investigation may be Judge Witmer of Sunbury, Pa., who succeeded Judge Archbald and is now occupying the United States district court bench on which Judge Archbald sat before he was promoted to the commerce court.

John H. Jones of Scranton, Pa., a promoter, denied before the house judiciary committee investigating charges of misconduct against Judge Robert W. Archbald of the commerce court, the testimony by Edward J. Williams, that the jurist gave Jones a note for $500 for a share in an option on Venezuelan timber lands.

Jones said that the $500 note was indorsed by Judge Archbald "out of the fullness of his heart" to help him promote the deal, that the jurist never had an interest in the option and that he made the judge a present of $250 later out of a $500 commission he made in the sale of a culm bank.

SMALL CHANGE POPULAR

Opinion Is That the New Coin Bill Will Pass Each House

Washington, May 13.—The passage by the house of the Bulkley bill providing for the coinage of 3-cent pieces and ½-cent pieces has aroused more comment about congress than any similar measure passed in recent years. That the measure will pass the senate and become law is the general opinion about the Capitol. Many members are waxing enthusiastic over the advent of the new coins.

Previous to 1890 3-cent pieces were coined. In that year congress abolished the 3-cent piece on the advice of the then secretary of the treasury.

Accused of Killing Six Children

Charlottetown, P. E. I., May 13.—The preliminary trial of Mrs. Patrick Magee, who is charged with murdering her six children, one after another, by giving them phosphorus, is in progress at Georgetown, near here.

Well Done.

SUNDAY IN OUR CHURCHES

Topics and Anncuncements For Coming Week

SUNDAY SCHOOLS

WOLLASTON CONGREGATIONAL.

A large audience was present yesterday morning at the Wollaston Congregational church, and listened attentively to a sermon by the Rev. Robert H. Cochrane, of East Braintree, who took for his text 27th verse, 19th chapter, of Matthew's gospel; "Then answered Peter and said unto him, Lo, we have left all, and followed thee: what then shall we have?"

He said in part: It was a natural question. They would scarcely yet be able to understand the meaning of the teachings of Jesus. The question of the rewards of discipleship is a question that is natural to all those who are in the early stages of discipleship.

We cannot know all the wages of discipleship, but we can know enough to encourage us and strengthen our hearts.

From any point of view the subject of compensation is an interesting one, but from none other is i tof such importance as from the point of Christian discipleship.

Other things being equal he who gives up most will receive most. It has been true through all ages that in proportion to the completeness of their self-sacrifice God has made use of men. Through all ages the price has been the same. Before the prophet can hear the message of God he must surrender himself and become the man of God. Before we can receive the peace of God in our souls and reflect the light of heaven in our faces, we must divest oudselves of anything that comes between the soul and Christ.

The only key to a right life is self-renunciation. Life will be a barren thing unless we fall in with God's plan and seek to do the work He has given us to do.

It is a noble thing to suffer for principle, but to be able to rejoice in self-sacrifice, that is the exaltation of the human to the divine. It is this passive heroism in men to whom Christ appeals. It is this capacity for self-sacrifice in which Paul exluts when he says, "I take pleasure in necessities, in reproaches, in persecutions for Christ's sake."

"It is not what we get but what we give," he said, "that makes us rich in the Kingdom of God," and he went on to forcibly emphasize this thought by giving a synopsis of Dr. Henry Van Dyke's story—"The Mansion," closing with the following quotation: "One act that is done for the love of doing it, the gifts in which the giver forgets himself,—these are the things the King never forgets."

It is what we put into Christianity forgetting ourselves, that determines what we shall get out of it.

We do not have to wait for death for the rewards of Christian discipleship. We can not even faintly imagine what Christ will do with our lives if we lay them at His feet.

Would Livingston the cotton spinner, when he laid his talents at his Master's feet, and set sail for darkest Africa, ever have dreamed that when he returned to his native land a whole country would be waiting to do him honor, and that Oxford, Cambridge, Dublin and Paris would hasten to confer upon him honorary degreess; and that when he died the whole Christian world would mourn his loss, and that he would be laid to rest with princes and kings? Could Moody, the shoe store clerk dream what Christ would do for him? These men could not realize what hChrist could do for their lives, but by faith they made the great venture; and no one of us can foresee what Christ will do with our lives if we will trust Him whole-heartedly, keeping nothing back.

The compensations of discipleship no mind can adequately picture. Now we know in part, but we have in our possession the key that will unlock all mysteries.

"Great was my poverty, small my store,
Before the Lord Christ came to my door.
Deep was my need and great my sin
Before I let the Lord Christ in,
The Lord Christ came and I let Him in,
Fulfilled my need and gone my sin,
For when the Lord Christ came to my door,
Gone my poverty, great my store."

The Sunday school met at noon, in charge of Chas. A. Randall, superintendent. The lesson was from the 1st and 2d chapters of St. John: "Jesus Pointed Out by John." The secretary reported five classes with perfect attendance.

The Christian Endeavor service at six o'clock took the form of a leaderless meeting. "The Value of Initiative," and the thought was put into active practice by each one considering himself in a sense the leader of the meeting.

On Tuesday evening, at eight o'clock there will be a special business meeting of the church, in the vestry.

On Thursday evening at 7.45 o'clock there will be a meeting of the Executive committee of the Christian Endeavor society.

The regular midweek prayer meeting on Friday evening will be conducted by Rev. Edward Norton. The theme will be, "What is your Life?"

Sunday, May 19, will be a day devoted especially to the old folks. The music committee have the matter in charge, and are arranging a fine program of good old-fashioned hymns, familiar anthems, solos, and congregational singing, under special leadership, which should prove most attractive to both old and young.

There will be two services morning, at 10.45, with appropriate sermon by Rev. Edward Norton, and an abundance of music fitting to the occasion.

Afternoon vesper service at 4 o'clock largely musical, and including all the old-time favorite numbers. There will be special decorations, added voices, and everybody interested will be given a cordial welcome.

Several automobiles have been placed at the disposal of the committee, and they stand ready to assist any of the older friends who need such assistance in getting to the church. Those wishing to take advantage of this privilege please notify Mr. Hogue 19 Lincoln avenue, stating which service they wish to attend.

Those whose hearing is impaired will find the "earphones" installed in several of the pews, a great help to their enjoyment of the occasion. A cordial welcome is extended to all.

WOLLASTON UNITARIAN CHURCH.

Quite a number of the women in our parish attended the monthly session of the Social Service Council of Unitarian Women in the vestry of the Arlington Street church this morning. The speakers were the Rev. Elmer S. Forbes, Social Secretary of the American Unitarian Association, and Parker Field, Supt. of the Children's Mission.

Let none in our church fail to hear James D. Howlett (principal of the High school) speak on "Co-operation in Education" in the Wollaston school assembly hall this evening at 8 o'clock. Music by the seventh grade children of the school.

The Whatsoever circle of King's Daughters meets with Mrs. Robert Schoomaker, 260 Belmont street, this evening.

The members of the Junior Lend-a-Hand club are invited to meet with Mrs. E. J. Cummings at 4 o'clock Tuesday, May 14. A full attendance is requested as a matter of great interest is to be decided.

The regular meeting of the Unitarian church-Helpers will be held with Mrs. G. Ernest Carr, 311 Safford street Wednesday, May 15, at 2 o'clock.

"Shall we, the people of Wollaston, have the Wollaston school lot for a park, or shall it be sold with the probability of the purchaser moving the old school buildings out on the street and turning them into cheap tenement houses?"—This is the most important local question before the people of Wollaston at this moment. Let every member of our parish make a special effort, if necessary to attend the hearing before the Public Buildings and Grounds commitee in the council chamber at City hall, Wednesday, at 7.45 P. M. and bend every effort to prevent the city from selling this property. Wollaston today, and still more in days to come, needs this lot for a park.

The Isles of Shoals meetings will come this year in the two weeks beginning Sunday, July 7th, the second week as usual being devoted to the Sunday school institute.

Children's Sunday comes Sunday, June 23, the fourth Sunday in June. A large class of children will be christened.

The annual May meetings of the American Unitarian association and allied societies will be held next week. Morning prayers will be held daily at 9 A. M. in King's chapel and vespers daily at 5 P. M. in the First church of Boston. An interesting visitor from England will be the Rev. L. P. Jacks of Manchester College, Oxford, editor of the Hibbert Journal, the foremost theological quarterly in the English language. He will preach the anniversary sermon next week Tuesday evening in the Arlington street church and occupy Dr. L. M. Crother's pulpit in Cambridge during June. At the Unitarian Fellowship for Social Justice meeting next Sunday evening at the Arlington Street church the speakers are Prof. Vida A. Scudder of Wellesley College, Geo. R. Lunn, Mayor of Schenectady, N. Y., and Prof. John Graham Brooks of Harvard. The annual banquet will be held in Tremont Temple, Wednesday, May 22 at 6 o'clock. Hon. Robert Luce, Lieutenant Governor of the Commonwealth will preside.

The delegates from our church to the meetings of the American Unitarian Association are the Rev. Carl G. Horst, Mrs. W. R. Atwood and Mrs. C. Horst, the Y. P. R. U., Lucien Thayer, Harry Hooper and Miss Almira Simmons; the Unitarian Sunday school society—Mrs. C. A. Jameson, Mrs. Alfred H. Richards and Mrs. C. G. Horst, the National Alliance of Unitarian women—Mrs. W. R. Atwood, Mrs. E. J. Cummings and Mrs. Frank A. Page.

One of the after-dinner speakers at the Unitarian festival in Tremont Temple, Wednesday, May 22, is the Rev. Wm. Sullivan formerly a Catholic, author of "The Priest" and "Letters to his Holiness, Pope Pius X" books that have recently been placed upon the Index-Expurgatorius.

The next World Congress of Free Christians will be held in Paris in the summer of 1913. It is intended to organize a large American delegation to Paris and for later travel in Europe. Three hundred places have been already secured in advance on an Atlantic steamship line for this excursion.

Be sure to attend the hearing in City Hall, Wednesday, at 7.45 P. M.

The KITCHEN CUPBOARD

CELERY ROOT.

CELERY root is a form of the celery plant that is particularly adapted for cooking. It is known as celeriac, sometimes as turnip rooted celery.

Almost any recipe for cooking celery stalk may with advantage be used for celery root.

The vegetable is cleaned, the dingy outside skin pared off, and it is soaked in water for about a half hour before being cooked.

Then it may be put into a saucepan of boiling water with a teaspoonful of salt and boiled until tender. This should be in about half an hour.

When done, drain, slice and dress with cream sauce.

Boiled With Sauce.

Celeriac and Onion.—Pare and slice the roots, soak in water, then add a medium sized onion sliced thin, season and boil until tender. Serve hot with cream sauce.

Cream Sauce.—The sauce to be used with the stewed celery root may be made as follows: Take a tablespoonful of butter, a tablespoonful of flour, a cupful of white stock flavored with celery and a teaspoonful of onion juice. Put the butter in a saucepan, add the flour, then the stock and onion juice, stir until smooth and creamy, boil three minutes and then pour over the celery.

A Savory Broth.

Celeriac Soup.—Take two large roots, pare and clean, cut fine and boil slowly for an hour in a pint of water. Put in also a slice of onion to flavor. Crush and strain through a sieve. Take two tablespoonfuls of flour and one of butter and beat together. Add a quart of milk and boil for fifteen or twenty minutes. Season with a scant teaspoonful of salt and a quarter of a teaspoonful of pepper. Add at the last minute half a pint of whipped cream.

Served au Gratin.

Celeriac Baked With Cheese.—Take two cupfuls of the stewed celery root which has been cut into small pieces. Put a layer of the celery root into a buttered baking dish. Over this pour a layer of white sauce and sprinkle with parmesan cheese. Then put on another layer of the vegetable and one of white sauce and cheese until the dish is full. Cover the top with cracker crumbs mixed with melted butter and sprinkle with cheese. Set in the oven to brown. Garnish with slices of hard boiled egg and sprigs of parsley.

STRAWBERRY DAINTIES.

WE get strawberries earlier each season. This is because the cultivation of the fruit is being given more attention and methods of transporting it to all parts of the country are being so improved that early berries are comparatively cheap even in northern markets.

Cake With Berries.

When strawberries are served a delicately flavored cake like fresh angel, sponge or pound cake is the best. Spiced or iced cakes are not so nice. Jelly cake is out of the question because the flavor of the jelly will interfere with that of the berries.

When Practicing Economy.

Strawberries and Bananas.—When strawberries are still high they may be made to go further by serving them with another fruit. Strawberries and bananas blend well. Cut six firm ripe bananas and arrange on a fruit basket to form a latticed mound.

Put a pint of strawberries through a fine sieve. Whip the whites of three eggs to a stiff froth and then beat in the strawberry pulp together with the juice of half a lemon. Color with a few drops of cochineal to get a nice pink.

Then pile this on the fruit basket over the latticed bananas. Decorate the edge of the basket with whole ripe strawberries. Whip some thick cream with a little powdered sugar and put a ring of it around the outside of the basket.

With Custard.

Strawberry Fluff.—Make a custard by scalding a pint of sweet milk, pouring it over the beaten yolks of two eggs and half a cupful of sugar. Flavor the custard with a few drops of vanilla. Line a fruit bowl with firm ripe strawberries and pour the custard in the center. Whip the whites of two eggs with powdered sugar to taste and pile on the top of the custard. Use large red berries for decorations.

A Sweet Omelet.

Strawberry Omelet.—Prepare as if you were to make a plain omelet with the exception that a teaspoonful of sugar and a tablespoonful of lemon juice and water are added for every egg used.

Crush and pass a cupful of strawberries through a fine sieve to remove the seeds. Add a cupful of powdered sugar to the strained strawberries and stir the two together. When the eggs are cooked lay a cupful of whole fresh berries over one side of the omelet, fold and pour the crushed berries over and around it. Then place on the heated dish on which it is to be served.

Shoreless Bolivia.

In territorial extent Bolivia stands third among the republics of South America and is one of the two without a seaport. Her natural outlet to the Pacific ocean was taken by Chile at the end of the war of the Pacific, and today she is shut off from the sea like Switzerland. La Paz, Oruro and Potosi are all cities standing over 12,000 feet above the level of the sea.

Talleyrand's Brevity.

A single word was often sufficient for Talleyrand to make his keenest retort, says the Kansas City Star. When a hypochondriac, who had notoriously led a profligate life, complained to the diplomatist that he was enduring the tortures of hell Talleyrand simply answered, "Already?"

To a woman who had lost her husband Talleyrand once addressed a letter of condolence in two words:

"Oh, madame!"

In less than a year the woman had married again, and then his letter of congratulation was:

"Ah, madame!"

American Trade Losses in Azores.

There is a growing disposition among the importing firms of the Azores, to make their purchases in either Germany or England, and they are doing so because there are, practically speaking, no facilities for getting American goods direct from the United States. Transshipment via Europe means loss of time, more or less damage because of too much handling, and increasing costs. In fact, one of the most important importing firms of St. Michael's, which is the distributing port for these islands, canceled orders amounting to more than $10,000 during 1911 because there was no certainty of the goods arriving in time for the fall trade.

England and Germany have an advantage over the United States, inasmuch as they enjoy fortnightly facilities for delivering their wares direct to this island by two small steamers that bring out miscellaneous cargoes and return with pineapples for the London and Hamburg markets. The Germans, however, are at present getting the better part of all foreign trade and their goods are fast replacing goods formerly supplied by the United States, and their success is due to the fact that they systematically cover this field by salesmen and can guarantee prompt deliveries.

In the matter of charges, terms, etc., the principal importers of the Azores do not ask or expect extended credit and are in position to make satisfactory financial arrangements. What they need most is a service by which they may obtain their American goods when they want them.

For the reason that so many of the inhabitants of the Azores have been in the United States, and naturally are more familiar with American goods than with the goods of other foreign countries, it remains for the United States to provide the means of supplying their goods to them. With a regular service monthly, or even a steamer every two or three months, with positive sailing dates, the United States can have the bulk of the foreign trade.

COMING EVENTS CALENDAR.

BRIEFS

The district court will occupy the new building for the first time next Monday, May 20.

There is to be no session of the City Council tonight. The next regular meeting will be held Monday, May 20.

Brother Charles L. Hammond, past grand is to address members of Mt. Wollaston lodge, No. 80, I. O. O. F., Tuesday evening, May 21, at their regular meeting, his subject being "Post Office." All Odd Fellows are invited to attend. A collation is to be served after the address.

The annual convention of the Massachusetts Catholic Order of Foresters of which Cornelius M. Duggan of this city, is High Chief Ranger, will be held in Ford hall, Boston, May 22. The convention will be opened in the morning by mass at St. Joseph's church. On the evening previous to the convention the delegates will be given a reception in Mechanics hall.

GEORGE ESSON BURIED.

The funeral of George Esson was held Saturday afternoon from the residence of his daughter, Mrs. Alexander W. Russell on Gilmore street, and was largely attended, a delegation from Clan McGregor, O. S. C., being among those present. The services were conducted by Rev. James A. Matheson of the Water street Presbyterian church. The interment was at Mt. Wollaston cemetery where the burial service of Clan McGregor was held.

SWEDISH COUPLE WEDDED.

A wedding of unusual interest in Swedish circles took place Saturday evening at 8 o'clock, at the home of Mrs. Charles Asklund, Glendale road, when her niece, Miss Ida Bjorklund was married to Edward Matson of 120 Cranch street. The ceremony was performed by Rev. Avel Andrea, pastor of the Swedish Lutheran church, in the presence of a large number of relatives and friends of the contracting parties.

The bride was attended by Miss Selma Bjorklund and Miss Irene Bjorklund, her sisters, as maids of honor, while the gentlemen of honor were brothers of the bridegroom, Fred Matson and Karl Matson.

After the ceremony, the party repaired to Electa hall, where a reception was in order. The newly married couple were assisted in receiving by the gentlemen and ladies of honor. A wedding supper followed the reception and the affair concluded with dancing.

The bride was attired in white silk crepe and carried a boquet of bridal roses, while the maids of honor wore dresses of pale blue voile and carried boquets of carnations. After a honeymoon of two weeks, the newly married couple will reside at 120 Cranch street.

JOHN GRIER HIBBEN.

His Inauguration as President of Princeton Attended by Taft.

PRESIDENT HIBBEN

Duly Inaugurated as the New Head of Princeton University

Princeton, N. J., May 13.—President Taft and Chief Justice White of the United States supreme court were the principal guests of honor invited Saturday to attend the inauguration of John Grier Hibben as president of Princeton university. Many college heads and hundreds of alumni from all over the United States were in attendance.

Before the inaugural address President Taft and Chief Justice White were given the honorary LL. D. degrees of Princeton.

POLICE BREAK UP I. W. W. MEETING

No Serious Conflict Resulted In the Dispersement

Wakefield, Mass., May 13.—A serious conflict between a crowd of 500 Italian and Polish Industrial Workers of the World and the Wakefield police department was averted narrowly Sunday afternoon, when, despite repeated warnings from Chief J. J. Pollard, a meeting was attempted to protest against the continuous imprisonment of Joseph J. Ettor and Arturo Giovannitti, erstwhile I. W. W. leaders in the Lawrence strike, who are now lodged in the Essex county jail, charged with being accessory before the fact of murder.

Angry murmuring and evidences of revengeful action impending among the I. W. W. greeted Chief Pollard when he entered the house while a speaker was haranguing the crowd jammed inside. Luckily no mix-up occurred, and while several of the foreigners mumbled to their fellows to make preparations to rush the officer, cooler heads prevailed, the audience, after some minutes, leaving the house quietly.

GOMEZ' BRIEF TERM

His Resignation Leaves the Center of Stage To Orozco

Juarez, Mex., May 13.—General Pascual Orozco holds the balance of power in the Mexican revolution. Though he is facing with 7000 men a federal army that is pressing him back toward the border and the outcome of the battle is uncertain, the developments of the day, chiefly the abdication of Emilio V. Gomez from the provisional presidency, indicate that the money interests behind Mexico's present disturbances must continue to court Orozco.

El Paso, Tex., May 13.—General Pascual Orozco's advance guard of rebels has been driven back toward Escalon, the central base of the insurgents, in northern Mexico.

The government troops, within the last twenty-four hours, have pushed the attack vigorously, forcing the rebels northward nearly twenty miles to Conejas, about 200 miles south of Chihuahua.

RICHESON SAYS HE IS SANE

This Will Be a Fateful Week For the Condemned

THREE ADDITIONAL ALIENISTS

Governor Foss Appoints More Examiners—Is He Sane Now?—Was He Sane at the Time of the Crime?—These Are Problems to Solve—The Man Retains Full Self Possession Under Ordeal

Boston, May 13.—Clarence V. T. Richeson, self-confessed murderer of Avis Linnell, condemned to die in the electric chair the week of May 19, was examined in the Charles street jail by three alienists, at the request of Governor Foss. These examinations began Saturday and were continued at intervals both Sunday and today.

The alienists were Dr. George T. Tuttle of the McLean insane hospital; Dr. Henry B. Stedman of the Taunton insane asylum and Dr. Henry B. Frost of the Boston state hospital.

Richeson was prompt in answering that he did not consider himself insane when the question was put to him. His appetitie continues good, and he retains his self-possession remarkably well under the circumstances.

Only when a suggestion is made looking to his removal to the Charlestown state prison and the death cell does the prisoner allow his feelings to be shown. In the opinion of some of the officials who have watched him closely he will never walk unassisted to the chair.

Unless the sentence is commuted next Saturday night will find him in the death cell with the possibility of his being called to sit in the death chair at any time after midnight.

Sheriff Quinn of the jail said that he would not remove the prisoner to the care of the state authorities until after the alienists had completed their examinations.

If the alienists report to the governor that Richeson is insane now or was insane when he committeed the crime, Governor Foss, under the law, will submit the petition of Richeson's attorneys for a commutation of sentence to the executive council, which is to meet next Wednesday. In only other way, according to the authorities at the state house, can Richeson's life be saved.

It was stated that even if commutation is granted on the ground of insanity at the present time, Richeson's mental recovery subsequently would cause his execution provided it was shown that he was not insane at the time the murder was committe.

Dr. O. G. Cilley, the jail physician, who has had more opportunity to observe Richeson than any other doctor or official, says:

"I am willing to swear before any court that Richeson is as sane as I am. I could not consider myself capable of holding my position if I were not able to judge whether a man is sane or insane."

DEEDS, NOT WORDS

Quincy People Have Absolute Proof of Deeds at Home.

It's not words but deeds that prove true merit.

The deeds of Doan's Kidney Pills,

For Quincy kidney sufferers.

Have made their local reputation.

Proof lies in the testimony of Quincy people who have been cured to stay cured.

Mrs. G. McDonald, 276 Water street, Quincy, Mass., says: "When I used Doan's Kidney Pills in 1908 the results were so satisfactory that I publicly recommended this remedy. That statement still holds good. I felt all out of sorts for at least six months, and was at a loss to know what ailed me. I had but little energy to attend to my housework and my back was painful and weak. An acquaintance hear me complain and suggested that probably my kidneys were disordered, and advised me to take Doan's Kidney Pills. I did so, and they soon fixed me up in good shape, making me feel like a different person.

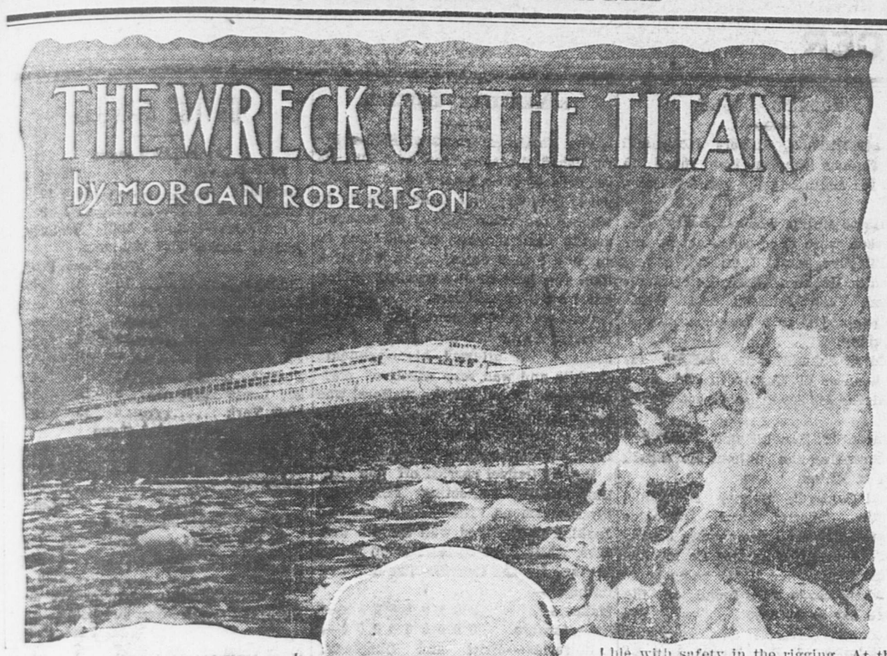
THE WRECK OF THE TITAN

by MORGAN ROBERTSON



MORGAN ROBERTSON.

SYNOPSIS

The great steamer Titan, supposed to be unsinkable, starts across the Atlantic. Rowland, once a lieutenant, now a common sailor, meets his old love Myra. She is with her husband and child.

CHAPTER II.

Shapes Swallowed In Blackness.

WHEN the watch turned out at midnight they found a vicious half gale blowing from the northeast, which, added to the speed of the steamship, made, so far as effects on her deck went, a fairly uncomfortable whole gale of chilly wind. The head sea, choppy as compared with her great length, dealt the Titan successive blows, each one attended by supplementary tremors to the continuous vibrations of the engines, each one sending a cloud of thick spray aloft that reached the crow's nest on the foremast and battered the pilot house windows on the bridge in a liquid bombardment that would have broken ordinary glass. A fog bank into which the ship had plunged in the afternoon still enveloped her, damp and impenetrable, and into the gray, ever receding wall ahead, with two deck officers and three lookouts straining sight and hearing to the utmost, the great racer was charging with undiminished speed.

At a quarter past 12 two men crawled in from the darkness at the ends of the eighty foot bridge and shouted to the first officer, who had just taken the deck, the names of the men who had relieved them. Backing up to the pilot house, the officer repeated the names to a quartermaster within, who entered them in the log book. Then the men vanished, to their coffee and "watch below." In a few moments another dripping shape appeared on the bridge and reported the crow's nest relief.

"Rowland, you say?" bawled the officer above the howling of the wind. "Is he the man who was lifted aboard drunk yesterday?"

"Yes, sir."

"Is he straight now?"

"Yes, sir."

"All right—that'll do. Enter Rowland in the crow's nest, quartermaster," said the officer; then, making a funnel of his hands, he roared out, "Crow's nest, there!"

"Sir," came the answer, shrill and clear on the gale.

"Keep your eyes open. Keep a sharp lookout."

"Very good, sir."

"Been a man-o'-war's man, I judge by his answer. They're no good," muttered the officer. He resumed his position at the forward side of the bridge, where the wooden railing afforded some shelter from the raw wind, and began the long vigil which would end only when the second officer relieved him four hours later. Conversation was forbidden among the bridge officers of the Titan, and his watch mate, the third officer, stood on the other side of the large bridge binnacle, leaving this position only occasionally to glance in at the compass, which seemed to be his sole duty at sea. Sheltered by one of the deck houses below, the boatswain and the watch paced back and forth, enjoying the only two hours' respite which steamship rules afforded, for the day's work had ended with the going down of the other watch, and at 2 o'clock the washing of the 'tween deck would begin as an opening task in the next day's labor.

By the time one bell had sounded, with its repetition from the crow's nest, followed by a long drawn cry "All's well!" from the lookouts, the last of the 2,000 passengers had retired, leaving the spacious cabins and steerage in possession of the watchmen, while sound asleep in his cabin abaft the chart room was the captain, the commander who never commanded unless the ship was in danger, for the pilot had charge, making and leaving port, and the officers at sea.

Two bells were struck and answered, then three, and the boatswain and his men were lighting up for a final smoke when there rang out overhead a startling cry from the crow's nest:

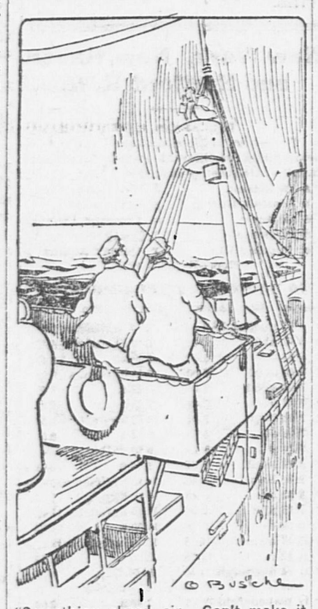
"Something ahead, sir; can't make it out."

The first officer sprang to the engine room telegraph and grasped the lever. "Sing out what you see!" he roared.

"Hard a port, sir; ship on the starboard tack, dead ahead!" came the cry.

"Port your wheel hard over," repeated the first officer to the quartermaster at the helm, who answered and obeyed. Nothing as yet could be seen from the bridge. The powerful steering engine in the stern ground the rudder over, but before three degrees on the compass card were traversed by the lubber's point a seeming thickening of the darkness and fog ahead resolved itself into the square sails of a deep laden ship crossing the Titan's bow not half her length away.

"H—and d—!" growled the first officer. "Steady on your course, quartermaster!" he shouted. "Stand from under!"



"Something ahead, sir. Can't make it out."

The boatswain bounded up the steps of the bridge for instructions.

"Put men at the hatches and doors. Send every one who comes on deck to the chart room. Tell the watchman to notice what the passengers have learned and clear away that wreck forward as soon as possible." The voice of the officer was hoarse and strained as he gave these directions, and the "Aye, aye, sir," of the boatswain was uttered in a gasp.

The crow's nest (lookout), sixty feet above the deck, had seen every detail of the horror from the moment when the upper sails of the doomed ship had appeared to him above the fog to the time when the last tangle of wreckage was cut away by his watch mates below. When relieved at four bells he descended with as little strength in his limbs as was compatible with safety in the rigging. At the rail the boatswain met him.

"Report your relief, Rowland," he said, "and go into the chart room."

On the bridge, as he gave the name of his successor, the first officer seized his hand, pressed it and repeated the boatswain's order. In the chart room he found the captain of the Titan, pale faced and intense in manner, seated at a table and grouped around him the whole of the watch on deck except the officers, lookouts and quartermasters. The cabin watchmen were there and some of the watch below, among whom were stokers and coal passers, and also a few of the idlers—lampmen, yeomen and butchers—who, sleeping forward, had been awakened by the terrible blow of the great hollow knife within which they lived.

Three carpenter's mates stood by the door with sounding rods in their hands, which they had just shown the captain—dry. Every face, from the captain's down, wore a look of horror and expectancy. A quartermaster followed Rowland in and said:

"Engineer felt no jar in the engine room, sir, and there's no excitement in the stokehold."

"And you watchmen report no alarm in the cabins. How about the steerage? Is that man back?" asked the captain. Another watchman appeared as he spoke.

"All asleep in the steerage, sir," he said. Then a quartermaster entered with the same report of the forecastles.

"Very well," said the captain, rising. "One by one come into my office, watchmen first, then petty officers, then the men. Quartermasters will watch the door, that no man goes out until I have seen him." He passed into another room, followed by a watchman, who presently emerged and went on deck with a more pleasant expression of face. Another entered and came out, then another and another until every man but Rowland had been within the sacred precincts, all to wear the same pleased or satisfied look on reappearing. When Rowland entered, the captain, seated at a desk, motioned him to a chair and asked his name.

"John Rowland," he answered. The captain wrote it down.

"I understand," he said, "that you were in the crow's nest when this unfortunate collision occurred."

"Yes, sir, and I reported the ship as soon as I saw her."

"You are not here to be censured. You are aware, of course, that nothing could be done either to avert this terrible calamity or to save life afterward."

"Nothing at a speed of twenty-five knots an hour in a thick fog, sir." The captain glanced sharply at Rowland and frowned.

"We will not discuss the speed of the ship, my good man," he said, "or the rules of the company. You will find, when you are paid at Liverpool, a package addressed to you at the company's office containing £100 in banknotes. This you will receive for your silence in regard to this collision, the reporting of which would embarrass the company and help no one."

"On the contrary, captain, I shall not receive it. On the contrary, sir, I shall speak of this wholesale murder at the first opportunity."

MAN SHOOTS HOUSE BREAKER

Pittsfield Scene of Last Violence—Bleeds to Death From Shot In Leg—In the Murder Case Husband Attemps Suicide—Couple Had Parted Some Time Ago—Met Wife by Appointment—Kills Her In Presence of Little Son

Plaistow, N. H., May 13.—Luring his wife, Mrs. Laversa Caswell, from her sister's home to a lonely spot on the Danville roal late Saturday night, George Caswell, a well known resident of the town, shot and killed her in spite of the entreaties of their 13-year-old son, Bertrand, to spare her. He tnen turned the weapon, a double-barrelled shotgun, on himself, and is dying in the county hospital at Brentwood. The tragedy resulted from jealousy of long standing.

Caswell and his wife quarrelled from time to time, he charging her with keeping company with a Haverhill man. Three weeks ago they separated, he leaving her with five children. He promised to send money for the support of the children, but failed to keep his promise.

He met his son, Bertrand, and told the boy to tell his mother that he would give her $40 if she would meet him on the Danville road. Believing that her husband intended to forgive her, Mrs. Caswell took Bertrand and kept the appointment. After talking for nearly two hours, they went to the home of Mrs. Caswell's sister, Mrs. Loraine Kelly. There they talked of making up, and finally left the house together with their son, in an apparently happy mood.

Hardly had Mrs. Kelly closed the door behind them, when she heard a shot, which was followed by a scream. She rushed out into the road, and found Mrs. Caswell lying in a pool of blood. She had been shot through the breast, and died as her sister knelt over her. Then there was another shot, and she saw the husband drop. Bertrand shouted at the top of his lungs: "Papa has shot mamma," and darted back to the Kelly home.

Dr. E. A. Landman was summoned, arriving in time to prevent Caswell from bleeding to death.

Pittsfield, Mass., May 13.—John Parker of Holmes road shot and killed a burglar after the man, believed to be James King, had entered the Parker home and rifled an ice box of a large amount of food. The Parker residence is a mile and a half south of this city.

Shortly after 2 o'clock, Mrs. Parker was awakened by the noise of the cover of the ice box clicking shut.

Hurriedly awakening her husband, who had been sleeping soundly, she told him what had happened. Securing his .38-calibre revolver, Mr. Parker, attired in his night clothes, rusned out of the house, after the retreating burglar. He yelled to the man to stop, and fired a couple of shots in the air to frighten him. The man kept on running all the faster in the direction of Pittsfield.

Once, according to Mr. Parker, the man turned and pointed at him with what he supposed to be a revolver. Then, as the fellow did not stop, Mr. Parker fired one shot directly at him, and it took effect. The bullet entered the back of the right leg and passed through, severing the femural artery. The man dropped to the road.

The identity of the dead burglar has not been settled definitely, although the name on several pawn tickets found in his clothes looks like "James King."

Certain facts which make it appear that King was a professional, rather than a mere tramp, are these: Five pawn tickets were found in his pockets.

As Mr. Cole and Mr. Parker were waiting for the arrival of the police and the doctors, at the side of the wounded man, he was seen to draw something from his pocket and throw it off into the grass by the roadside. Mr. Cole, after hunting for some time , found two sets of keys, one ring bearing eighteen and the other twenty-eight keys. Two other bunches were found in the suit case. These were turned over to the police, with the other articles.

Mr. Parker gave surety of $1000 for his appearance at any time. No charge has been preferred against him, although it is said that he desires to be exonerated by a court, and therefore may answer to the charge of manslaughter.

Pawtucket, R. I., May 13.—In reply to the demand of the finishing department employes for an increase in wages, the J. & P. Coats Thread company posted notices announcing a 10 percent raise for the workers in that part of the plant. About 800 employes are affected.

AMERICAN ADMIRAL FLIES

Fiske Makes Successful Trip In a Hydro-aeroplane

Salem, Mass., May 13.—While the crews of the battleships Georgia and Rhode Island cheered, Rear Admiral Bradley A. Fiske, commanding the second squadron of the Atlantic fleet, Saturday went aloft over Salem harbor in a Burgess hydro-aeroplane with Phillips W. Page, flew about the harbor and was landed near his flagship, the Georgia. Admiral Fiske expressed great satisfaction with the operation of the machine and declared it would be a valuable adjunct to the navy for scouting and other work.

Admiral Fiske is the first naval officer of his rank to test the hydro-teroplane.

SUNDAY IN OUR CHURCHES

ATLANTIC MEMORIAL.

Mother's day was observed yesterday at Memorial church, Atlantic. In the morning Rev. T. W. Davison preached an appropriate sermon on the text "O Woman, great is the faith"

Mr. Davison said in part: "These words were spoken to a poor Syrophenician woman, but a woman that showed all the noble impulses of true motherhood. Her daughter was sick and she went to Christ and cried for help. Her child's affliction became hers.

"The word 'Mother' stands for the purest, sweetest most unselfish person in the world. Her love represented God to us in our infancy and youth. Her love could not be chilled by our selfishness or weakened by our worthlessness. If a boy or girl should wander in sin and wrong so that the world frowned. How mother would be all the world to them.

"There is nothing in memory more sweet or lasting than the counsel of a faithful mother. Men carry that counsel and advice in the heart and in days of sorrow and despair, they live the scenes of childhood over again, and the bright face of the mother appears and cheers to success.

"If Christ cannot say to the mothers of today—'Great is their faith,' He surely can say—'O woman great is thy opportunity.' The welfare of the nation is in your hands. You have the child those first and important years of life. Under your influence the whole future of the child's life may be molded in righteousness.

"He may love you so dearly that in the hour of temptation the thought of home will enable him to resist every sin. The prayers taught to the child cannot be forgotten. In manhood we are glad to repeat them for mother's sake."

The Sunday school had charge of the evening service, the program arranged by the committee consisting of Miss Marion Newcomb, Miss Mabel Cheney and Miss Margaret Read was as follows: A talk by Mr. Blake; White Carnation—Maud Cheney, Eleanor Phillips, Thelma Keay; Only one mother—Elizabeth Brown; The Love of God—Laura Dogers; Somebody's mother—Ralph Smith; My mother—Ruth Beeman; Oh Little Mother of Mine—Hazel Watts and Annabel Brown; Mother—Marjorie Dame; For Mother's Sake—Tina Phillips; Only One Mother—Earl Beeman; Best Monument—Margaret Phillips; Talk—Mr. Davision; Selection—Choir; Old Mothers—Edith Olsen; The Web of Life—Carleton Marble; Mother's Baby—Edith Alden and Christina Kenneburg; Mother—Alice Hanson; Nobody knows but Mother—Fred Murkin; Mother's Baby—Clara Dunphrey; Mother's song—Bertha Priest; Beautiful Hands—Malcolm Cook; How Mama Plays—Ruth Miller; Mother—Edna Hanson, Dorothy Buckley and Ruth Littlefield; Song—School, A Prayer—Louise Carter; Mama's Merry Boy—Bertha Alden; Mothers of Distinguished men—Ruth Osgood and Gladys Barkley; Our Mother—Augusta MacMahon; My Mother—Jeannie Brown; Trying to be Big—Annie and John Kennedy.

MORALES KNIFED STATION AGENT

Harry Morales a young colored youth of East Weymouth who has a long criminal record was arrested Sunday by Inspector Butler with Officers Pratt and Schofield for assault on H. J. Carbo, telegraph operator at the East Weymouth depot. Morales was hanging about the station and was ordered out by the telegraph operator who is also the ticket agent. During the altercation it is alleged that Morales drew a knife and stabbed Carho in the right leg. Fortunately the wound was not a serious one although Carho's trousers were badly ripped.

Morales than ran away. The police were notified and the officers placed him under arrest later in the day. In court this morning he was sentenced to six months in the house of correction. He first took an appeal. Later he withdrew the appeal and took his sentence.

DESPERATE STEAL GAINS VICTORY

Ericson the Hero of a Sensational Overtime Play

END CAME IN TENTH

With one out and the bases full in the last half of the tenth inning, Fred Ericson stole home from third base and enabled South Quincy to defeat the Buchanans of Randolph Saturday afternoon, 2 to 1, in one of the best games ever witnessed on the Water street ground. Each team scored a run in the opening inning, but no more came in until the home team worked the squeeze play successfully.

Coach Arthur Staff of the High school was in the points for the winners and played in the same effective manner that marked his career while a student at Brown University. He allowed the Buchanans four hits, and struck out six. Lamb, who twirled for the visitors, was touched up for nine hits but managed to keep them well scattered. Many spectacular features were contributed during the game.

In the third inning, Theodore Galvin, while running backwards at a fast rate of speed, pulled down a fly that looked good for three bases. The same player had no fewer than six put outs to his credit and saved the game at critical stages. Ganzel also showed up to great advantage on the initial sack and pulled out of the dirt many badly thrown balls. McCarthy played his usual brilliant game at short, while Benson and Delear were conspicuous for the losers. The score:

ORIENTS WIELDED WILLOW.

The strong Orient A. C., on the failure of the team scheduled to put in appearance, crossed bats with the All Stars, on the Ward Three playground Saturday afternoon, winning 6 to 2. In the first two innings the game gave promise of being hotly contested, but Orients, by securing a number of hits, got three runs in the fifth, thereby taking possession of the game. The score by innings:—

In the sixth inning, by bunching hits, the winners were enabled to gather up six runs.

Williamson, the former Fore River apprentices' pitcher, was in the points for the home team and allowed but four hits. The game was largely attended and was marked by a number of sensational plays. The score by innings.:—

Y. M. C. A. 5—Everett 4.

The Y. M. C. A. triumphed over the strong Marshall class of Everett at Merymount park on Saturday afternoon, after a close and exciting game. Stanley Bates was in the box for the local boys and it was mainly due to his fine work that the victory came to Quincy. Bates struck out nine men and held his opponents to seven hits; three of which should have been easy outs if the local fielders had been on the job properly. For Quincy Coucher excelled at the bat, getting three hits out of four times up, while Holmes and Bates did the best fielding.

LEAVING WANTED SOUVENIRS.

George E. Bellmare was arrested by officer Johnson Sunday for the larceny of a dress suit case from a boarding house in the Fore River district. It appears that Bellmar had got through work at the Fore River and evidently did not want to go away empty handed so he helped himself to a fellow boarder's suit case. In court this morning he was sent to Dedham jail for three months. He took an appeal.

PARK HEARING POSTPONED.

Owing to the fact that the regular meeting of the Wollaston Parents'-Teachers' Association is to be held this evening, the public hearing which was to have been given at the school building by the sub-committee of the Wollaston and Quincy schools, on the matter of the location of the boundary line for hte new Montclair district, has been postponed until further notice.

BROKE HER PROMISE.

She Hated to Do It, but Then She Felt That She Was Justified.

A widely known motor racer was asked by a friend if he would be so kind as to allow three young women to accompany him while he was trying out a new racing car.

"Why, I can't be bothered with passengers at a time like that, and especially with women. They always talk to me, and I can't have my mind distracted. It might prove dangerous, you know."

"But these girls won't bother you. I'll tell them not to. One of them is my sister. They are crazy to go; want to say they have ridden with you. You know how girls are."

"Well, if you will tell them they mustn't speak to me while I am driving they may go. They mustn't move around or do anything to distract my attention. You impress this upon them. If they are willing to do this they can go."

The promise was made, and they started. At one place the driver ran over a water guard and there was a tremendous bump. He did not try to look around, as he was going at a rapid rate of speed, but presently he felt a timid touch on his shoulder.

"What is it?" he growled.

A weak little voice answered him: "Really, I hate awfully to bother you. I know I shouldn't and promised not to. But I feel I must tell you Helen isn't with us now." — Harper's Magazine.

SCOTCH TERRIERS.

Their Origin and the Conditions That Made Them a Necessity.

In ancient times each district in the highlands had its "todhunter," whose duty it was to see carefully to it that the then flourishing firm of fox, otter and company did not do a too prosperous business in lamb and poultry. Sometimes these todhunters were of "the laird's men," sometimes they were supported by the whole community of small farmers and grazers, but always they were local dignitaries. There was honor and considerable profit in their office, and in time it came to be more or less hereditary. Their duty was simple. They waged a war of extermination against the vermin, which, however, was a very different matter from the good old English sport of fox hunting.

In the rough country horse and hound would have been worse than useless, and Reynard made his den in such rocky ground that he could not be dug out. The sole solution was a dog small enough to follow the fox or otter or badger or wild cat into his lair, strong enough to bring him out dead or alive and game enough to do both. A dog developed from this necessity, and that dog was the ancestor of the present day Scottish terrier. — William Haynes in Outing.

SOMERVILLE DOWNED.

The Northwesterners of Somerville furnished the attraction with Charlie Ganzel's Makaria team at Merrymount park, Saturday, but their inability to display the same calibre of baseball as the local players, caused them to suffer a 9 to 2 defeat. The Makarias took the lead in the opening inning and kept it at all times.

Britt was on the mound for the winners, it being his first game of the season. He allowed his opponents six hits and was very effective. Marden, who twirled for the visitors, was touched up quite freely, and the winners seemed to experience no difficulty in fathoming his delivery.

Rupert Ganzel carried off the hitting honors, connecting safely on three occasions. Nicol, McKenzie and Jenkins also played well for the winners, while Roberts showed up to advantage for the losers:—The score by innings:—

Makaria	2	0	1	0	1	3	1	1	x—9

Batteries:—Britt and Chapman; Marden and Smith.

LORIMER TO BE SAVED

Such Is the Advance Rumor on the Committees' Report

Washington, May 13.—An agreement has been reached by the majority and minority members of the special committee investigating the election of Senator Lorimer of Illinois and both reports will be filed in the senate Monday, May 20.

The statement advanced by Mr. Jones created an impression that the majority of the committee have been counting noses and reached the conclusion that sufficient strength can be rallied to prevent the exclusion of Senator Lorimer.

"Barbara," the teacher scolded "your writing exercise is very nice except the last line, which is dreadful. Why do the letters stagger and fall over one another in that disgraceful way?"

Barbara raised reproachful blue eyes wet with tears. "You 'ticularly said write every line better than the last!" she reminded her mentor.—New York Press.

QUINCY SEEKS PERMISSION TO FUND TEMPORARY DEBTS

Preliminary Move Towards that End Approved by Legislative Committee

Other Steps Must be Taken Before Final Stages are Reached

(Special to the Ledger)

Boston, May 14—The House committee on rules gave a hearing Monday at the State House, to those interested in admitting the petition of Mayor Stone, as presented by Representative Walter E. Piper, wherein the Mayor asks legislation giving the city of Quincy authority to fund a portion of its temporary indebtedness. In the absence of Mayor Stone, the city government was represented by Councilman Geo. W. Abele. Since the committee on rules merely decides on whether or not a petition is of sufficient importance to recommend its admission for legislative consideration, the merits of the bill were not gone into. Councilman Abele told the committee of the financial conditions in Quincy which brought about an investigation by a special committee, and that at a recent meeting the city council had voted to ask the Mayor tho petition for legislation, along the lines of the special committee's report. The petition under discussion was the result. Representative Piper also favored the petition. No opposition appeared. Later in the day, the committee on rules in an executive session voted unanimously to recommend the admission of the measure.

The matter now goes before the Senate committee on rules, and if that committee also favors its admission, and the committee reports are accepted by the legislature, the petition will be referred to the committee on cities, for a hearing on the merits of the matter.

It now looks as though the petition of the City Council and Mayor to the legislature for authority to refund $140,000 of its indebtedness might be passed by the legislature this year. The petition was introduced by Representative Piper last week and was immediately referred to the Committee on Rules of the House. This committee has reported favorably and the petition is now before the Senate committee on Rules for concurrence. It is probable that this committee will also admit the petition and bill. It will then go to the Committee on Cities.

The petition is the one recommended by the Special Committee on Financial Investigation of the City Council. Its purpose is to give the city authority to refund $150,000 of its temporary loan, which has now become almost a permanent debt. If the authority asked for is granted it is proposed to retire that amount of outstanding temporary loans, which is to be taken care of at the rate of $15,000 a year. This sum will be placed in the tax levy each year.

The financial condition of the city was gone into in detail by the special committee at the last meeting of the City Council, their report being published in full in the Ledger on the following day.

LECTURE AND SOCIAL HOUR.

Members of the Quincy Women's Riverside club are anticipating much pleasure from the lecture to be given by Miss Edith Randall at the clubhouse Quincy Point on Wednesday afternoon of this week. The lecture is not only for members but also for as many of their friends as they see fit to bring and after the lecture there will be a social hour.

SERGT. BISHOP.

Ernest H. Bishop who was promoted to the position of Sergeant of police assumed his duties as such at roll call Monday night. He was assigned as night officer in charge of the desk at the station. Officer Olson was assigned to the beat in City square recently patrolled by Sergeant Bishop.

DEGREE WORK.

FALSE ALARMS MIXED THINGS

Auto Chemical Balked, Towed Home for Repairs

SECOND FALSE ALARM

Following close upon the heels of the confusion of fire signals which marked the discovery of the blaze at the Mitchell polishing mill, Sunday morning, the people of Quincy were treated to another mixture of bells, a false alarm and break down of the auto chemical during the early hours of last evning.

The fire was at Squantum, and the auto chemical at the Quincy Central station responded, but did not appear to like the task, yet was forced to it, and later on the homeward journey, petered out altogether. When the first alarm was uncertain and the second proved a false one, so that taken all in all, the department had a lively time in 48 hours, without a proportionate degree of fire fighting.

The fire department was called out twice Monday evening by bell alarms. The first alarm sounded at 7.58, from box 68, but the alarm was so jumbled up that few could fathom what box was being sounded. The correct number was caught however on the tape at the central station. This box is located at Squantum, and calls the chemical from the central station in addition to apparatus at Atlantic and Wollaston.

Chief Litchfield was at the Central station when the alarm sounded, and he went through City square at a high rate of speed, followed by the chemical. Both made the five mile run in quick time and were able to be of some assistance. The fire was in a house of Edward Hutchinson on Gladstone street, Squantum, and was caused by the explosion of a gasoline stove. The flames spread rapidly and were soon coming through the roof. The department were able to save the building with a loss estimated by Chief Litchfield at $500.

While the department was at Squantum an alarm was sounded from box 224, at the corner of Adams and Whitwell streets at 8.40. This called out the remaining apparatus at the central station and the West Quincy apparatus. This alarm proved to be a false alarm. On the way back to the station the chemical which had not been working right stopped and it was necessary for her to be towed home.

BIG GRANITE SHIPMENTS

Returns from the two railroad shipping terminals for the month of April show the total amount of rough and finished granite shipped from the city that month to have been 16,775,199 pounds, which was an increase of practically 10,000,000 pounds over the previous month. The figures from the two stations were as follows. Quincy Adams 10,108,670 pounds, and from West Quincy 6,646,529 pounds. The shipments for the month of May are expected to be greatly in excess of these figures.

OFFICERS ELECTED.

At the meeting of Abigail Adams Phillips Chapter, Daughters of Revolution, held Monday afternoon, at the home of Mrs. Benjamin Sargent, Willow street, the following officers were elected for the ensuing year:

HONOR TO THE HEROIC DEAD

G.A.R. Post and Kindred Organizations Unite in Tribute

MEMORIAL DAY SERVICE

Paul Revere Post 88, G. A. R., in accordance with its usual custom has issued its general orders for the observance of Memorial day. As in past past years the Post, with kindred organizations will on the Sunday morning previous, attend divine services at the Park and Downs church, and listen to an address by Rev. William B. Ayers. Special cars for the church will leave City square at 10 o'clock.

Pupils of the public schools are requested to bring flowers to their respective schools on the morning of Wednesday, May 29, which will be collected by the members of the Post.

The orders for Memorial day will differ but little from those of other years. The Post will assemble at headquarters at 7 o'clock in full uniform and details will be dispatched to Mt. Auburn cemetery to decorate the grave of Col. Paul J. Revere and Comrade Samuel T. Spear. The Senior Vice Commander with the chaplain of the day, Rev. William B. Ayers, with detail will visit the National Sailors' home, where appropriate exercises will be held. Other details will visit Mt. Wollaston, the Hancock and English cemeteries to decorate the graves there, as well as to the Hall and Catholic cemeteries.

At 9.30 the Post will assemble in front of headquarters and preceded by Post 15, G. A. R. band of Boston, and escorted by the Sons of Veterans and Spanish War Veterans will march to the junction of School and Franklin streets, where cars will be taken for West Quincy, where appropriate services will be held at the Hall and Catholic cemeteries. The commands will then return to headquarters for dinner which will be served in Faxon hall.

This year a new custom will be inaugurated, at noon, under orders from the last National encampment. Under this order the bells will be tolled from 12 to 12.05 o'clock, flags will be placed at half mast and comrades will stand at attention, with uncovered heads during that period.

The afternoon parade and exercises will begin at 2.30, when a line will be formed in front of headquarters at 2.30. The line will include the band, Paul Revere Post, John A. Boyd camp Spanish War Veterans, Col. Abner B. Packard camp Sons of Veterans. Following them in carriages will be City officials, and the members of the Women's Relief corps, and Ladies' auxiliary. The line of march will be down Hancock street to Temple, to Washington, to Coddington, to Sea street, to the Mt. Wollaston cemetery where appropriate services will be held about the Soldiers' monument. Exercises will also be held at the grave of Lieut. Edward A. Bumpus, and at the Grand Army lot. The line will then re-form and march back to headquarters where it will be dismissed. This will conclude the exercises of the day.

MAYOR OF LONG BRANCH.

Bryant B. Newcomb of Long Branch, New Jersey, grandson of the late Bryant B. Newcomb of this city, who was prominent in town affairs in the fifties, serving as school committee on the board of assessors and selectmen and also engaged in the granite business, has just been elected Mayor of Long Branch with an overwhelming and flattering majority.

WHIST PARTY.

At the whist party given by Mrs. Agnes G. Fletcher at her home on Garfield street Monday night ten tables were in play. The folowing received souvenirs, Mrs. A. J. Gould, John Drumgold, Mrs. T. Newcomb, C. L. Lewis, John Harling, F. Hayden, Mrs. J. Higgs, Mrs. E. Marnock, Mrs. Mary O'Neil and the consolation went to Mrs. M .McQuarrie.

NOVEL IDEAS ON EDUCATION

Advanced by James D. Howlett on Co-operative Work

ADDRESSED ASSOCIATION

In his address before the Wollaston Parents' and Teachers' Association, Monday evening, on "Co-operation in education," Headmaster James D. Howlett of the Quincy High school advanced many novel ideas.

One was the forming next year of a Parents' and Teachers' Association for the High school which would be a sort of clearing house of those in the grammar schools.

Another was what he termed, for want of a better name, a "chafing dish" co-operation, the inviting of the teacher to the home of the pupil.

This being the annual meeting the following list of officers was elected:

President—Hon. Eugene H. Sprague.
Vice President—David H. Goodspeed.
Secretary and Treasurer—Mrs. Eben Barstow.
Directors—Mrs. Eben Harrison, Mrs. Herbert Y. Follett, Miss Gladys Goodnow, Mrs. Albert R. Moulton.

The music for the evening was rendered by the Seventh Grade of the school under the direction of Miss Perkins. Among the selections were: "Chrysanthemum," "Fairies We," "On the hilltop," "Bluebells of Scotland" and "Softly fall the shades of evening" the effect being most pleasing.

Mrs. Harry A. Stevens appeared before the meeting and urged that the association change its date of meeting so as not to conflict with that of the King's Daughters. The question was referred to the incoming board of officers.

Mention was made of the hearing on Wednesday evening on the petition to reserve the old Wollaston school lot for a public park.

In anticipation of this the Congregational club has started a subscription list that has reached over $600 to provide for the proper fitting up of the same.

"Co-operation like charity" said Mr. Howlett, "should begin at home. We should first look for co-operation between the father and mother in the education of the boy and girl."

The speaker instanced cases of where education was a failure because of this lack.

"Education might be defined as: 'The ability to do what one ought to do at the time when one ought to do it whether one wants to or not.'

"President Eliot says: 'The fundamental object of a democratic education is to lift the entire population to a higher plane of intellect, conduct and happiness.'

"Both of these define education in the end as a finished product. We have to deal with it as a raw material.

"I would define it as: 'The drawing up of all the powers—both physical, mental and spiritual which the being possesses unto their greatest strength, their most perfect symmetry and their fullest efficiency.'

"Efficient living ought to be the true end of all education. To accomplish it there are three forms of co-operation necessary.

"First comes the personal co-operation—the co-operation of persons in

QUINCY CITY BASE BALL LEAGUE TO DEVELOP LOCAL PLAYERS

Four Months' Schedule of the Four Teams Promises Good Base Ball,

Brief Sketch of the League Officers Who Have Been Prominent in Athletics

Memorial day will mark the opening of the base ball season at the Water street grounds when the Strong Makaria team will meet the newly organized Quincy A. A. team, in the new local league.

GUS B. BATES.
President and Treasurer of the Quincy City Base Ball League.

The league will be known as the Quincy City league and has as officers President and Treasurer, G. B. Bates, Vice President, Charles W. Ganzel and Secretary William H. Flynn. A constitution and bylaws have been adopted by the league and the business of the league will be conducted under rules similar to the National commission which governs the games in the big league.

The Water street grounds have been leased for the season and there will be games played on all Saturdays and holidays so that the fans will not want for plenty of base-ball this season. A board of directors have been elected which will consist of the president of each club and the president of the league. All protests must be made in writing to the secretary of the league who will, after all evidence has been submitted, forward the full data to the board of directors who will then render their decision. The umpire will be given full power to impose fines and if necessary suspend a player. The main object in organizing the league is besides giving the fans a good article of base-ball, to develop the young players in the city. It is the intention of the league officials to have the players who will constitute the league, local players and in this way ringers from outside sections will be prevented from participating in any of the games. This is a wise move on the part of the officials because it is said that getting players out of town in the past practically killed base ball in this city.

After a player has signed to become a member of one team he cannot be transferred until the matter has first been decided upon by the board of directors. This will prevent players from jumping from one team to another. The teams which will comprise one league will be as follows; Makaria, Quincy A. A., South Quincy and West Quincy. The following schedule has been adopted and the opening game will be on the morning of May 30th when Quincy A. A. will meet the Makaria team while the afternoon attraction will be South Quincy vs West Quincy.

May 30 A. M. Quincy vs Makaria
May 30 P. M. South Quincy vs West Quincy.

The New Way The Old Way

The new way to cook is to turn on a little switch, apply a match and get a strong, hot, blue flame of gas that will cook anything for you. No fuss or bother, no coal or wood to carry, no overheated kitchen, no dirt--and the meal always on time. But with the old coal or wood stove—well, we hate to tell you. There is no comparison.

HONESTY IN EVERYTHING

The boys cut corners across lawns, but their time is very valuable.

Even if Mr. Taft carries Ohio handsomely, will it console him for the defeat of Cincinnati by the Phillies?

Congress is talking of coining three cent and half cent pieces again. There will be lots of them in the contribution box.

The six hundred rebels killed in Mexico were no doubt much better satisfied to die fighting than to live and work.

The women have had to do the most of the Browning Centenary celebrating Not dollar signs enough in his poems to get the men stirred up.

It would seem advisable, after the delegates to Chicago have had their 7346th ballot, to permit them to adjourn for a ham sandwich.

Mother's day was celebrated in many homes by Mother getting a bang-up dinner ready for the young folks on their return from picnicking.

It must be admitted that the President showed a whole lot of judgment in setting out to heal the breach in his party by using such endearing terms as "Neurotic.'

Congress refuses to reduce its mileage pay. The congressmen of course don't want it, but feel they must have it to prevent Uncle Sam from getting into trouble with it.

Under the circumstances it would not do, even if rooms were short, for any of those Ohio hotel clerks to assign Mr. Taft and Mr. Roosevelt to share the same sleeping apartment.

It will not be possible to get any information about the sea serpent from the steamer that just came in from Glasgow without selling any drinks over the bar.

SMOKE AND THINK.

Members of the Brockton city council are divided upon the question as to whether they should smoke and incidentally think, or think without smoking while in session. Some incline to the belief that the aroma of the tobacco floating skyward would produce more profound seeds of thought in the heads of the members and if given time the aforesaid seeds would produce fruit which would be worth while.

On the other hand there are people who take exceptions to the city fathers looking like a group of smoke stacks in a large manufacturing plant and making of the municipal chamber a smoke house. Councilman Land contended that he could think better while smoking. He did not believe the members should be curbed along those lines. Another member Dr. Safford thought such action would lower the dignity of the body. This is rather skating on thin ice, as some people contend that the Brockton body has come closer to that dangerous condition than many like bodies.

The discussion of this problem in municipal economics was incidental to the debate on an order permitting employees of the sewer department to smoke when on duty.

Looking at the subject from an unbiased point of view, it would seem that one department of the city was as justified as the other in the smoke proposition, but with all that there does not appear to be any great necessity for either. It can be seen where the sewer men might be benefited but if the minds of the city fathers require smoke to remove the fog, where in the world is the city to get the full benefit of clear brained statesmen?

THREE CENTS AND HALF CENTS.

A law renewing the coinage of the three cent and half cent pieces of our daddies is well on its way through Congress.

It is the theory of its promoters that it will do a little to help the cost of living, that some things will be sold for a half cent that now go for a cent, and three cents will become a popular price for many articles for which five cents is now chosen.

It is no doubt true that a certain plebian discredit attaches to a copper coin. Its color is against it, and is the stamp of inferiority. A great many people have acquired in these days a sufficient fortitude to hand a Pullman car porter a silver dime, when they could never hold up their heads and hand him ten copper pennies.

It may be the idea that the new three cent piece, which will somewhat resemble the ten cent coin, will become a kind of popular dime. A measure of respect is expected for it that can never be associated with the copper cent. Purveyors of commodities may feel that they can offer their wares for this figure without necessarily condemning them as cheap and poor.

And something might be said on behalf of the psychological economy of having money based on a small unit. The traveller in France finds that a five franc piece seems a far bigger sum to him than a dollar, although the dollar slightly exceeds the value of the other.

Many a woman draws back in horror from the idea of buying a 100 franc hat, when she would not hesitate to pay a slightly larger sum at home in the form of $20.

Over against such considerations, there is the fact that the proposed new coins would take time and create bother. If it be assumed that a man working for $3 a day makes change of coins five times a day, it would no doubt take him from one to two minutes each time to get the right amount from among his three cent and half cent pieces. The extra time would thus cost him five to ten cents a day more. It is doubtful if the saving in money would equal that and in the case of the man whose time is more valuable, the loss of time would be even more costly.

THE BROWNING CLUBS.

This period when the Robert Browning centenary is being celebrated is one of storm and stress for the Browning clubs.

One suspects that many a dinner and much darning of stockings is adjourned while these women of intellectual brows and Fifth avenue clothes are engaged in the more or less futile attempt to corner the poet's real meaning in its remotest lair.

After reading a dozen different interpretations of "Childe Roland to the Dark Tower Came," one undergoes a certain reaction. The simple life and a lodge in some vast wilderness have their attractions.

What would the average business man say if he were put up against twelve questions, of which this is the easiest: "How would you explain the three phrases of humor existence mentioned in verse five of Abt Vogler?" Having confronted a few of those, he might feel more inclined to believe in women's ability to vote.

By the above it is not meant to speak slightingly of Mr. Browning's poetry. When the literature professor of the University of the State of Washington first introduced the study of Browning into his classes, the students were appalled to learn that they would be required to discuss the meaning of three given poems. After they had had a year of it, they could with difficulty be persuaded to turn to any other writer. They discussed these knotty points in the corridors as formerly they did disputed decisions of the base ball umpire.

One student expressed it thus, "Going from Browning to Tennyson is like leaving the sea with its sweep and power and the good salt air cutting your face, to be confined in a prim garden of heavy scented flowers."

The pale, colorless writing of which one sees so much in newspapers and magazines, is due to the failure of most writers to absorb any ideas of style from the great masters. Browning woul take a newspaper paragraph of about 200 words, and put it into three or four words with a snap and sting and bite that would cut through mental fog like a knife—provided you grasped his meaning. It is miles away from newspaper style. But a writer who can even to some slight extent grasp this trick of using picture words to express ideas, without falling into obscurity, can improve his style 1000 per cent.

EDITORIAL COMMENT.

Burglars, horse thieves, forgers, and other malefactors of more or less great wealth will soon be setting up the defence of insanity before or after the act.

Col. Roosevelt very cleverly dodges questions as to his attitude on this or that measure by asserting "I am asked hundreds of Tom fool questions every day."

Charlestown boasts of a base ball policeman who caught a jug of rum as it hustled through a window and thus made sure of the evidence in the case.

If Chelsea were like Quincy there would be no squabble over the granting of eleven liquor licenses in one district.

The D. A. R. held their annual wrangle in Washington and D. of R. are meeting in Boston this week, but it is understood that the latter does not incline to revolutionary tendencies.

"Sane or insane?" may some time be legally substituted for the customary "guilty or not guilty?" in vogue at present in courts when murderers are arraigned.

The "Daisy chain" may be abolished by Vassar college, but that will not prevent the average young man from believing that the college harbors many rare buds.

England and Germany are having a game of "button, button who's got the button" in the armament, disarmament and brotherly love act, where each watches the other with grave suspicion.

Joseph Walker of Brookline is among those who contend that Senator Crane should go to the people for election this fall. The senator seems to be getting it good and plenty at every turn.

A Seattle judge has disfranchised a citizen because he was a socialist. If all the socialists were treated so there would be a merry party of them running around without the power of reforming things by the ballot.

The poor Chicagoeans must suffer for the regular diet of Sunday papers since the pressmen's strike was inaugurated.

OROZCO ON AHE RUN

Federals Reported Victorious In a Three Days Engagement

At the Federal Front, Conejos, Mex., May 14.—Burning bridges behind them the Mexican rebels continued their retreat northward before the federal army of General Huerta, victorious in the last three days of fighting. Five bridges spanning wide arroyos were destroyed by the insurgents, causing delay to government troop trains.

General Orozco's headquarters have been moved northward to Reliano from Scalon, a retreat of seventeen miles. The rebel advance guard after the defeat of Sunday at Conejos, fifty-five miles north of Torreon, was sighted behind Yermo, fourteen miles north of here on the Mexican Central railroad. Thus far the advantage has been with the government troops, and they steadily have pushed the rebels northward toward the American border. The superior artillery fire of the government troops, driving the insurrectos so far back that their infantry fire became ineffective, is counted on to force the Orozco army still further northward.

SOCIALISTS ARE AROUSED

Severely Criticize Action of Federal Judge Hanford

IMPEACHMENT MAY BE ASKED

National Fight Will Ensue Over Revocation of Citizenship Papers—Question Will Be Carried to Halls of Congress—Also to Supreme Court If Necessary—Socialists Gain 140,000 Members In Eleven Years

Indianapolis, May 14.—The right of a federal judge to revoke the citizenship papers of any man who has sworn allegiance to the American flag has foreshadowed all issues in the Socialist national convention. Federal action was promised by Congressman Victor Berger of Wisconsin.

He supported the delegates aligned behind the movement to compel Judge Cornelius H. Hanford of California, who on Saturday revoked the naturalization papers of Leonard Olssen, to recall his decision of face impeachment proceeding in Washington. As soon as Berger reaches Washington he says he will take the decision up on the floor of congress.

The Socialists say they have received numerous letters and telegrams from both Democratic and Republican leaders tendering support in a legal battle to prove the allegation that Hanford permitted his personal prejudices to rule his decision.

The decision will be carried to the supreme court of the United States and the financing of the legal battle will be taken care of by men who have no sympathy with Socialism.

The allegation was freely made here that Hanford's decision was due entirely to his opposition to the judicial recall, and that he believed in ruling Olssen out as a citizen he would curb the agitation for judicial recall in many of the western communities where the foreign born citizens predominated.

Morris Hillquitt of New York, the chairman, told the convention that since the party was formed eleven years ago, it had grown from 10,000 members, paying dues, to 150,000 and that the voting strength had increased from 100,000 to 600,000. "We now have one member in congress, Victor Berger," said Mr. Hillquitt; "after the next election we shall have at least six."

BISHOPS SEEK EXTRAS

A Number of Foreign Bishoprics to Be Established

Minneapolis, May 14.—That bishops of the Methodist Episcopal church who charge for special sermons and lectures, when they receive each year a salary of $5000 and traveling expenses, may get a "slap" from the general conference before the session closes, is indicated by several memorials on the subect which have been presented.

It is claimed that the salary is sufficient, and that in many cases the prices for the lectures or sermons are so exorbitant that the poorer churches are unable to pay.

It is rumored that the episcopacy committee will recommend the retirement of only two bishops at the present session.

Copenhagen, Denmark, may receive an episcopal residence, according to talk among the delegates. The committee is said to have voted in favor of establishing a residence at Rome and probably one at Hamburg.

MURIEL ASTOR'S GUARDIAN

The Widow and Son Are Each Minors and Will Also Be Given Guardians

New York, May 14.—Surrogate Fowler appointed Perry Osborn, a lawyer, special guardian for Muriel Astor, for the purpose of looking after her interests in the probating of the will of her father, Colonel John Jacob Astor. Miss Muriel is under the age of 14, and for the purpose of probating the will she must have a special guardian.

Guardians for Mrs. Astor, who is also a minor, and William Vincent Astor have not yet been appointed. Miss Muriel is the daughter of Mr. Astor by his first wife, Ava Willing Astor, who divorced him.

Roosevelt Gains Minnesota

St. Paul, May 14.—Colonel Roosevelt has carried every district in Minnesota except two, according to latest figures on the primary elections, and he will have twenty and probably twenty-two of the state's twenty-four delegates in the national convention at Chicago.

New Bedford, Mass., May 14.—Jan Woclyzck was smothered by smoke and a score of lodgers narrowly escaped a similar death when fire attacked the rooming house of Antonio Wetlia, 6 Pearl street.

Forester From Somerville

Detroit, May 14.—Edwin D. Philbrick of Somerville, Mass., has been appointed city forester by Park Commissioner Hurlbut to succeed the late H. J. Hunter. Mr. Philbrick commences his duties at once.

THREE COMPANIES NOW

Result of Dissolution of Powder Trust From Twenty-Seven Organiaztions

Philadelphia, May 14.—Counsel for the so-called powder trust and the United States government apeared in the district court and presented a form of decree agreed upon for the dissolution of the combination.

The proposed decree dissolves the combination, made up of twenty-seven companies, and creates three in such a way that competition will follow.

POPULAR ELECTION OF U. S. SENATORS

Provision For Possible Constitutional Amendment Adopted

Washington, May 14.—The house last night adopted, 237 to 39, a joint resolution providing for an amendment to the constitution to permit the election of United States senators by direct vote of the people. It already had passed the senate and now goes to the president.

All that remains to be done is the formal signing of the instrument and the issuance of a proclamation to the states to signify their wishes as to the proposed change.

The vote was preceded by a bitter fight, in which the southern members made common cause against the resolution. Led by Representative Bartlett of Georgia, the Georgia, Mississippi and Louisiana delegates strove to prevent its passage because of the senate amendment which gave the federal government supervision of the elections. They based their opposition almost entirely on the danger of negro domination.

There was not a single Republican vote cast against the resolution, which was adopted to the accompaniment of thunderous applause.

Senator Bristow of Kansas introduced in 1911 the resolution which passed yesterday. Amended by the house, it has been in conference since July 5, last year.

MANY MILLIONS PLANTATION RUINS

Floods Cover Mississippi Valley With Mud Blanket

New Roads, La., May 14.—Circling the bluffs of False river, which had served temporarily to check its progress, flood water from the levee break at Torras is spreading ruin over the towns of the thickly settled country south of here.

Plantation after plantation dotting the Mississippi bottoms, some of them the largest and richest sugar cane producing fields on the west bank of the Mississippi, are covered by the muddy water.

A report from Irwinville, fifteen miles north of Port Allen, reached here that the water was fourteen feet deep in the town. One hundred and fifty persons are said to be marooned there. Lieutenant Rogers of the federal corps is preparing to send relief.

Reports from Grosse Tete and Forderoch state that thieves marooned there are looting stores and residences. One man who had hurried out of the former place with his family, on returning to take care of his property, found everything nad been stolen. A number of towns in the flooded area have reported similar occurrences.

Some of the government engineers predict that if the levess still holding can withstand the strain until tomorrow the chief danger will be passed. The crest of the flood is expected tonight.

TURKEY BOTTLED UP

Italians Occupy All Seaport and Island Approaches Threatening Blockade

Rome, May 14.—It is announced that the occupation by Italy of the islands of Karpathos, Kaso, Piscopi (Tilos) and Nisyro, in the Grecian archipelago, and belonging to Turkey, together with the capture of the Turkish islands of Stampalia and Rhodes, completely closes the Aegean sea.

Turkey is thus blockaded and isolated from the Mediterranean, and she is consequently unable to dispatch warships or troops to Tripoli.

Miners Are In Session

Wilkesbarre, Pa., May 14.—A majority of the delegates to the tri-district anthracite convention today, called to accept or reject the peace proposals of the operators, have arrived. Most of them are uninstructed, but a bitter struggle is expected in the convention.

Boston, May 14.—Elias Applebaum of this city, who, on Saturday, after a last farewell to his wife and eight children, was taken to Gallup's island, being diagnosed as a leper by the physicians at the Massachusetts general hospital, will probably be taken to Penikese island today and there exiled for the rest of his life.

SUNDAY IN OUR CHURCHES

Topics and Announcements For Coming Week

SUNDAY SCHOOLS

WOLLASTON M. E.

Mother's day was observed at the Methodist church Sunday with an appropriate sermon by Rev. Wesley Wiggin, the pastor, on "A Mother's Worth" Mrs. Samuel Scholes was the soloist at the morning service singing "Come unto Me" and "Entreat Me not to Leave Thee." As usual Mrs. Scholes was greatly enjoyed by all who were privileged to hear her. Miss Marion Scott Nevers, the Deaconess, was organist in place of Mrs. F. G. Bennett who was absent on account of sickness. Every mother was presented with a white carnation by Miss Nettie Crittenden and Miss Ethel Clifford as they entered and one was sent to mothers unable to be present.

A large number was present at the Sunday school session and four new names were added to the roll. Already plans are being made for the observance of children's day which occurs the second Sunday in June. The superintendent appointed F. G. Bennett's class as the committee with Miss Mildred Dunham as the chairman.

Miss Marian Nevers took charge of the Junior League which was well attended. The contest between the boys and girls has increased the membership and interest. Miss Rena M. Chamberlin led the devotional meeting of the Epworth League at six o'clock. The last part of the service she continued her talk on the history of the Christian Church which she began several weeks ago. These talks have become very popular and are greatly enjoyed by all. Miss Mary Cleveland gave a short talk on Polycarp one of the christian martyrs. Miss Emily Barlow of the Deaconess Home, Boston rendered a solo accompanied with the autoharp.

At 7.00 o'clock the anniversary exercises of the Epworth League were held in the auditorium in charge of Walter Sutermeister, the retiring president, who gave an address of welcome and read the scriptures. J. A. Sedgwick led the praise service. Miss Barlow sang two solos accompanied with the autoharp which were greatly enjoyed. Mrs. F. H. Morgan spoke on "Our Motto". She spoke of the necessity of the upward look in order that we may lift up. The upward look gives life. It developes life. It helps one to grow spiritually. She spoke of the unconscious influence which we exert on those about us, and how we either lift up or pull down those with whom we associate. Mr. Sedgwick spoke on "The Epworth League and Sunday school." He said in part: "If I had chosen my subject I should have taken The Boy and his Opportunity." The Sunday school has a great opportunity to reach and win the boy. The pastor spoke on "The Need of the True Epworth Leaguer." Miss Chamberlin read a poem entitled "The Christian," by Whittier, after which the Self Denial offering was brought in by the different leaders who had been appointed to collect it, while Miss Barlow sang softly an appropriate selection accompanied with the autoharp. Nearly forty dollars were realized.

The pastor installed the officers for the ensuing year which were as follows; Clarence Cassidy—President; Miss Rena M. Chamberlin—1st Vice president; Miss Marian Scott Nevers—2nd Vice president; Miss Ethel Clifford—3rd vice president; Miss Florence Waite—4th vice president; Raymond Cassidy—Secretary and Walter Sutermeister—treasurer.

WOLLASTON BAPTIST.

Appropriate to Mother's Day, Rev. Joseph Walther, read for his scripture reading at the morning service, an Old Testament description of a model wife and mother as found in Prov. 31:10—31.

To the children, the pastor preached on God's command to "honor Father and Mother" and to the adults on "Kadesh Barnea."

There was a large attendance. The Sunday school, Elford L. Durgan, superintendent, met at 12.15 and was well attended, all the classes were well filled.

The Juniors met at 3.30 in the Chapel. Miss Ethel M. Campbell had the meeting in charge and a helpful meeting was reported.

At 6 o'clock the pastor Rev. Joseph Walther led the Y. P. S C. E. meeting. subject: "The Value of Initiative", 2 Kings 13:14-19.

The evening service was held at 7 o'clock in the auditorium. The pastor preached on "Remember now thy Creator in the days of thy Youth, while the evil days come not, nor the years draw nigh when thou shalt say, "I have no pleasure in them."

Monday the pastor attended a meeting at Park street Congregational church, Boston, at which the subject of Mormonism was discussed and last evening with others he attended the monthly meeting of the Sunday school Superintendents' Union of Boston and vicinity.

This afternoon at four the pastor's class in the Fundamental Principles of the Christian Faith will meet at the parsonage. This evening at 7.45 a cottage prayer meeting will be held at the home of Mr. and Mrs. James C. Porter, 109 Taylor street. Selden H. Nickerson, leader.

Wednesday afternoon at 3 the Woman's Foreign Missionary Meeting will be held at the home of Mrs. George E. Thomas, 28 Newton street, Mrs. J. S. Adams of China will speak and at 4 the pastor's second class in the Fundamental Principles of the Christian Faith will meet at the home of Mr. and Mrs. H. J. Grass, 52 Ardell street, Montclair.

Friday evening at 7.45 the regular meeting for Praise and Prayer and Testimony will be held in the chapel, subject: "Guidance." Do we need it? How do we get it? Some promises and illustrations.

Baptisms will take place Sunday evening, June 9. All who plan or desire to be baptized should speak to the Pastor at once.

WOLLASTON UNITARIAN.

At the Wollaston Unitarian church Sunday, Rev. Carl G. Horst took as the text of his morning sermon the words found in Matthew 3:13. "Then Cometh Jesus from Galilee to Jordan unto John, to be baptized of him." The Value of Religious Forms was the topic suggested by the text and Jesus' attitude of respect toward the forms of his day and generation was cited as being significant.—Since if He, the highest and best, voluntarily submitted himself to John for baptism, and availed himself of the privilege of going to the place of worship regularly how much more should we, of less fine development, need the help and inspiration of outwardly conforming to established forms of worship.

"Human nature has changed but little in its needs as regards religion and the Church. Conditions have changed, religious life expresses itself today in different forms from those used in the time of Jesus, but love of man has its root in love of God and to enter the kingdom of Heaven prepared to enjoy its opportunities one must have lived here with a heart open to the call of man.

Our daily life tends to the emphasis of the purely material, and its eager competition wastes the spirit of devotion and spiritual development, for this reason stated seasons of rest and quiet are necessary to the well-being of man." Our hope is in God, and He alone can sustain us.

FIRST U. P. CHURCH.

The Sunday morning topic was "Mothers". The speaker said in part that there was a class of Mothers in our cities among others of whom neither the pulpit nor the press said very much about viz:—

The mothers whose homes are small, whose means are sometimes very limited, and who are tied to the home by a number of little children, and who seldom get a vacation.

This was a class of mothers who deserve more attention and more sympathy than they usually get. There is a tremendous strain upon the nervous system of mothers of this class, and it is not surprising that some of them die before their time

The singing was good. There were fairly good congregations at both services.

The Sabbath school had a very good attendance.

The Young People's meeting was also very well attended and much interest was manifested in the topic.

The pastor's evening topic was;—"The value of the church to community." The church as Christ's representative in the word ought to make its influence felt more than it does in our communities, 1. in presenting the message. 2. Along the line of Social and Moral Reform. 3. In sending out into the world those trained in her Sabbath Schools and Young People's Societies who will bring honor to her.

SENATOR LODGE'S BIRTHDAY.

Hon. Henry Cabot Lodge, of Nahant, senior senator from this state, was 62 years old yesterday, and received many congratulations. He spent the day looking after the interests of Massachusetts people in the appropriation bill. Senator Lodge entered Congress in 1887, and if he finishes his present term will have rounded out 30 years of consecutive service in the United States Senate.

WATERWAYS CLAIM NOTICE

Congress Seeks Information on River and Harbor Bill

ENGINEERS TO REPORT

Washington, D. C., May 14, (special) The River and Harbor appropriation bill, reported by Senator Nelson from the Commerce Committee of the upper branch of Congress is, in many ways, the most important measnre the Committee has recommended in years, as it urges legislation that cannot help but prove of a far-reaching character.

In extending the scope of the usual investigations on the part of the Engineers which are required in order that comprehensive reports may be made on the same, the Committee emphasizes the position taken by the National Rivers and Harbors Congress early in its history, that of fixing a time limit for the completion of some of the large projects in order that the public may be prepared to use the harbor or waterway thus improved. The bill however goes farther than any similar measure appropriating money for rivers and harbors as it calls upon the Chief of Engineers of the Army and the Board of Engineers for Rivers and Harbors to report to Congress, "in which shall be included a preliminary report not later than December 11, 1912, upon the saving, as well as other advantages, which can be accomplished by the adoption of the continuing contract system, the rapidity with which projects should be completed, upon methods of standardization by which the waterways of the country may be improved uniformly in proportion to their capacities." To enable the Board of Engineers to properly secure this information an appropriation of $100,000 is made. While this is a decided step forward the Commerce Committee is not content to stop there but requires that there shall be inquiries made into both private and public terminals, and transfer and dock facilities contiguous to the waterway to be improved.

The question of terminals has been one of very great importance ever since the adoption of the present system of treating the waterways of the country, for one of the most serious handicaps to water transportation has been the lack of public dock facilities at reasonable rates and within the reach of all desiring to use them.

"The tendency has been toward wonership and control of such facilities by railroads," the report says, "or by these and steamship lines acting in conjunction with them, a practice not conducive to healthy competition on the cheap handling of freight. While many communities, including several of the larger cities, are awakening to the importance of freeing commerce from this handicap, by municipal or other public ownership or control, of docks and terminal facilities, there is much remaining to be done."

Senator Nelson, Chairman of the Commerce Committee, who is looked upon as the father of the Continuing Contract System, which has been of incalculable benefit in establishing a comprehensive policy of waterway improvements, is enthusiastic in support of these new departures in the river and harbor bill and hopes to see the bill signed by the President as it will pass the Senate.

PARENTS AND TEACHERS

education. There are three concerned in this—the child, the teacher and the parent. Unless we get the close and cordial co-operation of all three we will not get any very satisfactory results in the process of educating the child.'

Mr. Howlett believed that the Parennts' and Teachers' Associations were one way of securing this. He paid a high tribute to Superintendent Barbour in securing these in Quincy.

"In my eight or nine year's acquaintance with him," said Mr. Howlett, "and my two and a half or three years under him. I have come to the conviction that you cannot find a better superintendent on the American continent. Keep him at any cost!"

The speaker advocated the forming of a Parents' and Teachers' Association at the High school next year.

"After all," said Mr. Howlett, "this is a rather remote form of co-operation. What we really need is a sort of 'chafing dish' co-operation."

"Every parent should see to it that every teacher of the child should come into the home at least once during that year.

"If he or she is not fit to be taken into the home he or she is not fit to teach school in Quincy. Here's where school problems might and ought to be solved.

"There is sometimes a whole lot of shrinking from meeting the teacher, yet the fate of the boy and girl depends upon them.

"Let the pupil hear the teacher laugh. Let the pupil know the teacher has a human heart." The speaker related an instance of where this co-operation turned a boy from a failing pupil to one of the brightest in the class.

"I know of one teacher in Quincy" said the speaker, "who has been here two years and has been invited to the home of but one family.

"Parents do not even reply to letters sent them. I send out from 1500 to 2000 letters a year and do not have over 100 responses. Is it a wonder boys and girls fail?

"The second kind of co-operation is community co-operation. We want to adapt the school curriculum to the needs of the particular community in which the school is situated.

"Industries and business houses should come in and co-operate with the schools. It would mean a mighty advance in this city.

"Another way is by petitions. If we had a Parents' and Teachers' Association at the High School the back yard would never have remained the ash and rubbish heap it is today.

"After you get what you want in Wollaston I hope you will rise up and say 'We want the High school yard fixed up and graded. Get busy.'

"I wonder how many times the councilmen looked at the school budget and wanted to use the pruning knife? They didn't do it because of the great number of Parents' and Teachers' associations.

"I hope the day will never come when politics lays the axe to the foot of the tree of knowledge. (Applause)

"It will never come as long as we have wide awake associations of this kind working to keep the dollars for the child instead of the politicians.

"The third kind of co-operation is nature co-operation. Not in getting nature to co-operate with us but in getting on the side of nature and giving it a chance to take care of the health of the boy and girl.

Unless we have a healthy body we can't build a complete structure for a mental or spiritual education.

"Nature also gives another thing. It gives to every boy and girl what we call a bent. It is for us to find in the individual boy and girl what great nature gave as a bent."

Mr. Howlett did not believe the present site of school athletics with drunks and users of profanity as onlookers, the right place to lay the foundation for health.

"I believe in school sports, I believe in everything that makes for physical development and strength in the boy and girl.

"There is nothing that makes for strength as an out door sport but I would like to see a secluded place.

"A place where they may be given a chance to play and make their bodies strong sound and healthy. A place apart where they might shut out the hoodlums, the rabble, the drunks, the profane."

In summing up Mr. Howlett declared that in the education of the child we have the noblest task God has given us to do.

At the close of the address E. F. DeNormandie asked several questions and spoke a good word for the City Council.

Councilman Charles W. Bailey referred to Mr. Howlett's mention of the council. Not one man on the finance committee showed the slighest desire to cut down the school budget one cent although it was no secret that there were outside forces that wished it.

Mr. Howlett hastened to say that his reference was not to this city in particular but rather to city councils in general and that he had a great deal of respect for that in Quincy.

The annual reports of the secretary-treasurer Mrs. Eben Barstow showed progress for the association.

Mrs. William E. Rowe reported for the program committee, Mrs. Charles L. Seavey for the hospitality committee, Mrs. H. H. Albee for the child nurture committee, Miss Clara E. G. Thayer for the benevolent committee.

Miss Grace A. L. Parker told of the work during the sixth year of the Wollaston Free Kindergarten.

Mrs. Pinkham the retiring president gave a partial report of the year's work and turned the office over to the new president Hon. Eugene H. Sprague.

Mr. Sprague was received with prolonged applause and responded fittingly. Mrs. Pinkham was extended a rising vote of thanks for her good work during two years presidency.

A social hour was enjoyed during which refreshments were served by a committee composed of Mrs. H. H. Albee, Mrs. C. E. Bates, Mrs. Moses Brown, Mrs. C. S. Adams, Mrs. Irving L. Shaw, Mrs. G. Ernest Carr, Mrs. Albert N. Birse, Mrs. H. Lawrence Wilson, Mrs. Charles W. Bailey.

STORY OF THE CHEAP SHOW.

The closing meeting of the year for the Parents' and Teachers' association of the Cranch school, will take place Thursday evening, May 16, at 8 o'clock. The speaker for the occasion will be Edward H. Chandler, secretary of the Twentieth Century club, who will discourse on "Children and the theatre, a study of the cheap show." A cordial welcome to be present is extended to all.

POINTERS FOR MOTORISTS.

Just now when roads are being repaired motorists frequently have to drive over stretches of crushed stone, and tire treads are likely to suffer from many small cuts unless great care is taken to drive slowly or coast over the repaired parts of the road. These cuts, unless properly cared for, will prove injurious.

Dirt will work into and under the tread, raising blisters and separating the rubber from the carcass of the tire while moisture will attack and rot the fabric. Once the fabric is affected, says the Michelin expert, disintegration follows rapidly. The best protection is the proper and timely use of mastic.

Immediately upon discovery cuts should be cleaned to their full depth with gasoline, the edges being kept apart by a match. All dirt or other foreign matter should be removed with a stiff brush or splinter of wood covered with waste. After the gasoline has evaporated and the cut is absolutely clean, its interior should be coated with liquid cement. After this has dried, a second coat must be applied and while the cement is still tacky a sufficient quantity of mastic should be forced into the cut until it is completely filled. A little excess mastic is best as it contracts somewhat in hardening. If the edges of the cut are now held down a few moments while the mastic sets, the repair is complete. The tire should not be used, however, for five or six hours, so that the mastic may harden properly.

The Proof.

"Apropos of international marriages," said a Texas congressman, "I am reminded of a saying of Vicomte l'Oignon.

"'These American heiresses,' grumbled the vicomte to his friend, the Chevalier Tete de Veau, 'are a cold, calculating, designing lot.'

"'Yes?' said Tete de Veau.

"'Yes,' said l'Oignon. 'I've just been accepted by Miss Billia Nare and, though Billia is worth twice as much as Lotta Golde, the latter declines positively to release me from our engagement.'"—Washington Star.

AMERICAN FALLS WITH AIRSHIP

Was a Volunteer Passenger With Aviator Fisher

FATAL SCENE IN ENGLAND

Control For a Moment Lost—Had Only Risen 150 Feet—Mason One Time Private Secretary to Two Secretaries of War—Was Prominent In Republican Party—Interested In Numerous Mining Ventures

London, May 14.—Victor L. Mason, an American identified with extensive mining interests, and at one time private secretary to American Secretary of War Alger, and to his successor, Elihu Root, was killed late yesterday while making a flight at Brooklands with the English aviator, E. V. Fisher. Fisher also was killed by being pitched out of the machine when at a height of about 150 feet.

Fisher was about to give an exhibition and picked Mason as a passenger from among the spectators. They circled the track once when, eyewitnesses say, the machine, which was a monoplane, made an abrupt turn. It wavered a moment and then fell straight to the earth.

The sudden stop threw Fisher headlong from his seat. Mason was pinned beneath the wreckage, which caught fire. He was badly burned before being extricated. Physicians say that both men died almost immediately.

Fisher was regarded as a daring aviator. He had met with a number of accidents. On one occasion, after a cycling accident, Fisher made a flight with one arm strapped to his side.

Victor L. Mason lived in Passaic, N. J. He was born in Washington in 1870. He was assistant secretary of the Republican national committee in charge of the eastern division campaign in 1908.

Mr. Mason was identified with a number of mining enterprises, and went to Europe last January to effect certain arrangements connected with his business. A wife and three children survive him.

TAFT OPENS IN OHIO

Roosevelt Receives His Personal Attention In Scathing Remarks

Marietta, O., May 14.—President Taft planned to dwell entirely upon the record of his administration in his plea for votes at the primaries, a week from today, and to drop the personal note which crept into his talks to southern Ohio audiences last week.

But the colonel also will be in the state this week, arriving today, and in the hot scramble for votes it is more than likely the one-time friends will drop into bitter personalities and character revelations before the week is over. It is said that Taft will flay Roosevelt for his attitude in the Tennessee Coal and Iron assimilation.

President Taft could not keep all the rancor out of his speech here, but his references to Roosevelt were greatly toned down from what they were last week.

"If mere audacity of statement, and that is Mr. Roosevelt's campaign, could carry an election I would despair of the republic," was a sentence which drew a big cheer, but he did not follow with any lustier blows agains his former friend. He spoke frequently of Roosevelt's reckless accusations and "wild constitutional principles."

MAN AND GIRL KILLED AT CROSSING

Express Strikes Delivery Wagon With Fatal Results

New London, Conn., May 14.—A Central Vermont train bound for this city from Brattleboro, struck at Harrison's station Monday afternoon, a covered delivery wagon, driven by Albert T. Beckwith of this city, instantly killing him and Arline McNeil, aged 10, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John McNeil of Harrison's station.

William and Angus McNeil, aged 8 and 6, brothers of Arline, were thrown from the wagon, but escaped serious injury.

Beckwith, employed as driver for a grocery store, passing the three children, invited the youngsters to a ride and they hopped up and took a seat in the wagon.

Just as Beckwith had whipped up his horse and was attempting to cross the track, the train emerged from the mist and there was a crash, the wagon being demolished.

Beckwith's body was thrown upon the locomotive pilot and carried in that position several hundred feet. When Engineer McGraw finally stopped the train he ran to the front of the engine and found that Beckwith had a gash in his forehead, his chest was bruised and life was extinct. The girl was instantly killed.

WHITNEY PARTY SAFE

Arctic Explorer With Captain Bartlett Sends Word to Friends

New Haven, May 14.—Friends and relatives of Harry Whitney, the Arctic explorer, received word of the arrival of his party in Halifax Monday night. The Neptune, which took the party into the seal grounds from St. John, last March, was expected to return by April 15.

The navigator of the trip was Captain Bob Bartlett, who accompanied Peary north.

Whitney's telegram states that 8000 seal skins and five young seals have been captured and are on the Neptune. The seals are alive and in good condition. They will be brought to New York city.

The Neptune has on board about 13,000 feet of moving picture films, which will give the first views of an actual seal hunt.

Whitney's telegram says that he never had a harder voyage.

Suicide In Worcester

Worcester, Mass., May 14.—Henry M. Witter, Jr., head of the firm of H. M. Witter & Co., manufacturers of narrow fabrics, committed suicide by shooting himself in the head. Relatives say business worries were responsible for the deed. Witter was 42 and is survived by a widow.

Woman Sentenced For Murder

Salem, Mass., May 14.—A verdict of guilty was returned by the jury trying the case of Jenny O. Wentzell of Lynn, charged with manslaughter in causing the death of her 4-year-old nephew, Charles J. Beaupre.

Suicides In a Well

Springfield, Mass., May 14.—Charles W. Francis, an ice dealer, committed suicide by drowning himself in a well in his cellar, after he had assaulted his wife with a heavy monkey wrench.

STATE TAX TO BE LARGE

Needs of State Have Been Great and Are Increasing Yearly.

RADICAL ELECTION CHANGES DEFEATED

Chances of Governor Foss at Democratic National Convention for Vice Presidential Nomination.

Members of the Legislature are concerned over the probable size of the state tax this year. The present indications are that it will be close to $7,500,000, which would be the record levy, though it may be kept down to $6,500,000. The Great and General Court is constantly being importuned to embark the State in costly undertakings, and usually there are few, if any, remonstrants against such expenditures. Consequently the legislator hears only one side, and it is sometimes hard to refuse persistent importunities from his constituents. These needs increase faster than sources of revenue are found.

The Legislature has steadily enacted laws which seemed absolutely necessary, that have nevertheless increased the cost of government. A few years ago the State took over from the cities and towns the care of the insane, at a cost of more than a million dollars a year. While the cities and towns were thus relieved of that much expense they spent just as much the following years for local needs and their state tax was greater, making a larger total tax.

Eventually the tax paying public will find out they will have to pay for all the new things which they demand from the Legislature. In the last few years they have demanded state highways, metropolitan parks, state reservations in the country and at the seashore, new and improved sanitoriums for state charges, public control of Boston docks, piers and wharves, state primaries, as well as a hundred and one other things too numerous to mention. It may be true that these are things which help to make the cost of living. And it is just as true now as it ever was that "Those who dance must pay the fiddler."

Defeat of Election Innovations.

The Legislature has just defeated a measure to eliminate a large part of the expense to which candidates at the primaries and elections in this State are now subject. It is the so-called progressive method already adopted in several Western states. It prohibited all expenses on the part of the candidates beyond those necessary for traveling and for purposes incidental to traveling, for newspapering advertising, for personal correspondence, for preparing and transmitting to the Secretary of the Commonwealth statements intended for publication in primary and election bulletins, and for preparing, circulating and filing nomination papers, and also for voluntary payments of money to political committees for promotion of the principles of the party. Under it provision was made for transportation to the polls at public expense of such persons as are physically incapable of otherwise attending, and also provision at public expense for suitable balls for rallies.

Provision was also made for an official bulletin, to be issued prior to the primaries, in parts, each part to be designated by the name of one of the political parties and to contain statements of candidates of that party and no others. Four successive numbers of an election bulletin were also provided for, to be issued fifteen days preceding the regular state election at intervals of four days. In these primary and election bulletins all candidates whose names were to appear on any ballot were entitled to proportional space.

This method has already been adopted by several Western states but the Election Committee considered it inexpedient to adopt it at this time. The bill as first offered eliminated entirely newspaper advertising in a campaign and substituted for it bulletins as described to be issued at the public expense.

This will show the tendency of the times. Possibly the millennium will be hastened by legislation; perhaps, however, it may only come with the reform of the individual. Meanwhile the average man is hoping that conditions will not become worse through the radical changes which are now being made in methods of government in the states.

Governor Foss at Baltimore.

The prospects of Governor Foss in the Democratic National convention are exciting considerable interest in Massachusetts, especially in view of the general impression that a western or southern Democrat is likely to be named for president. There was a time when the governor told his friends with an air of conviction that he was going to be nominated for president himself, but no one is taking a great deal of stock in that happening now. His political associates have advised him to aim for the presidency and compromise on the vice presidency, and that is his plan at present although not laying too much stress upon the former part of the program.

Very likely if a western man, or a southern man, is nominated for president, the Democrats will feel like selecting an eastern man for the second place. It is regarded as good politics to do so. It is not impossible that the convention might come as far east as Massachusetts, although it is not perhaps an even chance. But the hope would be in doing so, that the New England states, or a majority of them, might thus be made Democratic; that Massachusetts, at least, might give its electoral vote to the Democratic candidates. But there are states with more electoral votes than Massachusetts, and numbers are what the Democratic convention will aim to angle for, in disposing of the second place. New York is a great state with a big block of electoral votes, and it is a doubtful state, at the present time. Many Democrats are asking if it could be ignored, in case the nomination for president goes westward.

Nomination Is Problematical.

While it is quite within the possibilities that Gov. Foss may be nominated for vice president, it is problematical. In 1896 the ticket was Bryan of Nebraska and Sewell of Maine, but never since has the vice presidential nomination come so far east, and not for a great many years previous to that. And the locality argument is a mighty strong one with a national convention, although it may seem trivial to the onlooker. Besides all that, Massachusetts has never in the last half century wavered in a presidential year in her loyalty to the Republican candidate for president, and her record is well known to the Democrats of the country. They will have to be shown that conditions have radically changed to convince them that Mr. Foss could carry it as a candidate for the vice presidency on the Democratic ticket. William E. Russell carried it as the Democratic candidate for governor in 1892 but it gave a solid Republican vote for Benjamin Harrison for president. William L. Douglas carried it as a candidate for governor in 1904, but Roosevelt electors were chosen by more than 30,000 majority.

If he is not nominated for vice president it is thought Mr. Foss will again be candidate for governor.

The KITCHEN CUPBOARD

DELICIOUS BISQUES.

BISQUES are thick soups, sometimes consisting of vegetables boiled and strained and combined with cream. Fish or shell fish are generally used in making them.

A General Method.

Bisque of Fish.—Any fish which is in season may be used for this, although the recipe calls for fresh cod. Boil a pound of the fish through two waters; then free it from skin and bones and chop fine. Take a quart of white stock and drop the minced fish into this, seasoning with salt and pepper and a little minced parsley.

Take a tablespoonful of flour and two of butter, put in a small saucepan and pour over these a cupful of milk. Place on the fire and stir until the milk thickens; then drop in the fish and stock. Boil these together and just before serving add a half cupful of powdered cracker crumbs.

With Canned Fish.

Bisque of Salmon.—Canned salmon may be used for this. Open a can of this fish and turn the contents into an enameled saucepan. With a silver fork remove all skin and bones; then cover with boiling water and simmer for thirty minutes. Drain off the water and reduce the fish to a pulp.

Take a pint of milk, add a dash of baking soda and a half cup of cracker crumbs. Heat these on the fire in a double boiler if you have one and add a pint of white stock. Rub two tablespoonfuls of flour into two of butter and mix with the soup. Stir to keep it smooth and when it is thick add the minced fish. Season with salt and paprika. Serve with croutons.

Utilizing Vegetables.

Bisque of Tomatoes.—Take a half can of tomatoes, a teaspoonful of finely cut onions, a teaspoonful of salt, a dash of white pepper, one of paprika and a teaspoonful of sugar. Put these on the fire in a saucepan with a cupful of white stock. Let them boil twenty minutes and then strain. Place two cupfuls of milk in the top of a double boiler and let it boil. Then add the soup to the milk. Rub together a tablespoonful of butter and one of flour. Stir this into the soup. Boil for about five minutes. Serve with croutons.

Examiner Men Stick

Los Angeles, Cal., May 14.—The pressmen of the Los Angeles Examiner will ignore the call of President Barry of the International Web Pressmen's union, and remain at work it is understood, as about a week ago they received a raise in wages.

5,000,000 Gain Suffrage

Rome, May 14.—The chamber of deputies by a vote of 391 to 6 has passed the bill extending the franchise even to illiterates when over 30 years of age. This increases the number of votes by 5,000,000.

MORGAN ROBERTSON.

SYNOPSIS

The great steamer Titan, supposed to be unsinkable, starts across the Atlantic. Rowland, once a lieutenant, now a common sailor, meets his old love Myra. She is with her husband and child.

The captain leaned back and stared at the debauched face and trembling figure of the sailor, with which this defiant speech so little accorded. Under ordinary circumstances he would have sent him on deck to be dealt with by the officers. But this was not an ordinary circumstance. In the watery eyes was a look of shock and horror and honest indignation. The accents were those of an educated man, and the consequences hanging over himself and the company for which he worked—already complicated by and involved in his efforts to avoid them—which this man might precipitate were so extreme that such questions as insolence and difference in rank were not to be thought of. He must meet and subdue this Tartar on common ground—as man to man.

"Are you aware, Rowland," he asked quietly, "that you will stand alone, that you will be discredited, lose your berth and make enemies?"

"I am aware of more than that," answered Rowland excitedly. "I know of the power vested in you as captain. I know that you can order me into irons from this room for any offense you wish to imagine. And I know that an unwitnessed, uncorroborated entry in your official log concerning me would be evidence enough to bring me life imprisonment. But I also know something of admiralty law—that from my prison cell I can send you and your first officer to the gallows."

"You are mistaken in your conceptions of evidence. I could not cause your conviction by a log book entry, nor could you from a prison injure me. What are you, may I ask—an ex-lawyer?"

"A graduate of Annapolis—your equal in professional technique."

"And you have interests at Washington?"

"None whatever."

"And what is your object in taking this stand, which can do you no possible good, though certainly not the harm you speak of?"

"That I may do one good, strong act in my useless life, that I may help to arouse such a sentiment of anger in the two countries as will forever end this wanton destruction of life and property for the sake of speed, that will save the hundreds of fishing craft and others run down yearly to their owners, and the crews to their families."

Both men had risen, and the captain was pacing the floor as Rowland, with flashing eyes and clinched fists, delivered this declaration.

"A result to be hoped for, Rowland," said the former, pausing before him, "but beyond your power or mine to accomplish. Is the amount I named large enough? Could you fill a position on my bridge?"

"I can fill a higher, and your company is not rich enough to buy me."

"You seem to be a man without ambition, but you must have wants."

"Food, clothing, shelter—and whisky," said Rowland with a bitter, self contemptuous laugh. The captain reached down a decanter and two glasses from a swinging tray and said as he placed them before him:

"Here is one of your wants. Fill up." Rowland's eyes glistened as he poured out a glassful, and the captain followed.

"I will drink with you, Rowland," he said. "Here is to our better understanding." He tossed off the liquor; then Rowland, who had waited, said, "I prefer drinking alone, captain," and drank the whisky at a gulp. The captain's face flushed at the affront, but he controlled himself.

"Go on deck, now, Rowland," he said. "I will talk with you again before we reach soundings. Meanwhile I request—not require, but request—that you hold no useless conversation with your shipmates in regard to this matter."

To the first officer, when relieved at eight bells, the captain said: "He is a broken down wreck with a temporarily active conscience, but is not the man to buy or intimidate. He knows too much. However, we've found his weak point. If he gets snakes before we dock his testimony is worthless. Fill him up and I'll see the surgeon and study up on drugs."

When Rowland turned out to breakfast at seven bells that morning he found a pint flask in the pocket of his

"I prefer drinking alone, captain."

pea jacket, which he felt of, but did not pull out in sight of his watch mates.

"Well, captain," he thought, "you are in truth about as puerile, insipid a scoundrel as ever escaped the law. I'll save you your drugged Dutch courage for evidence." But it was not drugged, as he learned later. It was good whisky—a leader—to warm his stomach while the captain was studying.

* * * * * * *

An incident occurred that morning which drew Rowland's thoughts far from the happenings of the night. A few hours of bright sunshine had brought the passengers on deck like bees from a hive, and the two broad promenades resembled in color and life the streets of a city. The watch was busy at the inevitable scrubbing, and Rowland, with a swab and bucket, was cleaning the white paint on the starboard taffrail, screened from view by the after deck house, which shut off a narrow space at the stern. A little girl ran into the inclosure, laughing and screaming, and clung to his legs while she jumped up and down in an overflow of spirits.

"I wunned 'way," she said; "I wunned 'way from mamma."

CHAPTER III.

Mother and Child.

DRYING his wet hands on his trousers, Rowland lifted the tot and said tenderly, "Well, little one, you must run back to mamma. You're in bad company." The innocent eyes smiled into his own, and then—a foolish proceeding, which only bachelors are guilty of—he held her above the rail in jesting menace. "Shall I drop you over to the fishes, baby?" he asked, while his features softened to an unwonted smile. The child gave a little scream of fright, and at that instant a young woman appeared around the corner. She sprang toward Rowland like a tigress, snatched the child, stared at him for a moment with dilated eyes and then disappeared, leaving him limp and nerveless, breathing hard.

"It is her child," he groaned. "That was the mother look. She is married." He resumed his work with a face as near the color of the paint he was scrubbing as the tanned skin of a sailor may become.

Ten minutes later the captain in his office was listening to a complaint from a very excited man and woman.

"And you say, colonel," said the captain, "that this man Rowland is an old enemy?"

"He is—or was once—a rejected admirer of Mrs. Selfridge. That is all I know of him, except that he has hinted at revenge. My wife is certain of what she saw, and I think the man should be confined."

"Why, captain," said the woman vehemently as she hugged her child, "you should have seen him! He was just about to drop Myra over as I seized her, and he had such a frightful leer on his face too. Oh, it was hideous! I shall not sleep another wink in this ship, I know."

"I beg you will give yourself no uneasiness, madam," said the captain gravely. "I have already learned something of his antecedents—that he is a disgraced and broken down naval officer. But as he has sailed three voyages with us I had credited his willingness to work before the mast to his craving for liquor, which he could not satisfy without money. However, as you think, he may be following you. Was he able to learn of your movements—that you were to take passage in this ship?"

"Why not?" exclaimed the husband. "He must know some of Mrs. Selfridge's friends."

"Yes, yes," she said eagerly. "I have heard him spoken of several times."

"Then it is clear," said the captain. "If you will agree, madam, to testify against him in the English courts I will immediately put him in irons for attempted murder."

"Oh, do, captain!" she exclaimed. "I cannot feel safe while he is at liberty. Of course I will testify."

"Whatever you do, captain," said the husband savagely, "rest assured that I shall put a bullet through his head if he meddles with me or mine again. Then you can put me in irons."

"I will see that he is attended to, colonel," replied the captain as he bowed them out of his office.

But as a murder charge is not always the best way to discredit a man and as the captain did not believe that the man who had defied him would murder a child and as the charge would be difficult to prove in any case and would cause him much trouble and annoyance, he did not order the arrest of John Rowland, but merely directed that for the time he should be kept at work by day in the 'tween deck out of sight of the passengers.

GOVERNOR FOSS IS WORRIED

Dr. Briggs Reports Richeson as Responsible

BOSTON LAWYERS PUZZLED

Opinions Differ as to the Man's Mental Condition—Most Alienists Believe Him Irresponsible—Three Yet to Report—Prisoner Stood All the Ordeals With Fortitude—Shows No Sign of a Breakdown

Boston, May 14.—Clarence V. T. Richeson, the slayer of Avis Linnell, seems doomed to die in the electric chair.

Reports made to Governor Foss by the alienists engaged for the commonwealth are so unfavorable to Richeson that it is now believed the governor will not ask the executive council to stay the death sentence, set for the week of May 19.

The governor was not disposed last night to take any action in the case.

The sentiment of the executive council is absolutely opposed to any commutation of sentence to life in an insane asylum.

Dr. L. V. Briggs, one of the alienists appointed by the governor to examine Richeson, declared in his documental finding to the governor yesterday, that Richeson was mentally accountable at the time he poisoned the Linnell girl.

"Richeson is abnormal in many ways, but he was accountable at the time of the crime, and is still accountable," is the portentious statement contained in the finding of Dr. Briggs.

The governor has consulted prominent Boston lawyers in regard to the legal aspects of the case, especially in regard to the question of Richeson's plea of guilty without a jury trial.

Many Boston lawyers, in discussing the case, have asked: "If Richeson was insane when the crime was committed, why did Mr. Morse allow him to plead guilty to first degree murder without making a fight on an insanity plea?" They wonder how it was that an "insane" man was allowed to plead guilty to murder when he might have been committed to an insane asylum if it had been proven in court that he was legally a lunatic. Another question which many ask is, if Richeson was insane at the time he gave the deadly powder to his former fiancee, how was it that he preached a fine sermon the day after?

Many good lawyers venture the opinion, from the facts in hand, that the alienists will report that Richeson was sane at the time the deed was committed. They say that it may be that Richeson's confinement and constant worry over the deed has weakened his mind and made him a nervous wreck.

Dr. O. G. Cilly, who has been Richeson's attending jail physician, stakes his reputation upon his statement that the prisoner is sane. The prison physician says: "The prisoner is absolutely sane, but give the alienists time enough and they will make him insane, just as they would any man.

"They may drive him insane and cause him to break down if they keep at him long enough. I have Richeson's health in my care and not one man in 10,000 could stand the strain of examination as he has done. He shows no sign of breakdown yet, though he may if they keep at him.

"To my mind a man insane or inclined to insanity would be made more violent or insane by examining him long enough. Richeson so far is a wonder, calm and matter of fact, smokes a cigar after they get all through with him. To my mind that's enough to indicate his sanity."

Dorr Gaining Strength

Salem, Mass., May 14.—Improvement is noted in the condition of William A. Dorr, charged with the murder of George E. Marsh of Lynn. Dr. Atwood, jail physician, said that Dorr is better than when he arrived last Saturday from Stockton, Cal., and that he believes the prisoner is recovering from the effects of his long journey.

AUTO VICTIMS COMFORTABLE

There is no change in the condition of James H. Spaulding and Mrs. James C. Marlowe, victims of the Braintree automobile accident Sunday night.

Mrs. Marlowe broke her left leg, and two ribs and suffered from cuts and bruises about the body.

Mr. Spaulding broke a leg and his right arm, had scalp wounds, and may have sustained internal injuries.

The injured people are at the Quincy City hospital. The only information which the hospital people give out is that they are resting comfortably. They do not say when the man and woman will be in a condition to be removed from the hospital to their homes.

CROSSING TENDER SAVED LIVES.

But for the promptness of Ike Jones, gateman at the Elm street crossing in Braintree there would probably have been a bad fatality at the crossing this morning. From what can be learned it appears that Mrs. Edward Heffernan with two children attempted to cross the tracks directly in front of a fast aproaching express train. Mr. Jones saw their danger and quickly hustled them across out of harms way just as the train rushed by.

PROBE RAILROAD RATES.

The Interstate Commerce Commission has instituted an inquiry into the rates, classifications and regulations of the New York, New Haven & Hartford, the Boston & Maine and the Maine Central railroads, as a result of complaints made to it that those rates and classifications are "unjust, unreasonable, unjustly discriminatory, unduly preferential and prejudicial."

The order providing for their inquiry has been drawn up by the secretary of the commission and copies have been, or are about to be, served on the defendant corporations.

BRIEFS

H. H. I. Smith & Co., of Quincy Point are to close their store Wednesdays at one o'clock during the summer months.

Mrs. Russell McQuinn, and little daughter, Winifred, of South Quincy are guests of Mrs. Ernest Smith of Washington street.

Mrs. Rose A. Reed past protector of Maple Lodge K. and L. of H. has been appointed district deputy grand protector of Jamaica Lodge of Roxbury.

Miss Nannie Kitson of New York city, who has just returned from a trip to Germany is the guests of Mr. and Mrs. H. H. Kitson of Merrymount road.

The second of the May morning musicales at the Quincy Women's club is to be given tomorrow at quarter of eleven and promises to be one of the most enjoyable of the series.

All the club women are attending the annual meeting this afternoon of the Quincy Women's club. As the elections are biennially there is no excitement this year over the election of officers but interesting reports, social tea and it being the last meeting of the year, makes it of interest.

NORTEMAN'S TO OPEN.

Invitations have been issued by William Norteman the well known proprietor of Norteman's pavilion at Houghs Neck, famous for its shore dinners, for the annual opening to be held next Saturday evening. Many of the City officials will be present.

—"Jersey justice" has again been exemplified in a sentence of five years' imprisonment for an auto driver for kiling a boy with his automobile. That sentence will do more toward putting a stop to reckless speeding in New Jersey than all the protests that have been made.—Taunton Herald.

BIG PLANT TO COME HERE

Concern to Employ Many People. Seeks Suitable Location

STATE CHARTER GRANTED

A communication has been received at the Board of Trade, requesting that its influence be used, towards finding a suitable location for the American Cotton Waste Company, a concern which is desirous of establishing quarters in Quincy, provided the desired facilities are afforded. The workings of this company in this country are novel, in so far as work of the nature planned is done wholly in England. It consists of converting waste cotton, such as is discarded by different mills, into clean cotton waste.

The establishment of such a business would be a great asset to the development of this city and would subsequently mean the saving of thousand of dollars to the business interests of the country, which are now forced to depend for their supply on the amounts imported from time to time from England. The president of the company William D. Eaton was recently granted a charter in this state and expects to have business in a most flourishing condition as soon as circumstances will permit. The great requisite in the establishment of such a project is an inexhaustible supply of water which is necessary in order to convert the cotton into the desired form and quality.

Consequently a site near a river would be most advantageous although there are other means which could be used to obtain the proper pressure and supply of water. If the firm is successful in finding the sort of place desired in Quincy many people here will be given employment and the fact that the machinery alone to conduct such a business, entails an expenditure of over $250,000 augurs well for the amount of good the enterprise bids fair to have on the community at large.

KICKERS ENTERTAINED.

In recognition of their good work of the past season, the members of the Quincy A. A. football team were tendered a reception, in the club rooms on Temple street, Monday evening. There was a large attendance and the affair was pronounced most enjoyable for all. A repast was served followed by an entertainment furnished by talent of the association. Ex-Councilman William H. Flynn, manager of all athletic enterprises and secretary of the association, was master of ceremonies.

Remarks were made by Daniel Duggan, captain of the basket-ball team, Charles C. McCue the president, Louis Smith the treasurer; Walter H. Cobb, Bernard Boyle and James McLennan. Solos were rendered by Dr. Galen V. Bowditch, George Hilbourne, Edward Bennett and James E. Burke.

OPENING COURT HOUSE.

Arrangements are being made for the reception to be held at the new court house on the formal opening of the building. The reception is to be held Saturday, June 1.

TAX COLECTORS ORGAIZE.

An association has been formed by the tax collectors in the state to which Collector Child of Quincy has become affiliated. The association will meet at the state house May 21, at which time Albert B. Fales, first assistant tax commissioner will explain the new law relative to the collection of back taxes and answer any questions in regard to the same. At this meeting arrangements will be made for an outing to be held at Gloucester early in June.

PARISH ELECTED CLERK.

At regular monthly parish meeting of Christ church, held in the parish house Monday evening, Walter A. Deacon of 179 Franklin street, was elected clerk to fill the position recently made vacant by the resignation of Roy Prour, who was forced, owing to business pressure which required his attention on Monday evenings, to resign, much to the regret of the parishioners. The meeting was largely attended and in addition to the election, the regular routine business was transacted.

QUINCY CITY LEAGUE

Aug. 31 P. M. South Quincy vs West Quincy.
Sept. 2 A. M. South Quincy vs Quincy.
Sept. 2 P. M. West Quincy vs Makaria.
Sept. 7 P. M. Quincy vs West Quincy.
Sept. 14 P. M. Makaria vs South Quincy.

Gus B. Bates, president and treasurer of the Quincy City base ball league is one of the best known old time ball players of New England. Not alone in the business world has he demonstrated that he is most successful, but in the national pastime it is safe to say that ther e is not to be found a more loyal or enthusiastic ooter. For ten years he was affiliated with the Weymouth, Braintree and Brockton teams and was conceded to be one of the best south paw twirlers of his time.

He established an enviable record in a Braintree and Weymouth game by fanning twenty-three opposing batsmen. His two sons, Stanley and Russell, the former now connected with Lowell of the New England league and the latter matriculating at Bates college, are two of the best specimens of ball tossers this city ever produced. They have played on the Makaria team from time to time and have shown up to great advantage. They seem to be imbued with the same base ball instinct as was possessed by their father, who still retains relish for the great game that words fail to adequately describe.

Mr. Bates has frequently taken an active interest in various things affecting the welfare of the city and it is safe to say, judging from his past accomplishments the new enterprise bids fair to meet with the greatest of success. The president has already stimulated a great interest in the new league and local baseball fans are sure to be treated to baseball of the real variety. Mr. Bates believes that there is ample opportunity to develop local base ball players and has promised his untiring energy, in order to enable all local players who wish to avail themselves of the chance, to round out into players of firstclass type.

Mr. Bates is now engaged in the heating and plumbing business and also does considerable real estate work in this city, besides operating seam face granite quarries in Weymouth. As a ball player in business and every other walk of life, Mr. Bates is a firm believer of the principle "a square deal and a fair field for all, with no favors."

MANAGER CHARLES W. GANZEL.

Perhaps the great national game has produced no player who has been more universally admired and esteemed for what he has done in the interests of the game, than Charles W. Ganzel, vice-president of the Quincy City base ball league. It was in 1889, when certain individuals who were instrumental in establishing baseball in the city of Boston, induced "Charlie" in company with "Charlie" Bennett, another" catcher of fame, "Hardy Richardson, a second baseman at that time without a peer and Dan" Brouthers, conceded to be the foremost first sacker of his time, to come to Boston and endeavor to make the game of baseball appeal in a special manner to the thousands of fans who were eagerly watching its development.

For eleven years, Ganzel played with the Boston National league team and his career during that period was such that it would be impossible to do him justice in this short article. He played in a manner that enabled him to gain the great possible distinction and his playing greatly conduced to placing the game of baseball on a standard that has ever since been forward. For five years he was Coach of the Williams college teams and his work was productive of such good that he has been given most flattering offers from colleges all over the country. But he chose to settle down in local circles and nine years ago placed himself at the head of the Makaria team, whose reputation has always been a most enviable one.

Mr. Ganzel believes in developing all the local players who give indications of being classed among the real type of ball tossers. He will use every effort to make the league meet with the success it deserves and his experience of the past seems to be a sufficient criterion from which to judge of the work of the future.

The Real Reason.

Freddie—Mamma, me face is dirty. Please wash it. Mamma — Freddie, where in the world do you learn to say "me face," like a little street arab? Why don't you say "my face is dirty?" Freddie—Because your face isn't dirty.—St. Louis Globe-Democrat.

COMMON LAW WIFE BEATEN

Louise Ahearn Complains to Robert Miller's Treatment

CASE AIRED IN COURT

What comes near being a case of white slavery came to light this morning when Robert Willie was arraigned in court for drunkenness. Willie was arrested on complaint of a woman supposed to be his wife but who proved to be Louise Ahearn. She claimed that he came home drunk and beat her. When the case was investigated by the probation officer in court it was learned from the woman that she first met Willie on the steamer coming from England. That they struck up an aquaintance and that he brought her to Quincy where they had been living as common-law man and wife since 1902. When the facts came out in court at the hearing the case was continued until Wednesday morning that a more thorough investigation might be made of the case before disposition. It is a question whether the woman and her child by a man now living in England will be deported or that another charge will be brought against the couple.

FOR SOUTHERN WATERS.

The battleships Minnesota, Missouri and Ohio, of the third division of the North Atlantic fleet, left Boston early this morning under command of Rear Admiral R. N. Usher, to join the balance of the fleet at Hampton Roads.

MORSE RECEPTION.

Bath, Me., plans a big reception to Charles W. Morse, the bank wrecker, recently pardoned from a fifteen years' sentence in a Federal prison by President Taft.

A committee composed of Mayor Frank A. Small, Augustus A Percy, Herbert E. Cole and Scott R. Frye will report at another citizens' meeting to be held later in the week. Mr. Morse has signified his intention of spending the greatest part of the summer in Bath. He will sail from Europe for New York on May 18, and it is expected, will go to that city immediately upon landing in the metropolis.

PENSIONS FOR SEAMEN.

The London papers publish a statement made by the Liverpool journal of Commerce that J. Bruce Ismay intends to provide an endowment fund for pensions for disabled seamen of all classes connected with the White Star line, and for their widows, as a thank offering and a memorial to the heroism of the Titanic's crew. The fund, it is further said, will probably amount to $100,000.

MORGAN ROBERTSON.

Interesting Career of the Author of "The Wreck of the Titan."

Morgan Robertson, the novelist who fourteen years ago wrote the prophetic romance "The Wreck of the Titan" and is, besides, the author of a long series of popular sea stories, is a thoroughgoing sailor and has acquired his "local color" in most of the seven seas. He is the son of an old time skipper of the great lakes, and his inherited love of ships took him at the age of sixteen aboard the Boston ship Ringleader on a voyage to Shanghai. He remained with her until he reached Liverpool, where he shipped on another boat for New York. After that he sailed the lakes for a season and for the next seven or eight years varied his sailing experience between fresh and salt water cruises. Mr. Robertson gives a suggestion of the hard knocks received in his sailor days in some remarks of his about discipline.

"I served a long time before the mast," he says, "and during that service got kicked and cuffed into me such deep respect for authority that I can never meet a big brute of a second mate to this day—never meet anything that is labeled ship's officer—but I want to say to him 'Aye, sir,' and stand around for him. I got to be a mate myself, but the habit had got ground into me long before that, and it sticks. And I was not naturally too respectful of authority either. Even now, after twenty years away from the sea, as soon as I step on a ship I feel abject. I cringe before anybody with the voice of command."

But Mr. Robertson's experiences include many more than those of the sailor's life. He left the sea and learned the trade of watchmaking and, having become expert in that branch of the jeweler's calling, developed into a successful diamond setter. It was during his later years in the jewelry business that he turned his attention to magazine writing, and in a few years he had made a reputation as one of the best writers of sea stories.

Among his best known works are "A Tale of a Halo," "Spun Yarn," "Masters of Men," "Shipmates," "Down to the Sea" and "Sinful Peck."

Like Jules Verne and H. G. Wells, Robertson has the knack of making his tales of adventure so real and circumstantial that his readers are prepared to learn that some of his imaginings have "come true." The remarkable fulfillment of his forecast of a great sea tragedy had a less conspicuous parallel in his engagement by a submarine boat company to develop the ideas set forth in one of his stories, "The Submarine Destroyer."

Mr. Robertson has given his notion of story writing as a sort of self hypnotism. "You've got to get hypnotized by your idea," he says, "before you can get enough above yourself to write anything at all worth printing, and there's always the danger of that sort of thing going too far—going so far you can't get back." So he thinks Joseph Conrad writes his sea stories and Kipling and others dream stories that none of them could do if wide awake. "They are hypnotized by the men and women who are suffering the reality, though they may not know at all who these men and women are. So Victor Hugo got the stuff for his tales of horror, and so do all who do any creative work get their stuff, or some of it. And each and every one risks losing his individuality in the process. Ordinary mechanical brain work, adding up figures or composing English, tires the brain, to be sure, but does not hypnotize it as creative work does—does not uncouple it, as it were, from your own identity."

BROAD WORK BEING DONE BY QUINCY WOMEN'S CLUB

QUINCY WOMEN'S CLUB ANNUAL MEETING YESTERDAY

Interesting Reports by Officers and Chairmen of Committee

Showing Progress and Broad Outlook in Social and Civic Work

Another year of activity in social and civic work and social intercourse in coming together twice a month, came to a close Tuesday afternoon when the annual meeting was held by the Quincy Women's club at the clubhouse on President's hill. It has been a year of good work as shown by results. How broad and comprehensive will be better understood by a careful reading of the annual reports as given in full below:

RECORDING SECRETARY.

It is customary, according to the ethics of parliamentary law, for the secretary of a club to give, in her annual report, a resume of the year's work and a look into the future as that future appears to one who has had to record all the business of the club year. In this club, where explicit yearly reports of work are given by the heads of committees, a repetition of that would seem unnecessary for your secretary, and the outlook, however influenced by the records in her hands, must after all be purely personal. But, in the present case, a new element has entered the field, in that your secretary must sever her connection with the club work on account of a change of residence, and that fact throws many colored lights upon the work of this club and its future, which would not otherwise appear.

In the first place is emphasized the thought of what the existence of this club means to the women of Quincy as a broadening and educating influence. Our first thought at the idea of establishing a residence in another city is, what shall we find there of social life, of mutual service to our fellows: and immediately is weighed in the balance what we are taking with us of those very commodities. A woman leaving Quincy ten years ago, unless she were going to some place where influential friends waited to introduce her to all that was best of the social life, would have to depend almost wholly upon her church life as a means of contact. However beautiful and serviceable this may be, it is true that every church shelters a different community, and the circles do not meet except at infrequent intervals. Ten years ago, the different wards of this city were very far apart indeed: it was but rarely, if ever that representative women from each ward came together to work for a common object. But, with the birth of the Quincy Women's Club came the close associations of thought, of work, of personal contact, that have made the women of this city sisters indeed—giving to each other their best gifts, freely, lovingly, thinking in broader lines on all subjects, and uniting for the betterment of all. The club woman of today feels sure that if she goes to a city wherein is established a women's club, that she shall find there the best that city has to offer in mutual service. All churches joined under one roof; all differences forgotten. In this light, as in no other, this thought of coming together for mutual benefit, the Quincy Women's Club stands for all that is highest and best in the community.

Thought of the future means principally, at this time, thought of our waiting list and the possibility of increasing the membership, that these members who have been waiting two years and more may enter into the fulness of club life. May your secretary say at this point, that never before did she realize how much the members of the waiting list who have come from active club life in other cities have missed, until she begins to think how much she shall miss in her own life if her new home city happens to have a club with a waiting list, or worse yet, no women's club at all.

In the last year, it has seemed that increased interest in the regular meetings of this club and the large attendance throughout the season, has awakened the members more fully to the fact that only a part of the club members may be privileged to see and hear at regular meetings in the club house. It is already apparent that the club, as now existing, demands that every member shall be equally privileged to benefit from these meetings, to the cost of which all members contribute equally. What more logical remedy is there, than that this club should enlarge its membership to 450 or better still to 500, and with the increase in revenue as well as members, hold all regular meetings in Alpha hall and institute a third meeting each month at the club house, arranged by the different departments, subject to the same rules in privilege of attending as all regular club meetings, yet, in the nature of things, appealing in each case to a less number than the regular monthly meetings already established. Larger membership means larger departments, increased earning capacity of the departmental work; greater social service. The increase in revenue ought surely to mean better programs at the monthly meetings, arranged by a program committee and made to bring, to all members equally, the best lectures on all topics of general interest, exponents of all art and of all educational and elevating forces. No club is living up to its highest standard, until it gives to its members the best of these gifts as well as the opportunity to give the best in themselves in united service to their fellow men. This glimpse of the future seems to show the uses of the Brackett Homestead still in their infancy, so broad a use would seem to be promised in such a new order. Not a drawing away from the club home as a central point, but an even closer union and a more comprehensive idea of this home as the central point of all executive force however carried out.

That the rich blessing of success may ever rest upon all the efforts of this club, is the wish of one who has been glad and proud to serve you as secretary, and who, in all probability signs herself as secretary for the last time officially,

Irene Chipman Tirrell.

CORRESPONDING SECRETARY.

The work of the Corresponding Secretary is so much a matter of letters and postals that an itemized report would prove tiresome. That you may know your secretary has not been idle, I will say that during the year I have sent out about 1000 pieces of mail, the list being as follow:—

500 year books to members, waiting list, other clubs, etc., 400 post cards, and 100 letters more or less. I have also sent brief reports of every club meeting to the Telegram and Advertiser. As for attendance I have been present at every club meeting and every board meeting but two.

To be a corresponding secretary in its best and truest sense I feel that the visiting of other clubs is of great value. But in these days of many duties (even for the average woman) it is hard to find time for all things and I fully realize how little I have done in this direction. The spirit, indeed, was willing, but the flesh was weak.

I have thoroughly enjoyed the work and feel that personally I have gained much. To be brought in closer touch with the work of our own club, and then with the work of our State and National Federations is surely an inspiration. And the best of it is that every one can help. Every club member can do something if she will.

For working together we can accomplish much, not only for ourselves, but for our sisters everywhere.

Harriet G. Holman.

ART COMMITTEE.

The Art Committee might take as its motto: "Deeds not words." It has not talked much about how things were to be done, nor when events were to take place. This, however, was not because it did not wish to reveal its plans or had a desire to whet curiosity, it was simply because we are very busy people and have the capacity for hard work at the last moment. Before the curtain rose upon our entertainments there were determined faces, sounds of hurrying feet and quiet directions, but the scene that greeted the members of our club and guests afforded such a measure of entertainment and pleasure, that our method has been forgotten and forgiven.

The Twelfth Night Revels retains its popularity. It is a happy, rollicking affair, abounding in jollity and mirth; it is a festival for all of us—it belongs neither to the young or those of mature years. It is the one night in the year when age is forgotten and everyone is young. We shall hold Revels about the middle of January of next year and we tell you all thus early so that you may have the pleasure of anticipation as well as that of realization.

Our Loan Art Exhibit was an artistic success. It gave to Club members a very enjoyable restful day. In these times when we are so much belectured and in honor bound to absorb all the great truths which are held before us, it is like a recess time to "drink only with our eyes." Here was an opportunity to learn who are the great artists of Boston and to see the work of their brushes. The public was invited to attend this exhibit, but it takes time to make the public understand that such an array of pictures has something of value to give in return for the price of admission. Next year we are planning to have things on a more elaborate scale. We shall probably invite some celebrities to come to Quincy and have a reception of considerable dignity in conjunction with our Art Exhibit.

Our aim has been to instruct while entertaining. The Revels teach history by showing costumes and the modes of dressing which belong to the different periods of civilization. The Art Exhibit showed us what is considered the best studies of modern painting and sculpture. We have tried to turn your thoughts from the everyday things of our busy world into the realms of imagination and beauty.

Theo Alice Ruggles Kitson,
Chairman.

ARTS AND CRAFTS.

Deep interest has been taken by the pupils in the classes just ending, and a sincere wish is expressed that we may organize our classes another season, early in October. We hope a large number of club members will feel the same desire, and if any member wishing any other craft other than those we have, including dressmaking, jewelry, millinery, basketry, china painting, stenciling leather, Irish crochet and brass, we will be glad to receive the suggestion, which must be sent to the chairman of the Arts and Crafts in writing, at the earliest possible moment. If possible we wish to establish an exchange to be held at every regular meeting of the club and shall appreciate consignments from club members and friends.

Frances E. Jelinek,
Chairman.

CIVIC COMMITEE.

Committee organized May 24, 1911 and elected Mrs. Chas. Hall secretary, Miss Margery Rideout treasurer. We decided to carry forward the work of our predecessors and immediately appropriated $50 toward the salary of an assistant supervisor for the Quincy Playground, to help along this splendid work first started by the Civic committee. Our next gift was $25 to the Tuberculosis Association. We were glad to be able to do this, for they were much in need of funds.

Through the summer the committee secured a competent gardener to care for the club grounds, the House committee bearing the expense. We had the settees revarnished and with the flower beds in constant bloom, it made an attractive place.

The shrubs at the Atlantic R. R. station were cared for through the summer and well protected for the winter.

Our committee has given especial attention to the unsanitary condition prevailing in the Quincy R. R. station, and through our efforts, the railroad detailed an extra force of men, who spent a week in repairing the premises.

We held our annual assembly Dec. 1st and all honors of the success are due to the able leadership of Mrs. Jesse I. Litchfield.

April 9th the Civic committee entertained the Club, conducting the first debate ever given on its program. The committee feel very grateful to all the ladies who helped us by giving their services. The $25 allowed to each committee by the executive board was offered as a prize for the best suggested improvement;; it was awarded toward the reflectoscope, which is to be used in the Branch Libraries extensions.

I think it would be of interest to you to hear of the progress of the School Savings Bank, which the Civic committee was instrumental in establishing. From Oct. 5, 1908 to July 1, 1911, there has been $24,349.16 deposited, and as each year averages about $6,000, that will bring it up to July 1, 1912, approximately $30,349.16.

This committee has had the promise that the rear of the High school grounds will be filled in and made attractive in the near future, also that the dead trees on Coddington street will be replaced by the city.

Just now we are agitating a "clean-up" time in Quincy. The school children are to be enlisted and the city will co-operate by furnishing teams the last two weeks in May for the collection of all refuse matter. Next year we hope to do more efficient work, especially in this line, for we would like to see Quincy an example of cleanliness.

Mabel L. Blaisdell, Chairman.

FUNERAL OF MRS. DALRYMPLE.

On Mother's day, May twelfth, many friends, some coming from long distances assembled to pay tribute to Mrs. Frances Hewett Dalrymple. In accordance with her belief the service was helpful and comforting with no more of sadness than possible. The flowers were everywhere beautiful, bright and fragrant. Violets gathered by a little child that morning on the hill, where Mrs. Dalrymple loved to wander and pick them, were clasped in the quiet hand. There were no drawn shutters or any semblance of woe. Pink carnations as a garland tied with ribbons of the same color were at the door and friends were welcomed as she would have them greeted.

Mrs. James H. Slade sang very sweetly "Still, still with thee" and while the sun shone through the falling rain, comforted those present with the song "Somewhere the sun is shining." Rev. Carl G. Horst pastor of the church of which she was a member and Rev. Andrew J. Abbott of Ashland, a friend for a quarter of a century voiced the comforting assurance of the Unitarian belief and paid beautiful tributes to the loved one, whose life was of cheerful service and whose creed was well expressed by Henry Van Dyke "There is only one way to get ready for immortality, and that is to live this life and live it as bravely and faithfully and cheerfully as we can."

Cremation followed the services and burial was in the family lot in Providence, R. I.

WOLCOTT'S HAT IN THE RING FOR CONGRESSMAN AND GOVERNOR

His Bold Response to Critics, the Feature of Redistricting Bill Debate Yesterday

Wealth and Years Must Come Before He Would Aspire to Office

(Special to the Quincy Ledger.)

State House, May 14, 1912—The House of Representatives spent almost the entire day Tuesday on the debate of the important redistricting bill, the essence of which has been outlined in the Ledger recently. At the close of a most lively and sarcastic debate, in which many of the speakers in their enthusiasm waxed bitter and, at times, very personal, the report brought in by the recess committee was ordered to its third reading, which in all probability means its ultimate success. The plan takes Quincy out of the tenth congressional district of which it now is a part, and puts it in the fourteenth with Milton, Weymouth, Braintree and towns to the south and southwest as far as East Bridgewater, Easton and Mansfield. Brockton will be the only other city in the district, and the district should be Republican by a large majority. There are 16 congressional districts in all.

Congressman Harris of East Bridgewater, is representative of the fourteenth district and will replace at Washington, Congressman Curley, as Quincy's representative. Curley's district will be entirely in Boston under districts in all.

In defending the bill, Representative Roger Wolcott of Milton, made an interesting statement, which is qualified to be interpreted two ways. He had been charged with having personal motives in working for the success of the new bill, which puts Milton in the same district with Quincy. It was said that he had a desire to go to Congress, which he could not do in the district where Milton is at present, and that is why he wanted the new district to become a reality. Mr. Wolcott replied with some warmth "Of course I want to go to Congress, and I want to become Governor of this great State too, and I regard that ambition as a very laudable one" for which he was applauded vigorously. He went on to say, however, that he would be richer and older before he would allow himself to be a candidate for either office. The statements may mean that at the close of Mr. Harris' career as congressman, we may have Roger Wolcott, of Milton, as our representative in Washington. Or it may mean, that Mr. Wolcott intends to become a candidate against Mr. Harris at the coming primaries next September, in which case it would be harder for him to be successful.

Both of Quincy's representatives, Representatives Piper and Leslie voted for the successful plan, against all amendments and substitutions. Massachusetts will probably not be redistricted again for congressional districts until 1920, although contrary to the popular supposition, there is no law against redistricting the State as often as the legislature of Massachusetts sanctions it.

CALL EXTENDED TO DR. SNEATH

Wollaston Congregational Church Wants New Haven Clergyman

ACTION MOST SATISFACTORY

At a special meeting held by the Wollaston Congregational church Tuesday evening to consider the recommendations of the supply committee it was unanimously voted to extend a call to Rev. Isaiah W. Sneath, Ph. D. of the Grand Avenue Church, New Haven, Connecticut to become pastor of the church. This action was taken after an evening of discussion pro and con and the most thorough deliberation.

The members of the church are highly satisfied with the result and feel that in the event of Dr. Sneath's acceptance the choice will be most happy.

The report of the supply committee was read by its chairman, Charles F. West and was followed by remarks of other members of the committee, consisting of Dr. E. R. Johnson, Mrs. A. A. Lincoln, Chester N. Godfrey and Charles A. Randall.

Dr. Sneath has been in New Haven for eight years, previous to which he held a twelve years' pastorate at the Wood Memorial church at Cambridge and one of five years at the Congragational church at Franklin.

He is a graduate of Lebanon Valley College in Pennsylvania where he was later professor of Greek and German. He is also a graduate of Yale Seminary.

Dr. Sneath is married and has one son who is a graduate of Yale and is an instructor in the University of North Carolina. Dr. Sneath's brother holds a professorship at Yale. Dr. Sneath is a man of scholarly attainments and genial personality. He is vigorous and an active worker in church and along civic lines. His coming to Wollaston will be a valuable addition not only to the church, but to the entire community.

TWO BELL ALARMS WITH SLIGHT LOSS

The fire department responded to two bell alarms Tuesday night. The first alarm came from box 48 at 8.30 and was for a fire in a hen house on Bryant avenue, owned by Albert G. Farnum. The fire was probably caused by boys. The second alarm sounded from box 45 at 10.40 and was for a fire in the loft of a small barn on Bates avenue, owned by Ernest Bizzozero. It seems that some boys had gone into the pigeon loft and it is supposed that they started the fire in some manner with matches. The loss was $300.

HONESTY IN EVERYTHING

Although 90 per cent of the Baltimore negroes voted for T. R. it is doubtful if any of them gets a chance to eat dinner at the White house.

Most political differences can be adjusted by the customary clam and sweet potato bake, but the Taft-Roosevelt row has got beyond that stage.

It hardly seems of much use for our wives to try to solve the obscurities of Browning until they can grasp the complexities of the grocer's bill.

There is talk of a general pressman's strike, but as long as the printer's devil stays in and writes the editorials, the prestige of most of the big papers is secure.

The flood has done $100,000,000 damage in the Mississippi valley, and the sum provided for marble post offices the past year to flatter a few towns would probably have prevented it.

An esteemed contemporary having quoted Lincoln's familiar remark that "You can fool some of the people all of the time," etc., the exchange editor states that this is the 376,843,286th time that the saying has been quoted within the past six months.

RUSSIA PUNISHING POLAND.

According to advices which prevail, Russia is again active in the effort to crush out the Polish National spirit and deprive those people of their customs and traditions and their right to civic and religious liberty. Russia, or at least the small coterie of people who control the destinies of that vast country, seem to delight in the persecution of some, Jew, Persian, Polander, or any one else, it is just the same to the minions of the white Czar. Here is a chance for the Hague peace tribunal to get in a little missionary work. And apropos of the above the tribunal could likewise turn its attention to other nations, create an assurance of peace, break up the ruinous system of armament now in vogue and turn the millions annually expended for war preparations to more peaceful commercial channels.

THE SERVANT IN THE HOUSE.

Charles Kann Kennedy, when he wrote his famous play "The Servant in the House," did not realize that he was treating a real tragedy, from a different view point as the existent one of today. The wrath of many and more especially church dignitaries descended upon Mr. Kenendy, but his play flourished and translated into many tongues was offered to European playgoers of all languages.

But to the householder of the present day the literal problem of the servant in the house proves more enthralling and more perplexing. Naturally one would expect that the mistress of the household would have more to say about things than the domestic or maid, and probably she does, but the chances are that the selfsame last word is in a discreet undertone and on the other side of the wall from the maid.

A writer recently took half a column of good space in a newspaper, to discourse on the servant problem, without saying anything, and as illustrative of the hardships of the servant cited a case where payment was exacted for a broken dish.

The servant problem—rather, the maid problem, as the term servant has been eliminated, is one of many angles. The person who writes about the hardships of maids, the exactions of mistresses and the numerous other things which do not exist, manifests a complete ignorance of the servant situation in this section of the country today, and plainly shows an entire lack of personal acquaintance. The wages of maids, or servants, if you will, is higher than ever. The girls have certain hours and certain afternoons off, which are strongly established by custom and practice. They are intelligent, respectable and capable, and their station in life is no degredation. Their position and condition in life is much better than the girl who works in a store or factory and boards out.

EDITORIAL COMMENT.

Now that Harry Payne Whitney has returned from another Arctic expedition people would like to know if he unearthed any of "Doc" Cook's buried records.

The war is on in Ohio all right, and Taft will make a great effort not to get pushed off his own doorstep.

The town of Ismay in the northwest plans to change its name to Astor. It might go further and fare worse and maybe receive some benefactions from the Astor millions.

The widow of Jesse James, after years of slum work, died in New York. Perhaps her Christian labors made up in a measure for the unchristian-like behavior of her former spouse.

J. Bruce Ismay plans to create a pension fund for seamen. If money had been laid out in enough boats there would be no necessity for this latter day philanthropy.

If the firemen were to be as mixed up as citizens over the fire alarms, they would be groping in the dark for the blaze.

The show girl who danced at Bunker Hill Monument on her toes would hardly make a good square heel and toe walker.

One wealthy American girl has had courage and pride enough to set aside as naught the matrimonial advances of an impecunious European nobleman.

The Malden man who attempted the role of peacemaker the other day, shared the same fate as usual. He was set upon, mauled and stoned by both parties. A gentle reminder of the school day witticism of years ago, "We'll fight and he'll stand the blows."

If the presidential one-term measure is adopted will so many public-spirited citizens be so eager to spend their time and money to get the job?

Will Gov. Foss succeed in tagging his utilities measure on to the railroad merger bill?

The city of Boston is the first to violate the building law in that city, but it has a clean bill of health to do so by the legislature.

The attorney general of New Mexico having decided that there is no law in that state to prevent, the Johnson-Flynn fight, it might be well to point out that there is plenty of time between now and July 4, to remedy that defect in the laws of the state.

The abolition of the training table at Hanover puts the athletes on honor as to their eating. What an awful temptation it will be for some of them to pass an ice cream establishment with a pretty girl clinging to the arm.

Darrow Case Today

Los Angeles, Cal., May 15.—Clarence S. Darrow, the Chicago lawyer, who is charged with tampering with the jury in the McNamara dynamiting case, while he was chief counsel for the McNamara brothers, was placed on trial today. Mr. Darrow is anxious to have the trial commence.

CALIFORNIA FOR ROOSEVELT

Early Indications Are Colonel Has Sweep State

LAFOLLETTE IN THIRD PLACE

Scattered Returns From the Eleven Districts—Taft Is Second Choice—Women's First Vote a Large One—Clark Leads Wilson—Roosevelt Gains Six In North Carolina and Two Additional In Kansas

San Francisco, May 15.—Early returns of Tuesday's primaries from scattered precincts distributed throughout the eleven congressional districts in California indicate a victory for Roosevelt in the presidential primary preference vote. Apparently he carried even San Francisco county, in which the Taft managers centered their greatest hopes.

On the basis of the early returns Roosevelt wins 2 to 1. Taft appears to be the second choice of Republican voters over La ollette.

Women voted for the first time here in a state-wide primary and cast a big vote.

Clark led Wilson by a wide margin in the Democratic preferential vote as counted up to 8 o'clock.

SOCIALIST SPLIT POSSIBLE

Convention Divided Beteen Conservative and Revolutionary Elements

Indianapolis, May 15.—"Progressive opportunists" and "immediate revolutionists" opposed each other at the session of the Socialist national convention.

Determined not to alienate trades unions affiliated with the American Federation of Labor by adopting a platform approving the "labor unit" scheme of the Industrial Workers of the World, the platform committee, the majority leaders said, would submit a plan of action reiterating the Socialist "program," but ignoring the demand of the revolutionary wing for an immediate upset of the capitalistic system and taking over of the means of production by the "workers."

The committees are to report today and candidates for President and Vice President of the United States are to be nominated on Friday.

VOTE ON SENATOR

Desire to Have Massachusetts Be First State to Favor Amendment

Boston, May 15.—The action of congress in agreeing to the Bristow amendment to the federal constitution providing for popular election of United States senators has upset the plans of the Republican leaders in the Massachusetts legislature with reference to the treatment of the bill providing for a senatorial preferential vote.

The outlook is that the progressive members will now insist on a stronger bill than the one proposed by Senator Brown of Medford, providing for a party preferential.

It is probable that an effort will be made to have the present legislature gain the distinction of being the first to agree to the amendment.

PASSING OF THE FLOOD

The Gateway of the Mississippi Carries the Disastrous Waters Out

New Orleans, May 15.—The crest of the disastrous Mississippi flood is passing out through the gateway of the river, ninety miles south of New Orleans, into the gulf. At least the river gauge readings indicate as much.

For seventy-two hours endng at 7 a. m. yesterday, not a single government gauge between New Orleans and St. Louis has recorded a rise, whereas at most points a receding stage was shown. The special bulletin issued by the weather bureau, however, forecasts a continuance of the danger stage throughout the month of May.

Grand Trunk Bill

Boston, May 15.—A bill whereby the Grand Trunk railway is permitted to come to Boston under terms which, although not so liberal as those asked for, are satisfactory to the railway, was reported to the committee on railroads by the sub-committee. With not more than a few slight changes, the bill is acceptable to the full committee, and will be reported to the legislature.

Brooklyn Bridge Weak

New York, May 15.—The old Brooklyn bridge is considered unsafe. Orders issued by the city bridge department prohibit heavy teams from using the roadways and direct the elevated railroads to curtail their traffice during the rush hours. Extensive repairs are being made to the structure.

ATTENDING CONVENTION.

J. B. Sutherland left Tuesday morning for the Pacific Coast, having been chosen a commissioner to the General Assembly of the United Presbyterian church, which will convene in Seattle on the 27th and remain in session several days.

Mr. Sutherland's friends may depend upon his standing up to be counted on every question which may come before the Assembly, for he is a man of positive convictions and never tries to evade responsibility. In church affairs, as in business matters, one always knows where to find him.

His uncompromising views on certain questions have often brought Mr. Sutherland into friendly conflict with his brethren, especially his views regarding church entertainments. He holds that when once a church is dedicated it should be set apart strictly for worship and should not be used for any other purpose, no matter how apparently harmless. This view is shared by some of his co-religionists and opposed by others, but all respect his sentiment and wish him an enjoyable trip. On his return, Mr. Sutherland and his wife will go to Nova Scotia to spend the summer.

New Hampshire For Clark

Concord, N. H., May 15.—Unusual interest was manifested in the New Hampshire Democratic state convention to choose the delegates that will represent the state at the national convention at Baltimore. After a lively debate of an hour the convention by a rising vote declared its preference for Speaker Champ Clark as presidential candidate of the party.

QUINCY WOMEN'S CLUB.

Although it was the annual and also the last meeting of the season there was not a large attendance Tuesday afternoon at the clubhouse. The president Mrs. Eben W. Sheppard was in the chair and called for the monthly reports. That of the recording secretary was given by Mrs. Percy Holman in the absence of Mrs. Henry W. Tirrell in Vermont. Reports were given by the treasurer Mrs. Herbert W. Pinkham, and by the corresponding secretary Mrs. Holman, the latter reading with much regret a letter from Mrs. Tirrell, who resigned from the office of recording secretary, because of her removal from Quincy.

Mrs. Sheppard spoke of the great loss Mrs. Tirrell would be to the club and the city generally, and how her integrity and ability would prove helpful in any community. In appreciation of Mrs. Tirrell the club arose and sang the club hymn, composed by her during the presidency of Mrs. George W. Morton.

Mrs. Sheppard spoke feelingly of the loss the club had sustained in the death of Mrs. Frances H. Dalrymple of Wollaston, and of the love and comradeship between mother and daughter, Mrs. Frederick H. Bishop, a club member to whom the club extended deep sympathy.

Mrs. John G. Worster and Mrs. Edmund S. Wade were elected delegates to the biennial meeting of the National Federation in San Francisco in June.

Mrs. Albert E. Avery, Mrs. Edward B. Marsh and Mrs. Charles R. Safford were chosen delegates to the annual meeting of the State Federation at First Parish church in Templeton, June 4 and 5, the hostess club being the Wellington.

Of the chairmen reporting, Mrs. John W. Sanborn read a letter from Miss Elizabeth Johnson telling of her continued interest in the club and its work.

Mrs. Whitcher for the Legislative committee asked the support of the club for the Ellis Milk bill and the Minimum Wage bill, and hoped members would write to our senators and representative urging their support of the bills.

Mrs. Worster of the music committee spoke of the success of the May morning musicales at the clubhouse and announced Miss Sheppard of Lynn as the soloist for the last one on May 29th.

Mrs. Smith of the Philanthropy committee announced two June breakfasts one at Quincy at Alpha hall from 6.30 to 1.30; the other at Wollaston in the Unitarian vestry from 5.30 to 2, and hoped members would receive the tickets in a cordial spirit when they arrived. Mrs. Sheppard will be in charge at Quincy and Mrs. N. G. Nickerson of Wollaston. The proceeds would be used for the philanthropic work of the club.

The president asked for an informal vote on enlarging the club membership and those present favored enlarging.

Mrs. George L. Badger was elected recording secretary to fill the vacancy caused by the resignation of Mrs. Tirrell.

Mrs. G. B. Bates of the Woman's Exchange announced that her committee was selling plants and taking orders for Memorial day and hoped for the patronage of club members as the committee received a commission on the sales. The plants were selected stock from the greenhouses of William Patterson.

This closed the business meeting for the month and was followed by the annual meeting, a full report of which will be found in another column.

A beautiful bouquet of daybreak pinks adorned the president's desk, a gift to her from the Hospitality committee.

ABIGAIL PHILLIPS QUINCY CHAPTER.

The annual meeting of Abigail Phillips Quincy Chapter, D. A. R. of Wollaston was held at the residence of Mrs. Benjamin Sargent, Willow street, Monday afternoon. Interesting reports from the Regent, other officers and chairmen of committees were read, showing what great progress has been made by the Chapter the past year, both financially and in social and educational lines.

The sum of $50 was added to the building fund. In the name of the Chapter, Mrs. William Sayward presented the retiring regent, Mrs. Walter F. Jones with a bouquet of marguerites and a beautiful pearl pin. Mrs. Jones was the founder of the Chapter and its success is due largely to her energy, her faithfulness and her delightful personality.

Officers for the ensuing two years were elected as follows;

Regent—Mrs. E. E. Jameson..

Vice-Regent—Mrs. Ida F. Woodbury.

Recording Secretary—Mrs. F. E. Perkins.

Treasurer—Mrs. Benjamin Sargent.

Corresponding Secretary—Mrs. C. A. Pinkham.

Registrar Mrs. S. S. Crocker.

Historian—Mrs. J. J. Werner.

Custodian—Mrs. Edward O. Woodward.

Auditor—Mrs. A. S. Page.

Chaplain—Mrs. T. C. Martin.

Directors—Mrs. E. S. Tenney, Mrs. G. A. Munroe, Mrs. W. S. Sayward.

Refreshments were served by the hostess, with Mrs. Damon, Mrs. Rogers and Mrs. Tenney assisting.

M. H. C. F. G. CLUB.

The M. H. C. F. G. club, an organization of young ladies met at the home of Miss Evelyn Stewart, Tuesday evening to perfect the organization for the current year. After the business session a social hour was in order. These officers were elected for the year:—President, Evelyn L. Stewart; Vice-president, Dorothy Rendles, treasurer, Flora McPherson, and secretary, Rena A. Hattman.

UNIVERSALIST MISSIONARY CLUB.

The Missionary circle connected with the Universalist church held its regular meeting at the residence of Mrs. Emily Blake, 26 Cottage street, Monday afternoon, with a large attendance present. The devotional exercises were conducted by the president, Mrs. Thomas A. Addison, after which the roll was called by the secretary, Mrs. Clara S. Brown, each one responding with a verse or quotation containing the word vision.

After a short business session and the various reports read, the pastor, Rev. Fannie Austin, gave an address on Home and Foreign Missionary Work. A sum of money and a barrel of clothing, useful and practical articles, have been sent south to the Suffolk Normal Training school. Rev. C. S. Jordan, president, doing a wonderful amount of good in elevating and uplifting the colored people. A sum of money has also been sent to the Blackmur Home in Japan, where Japanese children are educated and trained secularly and spiritually. In both instances grateful letters of thanks were received.

The annual missionary meeting will be held, Thursday afternoon, at Coolidge corner, Brookline, in the Church of Rev. George L. Perin, D. D. The delegates appointed from this church are the pastor, Rev. Fannie Austin and Mrs. Harriet D. Lombard.

A rising vote of thanks was extended to Mrs. Edith Carey Page, who sang so acceptably and sweetly at the recent afternoon missionary meeting held in the Universalist church. Her selections were an inspiration.

The next meeting will be held at the residence of Mrs. Robert J. Reed, Adams Shore, June 10th. The watchword for the coming month is Joy. Mrs. Reed very cordially invites all to be present.

A social and informal hour was enjoyed, during which Mrs. Blake served refreshments assisted by Mrs. Harriet D. Lombard. The guests present appreciated Mrs. Blake's hospitality.

KATHARYN CRANE CLUB.

The Katharyn Crane Memorial club held its last meeting for this year, Wednesday afternoon, May 8, with Dorothy Hall of Upland road. The following officers were elected for the coming year: President, Doris Sampson; vice president, Alice Miller; secretary, Roxana Schenkelburger; treasurer, Mary W. Holden; committee on appeals, Lillian Schenkelburger, Dorothy Hall, with the directors, Miss S. W. French, Miss Mary W. Holden, Miss Carrie A. Crane and Mrs. E. L. Crane.

Miss Jennie M. Purchase, secretary of the Associated Charities addressed the meeting and made suggestions as to how the Club may be able to cooperate with her during the summer. Annual appropriations were made for Country week and the salary of the visiting nurse. The Club will observe Field day, Saturday, May 25th, when the time will be given over to play. Although the meetings have discontinued, the little Club works on through the summer and will be ready to respond to any appeals.

PLAYGROUND. HEARING.

The Committee on public buildings of the City Council will give a public hearing tonight in the council chamber at City hall to the parents of the Wollaston school in relation to the taking of the old school lot by the city as a playground for the children. The old lot is situated a short distance from the new building and would make an ideal location. Part of the lot is owned by the city and the remainder was given to the city some years ago, the deed of gift specifying that it should be always used for educational purposes. As a playground is considered of an educational nature, it is claimed that the city can devote the land to public playground purposes.

COMMISSIONERS AND COMMITTEE

Agree Upon Plans for Playgrounds this Year

PLENTY ROOM FOR ALL

The annual meeting of the Playground Committee of 100 was held Tuesday evening at the rooms of the Y. M. C. A. and these officers elected:

Chairman—Delcevare King.

Vice Chairman—Mrs. Oscar A. Blaisdell, Mrs. Williams W. Whitcher.

Treasurer—Clarence Burgin.

Secretary—A. F. LaRose.

Librarian—Miss Florence A. Johnson.

Council—Albert L. Barbour, Henry M. Faxon, Mrs. C. B. Hall, Thomas B. Pollard, Mrs. William G. Shaw, Edward Southworth, H. Gerrish Smith and Robert J. Teasdale.

After the meeting the officers met the Park Commissioners for a conference in relation to the playground question for the coming summer. It was announced that Henry M. Faxon had given the use of the lot in the rear of Coddington school building to be used this year the same as last year. Also that the basement of the school buildings would be used as a dressing room.

It was also arranged to have supervised playgrfounds in Ward Three on the Water street grounds and in Ward Four on the Hall place grounds. Each of the three playgrounds will be in charge of a man and woman the whole to be under the general supervision of A. F. LaRose of the Y. M. C. A. These playgrounds will be in use during the months of July and August.

PEACE IS SOUGHT

Will Be Obtained If Advice of National Leaders Is Followed

Wilkesbarre, Pa., ay 15.—The convention of anthracite miners called to consider the proposed new wage arrangement agreed upon in New York neld a short session.

The majority of the national district leaders are in favor of ratifying the agreement, but most of the district board members are opposed to it. The contest will be between these elements.

It is said that National President White will urge the acceptance of the agreement. If he does, it looks like peace, for the delegates will be swayed by what their chief advises.

KEITH OUT FOR HARRIS PLACE

Progressives Boom Former at a Conference in Boston

QUINCY IN THE FIGHT

A coterie of fourteenth district so-called progressives met at the City club, Boston, yesterday for the purpose of booming Eldon B. Keith of Brockton in the district against Congressman Robert O. Harris. Keith was elected as one of the Roosevelt delegates to the Chicago convention.

Matthew Hale, leader of the Massachusetts Roosevelt forces, was the principal speaker and urged the progressives to fight for Keith.

In connection with this it might be well to remark that if the new redistricting bill, before the legislature, if it passes, and it certainly looks as if it would now, brings Quincy into the fourteenth district. Quincy must be reckoned with in any contest which takes place.

Then again young Mr. Roger Wolcott has thrown his hat in the ring.

Another thing it would be well to consider matters pertaining to the district within the lines and not have them steered from the outside.

MEN ENTERTAINED BY THE WOMEN

The annual gentlemen's night of the Unitarian Church Helpers was observed in the Wollaston Unitarian church vestry Tuesday evening and fortunate were those who were permitted to attend.

A supper of unusual excellence was served by a committee consisting of Mrs. Paul E. Brodbeck, Mrs. James B. Geddes, Mrs. James Hamilton, Mrs. Roy C. Baker, Mrs. Edmund Taylor and Mrs. Axel Nelson. They were assisted by: Miss Margaret Taylor, Miss Gretchen Horst, Miss Helen Thompson, Miss Dorothy Atwood, Miss Kathleen Jones, Miss Dorothy Stevens and Gordon Rowe.

Place cards daintily decorated with marguerites were in evidence, while vases of that flower added to the attractiveness of the tables.

The entertainment of the evening consisted of "'A display of the world famous wax-works of the celebrated Mrs. Jarley" and was witnessed by a large masculine contingent that vigorously applauded.

In the well-known cap and gown of Mrs. Jarley, Mrs. William E. Rowe introduced the various figures which were dusted, oiled and set in motion by her two assistants, Miss Dorothy Stevens and Miss Margaret Taylor.

Each figure was set in motion separately after a description by Mrs. Jarley and the entertainment concluded with an ensemble in which appeared all the characters simultaneously in motion.

The cast was as follows:

Queen of Hearts	Mrs. W. H. Boynton.
Mother Goose	Mrs. Irving L. Shaw.
Rowena	Mrs. G. Ernest Carr.
Rebecca	Mrs. A. H. Farnham.
Siamese Twins	Mrs. Charles E. Barker and Mrs. Leroy C. Holbrook.
Mrs. Allan's Hair Restorer	Mrs. Harold Green.
Unfortunate Giggler	Mrs. Ralph W. Oldham.
Old Fashioned Sewing Machine	Mrs. Edmund Taylor.
Justice	Mrs. James Hamilton.
Statue of Liberty	Mrs. Roy C. Baker.
Lady Pankhurst	Mrs. Paul E. Brodbeck.
Butterfly	Mrs. Harry A. Stevens.
Mary the Milkmaid	Mrs. F. S. Jacobs.
Lady. Macbeth	Mrs. Carl G. Horst.
Orphelia	Mrs. G. Ernest Carr.
Red Riding Hood	Miss Dorothy Atwood.
Cinderella	Mrs. James B. Geddes.
Medusa	Mrs. Roy C. Baker.
Maniac	Mrs. Leroy C. Holbrook.
Japanese Conjurer	Mrs. Jesse I. Litchfield.
Skipping Rope Girl	Mrs. Stiles.
Spanish Dancer	Mrs. Axel Nelson.

A pleasing feature of the evening was the singing of "What I Have," by Mrs. William E. Rowe. She was accompanied on the piano by Mrs. Albert R. Moulton.

Resist Lowell Polce

Lowell, Mass., May 15.—Superintendent of Police Walsh and Captain Brosnan, with fifty policemen, clashed with over 100 strikers at Dutton and Merrimack streets in the shadow of city hall, and when the battle was over National Organizer of the Industrial Workers of the World Joseph Schmidt and ten of the men were under arrest.

QUINCY WOMEN'S CLUB

EDUCATION COMMITTEE

The report of the work of this committee must necessarily be somewhat incomplete because of the resignation of its chairman in the Autumn of 1911, and the ignorance of many details on the part of the writer.

Your kind indulgence is asked. Owing to the prevalence of scarlet fever in the spring of 1911, it was thought unwise to hold the annual festival in April in Music hall. In June an out-door fete was planned to be held on the Adams academy grounds. The New England weather, as usual proved fickle and the tables and attendants were drenched with rain before the sale was over.

From the funds realized, however, the vacation classes were planned as usual. Instruction being given in plain sewing and embroidery, physical culture, cooking, Sloyd, and the elements of home nursing. The club owes hearty thanks to those members of the committee who during a season of almost unprecedented heat gave freely of their time and strength to the success of these classes and also to the inspection of the school gardens.

Between 600 and 700 gardens were started, but owing to the drouth and heat many were failures. In August a very creditable exhibition of vegetables, cultivated and wild flowers was held in City hall. All those who attended, especially the city officials expressed great satisfaction with the results shown.

Late in the autumn the active and very efficient chairman, Mrs. Safford, presented her resignation. In January 1912, the vacancy was filled by the election of Mrs. John W. Sanborn.

On Saturday, April 27th, the children's festival was held in Music hall, and about $132 was realized to be used for the vacation classes and home gardens.

Through the co-operation of the school superintendent the seeds for the home gardens are distributed directly in the schools, 618 orders having been taken and gratifying results are hoped for. This work is under the direction of a sub-chairman, Mrs. Kitson.

The vacation classes to be held at the club house are being arranged for and it is hoped that there will be no lack of interest and enthusiasm in the work this season.

Alice D. Sanborn,
Chairman.

HOME ECONOMICS.

Your Home Economics committee were most fortunate in securing for their speaker at the regular meeting on November 28th, Mrs. Mary Huimans Abel of Baltimore. Her subject was Scientific Management Applied to Housekeeping. She described the modern scientific method of conducting a successful business, and compared it to the unscientific and wasteful method of the average house. She told us of many ways to study our individual problems, how with our present means and equipment we might spend our strength, time and money to better advantage. She advised us to make more use of the knowledge of experts and scientists on home economic subjects placed freely for our use through the pamphlets and bulletins published by the U. S. Department of Agriculture and the various State Universities.

As a help towards greater efficiency she recommended that a bureau of Home Economics in charge of a trained woman be established in every city. You will be interested to know that the New England Home Economics Association at its November meeting voted to establish such a bureau in Boston, as a clearing house for ideas of questions relating to right living.

We began our year with an empty treasury, so through the fall the committee endeavored to raise funds through sales at the club house of kitchen novelties and the Soyer paper cooking bags. The commissions were small but some money was realized for our work.

Early this spring attention was given to studying the problem of the Fly campaign as carried on last summer in many cities.

April 5th Prof. C. F. Hodge, of Clark College, Worcester, most kindly and generously came to Quincy under the auspices of the Home Economics committee and gave a lecture at the club house on the extermination of the Typhoid or Filth Disease Fly. We wish every member of the club had attended that lecture.

The fly nuisance touches every home, the one thing necessary, for a successful fly campaign is that every home co-operates. Prof. Hodge's method is like an out door vacuum cleaner. Flies breed in all kinds of filth, especially in manure and in garbage. A fly may lay between 700 and 800 eggs, these hatch and grow into adult flies in ten days. A fly must feed for fourteen days before its first laying of eggs. One pair of flies in April or May means millions in August. By means of the Hodge fly traps the flies are caught at their feeding or breeding places, no more eggs are laid, consequently no more flies.

If every household and stable used this out door method at the breeding place practically every fly would catch itself. This would mean extermination. The Home Economics committee recommend that you purchase one of these Hodge fly traps before the first of June and next spring be ready to co-operate with one or more committees in a spring fly campaign which may mean a flyless Quincy.

To arouse public sentiment as to the dangers of the house fly your committee has presented to every grade school room in Quincy a large fly poster issued by the Woman's Municipal League of Boston, also distributed several hundred fly bulletins contributed by the Anti Fly Crusade of Detroit.

Our thanks are due to the program committee for one hundred and to Mr. Nathan Ames for fifty of the fly posters.

During the summer the committee expect to do some work along the lines of market inspection with the help of a trained worker and in the fall show to you some of the needs of a trained salaried market inspector.

Winifred H. Bone,
Chairman.

HOSPITALITY COMMITTEE.

During the past season refreshments have been served at five meetings. The usual custom has been followed, that of soliciting cake or money from the members.

Two or three members of the committee have had charge of each tea. They in turn asked ten ladies to contribute cake or money. The chairman asked two ladies to pour each afternoon. Flowers were furnished at the first meeting and given to the new members.

The largest tea was on Reciprocity day. Five hundred ladies were served on this occasion, the members were particularly generous and willing to assist.

The money collected was turned over to the treasurer.

Therese Barker,
Chairman.

RECEPTION COMMITTEE.

As this committee was created only about six months ago, it might be called the six months old child of the club. Therefore—

"You'd scarce expect those of our age
To speak in public on the stage,
And if we chance to fall below
The record which our elders show,
Don't view us with a critic's eye.
But pass our imperfections by."

Our record so far is one merely of hopes and experiments. We have hoped to add to the general sociability of the club by introducing members to each other so that in time we all may know each other and become like one big family. I realize fully that we have fallen very short of our ideal in this respect. I realized it even before one of our club members told me so quite frankly when she did not know that I was the chairman of this committee. However, making people acquainted is not such an easy thing as it seems to be and it takes time to do it. Give us another year. We also have tried to look after the comfort of our members and more especially our guests by assisting them with their wraps and seating them. Our problem here has been . How is it possible to seat two people in one chair. We will admit that this has occasionally been done, when the two people are small, but it does not coincide with our views of comfort and we are still looking for a better solution of this problem. We are hoping that the committee which has been appointed to revise our by-laws will help us in this matter.

Our efforts so far have been confined to three occasions—gentlemen's night, the dramatics, and reciprocity day. At the dramatics everyone was comfortably seated as far as I know;

BRIEFS

The City Council Committee on Licenses met in City hall Monday evening. The Finance Committee will meet Thursday evening.

Did you notice how hard the wind blew during Monday night? It seemed at one time as though buildings would be lifted from their very foundations.

Granite manufacturers are unusually busy at the present time finishing up their Memorial day orders. The season was a little late in starting in but now all of the manufacturers are being rushed.

The Commissioner is busily at work oiling the streets, provided for in the order passed by the City Council late in April. The order provided for watering or oiling. In most of the streets, however, oil will be used.

LAYING OUT NEW STREET.

A large gang of men are at work laying out a new street through the Dr. Gordon estate on Hancock street, running through to Woodward avenue It is understood that the land in the rear of Dr. Gordon's house, bordering on the new street is to be laid out into house lots.

The location is one of the most desirable for building in the city and doubtless will meet with a ready sale.

STRUCK BY FREIGHT TRAIN.

Dennis P. O'Connor of North Weymouth was found lying between the railroad tracks at South Braintree, yesterday morning, by Michael Sullivan a track walker. O'Connor was unconscious. His right arm was badly crushed. He told Dr. F. W. Brett who attended him that he was struck by a freight train. O'Connor was removed to the Massachusetts General hospital, where he is in a critical condition owing to the great loss of blood.

LARGE FARM SOLD.

Real estate agent George E. Sampson of Braintree, reports passing of final papers transferring property of estate of Austin White on Penn's hill Braintree, to James Mattie. Property consists of about sixty acres of land with buildings thereon. Mr. Mattie runs a large milk route and is well known all over this part of the state as a trader in cattle of all kinds.

QUINCY WOMEN'S CLUB

on the other two occasions our committee struggled with the afore-mentioned problem with untiring efforts. As they themselves stood up through both those affairs I am sure they feel that it is great to be on the Reception committee of such a popular club.

We have spent the modest sum of $2.00 for ribbon with which to designate reserved seats. This ribbon is in our possession and can be used for another year.

Another year we hope to carry out our ideals more fully. Please help us by being friendly and if you are accosted by some one whom you don't know and introduced to your best friend, please don't frown but just say, "It's only one of the Reception committee trying to do her duty."

Isabella Foote Pinsham,
Chairman.

HOUSE COMMITTEE.

The report of the House Committee must necessarily be brief and dry. While there is very little to report it has meant much time and many visits to the clubhouse. The renovation in the summer consisted of the usual cleaning and painting which put the house in good order. The new attachments on the gas burners which obviate the use of the torch has been a welcome change. A troublesome leak in the outer wall was repaired and cared for financially by Mr. Crocker. One of the furnaces required considerable repairing to put it into condition for use.

The plumbing has come in for its share of attention and repairs. The continued interest in the club has been shown through the generosity of the Visiting Nurse Committee in thoroughly renovating the sitting room of the Visiting Nurse, and by the Woman's Ex-committee in the renovation of the care taker's living room. The enlargement of the platform has been one of the comforts as well as one of the necessities. In a large building of this kind that is in almost constant use by committees or the club itself there are unavoidably many items of expense necessitated by the wear and tear incident to such usage, the detail of this expense is more specifically set forth in the report of our Treasurer.

The growing activities of the club have increased to a large extent the work of the caretaker and I desire at this time to express my appreciation of the helpfulness of Mrs. Anderson, in the care of the buildings.

Millie E. Nichols,
Chairman.

LEGISLATIVE COMMITTEE.

The growing usefulness of the Quincy Women's club in the Civic life of our community invites the active co-operation of every member, to the end that any evident lack of progress should be regarded as retrogression. As the pioneers in any field are denied the advantages to be gained by activities of predecessors it is hoped that the outline work of your Legislative committee during the first period of its existence will not only merit the approval of the club but inspire our successors to excel.

As women are more often the subjects than they are the authors of legislation it is obvious that the activities of a Legislative committee would be of the protective rather than the creative order. To give even an outline of the proposed laws relating to women and children would be a task not only beyond the grasp of your committee but would be entirely too extensive for a place in this report. The influence of an organization is the sum of the number of its members plus the interest which they take in the management of its affairs and so the strength of our moral force is best expressed in the fact of our being organized and that our organization is allied to and affiliated with that grand federation which by its very existence has an inestimable influence in the restriction of evil and an equally far-reaching creative power for good.

Late occurrences in the textile industry, the application of recently enacted laws governing the employment of women and children, the purity of prepared foods, the sanitation of public service utilities, the protection of life for those who travel and the multifarious questions of existence inviting and commanding the attention of specialists are brought nearer to a logical solution because of the fact that the Women's clubs of this country through their magnificent federation, pledged to civic righteousness, are a recognized potent factor in legislative control.

That by the fact of our existence we are a part of this great work is an honor highly prized. Your committee is truly grateful for the cordial co-operation of officers and members throughout the year and to Miss Nellie K. Rich, Chairman of the Legislative Committee of the State Federation, who on her visit to Quincy impressed upon us the importance of being organized and keeping in touch with the questions which at any time might require concerted action.

For the success of "gentlemen's night" we are indebted to the men who despite the inclemency of the weather came in large numbers to enjoy the delightful entertainment by Mrs. Emily Montague Bishop, Mrs. Emma S. Moore and Miss Whiton. We wish to acknowledge also our obligations to H. L. Kincaide & Co., for furnishings, to William Patterson for floral decorations and to all those who aided us so materially in the success of that occasion. There has been a large attendance at the special meetings and a gratifying interest in the work.

In addition to the committee meeting addressed by Mrs. Rich we have also held a largely attended open meeting devoted to economic questions at present pending legislative control. The programme included several charming solos sung by Mrs. Henry Tirrell accompanied by Mrs. Mary C. West, a most interesting address being delivered by Mrs. Glendower Evans who dealt with the economics of wage earning women followed by Mrs. Robert E. Park whose subject, "How to care for widowed mothers of dependent children" gave a new light upon that important subject. There have also been held six fully attended meetings devoted to the study of parliamentary practice. These meetings being very successfully directed by Mrs. Electa Sherman.

The expenses of our undertakings have been fully met and with a surplus of twenty dollars we hope that our future efforts will merit your approval.

Anna Elizabeth Whitcher.

LITERATURE AND LIBRARY EXTENSION.

To raise funds for the work of the committee a Hallowe'en dance was given in Alpha hall. The hall was decorated with pumpkins, witches and other symbols, giving a charming effect. So successful was the dance, that the committee have been requested to make it an annual affair.

The committee secured the services of Mrs. May Alden Ward, whose Current Events class, held monthly through the season, requires no comment. A reception was given Mrs. Ward after her last lecture.

A class in Modern Literature with Mrs. Herbert J. Gurney, instructor, was one of the features of this season. Mrs. Gurney's ten lectures of one hour were followed by animated and instructive discussions. Lectures included: —Isben—Maeterlinck—Oscar Wilde, and Bernard Shaw, dramatists —James Lane Allen—DeMorgan—Locke, Galsworthy—Arnold Bennett, Margaret Deland, novelists, and one afternoon with the Irish Players. The first nine lectures were held at the homes of members of the class, who very kindly placed them at the disposal of the committee. The final lecture was held in the club house and was followed by a reception and tea.

On the Literature committee's afternoon we had for speaker, the Rev. Samuel McChord Crothers, his subject being: "The American Temperament."

As to Library Extension work, I should like to quote from the report of the Public Library.—

"The branch reading room at West Quincy" has fully justified its existence in a year and a half, as shown by the Librarian's figures. The trustees cannot put it too strongly that in their opinion the time has come for the further extension of the Library privileges to the other sections of the City More and more demands are made upon the activities at the Central Library, and there is the double necessity upon us of supplying those demands and at the same time of not restricting or limiting the Library's usefulness. Growth means expenditure. The Trustees earnestly desire to open a second Branch Reading Room this year—at Atlantic—trusting that the City Council will provide funds necessary for the purpose." And Miss White in reporting an increase of circulation of 12,651 books for the previous year says:—

"The largest contributor to this increase has been the West Quincy Reading Room which has carried over 17 per cent of the whole circulation for the year, reporting at the close of this, its first complete year, a circulation of 18,938 volumes and attendance figures of 31,500. Does not this speak 'volumes' for the extension of the library system to other outlying sections of the city? For what we have done in West Quincy may we not equally as well do in Atlantic?"

A thing long desired by the Central Library (and now that branches are to be established, doubly useful) is a reflectoscope.

Our committee gave a dance to raise funds for one, and although we had chosen the worst night of the season as far as weather was concerned, cleared $51.50. On the day of Formal Debate the club voted $25.00 as the best Civic Improvement suggested. $10 has been pledged in addition, making a sum of $86.50 (Eighty six dollars and fifty cents.) We hope early in the coming season to secure the reflectoscope.

The total income of the committee for the year amounted to $432.60—$382.45 of which was earned by the committee.

Each member of the committee feels it her duty to create a greater interest in Branch Library work and also that it is a cause worthy of her best efforts

Bessie Morton Short,
Chairman.

MUSIC COMMITTEE.

This committee has furnished music for all meetings of the club as well as its own special afternoon, the musicale at Music hall. We were unable to arrange for an operetta this year but hope to give one next season. The series of May morning musicales have given much pleasure and the committee feels indebted to club members for co-operation and support of its endeavors

Jennie B. Worster,
Chairman.

PHILANTHROPHY COMMITTEE.

Since the last annual meeting of the club the Philanthropy committee has met every month, except July and August. Our chief pride in the work of the past year lies in the accomplishment of a long-cherished plan to secure a trained social worker as secretary of the Associated Charities in Quincy.

Last autumn the sum of $1500 was raised in a short time and it was sufficient to guarantee the salary, and running expenses of such a secretary for a year in advance. This happy result was largely due to the zeal and persistent efforts of some members of this committee, in co-operation with the committee of Associated Charities, cheered by the enthusiasm of the President of that organization Mr. James D. Howlett, and encouraged by the valuable help of Rev. Rufus B. Tobey, and Mr. Delcevare King.

But, even with the salary assured, it was difficult to find the right person to fill such a responsible position. (And it was several months before a choice was made.) April 1, 1912, Miss Jennie Purchase, who had been doing good work in Dorchester for the past few years, began her duties as paid Secretary of the Associated Charities in Quincy.

Through the generosity of the Quincy Women's club, the room sometimes used for the meetings of the Board of Directors, was given for the office of the new secretary, where she keeps regular hours every morning. Miss Purchase has already shown her efficiency and tact, and there is no doubt but that the charitable work of our city will be well administered. The Philanthropy committee had charge of the program for October 24, 1911, when the subject of "Probation and its Benefits," was presented by Judge Albert E. Avery; and "Our Duty Concerning Offenders," was discussed by Dr Jeffrey R. Brackett. As both these gentlemen generously gave their services the committee did not use the $25 usually appropriated, consequently the money was returned to the club treasurer. Members of this committee visited the Poor Farm, Thanksgiving week and gave an entertainment, consisting of songs by Mrs. May Hastings Slade, recitations and stories, followed by refreshments to the inmates of the Home. Again, at Christmas, members of the committee, under the direction of Mrs. Nickerson, visited the Home, carrying a decorated Christmas tree provided with appropriate gifts for each of the old people. A graphophone, kindly loaned by Mr. Shaw and operated by his son, gave a novel entertainment, and the good things that followed, completed a joyous holiday. Our committee has made one or two other visits during the winter. Miss Katherine Hardwick addressed a joint meeting of the Associated Charities and Philanthropy committee. Her subject was "Friendly Visiting," and she gave a very interesting and comprehensive account of her experiences. Miss Lillian Hobart of the Talitha Cumi Home also told us of the beneficent work of that institution. Our committee and the committee of Associated Charities gave an informal reception and tea at theclub house, to our new secretary, Miss Purchase. A gift of $6.00 was received from Mrs. Nickerson from the sale of rubber and the committee appropriated the money to pay Mrs. Annie Watson's expenses to Westdale Sanatorium.

The Philanthropy committee is planning to give a June breakast in Quincy and Wollaston to raise money for the philanthropies of the club. So, we feel that our work has been worth while, and we hope for greater usefulness in the years to come.

Alma Faunce Smith,
Chairman.

PROGRAM COMMITTEE.

The time is ripe for the measuring of the year's work of the Program committee and while the report is brief, we take a certain enthusiasm in presenting it. Our supreme endeavor of the season, the dramatics, shall have the first word.. The old English play, "The Honeymoon," was an unqualified success, reflecting great credit upon the club. The superior work of those who took part suggests the enormous latent talent that must exist in a club of our size yet "blushing unseen." The afternoon with Mr. Ralph Parlette is recalled with satisfaction. This unique figure, a combination of Mark Twain and Charles Lamb has the loneliness and value of the gold nugget, and we all are richer for having heard him. The Dickens celebration, which was planned to take the form of a Home Talent Afternoon, much to our regret had to be given up, owing to sickness. Hastily the place was filled by a Dickens' reader, Mrs. Lillian Jackson. The Children's Party is a pleasure to remember. About 75 children and many parents were present, and it was a genuine good time. The Doll's Reception pleased the younger ones and the dancing and games appealed to all. It is the one feature to which the Program chairman will look forward the coming year. We have been privileged to have a part in the activities of several of the other departments. The Program committee, divided with the Hospitality Committee the expense of the Reception to new members, gave ten dollars to the Legislative committee toward Gentlemen's Night, and three dollars to the Home Economics Committee to purchase 100 Fly Posters to be put into every school room in Quincy.

In closing this brief review, let me quote Browning's famous line—"Tis' not what man does which exalts him, but what man would do!"

Iva N. Marsh,
Chairman.

VISITING NURSE.

The Visiting Nurse committee presents to you its seventh annual report. The record of the work for the year is as follows: Average number of doctors calling the nurse each month twelve.

Number of calls by nurses 2416, this is an increase of 1153 calls and represents 391 patients.

Of these calls 144 were free.

The expenses of the work have been $875.00.

The receipts of the work have been $1,482.02.

The committee has met on an average of once a month during the year.

In May a set of rules were drawn up and put in force. Previously there were five rules governing the work; but it seemed wiser to have rules for the nures, (not necessarily made public) and others for the work. A plan was started, by which patients could go to the drug stores and leave a call for the nurse. The district is such a widely scattered one, it was thought this would bring the nurse and patient in closer touch. Two thousand cards were printed and circulated telling of the object of the work and some of its accomplishments.

Early in the year Miss Robinson resigned after being connected with the work for five years. Miss H. C. McEwan, a graduate of the Massachusetts General Hospital, took up the work, and after two months was permanently engaged. Her splendfd training, cheerfulness, tact, and above all, her sincere wish to help the unfortunate ones make her well fitted for the position. In November the work began to increase, and a second nurse was called in on busy days. This continued until in April an assistant nurse was engaged.

The nurse's salary was increased. The rooms at the club house were renovated, and furniture added for two nurses.

The work in connection with the Metropolitan Insurance Company has increased, and this has helped the work financially as fifty cents is paid for each visit. The amount of money received from the company is $361.50.

We saw a great need for more money to carry on this work, and we felt very much like asking the club for more; but knowing the many good things the Quincy Women's club does with its money we thought we would not do this, but plan some form of support that would put the work on a permanent financial footing. A subscription fund was started by which the committee aimed to interest more people in the work, the basis of subscription being one dollar a year. Many of our people became subscribers to the fund. It is hoped this plan can be continued the coming year.

In October we asked the street railway company to allow our nurses to ride on the cars to their patients without charge. Tickets were given for one month; but other districts began to ask the same for their nurses, and the railroad company is now considering whether it is best to do this.

A committee was appointed to arrange with the Quincy hospital to allow its student nurses to take a course in Visiting Nursing in connection with the work in Quincy. The hospital did not find it possible to do this. This would give a broader training to its nurses and it would greatly aid our work. The majority of hospitals are now giving this course to its nurses and it is hoped that some time this can be done, as we wish to work with our own hospital.

There have been many donations from churches, societies and individuals, of old linen, infants' clothing, abdominal bands, malted milk, etc.

During the past seven years much good has been done by the Visiting Nurses of Quincy; but there is much more to do, and to those who are closely connected with the work, it seems almost at times, as if we were not half doing what we should do. A nurse is needed at once for our obstetrical cases. We do not care for our contagious cases, but this question is under discussion, and it is hoped ways and means may be found for providing nursing care for these cases in their homes. The need of a nurse to carry out the instructions of the doctor and Board of Health is important.

A diet kitchen is also needed where nourishing broths, good milk and eggs may be obtained for our poorly nourished patients. If all, who have helped this work could watch the nurses and see the homes that are visited, the sick and dying that are cared for, they would know that no matter how small the amount given, much good had been done with it.

There are individuals and societies in Quincy working for lifting the standard of physical health, and the moral condition for the coming generation. The Visiting Nurses are contributing much to the great civic result.

Florence Ainsley Murray,
Chairman.

PRESIDENT'S REPORT.

Dear Fellow Members of the Club:—

After listening to these excellent reports of our Members, can we not truly say, that another year of undaunted courage and good works, lie behind the Quincy Women's club—and as the events of the past year's club life pass before us, do we not feel that the retrospect is cheering and of good promise for the future? Too much praise cannot be bestowed upon our officers, and chairmen of committees whose reports every one of them suffice to show that the work itself, has been characterized by their energy and self-devotion. We are grateful to all the committees representing the various departments of work connected with the club, and to those who have kept their interests keen by attending conferences and reporting to the club the knowledge gained from such meetings.

The results of our work cannot be summed up, but with the riches we have received, and with the effort for good we have tried to put forth may we not feel that we have been moving slowly toward greater progress, and to a fuller realization of what this club means to us and to the community.

At the beginning of the year, it was thought advisable to increase our active working force, and we have had the pleasure of adding three new and valuable committees. A Legislative committee, Reception committee, and a Press committee, all three giving effective assistance whenever called upon. Our meetings have been interesting, and listened to with close attention. A distinctly new departure in our club program was the successful art exhibition arranged by our art committee, and equally new and varied was the formal debate, carefully prepared by our Civics committee, we feel, these to be advance steps in raising our educational standards. During the year now closing many questions have arisen for and against which we are contending, one of the most important of these has been, What are we going to do with our rapidly increasing waiting list? From our innermost hearts we feel that we would like to say, "Welcome every one," the spirit of unity and co-operation cannot be too great, yet we know we must weigh carefully every move we make, and all questions we must take time to consider if we wish to bring about the best things we desire for this club. We feel a sense of satisfaction and encouragement when it is shown to us, that others wish to get into the line of our club's good tendency. Your president assures you that this and other problems, will be met in the near future to the satisfaction of all.

It is not necessary for me to take up each and every line of work. This has been done in the reports of departments, your president feels however, that there is perhaps no investment of our club funds which will give a better or larger return to the club and to our city, than the money spent for the maintenance of the Visiting Nurse. This was our first social service work.

The use of this beautiful clubhouse led to our Instructive Visiting Nursing. May we ever continue our interest in this splendid charity, endeavoring more and more to convince the public of its importance. It has been often stated that life is measured by the things we are alive to—the Quincy Women's club, is alive to many, many good things and stands today as a source of general education, philanthrophy, and civic enterprise. May we continue to work for the highest ideals, endeavoring always to help our club by speaking well of it, we can do even better than this, we can help our club by making it an organization that will speak eloquently for itself.

We would thank all who have contributed of their time and talent, and as the new year unfolds may we be loyal to our club, loyal to the State Federation, and loyal to the General Federation. The closing year has been one of valuable experience to your president for which she thanks you all. The devotion of time and strength is not too much to give to you in return.

Fannie P. Sheppard.

The New Way The Old Way

The new way to cook is to turn on a little switch, apply a match and get a strong, hot, blue flame of gas that will cook anything for you. No fuss or bother, no coal or wood to carry, no overheated kitchen, no dirt--and the meal always on time. But with the old coal or wood stove--well, we hate to tell you. There is no comparison.

The Wreck of the Titan

By Morgan Robertson

Copyright, 1898, by M. F. Mansfield. Copyright, 1912, by Morgan Robertson. All rights reserved.

SYNOPSIS

The great steamer Titan, supposed to be unsinkable, starts across the Atlantic. Rowland, once a lieutenant, now a common sailor, meets his old love Myra. She is with her husband and child.

The Titan cuts a ship in two, and her captain endeavors to conceal the crime. Rowland objects. The captain gives him whisky, so that he will be discredited. Myra accuses him of attempting to murder her child.

Rowland, surprised at his sudden transfer from the disagreeable scrubbing to a "soldier's job" of painting life buoys in the warm 'tween deck, was shrewd enough to know that he was being closely watched by the boatswain that morning, but not shrewd enough to affect any symptoms of intoxication or drugging, which might have satisfied his anxious superiors and brought him more whisky. As a result of his brighter eyes and steadier voice—due to the curative sea air—when he turned out for the first dog watch on deck at 4 o'clock the captain and boatswain held an interview in the chart room, in which the former said: "Do not be alarmed. It is not poison. He is halfway into the horrors now, and this will merely bring them on. He will see snakes, ghosts, goblins, shipwrecks, fire and all sorts of things. It works in two or three hours. Just drop it into his drinking pot while the port forecastle is empty."

There was a fight in the port forecastle—to which Rowland belonged—at supper time, which need not be described beyond mention of the fact that Rowland, who was not a participant, had his pot of tea dashed from his hand before he had taken three swallows. He procured a fresh supply and finished his supper, then, taking no part in his watch mates' open discussion of the fight and guarded discussion of collisions, rolled into his bunk and smoked until eight bells, when he turned out with the rest.

"Rowland," said the big boatswain as the watch mustered on deck, "take the starboard bridge lookout."

"It is not my trick, boats'n," said Rowland in surprise.

"Orders from the bridge. Get up there."

Rowland grumbled, as sailors may when aggrieved, and obeyed. The man he relieved reported his name and disappeared. The first officer sauntered down the bridge, uttered the official "Keep a good lookout" and returned to his post; then the silence and loneliness of a night watch at sea, intensified by the never ceasing hum of the engines and relieved only by the sounds of distant music and laughter from the theater, descended on the forward part of the ship, for the fresh westerly wind coming with the Titan made nearly a calm on her desk, and the dense fog, though overshone by a bright star specked sky, was so chilly that the last talkative passenger had fled to the light and life within.

She Sprang Toward Rowland Like a Tigress.

When three bells—9:30—had sounded and Rowland had given in his turn the required call, "All's well!" the first officer left his post and approached him.

"Rowland," he said as he drew near. "I hear you've walked the quarter-deck."

"I cannot imagine how you learned it, sir," replied Rowland. "I am not in the habit of referring to it."

"You told the captain. I suppose the curriculum is as complete at Annapolis as at the Royal Naval college. What do you think of Maury's theories of currents?"

"They seem plausible," said Rowland, unconsciously dropping the "sir," "but I think that in most particulars he has been proved wrong."

"Yes, I think so myself. Did you ever follow up another idea of his—that of locating the position of ice in a fog by the rate of decrease in temperature as approached?"

"Not to any definite result. But it seems to be only a matter of calculation and time to calculate. Cold is negative heat and can be treated like radiant energy, decreasing as the square of the distance."

The officer stood a moment looking ahead and humming a tune to himself, then, saying, "Yes; that's so," returned to his place.

"Must have a cast iron stomach," he muttered as he peered into the binnacle, "or else the boatsw'n dosed the wrong man's pot."

Rowland glanced after the retreating officer with a cynical smile. "I wonder," he said to himself, "why he comes down here talking navigation to a foremast hand. Why am I up here—out of my turn? Is this something in line with that bottle?" He resumed the short pacing back and forth on the end of the bridge, and the rather gloomy train of thought which the officer had interrupted.

"How long," he mused, "would his ambition and love of profession last him after he had met and won and lost the only woman on earth to him? Why is it that failure to hold the affections of one among the millions of women who live and love can outweigh every blessing in life and turn a man's nature into a hell to consume him? Who did she marry? Some one, probably a stranger, long after my banishment, who came to her possessed of a few qualities of mind or physique that pleased her, who did not need to love her—his chances were better without that—and he steps coolly and easily into my heaven. And they tell us that 'God doeth all things well' and that there is a heaven where all our unsatisfied wants are attended to—provided we have the necessary faith in it. That means, if it means anything, that after a lifetime of unrecognized allegiance, during which I win nothing but her fear and contempt, I may be rewarded by the love and companionship of her soul. Do I love her soul? Has her soul beauty of face and the figure and carriage of a Venus? Has her soul deep blue eyes and a sweet, musical voice? Has it wit and grace and charm? Has it a wealth of pity for suffering? These are the things I loved. I do not love her soul, if she has one. I do not want it. I want her—I need her." He stopped in his walk and leaned against the bridge railing, with eyes fixed on the fog ahead. He was speaking his thoughts aloud now, and the first officer drew within hearing, listened a moment and went back. "Working on him," he whispered to the third officer. Then he pushed the button which called the captain, blew a short blast of the steam whistle as a call to the boatswain and resumed his watch on the drugged lookout, while the third officer conned the ship.

AMERICAN RUBBER CO. FRAUD CASE

Federal Grand Jury Indicts Wheeler, Shaw and Whitmore

Boston, May 15.—Charged with misuse of the mails in a stock promotion scheme, Warren B. Wheeler, Stillman Shaw and G. A. Whitmore were indicted by the United States district court grand jury on thirty-three counts. The first named were formerly in business in Milk street, under the firm name of Wheeler & Shaw, Inc., and Whitmore was a salesman of the firm.

It is alleged in the indictment that the defendants made false statements as to the organization of the North American Rubber company in that they represented to prospective buyers of the stock that the cost of manufacturing rubber was 40 cents a pound, and that under an arrangement with the Boston Belting company they sold the rubber for $1 a pound and secured a rebate of 40 cents a pound on each pound sold. The firm had been previously indicted, but the indictment was thrown out of court.

WEDDING ENDED COURT SCENE

At the close of the morning exercises at the district court today, there was a wedding with Court Officer Marden as the officiating officer to perform the ceremony. The bridal couple were Robert Willie and Louise Ahearn. Willie was in court Tuesday for drunkenness when it came out that he and the Ahearn woman had been living together in Quincy for the past three years as man and wife, without the form of a marriage ceremony. This morning when the case was calle d a new complaint was issued against both parties charging them with lewdness. They expressed a willingness to go through the marriage ceremony. The court then sentenced them each to six months in the house of correction but suspended sentence until December 31, to see if they could not agree to live happily. Court Officer Marden then accompanied them to the City Clerk's office where a marriage license was obtained, the five day law being waived. They then returned to the court room where the nuptial knot was tied, and they left apparently happy.

SPRAINED HIS FOOT.

James Moorehead, Jr., had the misfortune to slip on a rug in the Granite shoe store and in his fall sprained his left foot. He was taken in an automobile to the office of Dr. Welsh where his injured ankle was dressed. The physician said it would probably be a month before he could use his foot again.

WAR LAUNCHES FINE CRAFT

Three mammoth launches, for the Argentine Republics new dreadnaught, the Rivadavia, were brought from England on the Leyland liner Cambrian and towed from Boston to Quincy yesterday, as the big war ship is in process of construction at the Fore River shipyards.

The launches are floating palaces. The largest, costing in the vicinity of $12,000, is 56 feet in length and equipped in a manner that rivals many of the finest steam pleasure yachts, having a cabin, dining room and a chart house and all are finished in teak wood.

All three have reciprocating engines and are capable of reeling off 16 knots. A number of cases of fittings for the Rivadavia were brought over in the Cambrian.

TO-DAY'S COURT.

The continued case of William G. Locke for alleged robbery was heard and he was found not guilty and discharged.

The probation periods of James Sullivan and William A. Williams of Quincy was revoked and they received sentences for drunkenness. The former $15 and the latter two months in the house of correction.

William M. Stables was fined $50 for maintaining a gaming establishment at Weymouth.

Robert Willie and Louise Ahearn were arraigned for alleged lewdness at Quincy and sentenced to six months each in the house of correction. Sentence suspended until December 31.

Quincy Woman Told of Nantasket and Automobile Ride

MEETING VERY INFORMAL

William A. Locke, of Hingham, who was arrested a few days ago charged with the larceny of $4 from Mrs. Ida M. Clark of Quincy, on a Sunday, while on the way from Nantasket beach, was before Judge Avery in the district court this forenoon, found not guilty and discharged.

The woman told the court that on the Sunday in question she went to Nantasket beach and had dinner and a glass of ale at a hotel. She then went to the Baxter house and while seated in the reception room a young man came in and spoke to her. She conversed with him for fifteen minutes her only recollection of him being his statement that he kept horses at the Cushing house at Hingham. He asked her to have a drink, but she only took a glass of soda. He then offered to go Hingham and get his carriage, but she suggested telephoning for a taxi or an automobile.

This was done and the pair, according to her testimony started from the beach in the vicinity of 5 o'clock. She said that they came very fast, direct to Quincy and arrived in City Square at 8 o'clock. Here she asked to be let out. Then it was she said that Locke asked her if she had any money. He then took her hand bag in which was her purse containing three dollars in bills and a dollar in change. As she left the automobile he handed the bag to her and on her arrival home the purse and money was gone. The purse it was claimed was found later by Inspector Goodhue in Locke's room at Hingham. The woman's story was rather a peculiar one and she was continually contradicting herself under the cross examination of lawyer Buttimer. After hearing her story the court found Locke not guilty of robbery and ordered his discharge.

D. O. C. SCORES GREAT SUCCESS

D. O. club day was observed at the Park and Downs church Tuesday was distinct success both financially and and from point of numbers. Starting in the early morning with a breakfast and concluding with an entertainment of unusual merit in the evning the many features were a source of congratulation to the club. As early as 5.15 the members were busy among the pots and pans in the kitchen and at 6 o'clock a dainty breakfast was ready for the first arrivals, and was served from that time until 9 o'clock, and was enjoyed by a large number. During the meal fortune leaves were sold by Miss Marie Brown and many found what the day had in store for them.

Members of the breakfast committee were: Miss Clara Mansfield, Miss Ethel Turner, Miss Nelie Palmer, Miss Hazel Jones, Miss Ruth Page and Miss Geraldine Scott, and they were ably assisted by Mr. and Mrs. Alonzo Bissett and Mrs. Elizabeth Brown.

The announcement of "Sales from the silvery sands," had aroused a lot of curiosity and a large amount of patronage, especially from the children. This was a novel form of grab consisting of a large level surface of sand treated in such a manner as to give it a silvery effect. The play of electric lights on this caused the entire surface to glisten and sparkle in the most fascinating manner.

In this, upon payment of a small sum, one was allowed to burrow until a prize was discovered.

In addition were boothes of candy and ice cream, the decorations of white being especially pleasing. In charge of the ice cream was Mrs. George H. Stebbins, while Miss Geraldine Scott was at the candy table. Presiding over the "silvery sands" was Miss Ruth Page.

The crowning success came with the evening's entertainment, which was of unusual merit, and was attended by audience of over 300. The entertainment took place in the church auditorium and opened with the rendition of "Invictus" by Huhn, a baritone solo by W. Allen Stoddard of Brockton. Mr. Stoddard was accompanied by Miss Emily O. Bjorkman.

A "Spanish Dance" by Popper was the selection of Miss Marion Moorhouse, Wollaston's well-known 'cellist. She was accompanied by her mother, Mrs. S. P. Moorhouse, and received a generous share of applause.

Miss Lois Annabelle Beil gave a reading of "The Witching Hour," by Augustus Thomas. Miss Beil is a post graduate of the Emerson college of oratory, and her readings always find favor with Wollaston audiences.

A group of "Bird Songs," by Liza Lehmann was the offering of Miss Rosetta Key of Winthrop, soprano of the new old South church of Boston. Miss Key is the daughter of a former minister of the Wollaston Unitarian and a large number of her friends and admirers tendered her an ovation. Miss Amee Lister was the accompanist.

Mr. Stoddard sang "The auld plaid shawl," by Haynes and Miss Moorhouse followed with two 'cello solos, "Barceuse" by Goddard, and "Tarantella" by Cossman.

A group of songs by Miss Key was most charming. They were "Flower Rain" by Loud, "Birth of Morn" by Leonie and "Th pipes of Pan" by Moncton.

In place of the "Littlest Rebel" as announced Miss Beil gave a humorous reading entitled "Sam Stone's Funeral."

The closing number was a solo by Mr. Stoddard, "The Rosary," by Nevin.

The audience was highly appreciative and much credit is due to Miss Ella R. Musaus who under whose directions D. O. club day was observed.

The receipts are expected to pay in full the remaining cost of the pulpit furnishings in the new edifice.

I. W. W. MEETING MAY BE STOPPED

Notices were posted in public places during the past few days announcing an open air meeting Sunday afternoon at 2.30 o'clock, under the auspices of the I. W. W. to protest against the imprisonment of the labor leaders arrested during the recent labor trouble at Lawrence. The posters said the meeting would be held on the Faxon farm. Attention was called to Henry M. Faxon the owner of the property by Inspector Goodhue. Mr. Faxon said that he had not granted any permission to hold an open air meeting on his lot but possibly his tenant might have. He however hoped that the police would take the necessary steps to prevent the meeting from being held.

POOR SUPPORT BEAT QUINCY

McDonald on the Mound Could Not Play Whole Game

SECOND INNING DISASTROUS

Listless support of pitcher McDonald was the cause of the third defeat of the season sustained yesterday afternoon at Merrymount park, by the Quincy High school baseball team administered by the strong Boston Latin school combination to the tune of 8 to 4. The home team outbatted the visitors but was unable to make hits at opportune moments.

McDonald was on the mound for the Granite city players and twirled in an effective manner. Costly errors prevented his complete mastery of the situation and his team mates who failed to display the article of ball that has been noticeable when victory was forthcoming are responsible for the defeat. The visitors made things lively in the first two innings of play, but after this period their work was inferior to that of the local boys.

The winners made two runs in the opening inning when two errors and a hit enabled Wholley and Graham to tally. In the following inning, Kiley walked to first after being hit, but was out trying to steal second. Daley was given a pass. Miller sacrificed. Campbell was safe on an error by Blackmur. Wholley hit, scoring Daley and Campbell and stole second and third himself. Graham walked. A single by McGinn brought in Wholly and Graham and the visitors had made four runs in this inning.

Quincy High got a run in the second inning on a base on balls and three errors. In the following inning another run was made on hits by McDonald and Johnson, a base on balls and a sacrifice. The local players tried hard to even up matters in the fifth inning, but failed to secure more than two runs.

O'Dowd, the first batter up, registered a hit, McDonald fanned. Johnson was an easy out, Blomquist landed safely on a high ball and knocked it out into deep centre for a home run After this inning the home team failed to score.

Two errors and a hit allowed Boston Latin to tally a run in the third and the same feat was accomplished in the eighth on a hit and an error.

McGinn was the star player of the game, securing two hits and fielding his position in a most able manner, Graham also played a stellar game for the winners.

The work of the local team was considerably improved over the contest with Hingham High, although the desired standard of efficiency has not yet been attained. O'Dowd accepted 16 chances in fine style, but his three errors proved very costly. He took the honors among the losers, however in batting. McDonald played a fine fielding game, having a total of eight assets to his credit.

The next game will be played Friday afternoon at Brockton with the High school team of that city. Brockton High has for a long time been Quincy's keenest rival and as the game gives every promise of being a warm one, a large delegation of students will take the trip with the team.

The score by innings:

Innings	1	2	3	4	5	6	7	8	9
Boston Latin	2	4	1	0	0	0	0	1	0	—8
Quincy H. S.	0	1	1	0	2	0	0	0	0	—4

SECRETARY WILLIAM H. FLYNN

Ex-councilman William H. Flynn secretary of city league, was himself a base ball player of much note. Besides displaying great form with many of the star local teams of former days he gained a reputation for himself as a member of the Lawrence team of the New England league. He is without doubt the most widely known athletic enthusiast of Quincy and whenever he puts his shoulder to any proposition, he never rests satisfied until he sees it brought to a successful end as has been evidenced by the manner in which he has brought the Quincy A. A. to the front so that it is now classed as one of the foremost athletic organizations of the country.

He is conversant with all departments of athletics and is especially interested in baseball movements. He knows the game in every detail and can be counted on to cope with any situation that may develop. He himself, besides being secretary of the league, will still continue to act as manager for his organization, and if this work with the football and basket ball team during the past year can be taken as any assurance, it is safe to say that Quincy A. A. will bear much watching on the diamond.

MOOSE ORGANIZE A JUNIOR ORDER

Twenty-six young men, between the ages of 16 and 20 years, formed the charter membership of Quincy Lodge, No. 13, Junior Order of Moose, in Faxon hall, Tuesday evening.

The lodge was instituted under the direction of Arthur H. Hayden, National Organier of the Order of Moose

Many officers of the senior order were present and the affair proved to be the initial step of a project that gives every evidence of being conducive to much good for the younger element and its future will be watched with interest.

Past Dictator and Deputy State Organizer Leon C. lCaflin, who has been appointed governor of the new lodge was present and gave a very instructive talk on "Fraternity." In the course of his remarks, he dwelt on the benefits to be devired from the junior order and laid down the influence it bids fair to have on the order of Moose in general.

Twenty-five applications for membership were received at the meeting and it is expected that the organization will have an enrollment of many more members at the next meeting.

The officers elected are as follows:

Past Dictator—Swan B. Johnson.
Dictator—Charles Williamson.
Vice Dictator—Roy Horsman.
Prelate—Karl G. W. Lief.
Secretary—David J. Doyle.
Treasurer—Robert Brown.
Seargant-at-arms—James Manning.
Inner Guard—Ralph Clark.
Outer Guard—Austin McNeil.
Trustees—Franklin Austin., Robert Farquahar.
Physician—Dr. John H. Ash.

This is the first junior order to be affiliated with the senior order of Moose.

The members of the new lodge will participate in the Moose parade, which will be held at Springfield, Mass, June 5th.

BAN YET ON AMUSEMENTS

Methodist Committee by Two to One Opposes Change

Minneapolis, May 15.—That the poor should be admitted to the hospitals of the Methodist Episcopal church when recommended by their pastors, under proper rules and regulations not as charity patients, but as guests of the church, is the report of the committee on temporal economy. The report recommends that each conference in the United States become the patron of at least one hospital and that no hospital hereafter be established without the approval of the conference in whose bounds it is located.

Unless the general conference overrules the action of the committee on state of the church, that part of the famous paragraph 260 of the Church Discipline which especially prohibits dancing, card playing and kindred amusements, will remain a law of the church. By a vote of 100 to 51 the entire committee voted to reject the report by the majority of the subcommittee which favored the elimination of a portion of the paragraph and leaving the amusement question to the "conscience" of the individual member. Dr. James R. Day, chancellor of Syracuse university, Syracuse, N. Y., chairman of the subcommittee which favored striking out that section of the paragraph, served notice on the committee that a minority report would be made to the conference.

Debate in the committee on the question was strenuous. Pleas were made by delegates from foreign lands for retention of the paragraph, and Dr. Uong, a Chinese delegate, through an interpreter, made an effective speech. A. J. Wallace, lieutenant governor of California, and chairman of the committee, also made a speech in favor of striking out the "catalogue" of prohibitive amusements.

With a demonstration which surpassed any which previously has occurred on the floor of the present conference, the general conference indorsed the new republic of China and ordered that its flag be displayed by the side of that of the United States over the speaker's rostrum. The addresses on the subject by three Chinese delegates to the conference were received with applause.

Among the things done by the conference yesterday are:

Refused to consider resolution allowing annual conferences to determine condition under which expelled members may be reinstated.

Refused to consider resolution presented by C. L. Safford of Iowa asking investigation of charges of card playing and dancing in church schools.

BOY POINTED PISTOL AT GIRL

Approach of Latter's Mother Frightened Modern Dick Turpin

REFORMATORY FOR OFFENDER

Lieutenant McKay went to Rainsfords island Tuesday afternoon and brought to Quincy a boy who gave his name as Ellison Smith, aged 11 years, who also claimed his home to be in Atlantic. The boy was found drifting about the harbor by officers at Rainsfords island. He told these officers that he had gone out from Atlantic the night before and had been out all night. The Quincy police were notified, and Lieutenant McKay went after the boy. He first took him to Atlantic but the boy could not point out where he lived and but little information could be obtained from him. He was then brought to the police station where he spent the night. Here he was questioned by the police but little could be learned from him and the police made up their minds that the boy was not telling the truth about himself.

This they found to be correct this morning, for Officer Larkin identified the boy as Nelson Miles Cook, the 13 year old son of Ernest G. Cook of Billings street. Officer Larkin also learned that on Tuesday evening the boy held up a little girl with an air gun and demanded her money. The girl was badly frightened and was about to give up her purse when she saw her mother approaching and cried out to her. The boy then ran away and taking the boat rowed into the harbor.

This is not the first scrape the boy has been in, for about two years ago he was picked up in the harbor on a raft, which he said had drifted out into the harbor with him before he could stop it.

The boy has been one that his parents found hard to manage and he has been confined for a time in a reformatory at Salem. The boy's father was notified of his son's whereabouts this noon and stated that he would come after him and that he would take him to the reformatory where he could be looked after.

Committee on Cities to Give Hearing on the Subject

NO OPPOSITION OFFERED

Boston, May 16—The senate committee on rules has voted to allow the admittance of the bill which gives the city of Quincy authority to fund a portion of its temporary debt.

It was reported in the senate and immediately referred to the joint committee on cities, which commmittee took it under advisement.

The latter committee has decided to give a public hearing on the subject, at the State House, Monday, May 20th, in the forenoon.

The preliminary movement towards the end as outlined above, made its appearance Tuesday, when the committee rules gave a hearing at which there was no opposition.

The petition is the one recommended by the Special Committee on Financial Investigation of the City Council. ity to refund $150,000 of its temporaIts purpose is to give the city authority loan, which has now become almost a permanent debt. If the authority asked for is granted it is proposed to retire that amount of outstanding temporary loans, which is to be taken care of at the rate of $15,000 a year. This sum will be placed in the tax levy each year.

K. T. READY FOR FIRST INSPECTION

The official inspection of Quincy Commandery, Knights of Templars, will take place on Monday evening, May 27. The inspecting officer will be Eminent Sir. Charles R. QUINCY MILD IN THE REQUEST FOR AID FOR IMPROVEMENTS

Would Be Satisfied With $100,000 for Parkway Connecting Missing Links

City Has Never Murmured at Bearing Share of Expense

State House, May 15,—Before the Ways and Means committee today, Representative Leslie, ex-mayor John O. Hall, Charles C. Hearn, and John L. Hamilton, of Quincy appeared in favor of the omnibus bill which was reported favorably by the Metropolitan Affairs committee, and which was in turn referred for further consideration to the Ways and Means committee because it involves the expenditure of the state money.

The bill includes among other features the appropriation of $100,000 for a parkway from the Quincy Shore reservation extending towards Hancock street, as a part of the proposed connection between The Shore drive and Furnace Brook parkway.

Representative Leslie explained to the committee the effect the passage of the bill would have on Quincy. He characterized the proposed roadway as the "missing link" of construction work desired for Quincy. Mr. Leslie said that while it was recognized that other cities in the Metropolitan district had just causes for asking improvements, he still thought that the demands of the South shore portion of the district had been neglected, and said all Quincy asks is a square deal. The work that Quincy desires to have done within its boundaries would cost $240,000 but a good start in the right direction could be made with the appropriation provided in this bill.

Representative Leslie extolled the beauties of the Quincy shore and said it was the prettiest bit of shore property in Massachusetts. "The drive, in its present state with a dead end, is not half so efficient as it will be with connections made which we ask for" said Mr. Leslie. He pointed out on the map, the scene of the work contemplated and showed the committee that the money provided would be sufficient to build a boulevard from the present dead end near the Sailors' home to the intersection of Merrymount and Park roads, whence outlets are available either to Coddington street leading into the center of Quincy or through Butler road to Hancock street, or through Merrymount park, to Wollaston and Boston.

As a representative of the Board of Trade, Charles C. Hearn said, that organization was heartily in favor of the improvement spoken of. He said that the project had received the endorsement of another legislative committee (Metropolitan affairs) after going into the entire proposition, and he thought everybody was fairly cognizant of the advantages that would surely accrue from the improvement. He thought the whole work originally asked for should be done, but he realized that it was a tremendous demand on the resources of the State, and said he would be satisfied if the reduced provision were put through and then in five years another demand could be made, for the remainder of the work. Questioned by the committee, Mr. Hearn said that Quincy people know that the Metropolitan debt is increasing, but the State has adopted a definite policy of park system, and regardless of the debt the work ought not to stop until the whole plan is complete.

Ex-mayor Hall, who was present as the representative of Mayor Stone, said in regard to the Metropolitan debt, that Quincy has always paid her share and so far has received very little in return. He said that the original estimate of cost of the whole Metropolitan system has already been exceeded by four and a half millions of dollars, but no complaint has been made by Quincy because the city recognizes the benefits that are bound to come from this gigantic scheme of beautifying the district. Mr. Hall pointed out that all the Metropolitan district must benefit financially by the improvements which make property more valuable, help preserve the health of citizens and bring thousands of visitors from all over the country who must spend money patronizing our stores and hotels.

John L. Hamilton, was recorded in favor of the bill, and said he was spokesman for three improvement associations all of whom had gone on record as strongly favorable to any improvements along the line suggested.

In closing Representative Leslie said that the City Council had taken action favoring the bill and expressed the hope that the committee on Ways and Means would follow the lead of the committee on Metropolitan affairs and recommend the passage of this bill.

CLEAN YARDS SPRING IS HERE

This is clean up week and the Board of Health is co-operating with the citizens in making their yards clean. Any old rubbish placed with the ash barrels will be removed by the Board of Health teams. At the office of the Board at City hall it was said this morning that a large number of families were taking advantage of the offer and many cart loads of old rubbish had been carted away by its teams.

PLANNING TECH BUILDINGS

Edward R. Hall of Davis street is one of a group of three young men engaged in a work of which any loyal Technology alumnus might well be proud. They are gathering data from which the new Massachusetts Institute of Technology on the Charles will be created.

John R. Freeman of Providence, one of the leading mechanical engineers of the country and a graduate of the Institute has given four months of his time toward the completion of plans for the new group of buildings and it is under his supervision that the three young men are working.

All three are graduates of the class of 1911. They are Edward R. Hall, of Wollaston, C. L. Pepper of Chelsea and O. W. Steward of Hyde Park.

The work requires visits to the foremost colleges and educational institutions of the country for study from which comprehensive reports are drawn.

The work is most detailed in character and contains reports on the distribution of light, relation of, class rooms, construction of buildings, materials of construction and other valuable data. Accompanying Mr. Hall's reports were a large number of photographs on the excellence of which he has been complimented.

Among the institutions thus far investigated or at present under investigation are Cornell University, Sheffield Scientific School at Yale, McGill University, at Montreal, Illinois University, University of Virginia, Rensselaer Polytechnic Institute at Troy, University of Pennsylvania, University of Kansas, Worcester Polytechnic Institute and the College of the City of New York.

BRIEFS

The war against the house fly is now on and the slogan now is to swat them whenever seen.

The meeting of the Finance committee scheduled for this evening has been postponed until Friday evening.

Overseer of the Poor James H. Elcock, returned Wednesday night from a short business trip to New York.

Mable Keene 285 Washington street has moved to the house recently built by James Pratt & Sons at 315 Washington street.

Mr. and Mrs. Raymond E. Huntington, nee Elizabeth Thayer, of Willow street, motored to Agonquit Satday, where they enjoyed the week end.

The Hospital Aid concert which has been arranged by Miss C. F. Spear will be held in Alpha hall Tuesday evening, May 28th. Twenty-five singers including prominent soloists have pledged their assistance.

The annual opening smoker of the Quincy Yacht club will be held tonight at 8 o'clock at the club house, Houghs Neck. A fine program has been arranged by the House Committee. The opening smoker of the Squantum club will also be held tonight.

The first annual dance of the Quincy Women's Riverside club will be held Friday evening at Alpha hall. Mrs. Eugene R. Stone, wife of Mayor Stone is the first president of the club and His Honor, who was the first Commodore of the Town Yacht club will grace the affair by his presence.

The supper given at the Hall Place M. E. church Wednesday evening by the Ladies' Aid society was very successful. A bountiful supply of good things were on hand and enjoyed by all. Supper was served from 6.30 to 8 o'clock, and from 8 to 9 a fine entertainment was enjoyed, consisting of readings by Mrs. Churchill of Boston, and piano solos by Miss Helen Martin and J. Lawrence Martin.

WOLLASTON PEOPLE UNANIMOUS IN THEIR DESIRE FOR NEW PARK

Mr. Safford's Heir Would Waive All Rights to Aid the Project of People

Wollaston Did Not Get its Share of Former Park Money

Over one hundred ladies and gentlemen from Wollaston attended the hearing given by the City Council committee on Public Buildings in the Council Chamber, City Hall, Wednesday evening on the petition of the Wollaston Parents' and Teachers' association, that the old Wollaston school lot be retained by the city as a public park and playground. The sentiment in favor of so retaining the lot was a unanimous one. Although but comparatively few of those present spoke on the question when it was put to a vote all stood up and not one sentiment of opposition was expressed. Councilman Bailey, chairman of the committee presided and all members of the committee were present.

Hon. Eugene H. Sprague the new president of the Wollaston association opened the meeting. Mr. Sprague said that in 1893 the city of Quincy appropriated $50,000 for public park purposes for each ward of the city. In Wollaston a park was laid out on Third hill. Sometime later the Metropolitan Water Commission desired the location for a stand pipe and the city sold the land to the commission receiving $7,000 for it. None of that money had been expended in Wollaston. Part of it had been used in the other wards of the city and there was now something like $1,000 left in the city treasury. He believed this to be an opportune time for the city to get a desirable lot for public purposes.

Mrs. Walter S. Pinkham desired to define what was meant by the request for a playground. It was not to be a place to play base ball or foot ball for the older children, who are now well-taken care of, but more of a place for the younger children. That is under 6 years of age. Where they can come and play. There was no such place for them now. She had always believed that there should be two playgrounds. One for the older and one for the younger children, if together they would bother each other. For the younger children it was very desirable that they could have a place for their sand boxes and seats for the mothers. She did not think that the older children would go there. It should be laid out so that the front shoud be a beautiful spot while in the rear should be the sand boxes and they would not thus take away from the beauty of the spot. It could be laid out along the line of two triangles and the centre path would be used by people hurrying for trains. The principal point however is that it should be set aside and always be open as a breathing spot. Such open spaces always increase in value as the city grow. The first thing was to get the lot laid aside and the matter of laying it out could be left to Park commissioners.

David H. Goodspeed, master of the Wollaston school, said that it seemed to him that this was one of the districts that needed an open space where the boys and girls could play more than anything else. There was now no such place in the centre of Wollaston as far as he knew. He said "While the school was located in the old building we had no place at all. Everytime a boy hit a ball it went on some one's lawn, and there was trouble all the time. When we got into the new building we had the rear lot where the older boys can play. Coming down Beale street we have the fire house, the Unitarian church and the new school, all fine structures. In the development of children we realize that there are other things than teaching them how to read and write. We must look to the physical side, the mental and normal side and a course that gets us back to nature. In our nature work we teach home gardening and the names of the different trees. It might also be possible to take up the matter of landscape gardening. We could also have a place where we could carry on a school garden.

If this lot was laid out as it should be, it would be an ornament to the city. From 200 to 300 children go by there every day. We try to teach the children to keep off of the lawns of other people. In reply to questions by members of the committee Mr. Goodspeed said he would advise part of it as a playground for the kindergarten children. He would not make it as a thorough playground. It should be a place of beauty as well as a place where mothers and children could go.

Rev. Carl G. Horst said his church stood for the welfare of the city. He knew outdoor life. We want to get back to nature. It is one of the best ways to keep our bodies well and strong. Nature is a most wonderful chemist in ways unknown to us. Wollaston is growing as never before. Houses are getting so near that people on one piazza can hear what people on the adjoining piazza are talking about. All appreciate that open air spaces are needed. There was more building going on in Wollaston than ever before. Continuing he said: "We in Wollaston pay a large tax. We did not ask for a school until it was absolutely necessary. Now we want a park because we need it. Now is the opportunity to get a centrally located park and the citizens of Wollaston are ready to put their hands in their pockets and put it in proper shape. It will be an investment that will pay a large dividend. In behalf of the citizens of Wollaston, and the nation unborn I appeal to you to report favorably on this petition."

L. C. Merrill said he represented the Methodist church whose people were heartily in favor of the plan. It was a place very much needed. It would increase real estate values in the city. This was the only vacant lot available.

Ex-Councilman W. H. Hull said he represented the Wollaston Congregational club which voted unanimously for it. As far as he could learn all were in favor of the proposition. He had looked into some things in relation to the question. In the first place the city was not in the proper condition financially to be asked to beautify the spot. A few days ago a petition had been circulated and $500 had been pledged. Since then he had secured $175 more and he could say there would be $1,000 pledged to have the lot beautified by a landscape gardener without any expense to the city.

BUSY MINISTERS DISCUSS AFFAIRS

Of Moment to the People and Community as a Whole

THE ACTIVITY INSPIRING

At the Quincy Ministerial Association Tuesday morning there were reports from the efforts of the last month. Rev. T. W. Davison and Rev. A. M. Thompson spoke of their work in looking into the "Pony express business." Mr. Davison said that it was proper to protest against one of the express men, in not reporting his deliveries of liquor, but also that he was otherwise entitled to a license as he was doing a legitimate express business in Atlantic, and while his name was on the protest it was only for the purpose of calling attention to the law and that he had favored the granting of this license.

It was planned that as far as possible the charity organizations of Quincy consolidate and that the ministers work in conjunction with Miss Purchase who has been engaged by the Associated Charities of Quincy.

The ministers also recommended that if it be possible that the Y. M. C. A. organize an employment bureau for men and boys in Quincy. They felt the industries of the city would sustain it, as work was better than charity.

Rev. Walther and Rev. Martin reported for the commitee on work for men and boys in conjunction with the Y. M. C. A. and looked for united effort with churches of the city.

The ministers also plan to protest if there should be any attempt to have the aviation meet on Sunday, and a committee consisting of Rev. Armstrong of Christ church, Rev. Marshall of Quincy Point and Rev. Horst of Wollaston were asked to interview Mayor Stone and state their objections.

A committee consisting of Rev. Matheson, Wiggin and Davison were asked to look into the public installations and banquets that were being held in Quincy occasionally, and report their findings, and get the churches of the city to protest if these are the opening wedge to shatter the ideals for which the city has stood in the past.

AUCTION SALE.

Charles H. Johnson auctioneer sold at auction Wednesday the property of T. J. Lamb, consisting of a block of stores and two six-room tenements and about 6000 square feet of land situated on Copeland street to Meyer W. Winer one of the enterprising firm of Winer Brothers, City Square.

HONESTY IN EVERYTHING

The Colonel was introduced the other day as "the greatest human being that ever walked the earth." Apparently the speaker never heard of Ty Cobb.

The Chicago Sunday Tribune has had only twelve pages owing to the strike, but as the colored supplement was got out, the demands of Chicago's thinkers were satisfied.

If the men thought there was "too much women" in yesterday's issue of the Ledger and found it less interesting to them than usual, they had an opportunity to know how these same women feel about their "home daily" just previous and following an election. "Nothing but politics" they say and the men might well say yesterday, "nothing but women's clubs."

The Republican party of the country is facing a situation at the present time unparalleled in its history. A president who is just rounding out one term is opposed by one who has already served two terms. The problem which the people is called upon to solve is unique in many respects, yet it is doubtful if they are approaching the subject with that degree of careful consideration which it requires. This is manifested by the large percentage of voters who failed to exercise their privilege at the primaries, and again by the extreme carelessness shown by many voters, which resulted in the throwing out of many thousands of ballots in several states, and an utter failure to express at the polls the intention of those voters.

Both of those conditions were painfully noticeable in our own state of Massachusetts. Washington and Jefferson refused to consider the subject of a third term.

Grant would have liked it, even sought it, and while even the fruits of his great labor were still sprouting on the national tree, the people said him nay.

According to all traditions and customs Mr. Taft should have his second term, and under the same, Mr. Roosevelt should be retired to private life. But the people of yesterday are not the people of today, any more than the people of today are the people of tomorrow. The only consideration at the present is what the people want and what they want they will have regardless of traditions or customs which have been handed down.

Many people have announced the result of the Chicago convention already. They are indeed wise men. In some instances this prophecy has been made by boomers, boosters or prospective office-seekers—men who wanted to be in the limelight all the time.

Whichever candidate wins there will be a trail of bitterness and bad blood, which it will, many republicans fear, take longer than from now to the first Tuesday in November to assuage.

AIR LINE MAIL.

Arrangements have been completed by the postal authorities for an experimental air line mail service between New York and Washington. The first trip will be made from Governor's Island next week by Paul Peck, who plans to land in front of the Washington post office on Pennsylvania avenue. He plans to take about 10,000 letters, the regular complement of mail. Train time between the two points is five hours.

Peck contends that the initial flight will be made in three hours and forty-five minutes, but that succeeding trips will be accomplished in a much briefer period. If the experiment should prove successful, air line mails will be established all over the country. This will mean competition with the railroads and as the air line service will not be near so expensive, great saving in the postal department may be expected, and the national penny post loom up on the horizon.

EDITORIAL COMMENT.

If the claims of the rival candidates were accepted literally, neither Taft or Roosevelt would have a look in at the Chicago convention.

Gov. Foss it is claimed will name pastor Myers for the excise board, claiming that a critic should bear his burden of the labors of such departments.

The Methodists in conference, after warm debate, went on record against dancing. One can hardly blame them after seeing some of the dances now staged.

Taft has warmed up in Ohio and went after the Colonel "hammer and tongs." It remains to be seen what the Colonel will do and say when he comes to the bat.

If Senator Crane has anything on Senator Lodge in regard to that oft-repeated golden possession, in this campaign, then we have not as yet heard it. While the former is fighting for his political life, the later is serene as ever enjoying the confidence of both sides. Coming right down to the skilful, master politician, and statesman Senator Lodge is in a class by himself.

And now the papers are disturbed as to whether Harry K. Thaw is a father or not. It is doubtful if half a dozen people care a straw upon the subject, and Harry is too much occupied in efforts to wriggle out of the crazy house to bother about such a trifling thing as an offspring.

The straw hat season has arrived according to the calendar and the only thing to do is follow out tradition and imagine you are enjoying it.

Roosevelt swept California so that Taft's gallant appeal to the ladies was without avail.

For an average young man Richeson certainly created quite a stir in the world during the last few months' of his life.

The mail flyer made a record between New York and Washington beating the railroad schedule.

Now that the summer season is nearly with us, the bicyclists monopolize the sidewalks.

Isaac Jones is getting to be some life saver down Braintree way. Ike's face is an index of his bold, honest, brave and fearless character.

The way the Steel corporation is carelessly losing papers and documents, makes one wonder how they could do business and be so shiftless.

A pugilist named Waltz, was knocked out by his opponent. He should have learned to side step and two step.

There should be no occasion for the passage of a law prohibiting the display of any flag not recognized by the United States government.

Possibly Wakefield and her chief of police may not be strictly within the law in their heroic treatment of an alleged anarchistic meeting, but at any rate they should be commended for using common sense in checking an event which might have had serious results.

If the man with the whisk broom mustache and feather duster whiskers only knew how he looked and acted when eating soup in a restaurant he would discard the one or discontinue the other.

MEN OBJECT TO WOMEN VOTING

Massachusetts' Organization to Oppose Woman Suffrage

VOTING BELIEVED HARMFUL

An Association of men of Massachusetts has recently been formed, known as the "Men's Association Against Extension of Woman Suffrage." They believe that while the opposition to the proposed changes in our constitution and laws further extending suffrage to women in this state has been carried on thus far very appropriately by women, nevertheless the time has now arrived when there is need also of some organized work by men. It is proposed to build up a strong association of men throughout the state, representative of all vocations, and to assist the women's organization.—The Massachusetts Association Opposed to the Further Extension of Suffrage to Women—in every possible way.

The Executive Committee of the Men's Association is composed at present of the following: Holker Abbott, Charles F. Adams, 2d, David Crocker, George G. Crocker, Charles P. Curtis, Frederick P. Fish, Aaron H. Latham, Augustin H. Parker, Henry Parkman, James M. Prendergast, Thomas Russell, Richard M. Saltonstall, William T. Sedgwick and William W. Vaughan. Mr. Parker is the Secretary with an office at 60 State Street, Boston, Room 108.

This Committee has prepared a brief statement of the considerations which have led them to the conclusion that enlarging suffrage by women will be harmful to women, the family and the community.

DELICHTFUL MUSIC PLEASES AUDITORS

There was a much larger attendance Wednesday at the second in the series of May morning musicale at the Women's clubhouse and it was an hour of musical enjoyment, a fine program being rendered. Those taking part in the concert were Miss Myra Louise Eckhoff, soprano; Miss Marion L. Moorhouse, cello; Miss Grace M. Farrington, piano and Roscoe R. Ricker, violin. The last three are members of the Mazah trio, one of the recent musical organizations which quickly won public appreciation by their fine playing.

Miss Eckhoff is the new soprano in the Westland Ladies quartet and judging by the fine interpretation Wednesday morning must be a valuable addition to that favorite group of singers. Her voice is clear, faultless and flexible and she excels in execution. Her rendering of an aria and a group of songs was a delight to her audience and merited the warmth of the applause.

Miss Moorhouse one of our own musicians, being a resident of Wollaston and recently returned from a year's study in Germany, has gained much in interpretation of that fine instrument the 'cello. Her rendering of the Spanish dance was in good tone, pleasingly interpreted and thoroughly enjoyed, the encores being most appreciative.

The Trio came in for much praise and frequent applause, their versatility, rhythm and melody rounding out a perfect musical program.

At the next and last musicale on May 29, Miss Shepard of Lynn who sang her way into the hearts of her audience at the first musicale will again be the soloist.

The following is the program presented:

Trio—Allegro, Adagio, Allegro—Bohm
Aria from the Pearl Fishers—Bizet

FOSS MAKES NOMINATIONS

New Industrial Accident Commission Chosen and Presented With Others

Boston, May 16.—Governor Foss sent to the executive council the names of these five men to constitute the industrial accident board under the workingmen's compensation act: James B. Carroll, Springfield, chairman, five-year term; Dudley N. Holman, Taunton, four-year term; David T. Dickinson, Cambridge, three-year term; Edward F. McSweeney, Boston, two-year term, and Joseph A. Parks, Fall River, one-year term.

Governor Foss also sent in these nominations:

Thomas W. Proctor, Boston; Charles R. Gow, Boston, and John F. McDonald, Boston, commission to investigate the matter of water supply for the cities of Salem, Beverly and for certain towns.

Daniel P. O'Brien, M. D., New Bedford, associate medical examiner fourth Bristol, vice John T. Bullard, resigned.

Lewis B. Palmer, M. D., South Framingham, trustee Massachusetts training schools, vice David F. Slade, resigned.

John J. McNamara, M. D., Brockton, associate medical examiner first Plymouth, vice Fred J. Ripley, resigned.

John S. Kent, Brockton, director Employes' Insurance association, vice George W. Wheelwright, resigned.

Homer Bushnell, M. D., North Adams, associate medical examiner Berkshire county.

Frank A. Woods, M. D. Holyoke, associate medical examiner Hampden county.

George F. Curley, Milford, associate medical examiner Hampden county.

T. M. Gallagher, Newton, associate medical examiner Middlesex county, vice Richard Hinchey, resigned.

FOSS SAYS NOTHING TO COUNCIL

Richeson Spends Time Reading Bible and In Consultation

Boston, May 16.—Richeson is passing his time at the state prison calmly, resting well and showing little evidence of physical or mental breakdown. He is visited by Warden Bridges, Deputy Warden Allen, Rev. Herbert S. Johnson, who had called on him frequently while he was in jail, Rev. H. W. Stebbins, the prison chaplain, and William A. Morse, his counsel.

The ministers talk with him on personal matters. His attorney was with him for a long time. The prisoner reads the newspapers which are brought to hm and also spends some time reading the Bible. Warden Bridges says that Richeson has been calm ever since he arrived at the prison.

Up to a late date Governor Foss has not received the report of the special commission of alienists, comprising Drs. Stedman, Tuttle and Frost, which he named to report upon Richeson's mental condition.

The governor is not likely to do anything further in the Richeson case until he has gone over the report from the alienists' commission. Upon what they say will depend whether he is to refer the matter to council at all. Should the commission find him insane or place his mental status in such doubtful light that the governor would not care to bear the responsibility of determining the application of the law against the execution of insane persons convicted of murder, then the case will go to the council.

SECRET BALLOT ON BISHOP

Two Are Slated For Retirement and Possibly a Third

Minneapolis, May 16.—The episcopacy committee of the Methodist Episcopal church advocated the retirement of Bishops H. W. Warren and D. H. Moore.

The committee refused to recommend in the case of Bishop Thomas B. Neely, but advocated a secret ballot of the entire conference upon the retirement of three bishops.

Rebel General Wounded

El Paso, Tex., May 16.—Mrs. Inez Salazar, wife of General Salazar, with Orozco's army south of Chihuahua, received a telegram from Jiminez notifying her that the rebel leader was fatally wounded.

Against Milk Legislation

Boston, May 16.—The house of representatives has voted against any new milk legislation this year.

Death of One of the Camorra

Viterbo, Italy, May 16.—Pasquale Garguilo, one of the Camorra prisoners, died in prison yesterday of heart disease. The other Camorra prisoners, on hearing of his death, mutinied, creating a great disturbance.

Conquered a Crocodile.

An old traveler tells a tale of a young African girl with great bravery and presence of mind. While fetching water from a river she was seized by the jaws of a crocodile and pulled in. As quick as a flash she remembered the weak point of a crocodile and forced her fingers into the brute's eyes until it let go. She lost her left hand, but was able to swim ashore and save her life.

LABOR VICTORY ON INJUNCTION

The National House Passes Bill Over Stand-Patters

MOST ADVANCED LEGISLATION

Only Thirty-One Votes Against the Bill—Its Provisions Are Full and Explicit—No Injunction Shall Be Issued Without Notice—Reasonable Time Shall Be Given—Cannot Restrain From Cessation of Work

Washington, May 16.—Supported by all of the progressive Republicans the house passed the Clayton anti-injunction bill 244 to 31. Every Democrat present voted for it, those opposed being for the most part regular Republicans. The result was announced to the accompaniment of a remarkable demonstration. The legislation is regarded as one of the most advanced steps yet taken in the interests of organized labor.

Among those voting against the bill were Harris and Lawrence of Massachusetts and Higgins and Hill of Connecticut.

The bill passed provides that no injunction, whether interlocutory or permanent, shall be issued without previous notice and an opportunity to be heard on the part of the parties to be enjoined. The notice and a copy of the complaint shall be served on the parties sought to be enjoined a reasonable time in advance of such application unless it shall appear to the satisfaction of the court that immediate and irreparable injuries are likely to ensue if there is a delay.

The order of every injunction shall set forth the reasons for its issuance, shall be specific in terms and shall describe in reasonable detail the act or acts sought to be restrained.

The bill provides further that no restraining order or injunction shall prohibit any person or persons from terminating any relation of employment or "from ceasing to perform any work or labor or from recommending, advising or persuading others by peaceful means so to do."

The section of the bill provides, moreover, that no restraining order shall prohibit any person or persons "from attending at or near a house or place where any person resides or works or carries on business for the purpose of peacefully obtaining and communicating information or peacefully persuading any person to work or to abstain from working."

It also prohibits the issuance of an injunction to prevent any person or persons "from ceasing to patronize or to employ any party to such a dispute or from recommending, advising or persuading others by peaceful means to do so, or from paying or withholding from any person engaged in any dispute strike benefits or other things of value."

No injunction shall be issued to prevent persons from peaceably assembling at any place in a lawful manner and for lawful purposes.

JURY CONVICTS BREEN

Believes the Charge That He "Planted" Dynamite to Entangle Others

Salem, Mass., May 16.—John J. Breen, a prominent citizen of Lawrence, was found guilty of one of the three counts of the indictment in which he was charged with planting dynamite during the recent textile strike in that city, by a jury in the Essex county superior court here last evening. Sentence has not been imposed. Breen is a member of the school committee of Lawrence.

The count on which Breen was found guilty charged that he intended to injure the strikers in the conduct of their strike.

As was expected in view of developments, the trial of the six Syrians and the one Italian implicated in the dynamite discoveries ended in an acquittal of all the parties, though two of them were fined and held in bonds for being found in the possession of dangerous weapons.

Suffragettes Are Arraigned

London, May 16.—Mrs. Emmeline Pankhurst and Mrs. Pithwick Lawrence were arraigned yesterday at the Old Bailey sessions on the charge of conspired together and also with Christabel Pankhurst to incite their followers to malicious damage of property. All of the defendants pleaded not guilty.

Train Robbers Were Successful

Hattiesburg, Miss., May 16.—Two masked men held up the Queen and Crescent New York limited train near Okahola, a flag station eight miles south of Hattiesburg, and blew open the safe in the express car. The sum the robbers obtained is variously estimated at from $50,000 to $150,000.

Vote For Butler Statue

Boston, May 16.—The house passed the resolve appropriating $25,000 for the erection of an equestrian statue to General Benjamin F. Butler. Rejection of the resolve, as recommended by the committee on ways and means, failed on a roll call by a vote of 108 to 110.

SCHOOL NOTES.

With the latter half of May, come the preparations for the different graduations that are to take place next month in the public schools.

The grammar school graduations are to be held on Friday, June 14 and the class to be sent out will be as large if not larger than the class of last year which had broken all earlier records. The speaker at the grammar school graduation will be Mr. Jeremiah E. Burke, Assistant Superintendent of Schools in Boston. The high school graduations are to be held on Wednesday, June 19, and the speaker will be Prof. Marshall T. Perrin of Boston University.

The graduation at the Woodward Institute will be held Wednesday, June 12 and the speaker at these exercises will be Rev. Dr. R. Perry Bush of Chelsea, for many years a member of the Chelsea School Committee.

The pupils in the graduating classes are now preparing their election slips for the high school and the Woodward Institute and to assist them in making an intelligent choice the masters of these schools will explain in person the opportunities offered by each course. Boys who are desirous of entering the vocational school in 1913 are required to choose the manual city course next fall in order that they may be provided with the best possible preparation.

A sufficient number of boys have already indicated a desire to enter the half-time school, to make the course a success. Some of these boys are now in the high school, some are already at work and others are on the waiting list of the Fore River Shipyard apprentice school. A considerable number of boys of proper age have been refused on account of lack of requisite size and strength. In all probability the number enrolled the first year will reach or exceed thirty.

In order to give more thought and attention to the evening schools, the sub-committee on evening schools is to hold its preliminary meeting before the last of June instead of waiting until fall. The school department has an appropriation to expend for industrial evening classes and in order to get the best results, it will probably ask the suggestions and recommendations of the different skilled trades of the city both as to courses needed and the proper men to give instruction. It is desired that the whole plan of work may be arranged before July 1st, so that in the early fall, there may be nothing to do but to proceed to get advance registration.

With the meeting of the Cranch Parents' and Teachers' Association tonight, the season for these associations close. There have been a great many largely attended meetings held during the past school year in all sections of the city at which parents have been drawn out to come in touch with the schools in greater numbers than ever before. With so many of these associations in existence, and with the new organizations among the teachers, the school department receives the help of more outside cooperation and assistance than ever before.

HIGH SCHOOL NOTES.

College examination are held every day at the High school and about 25 boys and girls are taking them this year.

The Epsilon Delta Lamba Sigma society club is now discussing the plans for a tenis court.

The young men who have been sleeping out in the tent at Quincy Point are now full-fledged campers owing to the weather lately.

Rehearsals are in order every day for the High school dramatics. Miss Brown, who is coaching the cast, has her hands full till after the production of Friday evening.

There is some doubt as to the High school Senior-Junior reception this year.

The monthly statement concerning the absentees at the High school has been issued by head master James D. Howlett.

A slight improvement has been noticed in the average attendance for the month of April over that of March, but the attendance is not up to the standard as it should be, but now that good weather has arrived there should be an improvement.

The attendance for the month of April is as follows, according to classes:

1911 — 91.5
1912 — 95.1
1913 — 93.0
1914 — 93.7
1915 — 93.6

The average for the month being 93.7 over an average of 91.3 for the month of March.

A spirit which lacks in the High school is that of attending every day, and thus raising the average up nearer the highest point of perfection.

Mr. Howlett hopes for a larger percentage for the month of May.

WILLARD SCHOOL.

An art committee composed of teachers and parents selected the following pictures for the school which are to be paid for from the proceeds of the Art Exhibit:

Grade I—The Guardian Angel.
Grade II—Pied Piper.
Grade III—Children of the Shell.
Grade IV—The Shepherdess.
Grade VI—Christ with the Doctors.
Grade VII — Washington Crossing the Delaware.

A large picture of the National Capitol will be placed in the corridor, opposite the main entrance.

Peace day will be observed, next Friday afternoon, with appropriate exercises throughout the building.

The class of 1912 will hold a candy sale in the near future to raise money to purchase a picture as a gift to the school.

The plastering on several of the rooms was practically ruined during the recent rain. The gutters on the building are in such a deplorable condition, that, unless something is done this summer, the plastering will fall off the walls in the end rooms. It is not always considered the best economy to put a thing off until it has to be done.

TEACHERS' MEETING.

The last meeting of the scholastic year for the Quincy Teachers' Association was held Wednesday evening in the assembly hall of the Coddington school. After the business meeting, a delightful entertainment followed and the affair concluded with dancing which was enjoyed until a late hour. There was a large attendance and the report of the treasurer showed that 181 are now enrolled in membership which comprises nearly every teacher in the public schools of Quincy.

The report of the secretary was read and accepted and it was voted to have the association become affiliated with the State Federation of Teachers, an organization which is active in all things conducive to educational development. Miss Julia E. Underwood, who retired about a year ago, after a teaching career of over a half century, was elected to honorary membership, as were also Miss Lucy M. Hallowell, clerk for the school department, and Charles H. Johnson, truant officer. The following were elected officers for the coming school year:—

President—Arthur S. Townsend, principal Adams-Cranch schools.

Vice-President—Miss A. Ruth Taylor, Mass. Fields school.

Secretary—Miss Elizabeth G. Anderson, Washington school.

Treasurer—John S. Roache, Quincy High school.

The entertainment which was next in order was greatly appreciated by all and every contributor received well merited applause. The program was as follows:—

Trio selection—"Allegro and Adagio by Karl Bohm, rendered by Roscoe R. Ricker, violinist
Miss Marion Moorhouse, cellist
Miss Grace M. Farrington, pianist
Violin Solo—Roscoe R. Ricker
Trio Selection entitled Ectase composed by Ganne
Trio Selection—"Il Trovatore, composed by Verdi
Baritone Solos, entitled Turn Key Song and The Vagabond—sung by Frank V. Gordon Trio Serenade and Selections
Readings by Miss Nina Oschman of Boston

Refreshments consisting of ice cream, cake and coffee were partaken of and the affair was pronounced the most successful that has yet been held. The committee in charge included Austin W. Greene, principal of the Gridley Bryant school, Miss Jennie N. Witcher, of the Coddington school, Miss Grace A. Howe, of the High school and Miss Carrie A. Crane of the Cranch school.

WOLLASTON PEOPLE UNANIMOUS

Mr. Hull then spoke of the deed of gift of a part of the land. He said that there was now but one heir of Nathaniel F. Safford who gave the land for educational purposes. That was his son N. M. Safford. Mr. Hull then read a letter from him in which he stated that he would do all he could to co-operate with the city in making the spot a park. He was willing to waive anything and he would gladly give his consent. If possible, however he would like to have it called Safford Park.

Mr. Hull then read the heading on the subscription paper, which stated that the sums were given with the understanding that the city retain the lot and remove the old building, the lot to be laid out by a landscape gardener.

At this point Mayor Eugene R. Stone who was present said he desired to say that he was heartily in favor of the city retaining the lot for park purposes and believed that it should be done. He had talked with the City Solicitor about it and believed that it could be properly arranged.

Ex-Mayor Charles M. Bryant did not know just where he stood. As far as having an open space he was very much in favor of it. He was however, opposed to having it as a playground. Beale street was the main thoroughfare and was much travelled and there would be danger to small children. He believed the opportunity to have the spot reserved had now come. He had in mind having the old building removed and a branch library established on lot. He believed land back of the present school could be taken and there would be enough for two playgrounds, one for the older and the other for the smaller children. Then they would be out of the way and off of the street. If used as a playground there would be a confusion of authority between the School committee and Park commissioners. Of the original amount received from the sale of the park lot in Wollaston there was now something like $1,025 left. He believed that the city should retain the lot and devote that sum toward putting the lot in shape. Then if desired the citizens could with their funds erect a small one story brick building as a branch library.

The Chairman then asked all in favor of the matter as outlined in the petition to rise and nine stood up. He then asked all in favor of retaining the lot as a beauty spot, a public place, to stand and the vote was a unanimous one. The next call was for all in favor of having the lot kept as an open beauty spot with part as a playground leaving the details to later consideration to rise and 68 stood up.

Mrs. Stephen P. Moorehouse said that in Germany they had many of these small parks. There was no reason why the children could not have something to do with the planting of gardens and trees.

E. J. Cummings agreed with ex-Mayor Bryant that it was a most desirable location for a branch library. It would be possible to have a small playground for small children in the rear.

H. H. Albee thought that the interest from the fund derived from the sale of the old building should be devoted to the care of the lot.

Ex-Mayor Bryant said that the sum received from the sale of the old building would be but little. Let the city reserve the land and appropriate the remainder of the money received for the sale of the Third Hill land for the rough grading. Then the fund contributed could be used in beautifying the spot and he would be willing to contribute.

Ex-Councilman Walter S. Pinkham believed that Wollaston was entitled to what little there was left of the money received from the sale of the land on Third Hill. If the land on the school lot should be sold the city could only use the income which at 4 percent would not amount to much.

Ex-Senator Eugene Sprague closed the hearing by urging the committee to give Wollaston back part of the principal of what belonged to it. He however believed that the action that night be taken by the committee would be satisfactory to the citizens.

The hearing then closed and will be taken up by the committee later in executive session.

CARNEGIE TO AID ORGAN FUND

An important meeting of the congregation of the Water Street Presbyterian church will be held this evening to take action on the purchase of a pipe organ for the church. The church now has an organ but no pipe organ. The idea to secure a pipe organ has been stimulated by an offer of Andrew Carnegie which is that he will contribute the sum of $900 toward the new organ provided that the balance of the sum necessary is raised within one year from the date of the acceptance of his offer. The meeting tonight therefore is to take action on the acceptance of the offer, and to take the necessary steps toward raising the balance of the sum, in case the offer is accepted.

American-Jamaican Trade Extension.

With a possible "commercial exposition" in view, at which American manufactures might be displayed and thus brought to the attention of Jamaican tradespeople, Consul Snyder of Kingston began interviewing leading Kingston merchants and one in particular, a wholesale hardware dealer who, he believed, imported little, if any, hardware from the United States. Inquiry developed that his warehouse was stocked with thousands of dollars' worth of American goods, such as carpenter's tools, ready-mixed paints, whips, harness, and nails. He said that he has recently begun to import corrugated iron roofing and wire fencing also, and stated that while American imports are not increasing by "leaps and bounds," they are steadily driving both British and German manufacturers to greater efforts to maintain the trade they have hitherto enjoyed.

The same may be said of the larger dry goods houses, to which were submitted samples (with prices) of a child's jumper suit made in one of the New England States. Notwithstanding many of them maintain a buyer in London, they have placed large orders with this New England manufacturer. Continuing his investigations, he found sillar conditions existing among others of the leading merchants, and therefore concluded that a commercial exposition such as he had contemplated would not justify the expense it would entail.

If American manufacturers will (and some of them do) send out competent salesmen, their trade in the West Indies should develop greatly.

New Montreal Railroad Terminals.

The most important event in real-estate and railway circles, and one which strengthened speculation in real estate on Montreal Island more than anything else, was the completion of plans of the Canadian Northern Railway for large terminal facilities in both the suburbs and city. The company has bought 4,000 acres north and west of Mount Royal, reaching from the mountain to where the Riviere des Prairies leaves the Lake of Two Mountains to form the northern boundary of Montreal Island. Along this right of way will be built shops, factories, and suburban towns. Mount Royal will be pierced by a double-track tunnel 3.3 miles in length, which will come out on the south side of the mountain in the center of the city near the present Windsor station of the Canadian Pacific Railway. Here a passenger station will be built somewhat on the lines of the new Pennsylvania Railway Station in New York.

WORK DEFERRED ON PICTURE HOUSE

Work has been postponed on the proposed new building at Wollaston beach, for a moving picture theatre and bowling alleys, over which there has been much discussion by residents of Wollaston park.

It is understood that owing to delay in completing satisfactory arrangements and on account of the lateness of the season the project will be set over until next year.

In spite of adverse criticism from certain quarters it is a fact that the promoters are responsible men, long residents of Wollaston, and it is scarcely probable that they would inaugurate any proposition that would meet with disfavor in the community.

LAID AT REST.

The funeral of Joseph Coupal, of 178 Highland avenue, Wollaston, was held from his late home at 8.15 this morning. A high mass of requiem was celebrated at the Church of the Sacred Heart, Atlantic, by the pastor, Rev. John P. Cuffe. There was a large gathering of relatives and friends at the services and delegations were present from St. Jean Baptiste Society and the Quincy Lodge I. A. of M., of which the deceased was a member and the employees of the Tubular Rivet and Stud Company, where the late Mr. Coupal had been employed for twenty years.

The regular choir chanted the Gregorian music under the direction of Miss Louise Costello.

Solos were rendered by Miss Clara Duggan, who sang the "Pie Jesu" at the offertory and the "Libera" after the consecration. There was a profusion of floral tributes, conspicuous among which was a wreath of lilies from the employees of the Tubular Rivet, a wreath of roses from the local branch of Machinists and a standing cross of carnations from the members of St. Jean Baptiste Society.

Mr. Coupal was a resident of Wollaston for over fifteen years and was one of the most widely known and highly respected citizens of this city. He is survived by five sons and three daughters. Burial was in the family lot at Mt. Wollaston Cemetery.

UNPRINTABLE TESTIMONY

Offered at Government Inquiry Into Meat Inspection

WOMEN DEMANDED EVIDENCE

Investigation Resumed by Committee —Ex-Inspector Laddey Offered Evidence That Could Not Be Published —Women Listen to Revolting Conditions—Carcasses Passed by Superiors After Rejection

Washington, May 16.—The attack on the meat inspection service before the house committee on expeditures in the department of agriculture has been resumed.

Dr. J. V. Laddy, a former department inspector, charged that government inspectors at New York abattoirs were lax in enforcing sanitary regulations. He said that carcasses which he would have condemned were frequently passed by his superiors.

Some of Dr. Laddy's testimony as to practices in meat packing establishments in New York and Philadelphia was quite unprintable, but the recital did not diminish the size of the audience in the committee room.

In deference to women present, Dr. Laddy ventured to omit some portions of his statements, but one woman in the audience promptly directed him to proceed. At that the doctor did. He described revolting conditions.

Dr. Laddy testified that his letter of resignation from the meat inspection service, in which he criticised the operation of the law, was written at the suggestion of Dr. Houck, supervising inspector of abattoirs in New York. Dr. Laddy did not expect his resignation would be accepted.

The committee will meet today and probably decide if a congressional investigation of the meat inspection service shall be made.

WOMEN DELEGATES

Interesting Facts Concerning the California Presidential Primary

San Francisco, May 16.—With only the scattering rural vote to be heard from, the following facts are apparent as to the presidential preference primary in California.

Roosevelt has carried California by a plurality of about 70,000. Champ Clark has defeated Woodrow Wilson for the Democratic delegation by a vote that may approximate 3 to 1.

Robert M. La Follette has polled a total vote of approximately 40,000.

Taft loses San Francisco to Roosevelt by about 3000.

Taft has apparently been beaten in every county in California, with the possible exception of Tuolumne.

La Follette has carried San Diego and Taft has run a poor third in that county.

California's delegation of twenty-six members will go into the Republican national convention headed by Governor Johnson and instructed for Theodore Roosevelt for president.

The Democratic delegation from California will be headed by Theodore A. Bell, and will go to Baltimore instructed for Champ Clark.

The women voted in large numbers. In San Francisco it is estimated about 10,000 of them cast their votes. The women's vote in other portions of the state was in proportion to that cast in San Francisco.

For the first time in the history of American politics two women have been elected delegates to a national convention. Mrs. Florence C. Porter of Los Angeles and Mrs. Isabelle Blainey of San Jose, both prominent club women, have been elected on the Roosevelt ticket, and are the first women elected in the United States.

THIRTY DAY FAST HAS ENDED

Agostino Levanzin Remained Under Medical Observation

Boston, May 16.—Agostino Levanzin, a young Italian lawyer from the island of Malta, has broken the thirty-one-day fast which he has kept under scientific observation at the Carnegie institute nutrition laboratory in this city.

From April 13 until Tuesday Levanzin refrained from eating food of any sort. Water was the only thing which passed his lips. The first nourishment he took after his period of abstinence was in the form of small quantities of carbo-hydrates—starchy foods.

According to a prominent professor in Harvard medical school, who refused to let his name be made public, the subject finished the experiment in excellent health. There was a marked loss of weight, but no decrease of Levanzin's physical or mental powers.

During the fast Levanzin made no change in his mode of living. He walked about the city, took carriage rides and did a certain amount of reading, all of course under the scrutiny of Dr. Francis G. Benedict, director of the laboratory, and other scientists interested in the experiment.

The first three days of the fast Levansin complained of being hungry. After that time, he said he had lost any desire for food, and that he experienced a feeling of exhilaration. He said his brain was clearer and that he could think more rapidly and concisely.

LETTERS FROM ARCHBALD

They Connect Him With the Transfer of Coal Lands

Washington, May 16.—By letters bearing his own signature on commerce court stationery, Judge Robert W. Archbald of the commerce court was indicated as the principal in the deal for the Erie railroad's "Katy Did" coal property, in the impeachment investigation before the house judiciary committee.

Captain W. A. May, manager of the Erie's coal land, produced two letters he received last November and December from Judge Archbald. In one Archbald reported he had sold the culm pile to an electric railway company. In another, Archbald asked May to "keep confidential" the price for which the Erie agreed to sell its interest in the culm bank.

DANISH RULER FALLS DEAD

Passing Through Germany On Trip From Health Resort

FREDERICK DIED IN STREET

While Taking Evening Stroll Alone Falls In Street—Lay In Hamburg Sailors' Hospital Morgue For Hours —Most Popular of Reigning Sovereigns—Crown Prince Has Been Proclaimed Christian X. of Denmark

Hamburg, Ger., May 16.—The body of King Frederick VIII. of Denmark remained alone, unrecognized and unattended in the ward of a public hospital here late Tuesday night for several hours, following his death on the street due to apoplexy. The king, travelling incognito, arrived here Monday on his return from a long trip to the south, where he had been convalescing from a serious attack of inflammation of the lungs. With the queen and the royal suite he took quarters at the Hamburger Hof hotel. At 10 o'clock that night the king left the hotel unaccompanied for his usual stroll before retiring.

The king was regarded by his physicians as completely restored to health by his trip to the south.

Dressed in an ordinary business suit his body, unidentified, lay on the slab with several other bodies in a harbor front hospital morgue until found at 3 o'clock in the morning by the anxious searchers for the king.

The death of King Frederick VIII removes a monarch who might almost be termed head of the royal house of Europe. He was the brother of Dowager Queen Alexander of England, the Dowager Empress of Russia, and King George of the Hellenes, and was the father of King Haakon of Norway.

Another sister of Frederick is the Duchess of Cumberland. Prince Waldemar is a brother.

Frederick VIII. succeeded to the throne of Denmark in 1906 on the death of his father, King Christian IX.

Frederick was born in 1843 and in 1869 married the Princess Louise of Sweden. They had three daughters and four sons. The eldest son is the Crown Prince Christian, who married Princess Alexandrina of Mecklenburg-Schwerin. The second son, Prince Charles, was elected King of Norway in 1905, under the title of Haakon VII. Haakon's consort was the third daughter of King Edward VII. of England, father of George V. Frederick's eldest daughter married Prince Charles of Sweden.

King Frederick, notwithstanding his place among the soverigns of Europe, was one of the most popular rulers who ever held sway in any country. It was as the "soldlier prince" that he became endeared to the Danish people, who held him in high regard for his democratic ways, as well as his high character. He is said to have been the only crown prince, who in modern times at least, served as a private in the ranks. Consistently he refused to be treated otherwise than the others in the same rank.

Frederick VIII. was a great friend and admirer of the United States. He read daily the American newspapers and was a close student of American literature. He was always glad to greet American visitors at the palace.

Copenhagen, May 16.—Prince Christian was formally proclaimed King Christian X. of Denmark, following the sudden death of his father, King Frederick VIII.

An extraordinary meeting of the council of ministers was called and orders were issued for an extraordinary session of parliament.

The new King of Denmark is 42 years old. In 1898 he married Princess Alexandrine of Mecklenberg. He is a brother-in-law of the Crown Prince of Germany.

"Why have they lowered the flags to half staff?" asked Prince Christian of Denmark, returning from an early morning ride.

"Your royal highness," replied the breathless courier, who had ridden madly to meet him, "the king is dead.

"Long live the king," he added respectfully, as the shock showed plainly in the face of the new monarch.

This was the manner in which King Christian was notified the throne had descended to him. It was his first intimation his father was dead. Christian nearly collapsed and, after rushing to the palace was overcome with grief.

Lousville, May 16.—The advance guard of the 124th general assembly of the Presbyterian church in the United States of America, has reached Louisville 1200 strong. Sessions of the assembly which will continue throughout the month, will begin today.

Olympic Finally Sails

Southampton, Eng., May 16.—The White Star liner Olympic has sailed for New York. Many of the crew who struck in consequence of the alleged inefficiency of the lifeboats rejoined.

The KITCHEN CUPBOARD

MAKING TIMBALES.

TO make timbales you must have a timbale mold or iron. This is dipped into batter and is then held in hot fat until the coat of batter is cooked. Then this crust is slipped off the iron and another timbale case is cooked in the same way.

The timbale irons are heart shaped, star shaped, round, square or oval.

For the Batter.

The following recipe for timbale batter has been tried with success. Take three-quarters of a cupful of flour and mix with a teaspoonful of sugar and half a teaspoonful of salt. Add to it half a cupful of milk, a well beaten egg, a tablespoonful of melted butter or olive oil and whip until it all is blended.

This batter should be placed in a cup or bowl into which the timbale iron may be dipped so that the outside of the mold will be covered with the preparation.

Timbale Cases.

Put a kettle of fat on the fire. It should get as hot as is required for baking doughnuts. Dip the timbale iron into the fat and let the mold heat. Then dip into the batter and lift it out again. A film of the batter will cling to the iron. Submerge this in the pan of fat, and when it is cooked lift it and set on a folded napkin or absorbent paper to drain. Then proceed to cook more timbale cases in the same way.

Creamed mushrooms, chicken, veal, oysters or fish may be served in the cases.

A Rich Combination.

Mutton Timbales.—Take a half pound of finely minced cold mutton, a tea spoonful of chopped parsley, a table spoonful of breadcrumbs, a dessert spoonful of chopped mushrooms, one egg, a gill of stock, a little pepper and salt. Mix all the ingredients and steam for twenty minutes. If canned mushrooms are used for this recipe they should be cooked in butter for a few minutes. Buttered timbale cases should be filled with the mixture set on a silver dish to serve and covered with a good, thick gravy with fried mushrooms in it.

Daintily Served.

Chicken Timbales.—Cook together till a paste is formed half a cupful of stale breadcrumbs and half a cupful of milk. Add two ounces of butter, the stiffly beaten white of one egg, salt to taste, a few grains only of cayenne, and a pinch of ground nutmeg. Add to this two-thirds of a cupful of raw chicken breast, which has been beaten to a paste in a mortar and forced through a fine strainer.

Fill the timbale cases with this and garnish with mushrooms cut in fancy shapes.

CLEON AND I.

CLEON hath four limousines;
Ne'er a one have I.
Cleon fares to foreign scenes;
Here at home stay I.
Cleon lives where servants hurry
And the walls are high.
Cleon oft has cause to worry.
So, alas, have I!

Twenty suits of clothes has he;
Only one have I.
He makes money easily;
By hard working I.
In his glass the old wine bubbles.
Cleon likes it "dry."
Cleon frequently has troubles.
Ah, well, so do I!

Cleon is a millionaire;
I work, wet or dry.
Cleon's losing all his hair;
Little hair have I.
Cleon oft has indigestion.
So, indeed, have I.
"What's the difference?" you question.
This is my reply:

Cleon's daughter has eloped,
And his son flies high.
Hopes that Cleon fondly hoped
Have been doomed to die.
Cleon sits alone at night,
In his breast a sigh;
My kids stay at home and fight—
Six of them have I.

IT MUST BE TRUE

Quincy Readers Must Come to That Conclusion.

It is not the telling of a single case in Quincy, but scores of citizens testify. Endorsement by people you know bears the stamp of truth. The following is one of the public statements made in this locality about Doan's Kidney Pills.

Charles J. Somers, barber, 17 Newcomb street, Quincy, Mass., says: "It is a pleasure for me to tell of my experience with Doan's Kidney Pills, for the benefit of other kidney sufferers. This remedy worked wonders in my case. Lame back and weak kidneys bothered me for ten years and nothing helped me until I procured Doan's Kidney Pills. The promptness with which this remedy cured me was astonishing. My strength and energy was restored and my health improved one hundred percent. I shall always endorse Doan's Kidney Pills when I have the opportunity." (Statement given September 2, 1908.)

A LATER ENDORSEMENT.

On August 9, 1911 Mr. Somers was interviewed and he said: "I am only too pleased to verify my former endorsement of Doan's Kidney Pills. I still take this remedy occasionally and it keeps me in good health."

TAFT'S OUTLOOK DUBIOUS

Friends Believe He Cannot Win Even If He Secures Nomination

Washington, May 16.—While the Taft managers have not counted California among their assets, it would not be showing ordinary political judgment for them or anyone else to try to discount the sentimental effect of the Roosevelt sweep in the Golden state. In his formal statement Senator Dixon points out that in the nine Republican states which have voted under the presidential preference primary laws, the president has won only thirty delegates out of the 214 elected. The California primaries do not settle anything as far as the relative paper strength of Roosevelt and Taft is concerned, for it is true that President Taft has now about 500 delegates whom his managers could confidently count on if things were going the president's way, and needs only about forty more to give him the nomination. Nevertheless, the temper of voting Republicans has been plainly indicated in the great Republican states and it points unmistakably to the political weakness of the president as a candidate for re-election. The prejudice against the president may be unjust, as it is, and the popularity of Roosevelt won by methods to which no other human being would resort.

This condition rather than the actual showing of the tables is what prompts the prophecy of many Taft Republicans that Roosevelt finally will win at Chicago.

The New Way
The Old Way

The new way to cook is to turn on a little switch, apply a match and get a strong, hot, blue flame of gas that will cook anything for you. No fuss or bother, no coal or wood to carry, no overheated kitchen, no dirt--and the meal always on time. But with the old coal or wood stove—well, we hate to tell you. There is no comparison.

The Wreck of the Titan

By Morgan Robertson

Copyright, 1898, by M. F. Mansfield. Copyright, 1912, by Morgan Robertson. All rights reserved.

SYNOPSIS

The great steamer Titan, supposed to be unsinkable, starts across the Atlantic. Rowland, once a lieutenant, now a common sailor, meets his old love Myra. She is with her husband and child.

The Titan cuts a ship in two, and her captain endeavors to conceal the crime. Rowland objects. The captain gives him whisky, so that he will be discredited. Myra accuses him of attempting to murder her child.

The steam call to the boatswain is so common a sound on a steamship as to generally pass unnoticed. This call affected another besides the boatswain. A little nightgowned figure arose from an underberth in a saloon stateroom and, with wide open, staring eyes, groped its way to the deck unobserved by the watchman. The white, bare little feet felt no cold as they pattered the planks of the deserted promenade, and the little figure had reached the steerage entrance by the time the captain and boatswain had reached the bridge.

"And they talk," went on Rowland as the three watched and listened, "of the wonderful love and care of a merciful God, who controls all things, who has given me my defects and my capacity for loving and then placed Myra Gaunt in my way. Is there mercy to me in this? As part of a great evolutionary principle, which develops the race life at the expense of the individual, it might be consistent with the idea of a God—a first cause. But does the individual who perishes, because unfitted to survive, owe any love or gratitude to this God? He does not! On the supposition that he exists, I deny it! And on the complete lack of evidence that he does exist, I affirm to myself the integrity of cause and effect, which is enough to explain the universe and me. A merciful God—a kind, loving, just and merciful God"— He burst into a fit of incongruous laughter, which stopped short as he clapped his hands to his stomach and then to his head. "What ails me?" he gasped. "I feel as though I had swallowed hot coals—and my head—and my eyes—I can't see." The pain left him in a moment, and the laughter returned. "What's wrong with the starboard anchor? It's moving. It's changing. It's a—what? What on earth is it? On end—and the windlass—and the spare anchors—and the davits—all alive—all moving."

The sight he saw would have been horrid to a healthy mind, but it only moved this man to increased and uncontrollable merriment. The two rails below leading to the stem had arisen before him in a shadowy triangle, and within it were the deck fittings he had mentioned. The windlass had become a thing of horror, black and forbidding. The two end barrels were the bulging, lightless eyes of a nondescript monster, for which the cable chains had multiplied themselves into innumerable legs and tentacles. And this thing was crawling around within the triangle. The anchor davits were many headed serpents which danced on their tails, and the anchors themselves writhed and squirmed in the shape of immense hairy caterpillars, while faces appeared on the two white lantern towers, grinning and leering at him. With his hands on the bridge rail and tears streaming down his face, he laughed at the strange sight, but did not speak, and the three, who had quietly approached, drew back to await, while below on the promenade deck the little white figure, as though attracted by his laughter, turned into the stairway leading to the upper deck.

The phantasmagoria faded to a blank wall of gray fog, and Rowland found sanity to mutter, "They've drugged me," but in an instant he stood in the darkness of a garden, one that he had known. In the distance were the lights of a house, and close to him was a young girl, who turned from him and fled, even as he called to her.

By a supreme effort of will he brought himself back to the present, to the bridge he stood upon and to his duty. "Why must it haunt me through the years," he groaned, "drunk then, drunk since? She could have saved me, but she chose to damn me." He strove to pace up and down, but staggered and clung to the rail, while the three watchers approached again, and the little white figure below climbed the upper bridge steps.

"The survival of the fittest," he rambled as he stared into the fog—"cause and effect. It explains the universe—and me." He lifted his hand and spoke loudly, as though to some unseen familiar of the deep. "What will be the last effect? Where in the scheme of ultimate balance, under the law of the correlation of energy, will my wasted wealth of love be gathered and weighed and credited? What will balance it, and where will I be? Myra, Myra," he called, "do you know what you have lost? Do you know, in your goodness and purity and truth, of what you have done? Do you know"—

The fabric on which he stood was gone, and he seemed to be poised on nothing in a worldless universe of gray—alone. And in the vast, limitless emptiness there was no sound or life or change and in his heart neither fear nor wonder nor emotion of any kind save one, the unspeakable hunger of a love that had failed. Yet it seemed that he was not John Rowland, but some one or something else, for presently he saw himself far away, millions of billions of miles, as though on the outermost fringes of the void, and heard his own voice calling. Faintly, yet distinctly, filled with the concentrated despair of his life, came the call, "Myra, Myra!"

There was an answering call, and, looking for the second voice, he beheld her—the woman of his love—on the opposite edge of space, and her eyes held the tenderness and her voice held the pleading that he had known but in dreams. "Come back!" she called. "Come back to me!" But it seemed that the two could not understand, for again he heard the despairing cry, "Myra, Myra, where are you?" and again the answer: "Come back! Come."

Then in the far distance to the right appeared a faint point of flame, which grew larger. It was approaching, and he dispassionately viewed it, and when he looked again for the two they were gone, and in their places were two clouds of nebula, which resolved into myriad points of sparkling light and color—whirling, encroaching, until they filled all space. And through them the larger light was coming—and growing larger—straight for him.

He heard a rushing sound and, looking for it, saw in the opposite direction a formless object as much darker than the gray of the void as the flame was brighter, and it, too, was growing larger and coming. And it seemed to him that this light and darkness were the good and evil of his life, and he watched to see which would reach him first, but felt no surprise or regret when he saw that the darkness was nearest. It came closer and closer until it brushed him on the side.

"What have we here, Rowland?" said a voice. Instantly the whirling points were blotted out, the universe of gray changed to the fog, the flame of light to the moon rising above it and the shapeless darkness to the form of the first officer. The little white figure, which had just darted past the three watchers, stood at his feet. As though warned by an inner subconsciousness of danger, it had come in its sleep for safety and care to its mother's old lover—the strong and the weak, the degraded and disgraced, but exalted; the persecuted, drugged and all but helpless John Rowland.

With the readiness with which a man who dozes while standing will answer the question that wakens him he said, though he stammered from the now waning effect of the drug, "Myra's child, sir; it's asleep." He picked up the nightgowned little girl, who screamed as she wakened, and folded his peajacket around the cold little body.

"Who is Myra?" asked the officer in a bullying tone, in which were also chagrin and disappointment. "You've been asleep yourself."

Before Rowland could reply a shout from the crow's nest split the air.

"Ice!" yelled the lookout. "Ice ahead! Iceberg! Right under the bows!" The first officer ran amidships, and the captain, who had remained there, sprang to the engine room telegraph, and this time the lever was turned. But in five seconds the bow of the Titan began to lift, and ahead and on either hand could be seen through the fog a field of ice, which arose in an incline to a hundred feet high in her track. The music in the theater ceased, and among the babel of shouts and cries and the deafening noise of steel scraping and crashing over ice Rowland heard the agonized voice of a woman crying from the bridge steps: "Myra, Myra, where are you? Come back."

DAUGHTERS CLOSE THEIR CONVENTION

A Memorial Scholarship to Founder Was Considered

Boston, May 16.—The proposal of Mrs. Nelson V. Titus of Quincy at the annual meeting of the Daughters of the American Revolution at the Vendome that the society set aside a fund to be used to create a memorial to the founder of the society, Mrs. Flora Adams Darling, caused considerable discussion.

The question was referred to a committee to report to the board of managers.

The following officers were chosen: President general, Mrs. Clara R. Bleakley, New York society; recording secretary general, Mrs. Florence S. Henry, Long Island society; corresponding secretary general, Mrs. Alma F. Goss, Massachusetts society; treasurer general, Mrs. Ida H. Whiting, Long Island society.

On Safe Ground.

Whenever on one of his rare holidays Captain Goldby went to the city he took some young relative with him as a special treat. On one such occasion he told his seventeen-year-old grandson, whom he had with him, that they would "dine at a real rest'rant and get a taste of fancy cooking."

When they were at last seated in the great dining room the grandson waited impatiently while the captain read the bill of fare completely through without omitting a single article, whether domestic or foreign in title. At last he sighed and handed the card across the table to the boy.

"You choose what you like, sonny," he said, with a sigh. "As for me, I reckon as I've already eat more herrin' than any other man livin' I might as well stow away a little more. It's al'ays agreed with me so far."—Youth's Companion.

A man is hated sometimes for pride when it was an excess of humility gave the occasion.

SCHOOL BASEBALL CONTESTS CLOSE

Lincoln Boys Holding Down Lid on First Place

WOLLASTON RUNNER UP

Many changes in the standing of the teams that comprise the Grammar school base ball league have taken place during the past week, and it now looks as if the struggle for first place is to be most keen and interesting. Never before this season have the teams been so closely bunched and since the spirit of enthusiasm among the leaders is waxing at the warmest degree, some of the best games ever furnished by grammar school teams in this city are bound to be in order before the schedule closes.

The Wollaston nine, which have been leading by a substantial margin all along, received its first set back of the season at Merrymount park, Wednesday afternoon being handed a 3 to 2 defeat by the Gridley Bryant team, has now been forced to second position in the struggle for the supremacy.

A 2 to 1 victory by the Lincoln over the strong Adams team on the same day, placed the former in first position and incidentally made the race for the trophy closer than ever.

It was at first thought that the Gridley Bryant and Wollaston schools would contest for the honors at stake but the two defeats of the former this week had a tendency to place it out of the running. Considerable improvement was noticeable in the game with Wollaston, and it now looks as if the Gridley Bryant team will have to be reckoned with before the end of the season.

The work of the Lincoln boys has been a matter of surprise to even its warmest supporters. Their work has been consistent and it now looks as though they had a cinch on first place.

There are a number of postponed games to be played which may affect the standing of the teams, considerably, but the schedule has been arranged in such a way that the best teams are crosing bats with each other at this time, thus assuring the finest kind of contests from now on.

The cellar position is occupied by the Atherton Hough team which has annexed but one victory, 4 to 2, over the Cranch school, and lost on eight occasions. The Coddington and Mass. Fields schools also have but one victory apiece to their credit, but have played less games than Atherton. The Washington and Willard teams are tied for fourth place, each having won four games and lost three. The standing of the teams to date is as follows:

	Won	Lost	Percent
Lincoln	7	1	.875
Wollaston	6	1	.852
Gridley Bryant	6	2	.750
Adams	4	2	.666
Washington	4	3	.568
Willard	4	3	.568
Quincy	3	3	.500
Hancock	3	4	.426
Cranch	2	5	.284
Coddington	1	4	.200
Mass. Fields	1	6	.142
Atherton Hough	1	8	.111

In one of the best games of the season, Lincoln school triumphed over the Adams nine at the Ward Three playgrounds Thursday afternoon, by a score being 2 to 1. The game was largely attended and the rivalry that existed between the two teams made it close and interesting from start to finish.

The Adams' boys were particularly desirous of lowering the colors of the Lincoln players, in order to puncture their championship aspirations but the Lincoln's although outbatted managed to get a run at a most critical stage in the fifth inning and thus place the game on ice.

The contest resolved itself into a pitcher's battle, between Swain and McIntyre, the honors being about even. It was the seventh victory of the season for the Lincoln boys, who are now firmly established in the leading position of the league.

The score by innings:—

	1	2	3	4	5	6	R	H	E
Lincoln	0	1	0	0	1	0	2	3	4
Adams	0	1	0	0	0	0	1	4	4

Batteries— McIntyre and Tite; Swain and Byron.

The Wollaston Grammar school nine suffered its first defeat of the season Thursday afternoon at Merrymount park, where the members of the Gridley Bryant contingent were victorious by the close score of 3 to 2. The winners had already lost two games this week and the Wollaston players expected to experience little difficulty in taking their measure. But things were decidedly contrary to the expectations of the leaders.

Carroll was placed on the mound for the winners, in place of Quinn, who covered second, and he acquitted himself in a creditable manner. He was very effective at all stages and only two hits were registered off his delivery.

Isbister pitched his usual brilliant game for the Wollaston team but the support accorded him did not measure up to the standard. Hits with men on bases, enabled the Wollaston boys to tally a run in the second inning and another in the fifth.

Gridley Bryant got a run in the second on an error, while a hit, aided by errors, allowed the same team to bring two runs across in the fifth. The twirling of both pitchers featured the game:

The score by innings:

	1	2	3	4	5	6	R	H	E
Gridley Bryant	0	1	0	0	1		3	1	2
Wollaston	0	0	1	0	2	0	2	2	3

Batteries—Carroll and Saville; Isbister and Hamlin.

SILVER CUP FOR BOY PLAYERS

W. H. Bentley Generous Donor to Grammar League

NOW ON EXHIBITION

The silver loving cup, to be awarded the winning team of the Grammar School Base Ball league, at the close of the season, has been donated by Walter H. Bentley, former principal of the Coddington school. The cup is rather large in size and bears the inscription "Grammar School League Championship, 1912." Beneath this there is space enough to contain the names of the players of the winning team.

Mr. Bentley while at the Coddington school was a great baseball enthusiast and worked tirelessly to make the league a success, especially during the first season. He has always taken an active interest in boys' work and now conducts a boys' camp at Lake Winnepesaukee. The cup is on exhibition in the window of Sandberg Brothers' jewelry store in City Square.

QUINCY PLAYERS INVADE ARCADIA

Patrick Duggan, James Fay, Edward Hoyt, William Fitzgerald and Stanley Bates, all well-known local base ball players, left Tuesday evening for Fredericton, N. B., where they will play with the league base ball team of that town. Duggan is to act in the capacity of manager, and his work of last season was of such a high order that the team gives promise of proving one of the best within the confines of Nova Scotia. He will cover the left outer garden. His work with local teams has been such at all times as to need no further commendation. Last year he played with the Lowell team of the New England league and his hitting was a feature of every game in which he participated.

Fitzgerald, conceded to be the best catcher in the Old Colony league, will be behind the bat, while "Stan" Bates of Makaria fame, son of the invincible "Gus," president of the Quincy City league, will be on the firing line. Hoyt will try to cover the second sack in the same manner as characterized his playing while a member of the Atlantic "champs," and Fay will take care of his usual berth at short.

"Charlie" Knight, the former Adams star, and Quincy pitcher, is at Brownsville, N. B., and a number of other local players are considering flattering offers that have been made to them by base ball managers in different parts of Nova Scotia.

VENICE THE CITY RISING FROM SEA

The Quincy Women's Riverside Club had a delightful time Wednesday afternoon at the club house, and thoroughly enjoyed Miss Edith Randall's lecture upon "Venice, the city in the sea."

It is needless to say that the members appreciative of the treat in store for them took pains to hurry through the routine business of the day, and this was a regular meeting afternoon, and settle down to a complete enjoyment of music and literature.

The opening feature of the afternoon's program was a piano solo by Mrs. Hodgkin's, which was most pleasingly rendered and deserving the applauding recognition it received.

When Miss Randall entered upon the scene and gave her lecture, she told in a very pleasing and understandable manner the many places she had visited while in Europe.

Of course Venice, the city of the Doge's built upon the numerous little islands, with the streets, water ways and the conveyances, gondolas, was the great attraction. Miss Randall told of the beautiful buildings, of the Grand Canal, the Fifth avenue of Venice, the plaza or promenade ground of this peculiarly situated city. Her descriptions of the many gondolas flitting around and managed by the "one little queer man," and guided by one oar were quite amuing. Miss Randall talked for an hour, which passed too rapidly and all felt sorry when she stopped and showed their appreciation by a hearty applause. After the lecture, punch and light refreshments were served by the hostess of the afternoon, Mrs. Carolyn B. Mellen the president of the Club, assisted by three of the members, Mrs. Hodgkinson, Mrs. Dinnie and Mrs. Marnock. Beside the members were several invited guests.

GOV FOSS SIGNED BILL.

The bill passed by the legislature placing the Chief of the Fire Department in the City of Quincy under the civil service rules was signed by Gov. Foss Wednesday and has now become a law. Before it can go into force, however it must be accepted by the city by a referendum vote. The question of the acceptance of the act will be submitted to the voters at the municipal election next December.

WHEN COAL WAS FORMED.

Curious Condition the Earth Was In at That Period.

What is said to be the strangest period through which this earth has passed is the one that was responsible for the formation of coal. The planet is described as being at that time flat and smooth as to surface and peculiar as to vegetation. The continents were just beginning to rise above the ocean, and the land had not yet become dry. Mountain ranges had not arisen from the swamps, and the atmosphere was thick with fog. In this state of affairs there sprouted and flourished the plants which were later to furnish the world with its coal supply.

These plants grew as big as our largest trees, taking deep root in the morass and flourishing like the lush grasses in moist meadow land, developed into the strange shapes now found in tropic vegetation. The forests looked, scientists state, like dense growths of weeds, rushes and enormous ferns. Some of them grew in the shape of cacti, having spines all over them This kind of vegetation was very rich in carbon, which it derived from the warm, moist atmosphere. Then the millions of years rolled by, the forests of giant weeds were buried by deposits of earthly material, and the chemical change took place which slowly changed them into coal. This process stopped with the carboniferous age, so that when the present supply of coal is dug out of the ground there will be no more.—New York Sun.

A TOMB IN TOKYO.

Luck In Chips From the Headstone Over a Famous Thief.

Behind the temple sacred to the nameless dead and close to the wrestling amphitheater in Tokyo there is to be found the grave of the celebrated robber Nezumi Kozo, who stole from the daimios long ago in the old Yeddo days that he might relieve the sufferings of the poor.

There is a superstition connected with this grave which has made it a much frequented spot. If a portion of the headstone is carried away it acts as a lucky talisman, particularly to those who speculate or are otherwise engaged in games of chance. It is usual for a person breaking a piece from the stone to make a vow that in case he is successful he will buy a new headstone to replace the one he has mutilated. Many prayers must have been answered, for the stones are piled high on either side of the grave, and an enterprising individual near by has the stones already for sale and only waiting the name of the donor to be engraved and then set up.

A shelter has been placed over the spot, and from the roof hang gray lanterns and pilgrims' banners. A large money box catches all the stray sen which go for the upkeeping of the grave. Gamblers and geisha are often visitors. Students before their examinations feel more assured of success if they have a chip of Nezumi Kozo's headstone in the sleeve of their kimono.—Argonaut.

LIVELY TENNIS SEASON.

Preparations are being made for two tournaments to be played at the courts of the Wollaston Tennis club in the near future.

On May 30th, the annual club doubles will take place and on June 17th the club will open its courts for the Norfolk County doubles tournament.

For this event the club has donated silver trophies to the National Lawn Tennis Association to be awarded the winners. The preliminary matches will be played off on June 15th, the Saturday preceding.

Many improvements to the courts have been made this year and it is expected that all six courts will be in use in a day or two. A telephone has been installed at the club house for the convenience of members and the prospects for a good season are unusually bright.

A RUSSIAN ROYAL TRAGEDY.

Czar Boris and the "Bell With the Ear Torn Off."

The kamaoulie koloko, or "bell with the ear torn off," had a most romantic history. In the sixteenth century Prince Dimitri, the rightful heir to the Russian throne, was deposed by a revolt led by Boris Godunoff, who was afterward proclaimed czar. The seat of government was then at Uglich, and thither Dimitri was sent in order that he might remain under the direct observation of the usurper.

Boris, fearing the populace might awake to the justice of the claims of the young prince, planned the assassination of Dimitri. He was one day stabbed in a courtyard. None of the bystanders showed any disposition to aid him. A priest, however, from the cathedral belfry saw the crime and immediately began tolling the great bell, which was held sacred and rung only on unusual occasions, such as a coronation or the death of a czar.

Furious at this tacit expression of reproach, the czar commanded that the priest should be tortured and executed and that the bell should be taken down and placed beside the body of its ringer. This order was fulfilled, and the bell was beaten with clubs by the entire populace. the Czar Boris being at their head.

The czar then decreed that the bell should be exiled to Tobolsk and that one of its hangers be removed to indicate its disgrace.—Harper's Weekly.

Mr. Chandler Looks to See the Proper Kind Installed in the Public Schools

Churches Turning the Films to Account in Studying the Bible

"Children and the Theatre; a Study of the Cheap Show," was the subject of a most interesting and instructive discourse delivered Thursday evening by Edward H. Chandler, secretary of the Twentieth Century club, at the meeting of the Parents' and Teachers' Association of the Cranch school, held in the school hall. The meeting was one of the best ever held by the association and was attended by over two hundred members. Previous to the talk by Mr. Chandler, a business meeting was held, during which the reports of the various officers and committees of the past year were read and approved and officers for the ensuing year elected.

The report of Mrs. Albert M. Parker, secretary, gave a detailed account of the meetings of the past year and the progress that the association has met with in its many endeavors. Mrs. Andrew Deane reported for the Philanthropic committee and gave an extensive account of all the workings that had come under its scope. The following were elected officers of the association for the coming school year.

President—Clarence Burgin.
Vice President—Henry Holden.
Secretary—Miss Helen Burke.,
Executive committee— Councilman Charles A. Ericson, Mrs. William Genness, and Mrs. Albert M. Parker.

Mr. Chandler was introduced at the close of the business session and proceeded to discuss at length the relative merits of the moving picture enterprises, giving the history and development of the same. In the course of his remarks, he dwelt with the influence moving pictures have as an aid to educational development and also told of the detriment they worked under certain conditions. Mr. Chandler stated that moving pictures had been a great asset in enabling people to understand things in a better manner and added that moving pictures now play an important part in all branches of education. The speaker said that moving pictures, as a means of study, have been introduced into the leading colleges, and churches of the world, and predicted that in ten years every school in this country would be equipped with a moving picture device in order that certain studies might be brought more forcibly to mind.

The speaker cited the case of New Jersey, where moving pictures are to be found in twenty-six churches, used principally as aids to the study of the bible. He told of one concern that has just sent over two hundred persons to Palestine in the role of actors and actresses, to obtain pictures that will be used in a circuit of churches, thus affording the parishioners of those churches the opportunity to view things as it was possible for them to have happened. The benefits to be

GALA OCCASION FOR YACHTSMEN

Quincy Club Fleet Started on Its First Land Cruise

WHITCHER A WONDER

The opening smoker of the Quincy Yacht club, the event on the social calendar which marks the opening of the yachting season, as well as the event that is always looked forward to with pleasure by the club members, was held Thursday evening at the club house, Houghs Neck. The weather was wet and nasty, yet that did not prevent a large attendance of the yachtsmen and their friends. The entertainment this year was somewhat different from other years, when a vaudeville entertainment has been the chief feature and the change was one that was especially pleasing to all.

On the program first of all was the Quincy trio, whose selections on the mandolins and guitar were thoroughly enjoyable. Then there was Charles H. Johnson who gave his lecture on historic Quincy, past and present. Last but not least there was W. Ward Whitcher, an entertainer whom it is always pleasing to hear.

The program opened with a few remarks of welcome by Commodore Ira M. Whittemore, who said that he was pleased to see so many present on so bad a night. It was evidence of the interest the members took in the club. The opening smoker means a lot of good times to come in the near future. That the Rocking Chair fleet will soon rendezvous, not meaning anything detrimental, for they are a necessity. We are constantly adding facilities for the comfort of the members and if the members will get out and hustle we can easily add fifty members, which means more pleasant things.

In the mean time cigars had been passed around, and Mr. Johnson was introduced. He stated in opening that he would give his lecture in three parts. He had given it many times during the past few years and that Quincy was unique in having so much that was rich in history. He showed upwards of two hundred views, the most of which were familiar to all, yet extremely interesting. Many of the buildings shown have now disappeared to make room for the march of pro-

MEN'S CLUB HAD VERY GOOD YEAR

Wollaston Organization Enjoyed Period of Great Success

ALL THE BILLS PAID

At the annual meeting of the Men's club of the Wollaston Methodist church held in the vestry on Thursday evening Eric H. Ewertz was re-elected as president.

The board of officers as elected was as follows:

President—Eric H. Ewertz.
Vice President—J. A. Sedgwick.
Secretary—S. N. Belcher.
Treasurer—H. B. L. Dimmick.
Executive Committee—A. N. Murray, Wesley Rhodes, F. A. Sutermeister, F. G. Bennett and Arthur O'Connell. Wesley Rhodes was elected editor of the Wollaston Herald, the club organ.

The meeting opened with the president Eric H. Ewertz in the chair and the reports of the secretary and treasurer were read. They showed a prosperous year with all bills paid.

President Ewertz gave an address in which he spoke of the work of the year and reviewed the work of each committee. He mentioned the increased membership and recalled the number of good speakers with which the club had been favored in the season just past. The success of the club had been due to the faithful work of the committees and other officers and the hearty co-operation of all the members. He deeply appreciated the efforts that had been put forth.

A bright and witty number of the Wollaston Herald was read by J. A. Sedgwick the editor which was full of the usual hits and pleasant take-offs.

The list of nominations was reported by A. B. Cassidy chairman of the nominating committee and following their election a social hour was enjoyed.

Refreshments were served by a committee consisting of F. A. Sutermeister, T. Newell Lane and Arthur O'Connell. This closes the meetings for the season.

MUSIC LEADING ATTRACTION.

There was a large attendance at the annual entertainment held Thursday evening in the Swedish Methodist church, under the auspices of the Ladies' Aid society. A fine musical program was in order and a most successful affair was brought to a close by the serving of refreshments.

There were selections by a chorus of female voices, under the direction of Miss Emma Witting. In addition the men's choir, under direction of John Herbert, rendered a few selections, which were received in a most appreciative manner. A sextet, composed of Mrs. Selma Johnson, Mrs. Hannah Edgren, Miss Edith Olson, Miss Olga Olson, Miss Olga Peterson, and Miss Emma Witting favored those present with a few songs that kept them before the audience for a considerable length of time. A duet by Miss Mary Witting and Fritz Swansen also proved a decided hit and the couple were forced to respond to repeated encores.

The committee in charge comprised Mrs. Charles E. Keedstrom, Mrs. Adolph Linberg, Mrs. James M. Wegrin and Mrs. Carl Anderson.

CHURCH PEOPLE WANT ORGAN

Will Work to Raise Sum Equal to Carnegie's $900

COMMITTEES AT WORK

There was a very large attendance of the congregation of the Water street Presbyterian church Thursday evening when the question of acceptance of the offer of Andrew Carnegie to contribute the sum of $900 toward a pipe organ for the church came up for consideration. Councilman Charles A. Ross presided and the sentiment was unanimous to accept the offer. Under the conditibns the congregation must raise a like sum within a year, but so enthusiastic are the members that it is believed that the necessary sum will be raised in a much less time.

After voting to accept the offer it was voted to appoint a committee of two members from each of the church societies, that is the Y. P. S. C. E., the Ladies' Aid society, Trustees, Elders and Finance committee, to raise the funds. These committees have not been appointed as yet, but will be within a few days and then the hustle will commence. Everybody is enthusiastic over the new organ and will work hard to obtain the desired amount.

It is believed that so enthusiastic are the parishioners that the necessary sum will be raised so that the new $1,800 organ can be placed in position the coming fall.

WOMAN'S CLUB PARTY.

The dance of the Women's Riverside club at Alpha hall tonight promises to be a great social event. The affair is under the direction of an efficient committee of which Mrs. Eugene R. Stone is the chairman. It was stated that the wife of His Honor was the President of the club. Mayor Stone, however, desires the Ledger to state that she is not the club's president but simply chairman of the committee in charge.

EARLY ADJOURNMENT.

The Legislature is going full speed ahead for prorogation by June 1. Thursday the House adopted an order providing that th session should begin at 10.30 o'clock on Tuesday, Wednesdays, Thursdays, and Fridays, a half-hour earlier than previously.

In the Senate Senator Lomasney said he understood the presiding officers of the two branches had got their heads together in an effort to get out by May 29, and that he would be very glad to be through before June 1.

SQUANTUM BOYS OPENING NIGHT

Real and Piazza Water Dodgers Make Merry

GOOD TIME ALL ROUND

The Squantum Yacht club observed its "opening night" for the summer season with a smoker and entertainment at the club house on Thursday evening. Several hundred members and guests enjoyed the program provided by "Chick" Fox, the comedian and his company of entertainers.

Among the invited guests were Commodore Bean of the Wollaston Yacht club, Commodore Thompson B. Crane of the Town River Yacht club, John J. Harland of the Inter-club Yacht Racing association and Representative William J. Leslie.

Commodore Eleazer F. Drew welcomed those present in a most cordial manner and introduced as the first speaker Commodore Bean.

Mr. Bean referred to the two clubs, Squantum and Wollaston, as twins, which, although one had developed a little more than the other he hoped they would grow and eventually become one. The outlook for a prosperous season is good if the rain will only stop. At present in the slang lingo, the yachting season is "on the blink."

He extended the kindliest greetings to the Spuantum club for a successful and prosperous season, bidding them to remember that the latch string of the Wollaston club was always out.

Commodore Crane was pleased to be present and brought the greetings of the Town River Yacht club. "Whenever anyone from Squantum comes into what is sometimes called Mud River, I want you to give us a call," he said.

"The club was newly organized last fall and has a membership of about 100. I don't know what kind of a yacht club it is going to make, but it certainly has made a fine winter club."

"Jack" Harland, sometimes called the father of the Inter-club association, said he was always glad to come to Wollaston. He gave a history of the Inter-Club association and inter-club racing in local waters.

GLEE CLUB SCORE GREAT SUCCESS

In Their First Concert With 40 in the Chorus

AUDIENCE MUCH GRATIFIED

The first concert given Thursday evening at Alpha hall, by the Glee club of St. Chrysostom's church, under the auspices of the Woman's guild Mrs. George B. Curran, director, was a success in every way, and the proceeds will add a good sum to the Parish house fund.

The program rendered was an exceptionally good one. The varied selections of the chorus were effective and from the opening chorus to the last one called forth much applause. They gave an admirable version of each number, their voices harmonized and the enunciation was good, as an encore at the end, "My Country 'tis of The," was sung.

Miss Wilcox won her audience with her clever sketches of children, her success surely lies in her ability to perfectly portray children and their childish ways, she interprets in such a manner as to make it easily possible for her hearers to visualize them, making more complete their mishaps. She responded to encores with "Little pigs," and "The life lesson."

Miss Parkhurst played with excellent technique, expression and musicianly phrasing. Full appreciation was shown by the audience and she responded with "Slumber song," by Drake and Menuette by Mozart.

Mrs. Jeannie C. Follet sang two pleasing numbers in the repertoire of one whose singing is always enjoyed, the "Break into Song," being especially effective.

Mrs. Curran accompanied those artists on the program with her customary finish.

The success oa the affair was due to Mrs. Curarn. who organized the Glee club of forty members. They showed in a creditable manner her careful training.

HONESTY IN EVERYTHING

The popular farm tool in Louisiana now is a fisherman's dory.

Over in London they have black dress shirts. No more laundry bills.

They say that in Ohio now a man will occasionally stop talking politics and go down to the office.

Mr. Taft seems to think higher prices are all right if they come through competition. The trusts think so to.

The House is trying to stop fictitious purchases of cotton. This denies the inalienable right of the people to go into business on a capital of 25 cents spent for a telegram to the bucket shop.

The Sears-Roebuck Company are to put grain raising experts into one hundred counties to teach the farmers, and if they want to keep the young folks on the farm they need a Turkey Trot Expert at the country dances.

One reason why five minute speeches on an automobile tour are so effective is that formerly a spell-binder had to quote poetry and political economy by the volume, but now he merely calls the others fellows liars and signals the chauffeur to run for the next town.

THE ASTOR WILL.

The John Jacob Astor will suggests that a man may die like a hero and yet leave a will behind him that will promote soap box socialistic oratory, and do much to threaten the social foundation on which his estate rests.

The institution of private property is not based upon the rights of the individual, but on the good of the world. Human comfort has been increased by encouraging men's ambition, and permitting them to retain the fruits of their toil.

Society tolerates the spectacle of a wealthy man using for his enjoyment the fortune he has accumulated. He may have rendered economic services such that society has profited by his existence, even if the reward he has exacted is very high.

Society has always permitted, and will probably continue to allow him to leave a superfluity to his descendants, provided some recognition is made of the obligations he is under to the world at large for permitting the accumulation of this fortune to go on unchecked.

His descendants have given no such service as he gave. They are not likely to be able to do so, even if they would. Consequently when they are given entire control of a vast fortune, the purposes which the world had in view by establishing the institution of private property are ignored and defied.

LET THE GIRL ALONE.

Miss Violet Edmands, the former financee of Rev. C. V. T. Richeson who is now under sentence of death for the murder of Avis Linnell, very sensibly undertook to forget her woes by engaging in settlement work in New York.

Some people would try to blur such a shock in the dazzle of gaiety and high living. Others would simply sit at home and mope over books of morbid poetry.

Miss Edmands, like the true heart of gold she must be, tried to forget her own sorrow through lightening the troubles of other people. It showed her to be a womn of grit and fine sentiment.

Miss Edmands left her home largely to escape newspaper and other notoriety. But even in thronging New York, people are still provincial enough so that they have never learned to mind their own business. She has had to "disappear" again, but some enterprising reporter will be able to earn a few dollars and give her pain by tracking her to her next hiding place.

It is customary to laugh at rural people for their inquisitive way of finding out what you have for dinner and what you do with your garbage. But how harmless and good natured such little eccentricities seem, compared with the way yellow newspapers will take a person whose heart is quivering with sorrow, and drag it out in the street for Tom, Dick, and Harry to handle.

It is of but little use to hurl bad names at the reporters and editors who try to commercialize people's sorrow. They know that no one was ever saved from being hung because the hangman resigned his job.

The persons who should receive the execrations are the yellow people who pay their yellow money to read yellow news.

The majority of newspapers are clean and high minded. They cover the world of human interest with a thoroughness that leaves little untouched having dramatic value or relation to our daily life. Don't turn them down merely because occasionally they let sorrowing hearts suffer in silence!

EDITORIAL COMMENT.

Mayor Fitzgerald of Boston must have forgotten the words and music of "Sweet Adeline," As nothing has been heard of his singing it since his return from Palm Beach.

And now the thoughts of the young people of the schools naturally turn towards graduation day with its many alluring promises.

Why so backward, May? June will soon be on hand and completely outshine you.

Merging seems to be the order of the day and even the churches are taking a hand in it.

The finding of a few ancient gold pieces on the West coast may lead to more treasure-seeking expeditions in that vicinity.

The "horrible example" may be all right for the offender, but of what benefit is it to the victim and what protection to others in a community.

Oh, put on the straw hat anyway, the sun may come out some day.

The Creator has his own peculiar way of doing things. The good and christian king of Denmark whom every one loved was permitted to die alone and unattended in the street and his remains were at first cared for at the public morgue.

With both Republican candidates howling "sure victory," is it little wonder that the average citizen is in doubt as to the result.

The sturdy old gun maker when invited to accept a title from the German emperor, answered "The greatest title I can ever have will be Krupp of Essex." Yet every year, American women are throwing millions of dollars away for the senseless titles of brainless nincom-poops.

An actor died in a western town but the play was stopped a second. This recalls a pathetic scene on an eastern stage a few years ago, when a popular actor was hissed for his unaccountably poor showing. Finally stepping to the footlights he exclaimed that he had a child dying at home and the audience appreciated the grit of the man who endeavored to keep his engagements under such circumstances.

The filling of dead men's shoes has long been established but the filling of a live man's shoes with a dead man's feet is a new one.

As a matter of fact few people care about the controversy between the Peerless loser and Harmon. Neither one of them are in the running this year.

Now that Governor Foss has announced his decision in the Richeson case it is hoped that the poor wretch, those who have been connected with him or the case in any way, and the public, will be saved further newspaper guessing on the subject.

BAY STATE FIRST TO ACCEPT ACT

Massachusetts will be the first State in the union to ratify the amendment to the United States Constitution for the direct election of United States Senators if a resolution introduced in Congress Thursday passes.

The resolution is awaiting the rescript of the act of Congress to be sent on by Congressman Peters in response to a request by Representative McMorrow of Ward 23, of Boston.

THREE MONTHS WITHOUT WORD

From Quincy Friends Loosens Pen of Arthur E. Baxter

RECOVERING IN HUDSON

For three months Arthur E. Baxter of Quincy has been laid up a victim of what appeared to be an injury of little significance. A little amateur surgery on a corn and the sequel followed rapidly.

Arthur has been in the hospital. He is now visiting his sister in Hudson, slowly recovering and having the time of his life. He does not say so directly, but the neglect of his Quincy friends is wearing on his nerves. He feels somewhat peeved by it. If they will not come to him, he will come to them, in spirit at least. In a letter to the Ledger here is what he says of his illness, his recovery and the way his friends have failed to look him up.

Hudson, Mass., May 13, 1912.

Editor Daily Ledger:

As it will be three months, Thursday since I have, with three or four exceptions, seen or heard from any of my Quincy friends I thought a few lines in your valuable paper might be interesting to at least some of your readers.

Well, after a little amateur surgery on a small insignificant corn on the big toe joint, I called in Dr. Hunting and he directed me to the City Hospital where I sojourned for almost eleven weeks. Two weeks after an operation on my foot I was able to leave the hospital on May 1st and have since been recuperating at the home of my sister Mrs. Frank D. Knight of Hudson who was formerly Miss Belle Johnson of West Quincy.

She and her husband came to Quincy for me in their automobile and I had a nice ride through the Newtons, by Norumbega park, Weston, Wayland, Sudbury and Marlboro making the 41 miles in about two hours. I have since been "living high and sleeping" not in the garret but on the first floor with an occasional auto ride thrown in for good measure. Took a spin this morning up through Bolton and Berlin. The scenery was splendid with everything looking so green and the trees all blossomed.

I was much pleased to get the Ledgers this morning, for they contained so much that was real news to me, although a friend did send me a Patriot the first of last week.

Among all the interesting news they contained there was nothing that pleased me so much as to learn of the appointment of Officer Bishop as Sergeant of Police by Mayor Stone, but he will be sorely missed by the many on the central beat where for four years he patrolled so faithfully and well.

Well, I cannot finish this letter without adding a word of tribute to the Quincy City Hospital. While a hospital is not an ideal place to spend three months' vacation I will say that the nurses in our hospital through their kindness and endeavors to make my stay as pleasant as possible we seemed more like real friends than simply nurses and patient.

Very truly yours,
Arthur E. Baxter.

MERRY MASKERS HAVE GOOD TIME

Over 50 couples attended the annual masquerade and dancing party held in Brown's bungalow, Houghs Neck, Thursday evening. At nine o'clock the grand march, which was preceded by dancing was started and revealed many striking costumes of all descriptions.

Following the march all lined up and the judges Elmer Baker, David Fenner and J. Burrell awarded the prizes to Frank Kenney who wore a Turkish costume and Elsie Nelson representing the Goddess of Liberty. The prizes were appropriate to the weather, being silk umbrellas.

The "Moonlights" were features of the occasion. Dancing was enjoyed until eleven-thirty o'clock. Carey's four piece orchestra furnishing the music. The affair was in charge of W. E. Brown and C. W. Munroe.

The Verdict of Miss Broadhead Widely Experienced

MORE COLLEGIANS WANTED

Mrs. George E. Thomas of Newton street opened her home Wednesday afternoon for the regular monthly Missionary meeting of the Baptist church. The president Mrs. Joseph Walther, presided and opened the meeting with devotional exercises. After the singing of hymns, the secretary Mrs. Mary E. Black read her report.

The speaker scheduled for the afternoon, Mrs. C. S. Adams was unable to be present owing to illness, but Miss Alma Broadhead who is now stopping at the Hazeltine House, Newton Centre a Baptist training school for Missionaries, proved a most interesting speaker in telling of the two years' training she with other young ladies received at the Philadelphia Baptist institute for Church workers.

Miss Broadhead is hoping to be sent either to India or China at an early date. There is no doubt but that she is fitted for the work. She has a charming personality, is an easy speaker, winning her audience at once. The thoroughness and completeness of the education was a revelation to her listeners. Miss Broadhead said: "My interest in missions began when I was fourteen years old. Knowledge followed interest, and the great desire to help, met that need. Vision—plus decision equals power in God's service. How best prepare for the work is the problem. It is an age of specializing. At the Institute there is a very thorough study of the Bible with the brightest and keenest of speakers. Kindergarten work, music both vocal and instrumental, church history, personal work and the general class methods, all intensely hard work. The preparation of Sunday school lessons, study of religion and sociology Raffia rattan and hammock work are taught, and those in slum work find it very useful. Too much in praise of the home life could not be given the one big family, the Dean, Miss Clark, with her wonderful knowledge of girls at the head of it. Each girl is responsible for so much practical work each morning which averages one half hour. They also have charge of a mission and in turn each one acts as superintendent, choir master, leader of Mothers' meetings, charge of the industrial school, and needle work Guild as well as the different clubs.

Miss Broadhead told of the helpfulness of prayer days, which occurred on the first Monday of each month, milestones which meant much to each graduate. Last summer she had charge of a play ground for three months and in December returned to the institute for post graduate work. At the Hazeltine House the privilege of being sent to different churches is much appreciated—getting acquainted with those who have an interest in you. Those on the mission board have a chance to learn and study the temperament of the girls and ascertain the field they are best fitted for. It is sad that there are not more college girls ready to meet the need of workers in the foreign field. "What part have I?" was aptly illustrated ending with "we can go with our prayers, we can go by giving gifts and we can go in person."

A social hour was enjoyed during which refreshments of fancy crackers, fruit lemonade, and home made candy was served by the nieces of the hostess Miss Edna G. Rhodes and Miss Alta B. Grant.

FRIENDS CHAIN POPULAR GIRL

Nearly 100 of the friends of Miss Catherine Scanlon assembled at the corner of Hall place and Crescent street, Thursday evening, and when it was learned the ranks were completed invaded the home of the young lady for the purpose of tendering her a surprise party.

No sooner had the young people entered the house than Miss Isabella Dillion stepped forward, and in a few well chosen words, sincerely endorsed by all, presented Miss Scanlon with a handsome gold chain and pendant.

Songs, jokes and games of all kinds held sway throughout the evening and it was a late hour before the gathering dispersed.

A number in the party contributed to the musical program and each came in for full share of applause. Arthur Leary gave a recitation which proved a decided hit. Fred McDonald favored those present with his usual monologue selections while a violin solo by Bertram Flaherty, a trombone solo by Walter F. McCarthy and step dancing by Archie Shannon added greatly to the enjoyment of the occasion.

Songs were rendered by Misses Minnie Donovan, Mabel Blonde, May Curry, Katherine Haggerty, Grace Kelley, Nora Flanagan and Annie Golden. A duet by Misses Catherine and Nellie Cronin was a feature of the evening's entertainment, and they were forced to respond to repeated encores.

Refreshments, consisting of ice cream, coffee and cake were served to all present, and the party was pronounced one of the best ever held in the west section of the city. The committee of the surprise party were Miss Isabelle Dillion, Miss Catherine Cronin and Miss Mary Sheehan.

INCOME TAX BILL GIVEN A CHANCE

In the Senate Thursday Mr. Barnes of Weymouth secured the substitution for the adverse report of the committee, of the bill providing for a state tax on incomes. He said there is between $4,000,000 and $5,000,000 taxable property that escapes each year. By a uniform tax on personality throughout the state he believed that a much less sum would be lost.

Senator Schofield of Ipswich said he believed in income taxation, but he thought a uniform tax would be lower than the rate now charged in many cities and towns, and would therefore reduce the revenue of those municipalities.

With the exception of Senator Nason of Haverhill, a progressive Republican, all the Republicans voted for substitution, and all the Democrats against it. The division was 20 to 12, with two pairs.

MEN AND RELIGION—SANITATION.

The Journal of the American Medical Association, recently commented upon the co-operation of physicians and churches in public health education, and suggested that the men and religion forward movement had not restricted its energies solely to religious matters. Here is how the Medical Journal treats the subject

"The Men and Religion Forward Movement which has caused a nation-wide sensation, has not restricted its activities to purely religious matters. Various social problems have been attacked; for example, a careful analysis of conditions in various cities has resulted in recommendations for improved sewerage and quarantine systems, protection of milk-supply, organizations of health departments, better opportunities for harmless recreation, improved garbage collection, etc. In many cities excellent results followed the work. The fundamental basis was a survey of actual conditions, that is, the tabulation of all the ascertainable facts in the case before taking action. We are merely touching on the medical phases of this movement. Its chief work, of course, was religious, but the movement seemed to attack the human problems in all its ramifications—spiritual, social, physical—and to recommend improvements where ever it was thought wise. It is evident that the element of public education on health conditions is working. Great improvements in the sanitation and hygiene of the American people are due in short order as soon as the public is awakened to the possibilities."

INTERESTED IN DREDGING.

Many from Quincy will attend the hearing before the Ways and Means committee at the state house next Monday morning at ten o'clock, when the bill for $25,000 for dredging Town river will come up.

LOCAL AND BOSTON THEATRES

MAJESTIC THEATRE.

Mr. Lindsay Morison is hesitating at no expense to provide for his stock company at the Majestic Theatre, Boston, not only the best plays obtainable for stock production, but goes a step farther and secures now and then not only a play which has never yet had a stock presentation in Boston, but one which has never been released for a performance by a stock company in America. "The Thief," which will be presented by the Lindsay Morison Stock Company next week, every afternoon and evening, has never before played except at the regular scale of prices, but the coming week patrons will have the rare opportunity of witnessing it at the prices prevailing at the Majestic Theatre this summer.

The production will be made on the same elaborate scale as when presented by Mr. Frohman with the late and revered actor, Kyrle Bellow, in leading male role, and Miss Margaret Illington in the leading feminine role.

This play is generally conceded to be the greatest success of that noted French author, Henri Bernstein, who e plays in Paris have provoked such storms of discussion the past two seasons. Miss Mary Sanders, another great Boston favorite, will join the Lindsay Morison Stock Company May 27th for the elaborate production of "The Lights O'London."

B. F. KEITH'S.

One of the strongest and best all-star vaudeville bills seen at B. F. Keith's Theatre in months is promised for next week at that popular resort. One of the big novelties will be Joseph Hart's newest and funniest comedy with music, entitled "A Night in A Turkish Bath." The scene of this piece is laid in a New York Turkish bath establishment after midnight. A well-to-do drug salesman, much the worse for wear and tear, has picked up two tough railroad freight brakemen in his wanderings, and brings them into the bath to get over the night before. The brakemen have never seen anything like the marble cooling room of the baths before, and their wonderment is a source of great amusement to the others. All the regular habitues of the baths are depicted, and incidental to the story a number of musical specialties are introduced. The comedy element is exceptionally strong, and the laughs follow one another in rapid succession. Aside from this big feature, Conlin, Steele and Carr, the college girl and the rah-rah boys, will appear in one of the liveliest and most diverting musical melanges imaginable. Conroy and LeMaire are blackface comedians, with a clever skit entitled "The Pinochle Fiends," and two newcomers are Joe Keno and Rosie Green, clever eccentric dancers. Phil Staats, late of "Excuse Me," will poke fun at his avoirdupois and entertain with piano novelties.

PARK THEATRE.

Paul J. Rainey's African Hunt which opened an indefinite engagement at the Park Theatre, Boston, Monday evening proved to be one of the real surprises of the season and is easily the most marvelous exposition of what can be accomplished with the motion picture, ever revealed in this country. The entertainment consists of a complete motion picture and stereopticon story of the $250,000 Big Game Hunt of Paul J. Rainey the millionaire sportsman, the whole fully explained by a lecturer and it contains almost as many thrills as one would have imgined the hunter himself or the photographer undergoing. After witnessing the start of the expedition from Mombasa, and seeing the horde of carriers, horses and dogs that accompanied it, then following them through trackless jungles, watching a pack of dogs trail a leopard to a tree, climb the tree, bring the beast to the ground, and kill it, gazing with awe at an enormous rhinoceros charging straight at the camera and only stopped by bullet within five yards sitting back in your chair and watching a lion hunt where the camera was so close that the king of beasts appears larger than life and finally seeing the wonderful water hole picture which shows eight species of wild animals drinking at one time, the auditor can go away satisfied that he has seen the most wonderful motion pictures ever shown. Judging by the attendance Monday evening it will be many weeks before they leave.

CASTLE SQUARE THEATRE.

"Nobody's Widow" which comes to the Castle Square next week is a brilliant American comedy written by Avery Hopwood. It was first produced by David Belasco with Miss Blanche Bates in the title role. It has now been secured by John Craig for one of the final plays of his current season at the Castle Square, and it promises a week of exceptional diversity of humor and romantic comedy. The scenes of "Nobody's Widow" are laid at Palm Beach in Florida, and the heroine is a sparkling creature who in revenge for a fancied pecadillo on her newly wedded husband's part, leaves him on the verge of their honeymoon. The progress of the play shows how she pursues her way through the hearts of many men, and how she eventually forgives her husband, and becomes his beloved wife once again. An effective cast at the Castle Square will give "Nobody's Widow" an unusually satisfactory production. Mary Young will appear in the title role, and John Craig will play the part of the deserted husband. Others in the case will be George Hassell, Donald Meek and Mabel Colcord.

By special invitation from the manager of the Blackstone Theatre, Chicago, John Craig and his company will open an engagement there in "The End of the Bridge," the famous Harvard-Radcliffe prize play which ran for nearly 150 performances on the Castle Square stage. The engagement will begin June 10th, and at the same time Mr. Craig will put on "The Climax" for a run at the Castle Square.

SHUBERT THEATRE.

Perhaps Lew Fields' all star company in "Hanky Panky" at the Shubert Theatre is best described as a rainbow entertainment—that is, if one will think of the possibility of rainbow as applying not only to color but to music, song, dance, comedy, travesty, and joy in general. At least it makes everything look brighter and more cheerful to those who see it, and it holds out promises of happy memories—at least of having seen the show.

If vaudeville is your hobby, or musical comedy is your chief vice the Shubert should claim your attention for at least one performance. Under one roof they have a company that numbers some of the biggest headliners in both of these classes of entertainment, tons of splendid scenery, brilliant costumes without limit, and enough pretty and shapely show girls, ponies, broilers and just plain chorus girls to equip half a dozen ordinary shows. To reduce weight, chase away the blues, forget you owe the landlord money, it's the real cure.

BARNUM AND BAILEY CIRCUS.

The Barnum and Bailey Greatest Show on Earth and newly added spectacle of "Cleopatra" exhibits in Boston week of May 27. The spectacle in itself is an attraction that should fill the big tent at each performance and draw thousands of visitors from the surrounding districts. It is beyond question the greatest production of its kind ever seen in America. Enacted with a cast of 1,250 actors, a grand opera chorus, an orchestra of 100 soloists, a ballet of 350 dancing girls, 650 horses, five herds of elephants, caravans of camels, and a trainload of special devices, costumes, and scenery and electrical mechanism for producing such effects as lightning, thunder, sand storms on the desert, volcanoes in action, sunrise, floods, and mirages.

The realism of the scenery is perfect. It is as though the audience was looking into the streets of Alexandria in the day of Ptolemies. The streets throb with their strange cosmopolitan life. In the middle distance flows the Nile, the mighty pyramids and the sphinx looking down from past ages. Beyond them stretch endless wastes of sand. The laureats of the dead race speak from forgotten tombs. The walls of Time fall down, and we see the court of Cleopatra during its years of extravagance and revelry, and hear the story of the betrayal of Rome and the undoing of Marc Antony, told in a vividly realistic way. The incidental music was arranged by Faltis Effendi, late bandmaster of the Khedive of Egypt. The ballet is under the direction of Ottokar Bartik, balletmaster of the Metropolitan Grand Opera Company.

The regular circus program is the finest the Barnum and Bailey management has ever offered. Thrilling acts are presented by Katie Sandwina, the strongest and most beautiful woman before the public; Mae Wirth, the greatest of all riders; a company of Japanese wrestlers, athletes, swordsmen and jiu jitsu experts, Winston's riding seals, and Victoria Codona, queen of high wire performers. There are 400 performers. In the menagerie will be found the only baby giraffe on exhibition in the world. There will be a parade at 10 o'clock in the forenoon.

derived from clean wholesome pictures were laid down by the speaker of being inestimable.

Taking up the harm that moving pictures often times have on a community, Mr. Chandler went into a discussion of the so called cheap show. He condemned the lack of proper censorship on certain classes of pictures and said that this was largely responsible for the effects that such pictures have. He said that cheap pictures convey the wrong ideas to those who look at them and added that the fundamental principles of human life are almost ignored. The reckless habit of frequenting such places, where pictures of a cheap nature are shown, was brought out by the speaker—something that should be guarded against at all times. He said that children especially become so enraptured with moving pictures that they want to see them weekly and consequently the more they saw of them the worse effect such pictures were having on their minds from time to time.

As a means to educational advancement and progress, the speaker said that moving pictures were uplifting, otherwise degrading. The proper way to safeguard against the showing of pictures of this latter class was a matter for the consideration of the citizens of the city or community in which such pictures are being reproduced. He said that authorities of Quincy should ever have an alert eye open for any pictures that tend in the least way to befoul the minds of children and concluded by stating that due regard in this matter would eventually mean that the moving pictures would be an invaluable aid to all human study in the future. At the conclusion of his remarks, Mr. Chandler was given a rising vote of thanks.

The music for the occasion was rendered by the graduating class, which rendered "Love Night," "Pretty Village Maiden" and "O Glad Festal Day" under the direction of Miss Emma S. Perkins, supervisor of music in the public schools.

Refreshments were served at the close of the meeting under the direction of a committee composed of teachers and parents headed by Miss Carrie A. Crane, teacher of the eighth grade.

SECRETARY'S REPORT.

The following is the report of the secretary, which she read:

Before giving a resume of the work accomplished during the past year, let us think for a moment for what the Association stands, and what it seeks to do.

It is now conceded that the school house should be a social center.

It has become so, for here Parents and Teachers and also interested friends, gather to become better acquainted with each other and with the educational work carried on from day to day.

The Association exerts a broadening and educating influence, tends to keep the school in the hands of school men and women and those of the parents.

It endeavors to obtain a proper proportion of the city's funds to carry the work on to the best advantage.

The Association has brought the people of the district together to hear men, who are well known authorities on subjects which are vital ones of the time.

Very fortunate have we been in our speakers, splendid men and a splendid woman Miss Adams, a graduate of the schools here.

The musical programs have been rare treats, thanks to the members of our Music committee.

The Philanthropic committee under Mrs. Andrew Deane, chairman has quietly done much good and given aid where needed.

The teachers have served as most efficient reception and refreshment committees.

To the generous gift of our good president, an ample supply of glass and china, is due much of the success of the social hour.

To the willing hands and ready feet of the lads and young girls who have been ever ready to help on the day and eve of the meetings, we give hearty thanks.

The exhibit of school work shown has been greatly appreciated, especially by those who cannot ever visit the school by day.

Our Legislative committee has been able to secure the approval of the Public Grounds committee for the further grading of the school yard and the association helped obtain the fine cement pathway from Glendale road to Dixwell avenue, a much needed improvement.

There is nothing like "creating an atmosphere" for what is really wanted.

In the removal from our midst of Mr. Charles Pearson, we lost a valuable director and true citizen, ever ready to help on any good work.

The next thing to be done is to form a Federation of the Parents' and Teachers' associations throughout the city, for we believe that "In union there is strength."

So this movement but just begun, is destined to play an active part in the life of our city.

Lawrence School Trustee Sentenced In Dynamite Case

Salem, Mass., May 17.—John J. Breen of Lawrence, convicted on one count for conspiracy to plant dynamite in the Lawrence textile trouble in an attempt to injure strikers, was sentenced to pay a fine of $500 by Judge Brown in the superior criminal court.

Counsel for Breen said if Breen was guilty in the alleged dynamite planting his client had done so as to help a friend and the judge retorted it was a poor method of helping a friend.

SQUANTUM YACHT CLUB

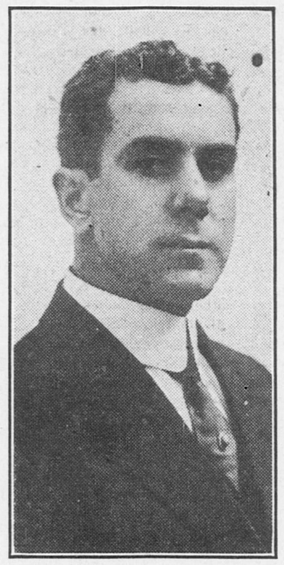
Continuing he said: "We have at present 10 clubs in the association and could have the other 26 along the coast if each was not compelled to give a race during the season. Before the Inter-club was organized not many of the clubs mingled. It has always been my object to promote good racing and sociability.

"Never in the history of Massachusetts have the clubs been nearer together in these two ways." He extended an invitation to the open regatta at South Boston on May 30th.



REP. WILLIAM J. LESLIE,
Who spoke at the Squantum Yacht Club Opening.

Representative William J. Leslie said there were yachtsmen and yachtsmen. He belonged to the latter class. He had been practising sitting in a chair this winter and thought that this year he could qualify as a yachtsman. He spoke of the bill for redredging the channel now before the House. On account of conditions this has been changed to a depth of three feet at mean low water and calls for an appropriation of $6000. The bill is now before the Ways and Means committee. A hearing on the bill is to be held on Monday morning at 10.30 and he urged a large delegation from both the Wollaston and Squantum clubs to attend.

Before the program of the evening was set in motion "Bill" Field one of the club's foremost entertainers contributed a number of popular songs followed by some jokes that brought down the house.

Bert Lowe of the Orpheum Theatre, Boston, rendered a number of piano solos which found popular favor.

"Chick" Fox opened his number with the old favorite "Never Again" sung in his own inimitable manner. A steady stream of stories and anecdotes, of which he seemed to be chock full, followed and he closed with "Alexander's Rag Time Band" amid rounds of applause.

E. Stanley Nichols, announced as an eccentric monologist sang "When my age was twenty-three" with great effect, told a number of stories and closed with a parody on "Everybody's doing it now."

A dance the "Pearl of Gold" was gracefully accomplished by Miss Cornelia Burnham and won continued applause.

Dan Coleman did a character stunt which included a catchy song "That's what they'll say." His closing feature was a reading entitled "The Irishman's Reverie," which proved most effective.

Miss Bernice Tupper did a song and dance which lead to several encores.

Mr. McLaughlin, character comedian was one of the hits of the evening his song "Daffy Dan" and his eccentric dancing nearly raising the roof. "Sentry Duty" was a most laughable monologue and his closing songs including a parody on the "Wearin' of the green" and "My Yiddish Colleen" were among the best of the evening.

"Chick" Fox in Irish costume did the song "Murphy" to the intense satisfaction of everyone present.

Lou Dean closed the evening with instrumental selections combining the accordeon, drum and cymbals. His closing number "Sextet from Luccia" was a masterpiece.

Credit is due Commodore Drew and Perley C. Rogers with his efficient entertainment committee in making the evening a pleasant one for those present.

INITIATED THREE.

George L. Gill Rebekah lodge initiated three candidates at its meeting Thursday evening.

gress, and while they were familiar to the older residents they served to recall memories of the days when Quincy was but a struggling town. To those not familiar with the more modern thriving city they served as an educational feature.

In addition to many of the old buildings now standing, and more modern places shown, there were many interesting views of the water front as well as views of the churches, which served to tell something of the religious history of the city. Then were views of a number of yachting events, held under the auspices of the Quincy club, as well as views of some of the yachts of Commodore Whittemore, Rear Commodore Crane and Secretary Hall.

The star entertainer of the evening was W. Ward Whitcher, and as the program announced after his name "Nough Said" Mr. Whitcher started in by telling audience that he was the son of an Episcopalian minister, and he told of several laughable incidents that were supposed to have taken place during his father's ministry. From a situation of laughter he assumed a more serious phase and gave a recitation that held his hearers spell bound, going from this to a selection in a lighter vein and so on, showing his wonderful memory and powers as an elocutionist, and great versatility.

It seemed as though they would never tire of hearing him, and those who have had the pleasure before of hearing Mr. Whitcher will not be surprised that he received the ovation that he did.

The entertainment over an adjournment was made to the main locker lobby on the lower floor, where Capt. William Norteman served one of his famous clam chowders, also doughnuts and coffee. The chowder was an excellent one, and was greatly enjoyed.

At 11 o'clock a special car was in waiting for Quincy. Thus was the season of 1912 of the Quincy Yacht club auspiciously opened and as the Commodore said from now on there will be something doing all the time at the club house.

Commodore Whittemore was chairman of the committee in charge of the affair, and Rear Commodore Frank F. Crane materially aided the Committee members in their efforts to please and entertain all.

GOV. APPOINTED MAN LONG DEAD

Gov. Eugene N. Foss appointed a dead man to office Thursday when he sent the name of Homer Bushnell to the council for appointment as associate medical examiner in Berkshire county. Dr. Homer Bushnell of Adams died in 1909. He was for many years associate medical examiner. After his death Dr. Harry B. Holmes of Adams was apointed for seven years as his successor, and his term does not expire until 1916. The Revised Laws do not allow of the appointment of more than one associate medical examiner in this part of Berkshire county. It would appear that the Governor has been going by past records as to expiration of terms of office-holders, and that those records had not been recently revised.

OVERHEAD SIGN NO BEAUTIFIER

When Wollaston people came to the railroad station Thursday morning they rubbed their eyes and looked with amazement upon a huge canvas sign suspended across Beale street. The sign is apparently 20 feet by six and is suspended across the most beautiful part of the street stretched between two rows of magnificent elms, half way between the railroad station and Hancock street. It seems rather odd that the good people of that ward should be working to have the old school lot on Beale street made over into a park, while at the same time they allow the most picturesque part of this old thoroughfare to be placarded by a huge advertising banner. Perhaps the city fathers who allowed it to be put up can throw a little light on the subject. As it is suspended across a public street permission to do this of course came from some one in authority at City Hall.

CANDIDATES RODE GOAT.

Two candidates were initiated at the meeting of the Knights and Ladies of Honor, held Wednesday evening in Protection hall. Many members were present and a pleasing program was followed out at the close of the meeting. Refreshments were served and the evening was enjoyably spent. The committee in charge comprised Mrs. Calvin G. Fletcher, Mrs. Sarah Williams and Mrs. Harry Tirrell.

GOOD BUSINESS.

Returns of the railways to the Interstate commerce commission for the month of February, 1912, show increases both in receipts and expenses as compared with February, 1911.

The returns, show, total operating revenues per mile of line averaged $966, as compared with $891 in February, 1911, the increase resulting almost entirely from freight traffic, passenger revenue having slightly decreased. Operating expenses per mile of line averaged $712, as compared with $668 in February, 1911; net operating revenue $254, as compared with $223 in February, 1911. Taxes amounted to $44 per mile of line, an increase of ten and nine-tenths per cent over February of the previous year. The net operating revenue averaged $8.76 per mile of line per day in February, 1912, $7.95 in 1911, and approximately $9.20 in 1910. The total net capitalization of all the railways of the United States as shown by that report is $14,338,575,940.

Attorney Morse Gives Up the Struggle —Governor Finds No Cause to Refer to Council—Does Not Give Out Entire Report—Alienists Say Richeson Did Not Want to Write Confession —Sleeps Under Deatn Watch

Boston, May 17.—Clarence V. T. Richeson must die in the electric chair for the murder of Avis Linnell.

In an official statement issued last evening Governor Foss announced that executive clemency cannot be extended to him.

Attorney William A. Morse, his counsel, at once gave up the fight. In a staement issued later he declared:

"I, who have been so near to Richeson during all these months, feel very sad that it must finally end in his being killed by the method at present approved by the law. He must now look for merciful judgment to his God, to whose service in the innocence of his boyhood he consecrated his life."

Abandoned, Richeson slept peacefully in his death cell at Charlestown prison last night, unaware of his fate until told him this morning.

Governor Foss received the report of the three alienists he named as a commission to test the sanity of Richeson yesterday afternoon.

The concensus of these opinions marked Richeson as an abnormal man and some of them as actually suffering from a form of insanity. But none agreed that he was so mentally deranged that he was obvious of the knowledge of right from wrong.

While they reached the conclusion that he was subject of attacks marked by extreme emotional disturbances, with loss of memory, they could not show that the crime was committed during such attacks.

It was at this point that responsibility for his crime commenced and restrictions of the law entered.

The alienists held Richeson accountable for his crime, although voluminous evidence had been laid before the governor showing that the condemned man was far from normal.

Through all his examinations, the alienists assert, Richeson did not show a sign of attempting to feign insanity or evade their questioning. On most points he showed the keenness of a trained mind, although not of particularly brilliancy.

To the end he protested he believed Moses Grant Edmands his best friend. He told also about the fight he had with his lawyers and insisted that, so he claimed with them, his case be tried. He declared that he did not want to write the confession which appeared under his signature and that the one he wrote first was destroyed and the other substituted for it. In his original confession Richeson wrote that he did not give the poison to Avis Linnell with homicidal intent.

Richeson declared he was led to believe that his removal to the death cell would be in his favor. He said, they declare, that he wanted a trial and never believed he could get a second degree verdict on his confession.

There is no doubt, they believe, but what his lapses of memory would have raised havoc with his testimony on the witness stand. They declared that it was these lapses of memory which made many believe that he was lying.

Richeson answered the questions pumped at him readily, the alienists declare, but his answers to some questions propounded one day to another would differ somewhat broadly.

NO BAIL ALLOWED

Caruso, Ettor and Giovannitti of the Famous Lawrence Strike

Salem, Mass., May 17.—Joseph Ettor and Arturo Giovannitti, two of the leaders in the recent Lawrence strike, were arraigned in the superior criminal court here on the charges of being accessories to the murder of Anna Lopizza, who was shot during the riots.

Through their attorneys they pleaded not guilty and were held without bail for trial on May 27.

Joseph Caruso was arraigned as principal in causing the murder and following his plea of not guilty was held without bail.

Boston, May 17.—More sanitary sea food was advocated by delegates to the fourth annual convention of the National Association of Shellfish Commissioners in session at the state house.

LEVEE BREAKS WIDENING

New Orleans, May 17.—With every available motorboat in commission and the revenue cutters Windom and Winona aiding in the work, every effort is being made to rescue 5000 persons, who are directly in the path of the waters pouring through the great break.

In one sugar house alone on the Glendale plantation are 150 refugees waiting to be taken off in boats. The break in the levee was 1000 feet wide yesterday, but the engineers expect to have its ends tied and prevent further spreading.

The United States engineers will co-operate with the state forces in stopping the Hymelia crevasse if such a thing can be done, but the state of Louisiana must foot the bills. The preliminary work will cost about $200,000.

Planters and other residents of the submerged section express the greatest indignation at the delay in making repairs. Water is now three feet deep in the town of Killona and the inhabitants have deserted the place.

There are twenty-five deserted towns of moderate size in the flooded sections of twenty parishes. A telephone message said that the waters from the Hymelia crevasse have reached Bonnet Caree, fifteen miles north of Killoma, and are rolling back into the back country at a furious rate.

SUGAR TRUST OPPOSED COMPETITION

When Formed Shut Down Refineries to Reduce

New York, May 17.—How and why the so-called "sugar trust" was formed was related before the special examiner in the government's dissolution suit by Julius A. Stursberg, formerly secretary of the Brooklyn Refining company, who was called as witness by Henry A. Wise, United States district attorney. Strong competition was the reason assigned by Mr. Stursburg. He said the "trust" agreement was brought about by conferences which John E. Searles of the Brooklyn Refining company had with the officers of other companies.

Mr. Stursberg said that after the first agreement was entered into in 1885 all the refineries were closed down ten days to reduce the overproduction of sugar.

OHIO'S MOVING PICTURE

Roosevelt Asks For Taft to Share Brownsville Responsibility

Cleveland, O., May 17.—In a statement issued President Taft said that the claim of Theodore Roosevelt that he controls 552 delegates to the Republican national convention is without foundation and not borne out by the facts. The president said that if Mr. Roosevelt were to get all the delegates yet to be chosen he could not be nominated.

According to Arthur I. Vorys, the dominant note in the president's primary campaign in this state from now on will be appeals based on state pride. "An Ohio man—the late Senator M. A. Hanna—caused the nomination of Colonel Rosevelt for vice president," said Mr. Vorys. "The tragic death of another Ohio man, the late President McKinley, was responsible for Colonel Roosevelt's elevation to the presidency. The Republicans of Ohio came out for him for president unanimously in 1904. On election day that year Ohio gave him a plurality of 250,000, the largest in all its history. That is the way Ohio has treated Colonel Roosevelt. Ohio now resents, and rightly so, his treatment of his former loyal aid, Ohio's greatest son, William Howard Taft. This resentment will be registered at the primary on Tuesday. I predict a sweeping victory in this state for President Taft."

President Taft refused to comment on a story printed in the local papers regarding a rumor that he would quit the race if he loses in the Ohio primaries.

Colonel Roosevelt delivered fifteen speeches during the day. At Springfield he criticised Mr. Taft. "A certain Lorimer congressman from Illinois," he said, "who is supporting Mr. Taft, as his chief, Senator Lorimer, did, has come into Ohio bringing a number of members of the two companies of the negro regiment, who were discharged on account of the riot at Brownsville. These men are brought here by the Taft managers to assail me for what I did at Brownsville, to try to get our negro fellow citizens to vote against me. I always accept full responsibility for what I do. I did take the action at Brownsville and my judgment in taking it has been ratified over and over again by every competent man who investigated the matter, by tribunal after tribunal. I acted on the recommendation of Mr. Taft when he was my secretary of war.

"There is Mr. Taft's own report, upon which I acted," he continued. "I do not shift any responsibility upon Mr. Taft. I take it all. But Mr. Taft should be responsible for his action, too."

NEW BISHOP H. C. STUNTZ

Three of the Episcopacy Have Been Retired

MOORE, WARREN AND NEELEY

Increase of Eight Local Conference Heads—Retiring Bishops Were Men of Long Service—Automatic Retirement at 70 Years Recommended—Some 150 Ministers Seeking the New Honors—Voting Begins Today For Bishops

Minneapolis, May 17.—The episcopacy committee of the Methodist Episcopal church recommended the election of eight new bishops of the church. The report was adopted by the conference practically witnout discussion and voting on the bishops began yesterday when Homer C. Stuntz, assistant corresponding secretary of the board of foreign missions, New York was the first of eight new bishops who will be chosen.

Bishops Henry W. Warren of Denver, David H. Moore of Cincinnati and Thomas B. Neeley of New Orleans, at the close of the present general conference will retire from active work in the church. The conference so decided in a ballot yesterday.

Bishop Warren, who has often been called the Abraham Lincoln of religious life," has spent fifty-seven years in active ministerial work, thirty-two of which he has been a bishop. Bishop Moore, who attained the rank of lieutenant colonel during the Civil war, has been in the ministry since 1860, and has been in his present office for twelve years. Bishop Neeley entered the ministry in 1865, and has held the office of bishop for eight years.

Some 150 ministers are spoken of for bishops. The most frequently mentioned are: David G. Downey, Charles B. Mitchell, W. O. Shepard, Charles E. Locke, Christian R. Havighest, Theodore Henderson, Matthew S. Hughes and Napthalia Luccock.

After the result of the ballot had been announced Bishop Moore begged to be allowed to speak a few words. He touched upon his years in the service and advocated the automatic retirement of bishops at 70 years of age. There was weeping among the delegates when he said:

"I am going back to the home of my childhood; back to my children's graves and show the people how far the gulf stream of youth can run into the Arctic ocean of old age." As he completed his remarks the entire assemblage rose and amidst the waving of handkerchiefs sang "Blessed Be the Tie That Binds."

The report of the Epworth League told of large increase in the number which now nearly correspond in numbers to the regular pastors of the churches.

FIENDS, REITMAN SAYS

Of Those Who Tortured and Tarred and Feathered Him

Los Angeles, Cal., May 17.—Alleging inhuman tortures had been inflicted on him by San Diego vigilantes who deported him from that city Tuesday night, Dr. Ben L. Reitman, manager of Miss Emma Goldman, detailed the treatment accorded him by the "committee of citizens."

"The men who captured me in my hotel looked like business men. When I refused to go with them they put revolvers against my body, covered my mouth and dragged me to an automobile. The police outside the hotel cleared the way for them.

"While taking me to the place of torture in the desert thirty miles from San Diego, my captors thrust pencils in my nostrils and ears and struck me with their fists and with clubs.

"When we reached the desert another party was waiting. They had built a big fire and taey took me up to it, stripped me and began fiendish, inhuman tortures. I begged them to kill me and end the pain and they replied they wanted me to go away and tell how San Diego treated my kind.

"Just before they put hot tar on my body their torture became terrible. A small American flag was thrust down my throat until I almost strangled.

"Just before the tar was applied they held me and burned the flesh on my neck with the live coals of their cigars. Then they plastered tar over me and covered it with cactus and desert grass.

"After that they stoned me as I tried to escape them in the desert. After I had walked a long way I reached Berendo and obtained a pair of overalls and a jumper which I wore into Los Angeles."

The Kitchen Cupboard

LOAF CAKES.

IF you like loaf cakes consider these various ways of making them. For instance, there is a seed loaf cake to be made as follows:

Seed Loaf.—Take half a pound of butter, six ounces of sugar, four eggs, half an ounce of caraway seeds, one pound of flour, a teaspoonful of baking powder, quarter of a teaspoonful of salt and half a gill of milk.

Line a cake tin with three layers of greased paper. Cream together the butter and sugar; then put in the eggs one by one. Beat them well. Sift together the flour, salt and baking powder. Now stir the flour lightly into the butter and eggs; then add the caraway seeds and milk. Pour into the prepared tin and bake in a moderate oven about one and a half hours.

Two Simple Loaves.

Yeast Loaf Cake.—Dissolve a cake of yeast in water. Mix with it three cups of warm sweet milk, two cups of sugar and flour enough to make a stiff batter. Let it rise overnight.

In the morning, when it is light, add two well beaten eggs, a cup of butter, a pound of seeded raisins and a dash of cinnamon, allspice and nutmeg. Stir well and when light place in pans to bake.

White Loaf Cake.—Cream a cupful of sugar with half a cupful of butter. Add half a cupful of milk and then stir the mixture into two cupfuls of pastry flour that has been sifted with two teaspoonfuls of baking powder. Flavor with almond extract and just before baking fold in the whites of four eggs beaten to a very stiff froth. Bake in loaf form.

With Bread Dough.

Currant Loaf Cake.—When the dough for bread is ready to mold into loaves take enough for a loaf and work into it a large spoonful of butter, a teacupful of sugar, two well beaten eggs, a teacupful of cleaned, floured currants, a dash of nutmeg and cinnamon.

If too stiff the dough may be softened with a few drops of milk. Shape into a loaf, let it rise and then bake.

A Fruit Cake.

Fruit Loaf Cake.—Take a cup of butter, a cup of brown sugar, a cup of molasses, a cup of sour milk, one teaspoonful of soda dissolved in a little warm water, four cups of flour, a half teaspoonful of salt, a teaspoonful of cloves, a half pound of raisins, a half pound of currants, a quarter of a pound of citron. Mix these ingredients as for ordinary loaf cake.

WATER OF THE WORLD.

What Will We Do When the Population Outgrows the Rainfall?

Dr. McGee, an American scientist, "who follows the form of investigation that uses weighing scales for testimony—scales that cannot lie," has found that the average individual uses directly or indirectly about 4,400 tons of water every year. He drinks a ton. The vegetables he consumes require about 400 tons for their growth, and his annual meat supply of 200 pounds uses up no less than 4,000 tons of water.

Using this figure as a basis, Dr. McGee shows that when the population of the United States has reached 1,017,000,000, which he thinks will occur about A. D. 2210, every drop of the annual rainfall will be required to maintain the food supply, and no further increase of inhabitants will be possible.

The present inhabitants of the entire world, estimated at about 1,500,000,000, can be increased to 20,000,000,000 if the total annual rainfall of earth remains as it is today—that is, thirteen times the present population will crowd the earth to its limit.

Dr. McGee's estimates, however, leave quite out of account the question of tapping the oceans, which is at least a possibility.—London Magazine.

The Wreck of the Titan

By Morgan Robertson

Copyright, 1898, by M. F. Mansfield. Copyright, 1912, by Morgan Robertson. All rights reserved.

SYNOPSIS

The great steamer Titan, supposed to be unsinkable, starts across the Atlantic. Rowland, once a lieutenant, now a common sailor, meets his old love Myra. She is with her husband and child.

The Titan cuts a ship in two, and her captain endeavors to conceal the crime. Rowland objects. The captain gives him whisky, so that he will be discredited. Myra accuses him of attempting to murder her child.

Rowland is drugged by the captain's order and is then given the starboard bridge lookout, so that he will disgrace himself. Myra's child steals away and joins Rowland.

CHAPTER IV.

The Titan and the Iceberg.

FORTY-FIVE thousand tons, dead weight, rushing through the fog at the rate of fifty feet a second, had hurled itself at an iceberg. Had the impact been received by a perpendicular wall the elastic resistance of bending plates and frame would have overcome the momentum with no more damage to the passengers than a severe shaking up and to the ship than the crushing in of her bows and the killing, to a man, of the watch below. She would have backed off and, slightly down by the head, finished the voyage at reduced speed, to rebuild on insurance money and benefit largely in the end by the consequent advertising of her indestructibility. But a low beach, possibly formed by the recent overturning of the berg, received the Titan, and with her keel cutting the ice like the steel runner of an iceboat and her great weight resting on the starboard bilge she rose out of the sea, higher and higher, until the propellers in the stern were half exposed; then, meeting an easy, spiral rise in the ice under her port bow, she heeled, overbalanced and crashed down on her side to starboard.

The holding down bolts of twelve boilers and three triple expansion engines, unintended to hold such weights from a perpendicular flooring, snapped, and down through a maze of ladders, grating and fore and aft bulkheads came these giant masses of steel and iron, puncturing the sides of the ship, even where backed by solid, resisting ice, and filling the engine and boiler rooms with scalding steam, which brought a quick though tortured death to each of the hundred men on duty in the engineer's department.

Amid the terrifying roar of escaping steam and the beelike buzzing of nearly 3,000 human voices, raised in agonized screams and callings from within the inclosing walls, and the whistling of air through hundreds of open deadlights as the water, entering the holes of the crushed and riven starboard side, expelled it, the Titan moved slowly backward and launched herself into the sea, where she floated low on her side—a dying monster, groaning with her death wound.

A solid, pyramid-like hummock of ice, left to starboard as the steamer ascended, and which projected close alongside the upper or boat deck as she fell over, had caught in succession every pair of davits to starboard, bending and wrenching them, smashing boats and snapping tackles and gripes, until, as the ship cleared herself, it capped the pile of wreckage strewing the ice in front of and around it with the end and broken stanchions of the bridge. And in this shattered, box-like structure, dazed by the sweeping fall through an arc of seventy foot radius, crouched Rowland, bleeding from a cut in his head and still holding to his breast the little girl, now too frightened to cry.

By an effort of will he aroused himself and looked. To his eyesight, twisted and fixed to a shorter focus by the drug he had taken, the steamship was little more than a blotch on the moon whitened fog, yet he thought he could see men clambering and working on the upper davits, and the nearest boat—No. 24—seemed to be swinging by the tackles. Then the fog shut her out, though her position was still indicated by the roaring of steam from her iron lungs. This ceased in time, leaving behind it the horrid humming sound and whistling of air, and when this, too, was suddenly hushed and the ensuing silence broken by dull, booming reports, as from bursting compartments, Rowland knew that the holocaust was complete; that the invincible Titan, with nearly all of her people, unable to climb vertical floors and ceilings, was beneath the surface of the sea.

Mechanically his benumbed faculties had received and recorded the impressions of the last few moments. He could not comprehend to the full the horror of it all. Yet his mind was keenly alive to the peril of the woman whose appealing voice he had heard and recognized—the woman of his dream and the mother of the child in his arms. He hastily examined the wreckage. Not a boat was intact. Creeping down to the water's edge, he hailed, with all the power of his weak voice, to possible but invisible boats beyond the fog, calling to them to come and save the child, to look out for a woman who had been on deck, under the bridge. He shouted this woman's name—the one that he knew—encouraging her to swim, to tread water, to float on wreckage and to answer him until he came to her. There was no response, and when his voice had grown hoarse and futile and his feet numb from the cold of the thawing ice, he returned to the wreckage, weighed down and all but crushed by the blackest desolation that had so far come into his unhappy life. The little girl was crying and he tried to soothe her.

"I want mamma!" she wailed.

"Hush, baby, hush," he answered wearily and bitterly. "So do I—more than heaven. But I think our chances are about even now. Are you cold, little one? We'll go inside and I'll make a house for us."

He removed his coat, tenderly wrapped the little figure in it, and with the injunction, "Don't be afraid, now," placed her in the corner of the bridge, which rested on its forward side. As he did so the bottle of whisky fell out of the pocket. It seemed an age since he had found it there, and it required a strong effort of reasoning before he remembered its full significance. Then he raised it to hurl it down the incline of ice, but stopped himself.

"I'll keep it," he muttered. "It may be safe in small quantities, and we'll need it on this ice." He placed it in a corner; then, removing the canvas cover from one of the wrecked boats, he hung it over the open side and end of the bridge, crawled within and donned his coat—a ready made, slop chest garment designed for a larger man—and, buttoning it around himself and the little girl, lay down on the hard woodwork. She was still crying, but soon, under the influence of the warmth of his body, ceased and went to sleep.

Huddled in a corner, he gave himself up to the torment of his thoughts. Two pictures alternately crowded his mind—one that of the woman of his dream entreating him to come back, which his memory clung to as an oracle; the other of this woman cold and lifeless fathoms deep in the sea. He pondered on her chances. She was close to or on the bridge steps. The boat, 24, which he was almost sure was being cleared away as he looked, would swing close to her as it descended. She could climb in and be saved unless the swimmers from doors and hatches should swamp the boat. And in his agony of mind he cursed these swimmers, preferring to see her mentally the only passenger in the boat, with the watch on deck to pull her to safety.

The potent drug he had taken was still at work, and this, with the musical swash of the sea on the icy beach and the muffled creaking and crackling beneath and around him—the voice of the iceberg—overcame him finally, and he slept to waken at daylight with limbs stiffened and numb—almost frozen.

And all night as he slept a boat with the No. 24 on her bow, pulled by sturdy sailors and steered by brass buttoned officers, was making for the southern lane—the highway of spring traffic. And crouched in the sternsheets of this boat was a moaning, praying woman, who cried and screamed at intervals for husband and baby and would not be comforted, even when one of the brass buttoned officers assured her that her child was safe in the care of John Rowland, a brave and trusty sailor, who was certainly in the other boat with it. He did not tell her, of course, that Rowland had hailed from the berg as she lay unconscious and that if he still had the child it was with him there—deserted.

Rowland, with some misgivings, drank a small quantity of the liquor and, wrapping the still sleeping child in the coat, stepped out on the ice. The fog was gone, and a blue, sailless sea stretched out to the horizon. Behind him was ice—a mountain of it. He climbed the elevation and looked at another stretch of vacant view from a precipice a hundred feet high. To his left the ice sloped to a steeper beach than the one behind him, and to the right a pile of hummocks and taller peaks, interspersed with numerous canyons and caves and glistening with waterfalls, shut out the horizon in this direction. Nowhere was there a sail or steamer's smoke to cheer him, and he retraced his steps. When but halfway to the wreckage he saw a moving white object approaching from the direction of the peaks.

His eyes were not yet in good condition, and after an uncertain scrutiny he started at a run, for he saw that the mysterious white object was nearer the bridge than himself and rapidly lessening the distance. A hundred yards away his heart bounded and the blood in his veins felt cold as the ice under foot, for the white object proved to be a traveler from the frozen north, lean and famished—a polar bear, who had scented food and was seeking it—coming on at a lumbering run, with great red jaws half open and yellow fangs exposed. Rowland had no weapon but a strong jackknife, but this he pulled from his pocket and opened as he ran. Not for an instant did he hesitate at a conflict that promised almost certain death, for the presence of this bear involved the safety of a child whose life had become of more importance to him than his own. To his horror, he saw it creep out of the opening in its white covering, just as the bear turned the corner of the bridge.

"Go back, baby, go back!" he shouted as he bounded down the slope. The bear reached the child first and with seemingly no effort dashed it, with a blow of its massive paw, a dozen feet away, where it lay quiet. Turning to follow, the brute was met by Rowland.

The bear rose to his haunches, sank down and charged, and Rowland felt the bones of his left arm crushing under the bite of the big, yellow fanged jaws. But, falling, he buried the knife blade in the shaggy hide, and the bear, with an angry snarl, spat out the mangled member and dealt him a sweeping blow which sent him farther along the ice than the child had gone. He arose, with broken ribs, and, scarcely feeling the pain, awaited the second charge. Again was the crushed and lifeless arm gripped in the yellow vise, and again was he pressed backward, but this time he used the knife with method. The great snout was pressing his breast; the hot, fetid breath was in his nostrils, and at his shoulder the hungry eyes were glaring into his own. He struck for the left eye of the brute and struck true. The five inch blade went in to the handle, piercing the brain, and the animal, with a convulsive spring which carried him half way to his feet by the wounded arm, reared up, with paws outstretched, to full eight feet of length, then sagged down and with a few spasmodic kicks lay still. Rowland had done what no Innuit hunter will attempt—he had fought and killed the tiger of the north with a knife.

It had all happened in a minute, but in that minute he was crippled for life, for in the quiet of a hospital the best of surgical skill could hardly avail to reset the fractured particles of bone in the limp arm and bring to place the crushed ribs. And he was adrift on a floating island of ice, with the temperature near the freezing point, and without even the rude appliances of the savage.

He painfully made his way to the little pile of red and white and lifted it with his uninjured arm, though the stooping caused him excruciating torture. The child was bleeding from four deep, cruel scratches, extending diagonally from the right shoulder down the back, but he found upon examination that the soft, yielding bones were unbroken and that her unconsciousness came from the rough contact of the little forehead with the ice, for a large lump had raised.

Of pure necessity his first efforts must be made in his own behalf, so wrapping the baby in his coat he placed it in his shelter and cut and made from the canvas a sling for his dangling arm. Then, with knife, fingers and teeth, he partly skinned the bear—often compelled to pause to save himself from fainting with pain—and cut from the warm but not very thick layer of fat a broad slab, which, after bathing the wounds at a nearby pool, he bound firmly to the little one's back, using the torn nightgown for a bandage.

ASSAULTED AND ROBBED IN SHOP

Young Desperadoes Act Brutally In Cambridge

Cambridge, Mass., May 17.—Two well dressed young men entered the junk shop of Alex Smith, at 127 Main street, beat Smith senseless with a hammer, robbed him of $95, and made their escape in the direction of Kendall square.

Smith was found by Lena Vincentini, an 8-year-old girl, who came to the shop to sell some rags while the men were struggling inside, and saw the two men beating Smith when she looked through the window.

The little girl, with her brothers, Jean and Edward Sullivan, returned after the men had gone and took Smith to a store nearby. He was then removed to a hospital, where he was found to be suffering from five ugly wounds in the head and from loss of blood. One tooth was torn from his mouth when one of the thieves jerked free his finger, into which Smith was biting. Smith will recover.

ERIE'S OFFICES VISITED

By Judge Archbald Is Testimony of Railroad Witness

Washington, May 17.—How Judge Robert W. Archbald of the commerce court appeared at the Erie's New York offices enlisting Erie officials' influence to buy the "Katy Did" coal land, while he had railroad cases awaiting decision, was told to the house judiciary committee in its impeachment investigation.

G. F. Brownell, vice president and general solicitor of the Erie, was the witness. He told of Judge Archbald's calling on him last summer. His testimony was to corroborate that of Captain W. A. May, manager of the Erie's coal properties, that Archbald sought the influence of the Erie officials after May had refused to recommend the sale of the clum coal "dump."

Mortgagee's Sale of Real Estate

By virtue of a power of sale contained in a certain mortgage deed given by James Craig and Annie L. Craig, his wife, in her own right, to Fred W. Wood dated January 25, 1905 and recorded in the Registry of Deeds for the County of Norfolk Book 999, page 583, will be sold at public auction, for breach of the conditions of said mortgage, on the premises hereinafter described, on Monday, the 10th day of June 1912, at forty-five minutes after two o'clock in the afternoon, all and singular the premises conveyed by said mortgage deed, and therein described substantially as follows:—

The following parcel of land situated in that part of Quincy, Massachusetts, known as "Norfolk Downs" being lot numbered 17 on plan of Charles D. Elliot, dated April 1892, and recorded with Norfolk Deeds, Book of plans No. 14, plan No. 640, and bounded and described as follows, viz:—Northeasterly, by Hancock Street, fifty (50) feet; Southeasterly, by Lot No. 16, on said plan, one hundred twenty-eight and 48-100 (128.48) feet; Southwesterly, by lots No. 28 and 29, on said plan, fifty 2-100 (50.02) feet; Northwesterly, by lot No. 18, on said plan, one hundred twenty-nine 99-100 (129.99) feet. Containing according to said plan, sixty-four hundred sixty-one 8-10 (6461.8) feet of land.

Said premises will be sold subject to the restrictions set forth in the title deeds and to any and all unpaid taxes and assessments.

$100.00 will be required to be paid in cash by the purchaser at the time and place of sale, balance in ten days from day of sale at twelve o'clock noon, at the office of the mortgagee, Room 43, 15 School Street, Boston, Mass.

FRED W. WOOD,
Mortgagee.

MAN CLAIMING TO BE A DOCTOR

Is Fined in Local Court For Alleged Violation of Law

HE PLEADED GUILTY

Thomas E. Abele, aged 45 years, who gives his address as 39 High street, Lynn, was arraigned in the district court, before Judge Avery this morning, charged with practicing medicine, in Quincy, without being registered. Abele who clainms to be a registered physician in Rhode Island and Vermont was arrested in Salem some months ago charged with performing an illegal operation and was in jail for some time awaiting trial by the superior court. At that time of his arrest, a letter was found among his effects from a West Quincy woman. Thinking that there might have been a similar case in this city, the police were notified and Lieut. McKay made an investigation. He found that Able had performed an operation on the the woman at West Quincy, although the woman could not say what kind of an operation it was that the man had performed.

The Salem woman died and for lack of evidence the defendant was discharged by the superior court. Thursday, when he was immediately placed under arrest on the Quincy warrant, Able claims that he came to Quincy at the request of a fellow lodge member to see the woman. He also claimed that he was legally registered in Rhode Island and Vermont although his occupation on the complaint is given as a decorator. He pleaded guilty in court this morning and was fined $100. He is now looking for the necessary amount to keep him out of jail.

TEN RODE GOAT AS BUFFALOES

Ten candidates were initiated at the meeting of Quincy Lodge, Benevolent Order of Buffaloes, held Thursday evening in Hibernian hall, Franklin street. A large number of members were present and many officials of other lodges were in attendance as guests. Three automobiles conveyed a delegation of visiting Buffaloes to the hall and the meeting proved most enjoyable for all.

Addresses were made by Maurice Cunningham, a well-known attorney of Malden, supreme advocate of the order, Charles Clark of Worcester, a member of the Board of Trustees, Arthur Hart of Beverly and Charles Finn president of the Quincy lodge. Mayor Fall of Malden was scheduled to speak, but was unable to attend. Mayor Eugene R. Stone was expected to be present as a candidate, but numerous engagements prevented him from taking the degree. The regular degree team assisted the officers in the initiation work.

II was announced at the meeting that a convention of Buffaloes will be held in Corinthian hall, Boston, the first Sunday in June.A short entertainment was provided by some of the members of Quincy lodge, and refreshments were served at the close of the meeting.

RAG PICKERS NOT TO RAID DUMPS

Board of Health Checks Removal of Infected Stuff

STEP IN RIGHT DIRECTION

Action has been taken by the Board of Health looking to the stopping of parties who make a practice of visiting public dumps and picking over refuse and carrying away anything they may think of value. It has been particularly noticeable that rag pickers have been in the habit of visiting the public dump and carrying away any pieces of rags and things of that nature that might be found. Doubtless in many cases these pieces of rags are contaminated and are filled with disease breeding germs.

The new rule of the Board of Health which is published elsewhere forbids any persons taking anything from public dumps without a special permit of the Board.

INTEREST TO DIVORCED PEOPLE.

One of the new laws passed by the legislature this year and which goes into effect on May 25, is of interest to divorced persons who seek to remarry. Under this law it is necessary where either party has been divorced to file with the City Clerk, when applying for a license, to file a certificate from the clerk of the tribunal, before which the divorce was granted. This is another blow at the marriage in haste and repent at leisure class.

A GOOD TRYOUT.

The Brown class for three years the championship team of the Greater Boston Church league, has been billed as the attraction at Merrymount Park tomorrow afternoon with Charlie Ganzel's Makaria team. The visitors hail from Somerville and last year won the baseball championship of that city. The local team has a clean slate to date and a victory from this aggregation will put them in fine trim for the start of the Quincy City League on May 30th. Brett of Rive will be on the mound for Makaria, while "Root" Chapman will do the receiving. The game is scheduled to begin sharply at 3.30.

BRIEFS

Thomas Pratt is very ill at his home 162 Billings street.

One of our rising young night patrolmen is soon to become a benedict taking for his partner a well-known young lady of the city.Many friends extend good wishes to John and Mary.

Patriotic exercises are to be held at the home of Mrs. Newman Savage, 181 Franklin street, South Quincy, Saturday evening. All patriotic orders and friends are invited to be present to help celebrate Peace and Arbitration day. Mrs. E. A. Penniman, Patriotic instructor will have charge of the program.

NOTICE

At a meeting of the Board of Health held May 15, 1912, the following regulation was adopted.

Reg. 39. No person shall remove from a public dump, matter of any sort without permission from the Board of Health. Whoever violates this regulation shall be punished by a fine not exceeding one hundred (100) dollars for each and every offense.

LOOKS GOOD FOR TOWN RIVER

Wollaston and Squantum Clubs May Get Channels

BILLS CARRY $31,000

Boston, May 16—The clerk of the House ways and means committee Thursday anounced that the bill providing for the dredging Town river and the one providing for the dredging the channel of the Wollaston and Squantum yacht clubs will both be given public hearings on Monday next at 10.15 A. M. The Town river bill carries an appropriation of $25,000 while the yacht clubs bill asks for $6000. It is expected that the committee will recommend both bills, they having been given the unanimous favorable vote of the committee on Harbors and Public lands.

AT PEACE WITH UNITARIANS

The Massachusetts Universalist church convention, in session in Boston the past few days, endorsed the development of a method of transfer for ministers between the Universalist and Unitarian denominations that shall promote comity and guard against imposition from unworthy ministers. Rev. George L. Perin, D. D. of the Missionary circle was the principle speaker Thursday.

Rev. Fannie M. Austin, attended the convention as the representative of the Quincy Universalist church, and with Mrs. Thomas Addison was a delegate to the Universalist missionary meeting.

Mrs. Harriet Lombard, Miss Emily Blake and Mrs. Robert Reed were the Quincy delegates to the state convention. Bartlett Spooner was the delegate to the Sunday school convention.

Mrs. Thomas Addison of Quincy was elected vice president for the third district of the Woman's Universalist Missionary society of Massachusetts.

SCHOOL GAMES.

Little difficulty was experienced by the Willard School in defeating the Atherton Hough nine at Merrymount park Thursday afternoon by a score of 12 to 0.

Burnham who started the game for Atherton, allowed six runs in the opening inning and retired in favor of Jackson, who, while faring a little better, was prevented from showing up to advantage by costly errors made by his team.

Three runs were tallied in the second on two errors, and two bases on balls. Two hits, a base on balls and a hit by pitched ball allowed two runs in the third, while the last run was annexed on an error and base on balls.

The score by innings:

	1	2	3	4	5	6	R	H	E
Willard	6	3	2	0	1	x	12	8	1
Atherton Hough	0	0	0	0	0	0	0	3	6

Batteries—Egan and Hodge; Burnham, Jackson and LeCain.

STATE FREED OF BRIDGE BURDEN

Cost of Neponset Structure to be Assessed Elsewhere

QUINCY PAYS BIG PART

The Neponset Bridge bill which provides for a new bridge to take the place of the present structure between Quincy and Neponset, came up in the Senate Thursday when it was ordered to a third reading. When the bill came up on an amendment of Senator Horgan the bill was amended so to eliminate the Commonwealth from any part of the expense. This left the bill which called for an appropriation of $100,000 to be borne by the City of Boston, City of Quincy, the street railway, Norfolk and Plymouth counties. Senators Clark and Hersey tried to have Plymouth county stricken out but failed, the amendment being defeated by a vote of 2 to 28.

The original bill called for an appropriation of $175,000 but Mayor Stone put up a strenuous objection. A compromise was then made satisfactory to Mayor Stone and the amount placed at $100,000.

Under the new bill the assessment is as follows:—Plymouth county 3 per cent; City of Boston 50 per cent; City of Quincy 22 per cent; Street railway 15 per cent, and Norfolk county 10 per cent.

GLADYS IRWIN BITTEN BY DOG

Animal Believed to Have Been Afflicted With Rabies

PURSUED AND KILLED

Gladys the 12-year old daughter of George Irwin of Gilmore street was bitten this noon by a dog that is thought to have had an attack of the rabies. The dog was about the restaurant of the girl's father and it was noticed that he acted queerly but nothing strange was thought of it. As soon as the girl had been bitten the police were notified and the patrol wagon was sent out to round the dog up. The animal was traced to Braintree where it was caught and shot. The dead animal was then taken tothe office of Dr. Francis Abele, Jr., for him to examine to see if he was afflicted with the rabies.

BOYS STRAYED OVER TWO MILES

The lost child call was sounded at 12.24 this noon followed by one round from box 612, to summon help to search for two small boys that had been missing since shortly after 11 o'clock. One of the missing boys is Lawrence Howard the three and a half year old son of Herbert W. Howard of 50 Tyler street, and the second boy was a visitor about the same age named Parker. The boys were about the yard playing, as supposed and were not missed until they failed to return for dinner. A hurried search was made of the neighborhood, but without result. The police were then notified and the lost child call sounded. The two children were found shortly after 1 o'clock near Butler's pond, by George Glover, who notified the police. When Mr. Glover found the boys they were having a good time throwing pebbles into the pond.

CENTENARIAN BURIED HERE

Michael Welch 105 Years Old Formerly of Quincy

MAN DIED IN SPRINGFIELD

Probably the oldest man to be buried in Quincy is Michael Welch, whose body was brought from Springfield, Mass., and interred in St. Mary's Cemetery, West Quincy, Thursday afternoon. A look at the death certificate by Undertaker Edward L. Bean, revealed that the dead man was 105 years old.

All that could be learned of the deceased was that he formerly resided in Quincy leaving here many years ago.. It is said that he is a relative of Ex-representative Peter T. Fallon. Services over the deceased were conducted shortly after noon by Rev. Henry T. Grady, pastor of St. Mary's church.

TOMORROW'S BASE BALL.

Quincy base ball players and teams are interested in a great many games which will be played tomorrow, as Quincy will be represented on no less than five diamonds. Two games will be played at home, Brown class of Somerville vs. Makaria at Merrymount park, and Mt. Hope Red Sox vs. Orient A. A., at the Ward three playground.

Quincy teams will play on other diamonds as follows: South Quincy vs. United Shoe Machinery Company at Beverly Colonials vs. Wilson & Larrabee team at Franklin field, Boston, and Quincy Y. M. C. A., vs. Chelsea Y. M. C. A., at Chelsea.

BASE BALL.

The Colonials of West Quincy play their first game away from home tomorrow afternoon, when they travel to Franklin Field to cross bats with the strong Larrabee team. The local boys have not yet suffered defeat this season and they are especially anxious of taking the measure of a team that can also boast of a clean record of victories to date.

A game that has been awaited with keen interest during the past week, takes place tomorrow afternoon on the Ward Three playgrounds, where the Orients, combination of ball tossers who are out to beat all reacrds in local circles this season, try conclusions with the Mt. Hope White Sox. A large crowd of rooters is expected at the game and the contest gives promise of being a warm one.

HIGH SCHOOL AMATEUR ACTORS GIVE CLEVER RENDITION OF FUNNY PLAY

Young Performers Greatly Please and Surprise by the Talent Displayed

The Funny and Startling Situations and Good Acting Appreciated

Members of the senior class of the Quincy High school presented the annual dramatic entertainment at the High school hall, Friday evening. The laughable three act comedy, "The Time of His Life," was the vehicle used on this occasion to demonstrate the dramatic skill of the participants and their efforts were in every way crowned with success, the high standard of previous years being maintained to a marked degree.

In the "Time of his Life," Tom Carter an eccentric young man is visiting his sister Mrs. Bob Grey. The servants have been granted leave of absence and the butler "Uncle Tom" a colored person has received permission to attend a cakewalk some miles away. In this deserted condition brother and sister are notified by telegraph that Peter Wycombe, a pessimist, always ailing, a walking drug store, and his wife will pay a long expected visit and arrive for dinner that night.

To relieve his sister of any burden, Carter jokingly blacks up in the role of Uncle Tom to assist his sister out of the dilemma. Dinner is secured from the restaurant. But Tom is horror-stricken to find that the Wycomes are accompanied by their neice, Miss Dorothy Landon, a charming girl with whom he is very much in love, and the curtain goes down on the first act, as Tom makes the discovery and explodes with "Christopher Columbus."

In the meantime, there are many amusing situations, which are mirth provoking.

The real Uncle Tom comes home, sees his double, rushes away and the police are notified to hunt him up. Dorothy has been let into the secret of Carter's disguise and she meets him, as she supposed, in the dining room, and asks him to deny the story of her aunt that he is an arrant flirt, but it is the real Tom she meets who startles her with the announcement that his first wife was dead and he was "always a favorite with the women."

Bob Gray comes home late accompanied by Dorothy's father, James Landon with whom he is interested in mining. The latter is discovered in the library by the real Uncle Tom and Wycome and tied up as a suspected burglar. The imitation Uncle Tom while out seeking for the real one, is discovered and taken into custody by Officer Hogan and returned home just as the household is awakened by the discovery of the supposed burglar. Mr. Landon is very dignified and objects to a son-in-law masquerading as a colored butler, but when informed by his daughter that he cut rather a sorry figure, tied up as a housebreaker he weakens and even forgives his long time enemy, Wycombe on condition that he refrain from taking medicine or pills in his presence in the future.

And as the play moved along with delightful smoothness, so far as the performers were concerned, but with startling and trying situations for the characters, which proved most amusing to the audience. However everything ended all right and everyone was satisfied when the closing curtain call came.

Philip Halvosa, Jr., as Tom Carter, accepted the part of the bored brother in the first act in a very satisfying way, and his quick shift to the negro character which he held for the balance of the play, was a clever hit of versatile work and won him much applause.

As Mrs. Bob Grey, Miss Juanita F. Metherall, made a charming young matron, giving a very clever interpretation of her part and her ready sympathy with the lines and role she assumed, were spontaneous.

Miss Lilian L. Moyle, made all there was in the part of Mrs. Peter Wycombe, "a personage," the wife of the ailing one and there was no part of it in which she showed any lagging sympathy or want of understanding.

Miss Olive Barnicoat, as Dorothy Landon, gave all there was in that girlish part to make it ring true, and her work was fully appreciated.

Everett C. Andrews, as the colored butler, "Uncle Tom" had considerable to do, and framed up the part in good style, his negro dialect and laugh being features of the play.

Herbert Johnson as Officer Hogan, Raymond Hall, as Bob Grey and Ambrose O'Dowd as James Landon, did not have a great deal to do. In fact they do not enter upon the scene until the third and last art, but they made all there was in their respective parts, and their work showed the same care of detail and desire to do the right thing as that of the other performers.

Maurice A. Blackmur, had undoubtedly the most difficult part in the play, that of Peter Wycombe, "a pessimist." A shade one way or the other would have made this part ridiculous or have it fall flat. The greatest praise that can be accorded Blackmur, is that he was in hearty sympathy with the part

HAPPY CHILDREN GREET PASTOR

Rev. and Mrs. B. A. Willmott Look Upon 200 Bright Faces

ALWAYS THEIR FRIEND

A reception was tendered Rev. and Mrs. Benjamin A. Willmott Friday afternoon, in the vestry of Bethany church, by the children connected with the Sunday school, under fourteen years of age. There were about two hundred present and their bright smiling faces radiated happiness.

Mr. and Mrs. Willmott received in the ladies' parlor unattended. One little miss presented a button hole bouquet of violets to Mr. Willmott, and another was given Mrs. Willmott.

The ushers, who performed their duties with great ability and much dignity were: Guy Shaw, Warren Crane, Earl Bates and Theodore Rice.

This very pleasant affair was superintended by Mrs. Everett Crane, president of Bethany sewing circle, ably assisted in arranging details by the following ladies: Mrs. A. H. Gilson, Mrs. Bromley Mrs. C. W. Guy, Mrs. V. E. Miller, Mrs. George L. Badger, Miss Addie I. Park, Mrs. Charles Gragg, Miss Fannie French, Mrs. George Mcfarlane, and Mrs. Charles Sampson.

The vestry and ladies' parlor were very tastefully decorated with flowers, potted plants and ferns, by the following committee: Mrs. Abbott Melcher, Miss Addie I. Park and Mrs. Everett Crane. During the reception the Misses Gladys and Margaret Hunt rendered various selections, very acceptably and in their usual admirable manner.

Refreshments were served, consisting of frappe, fancy cakes and dainty crackers, the ladies being assisted in serving by the ushers.

After all of the guests had been bountifully helped, the children were seated and Mr. Willmott talked to them very pleasantly and happily. He said in part: "In the first place, children, we ought to thank these ladies who have so graciously entertained us this afternoon. Those in favor clap their hands. (Needless to say the response was hearty and vociferous.) Now children, I love to look into your happy faces, when you meet me on the street, I want you to speak to me and look upon me as your friend. We want to make our Sunday school just the best one, and each one must do his part. If you see a boy or girl who does not attend Sunday school invite him or her to come to your Sunday school. I want you all to come to church Sunday mornings, you know I have a little sermon prepared expressly for you children. I want you to listen to them, and the boy or girl who writes the best report of them will be presented with a nice Bible.

Then in September we want to form a choir. I want enough of you to fill the gallery in the end of the church. You will have a teacher to train you and I want you to sing the opening hymn."

At the close of Mr. Willmott's talk, games were indulged in until six o'clock, all entering into the spirit of the occasion with zest and hearty good will.

The youngest member present was Beatrice Fitts one year and a half old.

SUDDEN DEATH AT FORE RIVER

Charles Haskins Collapsed While at Work On Ship

HEART FAILURE CAUSE

While working on the battleship, Rivadavia at the Fore River Ship yards about 8.15 o'clock this morning, Charles Haskins, 48, of Quincy Point road, collapsed and fell over the side of the ship. He was picked up by a fellow workman and removed to the Fore River hospital, where Dr. Blanchard pronounced him dead. On order of Dr. H. W. Blanchard, the body was removed to Hall's undertaking rooms, to await the autopsy by Medical Examiner Frederick E. Jones. It was said that heart failure was the cause of the death.

For the past six years, Haskins was subject to fainting spells. He had been employed at the Fore River for a long time and was widely known throughout the city. He is survived by a wife and two children. Dr. Blanchard said that Haskins showed every sympton of having heart failure.

WOODWARD GIRLS IN ANNUAL GAMES

Athletic Young Misses Give Good Account of Training

RESULT OF MORNING GAMES

Conditinons were ideal for the annual meet of the Woodward Institute at Merrymount park, which began this morning at ten o'clock and which, it is expected will end about five this afternoon. The morning was devoted to the sporting events, to be contested in by members of the four classes of the school. Shortly after one o'clock, luncheon was partaken of, followed in turn by a walking match, songs and cheers by the classes, an impromptu marching and dancing, enjoyed to the strains of a hurdy gurdy secured for the occasion.

The list of sports comprised the flag race, arch ball contest, running relay, clothes pin race, straddle ball, fifty yard dash, captain ball, in which the class of 1912, try conclusions with the classes of 1913 and 1914, with 1915, bean bag, relay, chariot race, sack race, three legged race, all followed by the finals of the different events.

Miss Edna Carret, supervisor of physical training in the schools of Milton was referee, while the judges were Miss Grace L. Burke, Miss Mary W. Dinegan, and Miss Martha E. Maccarty, all teachers of the Institute. The principal of the school, Horace W. Rice, was announcer.

The results up to one o'clock were as follows:

Flag Race—Won by '13, second '12, third '14.

Arch Ball—Won by '13, second '14.

Relay Race—Class '12 beat '13 and '14 beat '15.

Clothes Pin Race—Won by '15, second '14, third '15.

Straddle Ball—Won by '12, second '13.

Fifty Yard dash—Won by '12, second '15, third '12.

Captain Ball—Won by '13, second '12.

The remaining events, together with a full account of the points scored by the four classes, will appear in Monday's issue.

☞The tickets for the Hospital Aid Concert are meeting with a generous response. Quincy singers with Miss Moorhouse 'cellist give an attractive program. Other soloists are Mr. and Mrs. Follett, Mrs. Slade, Mrs. Hill, Misses Litchfield, Hardy and Allen Miss Spear directs.

GOLDEN SHOWER TO POPULAR PAIR

Mr. and Mrs. Mutch Visited by a Party of Jolly Surprisers

WILL SOON LEAVE THE CITY

Mr. and Mrs. Alex Mutch, who are about to move from Quincy to Canton, where Mr. Mutch is to take charge of the Cabot estate were pleasantly surprised at their home 213 Liberty street, Friday evening, by a large number of their friends. Mr. Mutch has been employed at the polishing mill of Thomas Mitchell for a number of years and has been prominent in several organizations of the city and it was to testify in a small way the high regard in which he and his family are held that his friends made their unannounced visit.

Both Mr. and Mrs. Mutch are prominent in local organizations, Mr. Mutch being one of the trustees of the Water Street Presbyterian church and also a member of Clan McGregor O. S. C. and the Foresters. Mrs. Mutch is the president of the Ladies' Aid society of the Water Street Presbyterian church and secretary of the Amusement Committee of the Loyal Ladies.

During the evening there were songs by John Hutchinson, John C. Murray, David Muckle and Edward Davidson. Refreshments were also served during the evening.

One of the pleasing events of the gathering was the presentation to Mr. and Mrs. Mutch of a purse containing a substantial sum, the presentation speech being made by Councilman Charles A. Ross. At 12 o'clock all joined in singing "Auld Lang Syne," and then departed for their homes.

Among those present were Mr. and Mrs. John C. Murray, Mr. and Mrs. John Stronach, Miss Bella Stronach, Frank Stronach, Mr. and Mrs. Norrie, Mr. nad Mrs. David Muckle, Mr. and Mrs. Charles Miller, Mr. and Mrs. Alex Smart, Mr. and Mrs. Duncan Grassick, Mr. and Mrs. Duncan McLenan, Mr. and Mrs. Robert Boggs, Mr. and Mrs. Daniel Dawson, Mr. and Mrs. Howie, Mr. and Mrs. Alex Mundie, Mr. and Mrs. James Reid, Mr. and Mrs. John Mckay, John Hutchison, Councilman and Mrs. Charles A. Ross, Mr. and Mrs. Albert Williams, Mr. and Mrs. Frank McNeil, Mrs. Bowman, Mrs. John Ross, Mrs. Scarbora, Geo. Adams, Edward Davidson, Mrs. Lemuel Tiney, William Chalmers, Robert Mitchell, Everett Howie and William Muckle.

GIVEN DIAMOND PIN.

A number of his friends gathered at the home of Gladston Proverb, Washington street, last evening and tendered him a surprise party. The merrymaking started as soon as the happy people had convened and continued until a late hour. On behalf of the many assembled, Miss Marjorie Corbett presented the host with a handsome diamond stickpin. Mr. Proverb responded very gallantly in acceptance of the gift. Songs, jokes and games of all sorts kept those present in a happy mood at all times and refreshments were served at the close of the affair.

BOY JUMPED FROM TEAM TO MEET DEATH FROM AN AUTO

Ten-Year Old Elmer Walther Tossed in the Air by Bullard Machine on Washington St.

Boy's Identity Unknown for Hours at Request of Father

Elmer, the 10 year old son of Simeon Walther of 5 Watson terrace, was almost instantly killed on Washington street, just east of Pond street at 6 o'clock Friday night, when he was struck by an automobile, owned and driven by William P. Bullard of 15 Locust street, Dorchester. The Walther boy with companion was riding on the rear of one of Richard's grain wagons going toward his home. Bearing down upon them was an auto truck which appeared to be coming at considerable speed and evidently fearing that he would be run into the boy jumped off the wagon and ran directly in front of the automobile of Mr. Bullard, which was coming toward Quincy. Before the driver could make any effort to stop his car it struck the boy, throwing him several feet.

Mr. Bullard immediately stopped his car and taking the boy on board rushed him to the office of Dr. Burke. The boy died however before reaching the doctor's office. Mr. Bullard then called up the police station and notified them of the accident and Officer Milford was sent to the doctor's office, then returned to the police station with Mr. Bullard. After hearing Mr. Bullard's story which was corroborated by several other witnesses Chief Burrell allowed him to go home.

Mr. Bullard was returning home from North Weymouth, and with him in the car were his two sons William and Francis, Henry D. Gerrish a carpenter and two Italian laborers. They all agree that the car was not going fast and that the accident was entirely unavoidable.

There were many other people on the street at the time who witnessed the accident and they all exhonorate Mr. Bullard from blame.

As soon as it was ascertained that the boy was dead he was removed to Hall's undertaking rooms. At this time the name of the boy was not known and all efforts to learn his name were without avail for sometime, as the boy's father refused to give his name to those about and cautioned those who knew him to keep quiet and not tell the boy's name. For this reason it was not until some three hours later that his name was learned by Chief Burrell who sent an officer to the boy's house to learn the name. Shortly after 9 o'clock the boy's father appeared at Hall's undertaking rooms and claimed the body.

While the accident is a sad one, the wonder is that more accidents of a similar nature do not occur for boys will persist in getting on behind passing teams and with the hundreds, nay thousands of swiftly moving automobiles on the streets at all times, boys are apt to take too many chances.

DOG WITH RABIES RUN AMUCK

Kicked End Over End by Restaurant Proprietor

TWO CHILDREN BITTEN

Dr. Francis Abele, Jr., to whom the dog shot by Officer Phillips was taken, after biting one little girl and creating quite a scare in City Square, Friday afternoon made an examination of the dead animal Friday night and said that it had the rabies. The injuries to the Irwin girl are not of a serious nature and as the wounds were immediately cauterized no ill effects are anticipated. The litle girl was about that afternoon and was experiencing no ill effects.

It has been learned that the dog came from Neponset and that previous to coming to Quincy it is said that he bit one or two persons there.

He was first noticed about Irwin's restaurant near the car barn a little after noon. Attention was attracted to him by the queer barking noise he was making. In the kitchen of the restaurant at the time was Edith Irwin an older sister and Gladys. The dog entered the kitchen and the girls thinking that he was looking for something to eat tried to drive him out. The dog then made a spring for Gladys and before she could prevent he had sunk his teeth into her arm. He then ran out and to City Square where he entered the store of H. P. Kittredge. Mr. Kittredge was coming down a step ladder when the dog entered and making a spring for him the dog succeeded in tearing away part of his trousers. From here the dog entered Thompson's restaurant which was full of people. Mr. Thompson made for the animal his foot catching him behind the ear knocking him end over end into the street. The dog then started up Hancock street.

In the meantime the police had been notified and Sergt. Hanson had ordered Officer Phillips to get his shot gun and go after the dog. Officer Phillips took the patrol wagon and the dog was chased through South Quincy, going past the police station thence to near the old water pumping station and to South Braintree where the police patrol wagon caught up with him and Officer Phillips put a charge of buckshot into the animal which blew his head off. The dog was then taken to the office of Dr. Abele for examination.

This morning it was learned from Chief Loring of Braintree that the dog entered a small store and bit Warren E. Dutton a seven year old boy on the hand and that the animal had also bitten several other dogs all of which have been killed.

HONESTY IN EVERYTHING

EDITORIAL COMMENT.

It would have been better if the 16-year old girl working in Worcester for 15 cents a day had been assigned to a place in some christian family rather than sent to the house of correction for vagrancy.

It is quite appropriate that Red Cross nurses who perform exceptionally praiseworthy service will be rewarded in the future with a decoration of the Florence Nightingale medal. But it does seem as if a medal should be struck off to that great American figure in the Order, Clara Barton.

If the wives or daughters of any of those men who have organized the league against women voting, belong to the woman suffrage movement, then it is goodby to peace in those households.

The Brockton couple who had their honeymoon expenses paid were in luck for the time being. It remains to be shown if that condition will prevail.

Only a little matter of holding back the coffee crop, the price goes up and Morgan is enabled to buy more art treasures.

He who says the working man does pay the freight, is a candidate for membership in the Ananias club.

Many of the trusts have agreed to dissolve but will it be with an understanding for future operations?

Whitcher is certainly a wonder as an entertainer.

Michael Welch, 105 years old, lived too long for people to remember much about him.

The housewife is wondering what the weather product will be Monday, wash day.

According to Mrs. Emily J. James of Dorchester, her spouse, hurled hand painted china at her but as a dodger she was clever enought to evade the missals.

All does not appear to be smooth sailing in that proposed Baptist church merger, as many leaders have entered objection to the project.

The so-called vigilantes of San Diego, Cal., deserve a dose of their own medicine. The days of witchcraft, tar and feathers, Danites and other undesirable features of unchristian civilization have passed never to return.

CLEAN UP THE YARD.

Don't forget that the city teams make another call next week for your yard rubbish. The teams will carry away anything that would make your yard untidy—ashes, cans, bottles, stones, small branches and clippings from bushes, etc. Get them out on the sidewalk and have your yard on Memorial day the cleanest in the city. The Board of Health is doing all it can in the municipal cleanup, and it is up to every resident to co-operate in the good work.

PERFECT HARMONY.

There is nothing so delightful in a family or community as that ideal existence known as perfect harmony. It is so seldom encountered that many are sceptical of its ever existing in the real. Yet the people of Wollaston are giving as near an exemplification of it as possible in their endeavor to have certain land in that section of the city set apart as a public reservation.

They went to city hall to present their claims. There was no discordant fault finding note that their section of the city was more neglected than some others. This sectional jealousy was not noticeable. The men and women of Wollaston appeared at city hall to assert that they wanted this park. They had nothing to say of other people more fortunate in receiving recognition along those lines. That did not bother them. It did not enter into the discussion. They knew what they wanted and set it forth in a quiet, simple and dignified manner.

They even went further and agreed to expend about $1000 to put the land in good condition. Such loyalty and patriotism deserves recognition if not reward. It is very little which those people ask, and if the City Council can see its way clear to conscientiously do so, then the request should be granted.

LIGHT BY ALL MEANS.

The resolution in the state senate for a special commission to investigate the whole railroad system in this state, may and may not be a good thing. That it will be costly goes without saying, but that it will have any results, which will tend to change alleged existing evils is a horse of another color.

For years the people have been treated to this cry of needed reform in railroads and railroad management. Railroad men are business men and above all they are human. This mere statement in a measure answered many things supposed to require investigating.

Investigation of the character provided by resolution of this kind can have very little weight and much of the possible effect is rubbed off by its publicity. If a person is doing wrong you can never catch him by announcing that you are going to investigate his conduct. The person under such circumstances who would fail to remove the evidence or cause, would be to put it very, very mildly, lacking in judgment or intelligence of an average order.

FOOLS RUSH IN.

Vigilantes indeed! No such name should be applied to the law-breakers and senseless people who tarred and feathered and branded the manager of Emma Goldman, supposed to have affiliations with the Industrial Workers of the world. Time was when conditions in the great wild west demanded the strong, steadying hand of legitimate vigilantes who operated for the benefit of soldiers and made the great west as near livable as possible. But now those senseless knaves would bask in the glory of the name applied to men who were really great in their time

It is hardly necessary to point out that such persecutions create sympathy and if the movement is prejudicial to public good then such courses in the effort to suppress it is more hurtful than helpful.

RECREATION CONGRESS.

The school house recreation center receives much attention on the program of the Recreation congress to be held in Cleveland, Ohio, June 5th-8th. Men and women of national prominence will discuss its effect in lessening vice and immorality, in aiding immigrants to adjust themselves to American conditions. Some school buildings are used for motion picture exhibitions and for amateur dramatic performances, some are thrown open for dancing. In certain cities clubs are allowed to hold their regular meetings in the public school. Whether this evening use of school buildings is interfering with the use of these buildings during the day for classroom purposes will be discussed.

FEDERAL INQUIRY

On I. W. W. Is Now Proposed In California

Los Angeles, Cay., May 18.—Witnesses will be brought from the east to testify before the federal grand jury that has begun an investigation of the Industrial Workers of the World, several leaders of which, according to Dudley Robinson, United States assistant attorney, have been guilty of sedition in conducting the free speech crusade in San Diego.

In this respect the inquiry assumed a national aspect and its purpose, openly admitted by government officials, is to ascertain whether the Industrial Workers of the World, as a national organization, is liable to prosecution under the statutes of the United States.

TEACHERS' CLUB REVEL IN MUSIC

A delightful musicale given by the Humphrey Teachers' club under the direction of Enrico Barraja, was held Friday evening at High school hall; East Weymouth. Mr. Barraja was assisted by Mrs. H. Y. Follett, soprano; Mrs. C. Ray Blanchard, violin; Miss Miriam Davenport Gow, reader; Olindo Taddei, 'cello; J. Barraja Frauenfelder, bass.

The program was given before a numbers which won most applause were the Prologue from the opera "Mefistofele," as sung by Mr. Barraja Frauenfelder, and the Grand Polonaise A Fla, Op. 53, Chopin's as played by Mr. Barraja, the latter selection receiving a continuous round of applause.

CLAM FEED BY MODEST CHEFS

The Quincy Women's Riverside club is composed of women of varied enterprise and ideas. They count among their numbers many endowed with literary and musical ability and a poetess who courts the muses. And with all this talent there are some members who profess to excel in the culinary art. With this idea in their head they propose to take chance and afford those who dare to do likewise in sampling some dishes of their concoction, Wednesday afternoon, May 22, at one o'clock at the clubhouse.

A clam chowder with all the "fixins" will be served and for those who survive the gastronomic battle, a delightful social hour. Mrs. E. R. Blanchard, who has much to do with the success of the club, has announced that if the clam chowder passed muster all right, more ambitious efforts in the same line will follow in the future.

HIGH SCHOOL DRAMATICS

and many a professional would have failed to frame up to the part as well as he did. He maintained a perfect balance from start to finish. The play as a whole was admirably staged. The settings in keeping with the scenes and period, the performers all clever and pleasing in their parts and they were favored with an exceptionally large, and appreciative and favorable audience.

Before the curtain and between the acts the Alumnae orchestra performed in a very pleasing manner, many up-to-date selections.

A corps of young ladies of the school, performed the duties of ushers in a satisfactory manner.

The cast of characters and scenes of the play were as follows:

Mr. Bob Grey — Raymond Hall
Mrs. Bob Grey — Juanita F. Metherall
Tom Carter, Mrs. Grey's brother — Philip Halvosa, Jr.
Mrs. Peter Wycombe, a "personage," — Lillian L. Moyle
Mr. Peter Wycombe, a "pessimist" — Maurice A. Blackmur
Dorothy Landon, — Olive Barnicoat
Mr. James Landon, Sr., Dorothy's father — Ambrose O'Dowd
Uncle Tom, an old colored butler — Everett C. Andrews Officer Hogan — Herbert Johnson

SYNOPOSIS,

Act I.—Dining room in the Grey home about five o'clock P. M.

Act II.—Same as Act I, about an hour later.

Act III.—Library, at two o'clock A. M., the same night.

At the close of the third act, the audience insisted on a curtain call, and while the young performers were bowing their acknowledgments, boquets of flowers were presented Miss Juanita F. Metherell, Miss Lillian L. Moyle, Miss Olive Barnicoat, Philip Halvosa, Jr., Maurice Blackmur and Everett C. Andrews.

MEMORIAL SERVICE.

Tomorrow at 1.30 P. M. Reynolds Relief Corps of Weymouth, assisted by other organizations of the town will hold memorial services for the sailor and soldier dead of the Navy on the bridge at Quincy Point. There will be memorial addresses, singing and scattering of the water with floral tributes and at the conclusion of the exercises, by invitation of Rev. Robert H. Dix, the company will repair to the Universalist church in North Weymouth, where Peace and Arbitration Day will be observed with an address by the pastor and other appropriate exercises.

NEWS ITEMS FROM MILTON

Colonel Abner B. Packard Camp, No. 74, Sons of Veterans, held an entertainment in aid of the relief and memorial fund, in the Town hall, Thursday evening, which was largely attended. The Cosmopolitan Concert company furnished a most enjoyable program of music.

Patriotic services, to which a cordial invitation to be present is extended to all Patriotic organizations, will be conducted in the Methodist church, Lower Mills, on Sunday, May 26, by the pastor, Rev. Webster H. Powell.

The Powell class of the Methodist Episcopal church will observe Ladies' night on Wednesday evening. A reception and banquet will take place and an entertainment, in which the Lotus quartet will play a prominent part.

William H. Rand has returned to Bryant avenue after a short vacation at Cottage City.

The many friends of Patrolman James Wigley are glad to see that he has recovered from his illness and is able to be about on duty again.

Mrs. Charles B. Babcock of Thacher street, who was operated upon recently at the Homoeopathic hospital, is rapidly recovering.

Mr. and Mrs. Frederick A. Whitwell of Highland street are here for the summer months. They spent the winter in Dorchester.

Charles E. Churchill, for a number of years a well-known citizen of this town, has gone to Norwell to engage in the poultry business.

The Thursday Evening club will conduct a dancing party in Ellsworth hall on the evening of May 29.

Miss Constance Zerrahn of Robbins street has been entertaining Miss Eleanor B. Hopkins of Newark, N. J., this week.

Nathaniel A. Stone has returned to Centre avenue after an extensive vacation in the middle and western states

The resignation of Superintendent Asher J. Jacoby of the school department was the cause of much regret last week. He leaves August 1 for Elmira, N. Y., a city with a population of 40,000 people and which has offered him greater inducements than were possible in a town the size of Milton.

The following have been appointed by the Board of selectmen as members of the Art commission for one, two and three years respectively, Edward G. Hill of Canton avenue, Roger L. Scarfe of Canton avenue and Henry F. Bigelow of Brush Hill road.

The annual Spring Flower show will be held in the Town hall, June 15 and 16.

The current events meeting of the Woman's club will be held in the High school hall, Thursday at 2.45 P. M.

CAPITALISM ... CONDEMNED

Condemned by Socialists In Their National Platform

Indianapolis, May 18.—The national platform adopted by the Socialists' convention advocates the industrial and political demands, plans for collective ownership and aid for the unemployed, as drafted in the platform of four years ago. "Capitalistic concentration" and "soulless industrial despotism" are held responsible in the platform for the higher cost of living, increased burdens of armament, poverty, slums, child labor, and most of the insanity and crime. It is charged that the anti-trust laws, railroad restriction, with the prosecutions, indictments and investigations based upon such legislation have proved to be utterly futile and ridiculous.

The Industrial Workers of the World lost their contest for recognition when, by an overwhelming vote, the meeting adopted the report of the committee on labor organizations, advising a neutral attitude regarding labor unions, and indorsement of neither the American Federation of Labor nor the Industrial Workers.

Suffragists scored in the convention when they amended the section of the constitution pertaining to membership in the party to read "and unrestricted political rights for both sexes." The successful amendment was carried, 135 to 86.

The report of the constitution committee was taken up seriatim. The most important changes regard the size and duties of the national committee and the initiation of the referendum. The new constitution provides the national committee shall consist of the state secretaries of all organized states and one additional for each state for every 3000 members. The committee is to meet at least once a year and as often as called. The referendum must be initiated by a state organization instead of by a local.

The new constitution declares no member of the Socialist party shall vote in primary or regular election for any candidate other than Socialists indorsed and recommended by the party.

Friday evening, May 10, Charles F. Mosman of 49 Walker street was most happily surprised by about thirty of his friends who came to help him celebrate his birthday in a fitting manner. The affair was a complete surprise to Mr. Mosman, and his friends left him with several remembrances of the day, among them being a mahogany clock, given by the men present and presented by Byron Miller, also a very pretty oak chair, given and presented by Gustav Woll. Mrs. Frank Badger spoke for the ladies present who wished to remember Mrs. Mosman and had selected two silver tablespoons. In this way Mrs. Mosman was surprised as well as her husband, for she had known of the party, but not of the gifts. Ice cream and cake were served and the evening was very enjoyable, considerable time being devoted to music. Mr. Mosman's friends all wish him many more birthdays and may they all be as happy.

OLD STYLE MUSIC FOR THE ELDERS

Arranged for Sunday at Wollaston Congregational Church

MUCH INTEREST IN THE EVENT

Sunday, May 19th, at the Wollaston Congregational church will be devoted especially to the old folks. The Music committee have the matter in charge, and are arranging a fine program of good old-fashioned hymns, familiar anthems, solos, and congregational singing under special leadership, which should prove most attractive to both old and young. The cooperation of all is cordially invited, and you are urged to send to Chester J. Hogue, 19 Lincoln avenue, the name of any favorite hymn or solo that you would like to hear rendered.

Two services, morning at 10.45, with apropriate sermon by Rev. Edward Norton, and plenty of suitable music, and afternoon vesper service at 4 o'clock, containing all the old favorite musical numbers.

There will be special decorations, added voices, music in keeping with the spirit of the occasion, and everybody interested may be sure of a cordial welcome.

Several automobiles have been placed at the disposal of the committee, and they stand ready to assist any of the older friends who are in need of such help, or who would otherwise be unable to attend. Those wishing to take advantage of this privilege please notify Mr. Hogue, stating which service they wish to attend. Those whose hearing is impaired will find the "earphones" installed in several of the pews a great help to their enjoyment of the services. Come and bring friends; a cordial welcome is extended to all.

BRIEFS

A few straw hats made their appearance on the street this morning.

Frank Stone has purchased the auxiliary sloop Apache III, and will race her during the coming season.

A regular meeting of the Houghs Neck Catholic Lyceum will be held in the clubhouse tomorrow afternoon.

The Maple street shops all report a fine spring trade, their commodities proving especially attractive to the women.

A committee from the First Baptist church of Charlestown recently visited the Memorial church to get points on building and architecture, as they contemplate a new building in the near future.

MRS. HELEN FRANCES DAVY.

On May 14th, passed away in Weymouth, Helen Frances Davy. Although an invalid for two years, Mrs. Davy had been very comfortable until a recurrence of her malady on Friday last caused a general sinking which terminated fatally at 7.30 P. M., last Tuesday. Rev. Robert H. Cochrane spoke feelingly at the funeral services yesterday at the home of one of her sons, on Cedar Cliff road, East Braintree, in the presence of many friends and relatives.

The floral tributes were many and beatuiful. Interment was in the family lot in Mt. Wollaston cemetery.

Mrs. Davy left a married daughter and two sons, also married. She was born in Quincy, Sept. 14, 1847, the only child of James W. Barter and Frances Rebecca Phipps, directly descended from the Arnold and Adams families, being a great "grandchild of Joseph Neale Arnold and Mehitable Adams, a first cousin to John Adams, second president of the United States. On Feb. 12, she was united in marriage to Manning Charles Davy, who died in 1905.

COMING EVENTS CALENDAR.

Under this heading will be published forthcoming entertainments in the city. A one-line announcement will be inserted free of charge, but if any committee desires more publicity as to place, hour, date, admission, etc., it will be inserted at 25 cents per line each insertion. Look the list over, and if your entertainment is not included, send it in.

MERRY PARTY BY RIVERSIDE CLUB

First Affair of Woman's Organization Proved Successful

OTHER GOOD TIMES TO COME

One of the prettiest, as well as one of the most enjoyable dancing parties of the season, was that given at Alpha hall, Friday evening, under the auspices of the Quincy Women's Riverside club. While the club, which came into existence a month ago, has held other events of a social nature at the club house of the Town River Yach club, this was its first dancing party, and if that of last evening may be taken as a criterion of similar events to be held in the future the members and their host of friends have many enjoyable times in store for them.

Friday evening's affair was entirely in charge of the ladies, save for half a dozen members of the entertainment committee of the Town River yacht club who had charge of the floor, and the ladies were most assiduous in their attention to the many little details that serve to make an affair of this kind most enjoyable.

Some little attempt had been made in the way of decorations, which were confined wholly to the platform. In the centre front of the platform was a May pole with its many colored streamers extending along the entire front of the platform making a very pretty effect. Beneath this were the letters Q. W. R. C. Behind this decoration was Wilson's orchestra which furnished the necessary accompaniment for the dancing which was in order until midnight.

The dance opened with a march which was a very pretty affair. This was led by the Floor Director, Fred W. Drake, and Mrs. Carolyn B. Mellen, President of the club. Following them came Mayor Eugene R. Stone and Mrs. Stone, the latter being chairman of the committee in charge. Then came Commodore Thompson B. Crane of the Town River Yacht club and Mrs. Crane, Commodore Ira M. Whittemore of the Quincy Yacht club and Miss Edith Stone, Councilman Joseph Carruthers and Mrs. Carruthers, Edward R. Blanchard and Mrs. Blancahrd, the latter being the vice president of the club, Edgar W. Emery, of Mudjekeewis fame and Mrs. Alice Peterson, and upwards of forty couples.

During the march the dance programs were distributed from two May baskets carried by two young misses in white, Doris Peterson and Elsie Carter.

The march was not one of those long drawn out affairs that so often characterize balls, but just long enough. The march over, general dancing was in order until 10.30, at which time there was a brief intermission during which ice cream and cake was served in Union hall. Here again the ladies proved themselves most attentive and there was an entire absence of the crush that often occurs during a short intermission.

The intermission was a brief one and it was not long before dancing was again in order, the party closing with a waltz, "Home Sweet Home."

As noted above Mrs. Eugene R. Stone was the chairman of the general committee in charge. Others on the committee were Mrs. Jennie Drake, Mrs. Margaret J. Ward, Mrs. Leonora Gibb, Mrs. Ella A. Hayden, Mrs. Mary F. Bass, Mrs. Eva Wiliams, Mrs. Alice Peterson, Mrs. Carolyn B. Mellen, Mrs. Sarah D. Blanchard, Mrs. Clara W. Small, Mrs. Muriel E. Arnold, Mrs. Rosilla F. Carter, Mrs. Mary Carruthers, Mrs. Chrissie F. Jardine.

The floor director was Fred A. Drake and assisting him as aids were Edgar W. Emery, R. M. Harmon, J. R. Emery, C. B. Mellen, Joseph Carruthers, J. Sullivan and William Lynch.

The Quincy Women's Riverside club was organized March 12, 1912 and regular business meetings are held the second Wednesday of each month at the Town River Yacht club. Although the club has only been organized for a short time it has a membership of seventy-five good prospects of becoming one of the leading organizations in the city. Its present officers are:—

President—Mrs. Carolyn B. Mellen.
Vice president—Mrs. Sarah D. Blanchard.
Secretary—Mrs. Ida Crane.
Treasurer—Mrs. Annie F. Harmon.
Executive Committee—Mrs. Agnes L. Emery, Mrs. Jessie E. Lee, Mrs. Gertrude Stone.

CHICAGO TO SET STANDARD

For the Democratic National Convention at Baltimore

WILL MOVE WITH DELIBERATION

Choice of Leader Will Depend Upon Attitude of Republicans—Champ Clark Astonishes the Democratic Leaders In Congress—Wilson Men Believe Country Is Ripe For a Progressive Democrat

Washington, May 18.—Democratic politicians in Washington say that the Baltimore convention is to be a deliberative body. "In what kind of deliberations is the Democratic convention to indulge?" was asked of one of the leaders.

"First," he answered, "we intend to deliberate on the action of the Republican convention at Chicago.

"There are two courses open to us. If the Republicans nominate Theodore Roosevelt, an act which will mean that they have made direct appeal to the extreme progressiveness of the country, we may decide to appeal to the same element and to the same thought, and this will mean that a progressive Democrat will receive the nomination. Again, it may be, if Mr. Roosevelt is nominated, as I think he is certain to be, we will decide to appeal to the conservative opinion of the country, and perhaps an appeal of this kind would be based on better sense. Whether we nominate a progressive or a conservative, it is certain that it will be done only after careful deliberation. There will be no stampeding for a favorite at Baltimore."

Champ Clark has a long lead in the Democratic presidential running, but this fact, oddly enough, has not influenced many of the Democratic politicians in Washington—the leading "official politicians"—to think that the speaker will be nominated.

Many of the leaders do not want Champ Clark because, as they put it bluntly, he can be beaten even in a Democratic year, when almost any other candidate could be elected. The Deocrats are strong on "popular rule" and yet in the face of the extraordinary showing which Clark has made in the primaries they fear defeat for him more sharply than for any one of the men who have run him second and third in the preference votes of the sstates. It may be a curious situation, but it is an existing one.

From the beginning of the campaign the Harmon advocates have said that the governor is the only candidate who certainly can carry Ohio and New York, pivotal states. Now rise the Underwood men to say that the Alabamian as certainly as the Ohioan can carry the two states named and with them states like Indiana and Connecticut.

The Wilson Democrats say—as they seem to have the right to say, in the light of recent events—the progressivism seems to have carried with it a good deal of the conservatism of the country and that the two in a way are becoming one.

There is plenty of Bryan talk in the capital. Mr. Bryan has said that he is not a candidate but there are many Democrats here in the following of the open candidates who believe that under certain conditions the nomination may go to the Nebraskan and that if such should be the case the honor will not be put aside. Some of the leaders think that the party would stand a much better chance of winning with Mr. Bryan this year, with Mr. Roosevelt as an antagonist, than ever before. Heretofore New York and Ohio have been insurmountable obstacles to Mr. Bryan's success. With defections from Roosevelt in both states they think that the Nebraskan might win.

TWO FOR DEATH CELL

Mrs. Cusumano and Harry Marshall to Pay Penalty

Plymouth, Mass., May 18.—Mrs. Lena Cusumano and Harry Marshall, both sentenced to die in the electric chair, will be taken to the death cell next Tuesday. Their execution is set for the week of June 1.

If Mrs. Cusumano suffers the extreme penalty she will be the first woman to die in the electric chair in Massachusetts and also the first woman to suffer capital punishment in the Bay State in fifty years.

Mrs. Cusumano and Marshall murdered the woman's husband at Bay Side, near Nantasket, about ten months ago. The crime was particularly revolting. Mrs. Cusumano has two children, both girls. She is slightly over 40 years old.

SOVEREIGN LIES IN COPENHAGEN

Guarded by Lieutenant's of the Army and Navy

Copenhagen, May 18.—The royal yacht Danneborg, bearing the body of the dead King Frederick VIII. of Denmark, arrived here at noon. The yacht was met at Koege bay by King Christian, Queen Alexandrene and King Haakon of Norway, who were aboard the warship Absolon. The royal salute was fired from the warship when the royal yacht entered the harbor roadstead.

At the chapel a brief service was held, with only the members of the royal family present. The members of the royal family then surrounded the coffin and knelt in silent prayer. Before leaving the chapel each of them kissed the Danish flag which had been spread over the bier.

The body will lie guarded by lieutenants of the army and navy until Monday. Then the citizens may pay tribute to their dead king, for the body will lie in state from Monday until Thursday. Thursday it will be taken to the Roskilde cathedral, where funeral services will be held on Friday.

Foss Again Vetoes Picketing

Boston, May 18.—Governor Foss vetoed the "peaceful persuasion" bill in connection with strikes and lockouts, which organized labor wanted enacted. The governor vetoed the same bill last year and the veto was sustained by the legislature. He maintains that the bill is unnecessary, saying that the right of free speech is already sacred in Masaschusetts.

Child Seriously Injured

West Bridgewater, Mass., May 18.—Everett C. Hayden, 6, son of Arthur C. Hayden of this town, stepped from a car traveling twenty-five miles an hour and was thrown violently to the ground, striking upon his head, sustaining concussion of the brain. The child is in a very serious condition.

BRIEFS

There will be a meeting of the Parents'-Teachers' Association at the Quincy school, Tuesday evening at eight o'clock. Dr. Walter L. Sargent will speak on "Contagious Diseases" and music is also promised on this occasion.

The many friends in his city of Miss Elvira Ewell of Halifax will be sorry to learn that she is seriously ill at her home having taken to her bed.

Rev. T. W. Davison was presented with a purse of sixty dollars last Saturday by the Ladies' Benevolent society of Memorial church. Mrs. Roger H. Wilde made the presentation in behalf of the society and expressed the appreciation of the ladies for the help Mr. Davison had given them last year.

The Walther Men's Class will meet at 12.15 in the Wollaston Baptist church. Rev. Joseph Walther will lead the discussion, subject: "Christ's teaching concerning the Law and Religion of His day." Everyone not in other similar classes invited.

Mr. and Mrs. Wilson Hammond are so far recovered in health as to be able to enjoy their meals in the dining room.

The Albee Class of the Wollaston Baptist Sunday School is to entertain Mrs. Pinkham's class and the Walther and Rand classes in the Chapel Tuesday evening at 7.45.

Mrs. Hattie E. Baker is receiving congratulations for her success in story writing. One of the Boston papers published a short story of her's last Wednesday, and she has also sent a novel to publishers for publication.

Sunday will be an interesting day at the Wollaston Baptist church. In the morning Rev. Robert Pinkham, a Wollaston boy, lately ordained as pastor of the Baptist church in Gardiner, Maine will preach. The Junior Endeavor at 3.30 will be omitted but at the Y. P. S. C. E. service at 6 o'clock Miss Ethel M. Campbell, Superintendent of the Junior society will speak and the Juniors will take some part. At 7 o'clock, the pastor will preach on "Back to Bethel. An interesting episode in the Life of Jacob." Everyone is invited to these services.

MAY PARTY.

A grand May party will be held on Saturday afternoon, May 25, from 2 until 8 o'clock, at the grounds around St. Chrysostom's Church, and a gala day is expected for young and old.

Old Mother Goose with her forty children, will be there all dressed in costume, Jack and Jill, if they don't have a spill will sell peanuts by the peck, Little Red Riding hood if she can't find her grandmother will sell cakes, Old King Cole is a jolly old soul and he'll be there to take the toll and all the children will do their best to interest you in the new Parish house, as that is what the proceeds are for. There will be a May pole dance at 3 o'clock, entertainment of songs and readings at 4 o'clock and a song service on the lawn at sunset. Sandwiches, cake and ice cream served on the lawn and supper in the Parish rooms at 6 o'clock.

RICHESON HAS A BREAKDOWN

Gives Way to a Screaming Attack In His Cell

AT FIRST HE WAS RESIGNED

But Gives Way to One of His Old Fits—Physicians and Friends Work With Him—Is Placed Under Quieting Effect of Opiates—Said Thoughts Were For Him Relatives and Friends

Boston, May 18.—Clarence V. T. Richeson has resigned himself to his fate. His attorney, William A. Morse, carried to him the news that Governor Foss had refused to interfere in his case and that he must go to the electric chair early next week for the murder of Avis Linnell.

Richeson heard the words of his attorney, which shattered at one blow all the hope which was in his heart, with little show of emotion. His face, always pallid, grew a little whiter, but except for that his outward appearance showed nothing of what was going on within.

He told Attorney Morse and his spiritual adviser, Rev. Hervert S. Johnson, who was present, that he was very much disappointed and surprised at the governor's action.

"My thoughts as I face the electric chair," Richeson said, are not so much for myself, as for my relatives and the friends upon whom I bring sorrow."

All of those present when the news was broken to him, say that Richeson took it like a man. There was not the slightest evidence of a breakdown, which the prison officials and his attorney had feared.

Richeson is allowed to have his glasses while he reads in his cell, but the moment he ceases reading they are taken from him. The jailers will not allow him to retain them, fearful that he might attempt to harm himself with the lenses.

Word was received in Boston last night that Thomas V. Richeson, the aged father of Clarence V. T. Richeson, will not come to Boston from his Virginia home to see his son once more before the latter goes to the electric chair.

The father has also instructed John L. Lee, his attorney, to communicate with the Massachusetts authorities and make arrangements for Richeson's body to be buried in or near Boston and not sent back to Virginia.

But his fortitude of the day gave way last night, and he raved like a madman in his cell.

Shortly after 7 o'clock Attorney Morse arrived at the prison. He was escorted to the death house. He had left there only a short time when suddenly terrific shrieks startled everyone in the neighborhood. They came from the death house and a crowd gathered at the gate looking in the direction of the cells. Dr. Lyons was called in haste.

It was later reported that Richeson had a recurrence of the attacks which many physicians have made affidavit to as having occurred at intervals during his life. The attack last night was one most violent. Richeson was aparently unconscious although delirious. Drugs were administered and later he became calm, although he did not recover consciousness until this morning.

Rev. Mr. Johnson and Chaplain Stebbins have promised Richeson that one or the other would remain with him until the end.

Although Warden Bridges, in accordance with his custom, is saying nothing as to the time of the execution, the belief is gaining ground that Richeson will be sent to the chair early Monday morning.

The sentence provides that the man must die some time during the week of May 19, between midnight and sunrise.

Word was received from Douglas Richeson of Chicago that he would arrive in Boston Sunday night to be near his brother.

J. H. BARTLEY JAILED

Accused by Federal Officers of Being a "White Slaver"

Salt Lake City, May 18.—John H. Bartley, scion of a prominent New Bedford, Mass., family, and a real estate broker of Boston, who was arrested here after administering a beating to Miss Marie Louise Gelinas, daughter of a well known society matron of New Bedford, has been charged by the federal officials with being a "white slaver." He is in the county jail.

Miss Gelinas, on her cot in a hospital, said:

"I have known Bartley many years. Our acquaintance began shortly after our school days in New Bedford. He induced me to leave home and accompany him west, promising to marry me."

It is said that Bartley inherited considerable money. He admits having led Miss Gelinas to "the bright lights" of several large cities.

STOLEN FROM HOME

Saved From the Titanic Wreck and Returned to Their Mother

New York, May 18.—Lola and Monon, the two little waifs of the Titanic who were picked out of the sea to remain a month in a strange land motherless, are at last clasped in their mother's arms.

The two children had been stolen by their father, after a court separation, Michel Navratil, who sailed on the Titanic under the name of Hoffman. He was drowned.

Mme. Navratil traveled alone in the second cabin of the Olympic. She had come after photographs of the two little strays, forwarded from this country, had been shown her in her home at Nince. Miss Margaret Hays, who had gone through the night of horror, April 15, and aboard the Carpathia had been the one to claim the little boys for keeping, was with her father at the dock to meet Mme. Navratil.

SMUGGLED GOODS TO DEER ISLAND

Commissioner Gore Proves by Special Investigation

Boston, May 18.—Wholesale trafficking in "dope," liquor, cigarets, tobacco and other contraband articles, on the part of guards and prisoners at the house of correction, Deer island, which has been going on for years, has been exposed by an investigation which Penal Commissioner Gore is just completing.

Private detectives who have been employed by the penal commissioner have secured evidence of such a startling nature that three of the guards at Deer island have been asked to resign.

Several more resignations are, it is known, likely to be asked for in the near future as the result of the penal commissioner's probe. It is expected also that some of the evidence may prove strong enough to warrant its being turned over to the district attorney's office and that indictments may be asked for.

It is generallly conceded by prison officials that no prison or reformatory is free from the drug traffic.

FLOYD ALLEN CONVICTED

He Was the Patriarch of the Hillsville Outlaws

Wythevillel, Va., May 18.—Floyd Allen, leader of the Carroll county gang, which shot up the court at Hillsville on March 14, causing the death of five persons, was found guilty of murder in the first degree.

The verdict of the jury carres with a penalty of death, and he will be electrocuted.

As the foreman made the pronouncement of the jury, Allen leaned forward in his chair and a wave of white passed quickly over the tan beneath his rugged and weather-beaten features.

The verdict made the state lawyers confident that they would also secure convictions of the five other alleged members of the "murder band" that shot up Judge Massie's courtroom and who still remain to be tried—Victor and Claude S. Allen, Floyd Allen's sons; Friel Allen and Sidna Edwards, his nephews, and Byrd Marion, a cousin.

Titanic Fund Too Large

London, May 18.—The Titanic relief funds now total $1,939,575. The lord mayor of London said that one of the chief difficulties he foresaw in the administration of the funds was that there would be too much money.

A BOSTON GIRL'S BUDGET.

Star Boarders of Philanthropic Hotel Grow Thin on Fat Pickles, They Claim—Boston Has New Divorce Preventative in Projected High School for Prospective Housewives—Theatrical House Play Strikes a Shining Mark—Ears of New England Folk to be Protected by Great Anti Noise Crusade.

Hush! An international movement to secure the suppression of avoidable noise in great cities will be inaugurated in Boston shortly, and, if necessary, efforts made to have laws passed which shll compel resrictions in noise nuisances. An anti noise committee's first meeting will be held August 15, at the Harvard Medical school. The presiding officer will be Professor Victor Grazzi of Pisa and Frorence universities, to whom the progress of the movement is largely due. Owing to his efforts in the past 15 years laws have been passed in Italy forbidding some of the signals formerly used by railroad engines and automobiles. Research at the aurel clinics in Boston show that 15 per cent of the patients have lost the ability to distinguish notes of low register when they are away from their work, and that to restore normal hearing it is necessary to have a certain amount of noise around them. It has long been known that subjection to continued noise causes deterioration of the aurel structure and accompanying nervous and muscular changes for the worse, and it is encouraging to note that something is to be done toward preventing ear splitting cacophonies.

An unsuspecting professional man accompanied the editor of a Boston newspaper to one of the current theatrical productions recently. The editor procured the seats which had been held for him and which were well to thefront of the orchestra. The professional man, a well-known dentist, who is acknowledged to be quite a "good looker" in spite of, or perhaps because of, a well polished superstructure, remarked, "I'll bet somebody will make a mark of my bald head before the show is over." During the performance a young man and girl do a sketch in the progress of which the girl leaves the stage and does a little song and dance up the aisle through the audience. On her return down the aisle she spotted the tempting crown of the dentist and, as he sat conveniently near the aisle, she took his head between her two hands and implanted a stage kiss on the bald spot—or a portion of it—exclaiming as she did so, "Oh you Doctor!" Her fellow actor immediately leaped from the stage in an apparent rage of jealously, bent on finishing up the dentist. The latter realized that he was the butt of a joke and said he would meet the young man outside after the show—and buy him a drink. So well was it carried off that the audience thought it all part of the play, which it was, except that the principal hadn't been given his cue. It cost him several rounds of drinks, but the newspaper man who perpetrated the joke had to give up tickets enough to send the dentist's whole family to the play.

The trials and tribulations of Boston's philanthropic hotel, patronized exclusively by women, are many. Again, the boarders have soured on the pickles at the Franklin Square House. Now that the long struggle to remove the institution from debt and the triumphant burning of the mortgage has been accomplished, the girls living at the comfortable, homelike hostelry demand that the evergreen pickles—the treasured Jumbo pickle of school days and picnics—be reduced in length and circumference. The matter has been taken under advisement, but in the meantime the same pickles as of yore weigh heavily upon the breakfast table and the boarders' digestion. Probably the Franklin Square House will be spared a visit from the Washington women of social aspirations who boarded at a Maine summer resort not long ago and was requested to pass the pickles at the breakfast table. Her eyes opened in astonishment, her nose tilted upward (she would have raised a lorgnette if it had been dinner instead of breakfast) as she remarked: "De-ah me! You queer New England people! Pickles for breakfast—how extraordinary!"

Bird lovers, ozologists and many others are glad that Governor Foss has signed the protective bill which has recently passed the legislature. This act makes it unlawful "to buy, sell, barter, exchange, or in any manner deal in or trade with respect to the dead or living bodies or any part thereof, of wild birds or game quadrupeds, except hares and rabbits, protected by law in any part of the United States, whenever and wherever taken or killed." Massachusetts thus joins the procession of progressive states interested in protecting wild creatures from the ruthless destroyers who are fast killing off many valuable species. Members of the Massachusetts Zoological Society and farseeing people of all walks of life have been besieging the Governor on this subject for a long time and the needed legislation is welcomed by scientists and humanitarians ven if not so cordially by the citizen who takes his shotgun in hand in the still hours of the morning and goes forth to slay anything that wears feathers.

"Oh, no, you couldn't get girls enough in the city to take up cooking and sewing to make the effort worth while," was remarked pessimistically a few years ago when a project for the establishment of a school for domestic arts was broached. Nevertheless, the school was started five years ago in a small hall in Dorchester, with a few pupils and only four teachers. On June 1 next, ground will be broken for the new High school of Practical Arts, the outgrowth of the tentative experiment, and as soon thereafter as is possible a new building capable of housing 1,000 girl students and costing $400,000 will be erected, to be finished, it is expected, in about fourteen months. The growth of the movement to provide proper educational facilities for girls and young women along lines of domestic art has been impressive. Since the start in the little hall, the school has changed its home several times owing to increasing classes. The new building will be a model structure, fireproof throughout, and consisting of a basement and four stories. Classrooms, library, auditorium with gallery and stage, reception rooms, dressmaking rooms, millinery rooms, kitchens, laboratories and lecture rooms will be equipped with every facility for furthering the education of these young women whose home environment or lack of homes has kept domestic science a sealed book. One is tempted to predict a decrease in the divorce record.

DIRECT SENATORIAL VOTE

House Now Calls Upon the State Senate For Action

Boston, May 18.—By a unanimous vote, the house of representatives adopted the Donahue-Meaney resolutions ratifying the proposed amendment to the national constitution to provide for the election of United States senaors by direct vote of the people. The Masaschusetts house is thus the first legislative branch in the country to ratify the amendment since the national house, on Monday, voted, in concurrence with the upper branch of congress, to submit the question to the legislatures of the various states.

The state senate has yet to vote on the resolutions. It is believed that that body will concur with the house early next week.

The debate was interrupted by the receipt of a special message from the governor urging the legislature to be the first to ratify the proposed amendment and suggesting that inasmuch as the amendment is not likely to take effect for several years, the legislature should pass a senatorial preference law in order that the voters of Massachusetts may have a voice in the selection of United States senators next year when Senator Crane comes up for re-election.

The Wreck of the Titan

By Morgan Robertson

Copyright, 1898, by M. F. Mansfield. Copyright, 1912, by Morgan Robertson. All rights reserved.

SYNOPSIS

The great steamer Titan, supposed to be unsinkable, starts across the Atlantic. Rowland, once a lieutenant, now a common sailor, meets his old love Myra. She is with her husband and child.

The Titan cuts a ship in two, and her captain endeavors to conceal the crime. Rowland objects. The captain gives him whisky, so that he will be discredited. Myra accuses him of attempting to murder her child.

Rowland is drugged by the captain's order and is then given the starboard bridge lookout, so that he will disgrace himself. Myra's child steals away and joins Rowland.

The Titan strikes an iceberg and sinks. Thousands are lost. Myra escapes in a boat. Rowland and the child find refuge on the iceberg. He loses an arm in a fight with a polar bear.

He cut the flannel lining from his coat and from that of the sleeves made nether garments for the little limbs, doubling the surplus length over the ankles and tying in place with rope yarns from a boat lacing. The body lining he wrapped around her waist, inclosing the arms, and around the whole he passed turn upon turn of canvas in strips, marling the mummylike bundle with yarns much as a sailor secures chafing gear to the doubled parts of a hawser—a process, when complete, that would have aroused the indignation of any mother who saw it. But he was only a man and suffering mental and physical anguish.

By the time he had finished the child had recovered consciousness and was protesting its misery in a feeble, wailing cry. But he dared not stop, to become stiffened with cold and pain. There was plenty of fresh water from melting ice, scattered in pools. The bear would furnish food, but they needed fire to cook this food, keep them warm and the dangerous inflammation from their hurts and to raise a smoke to be seen by passing craft.

He recklessly drank from the bottle, needing the stimulant and reasoning, perhaps rightly, that no ordinary drug could affect him in his present condition. Then he examined the wreckage, most of it good kindling wood. Partly above, partly below the pile, was a steel lifeboat, decked over airtight ends, now doubled to more than a right angle and resting on its side. With canvas hung over one half and a small fire in the other, it promised, by its conducting property, a warmer and better shelter than the bridge. A sailor without matches is an anomaly. He whittled shavings, kindled the fire, hung the canvas and brought the child, who begged piteously for a drink of water.

He found a tin can—possibly left in a leaky boat before its final hoist to the davits—and gave her a drink, to which he had added a few drops of the whisky. Then he thought of breakfast. Cutting a steak from the hind quarters of the bear, he toasted it on the end of a splinter and found it sweet and satisfying, but when he attempted to feed the child he understood the necessity of freeing its arms, which he did, sacrificing his left shirt sleeve to cover them. The change and the food stopped its crying for awhile, and Rowland lay down with it in the warm boat. Before the day had passed the whisky was gone and he was delirious with fever, while the child was but little better.

CHAPTER V.

Marooned on an Iceberg.

WITH lucid intervals, during which he replenished or rebuilt the fire, cooked the bear meat and fed and dressed the wounds of the child, this delirium lasted three days. His suffering was intense. His arm, the seat of throbbing pain, had swollen to twice the natural size, while his side prevented his taking a full breath voluntarily. He had paid no attention to his own hurts, and it was either the vigor of a constitution that years of dissipation had not impaired or some anti-febrile property of the bear meat or the absence of the exciting whisky that won the battle. He rekindled the fire with his last match on the evening of the third day and looked around the darkening horizon, sane, but feeble in body and mind.

If a sail had appeared in the interim he had not seen it, nor was there one in sight now. Too weak to climb the slope, he returned to the boat, where the child, exhausted from fruitless crying, was now sleeping. His unskillful and rather heroic manner of wrapping it up to protect it from cold had no doubt contributed largely to the closing of its wounds by forcibly keeping it still, though it must have added largely to its present sufferings. He looked for a moment on the wan, tear stained little face, with its fringe of tangled curls peeping above the wrappings of canvas, and, stooping painfully down, kissed it softly, but the kiss awakened it, and it cried for its mother. He could not soothe it, nor could he try, and with a formless, wordless curse against destiny welling up from his heart he left it and sat down on the wreckage at some distance away.

"We'll very likely get well," he mused gloomily, "unless I let the fire go out. What then? We can't last longer than the berg and not much longer than the bear. We must be out of the tracks. We were about 900 miles out when we struck, and the current sticks to the fog belt here—about west-sou'west—but that's the surface water. These deep fellows have currents of their own. There's no fog. We must be to the southward of the belt—between the lanes. They'll run their boats in the other lane after this, I think—the money grabbing wretches. Curse them if they've drowned her. Curse them, with their water tight compartments and their logging of the lookouts. Twenty-four boats for 3,000 people, lashed down with tarred gripe lashings, thirty men to clear them away and not an ax on the boat deck or a sheath knife on a man. Could she have got away? If they got that boat down they might have taken her in from the steps, and the mate knew I had her child. He would tell her. Her name must be Myra too. It was her voice I heard in that dream. That was hasheesh. What did they drug me for? But the whisky was all right. It's all done with now unless I get ashore, but will I?"

The moon rose above the castellated structure to the left, flooding the icy beach with ashen gray light, sparkling in a thousand points from the cascades, streams and rippling pools, throwing into blackest shadow the gullies and hollows and bringing to his mind in spite of the weird beauty of the scene a crushing sense of loneliness—of littleness—as though the vast pile of inorganic desolation which held him was of far greater importance than himself and all the hopes, plans and fears of his lifetime. The child had cried itself to sleep again, and he paced up and down the ice.

"Up there," he said moodily, looking into the sky, where a few stars shone faintly in the flood from the moon—"up there—somewhere—they don't know just where—but somewhere up above, is the Christians' heaven. Up there is their good God, who has placed Myra's child here—their good God—and down below us, somewhere again, are their hell and their bad god, whom they invented themselves. And they give us our choice—heaven or hell. It is not so—not so. The great mystery is not solved. The human heart is not helped in this way. No good, merciful God created this world or its conditions. Whatever may be the nature of the causes at work beyond our mental vision, one fact is indubitably proved—that the qualities of mercy, goodness, justice, play no part in the government scheme. And yet they say the core of all religions on earth is the belief in this. Is it, or is it the cowardly, human fear of the unknown that impels the savage mother to throw her babe to a crocodile, that impels the civilized man to endow churches, that has kept in existence from the beginning a class of soothsayers, medicine men, priests and clergymen, all living on the hopes and fears excited by themselves?

"And people pray—millions of them—and claim they are answered. Are they? Was ever supplication sent into that sky by troubled humanity answered or even heard? Who knows? They pray for rain and sunshine, and both come in time. They pray for health and success, and both are but natural in the marching of events. This is not evidence. But they say that they know, by spiritual uplifting, that they are heard and comforted and answered at the moment. Is not this a physiological experiment? Would they not feel equally tranquil if they repeated the multiplication table or boxed the compass?

"Millions have believed this—that prayers are answered—and these millions have prayed to different gods. Were they all wrong or all right? Would a tentative prayer be listened to? Admitting that the Bibles and Korans and Vedas are misleading and unreliable, may there not be an unseen, unknown being who knows my heart, who is watching me now? If so, this being gave me my reason, which doubts him, and on him is the responsibility. And would this being, if he exists, overlook a defect for which I am not to blame and listen to a prayer from me based on the mere chance that I might be mistaken? Can an unbeliever, in the full strength of his reasoning powers, come to such trouble that he can no longer stand alone, but must cry for help to an imagined power? Can such time come to a sane man—to me?" He looked at the dark line of vacant horizon. It was seven miles away; New York was 900, the moon in the east over 200,000 and the stars above any number of billions. He was alone with a sleeping child, a dead bear and the unknown. He walked softly to the boat and looked at the little one for a moment; then, raising his head, he whispered, "For you, Myra."

Sinking to his knees, the atheist lifted his eyes to the heavens and with his feeble voice and the fervor born of helplessness prayed to the God that he denied. He begged for the life of the waif in his care, for the safety of the mother, so needful to the little one, and for courage and strength to do his part and bring them together. But beyond the appeal for help in the service of others not one word or expressed thought of his prayer included himself as a beneficiary. So much for pride. As he rose to his feet the flying jib of a bark appeared around the corner of ice to the right of the beach, and a moment later the whole moonlit fabric came into view, wafted along by the faint westerly air, not half a mile away.

ONE MAN KILLED TWO OTHERS INJURED

Auto Turns Turtle on Freshly Oiled Road

Lowell, Mass., May 18.—One man was killed outright, one probably fatally injured, and two others very seriously hurt, when the automobile in which they were riding turned turtle near the Country club, on the boulevard near Tyngsboro last evening.

The accident is believed to have been caused by skidding, due to the heavily oiled roadway. There were no eye witnesses, and none of the men in the machine have as yet been able to give any account of the disaster.

The machine was owned and driven by Alphonse Bibeault, a former alderman, and at present a well known contractor and builder, with a place of business on Cabot street. His companions were J. B. Morin, an insurance agent, of Nashua, N. H.; Joseph Suprenaup, and James Laundry, a clerk in the Merrimac House.

Morin was instantly killed, Laundry sustained a fracture of the skull that may prove fatal, and Bibeault has a fracture at the base of the brain that makes his condition very serious. Suprenaup suffered many bruises and may have been internally injured. Medical Examiner Meigs found it necessary to operate on the three injured men when they were taken to the hospital.

A "BOSS" MODERATOR

Dr. Matthews Reigns Politically Supreme In Seattle, Wash.

Seattle, May 18.—Rev. Dr. Matthews, newly elected moderator at the Presbyterian general assembly, is the new political boss of Seattle.

Directing the recently enfranchised women of this city, Matthews forced the recall of Mayor Hiram Gill, closed the gambling houses, worked up the graft cases against Police Chief Wappenstein and his associates, who landed in the penitentiary, and then managed the campaign of George Cotterill, just elected mayor.

Dr. Matthews is a member of fifteen fraternal organizations and has a high degree in Masonry. He prides himself on being a crack billiardist.

Ferris Wins Verdict

Boston, May 18.—The first criminal case in the history of the commonwealth that was ever granted a change of venue was disposed of in the superior court of Suffolk county, when Judge Chase ordered a verdict of not guilty in the case of George A. Ferris, night officer of the Lowell jail, charged with perjury, and he was discharged.

—The year 1912, if the rest of the twelve months is at all in comparison with what has gone before, will be long remembered as a year of disasters. Cyclones, floods, tremendous loss of life by land and sea accidents, strikes in all parts of the world and wars and rebellions, are all helping to make a record which it is hoped will not soon be repeated. The French foreteller who predicted that the present year would bring more physical and social convulsions than any year in recent times, with a greater death roll of eminent men, may prove a true prophet.—Old Colony Memorial.

SCHOOL GAMES PRETTY FAST

Gridley Bryant's Cinch Game in First Inning

ADAMS BOYS ALSO VICTORS

The Adams school had little difficulty in defeating the Quincy school at Merrymount Park Friday afternoon by a score of 6 to 2. Swain pitched effective ball for the winners and the inability of the Quincy boys to fathom his delivery, prevented them from securing more than two runs. Byron played a good game behind the bat. McNally also pitched well, but was given ragged support. The score by innings.

Innings	1	2	3	4	5	6
Adams	0	2	3	0	0	1	6	7 1
Quincy	0	0	1	0	0	0	2	2 4

Batteries—Swain and Byron, McNally and Guong.

When Marr batted the second pitched ball of the game out into deep centre for the longest home run that has been made by a gramar school player this season, it looked as if the Washington school boys were to take the measure of the strong Gridley Bryant aggregation, but when the latter made seven runs in their half of the first inning, they secured a lead that the former was unable to overcome. The game proved to be most interesting after the first inning and when it ended Gridley Bryant had won by a score of 9 to 7. Carroll, who enjoys the distinction of being the only pitcher of the grammar school league who has defeated the Wollaston grammar team, was in the points for the winners, but retired in favor of Quinn, who played in his last game of the season, owing to the fact that he has reached the age of sixteen, the limit for players of the league.

After the first inning the West Quincy boys didn't appear so dangerous, but by punching hits in the third and fifth innings, aided by a few errors, were enabled to control the situation. Fitzgerald played a fine fielding game for the visitors, while Marr was conspicuous for the losers. The score by innings:

Innings	1	2	3	4	5	6
Gridley Bryant	7	0	1	0	1	x	9	12	2
Washington	1	0	1	1	4	0	7	9	5

Batteries—Carroll, Quinn, and Saville, Kelley, Gurney, Thayer and McKenna.

QUINCY FAILED WITH WILLOW

Brockton's Twirlers Too Puzzling For Granite City Boys

RALLY IN NINTH DIED OUT

The inability of the Quincy High players to register hits off any one of the three pitchers that opposed them, caused the local lads to suffer a 3 to 1 defeat at the hands of Brockton High at Merrymount park, Friday afternoon. The game was warmly contested throughout and for five innings not a runner had crossed the plate.

In the ninth inning the Granite City boys started out with renewed confidence and for a time it seemed as if they were to even up matters. Little, the first batter up, drew a pass and took second on a pretty sacrifice by Brown. An error by Spillane allowed Prout to reach first. Holmes fanned and Mattson got a hit, scoring Little. Barry was now at the bat and the Quincy rooters entertained the greatest hopes that he would stem the tide, and enable his team mates to tie the score. But for the first time this season, Barry failed to secure a hit and thus was thwarted in his efforts to bring home the laurels of the day to his team. He popped a fly to Denbrau and Quincy High had suffered its fourth defeat of the season.

Only two hits made in the whole game by the home team, while the visitors gathered in seven, and of these three were made by Killory, who carried off the batting honors of the day. The Brockton team made nine errors, against three for the local boys, but none proved costly till the last inning of play.

McDonald occupied the mound for Quincy High and was rather effective retiring the opposing batsmen on strikes. A high wind which blew across the diamond made it very difficult for the outfielders to judge flies with any degree of accuracy and Brown and Blomquist had the misfortune to fall victims to this condition, much to the advantage of the Brockton boys.

Holmes played his best game of the season behind he bat. Considerable changes were made in the lineup of Quincy High, Mattson, who playd third acquitted himself in splendid style. Blackmur was taken from second and Crane and Prout were tried out, both of whom gave evidence of rounding out into good second sackers.

The visitors scored a run in the sixth inning when an error by Little, which permitted Spillane to reach first. Chisholm fanned, Killory hit, advancing Spillane to third, who came home on a wild pitch. Brockton High won the game in the eighth when three hits, a stolen base, an error and a passed ball allowed them to tally two runs.

O'Dowd showed up to great advantage at first, accepting every chance. In all he had eleven putouts to his credit, many of which he made from badly thrown balls. The score.

HANCOCK WON IN EXTRA INNINGS

Willard Put Up a Great Battle, But Was Outbatted

MANY FINE PLAYS SEEN

The large aggregation of loyal rooters who witnessed the exciting contest between the Willard and John Hancock schools last night on the Old Colony league graunds were kept guessing until the winning run was made after the game had gone two extra innings.

Willard was retired without a run in the first inning. Imray started the ball rolling for Hancock with a clean single over second, stole second, went to third on Runnalls' single, coming home on Johnson's wild throw to third after the latter had distinguished himself by making a star one-hand catch of Daw's long line drive. In the first of the second Willard scored one run off of Milford's single and a costly error by Runnals. In the last of the second, Hancock annexed three more runs through Piaati's and Jackson's bases on balls and a single by O'Brien, Imray and Nelson.

Sandblom led off in the first of the third with a dandy drive to right for two bases; Hodge drew a base on balls, stole second, both he and Sandblom coming home on Desmond's splendid hit over second. Desmond came in on a passed ball, tieing the score.

No more runs were made by either side until the seventh inning. Willard made three runs. Johnson was allowed life on Runnal's error; Eagan singled, Hodge walked, then Desmond, the old reliable, again came to the rescue of his team by clearing the bases and reaching second himself on as pretty a double as Ty Cobb ever made.

In the eighth Willard failed to count. In their half the Hancock boys came to the bat with a grim determination to win. Eagan, the Willard school twirler, failed to take advantage of their eagerness to hit the ball by winding the ball around their necks or speeding it across knee-high, but he put the ball over waist high, as big as balloons. The story is short. Singles by Peruzzi, O'Brien, Imray and Nelson, brought in the winnig run.

The Hancock boys deserved to win, because the ybatted and out-fielded their opponents.

Walkout Threatened In American Base Ball League

COBB THRASHES SPECTATOR

Philadelphia, May 18.—Baseball faces a rebellion of players.

A strike of league-wide proportions is in the air. The players have no grievance against their club owners, nor against the rules of organized baseball. But they are demanding the right to protect themselves, or to be protected by the club owners, against insults from the grandstands and bleachers.

At New York last Wednesday Ty Cobb of the Detroit Tigers, who is almost universally conceded to be the greatest player in baseball today, was so insulted by a "fan" in the grandstand that he felt called upon to resent the abuse. Tyrus climbed into the stand and thoroughly thrashed the insulting spectator.

Under the rules of organized baseball, which forbid a player to converse in any way with a spectator, Cobb had to suffer the regular penalty, that of indefinite suspension.

At Philadelphia Cobb's teammates put their heads together and decided that Tyrus was being unjustly punished. They sent a message to President Ban Johnson of the American league that they would refuse to play any more baseball until Cobb's suspension was lifted. They insisted that the league was in duty bound to protect its players against gratuitous insult by fans in grandstand or bleachers, and that Cobb was within his rights when he retaliated upon his foul-mouthed critic.

Every American league team has been appealed to, and as all are in the east now, a meeting scheduled for Sunday next is called and the players of each team have been asked to send representatives to this city to form a new association to secure for the players adequate protection while on the field and to have each team refuse to go on with its schedule until Johnson relents.

There is little doubt but that a hornet's nest has been stirred up by the suspension of Cobb. The players will stick by him to a man, for they know what he has endured. They have been subjected to needless insult time and again. There is no other profession in which paid performers are subjected to such attacks. In every theatre of the country seats are sold with the understanding that they may be revoked if the holder does not conduct himself properly, and why should actors be more immune than ball players, is their argument.

Mrs. Joseph Silver of Walnut street, who has been seriously ill for the past three weeks, is able to sit up a little while each day. She is still under the care of Dr. Dearing.

The N. Y., N. H. & H. R. R. have given Isaac L. Jones a week's vacation with pay in appreciation of his heroic act. Rev. D. Roy Freeman interceded for Mr. Jones and we hope others will assist.

Charles Sumner Bates of River street, has issued invitations to the mariage of his daughter, Mary Merrill Bates to Joseph Gregg Morrison Tuesday evening, June 4, at All Souls church.

Mrs. W. W. Mayhew of Myrtle street has sold the house on River street, occupied by Harry W. Bond and family to Fred Belyea. Mr. Bond has bought a choice house lot on the south side of West street, next to Mr. H. E. Reynolds.

Two Other Girls Collapse Creating Excitement at Hancock Street Fire Sunday Afternoon

Firemen Kept on the Jump Answering Three Alarms, Only One Being Serious

Mary Garbarino, almost overcome by smoke grabbed cash and hat and made her escape, two girls fainted, spectators rushed back by the report of danger of explosion from gasoline, and three alarms were features of Sunday fire alarms.

It was a busy afternoon for the Fire department, for they were called out three time on bell alarms. The first alarm came in at 12.24 and was followed immediately by the recall. This was for a slight fire on the roof of McNeil's blacksmith shop at the corner of Willard and West streets and which was put out with a bucket of water before the alarm was done sounding.

The second alarm came from Box 35 at 3.33 but before that had sounded the firemen were on their way to the fire which was in the building at 1593, 1595, 1597 Hancock street owned by Henry M. Faxon and occupied on the first floor by William Westland's hardware store and Haley's news stand and on the upper floor by the family of Edward Drysdale, as a tenement.

The fire started in the basement of a small L in the rear of Westland's store among a lot of excelsior and rubbish. Mr. Westland's attention had been called to the danger that might arise from this rubbish by Chief Enbineer Litchfield and said he had given orders for it to be cleaned out today. The first intimation that a fire was in progress was made known to the Drysdale family when a thick black smoke begun to fill their rooms. One of the girls, Ida, ran to the Central Fire station on Quincy avenue and gave them warning and then immediately collapsed from excitement.

Florence Drysdale another daughter also collapsed in her home from excitement and she was assisted out of the house by her sisters and taken to Barnard's bakery, the next black to the northward, where she was given medical aid by Dr. John F. Welch and Dr. F. Raymon Burke.

Miss Mary Garbornio was in charge of the news stand at the time of the fire. She said: "I did not know what all the excitement was about. I heard people yelling and then all of a sudden a puff of black smoke rolled in from the back of the store. Still I did not move. Carroll Tarbox came along and said, 'Get out, Mame, the place is on fire.' I grabbed the cash from the money drawer in one hand, my hat in the other and made a dash for the door. I got out just in time, because as I reached the door I was almost overcome by the smoke, but the air revived me."

The sounding of the alarm brought Chief Burrell, Inspector Goodhue and several officers to the

PATRIOTISM HELD FULL SWAY

Relief Corps Members Surprised by Song and Story

CHILDREN JOINED EVENT

The patriotic exercises of the Paul J. Revere Women's Relief Corps were held at the home of Mrs. Newman Savage, Saturday night, May 18th. The house was beautifully decorated with bunting and flags. The meeting was opened with reading of scriptures and the Lord's prayer. Selections on the piano were given by Miss Wright. There was an address by Commander Francis P. Loud of Post 88 and remarks by Commander Stoddard of Camp 95 Sons of Veterans on Peace and Arbitration day, also reading by Mrs. Savage and Mrs. Richardson. Patriotic selections were rendered by Miss Savage and Miss Wright. Mrs. Mabel Savage favored those present with a number of patriotic selections, including "The Star Spangled Banner." The flag salute was given by all the Patriotic orders and children and the exercises closed by singing "Nearer My God to Thee."

LOST BUT HAPPY.

Officer Phillips found a bare curly headed boy wandering about City square this morning. The little fellow was evidently lost, and all kinds of coaxing could not make him tell his name. He was taken to the court room where Chief Burrell and others tried to learn his name. While the boy seemed perfectly contented he could not be made to tell where he lived. Later it was learned that he was a son of A. H. Remick of Spear street, and he was taken home. His mother had just missed her son and was becoming worried and had telephoned her husband to come home and help search for the little fellow.

HOME SWEET HOME.

E. A. Barber of Webster street returned Saturday morning from a business trip that has taken him through all the states of the Union outside of the New England States, also into Canada. He has been away nearly six months but found no place he liked as well as this section of New England.

NO CONCEALMENT OF IDENTITY

Suggested by the Father Who Was Dazed by the Blow

DIFFICULT TO LOCATE BODY

Grief stricken and bowed down by the two tragedies which had entered his home and deprived him of the joys and delights of the presence and care of his two children who had both met untimely deaths inside a year, Mr. Simeon Walter called at the Ledger office today to deny the report that he had endeavored to conceal the identity of his dead child for some hours.

As a matter of fact, the bereaved father found it difficult to locate the body of his dead child. There was no bitterness manifested by Mr. Walter over the circulation of this story. He simply desired the public to understand the facts in the case.

Mr. Waltler said: "About a year ago my little girl, while with the boy who was killed Saturday night, was killed by a runaway horse, when this second tragedy entered my life. I was told that my boy was killed by an automobile. I tried to locate the body. Mr. Finn, was with me. I telephoned to the hospital and to the Y. M. C. A. and it was not until about 9 o'clock that I found out where the body of my boy was. At the suggestion of Mr. Finn, I had Dr. Hardwick view the body, but there was no spark of life remaining. I made no effort to conceal the identity of my child. It was a terrible shock to me, and I was concerned in trying to locate the body".

Quincy's assessment is fixed as $21,996.38 an increase of $1,844.38 over last year. The assessment on the towns of the county for this year are as follows:

Brookline $77,015.17, Milton $19,546.15, Wellesley $10,079.35, Norwood $9,828.77, Dedham $9,661.70, Weymouth $6,209.11, Braintree $4,649.87, Cohasset $5,540.86, Needham $4,260.06, Walpole $3,257.69, Dover $3,703.19, Franklin $2,867.88, Stoughton $2,784.35, Canton $3,257.69, Sharon $1,967.89, Westwood $1,837.67, Randolph $1,754.14, Foxboro $1,698.45, Medfield $1,336.49, Holbrook $1,225.12, Medway $1,141.58, Wrentham $918.84, Avon $779.62, Millis $779.62, Bellingham $688.24, Norfolk $612.56, and Plainville $612.56.

TEACHERS' CLUB REVEL IN MUSIC

A delightful musicale was given by the Humphrey Teachers' club under the direction of Mr. Enrico Barraja, was held Friday evening, at High school hall, East Weymouth.

Mr. Barraja was assisted by Mrs. H. Y. Follett, soprano; Mrs. C. Ray Blanchard, violin; Miss Miriam Devenport Gow, reader; Olindo Taddei, 'cello; J. Barraja-Frauenfelder, bass.

The program was given before a large and appreciative audience. The numbers were splendidly rendered, and the interest of the audience was held until the close.

The numbers which won most applause were the Prologue from the Opera "Mefistofele," and "Adoration" as sung by Mr. Frauenfelder, and the Grand Polonaise, A Flat, Op. 53—Chopin, as played by Mr. Barraja, the latter selection being applauded again and again.

NORTEMAN'S ANNUAL DINNER

Marked by an Abundance of Good Cheer and Good Will RETURN BANQUET IN FALL

In accordance with a custom long established by William Norteman, the genial proprietor of Norteman's Pavilion, Houghs Neck, noted far and wide for the excellence of its shore dinners, the annual opening for the season was fittingly observed Saturday evening, when he entertained a large number of city officials and others prominent in the affairs of the city and state at dinner.

From 6 to 7 o'clock there was an informal reception during which those present renewed their acquaintanship with William, as well as affording the members of the City Council a chance to view the public landing, made possible by the City Council of last year and which is now nearing completion and to view some of the other city work in progress at this point. During this time an orchestra enlivened the occasion with popular music

Henry W. French, the present president of the Houghs Neck Associates, and one of the Board of Registrars of Voters, was the master of ceremonies and at a little after 7 o'clock gave the welcome signal, to be seated at the long tables that had been arranged on one side of the dining room. It is unnecessary to add that no second invitation was needed; and the onslaught on the many good things was soon in progress.

At the head table, besides the master of ceremonies, was mine host William Norteman, his face wreathed in smiles. At his right was Mayor Eugene R. Stone and ex-Mayor William T. Shea, while on the other side were Representatives Walter E. Piper and William J. Leslie and Medical Examiner Frederick E. Jones.

Seated at the other tables were the following:—President of the City Council, Ralph W. Hobbs, Clerk of Council George T. Magee, and Councilmen, Sandberg, Boyd, Murray, Studley, Gilliatt, Beeman, Gauthier, Cunningham, Ericson, J. R. S. Ross, Thompson, Sodergren, Richards and Craig, Commissioner Fred E Tupper, City Treasurer Henry F. Tilden, City Engineer, E. C. Sargetn, Tax Collector H. S. Child, Overseer of the Poor J. H. Elcock, City Clerk Emery L. Crane, Chief Engineer Amos L. Litchfield, Assessors Warren W. Adams and W. W. Mitchell, Dock and Water Front Commissioner Frank F. Crane, William H. Teasdale, of the Board of Health, Commodore Ira M. Whittemore of the Quincy Yacht club, who is also a member of the Board of Park Commissioners, City Messenger Harry W. Tirrell, Michael B. Geary of the Board of Registrars of Voters, Inspector Fred Goodhue of the Police Department, Michael E. Shea of the Street Department and Walter McKenzie of the Sewer Department.

Others present included President Charles C. Hearn, and Secretary Hon. John O. Hall of the Board of Trade, ex-Councilman J. L. Whiton and John Moir, ex-Representative L. F. R. Langelier, Eben W. Sheppard, president of the Granite City club, ex-Representative Peter T. Fallon, Thomas G. Smith, Eben Prescott of the Braintree Observer, Oscar Sandberg, Archie Baird, J. E. Kenliey, H. F. Loud, Charles E. Decker of the Bulletin, Fred .F. Green of the Advertiser, Treasurer George S. Morse and Vice Commodore Harry S. Crane of the Quincy Yacht club. ex-Commodore Herbert W. Robbins of the Quincy Yacht club, William Richards, chauffeur for Chief Litchfield and last but not least Galen V. Bowditch.

SENIORS VICTORS IN FIELD GAMES

Woodward Institute Girls Had Gala Time at the Park

BIG CROWD SAW EVENTS

The seniors, with a total of 42 points won the annual meet of the Woodward Institute, held Saturday at Merrymount Park.

The sophomores were second with 39 points, the juniors third with 21 points, while the freshmen brought up the rear with 18 points.

The meet was conducted somewhat differently than in previous years, no times and distances being taken.

The games were rather an exhibition of the work being accomplished by Miss Martha E. Maccarty, the physical director of the school.

All the pupils together with hundreds of relatives and friends, attended the meet. Each girl brought her own luncheon and the affair did not end until 3 o'clock in the afternoon.

No points were given out for the songs and cheers furnished by the classes after luncheon.

The judges were unable to render a decision in the matter and it was decided to withhold the announcement until this evening. It is not thought, however, that their decision will affect the standing given out. Horace H. Rice, principal of the school, was starter, Miss Martha E. Maccarty, referee, Miss Edna Carret, supervisor in the public schools of Milton, Mass, Miss Mary W. Dinegan and Miss Grace L. Burke all teachers at the school the board of judges.

The summary of the events were as follows:—

Flag Race—Won by Helen Croucher, '12; Helen Crane, '14, second; Nora Reardon, '14, third.

Arch Ball—Won by class of '12; '14 second.

Running Relay Race—Won by class of '12; '14, second; '15, third.

TOWN RIVER BILL FOR DREDGING

Hearing on Same Before Legislative Committee

QUINCYITES FAVORED PLAN

Two important hearings were held before legislative committees this morning. The first hearing before the committee on Ways and Means was at 10 o'clock, and was on the bills calling for an appropriation of $25,000 for dredging the Town River and an appropriation of $6,000 for dredging off Wollaston beach. City Solicitor McAnarney conducted the hearings for the city and those to speak in favor of the bills were Representatives Piper and Leslie, Mayor Stone, Water Front Commissioner F. F. Crane, City Engineer E. C. Sargent, ex-Representative Peter T. Fallon and Frank S. Patch. All were in favor of the proposition and there was no opposition. The hearing then closed. All of the speakers told of the benefits that would be derived to Quincy by carrying out of the provisions of the two bills.

SANG RED RIDING HOOD

There was a large attendance of young people, Saturday afternoon at the operetta, "Red Riding Hood," given by the children of St. John's Parochial school, in the school hall, under the direction of the Sisters of St. Joseph. The affair was a decided success and will be repeated this evening for the benefit of the adults.

The music was furnished by an orchestra composed of the following pupils; Alice Barry, Edmund Locoraine, Florence Ferguson, Ambrose Kelliher and Catherine O'Neil. The accompanist was Miss Amy Fallon, a member of the graduating class of Woodward Institute. There was a large chorus of pupils, whose work was exceptionally good.

The members of the cast, all of whom acquitted themselves in an able manner were as follows:

Red Riding Hood	Olive Phelan
Mother	Mildred Phelan
Woodman	Marin Shaunessey
Florence	Florence Perry
Wolf	Gerald Hurly
Robin	William Costello

WILLARD ST. STATE HIGHWAY

Quincy and Towns Unite in Move Towards this End

CONFERENCE SATURDAY

A meeting was held in the office of Mayor Stone at City Hall Saturday afternoon to take action relative to having the state accept Granite avenue and Willard street as a state highway from the Granite avenue bridge in Milton to Randolph. Those present at the conference, included besides Mayor Stone, City Solicitor McAnarney the selectmen of Randolph and Braintree, and President Stephen B. Little of the Ward Four Improvement and after some discussion it was voted to petition the Highway Commision to accept and build the street as noted above, and a committee was appointed to draw up the necessary papers and present them to the Commissioners. This committee includes Mayor Eugene R. Stone, representing the City of Quincy, Henry M. Storm, representing the town of Braintree and John J. Desmond representing the town of Randolph.

Granite avenue is one of the old turnpike roads leading from Boston to Randolph and Brockton, although after leaving Milton it takes the name of Willard street, through the City of Quincy to the Randolph line. A part of this street is now under the control of the Highway Commission.

BRIEFS

George N. Titus of Rhode Island spent Sunday at the home of J. F. Davidson, Newbury avenue.

Many important matters are scheduled to come up for action tonight at the regular meeting of the City Council.

Charles L. Hammond addresses the members of Mt. Wollaston lodge at their regular meeting Tuesday night in Odd Fellows' hall, subject "Post Office." A collation will be served and all resident Odd Fellows are invited to attend the meeting.

MEDAL PLAY.

Drawings for the championship meeting of the Woman's Golf Assaciation of Boston was made with secretary, Saturday. The qualifying round started the Montclair course of the Wollaston Golf club, the first sixteen to be drawn for match play for the title and the second sixteen for match play for the silver medal. The Wollaston players included Miss L. M. Kendall, Mrs. W. C. Johnson and Mrs. E. C. Wheeler, Jr.

who took home another box of Interwoven Socks the other night his wife said:

"Why should men get the best of everything? Now, I can't buy stockings that are as good as my husband's Interwoven Socks."

That's not surprising when you know the reason.

The only machines in existence which can properly wear-proof hosiery at every point of wear are in the Interwoven Mills. And they make only men's socks.

The toe, heel, sole and ankle of an Interwoven Sock are equipped with a wonderful wear-resisting fabric, which makes it the one light sock that really wears. 25c, 35c, 50c.

HONESTY IN EVERYTHING

The monkey had his whirl in society a few years ago with a dinner at Newport, when society dolls, waited upon and caressed the dirty creatures. The same women who slobbered over those creatures, if the Creator had blessed them with children, farmed the latter out to foster mothers and nurses, while while they wasted their time pampering dogs and monkeys.

The animal entertainment craze has been revived in New York. A prize winning Chinese pup was given a dinner, attended by eight other rabie distributors. An orchestra furnished music and the decorations were in the color of the new Chinese republic. Of all tom-foolery in the world that is the limit. Here was money literally thrown away, wasted. It might just as well have been burned up. And all for an entertainment for about nine Chinese dogs, which could neither appreciate or understand the event.

And while this waste and dog society event was going on in one part of the city, a poor old woman in another part evicted from her tenement, sat guarding her few meagre belongings, in the cold and rain, and contracted a disease from which she died.

These women of wealth and fashion with penchants for dog or monkey entertainment, could accomplish more by doing His work. And if it is novelty and excitement they want, there is opportunity enough for this afforded them in visiting and caring for the needy, and doing something that is real in the world, that is christianlike and womanly, rather than wasting any of the few years they have on this earth feeding and pampering mongrel dogs and horrible looking monkeys.

WHEN WILL IT END.

The continued high price of living gives rise to the above query on every hand. The solution or answer is so far as any one can see anywhere near the surface. It is one that people exclaim about and then forget. It is lost sight of in the hurly-burly of every day life, and the wonderful pledges and promises of the politicians. Each and every one promise a great deal in the way of reform before election, which is soon forgotten after, and the people are to blame, because they have the same lapse of memory and the result is they are hustled along to some other issue, and do not remember to call the office holder to account for his broken pledges.

Now comes the threat that the price of milk is liable to go to twelve cents a quart. Only matter of cents, but alarming in the per cent of the increase.

And so it is not out of place to ask whither are we drifting. Who can answer the question? The person who can is a marvel. But there is one thing sure that the continued high cost of living is a serious problem.

It is all right to forget it for the moment in the jingo-jinks campaign now being waged, but it will return with renewed intensity and must be met and coped with.

Such advances as people in this country have been called upon to pay for food stuffs the past few years are uncalled for and preposterous when it is considered that the same articles freighted across the Atlantic can be bought cheaper in England and European countries than they can in this country.

OYSTER INSPECTION.

Prof. William T. Sedgwick of Technology believes that all oysters should be certified by some board of health or other authority, and that eating and cooking oysters should be graded and marked. For the next few months, or until September at least there will hardly be any occasion for such supervision or inspection. However Prof. Sedgewick must have an idea there is need of the surveillance which he suggests.

Although April is supposed to be an oyster month, oysters are not taken for the Maryland market after March 31.

In Washington a few weeks ago an immense quantity of oysters were condemned by the proper authority, and dumped into the garbage heap.

If the health of the consumers require it, the inspection should follow. But on the whole no oyster inspection will be more critical than that of the man who serves them daily to his patrons, as a failure to provide good sweet oysters, would mean loss of patronage and ruination of business.

EDITORIAL COMMENT.

Ohio will register its verdict Tuesday. Will it be for the favorite son, or the rough rider.

When milk goes to 12 cents a quart, there will be no shame in turning to the old oaken bucket.

Copper has taken another jump. Was this crop manipulated by the moneyed interests like the coffee bean to produce a false value.

May has at last decided to behave herself.

If the Grand Trunk is eager to get into Boston, it should not require a ten year lease of life to produce the infant.

This greater dock system may be all right, but $25,000,000 is a pile of money and should be expended on the safe and sane plan with some idea of adequate returns for the output.

Massachusetts is getting in a bad way, with six executions within 18 months.

Be careful about rubbish bonfires. A fire set within a certain distance of your house cancels the insurance.

Let the city take care of the rubbish and then it will be well taken care of without danger or possible loss to property.

The champion Philadelphia athletics are making a poor showing so far, but early last season they were not very far advanced to the front.

The way some newspaper men are sending letters of congratulations to themselves upon the effective work they are doing for this or that candidate for office may have the effect of opening the eyes of the people to the fact that this selfsame missionary work is not all unselfish.

Dr. Page of Boston is quoted as saying, bathing and clothes are the bane of humanity. Well, may be so, but one would feel pretty mean without a regular diet of the former and an appearance in society without the latter would create somewhat of a furore, don't you know.

CITIZEN OBJECTS TO STREET SIGN

Editor Daily Ledger and Patriot:—

I wish to protest through the columns of your paper against the permission of the City being given to suspend huge advertising banners across our public Streets to advertise private enterprises, as has been done over Wollaston's beautiful Beale street Such things are all right in Western Mining Camps, but they are certainly out of place in our beautiful City. It seems ironical that while Wollaston people are holding meetings and attending hearings to further the landscape features of that attractive ward and make it one of Boston's most beautiful suburbs, that a City official should allow the stretching across its busiest and most picturesque thoroughfare an immense of this City, I wish to register my earnest protest against our City officials allowing our highways to be used for advertising purposes.

WEATHER BAD WIFE SUFFERED

She Claimed to be the Target for Hand Painted China

WHICH HUSBAND THREW

Mrs. Emily J. James of Dorchester, who claimed to have formerly lived in Quincy, told Judge Pierce in the Divorce Court that the weather so affected her husband, Harold, that it was impossible for her to live with him.

His nervous system appeared to be affected by the weather, she declared, so that on a foul wet day he would come home and swear and call her names that she did not like to repeat in court.

"Once he threw very violently a $35 hand-painted vase at my head, and had I not dodged, it woul have hit me. It broke to minute pieces on the floor, she testified.

"Another time he swore at me, very, very violently, and hurled a pair of pincers at me. I dodged and escaped them.

"Another time he threw another vase at my head. That was a hand-painted one, too. I dodged it and it broke to pieces.

"He often swore at me. When it wasn't the weather it was sometimes because he couldn't have his vacation just when he wanted it. So because he couldn't I had to suffer his abusive mouth for ten days.

"After I left him finally I was for two weeks afraid to go out in the dark.

"Five times he threatened to kill me.

"Once he struck me so in the face that his finger-marks were imprinted on my cheeks and I was ashamed to go out of doors for three days, my face looked so badly.

"I simply got nervous prostration living with him."

Her sister said: "When she was sick with typhoid fever we called the husband into the sickroom, thinking he could soothe her. Instead of soothing her he swore at her, and very, very violently, too."

The court took the case under advisement.

NATIONAL PARK WORTHY OF STUDY

That the harmonious and brilliant tints in geysers and hot-spring pools are due mainly to plant life is one of the interesting statements made in a publication entitled "The Geological History of Yellowstone National Park," just issued by the Department of the Interior. Algae flourish equally well in the waters of all geyser basins and on the terraces of Mammoth Hot Springs. Wherever these boiling waters cool to the temperature of 185 degrees algous growths appear, and by the lowering of the temperature on exposure to air still more highly organized forms gradually come in. It is said that at about 140 degrees the conditions are favorable for the rapid growth of several species. The development of plant life at such excessive temperatures and on a scale of such magnitude seems a marvelous thing. Nowhere else can this be seen so well as in the Yellowstone Park.

As the water in shallow pools chills rapidly, corresponding changes in color follow. No life exists in the center, where the water is boiling. On the outer edge certain colors prevail, and in the cooler overflow channels still other colors predominate. In a geyser basin, the first evidence of vegetation in an overflow stream consists of creamy white filamentary threads passing into light flesh tints and then into deep salmon. With distance from the source of heat, the predominating colors pass from bright orange to yellow, yellowish green, and emerald, and in the still cooler waters various shades of brown.

The marvelous colors in the Grand Canyon of the Yellowstone are mainly due to the mineral matter, the pigments being derived from the lavas. Along the base of the canyon thermal and solfataric agencies have been at work through long ages, slowly but steadily decomposing the rhyolite rock that forms the walls. Upon the buttressed walls and sculptured amphitheaters tints of green and yellow are intermingled with red, the colors being blended with singularly harmonious effects. From the roaring turbulent river at the bottom to the somber green forests at the top, the abrupt walls seem aglow with color.

This publication contains an account of the geologic forces that have caused the wonderful natural features that have made the Yellowstone famous throughout the world. It is illustrated by photographs of some of the principal features of the park and is written in nontechnical language so that it may be readily understood by persons without scientific training.

A GOOD TONIC.

Does life seem vain and empty,
Are all things going wrong,
Is there little music
Left in the old sweet song?
Has the poppy lost its brilliance,
The rose, its fragrance too?
Take something for your liver
And see how that will do.
Have the glad old hopes departed?
Are the old friends cold today?
Are the splendid plans all shattered,
Behind along the way?
Has the ship for which you've waited,
Been wrecked on far off shores??
Go out and walk like sixty
And open up your pores.

NO DANCING METHODISTS

If the Ritual Is Obeyed, Conference Decides By a Very Small Majority

Minneapolis, May 20.—By a vote of 446 to 369 the general Methodist conference killed the committee report to eliminate dancing, card playing, etc., from the discipline. Similar action was taken in the past ten general conferences. Paragraph 260 stands.

Rev. W. D. Shepard of Chicago got 500 votes on the fifth ballot for bishop, with 530 necessary for election. It was regarded as certain that he would be chosen on the next ballot.

Dr. T. S. Henderson of New York east conference took third place with 456 votes, and N. Luccock of Kansas City went into second place with 361 votes.

TAFT MEN RULE COMMITTEE

A Non-Partisan View of the General Situation—Ohio Still the Key—Speaker Clark Is Gaining Ground While Wilson Loses—Taft Opposed by Wage Earners and Farmers—Supported by the Business Interests

Nahant, Mass., May 20.—James Barr, 20, of Lynn, was the victim of a frightful accident here Sunday afternoon when his life was crushed out and every bone in his body broken in a parachute jump which he attempted and failed to complete successfully.

He fell a distance of more than 2000 feet into the water about 100 yards from the shore off Bailey's hill.

The parachute jump had been advertised to take place at 3:30 p. m., and some 15,000 persons had gathered in the vicility of Hotel Brenton to watch the performance. It was thought, however, that the wind was too strong at that time to make the attempt and after waiting until late in the afternoon it was decided to call the event off.

At 6:30 p. m. the wind had moderated enough so that it was believed possible to make the jump and Barr and a companion, George Bushor, 25, of Cambridge, volunteered to make a double jump to please the remaining crowd of some 5000 spectators.

When the men reached the height to which they desired to ascend preparations were made for the leap. It was decided that Barr should leave the balloon first.

With bated breath the crowd waited and at the first indication that the man had leaped the crowd again burst into a cheer. This changed suddenly into a season of terror when it was seen that the parachute had failed to work and the man was plunging headlong toward the water.

Bushor, though unnerved at the acident to his companion, prepared to make his descent and landed safely a few minutes later, after an almost perfect jump. Barr leaves a father, mother, four brothers and six sisters.

Bushor stated, after the accident, that Barr had selected his own parachute, and had taken the larger one. Barr was the larger man, his weight being about 150 pounds, whereas Bushor weighs about 100 pounds. Bushor said that he had talked witn Barr on the way up, and that they had planned to cut loose so that Barr would alight on land and Bushor in the water. When Barr cut loose, his companion said, he heard him cry, "It's too late," meaning, Bushor supposed, that it was too late for him to descend without striking in the water.

GENERAL QUARANTINE

Is In Command of Norwich University Military Academy,

Northfield, Vt., May 20.—As a result of the appearance ta Norwich university, a military institution, of two cases of smallpox, every person connected with the university is under canvas, tents having been shipped nere from the state arsenal at Montpelier.

The entire cadet corps vacated their quarters, as did the officers and faculty, in order that the buildings might be fumigated.

It is hoped by these measures to keep every man who may have been exposed in the camp until the quarantin is raised.

Wind Is Destructive In Maine

Caribou, Me., May 20.—Word was received here of a severe electrical storm, accompanied by a terrific wind, which swept through the valley of a branch of the Presque Isle stream between Presque Isle and Mapleton. Telegraph and telephone poles and wires were blown down, several building were demolished and many trees were uprooted.

Pushing Cape Cod Water Way

Buzzard's Bay, Mass., May 20.—The Cape Cod Canal company, finding that a third new dredger is necessary, has begun the erection of a new "sand sucker" just below the bridge at Bourne village. The machinery of the federal dredger will transferred to the new structure when in readiness.

Dorr Suffers Relapse

Salem, Mass., May 20.—William A. Dorr suffered a relapse in the hospital ward of the Essex county jail at Salem. The physician attending him stated that the prisoner's condition was serious and demanded constant medical supervision.

SUNDAY IN OUR CHURCHES

Topics and Announcements For Coming Week

SUNDAY SCHOOLS

WOLLASTON BAPTIST CHURCH.

Rev. Robert Pinkham, a former Wollaston boy preached a fine sermon Sunday morning at the Wollaston Baptist church. Text 11 Cor. 3:9 Subject: "The Two Ministrations." There was a large attendance. There were 315 present at the Sunday school of which Mr. Elford L. Durgin is the Superintendent and 94 were present in the Primary department.

The Junior Endeavor meeting usually held at 3.30 was omitted this week but at 6, a large number of Juniors and others attended the Y. P. S. C. E. meeting Miss Ethel M. Campbell superintendent of the Juniors gave an address and the meeting was very helpful. Subject: "Why and How to please Christ."

At 7 o'clock the pastor, Rev. Joseph Walther preached to a good congregation. Subject: "Back to Bethel; an interesting Episode in the life of Jacob."

Tuesday afternoon at 4 o'clock the pastor's class in the fundamental principles of the Christian faith will meet at the parsonage.

Tuesday evening at 7.45 o'clock the Albee class will entertain in the chapel Mrs. Pinkham's class of young ladies, and the Walther and Rand classes of men.

Tuesday afternoon at 3 o'clock the Women's Christian Temperance Union will meet at the home of Mrs. Thomas Armstrong, 51 Warren avenue. Subject: "Work among Soldiers and Sailors." Leader, Mrs. Crothers.

Wednesday afternoon at 4 o'clock the pastor's second class in the fundamental principles of the Christian faith will meet at the home of Mr. and Mrs. H. J. Grass, 52 Ardell street, Montclair.

Wednesday evening at 7.45 a cottage prayer meeting will be held at the home of Mr. and Mrs. James C. Porter, 109 Taylor street. The pastor will lead.

Thursday evening at 7.45 o'clock, the regular meeting for praise, prayer and testimony will be held in the chapel. Subject: "The May Missionary Magazine." "What do you find in it interesting and helpful?"

The standing committee will meet next Sunday, May 26 at the close of Sunday school. All those who desire to be baptized should be present.

Baptism will take place in this church Sunday evening June 9 at 7 o'clock. All those who desire to be baptized should speak to the pastor at once.

WOLLASTON UNITARIAN.

At the morning service of the Wollaston Unitarian church, Rev. Carl G. Horst took as his text "And thou shalt do that which is right and good in the sight of the Lord," and the subject might have been fittingly called "Heredity."

In a few words and with little ceremony the preacher disposed of the class of persons who weakly defend themselves and their sins by the plea that is was to be expected of them that they fail in life's battle since their fathers before them fell before the tempter. In a sense man is a creature of circumstances in that he finds himself placed under certain conditions which are his to deal with, but he is a creator of circumstance and has the God-given opportunity of choice.

Since vice in a specific form is seldom transmitted but rather a tendency to certain forms of wrong-doing, the knowledge of an inherited weakness is often a command to rise and conquer, and the man seemingly handicapped is in the end a greater victor than he whose cause seems destined to be smooth and easy.

Not intellect nor culture make the normal man, but lowly listening to and obeying the voice of conscience which is ever ready to warn and save in time of stress. Each man may add to his own type the virtues and graces of others, but only by his own lofty thinking and earnest living is he saved, and only by personal rectitude may he fit himself to be worthy of the great opportunities which come to those who struggle and conquer.

The Rollin's Young Men's class met in the church auditorium at noon Sunday, and devoted a profitable hour to the consideration of "Courage."

A large number from our parish attended the session of the Unitarian Fellowship for social justice at the Arlington Street church Sunday evening, and heard helpful addresses by Prof. Vida D. Scudder, Prof. John Graham Brooks and Mayor George R. Simm of Schenectady, N. Y.

Rev. Carl G. Horst will be in Boston every day this week, excepting Saturday in attendance upon the May meetings of the American Unitarian association and allied national societies.

At the mass meeting in Ford hall this evening our former pastor, the Rev. Frank Wright Pratt of Calgary, Alberta, will be one of the speakers. Many of his former parishioners are planning to hear him.

Hon. Eugene H. Sprague of our church is the new president of the Wollaston Parents' and Teachers' association.

Children's Sunday comes the fourth Sunday in June, (June 23.) A large class of children will be christened this year.

Under the auspices of the Church-Helpers a Children's dancing party will be held in Brasee hall, Saturday, May 25, from 2 till 4, and an evening dancing party for all over fifteen years at 7.30.

Cut flowers or flowering plants for the decoration of the chancel will be graefully received by the flower committee, Mrs. E. S. Taylor, 10 Cushing street, Telephone: Quincy 722-M.

Miss Marion Moorhouse, 'cellist and Miss Rose G. Boynton, reader will entertain the Wollaston Young People's Social society on Tuesday, May 21, at 8 P. M., in the vestry of our church. This is the last meeting of the season.

The Social Service committee of the Wollaston Unitarian church, of which Frederck H. Bishop is president, and Mrs. Chandler W. Smith is secretary, is preparing a card catalogue of the social service activities of the members of the parish as a basis for its study of local conditions. This catalogue will give the name of the institution to which a member contributes and in which he or she is at work. Among the institutions mentioned are the City hospital, Tuberculosis camp, Day nursery, Associated charities, No-License league Playgrounds, Y. M. C. A., King's Daughters, Wollaston kindergarten.

Beauty is one of the important assets of a suburb like Wollaston. Let every citizen do his part in making and keeping Wollaston beautiful.

Ther was on exhibition in the vestibule yesterday morning a beautiful large photograph, handsomely framed, of our church. This is a gift from the Unitarian Church-Helpers to the American Unitarian association.

The Unitarian Church-Helpers at their meeting last Wednesday made Rev. and Mrs. Carl G. Horst honorary members of their society.

Rev. and Mrs. Horst will entertain as usual the delegates to the May meetings from their former church in West Upton, Mass.

Both Miss Gertrude Jones and Mrs. Charles H. Brigham, who underwent operations recently, are doing finely.

BETHANY CHURCH.

A large audience was present at the morning service in Bethany church to hear the message by the pastor, Rev. Benjamin A. Willmott on the subject: "A Short Creed." Before touching upon this theme, however, Mr. Willmott gave a special message to the children from the text "Suffer the little children to come unto me."

In developing he thought of the regular sermon, the pastor first proved the need of a creed. A man must believe something, that is, must have a creed in order to amount to anything. Those who claim that they have no creed are generally burdened down with the longest and hardest kind of creed. A creed, to be actually worth while must be workable, must have in it the possibility of being made a part of one's real experience in life. "I believe in the Lord Jesus Christ." If anyone will take that for his creed and live up to it, he will be a true Christian, a lover of the truth, tolerant of the beliefs of others and ready to serve all who are in need.

The Christian Endeavor meeting was the most largely attended of the season. Since it was a Union meeting between the Junior and Senior societies many of the young members were present and took part individually and in unison. The meeting was in charge of Howard Cantley and Adrian McFarlane.

At the evening service, the new song books given by the ladies of the church were used for the first time and the praise service was most inspiring. The pastor gave another excellent sermon on the subject "A Practical Religion." At this service, as well as in the morning the auditorium was well filled.

At both morning and evening services topic cards of the Thursday evening Fellowship meetings for the summer were distributed.

Among the notices for the week were the May party by the Philathea class which is to be held this evening in the vestry and the meeting of the Woman's Missionary society on Wednesday at which Mrs. David Herrick of India will speak on "Hinduism." Mrs. Moore will sing.

The topic for the Fellowship meeting of the week is "No Christian service is in vain." I Cor. 12:12-27.

YACHTSMEN GET BUSY FOR SEASON

Many Crafts Fitting at Local Yard for Coming Races

MEMORIAL DAY REAL OPENING

The Acushla, the 42-foot auxiliary sloop of H. M. Savage, the Squantum Yacht club, is nearly ready for the water. She has been thoroughly overhauled at Hanley's.

Merrill Hunt's 85-foot power cruising yacht Viator is being put in commission at the Baker yacht basin. She will take part in the Eastern Yacht club cruise this year

It was announced last week that the Squantum and Wollaston Yacht clubs would combine and hold their annual open race on the same day. This plan however has now been changed and they will be held on separate dates. That of the Squantum club will be held on July 6. The date for the Wollaston club has not been fixed as yet.

The Zoe owned by F. J. Stuart of Wollaston, is being put in commission and will be sailed this season in class S. This year she will be white above the water line instead of black as last season.

A thirty-foot power boat for Henry Allan of Providence, built from designs of Ralph E. Winslow of Quincy has been launched at East Weymouth and on her trial trip developed a speed of 8.9 miles. She has a 10 horse power engine.

Auxiliary schooner Mariette, owned by J. F. Brown of Boston, will go into commission in another week at Baker's Basin. Other boats being repaired and fitted out at that place are the auxiliary schooner Undercliff, F. S. Jones, of Philadelphia; the steam yacht Prosit, J. B. Schoeffel of Boston; the steam yacht Natomah, King Upton of Boston; the steam yacht Roque, George A. Gardner of Boston, and the auxiliary schooner Thelma, owned by Charles B. Morrison of New York, and the steam yacht Talofa, G. G. Peters of Boston.

It is interesting to note that the Little Haste, just purchased by Hollis Burgess from Philadelphia, and being fitted up at Quincy, is with one exception the only centre-board boat which will race at South Boston in class A on Memorial day.

UNIQUE PARTY GIVEN FOR SONS

Colonial hall was the scene of a very attractive and enjoyable dancing party given Steûrday evening by Attorney Paul R. Blackmur, in honor of his three sons, Paul R. Jr., a student in the freshman class at Harvard college, Maurice and Richard, the latter two being students at the Quincy High school. About thirty couples attended and the function was a of a unique nature.

The boys were assisted in receiving by their father and mother. The reception took place from eight o'clock until nine, followed by dancing which was enjoyed till shortly before midnight. An intermission took place at ten o'clock, during which refreshments were served. hTe favors given out during the evening consisted of parasols, masks and shakers. hTe music was by Pinkham's orchestra.

The ushers were Richard Crane, John Paffmann, Washburn Sears and Samuel Sears.

DARING YOUTH RESCUES MAN

Drags Him Ashore From the Clutches of Niagara

Niagara Falls, N. Y., May 20.—One of the most daring rescues in the history of Niagara Falls was effected Sunday by a 20-year-old Armenian, Aran Kevorkian of this city. He waded out waist deep into the rapids a short distance above the cataract and pulled to shore with a pike pole the unconscious form of Henry J. Smith, 50 years old, and a resident of Buffalo.

Smith was walking along the narrow path skirting the river about 300 feet above the falls when he missed his footing and fell into the turbulent stream. He soon became exhausted in his efforts to reach the shore and was floating with his head under water when caught by Kevorkian with his pike pole less than 100 feet above the brink.

LATE BUT CITY CLERK WAITED

Finn Wedding Party at City Hall Saturday Afternoon

ON THEIR HONEYMOON

A quiet wedding was solemnized at City Hall Saturday afternoon in the City Clerk's office. The ceremony was to have taken place at 11.55 but at that time neither the bride nor groom had put in appearance. The hall was closed at 12 o'clock and the outside doors closed. Ten minutes later the couple with the bride blushing clear to the roots of her hair, and her face wreathed in smiles, put in appearance. After some inquiries they made their way to the back door and were fortunate in finding City Clerk Crane just closing his desk. The ceremony was quickly performed and the happy pair started on their honeymoon. The groom gave his name as Johan Tuomikoski and the bride as Jennie Johnson. Both are natives of Finland, the groom being employed as a quarryman and the bride as a domestic.

BLINDED BY SMOKE

scene and they stood guard over the stores.

The fire at first looked like a bad one but the department got at it early and made a remarkably good stop confining the fire to the L where it started. On the street floor of the L were stored a large number of garden tools which were more or less damaged by water. The heat also broke in one of the windows of the Plummer building adjoining, occupied by the Berman Furniture Company. Some little damage was done here by smoke which filled the building, but the main damage by fire was the loss of a roll of oilcloth, but smoke and water will cut a large figure in the total loss.

There was also some water damage on Westland's store and the heat had broken the rear window and considerable water had entered the store as well as smoke. The firemen however had spread rubber blankets over some of the show cases in the front of the store and this saved the finer grade of cutlery from getting wet.

The damage to Haley's news store was by smoke and just what this will be is hard to estimate. It is probable however that all of the confectionery and cigars are more or less damaged. There was practically no fire in the Drysdale tenement although there will be some damage by smoke and water. The fire had worked upward to the roof between the walls to the roof and it was necessary to do considerable cutting to get at the blaze, under the clap-boarding.

The fire was well subdued but the smoke was impenetrable, hidding the former fact from the large number of spectators at the fire when some started the report that the fire was in close proximity to a barrel of gasoline in the Westland cellar. That was enough and in short order the sidewalk on the fire side of the street was clear and the spectators rushed themselves on the other side of the road and at points far removed on either end of the fire zone.

Chief Litchfield said after the fire, that the loss was a hard one to estimate but he did not think it would figure over $1,500.

How the fire started is a mystery, as there was no fire in the stoves of any of the tenents of the building. There was some talk that some boys had been playing in the rear of the building and they may have dropped a lighted match or cigarette stub, which started the blaze in the rubbish.

Hardly had the department had the fire under control, than an alarm was sounded from Box 62 for a fire on the planking of Neponset bridge. Chief Litchfield ordered Hose 1 and the steamer to respond, as at this time the auto chemical had no hose on having laid three streams for the Westland fire. The Chief left Engineer Packard in charge and started for Box 62. As soon as he learned what this fire was and that the apparatus was not needed he turned the Central station apparatus back.

NORTEMAN'S ANNUAL DINNER

from Romeo and Juliet, Owen Meredith, Tusser and the Merchant of Venice, the latter quotation being:

"Who rises from a feast
With that keen appetite that he sits down?"

The menu was as follows:

Olives Radishes
Clam Chowder
Fried Cod Fried Clams
Mashed potatoes Potato chips
String beans Cucumbers
Chicken salad
Plain Boiled Lobster
Ice cream Frozen pudding
Assorted cake
Cheese Crackers
Rolls Coffee

During the dinner toasts were proposed to mine host Norteman, Mayor Stone, ex-Mayor Shea, Master of Ceremonies French and several others. There was also continuous music by the orchestra, the party joining in singing many of the airs, particularly some of the familiar operas. The post prandial exercises were very pleasant. The first to be introduced was the host, who extended a hearty welcome to all. He said that he was glad to see so many of his friends present, and if they only enjoyed themselves as much as he did he was well repaid. No one enjoyed having his friends about him more than he did and he only regretted that a year ago he had been obliged to forego his usual opening dinner on account of the illness of his wife. In closing he hoped to see all present next year at his opening.

He as followed by Mayor Stone, ex-Mayor Shea, City Treasurer Tilden, Dr. Jones, Representatives Piper and Leslie, President Sheppard and President Hearn, Commissioner Crane, ex-Councilman Whiton, City Clerk Crane, Commissioner Tupper, Commodore Whittemore, President Hobbs, Councilmen Studley, J. R. S. Ross, Richards, Sandberg, Thompson, and Boyd and Archie Baird. All of these gentlemen spoke in the same general strain, extolling the excellence of the dinner and wishing the host a most successful season and all kinds of good luck.

Councilman Sandberg proposed a return dinner to Mr. Norteman in September which met with popular favor for when those in favor were requested to stand every one did so. A committee was then appointed to make the necessary arrangements. They included Henry W. French, Councilman J. R. S. Ross, Eben W. Sheppard and Archie F. Baird.

Thus came to an end one of the most successful openings Mr. Norteman has ever held as well as one in which all expressed themselves as having had a royal good time and a most excellent dinner.

CHILDREN MERRY IN MAY PARTY

The children's May Festival given by the Order of Eastern Star was held Saturday afternoon in Electa hall.

Games and dancing were enjoyed by all. Miss Cora Barnicoat sang a solo and was assisted by Olive Barnicoat.

A fancy dance was rendered by Miss Ramah Baker accompanied by Miss Unice Seache.

Fancy caps and bon-bons were given as favors.

Refreshments consisting of ice cream, cake and punch were served during the afternoon.

At the conclusion of the afternoon's social the children formed a line and after marching all around the hall, each received a May basket.

The affair was in charge of the following committee: Mrs. Henry Furnald, chairman, Mrs. Eleanor Gibbs, Mrs. Sarah Roache, Mrs. A. MacLeod, Mrs. Mary Worsdell, Mrs. L. L. Files, Mrs. Josephine Schools, Mrs. Alice Ralph, Mrs. J. S. Swingle, Mrs. Mary Deacon, Mrs. Mary Gordon and Mrs. Sinclair.

FRIENDS PLEASED.

The many friends of Dr. John H. Ash in Weymouth are pleased to learn of his apointment to the position of city physician of Quincy. Dr. Ash is a native of Weymouth, a graduate of the Weymouth High School, class '88, and of Harvard Medical School class '92. On graduating from Harvard Dr. Ash settled in Quincy and has resided in that city since. He is one of the most prominent physicians of that city and enjoys a large practice. His wife is also a native of this town being before her marriage Miss Alice Keohan.—Weymouth News.

A ROYAL PIRATE

Ex-Shah of Persia Now a Collector of Revenue on the High Seas

Baku, Southern Russia, May 20.—Mohammed Ali Mirza, who succeeded his father, Muzaffar-ed-din as Shah of Persia in 1907 and was deposed in 1909, has become a pirate king upon the Caspian sea.

The medjlis (parliament) at Teheran offers $200,000 head money for him, dead or alive.

At the present moment he is occupying an impregnable position on the coast to which he recently returned from a cruise with two vessels laden with priceless booty. He has in his command 200 desperadoes fully equipped and eager for prey.

In company with his uncle Malik and his brother Itezad, the former shah recently captured personally a party of Persians. For one of them, a noble, he exacted a ransom of $200,000. The others were burned alive.

JENNING OUT AS THREATENED

Tigers Show Their Claws Instead Ball Playing Qualities

VOLUNTEERS PLAY ATHLETICS

President Johnson Not Moved—First Time a Team Has Refused to Play—Strikers Watch the Game From the Grandstand—Strikers Talk of an Independent Tour of the Country—Japan In the Itinerary

Philadelphia, May 20.—The Detroit Tigers made good their threat to strike Saturday. Nineteen players walked off the field in Philadelphia just before the game was called. Manager Hugh Jennings with a picked team played the game with the Athletics, which resulted in a Philadelphia victory by 24 to 2.

Public sentiment, as mirrored in the reports of the affray, in the New York newspapers and in the comment on the tracas that there was unusual provocation and that Cobb lost his temper and should have taken more gentle means to carry his points.

Soon after the disapearance of the striking players, amateurs gathered in and about the city by Manager Jennings to take the place of his players in the event of a strike, were ready to play. Most of the players who appeared in the role of strike breakers are members of the St. Joseph's college nine, which team defeated the world's champions before the championship season began. Manager Jennings announced that every man who played for him would be given a $50 bill if he is not an amateur.

The youngsters taking the place of the striking Tigers did not look like the brilliant performers who sat in the grandstand and watched the game they had been scheduled to play themselves.

The players did not strike because Cobb was punished for striking the spectator at the New York game. As a matter of fact they say they expected Cobb to be fined, or at the worst to be suspended for a few days only. What they objected to so violently was the indefinite term of the suspension and the refusal of President Johnson to withhold action until he had made his investigation.

"It is time that the players had some right as well as the club owners," said a Tiger. "We consider that we could make a lot of money by going on a trip and touring the country. We have offers from many places, and eventually we may accept one to go to Japan. Cobb has not yet signed an agreement to take a barnstorming trip with us. From what he has said, however, we are certain that we will have Ty with us at the right time."

Sunday's game and the game today between Detroit and the Athletes were postponed by order of Ban Johnson, president of the American league.

The striking Detroit players, except Cobb, will be ruled out of major league baseball for life, and a new Detroit team will be built up.

The presidents of all the American league clubs have been called to meet in this city tomorrow.

The American league president will take up the subject of having each club contribute one or two men to the Detroit management to allow the finishing of the schedule.

REBELS BEING HEMMED IN

Three Federal Columns Emerging on the Insurrecto Forces of Mexico

El Paso, Tex., May 20.—Rebel Commander-in-Chief Orozco, with 5000 rebels, is holding strategic points between Rellano and Jiminez. Federal Commander-in-Chief Huerta, with an equally strong force, is only fifteen miles away, pressing north to attack.

The arrival of a federal column at San Ignacio, forty-five miles east of Juarez, was the first sign of a well organized campaign in the rear of the main rebel army. It is planned to surround Juarez, destroy the connecting link of the insurgents with the United States and stop the shipping of munitions and provisions to the rebels.

Three columns of federal volunteers are converging on Juarez with the purpose of forcing its surrender.

WILLIAM A. MORSE

Richeson's Attorney Who Fought So Strenuously

RICHESON KEEPS CALM

Preaches His Last Sermon From the Cot In His Cell

Boston, May 20.—Clarence V. T. Richeson last night was more resigned to his fate, calmer and more cheerful than at any time since he has reached Charlesetown.

When Warden Bridges visited Richeson at a late hour last night he found him in good spirits.

Without betraying any sign of fear at the entrance of the men whose duty it is to give the death signal to his executioner, Richeson greeted the warden in a friendly manner and said: "You needn't worry about me, Warden. I'm not going to cause you any trouble and you can depend upon it when the time comes that I will be ready."

In spite of rumors Saturday night that the execution might take place this morning after midnight, or early this morning, it is expected that Richeson will pay the penalty for poisoning Avis Linnell early tomorrow morning.

Richeson had requested that it being his last Sunday on earth he be allowed to conduct the service at the prison chapel. He was told that this would be against the rules of the prison. Then he asked that he might hold a brief service within his cell.

In low, tremulous tones Richeson delivered the final sermon of his life Sunday.

Never before has the death house of the grim old state prison served as the setting for such a scene.

Propped upon the pillows of his cot, the condemned clerbgyman surveyed his congregation before entering on his topic.

Seated close together on the other side of the bars of his cage were Rev. Dr. Herbert S. Johnson, Rev. Herbert Stebbins, his spiritual advisers, and the two guards.

There came a break in the young clergyman's voice when he announced that he wished to speak from the Twenty-Third Psalm.

Until that time he had been listening to readings by his spiritual advisors, or had been quoting sections from the Bible.

The two guards straightened up and removed their hats in reverence when Richeson in quavering tones announced:

"This is Sunday, and my last on earth. If I had lived a righteous life I should today be delivering a sermon from the pulpit of my Cambridge church instead of being caged here, awaiting a felon's death.

"But although I have sinned gravely, God is with me. For I have deeply repented.

"I feel that it is fitting, indeed, I feel that it is my duty to offer up a sermon before I die. And this, my last Sunday, is the proper day."

Then with his voice sounding hollow and strange in the cavernous stillness of the death chamber, Richeson slowly read the lines of the Twenty-Third Psalm.

Then he entered on what Dr. Johnson afterward declared was "a most beautiful exposition of the Twenty-Third Psalm."

His mind is clear, and those who visited him Sunday say that he has become resigned to his fate, although he is weak physically.

He has given Attorney William A. Morse a list of things he wishes distributed. Among them are several articles which he has named to be returned to Mrs. Linnell, mother of the girl he murdered, and to Violet Edmands. They are little keepsakes, things which he had been given by the two young women whose lives had become so fatally connected with his.

His watch, chain and charm, he instructed his attorney to send to Thomas V. Richeson, his aged father, in Virginia.

Douglass Richeson, brother of the condemned man, has arrived in Boston. He is the only relative who will be here during the last hours of Richeson's life. Although he had a long conference with Attorney Morse, he did not visit the Charlestown prison.

Returns to Europe

New York, May 20.—Mrs. Ava W. Astor has sailed for Europe.

The KITCHEN CUPBOARD

ROAST SPRING LAMB.

IF you purchase a fore quarter of the lamb you will get it cheaper.

Wrapped in glazed paper and placed in the refrigerator, the portions which are not used at once may be kept for a few days.

The butcher will cut off the shoulder and take out the bones. This can be stuffed and rolled.

The ribs or rack may be cut and trimmed to make French lamb chops.

The neck and breast may be used for a stew.

Ask for the bones trimmed from the meat and use these making soup.

An Easy Way.

Roast Leg of Lamb.—Wash dry and season. Lay a minced onion, a clove and a bay leaf in the bottom of the pan for flavoring. Baste the meat often to make it juicy. When done serve with mashed potatoes, creamed onions, fried apples and the gravy strained and thickened; also use a good mint sauce.

Fit For a Feast.

Stuffed Loin of Lamb.—Wipe the meat well with a cloth wrung out of borax water.

Make a stuffing with half a pound of crumbed bread and two ounces of chopped suet, two ounces of lean boiled bacon which has been minced. Add a teaspoonful of chopped onion, a tablespoonful of parsley, salt, pepper, a little grated nutmeg and sufficient beaten egg to moisten.

Spread this evenly over the meat, then roll it up, tie at intervals with fine white string to keep it in place and bake it in a well heated oven, basting it frequently. Serve with either thick or clear brown sauce.

Well Seasoned Lamb.

Stuffed Shoulder of Lamb.—The meat should be boned. Make a stuffing of four ounces of breadcrumbs, two ounces of raw lamb chopped fine, two tablespoons of melted butter, a tablespoon of finely chopped parsley, a tablespoon of onion juice and salt and pepper to taste.

Mix all together and stuff the meat. Roast in a hot oven. Make a sauce of two tablespoons of melted butter mixed with a tablespoon each of chopped parsley, lemon juice, onion and beef extract. Draw the meat when done from the oven, baste with the sauce, return to the oven until it is melted, then serve.

WAYS WITH SPINACH.

SPINACH is often spoken of as the broom of the stomach. This is because of the useful work it does for the system. The salts which it contains are very cleansing to the blood.

Spinach must be washed well. Cut off the roots and decayed leaves. Pass it from one pail of water to another until it is absolutely clean and free from sand.

When Boiled.

Put the spinach on the fire in a kettle if you wish to boil it. Do not add any water. There will be enough clinging to the leaves. The spinach itself is largely water, and cooking will draw out the juices.

About half a peck of spinach will not be too much to cook at a time, as it shrinks in boiling. When boiled until tender drain and chop.

Melt a tablespoonful of butter, mix with it a quarter of a tablespoonful of pepper, a half a teaspoonful of salt and add this to the spinach, heating it again. Serve on toast with sliced hard boiled eggs and toast points.

A Nutritious Dish.

The following way of cooking spinach is said to keep in its nutritious ingredients:

Spinach With Butter.—Having washed and drained the spinach, cut it in pieces. Drop it in a saucepan in which you have heated three and a half ounces of butter to every pound of spinach. Add salt, grated nutmeg and cook quickly.

A Nice Salad.

Spinach Salad.—After having cleaned, boiled and chopped the spinach make a dressing with four tablespoonfuls of olive oil, a half teaspoonful of salt, a dash of pepper and one tablespoonful of vinegar. Mix with the spinach. Put in tiny cups or individual molds and set on ice for an hour. Then turn out and serve on lettuce leaves with mayounaise or French dressing.

Combined With Eggs.

Spinach Omelet.—Beat the yolks of four eggs, add four tablespoonfuls of water, a teaspoonful of salt, a teaspoonful of onion juice and a dash of pepper. Put a teaspoonful of butter or of bacon drippings into a pan and heat. Add the eggs and put over a slow fire. Shake constantly, lifting the center so the soft part will go under and fry. With fork or knife run around the edges, spread the spinach on top and fold over. Serve on hot platter.

The spinach should be chopped very fine or rubbed through a coarse strainer. Season and heat before putting in the omelet.

HOW HOWARD SAVED A MAN.

Brief Temperance Talk While Wounded Was Effective.

The late General O. O. Howard often related an incident in his own life to show, he said, what great results sometimes came from small efforts.

At the battle of Fair Oaks, on June 1, 1862, General Howard's right arm was shot off. "As I was making my way to the hospital," he said, "weak from loss of blood and from pain, I saw a young man intoxicated. He was so under the influence of whisky that he could hardly walk. As I came near him I stopped long enough to tell him it did not pay to drink. It would ruin him, and he had better stop before the habit had control of him.

"I passed on to the hospital, had my arm amputated and was sent home to recover. I saw and heard nothing more of the drunken soldier until a short time ago, when an officer in Washington told me his subsequent history.

"Impressed by the fact that in my wounded condition I had taken enough interest in him to stop and give him advice, he had then and there resolved to quit drinking. He kept his resolution and when the war was over settled down to a life of steady, honest hard work. He gradually rose, and the letter from Washington told me he had just died, a judge on the supreme bench in the state of New Hampshire, one of the foremost men in the state."

THE JOB REMAINED OPEN.

Negro Was Well Treated, but Still He Ran Away.

Before the civil war there came into the public room of a hotel in Canada near the frontier one day a bright looking negro.

"I s'pose you're a runaway slave," said one of the men in the room, looking sharply at the newcomer. Feeling that he was pretty well away from bondage, the darky responded in the affirmative.

"Well, we're glad enough that you've got away, but you don't look very poor. Have good clothes down south?"

"Suttinly, sah; same clothes as my massa."

"But you got a good many thrashings, eh?"

"Nebber had a whippin' in my life, sah."

"Never thrashed! Well, but I suppose you didn't always get enough to eat, did you?"

"Always had enough, gemmen."

"What!" said the persistent interrogator. "Good clothes, no punishment, plenty to eat! Now just think of it," he said, addressing a group of loungers. "This fellow has left a position where he enjoys all these privileges for an uncertainty."

"Gemmen," replied the darky, "all I's got to say respectin' dem privileges is dat if any one of you wants to avail hisself ob 'em de situation am still open."—Boston Home Journal.

The Wreck of the Titan

SYNOPSIS

The great steamer Titan, supposed to be unsinkable, starts across the Atlantic. Rowland, once a lieutenant, now a common sailor, meets his old love Myra. She is with her husband and child.

The Titan cuts a ship in two, and her captain endeavors to conceal the crime. Rowland objects. The captain gives him whisky, so that he will be discredited. Myra accuses him of attempting to murder her child.

Rowland is drugged by the captain's order and is then given the starboard bridge lookout, so that he will disgrace himself. Myra's child steals away and joins Rowland.

The Titan strikes an iceberg and sinks. Thousands are lost. Myra escapes in a boat. Rowland and the child find refuge on the iceberg. He loses an arm in a fight with a polar bear.

He sprang to the fire, forgetting his pain, and, throwing on wood, made a blaze. He hailed in a frenzy of excitement, "Bark ahoy! Bark ahoy! Take us off!" And a deep toned answer came across the water.

"Wake up, Myra," he cried as he lifted the child. "Wake up. We're going away."

"We goin' to mamma?" she asked, with no symptoms of crying.

"Yes, we're going to mamma now—that is," he added to himself, "if that clause in the prayer is considered."

Fifteen minutes later, as he watched the approach of a white quarter boat, he muttered: "That bark was there, half a mile back in this wind, before I thought of praying. Is that prayer answered? Is she safe?"

On the first floor of the London Royal Exchange is a large apartment studded with desks, around and between which surges a hurrying, shouting crowd of brokers, clerks and messengers. Fringing this apartment are doors and hallways leading to adjacent rooms and offices, and scattered through it are bulletin boards, on which are daily written in duplicate the marine casualties of the world. At one end is a raised platform, sacred to the presence of an important functionary. In the technical language of the "city," the apartment is known as the "room" and the functionary as the "caller," whose business it is to call out in a mighty sing song voice the names of members wanted at the door and the bare particulars of bulletin news prior to its being chalked out for reading.

It is the headquarters of Lloyd's—the immense association of underwriters, brokers and shipping men which, beginning with the customers at Edward Lloyd's coffee house in the latter part of the seventeenth century, has, retaining his name for a title, developed into a corporation so well equipped, so splendidly organized and powerful, that kings and ministers of state appeal to it at times for foreign news.

"Bark ahoy! Bark ahoy! Take us off!"

Not a master or mate sails under the English flag but whose record, even to forecastle fights, is tabulated at Lloyd's for the inspection of prospective employers. Not a ship is cast away on any inhabitable coast of the world during underwriters' business hours but what that mighty singsong cry announces the event at Lloyd's within thirty minutes.

One of the adjoining rooms is known as the chart room. Here can be found in perfect order and sequence, each on its roller, the newest charts of all nations, with a library of nautical literature describing to the last detail the harbors, lights, rocks, shoals and sailing directions of every coast line shown on the charts; the tracks of latest storms, the changes of ocean currents and the whereabouts of derelicts and icebergs. A member at Lloyd's acquires in time a theoretical knowledge of the sea seldom exceeded by the men who navigate it.

Another apartment, the captain's room, is given over to joy and refreshment, and still another, the antithesis of the last, is the intelligence office, where anxious ones inquire for and are told the latest news of this or that overdue ship.

On the day when the assembled throng of underwriters and brokers had been thrown into an uproarious panic the crier's announcement that the great Titan was destroyed and the papers of Europe and America were issuing extras giving the meager details of the arrival at New York of one boat load of her people this office had been crowded with weeping women and worrying men, who would ask and remain to ask again for more news. And when it came—a later cablegram—giving the story of the wreck and the names of the captain, first officer, boatswain, seven sailors and one lady passenger as those of the saved a feeble old gentleman had raised his voice in a quavering scream, high above the sobbing of women, and said:

"My daughter-in-law is safe, but where is my son, where is my son, and my grandchild?" Then he had hurried away, but was back again the next day, and the next. And when, on the tenth day of waiting and watching, he learned of another boat load of sailors and children arriving at Gibraltar, he shook his head slowly, muttering "George, George," and left the room. That night, after telegraphing the consul at Gibraltar of his coming, he crossed the channel.

In the first tumultuous riot of inquiry, when underwriters had climbed over desks and each other to hear again of the wreck of the Titan, one—the noisiest of all, a corpulent, hook nosed man with flashing black eyes—had broken away from the crowd and made his way to the captain's room, where, after a draft of brandy, he had seated himself heavily with a groan that came from his soul.

"Father Abraham," he muttered; "this will ruin me!"

Others came in, some to drink, some to condole, all to talk.

"Hit hard, Meyer?" asked one.

"Ten thousand," he answered, gloomily.

"Serves you right," said another unkindly. "Have more baskets for your eggs. Knew you'd bring up."

Though Mr. Meyer's eyes sparkled at this, he said nothing, but drank himself stupid and was assisted home by one of his clerks. From this on, neglecting his business, excepting to occasionally visit the bulletins, he spent his time in the captain's room, drinking heavily and bemoaning his luck. On the tenth day he read with watery eyes, posted on the bulletin below the news of the arrival at Gibraltar of the second boat load of people, the following:

"Read it, Meyer. Read it."

"Life buoy of Royal Age, London, picked up among wreckage in latitude 45.20, north longitude 54.31 west. Ship Arctic, Boston, Captain Brandt."

"Oh, mine good God!" he howled as he rushed toward the captain's room.

"Poor devil! Poor fool!" said one observer to another. "He covered the whole of the Royal Age and the biggest chunk of the Titan. It'll take his wife's diamonds to settle."

Three weeks later Mr. Meyer was aroused from a brooding lethargy by a crowd of shouting underwriters, who rushed into the captain's room, seized him by the shoulders and hurried him out and up to a bulletin.

"Read it, Meyer! Read it! What d'you think of it?" With some difficulty he read aloud, while they watched his face:

"John Rowland, sailor of the Titan, with child passenger, name unknown, on board Peerless, Bath, at Christiansand, Norway. Both dangerously ill. Rowland speaks of ship cut in half night before loss of Titan."

"What do you make of it, Meyer? Royal Age, isn't it?" asked one.

"Yes," vociferated another, "I've figured back. Only ship not reported lately. Overdue two months. Was spoken same day fifty miles east of that iceberg!"

"Sure thing," said others. "Nothing said about it in the captain's statement. Looks queer."

"Vell, vhat of it?" said Mr. Meyer painfully and stupidly. "Dere is a collision clause in der Titan's policy. I merely bay the money to der steamship company instead of to der Royal Age beeple."

"But why did the captain conceal it?" they shouted at him. "What's his object—assured against collision suits?"

"Der looks of it, berhaps. Looks pad."

"Nonsense, Meyer! What's the matter with you? Which one of the lost tribes did you spring from? You're like none of your race—drinking yourself stupid like a good Christian. I've got a thousand on the Titan, and if I'm to pay it I want to know why. You've got the heaviest risk and the brain to fight for it. You've got to do it. Go home, straighten up and attend to this. We'll watch Rowland till you take hold. We're all caught."

They put him into a cab, took him to a Turkish bath and then home.

The next morning he was at his desk, clear eyed and clear headed, and for a few weeks was a busy, scheming man of business.

CHAPTER VI.

The Return of Rowland.

On a certain morning about two months after the announcement of the loss of the Titan Mr. Meyer sat at his desk in the rooms busily writing when the old gentleman who had bewailed the death of his son in the intelligence office tottered in and took a chair beside him.

"Good morning, Mr. Selfridge," he said, scarcely looking up. "I suppose you have come to see der insurance paid over. Der sixty days are up."

"Yes, yes, Mr. Meyer," said the old gentleman wearily. "Of course as merely a stockholder I can take no active part. But I am a member here and naturally a little anxious. All I had in the world, even to my son and grandchild, was in the Titan."

"It is very sad, Mr. Selfridge. You have my deepest sympathy. I believe you are der largest holder of Titan stock, about £100,000, is it not?"

"About that."

"I am der heaviest insurer. So Mr. Selfridge this battle will be largely between you and myself."

"Battle! Is there to be any difficulty?" asked Mr. Selfridge anxiously.

"Berhaps; I do not know. Der underwriters and outside companies have blaced matters in my hands and will not bay until I take der initiative. We must hear from one John Rowland, who, with a little child, was rescued from der berg and taken to Christiansand. He has been too sick to leave der ship which found him and is coming up der Thames in her this morning. I have a carriage at der dock and expect him at my office py noon. Dere is where we will dransact this little pizness, not here."

"A child—saved!" queried the old gentleman. "Dear me! It may be little Myra. She was not at Gibraltar with the others. I would not care—I would not care much about the money if she was safe. But my son, my only son, is gone, and Mr. Meyer I am a ruined man if this insurance is not paid."

"And I am a ruined man if it is," said Mr. Meyer, rising. "Will you come around to der office, Mr. Selfridge? I expect der attorney and Captain Bryce are dere now." Mr. Selfridge arose and accompanied him to the street.

A rather meagerly furnished private office in Threadneedle street, partitioned off from a larger one bearing Mr. Meyer's name in the window, received the two men, one of whom, in the interests of good business, was soon to be impoverished. They had not waited a minute before Captain Bryce and Mr. Austen were announced and ushered in. Sleek, well fed and gentlemanly in manner, perfect types of the British naval officer, they bowed politely to Mr. Selfridge when Mr. Meyer introduced them as the captain and first officer of the Titan and seated themselves. A few moments later brought a shrewd looking person whom Mr. Meyer addressed as the attorney for the steamship company, but did not introduce, for such are the amenities of the English system of caste.

COFFEE TRUST NEXT

Government Seeks to Hold $10,000,000 Worth in This Country

New York, May 20.—Attorney General Wickersham moved against the so-called coffee trust, or Brazilian valorization scheme. In a petition in equity here in the United States district of New York, the valorization plan is declared to be a violation of the Sherman anti-trust law.

The court is asked to decree the scheme unlawful, to enjoin the valorization committee from withholding the coffee from the market, and to appoint a receiver to sell the 950,000 bags, valued at $10,000,000 now alleged to be stored in the warehouses of the New York Dock company.

In 1901 and 1902 coffee cold wholesale at this port at 5¼ to 7½ cents a pound. This was before the coffee trust got to work. Now coffee sells here, wholesale, at over 14 cents a pound.

Ratify the Agreement

Wilkesbarre, Pa., May 20.—The anthracite mine workers' convention by a vote of 323 to 64 ratified the agreement entered into by a subcommittee of the miners and operators, and the miners will go back to work after an idleness of seven weeks. The men quit work on March 31.

Socialist Nominees

Indianapolis, May 20.—Eugene V. Debs of Terre Houte, Ind., was nominated as candidate for the presidency of the United States by the national Socialist convention, Emil Seidel, former mayor of Milwaukee, was chosen for the vice presidential nomination.

New York, May 20.—The New York Herald's forecast of the campaigns for presidential nominations is as follows:

Mr. Taft's candidacy in a dangerous position! Theodore Roosevelt making great gains! Ohio still the key to the situation!

Champ Clark still well in the lead in the Democratic contest and rapidly gaining on all the other nominees. Governor Woodrow Wilson second, and in the midst of an apparent slump, and Oscar W. Underwood holding his ground!

The great struggle in the Republican camp tomorrow is to come in Ohio, with the second and last great combat—providing the Buckeye battle does not settle the whole matter—to follow in New Jersey, where on May 28 twenty-eight delegates will be elected at a presidential preference primary.

Careful inquiry shows that President Taft is opposed largely by workingmen and farmers and that the business interests principally are with him. Mr. Roosevelt appears especially strong with the wage-earners, and as their voting strength is very large it appears certain that he will have a fair share of the delegates.

Mr. Roosevelt has made remarkable gains during the last week, gathering in 108 delegates, as against 32 for the president. He captured the 26 from California in the primary election, got 24 from Minnesota, 18 from North Carolina districts and 16 from West Virginia. President Taft made his gains in Arkansas, Montana, Tennessee, Texas, Utah and Wyoming. Idaho is credited by the Roosevelt managers with having given its eight votes to Mr. Roosevelt.

In New Jersey the president's chances are brightening. His managers do not expect to get a full delegation, but declare they will have a majority. The Roosevelt lieutenants, on the other hand, say they are certain of victory. From far off South Dakota, where the primary election will not be held till June 5, the reports say that while that state could have been classed a short time ago as a solid Taft state, it is not safe now to do so. Mr. Roosevelt's victories throughout the country have strengthened him and the correspondent from Pierre, the capital, says that the state's ten delegates may now go to Mr. Roosevelt.

Chicago, May 20.—The Taft men won everything at the meeting of the sub-committee of the Republican national committee, which has in charge preliminary arrangements for the convention.

Senator Root of New York was tentatively named for the temporary chairmanship. Then the appointment was held up until Senator Root could be communicated with. Chairman Harry S. New will name somebody else.

Former Governor Franklin Murphy of New Jersey, treasurer of the national committee and a member of the sub-committee, said:

"President Taft will be nominated on the first ballot. Mr. Roosevelt will bolt, will lead a third party and will be destroyed, just as all such leaders have destroyed themselves in the past. President Taft will get at least twenty of the twenty-eight delegates from my state."

The Purchaser Is Liable

Providence, May 20.—If a purchaser goes into a market and picks out a certain article of food, takes it home, eats it and finds that it contains substances that are injurious, the market is not responsible for damages, according to a rescript handed down by Presiding Justice Tanner of the superior court.

SIXTH THE TURNING POINT FOR QUINCY

With Wood pitching his first game of the season, South Quincy defeated the strong Newton Catholic club at Newton Saturday, by a score of 12 to 7. The home team led up to the sixth inning, when five runs by the Quincy boys enabled them to go the front. McCarthy and T. Galvin played brilliantly for the winners, while Yates was conspicuous for the losers.

The score by innings:

DEPARTMENT PRESS AGENTS

Representative Nelson Accuse Them of Allowing Reports Sent Out

Washington, May 20.—Representative Nelson of Wisconsin, who started the investigation of the meat inspection division of the department of agriculture, introduced a resolution asking for an investigation of all "press agents" employed by the government.

Employes of the department have prepared reports of the day's hearings, which were sent on government stationery and in franked or privileged envelopes to Washington correspondents of newspapers and to newspapers in all parts of the country colored to suit the department.

Representative Moss of Indiana, chairman of the house committee on expenditures in the agricultural department, surprised the committee by announcing that under his direction a well known expert veterinarian, whose identity he withheld, was quietly investigating the packing centres.

SEASON ENDED WILL CELEBRATE

Fore River Bowlers' Dinner and Theatre Party

GOOD TIME EXPECTED

Members of the Fore River bowling league will celebrate their work of the season by indulging in a banquet at the Cafe Bova, Arch street, Boston, this evening, at the conclusion of which they will repair to one of the Boston theatres in a effort to end the season in a blaze of glory. A handsome menu card has been provided for the banquet. It has been designed in the form of a bowling sheet.

The first page bears the scores made by the different teams. On the second page is a picture of the winning combination, on the third a picture of a regulation bowling alley, with the names of the players, while the last page is devoted to the records made this season. James E. Neary will have charge of the exercises, but it has been agreed upon that all speches will be eliminated.

The following is the order in which the different teams finished the schedule:

Team	Won	Lost	Perct
Machinists (gallery)	78	22	.78
Railroad	73	27	73
Patternmakers	57	43	57
Timekeepers	40	60	40
Machinists (floor)	28	72	28
Electricians	24	76	24

The single string record for the season shows Coyle and Hess of the gallery machinists and Simmons of the patternmakers tied for honors, with a pinfall of 116. This is exclusive of the 119 score made by Blake, who has been allowed to qualify for one prize, according to the agreement made at the start of the season. The highest mark for three strings in one game was 300, and the honors have been evenly divided between Smith of the Timekeepers and Moran of the gallery machinists, who attained the same mark. The high average for three strings, for all games on the schedule, is held by Blake of the gallery machinists whose grand mark is 268. The prizes will be awarded this evening.

SUNDAY IN OUR CHURCHES

WOLLASTON CONG. CHURCH.

Revelations 20-12—"And the books were opened," furnished the topic for Mr. Norton's morning sermon, which dealt with the book of life written by every soul since the beginning of Time, and with the story told when the books shall be opened.

He dwelt upon the business of living in such a way as to make the record, which must be composed of the minutest details of our entire lives, as stainless as possible, although no man living should boast that he is willing to stand on the record he has made, for it cannot possibly stand the white light of the judgment. But he assured his hearers that on that Day another book will be opened, the Lamb's Book of Life, in which are written the names of those who have sought the love and mercy of God, and that herein lies the only way to balance the account written in the opened books of their lives.

Old Folk's Sunday attracted large audiences who enjoyed a wealth of well known music and who spoke most enthusiastically of the services. Mr. Norton delivered a sermon in the morning and a short address, only at the afternoon service. The latter was musical almost entirely. Miss Hardy sang "The Holy City" most acceptably and a special treat was provided by Mr. C. B. Long, tenor soloist of Leyden Church Brookline, whose fine voice and methods were most pleasing.

Next Sunday Mr. Norton's sermon will have special reference to Memorial Day and its services.

The church at an official meeting last week voted to extend a call to Dr. Sneath of New Haven to take up the regular pastorate work here. After September 1st it is hoped that he may be counted as one of our citizens, and if his past record is lived up to, be certainly will be a fortunate acquisition to the city. Rev. Edward Norton is in the mean time constantly adding new friends to his host of old ones who will be sorry indeed to have him give up his regular appearances in this pulpit. His large audiences are a fitting tribute to his fine sermons and genial personality.

On Tuesday the W. C. T. U. meets with Mrs. Thomas Armstrong, 51 Warren avenue. Leader Mrs. Crothers.

Friday night prayer meeting in the vestry at 7.45 o'clock as usual, conducted by Mr. Norton. His subject will be "Lessons from the Foliage; or the sermon in the leaves." On Saturday at 2 P. M., the Little Lights Mission Band will meet in the vestry and proceed to Third Hill for a two hour picnic.

WOLLASTON M. E. CHURCH

..The subject of the sermon preached by Rev. Wesley Wiggin at the Wollaston M. E. Church Sunday morning was "Vision Determined by the Man." Miss Irma Douglas was the soloist at the morning service singing "Jesus Lover of My Soul." There was a large attendance at the Sunday school session which was in charge of Mr. J. A. Sedgwick, the superintendent. Every officer and teacher were present. The Royal Daughters had the largest attendance outside of the Primary class. The superintendent made the lesson very impressive by the use of the blackboard, and by illustration he told the children how they might have clean strong lives for Jesus.

Miss Mary Cleveland and Miss Bessie Wilbur had charge of the Junior League service in the absence of Miss Marian Nevers who is away on a vacation for two weeks. Mr. Chester Cleveland led the Epworth league meeting at 6 o'clock. Miss Rena M. Chamberlin continued her talk on Church History taking for her subject "Apology and the Apologists." She spoke of the Greek Apologists who were on the defensive, and the Romans on the aggressive side—She said it was interesting to notice that wher ever christianity went there education advanced. The early christians were ever ready to give a reason for their faith and conduct. The early apologies were a noble defence of christianity.

Mr. Raymond spoke of Julian and his work and the time in which he lived and Miss Ethel Clifford spoke of Clement of Alexandria.

At 7 o'clock the pastor spoke on "The Rich Young Ruler." He said in part: "Jesus is analysing the young man's life. He is testing him in order that he might find the nature of the metal that nature had given him. No painter could have described so clearly his life as did the Saviour; no sculptor could have carved so minutely his real character. He was in earnest. It was manifest in his every act. What shall I do to inherit eternal life. This was the all important question. In his daily routine as attendant at the temple he had meditated on the life beyond. This is the ambition of a righteous soul. He came to Jesus for a religious purpose. He did not ask the Saviour to heal any disease. He did not ask for wealth; he did not ask for intelligence, or honor, or fame or position. The young man had discovered himself and his great need. It is a great day for any young man when he comes to discover himself and open the doors to his own powers and possibilities of development.

Mr. F. A. Sutermeister led the praise service and the male quartet composed of Clarence Cassidy, Storer Wiggin, Raymond Cassidy and Frank Dunham sang.

INDUSTRIAL UNREST THREATENS ENGLAND

Lord Northcliffe's Paper Publishes Startling Articles

London, May 20.—Lord Northcliffe has been publishing in the Daily Mail a series of articles by H. G. Wells dealing with the industrial unrest. Mr. Wells predicts a revolution.

The inquest is opened by Wells in a way which has set Englishmen furiously to thinking. He says:

"The country is in a state of dangerous social disturbance. The discontent of the laboring mass of the community is deep and increasing. In a year from the coronation we have moved very rapidly indeed from assurance of extreme social stability toward recognizing the spreading disorganization. It is idle to pretend that these labor troubles are the mere give and take of economic adjustment."

Mr. Wells goes on to argue that the attitude of the government and politicians generally toward labor is calculated to increase labor distrust. The government, he says, is in the hands of lawyers.

"The decline of the house of lords," he goes on, "has been the last triumph of the house of lawyers, and we are governed now to a large extent, not so much by the people and for the people as by barristers for barristers.

"Lawyers made the first French revolution. They have yet to bring about an English one."

PENSION FUND FOR PRESBYTERIANS

General Assembly Wants Fund of $10,000,000

Louisville, May 17.—The establishment of a $10,000,000 fund for the pensioning of retired ministers, and the selection of a new moderator, are two of the most important matters that will receive early attention of the 124th annual conference of the general assembly of the Presbyterian church.

Unusual interest attaches to this conference for the reason that never before has the general assembly been held south of the Ohio river. A movement to merge the United Presbyterian church with the general assembly Presbyterian church is looked for by many, who see in the selection of Louisville a relenting on the part of its opponents in the assembly.

The moderatorship, the highest honor in the gift of the church, went to Rev. Dr. Mark A. Matthews, pastor of the First Presbyterian church of Seattle, Wash.

An attempt will be made to re-establish relations between the the assembly and Union seminary of New York, which were severed after Dr. Charles Briggs was expelled on a charge of heresy.

UNIVERSITY CITY BEAT GRANITE

In a game which proved to be the best and most exciting played on the Ward Four playgrounds this season, the Cambridge Athletics triumphed over the Station Outing Club, Saturday afternoon, by a score of 7 to 6. The home team tied the score in the seventh, only to see the visitors take the lead in the following inning.

Wright, who twirled for the Cambridge team, was very effective, allowing his opposing batsmen three hits and fanning seventeen men. The losers played a better fielding game than the visitors but their inability to hit at opportune moments, caused them to suffer defeat.

Ferin, of the winning team played a star game, getting four hits out of five times at bat. Gauthier and Cooney also played well for the winners, while Gorman, Anderson and Sullivan excelled for the local team.

TODAY'S COURT.

The following cases were disposed of before Judge Avery in the district court this morning.

Joseph Gallardt and Morgan Sweeney of Weymouth were fined $10 each for drunkenness.

Richard Feeney was fined $3 and John Conway $10 for drunkenness at Quincy and Thomas N. Connelly $10 for drunkenness at Milton.

—The situation in the south is of the worst. With hundreds dead and others endangered, and property loss terrific, the flooded and ruined region presents a sad and tragic appearance. The affair hasn't the dramatic features of the Titanic loss, but it affects as many people, if not more.

Vol. 27 No. 120 QUINCY, MASS., TUESDAY EVENING, MAY 21, 1912 PRICE TWO CENTS

BILLS FAVORED FOR DREDGING TOWN RIVER AS DESIRED

Deepening Channels in Front of Yacht Club Houses Also Approved

Former Proposition Contingent Upon City Building a Dock

(Special to the Ledger)

State House, May 20, 1912. After hearing the arguments of Mayor Eugene R. Stone, representatives Piper and Leslie, City Solicitor McAnarney, ex-Mayor Hall, Commissioner of Navigation Frank Crane ex-Representative Louis F. R. Langelier and others at the State House yesterday, the committee on Ways and Means held an executive session at which it was voted to recommend the two bills affecting the water-front of Quincy which have been pending nearly all the term of this year's legislature. One of the bills provides for an appropriation of $25,000 to be spent with the approval of the Port of Boston directors in widening, deepening and straightening Town river from the head of Navigation to the Baker Yacht basin. It was pointed out that this work would give the city of Quincy a navigable stream right into the heart of the city, providing a means of shipping by water for the industries in the city which would prove of inestimable value in the commercial development of Quincy. The other bill provides an appropriation of $6000, to be used in dredging the channel which leads from deep water to the Wollaston and Squantum yacht clubs and is backed by the strength of the memberships of both these clubs, who contend that the state being responsible for the present shallow water in the channel should provide a way to make the channel of some use to the yacht clubs at mean low water, a condition that does not now exist.

The Town river proposition was taken up first and Representative Leslie opened the hearing by saying that he, as a member of the committee on Harbors and Public Lands, had been given charge of the bill that committee had voted unanimously in favor of the bill's passage. Mr. Leslie said, and did so after thoroughly investigating the project and hearing all arguments for and against it. He urged the Ways and Means committee to hear all the speakers for the bill, who could state the proposition much better than he could. He introduced City Solicitor McAnarney, who briefly explained the object of the bill and the immense value it would be to the business interests of Quincy. He told the committee that there are now eight different commercial plants located along the banks of Town River, only one of which, was able to make any practical use of the water front owing to the shallowness of the water and the crookedness of the course of the stream. Then Mr. McAnarney pointed out the benefits which the granite industry would derive from having a convenient point where water shipment could be made. He said that the Directors of the Port of Boston and the Harbor and Public Lands commission had been appealed to for aid in carrying out this project and each of those bodies had said that special legislation would be required.

HALE AND HEARTY AT EIGHTY YEARS

Mrs. Napoleon B. Furnald Greeted by Friends on Birthday

Mrs. Napoleon B. Furnald, of 90 Washington street, was kept busy all day Monday receiving the many congratulations that were showered upon her for her eightieth birthday. She received many floral pieces and fancy articles.

Mrs. Furnald, despite her advanced age, enjoys good health and still possesses a smooth and blooming countenance. She is the wife of Napoleon B. Furnald, whose record as a constable dates back many years. Both Mr. and Mrs. Furnald give promise of rounding out a number of years and on June 9, will observe their 62d wedding anniversary.

BRAIN FOOD AT WOMAN'S CLUB

On Wednesday the Quincy Women's Riverside Club, will serve a first class Clam Chowder, at the Club House of the Town River Yacht Club, to all members of the Club and their friends. The Chowder will be served promptly at one o'clock. After partaking of the chowder there will be a talk given by Frank Fessenden Crane, his subject being "Inland Water Ways."

Mr. Crane has this subject down fine, and as many of the ladies are interested in this subject as well as the gentlemen, and Commodore Crane is an authority on the subject.

The committee has also secured the services of ladies' trio. Miss Madie Millette, soprano, Miss Cyril Sherman, contralto and Miss Annie McDowell, alto. Miss Mary Flint will accompany the singers and also render piano solos as will Mrs. Charles Hodgkins. Through the courtesy of Mrs. R. M. Harmon and Mrs. Graff, two members of the club, an opportunity will be given all who desire to take a sail down the river in the fine power boats Gay Lad and Bunnie.

$12,000 APPROPRIATED BY CITY COUNCIL FOR PERMANENT SIDEWALKS

Fire, Street, School and Park Departments Receive Generous Apportionments for Improvements

Highway Chairman Sandberg is Granted Leave of Absence. Joshed by Colleagues

Although Monday night's meeting of the City Council was a short one, when compared with some of the meetings this year, a large amount of business was transacted and several orders involving large sums were passed. Among the most important orders that were passed and sent to the Mayor was $6,000 for an auto chemical to be located at Atlantic, $7,000 for finishing the hall in the Quincy school building, $6,000 for grading the Wollaston school lot, $1,500 for an athletic field at Merrymount park, and orders for lesser sums for deficit bills of the Board of Health, and for an automatic whistle attachment at South Quincy and fire alarm boxes.

In addition to these orders several new important orders were introduced. These included $4,400 for a playground at the Massachusetts Field school, $5,400 for surface drainage, $4,000 for completing the building of Squantum street, $1,675 for crosswalks, $12,800 for permanent sidewalks and an order to take the necessary steps to petition the Supreme Judicial court to amend the deed of trust of the Adams Temple and School Fund so as to make it possible to use the Adams Academy building as a memorial hall, or for higher branches of the High school.

In addition to the serious business there was a little fun session when Councilman Boyd offered a preamble and a resolve relative to granting a Councilman at Large a leave of absence of three months to visit Sweden.

Councilman Forde was the anly absent member.

MAYOR'S APPOINTMENTS

Communications were received from the Mayor appointing Frank E. Burrell as dog officer; Charles E. Watts a constable and G. S. McKenzie, Richard E. Barry, Louis B. Smith and Joseph L. Lord as special constables. Confirmed.

The Mayor appointed Rev. Charles P. Marshall and Morton Smith as trustees of the Thomas Crane Library to fill vacancies. Placed on file.

WAR ON MOSQUITOES.

Two communications from the Board of Health, one asking for $500 to be used in eliminating the mosquito pest by using petroleum on ponds and brooks and the second asked $500 for the erection of a garbage house at the Almshouse, were laid on the table until later when Councilman Craig offered two orders for the purposes mentioned above which were referred to the Committee on Health.

TO INCORPORATE.

The application of the Ward Six Patriotic association which seeks to be incorporated was referred to License committee.

STATE HIGHWAY.

A communication was received from the Mayor relative to petitioning the Highway commissioners to accept and build as a state highway on that part of Willard street from the Milton to the Braintree line. Laid on the table until later when Councilman Boyd offered an order for the Mayor and City Council to petition the Highway Commission to accept and build the street as mentioned in the Mayor's communication. Adopted.

A large number of applications for minor licenses were received and referred to the License Committee.

PETITIONS.

Petitions were received from the Electric Light Co., for permission to erect poles on a number of streets, referred to Street Committee.

A petition to accept Roseline avenue and a new street from Park lane to Merrymount road were referred to the Committee on streets.

A petition for a sewer on Hancock street from Walnut street to the Neponset bridge was referred to the Committee on Sewers.

A petition from the street railway for permission to make attachments on Hancock street was granted.

The Committee on Licenses reported orders granting a number of licenses as common victuallers, and other minor licenses which were granted.

The Committee on State Aid reported an order granting Soldiers' Relief which was granted.

The Committee on Licenses reported leave to withdraw on petitions of Sam Silverman, Louis Cutler, Echiel

MAYOR STONE ACCUSES CRITICS OF SEEKING HIS JOB AT CITY HALL

Cunningham Did Not Deny Seeking Honor; Hobbs Wants to Retire from Public Life

Things Thrown on the Curtain at Funded Debt Hearing Petition

(Special to the Ledger.)

State House, May 20, 1912. After delaying the hearing on the petition of Mayor Stone in which he asks for permission to fund a portion of the temporary loan debt, the committee on cities finally got together at three o'clock Monday afternoon and heard parties interested. During the course of proceedings Mayor Stone made the declaration that some opposition to the petition was evident in the committee-room coming from two of the present city council. He said that opposition came from men who had opposed him politically and charged that they were seeking his job. He said that he hoped they would get the job sometime and find themselves in the predicament that he now finds himself in, and he would be interested to see what course they would pursue in putting the city on a sound financial basis. The Mayor said he strongly favored the payment of part of the refund on the loan by borrowing money from time to time in anticipation of taxes as provided in the petition. He said if the legislature does not help in the matter by allowing the permission asked for, that he will try to take care of the deficit somehow, but he thought the matter could best be attended to by the method contained in the petition. Mr. Stone said that the tax rate for the coming year will be between $22 and $23, owing to the maturing of several short time notes.

Councilman George W. Abele said that he was chairman of a special committee on financial investigation, and that the petition was based on the findings of that committee, which had unanimously been accepted by the City Council. Mr. Abele said that there is no question but what some former assessors and former tax collectors had been negligent in their duties. He cited one instance where a discrepancy of $16,000 due probably to carelessness had been found. He also said that the investigating committee had found that the method of computing sewer assessments was old and entirely inadequate to present needs. Mr. Abele said that new methods both of computation of assessments and of accounting in the city offices would be installed very soon, and that these would in a large measure prevent a recurrence of the prevailing conditions.

He submitted to the committee a statement, based on the figures in the auditors books, and summarized by the Bureau of Statistics. The table is as follows:

Amount of temporary loans outstanding, (Dec. 31, 1911) $400,000.

Total uncollected taxes, (all years $361,761.

Excess of temporary loans over all assets about $40,000.

Uncollected taxes assessed for 1911, $255,145.

Substracting the 1911 uncollected taxes from the uncollected taxes of all years leaves $106,621. To this is added the excess of assets amounting to $40,000, and it will be seen that the total deficiency is $146,621. This is the amount that it is hoped can be "wiped out" by money borrowed outside the debt limit for which the petition asks permission. Mr. Abele said that an economc administration for some years to come, coupled with the "Simplicity and Publicity" method of municipal accounting would, in his opinion, bring about the restoration of a sound business foundation fort he city's finances.

Agent Wardwell, of the bureau of Statistics, explained the state's method of computing the municipal statistics, and said that the plight in which Quincy is placed is not a novel one Other cities in the Commonwealth had been placed exactly in the same situation. He thought the provisions of the bill, if conscientiously carried out would be the best way out of the deplorable condition.

POLISHING MILLS APPEAR OBJECTIVE POINT OF RUFFIANLY INCENDIARIES

Suspicious Circumstances at Milne & Chalmers Fire to be Thoroughly Investigated

General Alarm Sounded, Crane Stable and Elevator Saved

The alarm from Box 39 at 9.49 Monday night followed five minutes later by a general alarm from the same box served to send the entire department of the city, with the exception of the Combination at Houghs Neck to a disastrous fire in the granite plant of Milne & Chalmers in Liberty Square South Quincy.

The fire started from some unknown cause in the engine room of the polishing mill. People passing the property a minute before the fire broke out saw nothing of it nor did they detect any odor of smoke. Frank Tinney, Randolph Jacobson and Patrick Fay coming dawn Liberty street saw the blaze and rushed to the box, which is located within a few steps of the fire. Tinney smashed the glass over the key with his fist, cutting it quite severely and gave the alarm.

Hardly had the alarm commenced to sound than a clear sheet of flame shot up into the air making a bright illumination that could be seen for miles. As soon as Chief Litchfield arrived, he realized that he had a bad fire owing to the close proximity of the Crane Elevator buildings, and other granite yards, and immediately ordered a general alarm sounded. This brought the apparatus from Wollaston and Atlantic, the latter company covering the four mile run in eighteen minutes. This gave the chief a large fighting force with which he was able to subdue the flames and confine the fire to the building where it started although part of the cutting sheds and polishing mill were damaged.

Two lines of hose were laid from the hydrant on Penn street, two lines from two lines from the hydrant on front of the office of John L. Miller on Liberty street. The steamer was located at the hydrant on Water street from which one line was laid. With these seven streams the fire was surrounded and tons of water was poured into the burning structures.

The yard of Milne & Chalmers is filled with large blocks of granite some in their rough state and others, the finished product, making it hard for the firemen to get about but several lines of hose was carried through the yard.

Adjoining the burning building and hardly ten feet away was the brick stable of F. H. Crane & Sons and adjoining that was their large grain elevator. The fact that the building was of brick saved it from taking fire. The horses were taken from the stable to a place of safety.

BRIDGE BILL HIT BY BOSTON MEN

Finance Commission Maintains Roll of Obstructionists

OPPOSE NEPONSET BRIDGE

The finance committee of Boston with its customary obstructionist methods oppose the construction of the new bridge over the Neponset River. Possibly the commission may have thought Mayor Fitzgerald of Boston favored the project and so objected to it on general principles. If so they must have been fearfully disappointed to know that for once the former mayor agrees with them.

The commission says the price $200,000 is too much. The bill calls only for $100,000 and as Boston has to pay only 50 per cent it is difficult to determine where the commission can squeeze $87,000 as Boston's share of the expense. The apportionment is as follows: Boston 50 per cent, Quincy 22 per cent, Street railway company 15 per cent, Norfolk county 10 per cent and Plymouth county 3 per cent.

FELL FROM CAR AND SHAKEN UP

While alighting from a car shortly after six o'clock Monday evening, at the corner of Manet avenue and Sea street, Houghs Neck, Mrs. H. Pennington, of Rock Island, fell and was injured so badly that she had to be removed to her home. She was accompanied by her husband at the time and was taken to her home in the automobile owned and driven by Wilton A. Dunham, a real estate dealer.

She was attended by Dr. William H. Ferris. It was stated this morning that Mrs. Pennington was considerably shaken up. Two doctors and a nurse are now attending her.

HONESTY IN EVERYTHING

EDITORIAL COMMENT.

Today is the day and Ohio the place.

An Indiana judge decides in vagrant cases by examining the hands of offenders. The soft handed one goes to jail. That would apply to many not in the vagrant class.

By the time the legislature and railroad officials get through the merger proposition the public will want to know where it is at.

Now that the Trilley tradition has actually been accomplished what a glorious thing it would be if some alleged singers were hypnotized to silence before they opened their mouths.

Many people will now rest in peace that Richeson has been sent to his reward.

Lord Cosmos Duff-Gordon may enter into a lot of denial but the fact remains the same that he was in a life boat while many heroes went to their doom.

It looks as though Turkey had been unable to maintain that fine balance of European power as formerly judging from the Italian hammering without outside interference.

It is all right to swat and destroy the fly, but if it should happen to be a matter of choice, we say "down with the mosquito."

A New York ferry boat was stopped and the passengers thrown into a panic when a passenger jumped from the rail for a moving picture film. He may disturb the wrong crowd some day then look out for squalls.

If Maxim is successful in his tests, icebergs and other objects can be detected 10 miles away. Everyone is wishing him success.

The Detroit base ball management is up against it in the Ty Cobb matter. A New York report says the player assaulted a one armed inoffensive spectator. If that is the case Mr. Johnson should not only be locked up, but the offender put out of the game altogether. However it would be much better for all concerned to waive decision until the whole matter is sifted.

By a new method New York does not have to borrow for current expenses and Hetty Green is deprived of good interest on short term loans.

UNCHRISTIAN MOVEMENT.

A movement is on foot in certain quarters to curtail the regular prayers for the dead in cases where the service is held over the body of a victim of capital punishment, or any criminal who may have died from natural causes.

It is rather small on the face of it. Such an idea could not be the product of a broad liberal minded personage.

The prayers for the dead is the last earthly service which the living can pay to the casket of clay which is confided to Mother earth, in its narrow house of wood or metal. What relief it would be to any one here to know that the prayers for the dead had been appreciated because of the misdeeds of that shrunken form and shrivelled mind during its earthly career. Can any one conceive of such a peculiar way of showing disapproval.

The few prayers that can and may be said for the unfortunate, probably may neither help or harm him or her, whichever the case may be. By that time the offender is beyond earthly consideration. Would any one deprive his sorrowing relatives of any consolation which they might receive from those prayers? Hard indeed would be the person who would demand such a retribution.

Some clergymen favor the movement. Others oppose it. It is to be hoped that the former are in the minority and hopelessly so at that, because it is hard to reconcile with such ideas, men who are the representatives of Him who died on the cross, and with his last breath begged the forgiveness of the Father for the unfortunate culprit who expiating his crimes on a nearby cross, had scoffed at Him.

TIPPING WAITERS.

The threatened strike of the hotel waiters in New York and other cities brings more forcibly than ever to the fore the tipping nuisance which has gained such great strides in the past few years. The practice has grown to such proportions that it is really beyond figuring at the present time. The person who leaves a modest ten cent tip in the plate of a waiter in some of the modern robbers' caves called hotels, is made to feel that he has insulted the waiter, and expects to witness an invitation melo-drama, with a husky voice exclaiming, "take back your gold."

The average tip in some of those plunder shops is from twenty-five to fifty cents. The worst feature of it is that a great many of the tipsters can ill afford it. They can hardly afford to meet the manner in which they are robbed by the prices on the bill of fare let alone tipping a waiter, who may be making just twice as much money as he is, to a quarter or a half dollar.

There is only one organization in the country that has solved this tipping business for good and all and live up to it and that is a press club.

The waiters in hotels claim their pay is small. It is understood that they are employed under this condition and expected to make up the balance from tips. The tip which some waiters receive are something enormous. One man, who had served twenty years, with an apron in front of him and a towel over his arm, drove his span of fast horses on his days off duty, and when he retired had accumulated a fortune of $200,000.

It is claimed that the heaviest tippers are really not the people of great wealth. The more prodigal in this respect are young men of moderate means and perhaps a few older ones in the same class, who when they start out like to give out the impression that they are rolling in money, forgetting that the waiters have him stamped and labelled the minute he passes the threshhold of the diningroom.

You cannot fool these boys and make them believe you are a malefactor of great wealth.

Then there are a few sons of wealthy men who splash around intermittently.

One day a wealthy Boston man while in a suburban city, hired a carriage to take him to the depot. He passed the cab driver the regular fare fifty cents and the driver looked at it rather ruefully.

"What's the matter my man?" asked the passenger, "isn't that half dollar good?"

"Ye-e-s" replied the driver, "but your son always gives me a dollar."

"That may be," answered the capitalist, "but you must remember my son has a rich father."

If the American people put their foot down, the tipping nuisance could be abolished, and then perhaps the waiters would get adequate compensation, which is justified by the price the patron pays for what he eats.

GROWN-UPS HEAR PRETTY OPERETTA

A large number of adults witnessed the produstion of "Red Riding Hood," by the pupils of St. John's Parochial school, in the school hall, Monday evening, in the same appreciative maner as did the young folks who attended Saturday afternoon.

The hall was comfortably taxed and every detail was carried out to complete satisfaction. A large sum of money was realized from both productions and the Sisters of St. Joseph, under whose direction the operetta was given, feel highly gratified with the results.

CHARLES HUSKINS BURIED.

Funeral services of a simple character for Charles Huskins of Cherry street, who died of heart failure early Saturday morning, while working on the Battleship Rivadavia, at the Fore River shipyards, were conducted at his late home, Monday afternoon at 5, by Rev. Charles P. Marshall, pastor of the Washington street Congregational church. The prayer service was conducted at that hour to allow the fellow workmen of the deceased to be present.

The body was taken to Lisbon Falls, Maine, this morning for burial.

Mr. Huskins was employed at the Fore River yard for the past six years and during that time has made the acquaintance of many friends. He is survived by a wife and two children.

TAME SESSION OF SOCIALISTS

Fire Alarm Rather Broke Back Bone of Meeting

RESOLUTIONS ADOPTED

Although Chief of Police Burrell and a large squad of officers were present Sunday afternoon at the open air meeting of the I. W. W. on Liberty street, to protest against the jailing of Joseph Ettor and Arturo Giovinnitti the Lawrence strike leaders, there was no disturbance and their services were not required. Several of the officers were in citizen's dress and circulated among the crowd which numbered in the vicinity of 1,000 men, women and children.

Caleb F. Howard, secretary of Branch 2 of the socialist party presided and spoke from a wagon, that had been wheeled into the field as a speakers' platform.

The first speaker was Morrison I. Swift, who said that the only murder committed in Lawrence was by a police officer, who bayoneted a Syrian boy. He claimed the arrest and holding of Ettor and Giovinnitti was unconstitutional and added that if not liberated a general strike in all industries would be declared He also urged all young men not to join the militia.

William E. Trutmann the National organizer of the I. W. W. advocated the dropping of all nationalities and race prejudices and a common union of all the workmen under the banners of the United brotherhood.

Other speakers were; Kalle Weherti, Guido Mazzarelli, and Abe Weinhouse.

While the meeting was in progress the alarm from Box 35 sounded and many of the audience left the field.

The only definite action taken was the passing of the following resolution which was proposed by the presiding officer, Caleb F. Howard.

Resolved: That we, the citizens, in mass meeting assembled, do hereby most emphatically protest against the unjust and unlawful imprisonment of Joseph Ettor and Arturo Giovinnitti, falsely accused of murder, and against the arrest of William D. Haywood, James Thompson, William E. Trautmann and others prominent in the Lawrence strike who are under indictment for conspiracy to intimidate.

Resolved:—That we pledge our moral and financial support to assist the indicted men in their noble struggle for freedom. Be it also resolved that a copy of these resolutions be sent to Governor Foss and District Attorney Atwill of Lynn, Mass.

RICHESON FACES SUPREME JUDGE

Slayer of Avis Linnell Passes Beyond Power of Appeal

HIDEOUS CRIME IS AVENGED

The Linnell Tragedy Ended at 12:17 a. m.—Richeson Spent a Peaceful Day—Walked Firmly Between the Two Ministers to the Chair—Evidently a Painless Death—A Chronology of Richeson's Life

Boston, May 21.—Clarence V. T. Richeson has ceased to live, life having become extinct at 12:17 this morning, in the execution chamber of the state prison at Charlestown.

The slight pressure of a finger by an unknown and unseen hand, sent leaping through the body of the condemned man, the silent, swift and merciful method of modern execution, the electric bolt, and with an unfelt, but visible quiver of the muscles, ended the fitful life of the former minister.

Society has exacted and Richeson has paid the penalty for one of the most atrocious and revolting and premediated crimes ever known in the history of our commonwealth. The murderer of Avis Linnell, the charming little choir singer of Hyannis, Mass., was but the capsheaf of a life of hypocritical deceit, double living and immorality, from the days of his youth, cloaked by a pleasing exterior, marked ability and the official position and cloth of a christian denomination.

No criminal case, springing from common sources and everyday surroundings, has ever held greater or more widespread attention than has this case, and regularly, but unwillingly, through a peculiar fascination, the great majority of people have followed every development of the case from the first faint whisper of suspicion, until their eyes have fallen upon these death announcing lines. And a great sigh of relief goes up, that the suspension is ended—that forever the case of Clarence Richeson now rests with the God whom he solemnly promised on the sacred altar of his faith to serve earnestly and conscientiously.

With Chaplain Stebbins on one side and Dr. Johnson on the other, Richeson walked into the death chamber with bowed head. He leaned but slightly upon his companions and walked with a firm trea..

As he took his seat his eyes were closed and he either miscalculated the distance or suddenly weakened, for he sank down suddenly with considerable force. He showed no other sign of weakening to the end.

The current was turned on at 12:10:02, and the prisoner was announced legally dead at 12:17.

It would not be true to write that Richeson met his fate without fear. He shuddered at the chair, his voice trembled as he invoked the aid of Rev. Mr. Johnson in prayer, and again a shudder passed over him as the guards placed him in the chair and began the strapping of his legs, arms, body and head.

Just before the signal was given that was to send the young man into the kingdom of the unknown, his lips moved, but what was said could not be heard. Then came the signal, the death shock; the close of the Linnell tragedy.

For an instant only were there any indications of life in the body of the occupant of the avenging chair. So far as indications might be accepted, Richeson's death was so instantaneous that it must have been absolutely devoid of suffering or agony.

It was 12:10 when the first voltage was sent through the body. It was followed by a second and then after a wait of five minutes life was pronounced extinct.

Resigned to his fate Clarence Virgil Thompson Richeson awaited in calmness in his cell at the death house yesterday the supreme ordeal—his call to the electric chair.

In prayerful quietness, broken intermittently by the singing of hymns, he waited, with the little coterie of his death watch, for the final word last evening.

The body is to be shipped to the birthplace of Richeson at Amherst, Va., where it will be buried in the family lot, to comply with the request of Richeson.

RICHESON'S CELLMATE

Butts the Negro Murderer, Will Have Sentence Passed on Him

Boston, May 21.—Harry H. Butts, for months the cellmate of Clarence V. T. Richeson, will be sentenced tomorrow in the Suffolk superior court for the killing of Robert Williamson on June 21, 1911.

He pleaded guilty to murder in the second degree, and was to have been sentenced last fall. Richeson pleaded to have him left and the man was allowed to stay. He has saved the state considerable money in his care of Richeson, and it is said that this may be taken into consideration in passing sentence.

MAYOR AND WIFE ENTERTAIN CLUB

Leap Year Privilege to Favor the Men Whist Players

PLAYING WAS PRETTY KEEN

Mayor and Mrs. Eugene R. Stone were the hosts Saturday evening at the annual gentlemen's night given by the ladies' whist club of which Mrs. Stone is a member. Whist was of course the main diversion of the evening and the play was keen. That none of the gentlemen should take their departure without a prize, or rather a souvenir of the evening, it was arranged that each of the twelve gentlemen should receive a gift. The gentlemen having the highest score, being given the first choice of the souvenirs, and so on until all had been remembered.

During the evening a dainty lunch was served by the host and hostess. The decorations were violets and the dining table presented an unusually pretty sight.

Those present besides His Honor and Mrs. Stone, were Mr. and Mrs. Albert Hall, Mr. and Mrs. George Spooner, Mr. and Mrs. Wilkins and Mr. and Mrs. Chandler of Braintree, Mr. and Mrs. George Sprague, Mr. and Mrs. E. Hayden, Mr. and Mrs. W. Drake, Mr. and Mrs. T. G. Smith, Mr. and Mrs. J. R. Thomas and Mr. and Mrs. W. White.

POLISHING MILLS

The fire was under control shortly after 10 o'clock although it was nearly 11 before the recall sounded.

Officer Dinneen who was on duty in this section during the fire said that as he went down Liberty street he saw a light through the yard but thought it was from the locomotive that was doing some shifting. It was but a few minutes later that the Tinney boy rang in the alarm.

The Tinney boy in talking of the fire to Officer Dinneen said that as he was pulling the alarm an automobile came out of the driveway to the south of the yard leading to the railroad derrick in which was a woman and three men. As they came by the front of the plant a man came running from the sheds and jumped into the automobile which then hastened away. Almost at the same moment flames burst from the building.

This would lead to the impression that the fire was of an incendiary origin. An investigation was at once started by the police and today the inspectors from the Fire Marshal's office will be called in. This is the second large fire in a polishing mill wthin a few days, he first being the mill of Mrs. Thomas Mitchell which was destroyed ten days ago. A short time ago the plant of Reed & Vendret was also burned and it looks as though polishing mills were a mark for fires. In the other two cases the cause was given as having started in the engine houses.

Chief Litchfield said this morning, after a visit to the ruins of Monday night's fire that he believed the fire to have been caused by an incendiary That it had evidently started from the outside of the building and not near the boiler as was supposed. The Chief also said that the engineer at the plant reported that he had found two empty beer bottles in the engine room this morning which were not there when he shut down Monday night.

This morning Patrick Fay of Penn street corroborated the story of the Tinney boy about the men in the automobile. He says that he also saw the men at the time that he smelled smoke and that he asked one of them where the fire was. Instead of getting a reply a man ran from the sheds and jumped into the automobile which drove off.

All of the fires seemed to work upward and for that reason many of the blocks of granite in the polishing mill are but little damaged. In the yard was upwards of $10,000 worth of rough and finished granite on which an insurance of $10,000 had been placed a few days ago but these blocks were not damaged. Neither was the shed on the south side of the plant on which there was an insurance of $3,000.

The chief loss therefore was in the polishing mill and engine house to the buildings and machinery. The loss here was estimated by the chief this morning as being upwards of $10,000 although the exact loss cannot be ascertained until later. The buildings destroyed are also covered by insurance.

BILLS FAVORED

Therefore the city had come to the legislature with this bill, which was backed up by the city government, the board of trade and the solid business interests of the city.

A stenographic report of all evidence taken at former hearings on this matter was submitted by Mr. McAnarney to the committee, in order to save repetition of argument.

Representative Walter E. Piper, said he was heartily in favor of the bill. He said he was conversant with the existing conditions and he knew that the things asked for in the bill were of a practical business nature and were desired by everybody in Quincy.

City Engineer Sargent showed the committee two large maps which depicted the situation of the river, and pointed out the place of the proposed improvements. He also showed that the state has taken a large part of Quincy's shore front for boulevards and that Town river is the one available peice of water frontage for development along commercial lines.

Mayor Stone appeared in favor and stated that a few years ago 200 vessels a year came up Town river whereas now only about thirty vessels come there, because the shallowness of the water prevents any vessel which draws more than 3 feet of water coming there. He wanted the conditions improved so that the former activity could be resumed. Mr. Stone dwelt at length on the city's proposal to build a public dock on Town river just as soon as it became certain that navigation by large vessels could be safely carried on there. He told the committee of the city's permission to borrow $100,000 for dock purposes and that the city was sincere in its intention to build. This was corroborated by Frank F. Crane, Commissioner of Water Front, Water Ways and Navigation, who said that plans for the public dock were already nearly completed and ventured the opinion that should this bill pass, that the city would have the dock underway as soon as the first dredge appeared in the river.

Mr. Crane said that Quincy was a very old city and had asked very little in the way of appropriations from the State. He said that Quincy ships $3,000,000 worth of granite yearly and that the shippers want to use the water routes for shipping and will do so as soon as there is available dock facilities. He called the attention of the committee to the fact that Quincy cannot spend a dollar of the money appropriated without the consent and approval of the directors of the Port of Boston.

Ex-Mayor Hall, Frank S. Patch and Peter T. Fallon all spoke in favor. In closing, Representative Leslie said that he hoped the committee would act on this proposition as soon as possible.

YACHT CLUB BILL.

For the bill which gives the yacht clubs their widened channel Representative Leslie gave it as his opinion that it is distinctly "up to" the state to restore to the Wollaston and Squantum yachtsment what it took away from them. He charged that in building the boulevard, the big scoops of the contractors caused the filling in of the channel by stirring up the sand and mud close to the channel. The material thus scooped was used on the boulevard. Mr. Leslie brought out the fact that the yacht clubs are tenants of the State and as such should be treated justly. All the speakers including Commodore E. F. Drew, Commodore E. A. Bean, Mayor Stone, Frank Fessenden Crane, Louis F. R. Langelier and Louis Tobin spoke not only of the rights and wishes of the yachtsmen, but of the business establishments which needed the deepened channel. It was shown that it would be a matter of economy for the State to grant the requests of the bill, since they would have to be granted sometime and the longer the delay the more it would cost to do the work.

In the executive session, the committee attached a restriction on the Town River bill, to the effect that the work should be done contingent on the city of Quincy carrying out the proposed building of the public dock. In doing so, the committee takes the ground that the appropriation asked for will be used to assist the city of Quincy in its plans, and not for the exploitation of private business concerns. Further it is stipulated that the funds for both bills shall come out of the so-called Commonwealth Flats fund, which is at the disposal of the Directors of the Port of Boston.

RESOLUTION.

Councilman Boyd offered a preamble and resolution relative to granting Councilman at Large Sandberg a leave of absence for three months to visit Sweden, which was adopted. The preamble was in a humorous vein and its reading caused many a smile. In conclusion it granted him a leave of absence on condition that he should wear a small silk flag at the Olympic races and cheer for the American participants. It also wished him a safe voyage and return to Quincy.

The council then started in to have a little fun with the councilman. Councilman Richards spoke about the temptations that were apt to beset the councilman and thought before the permission was granted it should have a little investigation.

Councilman Bailey thought it unwise to leave 85 miles of streets without a chairman of the Street Committee. This was a no light matter and should be seriously considered.

Councilman Boyd said that the reason he offered the resolve was to get the councilman out of Ward Four, as that banner Democratic ward was getting to lean toward the Republican side.

Councilman C. A. Ross hoped the order would go to the Finance committee and Councilman Murray thought it should go to the License committee.

The question was then put up to the City Solicitor who said that undoubtedly the permission of the council should be obtained but that he would give his official opinion after the councilman had sailed.

Councilman Beeman thought that if the Chairman of the Street committee was in perfect health it might make a difference.

CULVERT WANTED.

Councilman Thompson offered an order for a culvert on Canal street. To Committee on Sewers.

TAX ORDINANCE.

Councilman Cunningham offered an amendment to the Tax collector's ordinance so that it should read that all taxes shall be paid the first day of October instead of November first. Also to further amend so as to provide that summons shall be issued to delinquents on the first day of December instead of the first day of January. To Committee on Ordinances.

SUMMER HOUSE.

Councilman Cunningham offered an order for $100 to rebuild the summer house at Merrymount park. Adopted.

TO PIPE STREETS.

Councilman Richards offered a resolve that the Commissioner of Public Works should cause all streets about to be paved, to be piped for gas, water and sewer before the paving is laid. Adopted.

MORE SIDEWALKS.

Councilman Boyd offered an order for a tar sidewalk on Miller street. To Street Committee.

ADAMS ACADEMY.

Councilman Studley offered the following order which passed a second reading:—

"That authority be and hereby is given to the Mayor and the Supervisors of the Adams Temple and School Fund to petition the Supreme Judicial Court in the name of the city or otherwise, as may be deemed advisable, for instructions as to the administration of the Adams Temple and School Fund and property in the hands of said supervisors and in the name of the city, and for such modifications of the terms of the several gifts creating said fund and donating said property to the city as will make practicable the execution of the charity. The Mayor and supervisors may incur such expense in connection with said proceedings as they may deem expedient and said expense together with all other expenses of said proceedings shall be paid from said fund."

Councilman J. R. S. Ross offered an order granting Albert G. Olney an auctioneer's license. Adopted.

JUNK ORDINANCES.

Councilman J. R. S. Ross offered an order instructing the Committee on Ordinances to codify the ordinances relative to the collection of junk. To Ordinance Committee.

Councilman Gauthier offered an order for a light on Penn street and moved reference to the Executive. Motion lost and order referred to Finance Committee.

Councilman Devaney offered an order for a crosswalk on Elm and Washington street. Referred to Executive.

Councilman Studley offered an order for $250 for flag poles on Merrymount park and on the Ward Two playground. To Committee on Public Buildings.

Councilman Devaney offered an order to resurface a part of Main street. To Street Committee.

CALENDAR.

The following orders in the calendar took their second reading and were passed under suspension of the rules.

Granting the Quincy Electric Light & Power Company a location for poles.

Appropriating $607.42 to meet deficit bills of the Board of Health.

Appropriating $760 for automatic fire alarms whistle and fire alarm boxes.

Appropriating $666.02 to meet deficit bills on the Wollaston schools.

CHILDREN MADE HAPPY BY MAY PARTY ON GREEN

A large number of Children were treated to a happy May party, in a vacant lot on Cranch street, Saturday afternoon, given under the personal direction of Mrs. Jennie Welch. The little ones, were satisfied to their hearts' content and spared no words in telling of the time they enjoyed. The exercises consisted of a May Queen parade, a May pole dance, games and singing.

The May Queen for the occasion was Miss Helen Riley. The matron was Mrs. Arthur Swanson. The following took part in the May pole dance: Mary Riley, Margaret Riley, Ethel Riley, Mora Welch, Judith Swanson and Florence Briggs. Refreshements brought a most appreciative affair to a close shortly after four o'clock.

PAIRED BY APRONS AND NECKTIES

A necktie and apron party which was largely attended, was held Saturday evening in Electa Hall, under the auspices of Quincy Lodge, No. 933, Daughters of Viking. Each gentleman was given a necktie as soon as he made his advent in the hall, while each woman was presented with an apron. Neckties and aprons were of varied colors and when they were matched, the dancing sarted to the strains of music by the Colonial orchestra, each gentleman waltzing with a woman whose apron matched his necktie.

A short intermission was in order at ten o'clock, during which time refreshments were served. Dancing was enjoyed till midnight. The affair was in charge of the following committee: Mrs. Augusta Gullickson, Misses Anna Lund, Olga Lundquist, Gertrude Holmgreh, Linea Holmgren and Hannah Peterson.

FINE WEATHER WILL AID TAFT

President's Strongest Opponents Are Busy in the Fields

OHIO PRIMARIES ON TODAY

Indications Are That Roosevelt Is Strongest—But If Fine "Planting Weather" Continues Farmers Will Not Quit Work—La Follette Minor Factor In the Fight—Harmon Will Have Lead Over Wilson

Columbus, O., May 21.—Governor Harmon will undoubtedly carry Ohio in the presidential preference vote today and will be able under the rule adopted by the state committee to elect the six delegates-at-large to the Baltimore convention. Only Governor Harmon and Governor Wilson have presented their names.

On the Republican side the result is not so easy to predict. A month ago it seemed altogether probable that President Taft would carry the state. Strictly speaking there is no Republican presidential preference to be expressed, as in the case on the Democratic side, but there are Taft and Roosevelt candidates in every congressional district and while they are not so denominated on the ballots they are well known as to their presidential preferences.

There are La Follette candidates in some of the districts, but the La Follette campaign has been allowed to go by default and it will only operate as drawing slightly from the strength of Colonel Roosevelt. In this, the capital district, it is almost certain that Roosevelt will win. He will also win in the two Cleveland districts and the Toledo district, while Taft will probably carry the two Cincinnati districts.

A canvass made of all the districts by The Dispatch (Independent) Saturday, shows that Roosevelt will carry a majority of them. The weather has suddenly turned dry and warm and the farmers who are two weeks behind with their planting will not generally attend the primary elections, if they can work in their fields. This will be in favor of the president, for the reason that the farmers are generaliy opposed to him.

TIGERS DRAW IN THEIR CLAWS

Ty Cobb Had Much to Do With Causing Settlement

Philadelphia, May 21.—The baseball strike is ended and the Detroit Tigers will line up in Washington in the scneduled game against the Senators today.

An agreement satisfactory to President Ban Johnson was reached between President Navin of the Detroit club and his insurgent players last evening.

The case of Ty Cobb, whose suspension caused the strike, will be considered by Johnson today.

The nineteen members of the Detroit club who struck because of the suspension of Ty Cobb were told that they must return in five days or be blacklisted and banned by the American league.

If the men held out it was announced that a strong new Detroit team would be made up from the other clubs in the league.

Cobb strongly urged the members of the team to play today without him, and said that he was satisfied that Johnson would hear his case in Philadelphia. The members of the Detroit team took the matter under consideration and voted to return to work. President Naven of the Detroit club will pay all fines.

Advances Shoe Mach. Hearing

Boston, May 21.—United States Attorney General Wickersham, taking advantage of an act of congress passed twenty-two years ago, has ordered that the suit of the federal government against the United Shoe Machinery company for alleged violation of the Sherman anti-trust law, shall take precedence over all other cases now pending.

Modish Rigs Stylishly Worn—Odd Coatees—Girlish Sashes, Bags and Footwear.

The woman with clothes sense can stretch her allowance to any extent taking advantage of the wide latitude of styles and materials all claiming the seal of modish authority just now Its another story for the woman who does not know what she wants or what she can wear becomingly. The multiplicity of styles in her case is a pitfall and if left to her own devices she is pretty sure to make the wrong choice, of dress, hat or accessories.

The trouble is usually that she sees some one she admires, usually quite her opposite in type—wearing a certain style costume and looking her best in it, and nothing will do but to buy something as near as possible like it, without considering the difference in height, build, complexion, etc., that makes for a totally different effect.

A FEW DRESS RULES.

The woman who wants to look well dressed at the smallest possible expenditure of time and money should adopt a code of "don'ts" and stick to it. Don't choose conspicuous colors or cuts. Nothing is more tiresome than the same note sounded over, and over again. Quiet neutral colors permit one to vary the effect to any extent by changing the accessories. Navy blue is becoming to anyone, at any age, and a well made suit of this color can be worn plain in the morning or for a journey, and be transformed into a pretty dress toilet by wearing a light hat, pretty neck fixings, white gloves etc. Other quiet tones admit of similar harmonies and contrasts. Only a long purse will allow of many colored rigs, each with its matching fixings, and all to be worn only occasionally, and the utmost expenditure does not prevent bad dressing unless taste restrains the selection.

ODD COATEES.

The little contrasting coat of taffeta silk or satin is seen in many guises, and goes with all sorts of dresses, but always with the same color note repeated somewhere to bring the whole dress into harmony. Lingerie dresses have hems of satin, silk or velvet in the color of the coatee, and the wise woman who has her own color scheme and sticks to it can wear the same coatee with several different dresses and be sure of looking well turned out in any. Many of the coatees are sleeveless jumper-shaped affairs with tails, or peplums, many have fichu tops that cross at the waist and end in sashes at the back. All add a little to the warmth or dress, and much to its style and attractiveness.

GIRLS ON FIFTH AVENUE.

The smart girls one meets on the Avenue in the Sunday church parade and at other times, is very much addicted to belted coats and jackets, and varies her effects prettily by having the color of her belt repeated in her hat or its trimmings, in little vest pieces, collar and cuff facings, or perhaps only in her neck bow, fob ribbon and parasol. Her ways or repeating the color note are endless seemingly and each prettier than the last.

SASHES AND GIRDLES.

Sashes and girdles are very important, and one sees considerable use made of flowered ribbons for these accessories. The turn over tie without knot or bow is the favorite fastening, especially with street dresses, and over coat jackets, but the pump bow stiff and square is by no means given up. Taffeta silk in plain and changeable weaves is first in favor for these uses, half the width of piece taffeta hemmed by machine on the cut edge is the usual thing seen on imported as well as home grown clothes. In fact many domestic designs compare rather favorably with French made clothes, especially in street wear.

TWO LAYERS.

Skirts in two layers, and two colors, and suits that are a mixture of odd materials are increasingly fashionable, and while these are more especially fitted for the tall slender woman they are not impossible for her shorter sister, if a design is selected that carries the line of contrast continuously from skirt hem to the neck of the bodice. This style helps out wonderfully where the material is limited. The odd coats and skirts that are worn help in the same way, while pannier drapings and puffings subdue the too severe plainness of outline, trying to any but perfect figures.

The KITCHEN CUPBOARD

LIGHT STRAWBERRY DESSERTS.

THESE recipes supply a variety of dishes suitable for warm weather desserts. Although the recipes call for strawberries, other berries may be substituted for them in their seasons:

A Fruit Salad.

Strawberry Salad.—Take fresh, solid berries; set them on ice to chill. Then lay them in crisp lettuce leaves taken from the heart of the head. Sprinkle with chopped English walnut kernels. Cover with finely chopped celery stalks with a few red berries showing on top for ornament. Ornament with whole berries and walnut kernels. Serve with French dressing.

A Seasonable Sherbet.

Strawberry Sherbet.—Take two quarts of strawberries. Mash these and add two pounds of white sugar and the juice of a lemon. Let these stand together for an hour, then strain. Measure the juice and add an equal quantity of water. Pour this into the ice cream freezer and as it begins to freeze stir in the beaten whites of two eggs.

Iced Desserts.

Strawberry Ice Cream.—Take three pints of cream, two boxes of berries, two cups of sugar and a dash of salt. Wash and hull the berries, sprinkle with sugar, cover and let stand two hours. Mash and squeeze through cheesecloth, then add salt. Freeze the cream to the consistency of a mush, add gradually the fruit juice and finish freezing.

Strawberry Ice.—Make a meringue with two eggs stiffly beaten and a half cup of sugar cooked in a quarter of a cup of water. Boil four cupfuls of water and a cupful of sugar for five minutes. Add the juice of a lemon and two cupfuls of crushed strawberries. Strain through a cloth. Add more sugar if not sufficiently sweet. When cool, freeze. When the mixture is half frozen, add the meringue.

Strawberry Cocktail.—To the juice of two oranges and of one lemon add powdered sugar to taste. Pineapple juice may be added. Clean and chill some fine strawberries. Place them in cocktail or sherbet glasses cover with the fruit juice and add a teaspoonful of crushed ice.

A Combination Ice.

Strawberry Bomb Glace.—These ices may be made with a lining of sherbet and a center of charlotte russe filling. Let the mold, before lining it, stand to chill in a mixture of equal parts of ice and salt. Then spread the strawberry sherbet around the mold as a lining to the depth of an inch. Fill the center with the charlotte russe mixture and cover with the frozeh sherbet. Then put the top on the mold and pack in ice and salt for an hour.

FOSS RECOMMENDS ABOLISHING COUNCIL

Declares That Body Merely Honorary and Unnecessary

Boston, May 21.—Governor Foss has vetoed the bill to establish the salaries of the members of the council. He says the position is mainly honorary, and has no logical part in the executive department of a state. He recommends that provision be made for submission to popular vote of the question of the abolition of the council.

The bill, house No. 37, which the governor has vetoed, accompanied the petition of Representative Thomas W. White of Newton. It increased the salary from $800 to $1000. It was amended to make it $1000, in which form it reached the governor.

The New Way
The Old Way

The new way to cook is to turn on a little switch, apply a match and get a strong, hot, blue flame of gas that will cook anything for you. No fuss or bother, no coal or wood to carry, no overheated kitchen, no dirt--and the meal always on time. But with the old coal or wood stove—well, we hate to tell you. There is no comparison.

The Wreck of the Titan

By Morgan Robertson

Copyright, 1898, by M. F. Mansfield. Copyright, 1912, by Morgan Robertson. All rights reserved.

SYNOPSIS

The great steamer Titan, supposed to be unsinkable, starts across the Atlantic. Rowland, once a lieutenant, now a common sailor, meets his old love Myra. She is with her husband and child.

The Titan cuts a ship in two, and her captain endeavors to conceal the crime. Rowland objects. The captain gives him whisky, so that he will be discredited. Myra accuses him of attempting to murder her child.

Rowland is drugged by the captain's order and is then given the starboard bridge to-night, so that he will disgrace himself. Myra's child steals away and joins Rowland.

The Titan strikes an iceberg and sinks. Thousands are lost. Myra escapes in a boat. Rowland and the child find refuge on the iceberg. He loses an arm in a fight with a polar bear.

Rowland, who has been an atheist, prays for help, and he and the child are rescued. Meyer, a marine insurance man, is heavily hit by the loss of the Titan and the Royal Age.

"Now, then, gentlemen," said Mr. Meyer, "I believe we can proceed to pizness up to a certain point—berhaps further. Mr. Thompson, you have the affidavit of Captain Bryce."

"I have," said the attorney, producing a document which Mr. Meyer glanced at and handed back.

"And in this statement, captain," he said, "you have sworn that der voyage was uneventful up to der moment of der wreck—that is," he added with an oily smile as he noticed the paling of the captain's face, "that nothing occurred to make der Titan less seaworthy or manageable?"

"That is what I swore to," said the captain with a little sigh.

"You are part owner, are you not, Captain Bryce?"

"I own five shares of the company's stock."

"I have examined der charter and der company lists," said Mr. Meyer. "Each boat of der company is, so far as assessments and dividends are concerned, a separate company. I find you are listed as owning two sixty-seconds of der Titan stock. This makes you, under der law, part owner of der Titan and responsible as such."

"What do you mean, sir, by that word responsible?" said Captain Bryce quickly.

For answer Mr. Meyer elevated his black eyebrows, assumed an attitude of listening, looked at his watch and went to the door, which as he opened admitted the sound of carriage wheels.

"In here," he called to his clerks, then faced the captain.

"What do I mean, Captain Bryce?" he thundered. "I mean that you have concealed in your sworn statement all reference to der fact that you collided with and sunk the ship Royal Age on der night before the wreck of your own ship!"

"Who says so? How do you know it?" blustered the captain. "You have only that bulletin statement of the man Rowland, an irresponsible drunkard."

"The man was lifted aboard drunk at New York," broke in the first officer, "and remained in a condition of delirium tremens up to the shipwreck. We did not meet the Royal Age and are in no way responsible for her loss."

"Yes," added Captain Bryce, "and a man in that condition is liable to see anything. We listened to his ravings on the night of the wreck. He was on lookout—on the bridge. Mr. Austen, the boatswain, and myself were close to him."

"O God, I thank thee!"

Before Mr. Meyer's oily smile had indicated to the flustered captain that he had said too much the door opened and admitted Rowland, pale and weak, with empty left sleeve, leaning on the arm of a bronze bearded and manly looking giant who carried little Myra on the other shoulder and who said in the breezy tone of the quarter deck:

"Well, I've brought him half dead. But why couldn't you give me time to dock my ship? A mate can't do everything."

"And this is Captain Barry of der Peerless," said Mr. Meyer, taking his hand. "It is all right, my friend; you will not lose. And this is Mr. Rowland, and this is der little child. Sit down, my friend. I congratulate you on your escape."

"Thank you," said Rowland weakly as he seated himself. "They cut my arm off at Christiansand, and I still live. That is my escape."

Captain Bryce and Mr. Austen, pale and motionless, stared hard at this man, in whose emaciated face, refined by suffering to the almost spiritual softness of age, they hardly recognized the features of the troublesome sailor of the Titan. His clothing, though clean, was ragged and patched.

Mr. Selfridge had arisen and was also staring, not at Rowland, but at the child, who, seated in the lap of the big Captain Barry, was looking around with wondering eyes. Her costume was unique. A dress of bagging stuff put together, as were her canvas shoes and hat, with sail twine in sailmaker's stitches, three to the inch, covered skirts and underclothing made from old flannel shirts. It represented many an hour's work of the watch below, lovingly bestowed by the crew of the Peerless, for the crippled Rowland could not sew. Mr. Selfridge approached, scanned the pretty features closely and asked:

"What is her name?"

"Her first name is Myra," answered Rowland. "She remembers that. But I have not learned her last name, though I knew her mother years ago—before her marriage."

"Myra, Myra," repeated the old gentleman, "do you know me? Don't you know me?" He trembled visibly as he stooped and kissed her. The little forehead puckered and wrinkled as the child struggled with memory; then it cleared, and the whole face sweetened to a smile.

"Gwampa," she said.

"O God, I thank thee," murmured Mr. Selfridge, taking her in his arms. "I have lost my son, but I have found his child—my granddaughter."

"But, sir," asked Rowland eagerly, "you this child's grandfather? Your son is lost, you say. Was he on board the Titan? And the mother—was she saved or is she too"— He stopped, unable to continue.

"The mother is safe in New York, but the father, my son, has not yet been heard from," said the old man mournfully.

Rowland's head sank, and he hid his face for a moment in his arm on the table at which he sat. It had been a face as old and worn and weary as that of the white haired man confronting him. On it when it raised, flushed, bright eyed and smiling, was the glory of youth.

"I trust, sir," he said, "that you will telegraph her. I am penniless at present and, besides, do not know her name."

"Selfridge—which, of course, is my own name. Mrs. Colonel or Mrs George Selfridge. Our New York address is well known. But I shall cable her at once, and, believe me, sir, although I can understand that our debt to you cannot be named in terms of money, you need not be penniless long. You are evidently a capable man, and I have wealth and influence."

Rowland merely bowed slightly, but Mr. Meyer muttered to himself: "Vealth and influence. Berhaps not. Now, gentlemen," he added in a louder tone, "to pizness. Mr. Rowland, will you tell us about der running down of der Royal Age?"

"Was it the Royal Age?" asked Rowland. "I sailed in her one voyage. Yes, certainly."

Mr. Selfridge, more interested in Myra than in the coming account, carried her over to a chair in the corner and sat down, where he fondled and talked to her after the manner of grandfathers the world over, and Rowland, first looking steadily into the faces of the two men he had come to expose and whose presence he had thus far ignored, told, while they held their teeth tight together and often buried their fingernails in their palms, the terrible story of the cutting in half of the ship on the first night out from New York, finishing with the attempted bribery and his refusal.

"Vell, gentlemen, vhat do you think of that?" asked Mr. Meyer, looking around.

"A lie, from beginning to end!" stormed Captain Bryce.

Rowland rose to his feet, but was pressed back by the big man who had accompanied him, who then faced Captain Bryce and said quietly:

"I saw a polar bear that this man killed in open fight. I saw his arm afterward, and while nursing him away from death I heard no whines or complaints. He can fight his own battles when well, and when sick I'll do it for him. If you insult him again in my presence I'll knock your teeth down your throat."

There was a moment's silence while the two captains eyed one another, broken by the attorney, who said:

"Whether this story is true or false, it certainly has no bearing on the validity of the policy. If this happened it was after the policy attached and before the wreck of the Titan."

"But der concealment, der concealment!" shouted Mr. Meyer excitedly.

"Has no bearing either. If he concealed anything it was done after the wreck and after your liability was confirmed. It was not even barratry. You must pay this insurance."

"I will not bay it—I will not. I will fight you in der courts." Mr. Meyer stamped up and down the floor in his excitement, then stopped with a triumphant smile and shook his finger into the face of the attorney.

"And even if der concealment will not vitiate der policy der fact that he had a drunken man on lookout when der Titan struck der iceberg will be enough. Go ahead and sue. I will not bay. He was part owner."

"You have no witnesses to that admission," said the attorney. Mr. Meyer looked around the group, and the smile left his face.

"Captain Bryce was mistaken," said Mr. Austen. "This man was drunk at New York like others of the crew. But he was sober and competent when on lookout. I discussed theories of navigation with him during his trick on the bridge that night, and he spoke intelligently."

"But you yourself said not ten minutes ago that this man was in a state of delirium tremens up to der collision," said Mr. Meyer.

"What I said and what I will admit under oath are two different things," said the officer desperately. "I may have said anything under the excitement of the moment when we were accused of such an infamous crime. I say now that John Rowland, whatever may have been his condition on the preceding night, was a sober and competent lookout at the time of the wreck of the Titan."

"Thank you," said Rowland dryly to the first officer; then, looking into the appealing face of Mr. Meyer, he said:

"I do not think it will be necessary to braud me before the world as an inebriate in order to punish the company and these men. Barratry, as I understand it, is the unlawful act of a captain or crew at sea, causing damage or loss, and it only applies when the parties are purely employees. Did I understand rightly that Captain Bryce was part owner of the Titan?"

"Yes," said Mr. Meyer, "he owns stock, and we insure against barratry. But this man as part owner could not fall back on it."

"And an unlawful act," went on Rowland, "perpetrated by a captain who is part owner which might cause shipwreck and during the perpetration of which shipwreck really occurs will be sufficient to void the policy."

"Certainly," said Mr. Meyer eagerly. "You were drunk on der lookout—you were raving drunk, as he said himself. You will swear to this, will you not, my friend? It is bad faith with der underwriters. It annuls der insurance. You admit this, Mr. Thompson, do you not?"

"That is law," said the attorney coldly.

"Was Mr. Austen a part owner also?" asked Rowland, ignoring Mr. Meyer's view of the case.

"One share, is it not, Mr. Austen?" asked Mr. Meyer, while he rubbed his hands and smiled. Mr. Austen made no sign of denial, and Rowland continued:

"Then for drugging a sailor into a stupor and having him on lookout out of his turn while in that condition and at the moment when the Titan struck the iceberg Captain Bryce and Mr. Austen have as part owners committed an act which nullifies the insurance on that ship."

SUES THE ARMOURS

Each Member of a Family Asks Damages For Poisonous Meat

New York, May 21.—As a direct result of recent disclosures of the scandalously inadequate inspection by both government officials and beef trust employes of pork and beef carcasses the first suits ever instituted against the beef trust by a consumer have been filed in the United States district court here.

Edward C. Heimerdinger, a rich dress manufacturer, has brought five suits for $5000 each against Armour & Co. because, the complaints state, his wife and his three sons were poisoned by eating Armour's smoked pork infected with deadly trichinae.

Charles Dushkind, attorney for Mr. Heimerdinger, said that the only reason Mrs. Heimerdinger and her three boys did not die as a result of eating the trichinae-infected smoked pork was because a proper diagnose of their disease was made almost immediately after they became ill.

"I took the matter up with Armour & Co. through Mr. Dushkind," said Mr. Heimerdinger. "I told them the facts, and what do you think they replied? That I was a German and ought to know the danger of eating raw pork—although they were perfectly willing to sell it without stating that cooking was necessary or important.

"They followed up this statement with another letter, telling me that as long as the government inspectors passed their food products, they were satisfied, that it was too expensive to make microscopic inspection of pork carcasses to learn whether trichinae parasites existed in the meat or not."

NOVELIST STRINGER DEAD

While His Wife and Baby Not Expected to Survive Explosion

Niagara Falls, May 21.—Arthur Stringer, one of the best-known and most talented novelists in America, was killed and his beautiful wife, formerly known as Jobyna Howland, the actress, and their 1-months-old baby girl were fatally injured in an oil stove explosion in their home.

Mrs. Stringer was heating milk on the stove for the baby. What caused the explosion is not known, but it was heard by people around the neighborhood and a number of persons ran into the Stringer house.

BOY SOLDIERS FACE FAMINE

The Quarantined at Norwich Academy Unprovided For

TAINTED MONEY UNWELCOME

Supplies of Camp Are Exhusted—Students Threaten to Break Quarantine—Neglect to Fumigate Causes Trouble—No Heads Seem to Be Wise Heads—Situation Is Long on Talk and Short on Action

Northfield, Vt., May 21.—With supplies almost gone, unable to buy any more, and held under strict quarantine because of the discovery of two severe cases of smallpox, 200 students and instructors of the Norwich university are facing a food famine.

No arrangements were made to furnish them with food when the quarantine was established. The students left the regular college buildings when the board of health ordered the confinement and are desperate in their tents on the campus. The food supply has been practically exhausted and the students declare their intention of breaking the quarantine unless something is speedily done.

Neither money, clothes or bedding have been fumigated through some oversight and the townspeople fear an epidemic if they break into the town. Attorneys have been consulted over the telephone and litigation against the state is promised.

The situation grows worse every hour and no one seems to know when it will be corrected.

BEGS FOR NURISHMENT

Treated With Cruelty and Deceit is the Story of Prof. Levanzin

Boston, May 21.—Declaring he had been turned out of the Carnegie Nutrition laboratory, Roxbury, after going through a thirty-one-day starvation test, and told to go to the Massachusetts general hospital to regain his strength, Professor Agostino Levanzin staggered into a Boston newspaper office and begged for food and shelter. He was in tears and evidently in terrible distress. A physician was sent for and he is now receiving proper treatment.

Professor Levanzin wrung his hands hysterically and cried for food, saying he was starving. His body was shaking all over and he pleaded for a place to rest. Between his pleas and hysterical sobs the man managed to tell of his treatment at the laboratory.

He said that when the physicians had finished with him, they told him they had no special place for him and said he might have a cot till he got stronger. Then, he said, they told him to go to the Massachusetts general hospital.

Levanzin is well known in Italian medical circles and is a laureate in science in Italy. His home is in Silema, Malta, and he made the trip to Boston from there just for the starvation test. He was to get $400 for his work, but has received nothing, he says.

LESSON FOR GOVERNMENT

Airman Shows How Easy It Is to Drop Bombs Into Vessels and Forts

Boston, May 21.—"What if this bomb was sixteen ounces of nitroglycerine instead of flour?"

This was the startling message enclosed in the imitation bombs which Aviator Arch Freeman of the Atwood park school dropped in on Fort Banks, Fort Heath and the battleships Rhode Island and New Jersey during his sudden raid on the government defenses.

And when the army and navy men saw the great white blotches of flour made in the fort gun pits in front of the arsenals and on top of the range finding station, as also fore, middle and aft on each of the battleships, they said just what Colonel Slaker of Fort Banks said:

"There'd be nothing left of us."

Freeman, who is one of the best fliers and instructors at the Atwood aviation school, has been practising bomb-dropping secretly for some time and the attack on the forts and battleships was the result of an argument which the birdman had with some army officers.

PUPILS DO CREDIT TO TEACHINGS

Miss Goere's Recital Largely Attended by Appreciative Audience

A violin recital by the Quincy pupils of Miss Katteryn Goeres of Randolph was appreciated by an audience that fully taxed Colonial hall, Monday evening. Many were present from surrounding towns and the affair itself was pronounced one of the best of its kind ever held in Quincy. All of the contributors to the program rendered their respective numbers in a manner that would reflect credit upon prosional talent, as was evidenced by the well merited applause given by those present. The selections by the Goeres trio, Misses Kathryn and Minnie and Frank Goeres, assisted by James S. Whyte, bass, was a feature of the evening.

The closing number, a symphony by three violins, a 'cello and a piano also made a decidedly good impression, and the players were forced to respond to repeated encores. The ushers were Miss May Hanley and Miss Lucinda French of Randolph.

The program was as follows:

Duo Martial—Gillis. Margery and Beatrice Griffin

Old Story—Peiniger.. Marjorie Blanchard

Farewell Song—Lagye. Beth Ryder

Petite Polka—Dancla. Emma Savoie

Air Melodeieux — Bohm. Marion White

On the Adrian Sea—Temple. (violin obligato) James Whyte

Concerto.—Accolay. Beatrice Griffin

DOG BIT IRWIN GIRL HAD RABIES

The Verdict of Dr. Frothingham of Harvard Medical School

WATCH ALL DOGS CLOSELY

Inspector of animals, Dr. Francis Abele, Jr., writing of the mad dog which was shot by officer Phillips last Friday says, Dr. Frothingham of the Harvard Medical school, to whom the dog was sent reports a positive case of rabies, (hydrophobia,) from his examination of the brain. The dog's identity is not known but her course has been traced from Atlantic to Quincy through Merrymount park, thence by Liberty and Centre street, to Braintree. Several people and some dogs are known to have been bitten by her. Others must have been, and it is urged that all such cases be reported to the Board of Health or police at once, that measures may be taken to check an epidemic of hydrophobia. All dogs should be closely watched and immediately chained if any peculiar barking or strange actions are noticed.

THE PRESIDENT'S OFFICE.

Elegance In Its Architecture and In Its Appointments.

The president's office is an ellipse in plan. A triple bay window forms one end and at the other is an open fireplace. Four doors, opening inward, are equally disposed, two on each side, and are curved to conform with the curve of the wall. The tall windows are hung with stately, heavy curtains and are flanked by bookcases set into the wall.

The fireplace is incased in fine marble, and fluted ionic columns support the mantel, on which stands a bell glass covered clock, flanked by candelabra. In the fireplace are complete preparations for a wood fire. Even the paper is placed under the logs, ready to ignite.

The style of the room is classic colonial, and the woodwork is painted a creamy white with blue white embellishment. Each of the four large ornate door frames is surmounted by a rich pediment. The wall is covered by a warm olive green burlap, which extends up from a paneled wainscot to a wide, elaborate molding or entablature of plain plaster. A flat dome of this virgin plaster surmounts the room and gathers in its shallow, inverted basin the light from the bay window and gives play to every tint and shade of gray.

Pendent from the middle is a chandelier of electric candles, and triple groups of the same adorn the wall between the doors and windows.—William S. Nortenheim in National Magazine.

MOVING THE PIANO.

Changing Its Position In a Room Will Affect Its Tone.

It is said that the very act of moving a piano around in a room is sufficient to disturb its tonal qualities. When a piano has been moved into the position for which it is intended, is accustomed to the temperature and the drafts prevalent, it should be tuned, experts say. Any change of temperature or movement may cause the strings to contract or expand slightly with the resultant loss or gain of half a semitone. Changing the position of a piano is said to have almost the same effect as constant playing, only in the latter case the constant action of the hammers against the strings tends to loosen their adjustment and the instrument runs out of tune.

Sea air has also a detrimental effect on pianos. Here again contraction and expansion of the wires are the chief causes of disturbance. Pianos constructed for the tropics are much more strongly built than those used in temperate climates. Wood that is not liable to warp and crack is used in the sounding boards; otherwise they have to be brass bound and stayed to prevent splitting.—New York Sun.

Gluttons of the Seas.

The pike's reputation for cruelty and voraciousness is such that it has been popularly dubbed the "water wolf." It is probable, however, that many species of sea fish are equally, if not a great deal more, rapacious. Large dogfish, congers, pollack, cod and bass are especially ferocious, while halibut will very often seize and kill other large fish. An English angler was "playing" a large conger when a huge halibut swam up to and savagely bit at it—a proceeding that cost the halibut its own life, for on its making for the wounded conger a second time the boatman contrived to gaff and haul it aboard. There have been many examples of pike being found dead, choked by their own species, and these fish not infrequently atttack another pike that has been hooked by a fisherman.

Mrs. E. C. Wheeler, Jr., of the Wollaston Golf club, won the prize offered at the Montclair links, Monday afternoon for the best card with her round of 91. Mrs. M. C. Johnson also of Wollaston had a card of 107. Today in the championship flight, Mrs. Wheeler will play Mrs. Alexander McGregor of the Oakley Club and Mrs. Johnson will play Mrs. M. W. Phelps of the Brae Burn Club.

MAYOR STONE ACCUSES

Councilman Bailey said the petition was the result of recommendations of the special committee which were made as a sincere attempt to put the city on a practical business and legal basis. The ultimate object of the borrowing of money he declared to be specifically to clean up the loans outstanding, and he said "We can do it, too."

Mayor Stone then told the committee about the opposition as stated above. "It is very strange", that this opposition did not manifest itself on the floor of the council, instead of allowing the resolve asking the mayor to petition the legislature to go by with unanimous vote, and then to come before a legislative committee in opposition. "It looks like a trick," said he.

City Solicitor McAnarney upheld the mayor. He said the former Mayor (Shea) was the only one who had the "nerve" to put in the tax levy all that should have been put in, and that Mayor Stone is man enough to follow that example.

Ex-Mayor John O. Hall, said he had listened to the many insinuations that former administrations had neglected their duties in the matter of collecting taxes, and making assessments. While he assured the committee that he favored the bill under discussion, he wanted it understood that all the years he was in the Mayor's chair, that the accounts of the city were strictly accurate and the taxes collected and assessed in a business-like fashion. He suggested the time for the payment of the temporary loans be put at five years, instead of ten years as called for in the petition. He eulogized the Mayor and council and hoped for the success of the bill.

In opening the opposition, President Ralph W. Hobbs, of the city council, said he wished to publicly declare that he is not gunning for the Mayor's job, and does not intend to do so. "In fact, I am waiting for December to come so that I can retire to business life and give up the reins of public office," said Mr. Hobbs. He refuted the remarks of the city solicitor, and said that Shea was not the only Mayor to put the proper debts in the tax-levy, and cited Mayor Thompson as one who did precisely the same as was claimed for Mayor Shea. Mr. Hobbs said that his suggestion as to a way out of the difficulty is for strict attention to collecting taxes, and thought it would bring the total uncollectable taxes to about $60,000. This amount he thought could be raised within the tax limit, without legislative authority.

He characterized the proponents of the measure as good fellows but theorists, and he said this measure deals with facts and theory has no place in relieving the situation.

Councilman Cunningham pleaded guilty to being one of the men who was charged with being a seeker for Mayoralty honors. He said that he had voted for Mayor Stone three years ago, last year, and would vote for him again next December. He had no intentions of running for Mayor. But he said he could not agree with the provisions of this bill. He advocated placing the amount of $25,000 in the tax levy every year until the deficit was overcome. Before the end of the year Mr. Cunninghom said that more than $260,000 would become available for borrowing purposes, and he saw no need of going outside the debt limit for necessary money to fund the loan debt.

Councilman Richards was recorded in opposition although press of business kept him from the hearing. Hearing closed.

THE DRUM OF '61.

DOWN amid the silent multitude the marching thousands come
To the marching modulations of an ancient army drum,
To the beat, beat, beat of a thousand loyal feet
And the rumble and the grumble of a caisson and a gun.
At the head a tattered banner flutters
proudly in the air,
Borne along by one old veteran with silver grizzled hair,
Keeping time with martial feet down the bunting laden street
To the hum and the thrum of the drum
of sixty-one.

Comes a picture as I listen to the rhythmical refrain
Of a soldier starting warward down a shady country lane.
From afar the echoes come of the old
recruiting drum,
And they speak a message to him of the triumphs to be won.
Louder yet the calling thunder, and his feet exultant bound
In a patriotic frenzy at the glory of the sound.
'Tis the call of ancient Thor, and he marches on to war
To the hum and the thrum of the drum
of sixty-one.

Quick another picture hurries, and I see the battle reek
Where the battery is crashing and the shrapnel is a-shriek
Till the earth and heavens rock to the fury of the shock
And the rumble and the grumble of the caisson and the gun.
Oh, the terror of the battle! But above the song of hell
In barbaric notes that louder o'er the devastation swell,
Calling martyrs to the death in the cannon's bitter breath,
Comes the hum and the thrum of the drum of sixty-one.

Ah, the horror of the battlefield when every gun is still,
When the moon in silent pity looks across the eastern hill!
With a tramp, tramp, tramp through the half deserted camp
Go the weary stretcher bearers, for the bloody work is done.
All about are shattered beings which but yesterday were men.
Now their martial song is ended. They will never march again
With a tramp of eager feet down the faroff village street
To the hum and the thrum of the drum
of sixty-one.

Now the peaceful pageant passes, and the picture of the fray,
Like the deadly strife of yesterday, forever fades away.
Peace with gentle hand smooths down
hate's unforgiving frown,
For the quarrel has long ended, and the Blue and Gray are one.
On the grave of friend and enemy we leave the blossoms spread—
Loyal friend and gallant enemy, now comrades with the dead.
Hark! The tramp of solemn feet dies away adown the street
To the hum and the thrum of the drum
of sixty-one.
—Lowell Otus Reese in Leslie's Weekly.

HEAR THE DRUMS MARCH BY.

Sarah, Sarah, Sarah, hear the drums
march by!
This is Decoration day. Hurry and be spry!
Wheel me to the window, girl! Fling it open high!
Crippled of the body now and blinded of the eye,
Sarah, let me listen while the drums
march by.

Hear 'em! How they roll! I can feel 'em in my soul.
Hear the beat, beat o' the boots on the street.
Hear the sweet fife cut the air like a knife.
Hear the tones grand of the words of command.
Hear the walls nigh shout back their reply.
Sarah, Sarah, Sarah, hear the drums dance
by!

Blind as a bat, I can see 'em, for all that—
Old Colonel J., stately and gray,
Riding slow and solemn at the head of the column;
There's Major L., sober now and well;
Old Lengthy Bragg still a-bearing of the flag;
There's old Strong that I tented with so long—
There's the whole crowd, hearty and proud.
Hey, boys, say, can't you glance up this way?
Here's an old comrade, crippled now and gray!
This is too much! Girl, throw me my crutch!
I can see—I can walk—I can march—I could fly!
No, I won't sit still and see the boys
march by!

Oh, I fall and I flinch! I can't go an inch!
No use to flutter; no use to try.
Where's my strength? Hunt down at the front.
There's where I left it. No need to sigh;
All the milk's split. There's no use to cry.
Plague o' these tears and the moans in my ears!
Part of a war is to suffer and to die.
I must sit still and let the drums march
by.

Part of a war is to suffer and to die—
Suffer and to die—suffer and to— Why,
Of the crowd I just yelled at so loud
There's hardly a one but is killed, dead and gone!
All the old regiment, excepting only I,
Marched out of sight in the country of the night.
That was a specter band marched past so grand.
All the old boys are a-tenting in the sky.
Sarah, Sarah, Sarah, hear the drums moan by!
—Will Carleton in Harper's.

BROWN BEATEN BY THE MAKARIAS

The Brown class baseball team, for the past three years champions of the Church league of Greater Boston went down to an 11 to 2 defeat at the hands of "Charlie" Ganzel's Makaria team, in Saturday's game at Merrymount Park. At no stage of the game did the visitors appear dangerous and they were outclassed in every department of play.

"Phil" Rice did the pitching honors for the home team and allowed his opponents but three hits and struck out ten. The hitting of Smith was a feature of the game. Nicoll and McKenzie also played well. The score by innings:

Innings	1	2	3	4	5	6	7	8	9
Makaria	1	1	4	3	0	0	0	2	0—3

Batteries—Rice and H. Chapman, Dunham and McDougal.

Y. M. C. A. 7, CHELSEA 2.

The Quincy Y. M. C. A. won its first out-of-town game on Saturday when it defeated the crack Marten team of Chelsea by the score of 7 to2.

"Chet" Foster the Y. M. C. A. pitcher was in fine form, holding down the opposing batsmen to six scratch singles, besides striking out six men. Foster's work was easily the feature of the game for he accepted six fielding chances without an error, made four hits out of five times up and scored one run. Holmes' work behind the bat was also good. His best play consisting of catching a high foul fly after a 75 foot run.

Altstein accepted eleven chances at first without an error and also figured in three fast double plays.

The score by innings:

Innings	1	2	3	4	5	6	7	8	9
Y. M. C. A.	1	3	0	0	0	0	0	3	0 7

COLONIALS WALLOP WARREN A C

The Colonials journyed to Wood Island Park, Saturday and crossed bats with the Warren A. C. of East Boston, winning out handily 11-2. The game was never in doubt after the fourth inning when the Colonials got five runs by solid hitting. The feature of the game was the heavy hitting of Patriarca who got two doubles and a home run. Thomas also played sensational ball, accepting many difficult drives. McCarty and Daley excelled for the Warren A. C..

The score by innings:

Colonials	2	0	0	5	0	0	3	1	0	—11
Warren A. C.	0	0	0	0	0	0	2	0	0	— 2

Batteries—For Colonials, Williams and McDonald. For Warren A. C., O'Brien and Daley.

Quincy's Representatives Voted for Best Results for Quincy

(Special to the Ledger)

State House, May 21, 1912. As predicted in the Ledger of last week Tuesday, the congressional redistricting bill as reported by the special committee went through the House of Representatives today practically intact. One amendment was attached to the bill. This amendment takes Mansfield out of the new fourteenth district, of which Quincy is a part, and places Rockland into that district. While the population of the district remains about the same, the Republican normal plurality is somewhat lessened. Quincy will be a powerful factor in deciding elections of congressmen in the new district, since Brockton is the only other city in the district.

One Boston newspaper has been very outspoken against the plan adopted yesterday, and printed the names of some 50 republican members of the house whose votes the paper's readers were cautioned to watch. Among the names printed were those of Representatives Leslie and Piper, of Quincy. It was intimated by the Boston paper that all the representatives whose names were published were parties to a gerrymander and were allied with the democrats in an effort to push the bill through the House. It can be positively said that both of Quincy's representatives voted for the successful plan, solely because it provided for the best interests of Quincy, and for no other reason. Both Mr. Piper and Mr. Leslie were approached by the men behind the opposition movement, in an attempt to get them to join with the movement to defeat the bill. Both men refused to do so because in defeating the bill, they would be defeating the wishes of their constituents. They both think that the very best thing for Quincy, in so far as its situation in a congressional district is concerned, is that the city be detached from the Boston wards and put into a district with cities and towns with whom it has something in common. This idea is realized in the plan which was carried today in the house, regardless of the opposition of such strong republican leaders as Channing Cox, Jas. F. Cavanaugh and Alvin E. Bliss and even the Speaker himself, who took the floor and addressed the House for the substitute plan.

REP. WALTER E. PIPER.
Voted for Congressional Bill.

It now remains to be seen whether the Govenor will sign the bill. If he vetoes it, there will be no legislation this year on the matter, since its proponents could not possibly muster enough strength to pass it over a veto. In the event of the Governor's veto, the congressional districts will remain the same as they have been the past ten years.

AUTO MYSTERY CLEARED UP

Robs Monday Night's Fire of Shroud of Sensationalism

BLAZE NOT INCENDIARY

Inspector Goodhue who was assigned by Chief Burrell to investigate the suspicious fire in the polishing mill of Milne & Chalmers Monday night, worked all day Tuesday on the matter and had the satisfaction of running down the sensational story of three men and a woman in the automobile who were reported to have been seen coming away from the building just as the fire was discovered.

Inspector Goodhue found that the party in the automobile was Alfred B. Olson of Copeland street, West Quincy. From him the inspector learned the true story of the automobile. It seems that the car had not been working right and Mr. Olson took it out Monday evening to try it out. With him in the car was his wife and her brother. They came down Water street about 9.30 when the car again commenced to go wrong. He then turned into Quincy street and drove the car to the pole on which the fire alarm box, opposite the plant of Milne & Chalmers is located and drew up under the arc light on the pole to fix the car. While there a man ran out from a neighboring house and shouted fire. At that time Mr. Olson said that all he could see was a thin sheet of flame crawling up the outside of the building near the travelling crane.

Knowing that the fire apparatus would draw up in front of the box, his wife urged him to get out of the way. He then cranked up the machine and drove to the other side of the square, not over 500 feet away where he stopped and watched the firemen put out the fire.

Mr. Olson is well known in West Quincy and his story is readily accepted by the police and explodes the sensational features of the story told by the Tinney boy.

Inspector Goodhue said that he made a thorough investigation of the fire, but could not find sufficient evidence to convince him that the fire was of incendiary origin and that there was fully as much material for belief that it started from spontaneous combustion as there was that it was an incendiary.

Chief Litchfield said this morning that he expected that the insurance adjusters would look over the plant today and fix the loss.

QUINCY SCHOOL ASSOCIATION

Enjoys Entertainment and Lecture by Dr. Sargent

The Parents' and Teachers' association met at Quincy school, Tuesday evening. The president, William F. Cummings, presiding. There was a large attendance. The following songs were very ably rendered by local talent and highly appreciated by the audience: "Dreams" and Miss Susie Halloran. "The King," Edward Sullivan, "The Rosary," Miss Susie Halloran, "Silver Threads," Edward Sullivan.

The prospects of the association are bright for the future, as there is a membership of over 150, also money in the treasury, with which to carry on the work, and best of all, the assembly hall that has been so long needed and much talked of, apparently is now assured. With the early appointment of different committees for the fall work the results should be very beneficial to the association and community as well.

Dr. Walter L. Sargent of Quincy, delivered a very clear and instructive lecture on "Contagious Diseases," and was most heartily applauded, after which the meeting was adjourned until June 11.

QUINCY MAN HELD HIGH PLACE IN CATHOLIC ORDER OF FORESTERS

C. M. Duggan Had Most Successful Term as High Chief Ranger in the State

Will Be Further Honored by His Colleagues of High Court

The thirty-third annual convention of the Massachusetts Catholic Order of Foresters was called to order in Ford hall, Boston, this morning by Cornelius M. Duggan of Holmes street, Atlantic, who retires as High Chief Ranger after having served faithfully

CORNELIUS M. DUGGAN,
Retiring High Chief Ranger, M. C. O. F

for one year. Nine delegates from Quincy, representing 500 members, carrying an insurance of over $500,000, are in attendance at the convention. They are Hon. William T. Shea, Joseph J. McNeilly, James L. Fennessey and Arthur B. Murphy of St. Francis Court, No. 25, West Quincy, David P. Frasier and Patrick K. Ward of Quincy Court No. 76; Mrs. Alice F. Ash and Mrs. Mary D. Mahoney of St. Ambrose Court, Lady Foresters, No. 172, West Quincy and Timothy A. Keohane, chief ranger of St. Kevin Court No. 253, of Norfolk Downs, the latest addition to the order in Quincy.

The convention will be attended by the largest number of delegates in the history of the order. Delegates arrived in Boston on Tuesday evening from all over the state and were entertained at Mechanics Building by High Chief Ranger Cornelius M. Duggan and members of the high standing committee. Mr. Duggan delivered the opening address at the convention this morning. He outlined the work accomplished during the past year and in closing recorded his abiding gratitude in most emphatic terms for the honor he had enjoyed during the past five years as a member of the Executive board and the confidence that had been placed in him at all times. He said in part::

Sister and Brother Foresters:—

"Another page has been added to the magnificent record of this great body of Catholic men and women whose sole aim and purpose is the protection of home and loved ones.

"In 236 Subordinate Courts, the number of members December 31, 1910, was 31,886. The total loss since then was 836 members. The total membership December 31, 1911, was 33,683. The net increase during the year was 1,797.

"Three new courts were organized during 1911. Fr. Sherry Court, No. 251 of Springfield, was instituted March 19th, with 71 charter members; Fr. Halloran Court, No. 252 of Cambridge, September 7th with 14 charter members and St. Kevin Court, No. 253 of Norfolk Downs, November 26th, with 49 charter members.

"Henceforth our fund will rapidly increase in conjunction with the numerical progress of the order, until in the years to come it will be the great Financial Gibraltar of our society, and a golden monument to the wisdom and far seeing providence of those who established it. The balance to the credit of the general fund January 1, 1912, was $19,978.53 as against $15,694.27 January 1, 1911, an increase during the year of $4,284.26.

"Three responsible positions of the High Standing Committee deserve special notice, that of our High Court Chaplain, Rev. James H. O'Neil, LL. D. whose experience, wisdom and spiritual guidance are of inestimable value. Dr. Francis J. Hanley, High Medical Examiner, who by his conscientious supervision of his department has done more than his proportionate part in safeguarding a healthy growth and Daniel H. Maguire, our High Secretary-Treasurer, who performs the many exacting duties of his position in a manner creditable to himself and with honor and profit to the order. May their faithful work be rewarded by many years of future service.

"In closing, let us remember our actions today will guide the policy of our Order during the ensuing year, and let us so legislate that the greatest good will accrue to the greatest number and returning to our homes proud of the record made during the past, let us seek to do better for the future.

"There are many pleasant memories to carry for the rest of my life and my fond hope in retiring is—that as time will pass and new officers will govern, guide and direct your destinies, there may have been some words which I have uttered, some acts of good that I have done, the sincerity and honesty which has always been my highest endeavors, may have left an impression, that in your hearts and homes I shall not be forgotten."

OBNOXIOUS ENTERPRISES

Frowned Upon by Park and Downs Men's Club

MANY ACTIVITIES PLANNED

At a business meeting of the Park and Downs Men's club held in the vestry Tuesday evening, the efforts of the Wollaston Park Improvement association came in for high commendation and the following motion was passed

Resolved: "That the Park and Downs Men's club are in hearty sympathy with the efforts of the Wollaston Park Improvement association to keep the district of Wollaston Park and Norfolk Downs, together with the Metropolitan Boulevard system, clean and free from obnoxious enterprises."

"Be it further resolved That we pledge our cordial support and enthusiastic co-operation in any reasonable endeavor to prevent the entrance into our community's life of activities not considered wholesome to the public morals and the safeguard to public property.

HONESTY IN EVERYTHING

EDITORIAL COMMENT.

Richeson has paid the penalty of his offence in the electric chair. For gracious sake now let him and all others who were dragged into the unfortunate affair sink into the forgetfulness and oblivion they have long desired.

The majority of the committee gives Lorimer a clean bill of health, while the minority claims his case reeks with corruption. Illinois has registered her verdict as to which is correct.

All dogs permitted to run at large should be muzzled and then the safety of the public would be assured.

By all means cover the mosquito breeding placed with petroleum and bring peace to the people in those localities.

Quincy to keep pace with times has almost discovered a fire bug.

The cruel baseball war is ended. There is no more excuse for pampered ball players assaulting people than for ordinary individuals.

Taft and Roosevelt must both feel a measure of relief now that the Ohio strain is ended.

How strange Mayor Fitzgerald and the Boston finance commission must feel to find themselves in accord on the Neponset bridge proposition. Surely they cannot be decided upon burying the hatchet.

The late Carrie Nation was by no means the original Hatchet woman. A Massachusetts town had a "Hatchet Gang" of women who mussed up speak easies and blind tigers and poured rum into the gutters long before Carrie was born.

Columbia college boys carried their pranks to the dormitories of the coeds the other day. Genelemanly conduct in the extreme and speaks well for the high education and tone which a college education is supposed to impart.

Isn't it about time the bereaved Astor family was permitted to manage its own affairs without the interference of every busybody that turns up.

The man who offered his granddaughter as a sacrifice to expiate another's crime forgets such trifling circumstances as the way the child or the parents might feel about it, to say nothing of the law of the land.

A BAD PRECEDENT.

The movement in one city of the stat to set apart a portion of the public park and enclose it as a base ball field for the high school team would establish a bad precedent if carried to a successful issue. The argument advanced was that an admission fee would be charged, which would provide a source of revenue to the park commissioners. Very pretty and ingenious indeed. But two members of the park commission appeared in opposition to the bill. Now the whole thing in a nut shell, shorn of this gratuitous desire to financially aid the park commissioners, has no more to do with providing funds for park purposes, than an African cannibal has to do with missionary work in America.

Sifted of all the public spirit which appears on the surface, the movement is to provide a base ball park for the high school boys where an admission fee may be charged and the base ball treasury of the club kept on easy street.

Legislators are prone to fall too easily into agreement with a public clamor, which they mistake for sentiment and vote from a politic standpoint. This measure however seems too flagrant and barefaced on the surface to pass even the wiley pollitician eager to please every one.

If the high school boys are provided with an enclosed portion of the park, what is to prevent grammar schools and other organizations making the same demand. What is granted one cannot well be denied the other, and in a little while if this is followed to its logical conclusion, the public parks will be places portioned off into fenced-in lots and where will the poor public who has paid the bills fit.

Taken as a whole school pupils of the present day are provided for better than their fathers and grandfathers with educational facilities and they have luxuries in their school life which were unknown and unthought of fifty aye, twenty years ago.

When it comes to be provided with an enclosed base ball field in a public park, with the right to charge an admission fee, there is the chance they are asking a trifle too much. The passage of such a bill might tend to upset the whole park system of the state and would establish a most dangerous precedent, the end of which would be nowhere in sight for some time to come.

DOWN THE MOSQUITO.

The City Council did not make any mistake Monday evening in passing an order allowing $500 for the distribution of petroleum on ponds and marshes of the city to lessen the torments from the mosquito pests. It is to be hoped that those in authority will look at the situation from all angles, and not confine operations to the literal terms of the order.

It is to be hoped that this movement and appropriation will be productive of good results, but if the money allowed is not sufficient to cover all parts of the city that the work will not be permitted to lag owing to lack of funds. All stagnant and standing bodies of water and other places where mosquitoes thrive should be invaded. Already the pests have made their apearance and were particularly annoying Sunday night in places close to streams and marsh lands.

No regrets will be registered if the whole troublesome tribe is exterminated.

OBNOXIOUS ENTERPRISES

"We commend the energy of the Wollaston Park Improvement association toward the upbuilding and improving of our beloved community."

The evening was spent in a discussion of local conditions. A committee of five was appointed to co-operate with the Improvement Association. Messrs. Watts, Burgess, Bissett, Kingston and MacMulkin form this committee.

Extensive preparations are being made for the June meeting of the club. The program, which is in the hands of Messrs, MacMulkin, Willson, and Watts, includes an auto trip and a shore dinner at Nantasket.

ALBEE CLASS ENTERTAINERS

Hosts for Adult Classes of Wollaston Baptist Church

In the chapel of the Wollaston Baptist church Tuesday evening the Albee class delightfully entertained the other adult classes of the Sunday school which include the Walther class, the Rand class and the classes of Mrs. Walther, Mrs. Pinkham and Mrs. Jewell.

Following a welcome by Mrs. A. F. Kendall, president of the class, those present enjoyed a lecture on Mexico by Mrs. H. Josephine Hayward of Woburn.

Mrs. Hayward who is known by her prominence in women's activities proved a fine speaker and told in an interesting manner of her trip by water to Vera Cruz and her journey over the mountains of that southern country. During the evening duets by Mrs. Joseph Walther and Mrs. Charles M. Roach were enjoyed as were piano solos by Miss May Critchley and Master Biganess.

An hour of sociability closed the evening during which refreshments were served by a committee consisting of Mrs. Mills, Mrs. Eben Hardy, Mrs. J. P. Perry, Mrs. Cook, Mrs. Grey, Miss Grace Schermerhorn and Miss Jones.

The evening was in charge of a committee consisting of Mrs. A. F. Kendall, Mrs. J. Arthur Sparrow, Mrs. Wellington Record, Mrs. Sheppard and Mrs. Mills.

ELEVEN SEASONS OF SUCCESS

Marks Course of Wollaston Church Glee Club

SUPPER AND SONG FEST

With its annual banquet and ladies' night on Monday evening in the vestry of the Wollaston Unitarian church, the Wollaston Glee club closed its eleventh season, one filled with all kinds of success.

At 7.30 the members and guests sat down to the following excellent menu served by Mrs. Ella R. Raymond of Somerville.

Vegetable Soup
Roast Beef
Potato Peas
Shrimp Salad
Macaroni Olives
Ice Cream
Macaroons Sponge Cake
Rolls Coffee

In behalf of the club, President Herbert J. Gurney welcomed those present and said, it had been a most successful season and the club had given the two best concerts of its history—the best, both from an artistic and financial standpoint. The club is anxious to raise the artistic spirit and realizes the only way to do this is to elevate its own standard of skill and efficiency. The finances this year have allowed the expenditure of more money and better soloists have been secured. We are looking forward next year to even better concerts than we have been able to give this year.

Secretary Linscott read his annual report. Following the reading of the financial report, Dr. E. R. Johnson, the treasurer, made a plea for higher artistic endeavor among the club members. He spoke of the spirit with which the principals of grand opera go into their work and urged the members to emulate them. A good deal depends upon the individual work of each member. He urged that when they came together next fall they endeavor to make it more of an artistic success.

Frederick H. Bishop one of the club's first members spoke in a happy vein and closed with an appeal that the members spend a little more time with their music.

The evening's entertainment opened with a reading "Mandy's Organ" by Miss Edith B. Arey. This told a story of country life and was most intereating. As an encore a boyish reading "Sermon Time" was given.

Arthur F. Capen, a club member contributed two fine solos which received much applause. They were: "I'll sing the songs of Araby" and "Three little words." He was accompained by Miss Florence G. Olney.

Miss Arey's next readings were "Penelope's Christmas Dance" a story of the Revolution and "the wedding charm" a humorous piece.

"Oh, Saving Victim" by Gounod was contributed by the club members with Frederick H. Bishop as director and Miss Florence Olney at the piano.

Miss Arey's next group included two Irish monologues "Mrs. McDermott's school visit" and "The hired girls of Mrs. Alderman Casey." Her other selection was a juvenile one by Edmund Vance Cook "The Sin of the carpenter men."

The club contributed "De Sandman" by Protheroe and "Soldiers' Farewell" and the evening closed with the singing of Auld Lang Syne" by those present.

Among those attending on Monday evening were the following:— James D. Willson, Mrs. James D. Willson, H. S. Epes, Mrs. H. S. Epes, George A. Smith, Mrs. George A. Smith, Mrs. George W. Abele, Delcevare King, James Wood, Mrs. J. Wood, Frank C. Blake, Mrs. Willard E. Keyes, Mrs. Frank C. Blake, Arthur F. Capen, Mrs. Arthur F. Capen, Frank K. Linscott, Herbert J. Gurney, Mrs. Herbert J. Gurney, Miss Florence G. Olney, Dr. E. R. Johnson, Mrs. E. R. Johnson, Miss Edith B. Arey, Frederick H. Bishop, Mrs. Frederick H. Bishop, Miss Grace I. Bishop, Mrs. S. A. Thompson, S. B. Bates, Mrs. S. B. Bates, F. H. Crane, Mrs. F. H. Crane, Richard Bishop, Mrs. Richard Bishop, Charles A. Kempton, J. A. Horton and Arthur W. Bullock.

Federal Commissioner Hearing Testimony In Steel Trust Case

PRICES AGREED TO

Is the Testimony of Witness in Suit to Dissolve Steel Trust

New York, May 22.—Hearings in the federal suit to dissolve the United States Steel corporation were resumed with John C. Langan of Brooklyn, formerly private secretary for U. C. Temple on, the stand.

Temple, the witness said, was "commissioner" of the plate association and structural steel association.

Among other concerns in the pools, the government contends, was the Illinois Steel company, the Carnegie Steel company and the American Steel and Wire company.

Langan testified that the structural steel association fixed prices by agreement. Practically the same regulations were adopted and maintained by the plate association.

This testimony was considered a point for the government, inasmuch as the contention of the steel corporation has been that while an agreement was drawn up, it was rejected.

WISCONSIN SENATOR FIGHTS TO FINISH

Believes He Will Hold Balance of Power In Convention

Cleveland, May 22.—Senator La Follette declared before a large crowd that the trusts of the United States are making of the people commercial and industrial slaves and that when commercial and industrial freedom is lost political independence is soon destroyed. The senator placed responsibility for the growth of trusts on Theodore Roosevelt, and said trusts had continued to grow under William Taft.

Roosevelt, the senator said, easily could have destroyed the trusts when he began his services as president, through the instrumentality of the Sherman anti-trust law. "There is not a particle of difference between Taft and Roosevelt on trust law enforcement," he continued. "They've both made a failure of it."

Votes for women were indorsed by the senator, who said that the influence of women in municipal, state and national politics would be for good.

A remarkable feature of the meeting in Cleveland was that at its inception it was announced a collection would be taken to help defray the expenses of the campaign. Hats were passed and a large sum was obtained, most of the audience contributing without a murmur. The senator asserted he was, had always been and would always be, right up to the time a nomination is made at Chicago, a candidate for the presidency.

Rumor Upset by Lodge

Washington, May 22.—Senator Lodge upsets the rumor that William Barnes of New York has consulted him with an idea of having the senator allow his name to be put forward at the Chicago convention as a compromise candidate for the presidency. Lodge said that he had not seen Barnes and that the use of his name in connection with a possible comprise between the president and Colonel Roosevelt at Chicago was not authorized.

Houser Is Optimistic

Washington, May 22.—"The presidential outlook is awfully mixed," says Walter L. Houser, campaign manager for Senator La Follette. "The convention undoubtedly will be tied up in a deadlock," said he, "and I think Senator La Follette stands a good chance."

Chairmanship Is Accepted

New York, May 22.—Senator Root has accepted the temporary chairmanship of the Republican national convention. President Taft is thoroughly satisfied.

PRESIDENT TAFT LOSES OHIO

Great Surprise That Wilson Leads Governor Harmon

TEDDY CLAIMS 30 DELEGATES

Returns to Date Gives Him Lead of 3 to 2—W. J. Bryan Given Credit For Harmon's Defeat—Taft Strong In Southern Ohio, His Opponent In Northern—Roosevelt May Not Get the Six Delegates-at-Large

Cleveland, May 22.—Theodore Roosevelt won by 3 to 2, and possibly more, over President Taft for nomination in yesterday's primary election, according to the returns. Roosevelt polled 20,013 votes to Taft's 12,417 in 909 precincts out of 5192 in the state, with Taft's principal strongholds, the two Cincinnati districts, reported.

Latest returns give La Follette 3535 votes, running heavily in the two Cleveland districts.

In the state so far Harmon is running behind Wilson. In the Cleveland districts Wilson defeated the Ohio governor by about 2 to 1. The big Wilson vote was a surprise and is considered a tribute to Bryan, who has been campaigning for the New Jersey governor.

Roosevelt will get more than half of the Ohio delegates. That he was assured, even if his total is swelled by wide margins in some of the counties where he is strongest and Taft is running neck and neck with him in some of the others. Roosevelt carried the two Cleveland districts by 2 to 1. In Toledo the difference between him and Taft is not great. Taft carried the two districts of Cincinnati, his home city. Roosevelt is making his greatest gains in the northern part of the state; Taft in the southern part.

Walter Brown, chairman of the state Republican committee and one of the most active of Roosevelt leaders, claims that Taft has surely lost fifteen to twenty-one districts. This he gives out as a very conservative estimate. That would insure for Roosevelt thirty of the forty-eight delegates Ohio will have in the Chicago convention. Despite the fact that Roosevelt has carried the state, he may not get the six delegates-at-large. They will be chosen by the state convention, the delegates to which will be virtually selected in many instances by county Republican machines, some of which are in the hands of the Taft men.

MORSE SEEKS PROPERTY

Ex-Banker to Try to Recover Steamship Line and Other Assets

Washington, May 22.—Charles W. Morse, the ex-banker, will return from Europe the latter part of this month and go to his old home at Bath, Me., where he will spend some time in an effort further to regain his strength.

It is his purpose to institute litigation in the courts of New York to recover his equity in the Metropolitan Steamship line, which was sold at a receiver's sale after his arrest. This information has been received in Washington from a source that is considered entirely reliable.

Morse is still a rich man, according to the report, and if his health will permit he is determined to make a vigorous fight, not only to rehabilitate himself in the financial world, but to recover some of the property he says has been illegally taken from him. While he is undoubtedly suffering from Bright's disease, it is said his condition has shown steady improvement in Europe and that with proper care and attention he may live for years.

It is learned Morse's contract with his attorneys who managed his case after his imprisonment called for a fee of $100,000 contingent upon his release from prison.

WESTBORO LOSES FUND

Governor Foss Vetoes Bill to Improve Present Hospital Buildings

Boston, May 22.—A resolve appropriating $64,750 for improvements at the Westboro insane hospital was vetoed by Governor Foss. The principal part of the money, $50,000, was to be used for a central heating plant.

The governor says that a personal study of the institution has convinced him that because of the distance between the buildings a central heating plant would not be economical.

WOMEN'S CLUBS

WHAT THEY ARE DOING AND SEASONS' PLANS

The K. C. Memorial club ends its season on Saturday with a field day and are hoping for good weather.

* * *

Members of the Hospital Aid Association are requested to note that owing to the day for the regular monthly meeting coming on Memorial day, the May meeting will be held the next day Friday the 31st. Mrs. Frank A. Page of Grand View avenue, Wollaston will be the hostess for the meeting.

* * *

Whatsoever Circle of King's Daughters will meet with Mrs. E. S. Taylor, 10 Cushing street, Monday, May 27th.

QUINCY WOMEN'S CLUB.

Although the club season is over for the Quincy Women's club a few pleasant entertainments are to take place within the next few weeks. The first is the third and last of the May morning musicales under the auspices of the Music committee to be held May 29th at the clubhouse at quarter of eleven. Miss Sheppard of Lynn, contralto, will be the soloist and the Mazah trio will render a good program.

For the benefit of the philanthropic work of the club two June breakfasts are to be given the morning of Saturday June 1st, one at Alpha hall, Quincy from 6.30 to 1.30 in charge of Mrs. Eben W. Sheppard, president of the club, and the other in the Unitarian vestry at Wollaston from 5.30 to 1.30 in charge of Mrs. N. G. Nickerson and Mrs. Chandler W. Smith, chairman of the Philanthropy committee.

Various committees are to be busy right through the summer, the Education Committee of which Mrs. John W. Sanborn is chairman being one of the most active with summer vacation schools and children's gardens. The Visiting Nurse, Philanthropic, Civics, House, and Home Economics committees all have work to do until the opening club season comes round again in October.

UNITY CIRCLE.

The visiting ten of Unity Circle King's Daughters, met at the residence of Mrs. C. W. Guy, Butler road, Monday evening. There was a good attendance. Mrs. J. B. Thompson leader of the ten and Mrs. W. G. Shaw, president of the circle, were present. Work was arranged for the ten and plans were made for a reception to shut-ins to be held in the parlor of Bethany church in June. The visiting ten will visit Pond home, June 1st. The visit will take the form of a donation party. All are cordially invited to attend whether members of the King's Daughters circle or not.

GENERAL FEDERATION BIENNIAL.

The eleventh biennial convention of the General Federation of Women's clubs is to be held in San Francisco, June 25 to July 5 and a large party of women will go from Boston. The Quincy Women's club will send as its delegate Mrs. John B. Worster.

The first meeting Wednesday morning, June 26, opens with the report of the president, Mrs. Philip N. Moore of St. Louis, followed by committee reports. The first in order is that of Mrs. O. Shepard Barnum of Los Angeles, chairman of the education committee; Thursday morning, June 27, reports will be given on civil service, and civics; Saturday morning, June 29, Mrs. Percy V. Pennybacker of Austin, Texas, reports on the endowment fund, and Mrs. E. W. Pattison of St. Louis for the art committee; Monday morning, July 1, comes the discussion of the president's recommendations, and Mrs. Emmons Crocker of Fitchburg reports for the conservation committee.

Tuesday morning, July 2, reports will be made on public health legislation, industrial and social conditions. On Wednesday morning, July 3, household economics, literature and library committee and music. On Friday morning, July 5, new and unfinished business will be attended to.

At the first afternoon conference held Tuesday, June 25, Mrs. Mary I. Wood of Portsmouth, N. H., of the bureau of information, will act as chairman; Wednesday afternoon, June 26, there will be a joint conference of state presidents and general federation secretaries; Thursday afternoon, June 27, conference on civil service and on civics, Saturday afternoon, June 29, conference on industrial and social conditions and household economics; Sunday afternoon, June 30, vesper services will be held in the Calvary Presbyterian church and Dr. Luella Clay Parsons, president of Mills College, will address the delegates; Monday afternoon, July 1, the conference conservation and art, Tuesday afternoon, July 2, the program reads: "The Greek Musical Theatre," Mrs. Lawrence Maxwell, chairman; Wednesday afternoon, July 3 comes the election of officers and directors, a discussion of literature and library extension work.

The evening meetings are held in the Sutter Street Pavilion and at the first on June 25, the local board, Mrs. E. G. Denniston, president, will welcome the visitors; Wednesday evening, June 26, the state presidents will answer the question, "How has the General Federation best helped your state?" Thursday evening, June 27, household economics department; Saturday evening, June 29, "Vocational Guidance;" Monday evening, July 1, Public health is the bulwark of the nation; Tuesday evening, July 2, "Legal and Economic Status of Women" will be discussed; Wednesday evening, July 3, the art department, will present "Three Centuries of Art in America;" Thursday evening, an address will be given on "The Declaration of Independence" and Friday evening, July 5, will be given over to the president of the General Federation. The program of entertainments has already been published in The Boston Herald.

There is much interest in the election of a president. The two candidates thus far presented are Mrs. Philip Carpenter of New York and Mrs. Percy V. Pennybacker of Austin, Tex.

TWO ALARMS LITTLE DAMAGE

Badger Bros. Roof Again Loses a Few Shingles

The alarm from Box 45 at 6.40 Monday evening was for a slight fire in the wet wash laundry of Harry Berman, on Common street. The damage was slight.

The alarm from Box 46 at 2.37 Tuesday afternoon called the department to a slight fire on the roof of Badger Bros'. shop on Williard street. Time and time again has this roof taken fire from sparks from a passing locomotive but it has always been in the middle of the day when there were plenty of people about to get at it quick. The fire of Tuesday did little more than burn a few shingles.

KNOCKED DOWN BY AUTO.

John Welch, of White street, South Weymouth, was knocked down in Jackson square, East Weymouth, Sunday by an automobile owned and driven by J. F. McNamara of Newton, and three ribs were broken and his knee cap injured. The driver of the car is said to have been blameless.

LOOKS LIKE A CONTEST

Over the Will of G. E. Marsh, by His Granddaughter

Salem, Mass., May 22.—There is a prospect that the will of George E. Marsh, the soap manufacturer who was murdered on the Lynn marshes April 11, for which murder William A. Dorr awaits trial at Salem, will be contested. Appearances have been entered in behalf of the granddaughter, Ruth E. Marsh of Nashua, N. H. The will was returnable for probate but the filing of these papers prevented anything being done until a hearing could be arranged and counsel notified.

The grounds for the contest are unknown, the granddaughter being a beneficiary to a considerable extent under the will, $10,000 being left in trust for her, and under certain contingencies a further sum being bequeathed for her benefit.

Allen's Son Tried

Wytheville, Va., May 22.—Claude S. Allen, youngest son of Floyd Allen, is on trial for the murder of Judge Thornton Massie. Judge D. W. Bien testified at Floyd Allen's trial that he saw Claude fire one of the shots which pierced Judge Massie.

MONTCLAIRITES' GREAT WORK

Improvement Asso. Accomplishing Much for Community

EVERYONE ENTHUSIASTIC

The annual meeting of the Montclair Improvement association was held at the home of the association at No. 12 Pope street, Montclair, on Wednesday evening, May 15th.

The Trustees' report showed exceptional progress made during the past year, including the acquiring of a modern, cement-building on a suitable lot as a home for the association, free from debt.

The secretary's report showed a number of improvements made in the district during the term, among them being the completion of the Montclair school, the widening and straightening of Squantum street, the placing of a number of electric street lamps, the introduction of gas, several additional trains and other matters tending to the bettering of conditions.

President Frederick J. Kessler, who has been at the head of the organization since its inception, and who has contributed largely to its success, declined re-election, and Ex-councilman Edward F. Parlee was elected.

Frank H. Byrne and Peter J. Dillon were re-elected, recording and financial secretary, respectively. B. B. Taylor was elected treasurer.

These four officers, with F. J. Kessler, S. M. Brown, J. P. McCabe from the board of trustees. A. M. Zottoli was chosen door-keeper.

The members of the association include fully seventy-five per cent of the residents of the district and prospects are bright for another successful year.

WOMAN'S BODY FOUND

Death by Strangulation by an Unknown Is All Now Known

Boston, May 22.—Charles Hopping, a waiter in a Bromfield street restaurant, was locked up in station 5, and later released, in connection with the death of Mrs. Lillian Jewar, whose murdered body was found in her suite in the Hotel Baldwin, he having proved an alibi.

Hopping has been very familiar with the woman for the past three years and, according to the story that was told Chief Dugan, was seen in her company last Friday night about 11:30 o'clock. Following an autopsy by Medical Examiner Leary, the murder is believed to have been committed about midnight on Friday.

According to Leary, the woman's death was caused by strangulation. Three large cuts were found in her head and a towel had been twisted around her neck.

The dead woman was born in Newfoundland. The police declared her husband, who was at first reported dead, is living.

By the release of Hopping the police have come to a standstill. They have no promising clues which will lead to the early arrest of the person who committed the crime. The police are now bending their energy in an effort to ascertain who the relatives of the dead woman are. Captain Driscoll learned yesterday from two women that she had talked of having a daughter 8 years old who is living in some town in Connecticut.

FINES ARE PAID

Detroit Players Do Not Personally Have to Stand the Loss

Philaedlphia, May 22.—After a session of over two hours, the American league magnates came to a decision on the question which arose out of the strike of the Detroit Baseball club. Ty Cobbs case remains in the same state—still under indefinite suspension.

The Detroit players are fined $100 each, which was paid by the club, and reinstated. The magnates adopted a resolution to the effect they would see in the future players on the ball fields are suitably protected from insults from the fans.

Secretary—Mrs. Paul E. Brodbeck
Custodian—Arthur W. Rohn
Executive Committee—Roy C. Baker, Mrs. Roy C. Baker, Miss Vera Horner, Jesse I. Litchfield, Irving L. Shaw, G. Ernest Carr, Mrs. G. Ernest Carr.

The annual reports of the secretary and other officers were read and accepted. Treasurer's report showed a handsome balance on hand after a substantial donation had been presented the Wollaston Unitarian society.

A pleasant evening with a program of music and readings was enjoyed. Miss Marion Moorhouse of Wollaston charmed her audience with 'cello solos, while the readings of Miss Rose Boynton of Arlington were well received.

Among the selctions of Miss Boynton were "Mrs. Hennessey at the Shoe Store," "The Story that took," and Kate Penoyer's Serenade."

Refreshments and a social hour closed the meeting which was the last to be held this season.

DANCE AND FIRE ATTRACTED

Those at the Rivet and Stud Co. Employees' Dance

The Employees of the Tubular Rivet and Stud Company held their first grand dance in Alpha hall Monday evening and the success of the venture was attested by the fact that more than 400 were in attendance.

Dancers were present from Brockton, Weymouth, Braintree, Milton and Neponset. Many organizations were lagrely represented, conspicuous among them being North Quincy A. C., Nonpareil Social club, Urbane Pleasure club, Bryant A. C., West End Associates, Mohawk A. C., Pastime A. C., Manet Social club, National Associates, Heptasophs, Y. F. K. Girls, Lilac Girls, Station Outing club, Aero club and Neponset Owls.

The music for the occasion was furnished by Provost's orchestra. Every dance was encored.

Intermission was held at ten o'clock during which some indulged in refreshments while others repaired to the fire on Penn street.

The floor was in charge of Thomas J. Kennedy. The assistant floor director was Miss Annie Morrill. John E. Byron was chief of aids and was ably assisted by the following corps:—William Canty, Nathaniel Freeman, Edward Durkin, Clement Melanson, Frank H. O'Brien, Misses Mae Delacy, Catherine M. Byron, Helen Donohue, and Ellen Delano.

TRIP THROUGH YELLOWSTONE

Gorham Dana Told Delighted Audience of Big National Park

FISH CAUGHT AND COOKED

A large number of the fair sex attended the ladies' night of the Men's club held in the vestry of St Chrysostom's church on Monday evning. A most interesting stereopticon lecture on "Yellowstone Park," by Gorham Dana of Brookline, manager of the Underwriters' Bureau of New England was enjoyed. The speaker had a series of excellent views which showed the beautiful mineral colorings that exist all through the park.

Starting his audience at the northern end of the park, Mr. Dana took them by the mammoth Hot Springs, past wild and rugged canyons, through Golden Gate to the cliffs of black glass and the Norris Geyser basin. Here some of these smaller geysers are in operation and many interesting views were shown. In the lower geyser basin is the Excelsior geyser, the largest in the world and with a range of 350 feet in the air. Old Faithful, the geyser that spouts forth every hour and many of the curious hot springs were described at length. Of Yellowstone lake the story was told of catching a fish in it and, without taking it off the hook, dropping it in another part of the lake where a hot spring rose and nicely cooking it. The Grand Canyon and the Falls were described, the entire lecture being of high interest.

During the evening Mrs. Spooner delightfully entertained those present with vocal solos. George A. Vibert presided.

Through the kindness of Mr. Holland, chairman of the entertainment committee the room was tastefully decorated with cut flowers.

Following the lecture a social hour was enjoyed and refreshments were served by the entertainment committee consisting of Arthur Holland, Theodore Parker and Percy L. Davidson.

FAVORS IN DISTANCE

The Customer and Not Jones, Made to "Pay the Freight"

Washington, May 22.—A novel method by which the manufacturer makes the consumer "pay the freight" has been discovered by the United States bureau of chemistry, and suit will be instituted as a result.

An olive oil concern in a large eastern city, it is said, has been giving full measure at home, but taking out just enough from the cans which were shipped away to pay the cost of shipment. At the farthest point 11 percent of the oil was taken out.

Presbyterians to Atlanta

Louisville, May 21.—Atlanta was selected as host for 1913 general assembly of the northern Presbyterian church.

—A dog sat out in the midnight chill and howled at the beaming moon; his knowledge of music was strictly nil and his voice was out of tune. And he howled and howled as the hours went by, while dodging the bricks we threw, 'til the moon was low in the western sky, and his voice was split in two. And there wasn't a thing at which to howl over which a pup should weep, and the course of the dog was wrong and foul, for people were wild to sleep. There are plenty of men like that blamed fool hound, who yell when there is nothing wrong, disturbing the country with senseless sound—the pessimist's doleful song.—Fairplay Flume.

PAUL J. REVERE POST No. 88, G.A.R.

GENERAL ORDER No. 1

In compliance with the laws of our order our established custom and general orders from headquarters, the comrades of this Post will observe Thursday the thirtieth day of May as Memorial Day.

Comrades: Let us observe this Memorial Day with sincere reverence and thoughtfulness, and bring our fairest blossoms to place on the last resting place of our departed comrades, and see that not a single soldier's grave be forgotten; and let the Flag, they so dearly loved wave over each. Let us conduct the services of the day in such a manner, that all lookers-on may be impressed with its sacredness, that they may cherish the memory of those who sacrificed their lives for their country.

ON SUNDAY, MAY 26th.

The Post will assemble at Headquarters at 9.30 A. M. in full uniform, for the purpose of attending divine service at the Park and Downs church, Rawson Road, Wollaston, Rev. William B. Ayers, Pastor. Paul J. Revere, Corps No. 103, John A. Boyd Camp No. 2, U. S. W. V.; Abner B. Packard Camp No. 95, Sons of Veterans and their auxiliaries, also all soldiers and sailors, and the public are cordially invited to attend this service. Cars leave City Square at 10 A. M.

The Principal and Teachers of the public schools of Quincy are respectfully requested to invite their pupils to bring flowers on the morning of May 29th and leave them at the school houses where they will be collected by the comrades, for the purpose of decorating the graves on May 30th. Kindly make them in small boquets.

MAY 30th. ORDERS OF THE DAY.

The Post will assemble at Headquarters in full uniform at 7 A. M.

Comrade Luther S. Parrott will proceed to Mt. Auburn and decorate the graves of Col. Paul J. Revere and comrade Samuel W. Spear.

The New Way The Old Way

The new way to cook is to turn on a little switch, apply a match and get a strong, hot, blue flame of gas that will cook anything for you. No fuss or bother, no coal or wood to carry, no overheated kitchen, no dirt--and the meal always on time. But with the old coal or wood stove—well, we hate to tell you. There is no comparison.

JOLLY CROWD OF SURPRISERS

Invade Home of Mr. and Mrs. Kay in Wollaston

Mr. and Mrs. Simpson Kay of Beale street, Wollaston, were most agreeably surprised on Tuesday evening, by a large delegation from the Royal Daughters and Wiggins classes of the Wollaston Methodist church.

At 7.30 a jolly crowd of about seventy met in the vestry and proceeded to the house in a body. Mr. and Mrs. Kay leave next week for the State of Washington and the affair took the form of a farewell party.

W. C. Saunders presented Mr. Kay with a fine umbrella in behalf of the Wiggins' class and Mrs. Kay was the recipient of a bouquet from Mrs. Wesley Wiggin, and a set of solid silver spoons from Mrs. J. A. Sedgwick in behalf of the Royal Daughters.

Ice cream, cake and fruit punch were served. Mr. and Mrs. Kay will visit in Canada on the way to their new home.

In charge of surprise was a committee composed of L. C. Merrill, Eric H. Ewertz, Rev. Wesley Wiggin, Mrs. J. A. Sedgwick, Miss Helen Euerle, and Mrs. T. N. Lane.

ATTENDED CHURCH CONVENTION

Among those who attended the opening reception, lunch and meeting of the American Unitarian association in Boston, Monday were Charles H. Johnson and Mrs. George G. Saville of the First church, Rev. and Mrs. Carl G. Horst, and Dr. Charles E. Adams of the Wollaston Unitarian church. The reception and supper was held in Kingsley hall, and was followed by a meeting in Ford hall at which reports were made by men in the field. The meeting was an exceptionally interesting one. Dr. Hudson of the First church was unable to be present at the opening session owing to another engagement but is attending today's session.

MUIRHEAD—LITTLE.

Miss Margaret Little formerly of Quincy, was married on Monday evening to Mr. Robert B. Muirhead of Quincy, by Rev. George E. Bicknell, at the home of her sister Mrs. Edith M. Everett, of Cambridge. Owing to the recent death of the bride's father, the ceremony was private, only the immediate families attending.

WOLCOTT BILL ENACTED

Minority Republicans Join With Democrats on Roll Call

Boston, May 22.—By a rollcall vote of 134 to 94 the house enacted the bill to rearrange the congressional districts of the state in accordance with the recommendations of the redistricting committee, headed by Representative Wolcott of Milton.

This bill gives the Republicans practically eleven districts and the Democrats five. An amendment to the Wolcott bill, placing Mansfield and North Attleboro in the Fall River district, Dartmouth in the New Bedford district and Rockland in the Brockton district, was adopted on a voice vote. This will not change the political complexion of any of the districts.

EVOLUTION WAS CONTEMPLATED

Government Alleges Plot to Blow Up San Diego, Cal.

INDUST. WORKERS OF WORLD

Federal Grand Jury Has Convened—Condition Exists Unknown to Outside World—Plot to Blow Up All Public Works—Three Caches of Dynamite Found—United States Government Takes Charge of Affairs

Los Angeles, May 22.—When the federal grand jury convened it began in earnest an investigation of the Industrial Workers of the World which will last for weeks and be nation-wide in scope. It is predicted by officials of the government that it will disclose that San Diego was selected as the ground for the organization to start, in their own words, "An evolution that would result in a revolution for the overthrow of the government."

Assistant United States Attorney Dudley Robinson, who has charge of the investigation, which is being conducted on orders from Washington, stated that a condition of affairs exists in San Diego of which the outside world knows nothing, practically, as all the evidence that has been collected by San Diego authorities, working in conjunction with federal authorities, has been reserved for the federal grand jury.

"The evidence which has been brought to my attention in an official manner," said Mr. Robinson, "discloses a state of affairs that is almost beyond comprehension. I have learned that a plot has been hatched in this city by the Industrial Workers of the World some time ago to march on San Diego, and when the full force was together they were to blow up the water works, the electric light plant, and the street railway simultaneously, and then start a free-for-all looting and pillaging. Three caches of dynamite have been found by secret service men in San Diego. The dynamite was hidden away for the purpose of blowing up these institutions. The plot was found out by the government secret service men in Los Angeles and frustrated. It is the purpose of the government to make a through investigation of the organization, and some of the acts of the ringleaders, or heads of the order, who, we have reason to believe, are now in hiding, at or near San Diego and directing affairs."

The officials of the department of justice of the United States government, acting under orders of President Taft, have concluded to take the investigation out of the hands of the city authorities of San Diego and those of the state. This is indicated in a resumption of activities at San Diego by United States secret service agents of Los Angeles. The telegram from the department of justice instructing the special agents to go to San Diego declared: "Important developements are at hand."

Police commissioner C. H. Delacour of San Diego received a letter threatening him with death if he did not organization's activities before the at once cease his efforts to bring the federal grand jury. The letter ends: "Yours for revolution. F. Garney."

INSPECTION OF THE RANGER

Governor and Party Make Annual Inspection and Enjoy Short Cruise

Boston, May 22.—Aboard the Massachusetts nautical training school ship Ranger 104 cadets have been busy making the vessel spick and span in preparation for inspection this afternoon by Governor Foss and the nautical training school commissioners. The party left Driscoll's landing at the foot of State street at noon on a tug which transported them to the Ranger. First the vessel was inspected and after luncheon anchor was hoisted and the Ranger sailed into the bay. During the short trip the cadets went through various drills, including sail, lifeboat and life saving.

On May 28 the Ranger will start on her annual foreign cruise. Meantime the cadets will be given liberty to visit their homes to bid goodby to parents and friends.

S. . R. ELECTION

General Richardson Made President and Officers Chosen Unanimously

Boston, May 22.—General Richardson of Cleveland was unanimously elected president general of the National Society of the Sons of the American Revolution at the closing business session of the twenty-third annual congress in Faneuil hall. He succeeds Dr. Moses G. Parker of Lowell.

The vice presidents elected are E. S. Crandon of Cambridge, Major H. V. A. Joslyn of Providence, N. B. Woodworth of Syracuse, N. Y., Hon. A. B. Cole of St. Louis and O. D. Baldwin of San Francisco. All other offices were filled by unanimous re-election of incumbents.

The KITCHEN CUPBOARD

HOW TO MAKE CLAM CHOWDER.

THE early settlers in this country are believed to have borrowed their skill in making chowders from the French.

These hodgepodges are supposed to have originated in the province of Brittany, where the fisher folks at public gatherings each brought his or her contribution to the general caldron and when the food was cooked received a share in his dish.

An Elaborate Chowder.

Clam Chowder With Eggs.—Take about a dozen large clams. The little neck variety is preferred. Scrub the shells before you place them in the kettle on the fire. Cover these with a quart of boiling water. When the clams open take from the fire and set aside the water in which they have been.

Chop fine five ounces of salt pork and four thinly sliced potatoes. Put the pork into the kettle and, after cooking a little, add some strained water, the juice of the clams, then the potatoes and three onions sliced thin. Let these simmer for an hour and a quarter and add a quart of milk, which should simmer for a quarter of an hour before the clams are added.

A Hodge Podge.

Clam Chowder and Veal.—Take four dozen clams, a pound of veal, a half pound bacon, one pint stewed tomatoes, one pint water, one pint milk, six water crackers and three potatoes. Line the bottom of the saucepan with the bacon cut into dice.

Pare and cut potatoes into dice; cut the veal into small pieces; chop the clams; mash the crackers.

Put a layer of potatoes on the bacon, then a layer of veal, then tomatoes, then clams. Alternate these layers until the clams are all used. Add the water boiling hot. Cover and simmer over a slow fire for half an hour.

Then add the milk and crackers; cook ten minutes; serve hot. Salt and pepper to taste.

A Baked Chowder.

Baked Clam Chowder.—Take a pint of raw clams, chopped fine, three potatoes, one onion and three crackers rolled fine. Fry about a quarter of a pound of fat pork until brown and then chop fine. Put the pork and the fat from it in the vessel in which the chowder is to be made. Then put in a layer of cracker crumbs, the shreds of potato and a little onion. Add bits of butter, dashes of pepper and salt, then a layer of clams. Alternate in this manner until the ingredients are used, finishing with cracker crumbs. Cover with clam broth and milk. Put in a pan of hot water and bake three hours. Serve hot.

RICHESON'S BODY IS UNCLAIMED

An Autopsy Showed Deceased's Brain a Normal Structure

Boston, May 22.—Douglas Richeson, according to a report yesterday, has declined to claim the body of his brother, Clarence V. T. Richeson. He left town on an early train today, without the body.

As a result there will be a conference at the office of Attorney William A. Morse, at which Louise V. Richeson, the oldest sister, is to be consulted.

Before his death Richeson requested that his body be laid at rest beside that of his mother at the grave yard at Amherst, Va. Miss Richeson was expected to arrive in Boston early this morning. Then Attorney Morse will send a long telegram to Thomas V. Richeson, the father, requesting that he receive the body. Unless a legal claimant appears for the body it will be buried by the state.

An autopsy was performed on the body of Richeson, according to law. Dr. George B. Magrath, who performed the autopsy, said that the brain of Richeson was of normal structure. This would have no bearing as to his sanity, as only one form of insanity, paresis, affects the brain structure.

"I forgive Mr. Richeson for this dreadful thing, for it is my firm belief that he went to the electric chair an insane man and that he has been mentally irresponsible for some time past," were the simple words of forgiveness uttered by Mrs. Edgar Linnell, mother of the girl for whose death Clarence V. T. Richeson was executed yesterday morning, when informed that the sentence of the law had been carried out.

The Wreck of the Titan

SYNOPSIS

The great steamer Titan, supposed to be unsinkable, starts across the Atlantic. Rowland, once a lieutenant, now a common sailor, meets his old love Myra. She is with her husband and child.

The Titan cuts a ship in two, and her captain endeavors to conceal the crime. Rowland objects. The captain gives him whisky, so that he will be discredited. Myra accuses him of attempting to murder her child.

Rowland is drugged by the captain's order and is then given the starboard bridge lookout, so that he will disgrace himself. Myra's child steals away and joins Rowland.

The Titan strikes an iceberg and sinks. Thousands are lost. Myra escapes in a boat. Rowland and the child find refuge on the iceberg. He loses an arm in a fight with a polar bear.

Rowland, who has been an atheist, prays for help, and he and the child are rescued. Meyer, a marine insurance man, is heavily hit by the loss of the Titan and the Royal Age.

Meyer will be ruined if the Titan insurance is paid, and Selfridge, little Myra's grandfather, will be ruined if it is not paid. Meyer finds Rowland and relies upon his story to break the insurance policies. Rowland's story helps him.

"You infernal lying scoundrel!" roared Captain Bryce. He strode toward Rowland with threatening face. Halfway he was stopped by the impact of a huge brown fist, which sent him reeling and staggering across the room toward Mr. Selfridge and the child, over whom he floundered to the floor a disheveled heap, while the big Captain Barry examined teeth marks on his knuckles, and every one else sprang to his feet.

He Was Stopped by the Impact of a Huge Brown Fist.

"I told you to look out," said Captain Barry. "Treat my friend respectfully." He glared steadily at the first officer, as though inviting him to duplicate the offense. But that gentleman backed away from him and assisted the dazed Captain Bryce to a chair, where he felt of his loosened teeth, spat blood upon Mr. Meyer's floor and gradually awakened to a realization of the fact that he had been knocked down—and by an American.

CHAPTER VII.

A Tale of Hasheesh.

LITTLE Myra, unhurt, but badly frightened, began to cry and call for Rowland in her own way, to the wonder and somewhat to the scandal of the gentle old man who was endeavoring to soothe her.

"Dammy!" she cried, as she struggled to go to him. "I want Dammy—Dammy—Da-a-may!"

"Oh, what a pad little girl," said the jocular Mr. Meyer, looking down on her. "Where did you learn such language?"

"It is my nickname," said Rowland, smiling in spite of himself. "She has coined the word," he explained to the agitated Mr. Selfridge, who had not yet comprehended what had happened, "and I have not yet been able to persuade her to drop it—and I could not be harsh with her. Let me take her, sir." He seated himself, with the child, who nestled up to him contentedly and soon was tranquil.

"Now, my friend," said Mr. Meyer, "you must tell us about this drugging." Then, while Captain Bryce, under the memory of the blow he had received, nursed himself into an insane fury and Mr. Austen, with his hand resting lightly on the captain's shoulder ready to restrain him, listened to the story, and the attorney drew up a chair and took notes of the story, and Mr. Selfridge drew his chair close to Myra and paid no attention to the story at all, Rowland recited the events prior to and succeeding the shipwreck. Beginning with the finding of the whisky in his pocket, he told of his being called to the starboard bridge lookout in place of the rightful incumbent, of the sudden and strange interest Mr. Austen displayed as to his knowledge of navigation, of the pain in his stomach, the frightful shapes he had seen on the deck beneath and the sensations of his dream, leaving out only the part which bore on the woman he loved; he told of the sleep walking child which awakened him, of the crash of ice and instant wreck and the fixed condition of his eyes, which prevented their focusing only at a certain distance, finishing his story—to explain his empty sleeve—with a graphic account of the fight with the bear.

"And I have studied it all out," he said in conclusion. "I was drugged, I believe, with hasheesh, which makes a man see strange things, and brought up on the bridge lookout, where I could be watched and my ravings listened to and recorded for the sole purpose of discrediting my threatened testimony in regard to the collision of the night before. But I was only half drugged, as I spilled part of my tea at supper. In that tea, I am positive, was the hasheesh."

"You know all about it, don't you?" snarled Captain Bryce from his chair. "'Twas not hasheesh; 'twas an infusion of Indian hemp. You don't know"—

"Heart failure," said Rowland.

Mr. Austen's hand closed over his mouth, and he subsided.

"Self convicted," said Rowland with a quiet laugh. "Hasheesh is made from Indian hemp."

"You hear this, gentlemen!" exclaimed Mr. Meyer, springing to his feet and facing everybody in turn. He pounced on Captain Barry. "You hear this confession, captain—you hear him say Indian hemp? I have a witness now, Mr. Thompson. Go right on with your suit. You hear him, Captain Barry. You are disinterested. You are a witness. You hear?"

"Yes, I heard it—the murdering scoundrel!" said the captain.

Mr. Meyer danced up and down in his joy, while the attorney, pocketing his notes, remarked to the discomfited Captain Bryce, "You are the poorest fool I know," and left the office.

Then Mr. Meyer calmed himself and, facing the two steamship officers, said slowly and impressively, while he poked his forefinger almost into their faces:

"England is a fine country, my friends—a fine country to leave behind sometimes. Dere is Canada and der United States and Australia and South Africa—all fine countries, too—fine countries to go to with new names. My friends, you will be bulletined and listed at Lloyd's in less than half an hour, and you will never again sail under der English flag as officers. And, my friends, let me say that in half an hour after you are bulletined an Scotland Yard will be looking for you, but my door is not locked."

Silently they arose, pale, shame-faced and crushed, and went out the door, through the outer office and into the street.

Mr. Selfridge had begun to take an interest in the proceedings. As the two men passed out he arose and asked:

"Have you reached a settlement, Mr. Meyer? Will the insurance be paid?"

"No!" roared the underwriter in the ear of the puzzled old gentleman, while he clapped him vigorously on the back. "It will not be paid. You or I must have been ruined, Mr. Selfridge, and it has settled on you. I do not bay der Titan's insurance, nor will der other insurers. On der contrary, as der collision clause in der policy is void with der rest, your company must reimburse me for der insurance which I must bay to der Royal Age owners—that is, unless our good friend here, Mr. Rowland, who was on der lookout at der time, will swear that her lights were out."

"Not at all," said Rowland. "Her lights were burning. Look to the old gentleman!" he exclaimed. "Look out for him! Catch him!"

Mr. Selfridge was stumbling toward a chair. He grasped it, loosened his hold and before any one could reach him fell to the floor, where he lay with ashen lips and rolling eyes, gasping convulsively.

"Heart failure," said Rowland as he knelt by his side. "Send for a doctor."

"Send for a doctor," repeated Mr. Meyer through the door to his clerks, "and send for a carriage. Quick! I don't want him to die in der office."

Captain Barry lifted the helpless figure to a couch, and they watched, while the convulsions grew easier, the breath shorter and the lips from ashen gray to blue. Before a doctor or carriage had come he had passed away.

"Sudden emotion of some kind," said the doctor when he did arrive. "Violent emotion too. Hear bad news?"

"Bad and good," answered the underwriter—"good in learning that this dear little girl was his granddaughter; bad in learning that he was a ruined man. He was der heaviest stockholder in der Titan. One hundred thousand pounds he owned of der stock, all of which this poor, dear little child will not get." Mr. Meyer looked sorrowful as he patted Myra on the head.

Captain Barry beckoned to Rowland, who, slightly flushed, was standing by the still figure on the couch and watching the face of Mr. Meyer, on which annoyance, jubilation and simulated shock could be seen in turn.

"Wait," he said as he turned to watch the doctor leave the room. "Is this so, Mr. Meyer," he added to the underwriter, "that Mr. Selfridge owned Titan stock and would have been ruined had he lived by the loss of the insurance money?"

"Yes; he would have been a poor man. He had invested his last farthing—£100,000. And if he had left any more it would be assessed to make good his share of what der company must bay for der Royal Age, which I also insured."

"Was there a collision clause in the Titan's policy?"

"Dere was."

"And you took the risk, knowing that she was to run the northern lane at full speed through fog and snow?"

"I did. So did others."

"Then, Mr. Meyer, it remains for me to tell you that the insurance on the Titan will be paid, as well as any liabilities included in and specified by the collision clause in the policy. In short, I, the one man who can prevent it, refuse to testify."

"Vhi-a-t?"

Mr. Meyer grasped the back of the chair and, leaning over it, stared at Rowland.

"You will not testify? Vhat you mean?"

"What I said, and I do not feel called upon to give you my reasons, Mr. Meyer."

"My good friend," said the underwriter, advancing with outstretched hands to Rowland, who backed away and, taking Myra by the hand, moved toward the door. Mr. Meyer sprang ahead, locked it and removed the key and faced them.

"Oh, mine goot Gott," he shouted, relapsing in his excitement into more pronounced dialect, "vhat I do to you, hey? Vhy you go pack on me, hey? Haf I not bay der doctor's bill? Haf I not bay for der carriage? Haf I not treat you like one shentleman? Haf I not, hey? I sit you down in mine office and call you Mr. Rowland. Haf I not been one shentleman?"

"Open that door," said Rowland quietly.

"Yes, open it," repeated Captain Barry, his puzzled face clearing at the prospect of action on his part. "Open it or I'll kick it down."

"But you, mine friend, heard der admission of der captain of der drugging. One goot witness will do. Two is petter. But you will swear, mine friend. You will not ruin me."

"I stand by Rowland," said the captain grimly. "I don't remember what was said anyhow. Got a blamed bad memory. Get away from that door."

Grievous lamentation, weepings and wailings and the most genuine gnashing of teeth, interspersed with the feebler cries of the frightened Myra and punctuated by terse commands in regard to the door, filled that private office to the wonder of the clerks without and ended at last with the crashing of the door from its hinges.

NEGRO UPRISING SERIOUS IN CUBA

Armed Bands Operating In Various Parts of Country

DEMONSTRATION IS SPREADING

Objectionable Features of Morua Law Caused the Trouble—Strong Bands of Negroes Over the Country—Simultaneous Attacks Had Been Planned, but Failed

Havana, May 22.—Negroes in all parts of Cuba are rising against the authority of the government. Scattered uprisings are reported from various districts, and troops are being rushed to the points of the disturbance.

Twelve hundred men of all arms already have been dispatched from Havana by train.

A strong band of negroes assaulted the barrack of the rural guards at Manguito near Guantanamo in the province of Oriente, but the rural guards were able to offer a successful defense although they last two killed. The loss of the negroes has not been ascertained.

General Estenoz, the leader of the negro party, who jumped his bail here some days ago on a minor offense and later bobbed up in Santiago, is being sought. So far he has succeeded in eluding the authorities. His watchword is "Down with the Morua law. Viva the negro race."

The Morua law was passed in 1909 when Estenoz started the negro party and was jailed for conspiracy. The law forbids the organization of parties on racial lines. The negroes are pointing out that they made up 85 percent of Cuba's revolutionary armies and demand a commensurate share of the jobs.

The conspirators planned simultaneous attacks at nightfall on all the rural posts through the island, but they were disconcerted by the discovery of the plot. The movement will probably be quickly suppressed.

With the exception of Estenoz, the only prominent man concerned so far mentioned is General Ivonet, who made a speech the other day saying that he was like General Weyler, a merciless man of the sword, and did not know diplomacy.

General Monteagudo, commanding the armed forces, is reported to have ordered the rurales not to take any prisoners, this meaning sure death to those caught.

Santiago, May 22.—Great unrest prevails and there is grave apprehension throughout this vicinity. It is reported that a party of armed negroes has passed through the town of Siboney, near the coast, with a number of horses stolen from an American citizen.

Many of the longshoremen on strike are missing and it is reported they have joined the armed parties in the field.

Washington, May 22.—Reports that the Cuban government has found it necessary to arrest members of the Independent Party of Color have been confirmed by state department advices with additional information that the leader of the party, General Estenoz, had eluded arrest.

who took home another box of Interwoven Socks the other night his wife said :

"Why should men get the best of everything? Now, I can't buy stockings that are as good as my husband's Interwoven Socks."

That's not surprising when you know the reason.

The only machines in existence which can properly wear-proof hosiery at every point of wear are in the Interwoven Mills. And they make only men's socks.

The toe, heel, sole and ankle of an Interwoven Sock are equipped with a wonderful wear-resisting fabric, which makes it the one light sock that really wears. 25c, 35c, 50c.

SENIORS MAKE GREAT RECORD

Meet of Woodward Four Consecutive Years

The Seniors of Woodward Institute by winning the annual meet held Saturday at Merrymount Park, established a record that bids fair to remain a long time before being put in the shade. As freshmen, sophomores, juniors and seniors they have carried off first honors at the meets held during the past four years. No other class has won for two consecutive years.

NEW COURT ROOM OPENS THURSDAY

The new court building on Coddington street will be occupied by the district court for the first time Thursday morning. Today the court officials are busy moving to the new quarters and it is now planned that the court will open at 9.30 tomorrow morning, in the new building. A that hour Judge Albert E. Avery will enter the court room from his private office accompanied by Rev. Robert H. Corcoran, pastor of the First Union Congregational church of Weymouth and Braintree, who will offer a brief prayer. Brief remarks will also be made by Judge Avery, and probably by Hon. John F. Merrill, chairman of the County Commissioners of Norfolk County. The first case, if there be any will then be called.

The last case to be called in the old court room was that of Guiseppe Ranalli for assault on Michelina Febbe, and Frank A. Tirrell, Esq., appeared as counsel in this the last criminal case to be heard.

GEORGE S. WILSON GIVEN EMBLEM

Before Departure for Land of the Bonnie Heather

SURPRISED BY LODGE FRIENDS

A farewell party was tendered George S. Wilson, Tuesday evening at the home of John Davidson, 22 Newcomb Place, by members of Fore River Lodge, I. O. O. F., M. U. Mr. Wilson will depart Saturday for his home in Scotland.

In behalf of the number present, Grand Master William McLay presented Mr. Wilson with a souvenir emblematic of the order, at the same time voicing the well wishes of the entire party.

Mr. Wilson responded very feelingly in accepting the gift and said that while across the water he would always entertain a deep affection in his heart for those whom he knew on this side.

The evening was pleasantly spent and refreshments were served.

Mr. Wilson who is at present Noble Grand, has held every office of Fore River Lodge.

POSTAL SERVICE FULL OF DETAIL

Supt. Hammond Tells Odd Fellows of the Work

Supt. Charles L. Hammond of the Quincy post office gave an interesting talk Tuesday evening before Mt. Wollaston lodge of Odd Fellows on the detail work of handling Uncle Sam's mail. He told how mails were received, and how made up for dispatch to the different points, and a vast amount of detail work that was necessary, of which the general public knew little, but which was necessary, and it was owing to this detail work that the service was so excellent. He also spoke of wha he was trying to do for the business men of the city and of the deliveries of mail in the business sections of the city. Also of the fact that mail dispatched from the Quincy office on the 11 o'clock P. M. train for Boston directed to New York would be delivered in that city by the first delivery the next morning.

He also spoke of the growth of the post office business in Quincy and how the department had grown and increased its facilities as the city had grown and developed thus keeping pace with the advance of the city.

In addition to this he told of some of the things which the business men do to facilitate in the handling of mails, and that any complaints as to service would be gladly received and acted upon.

At the close of the lecture, a collation was served. The affair was under the direction of the entertainment committee.

MORTGAGEE'S SALE.

By virtue of the power of sale contained in a certain mortgage deed given by Leo A. Dalton and Madeline R. BEAN'S LEFT LEG BROKEN BY CRANE

It Was Miraculous His Leg Was Not Severed

RESTING COMFORTABLY

Byan M. Bean, 23 years, of Old Colony avenue, had his left leg broken below the knee while at work Tuesday afternoon at the Fore River Shipyards. According to workmen who were near the scene of the accident, Bean got his foot caught in a travelling crane. The machine was revolving at a fast rate of speed and it was nothing short of miraculous that Bean's leg was not severed.

Bean was taken to the yard hospital Dr. William H. Blanchard ordered his removal to the Quincy hospiatl. At the hospital it was given out today that Bean's condition was very comfortable.

ROBBED MONEY RINGS AND BAG

Servant Girl Assailed at the Entrance to Her Home

DELAYED IN TELLING POLICE

Miss Catherine Tierney, a maid employed in the family of James H. Penniman of 853 Hancock street, Wollaston reported to the police Tuesday that she had been robbed, as she was about to enter her employer's yard a few nights ago. She said that as she was about to turn from Hancock street, into the long driveway leading to the house, a well dressed man jumped from behind a tree and placing one hand over her mouth, broke her hold on a chatelaine bag and made off with it before she could make any outcriy. She claimed that in the bag at the time there was $8 in money, seven rings valued at $160 and the bag itself was valued at $3. She gave the police a description of the rings and the bag and Lieut. McKay was detailed to see if he could find them in any of the Boston pawn shops. The fact that the girl delayed several days before reporting the matter to the police, will handicap them somewhat in tracing the missing property.

DISTRICT COURT

Judge Avery presided at the district court today.

George Soul, Peter Lemner, Jeremiah McCarty were fined each $3 for drunkenness at Quincy.

Clarence P. Baxter was fined $10 for exceeding the automodile speed limit at Milton.

Charles Sampson of Houghs Neck was fined $20 for neglecting to send his children to school.

Assyrian Healing.

Some of the medical treatises of ancient Assyria are models of simplicity, and we cannot doubt the effectiveness of their prescriptions. Thus we are told that if a man has colic we should "make him crouch down on his heels and pour cold water over his head." That ought to cure colic if only the water is cold enough. Again, "When a man is bilious rub him with an onion and let him drink nothing but water and abstain from food altogether." The onion part is probably decorative. At least it can do no harm, while the abstention from food is salutary in the extreme, even for those who are not very bilious. But if a man is in "a weak state" why should it benefit him to "strike him on the head fourteen times with your thumb?" This is suggestive of faith healing.

WATCH THEM RUN BASES

Members of Quincy police, headed by Chief Burrell, himself a ball tosser of much note, has applied for admission in the Massachusetts Policemen's baseball league. Action on the application will be taken at the next meeting to be held Friday evening. John C. Duffy is manager of the Quincy team and is especially desirous of becoming affiliated with the league, inasmuch as he feels that the Quincy players have no peers among the "cops" of Massachusetts in this department of athletics.

HAIL STONES FELL TUESDAY

Quincy Visited By Three Distinct Severe Storms

A very severe thunder and lightning storm passed over Quincy Tuesday afternoon, and another one late in the evening. The afternoon storm came shortly before 6 o'clock, and was accompanied by a severe hail storm and with heavy peals of thunder and vivid flashes of lightning. The rain fell in torrents but did little or no damage to the streets. Again at 10 o'clock in the evening there was a heavy down pour of rain accompanied by thunder and lightning, but no damage has been reported to the Commissioner. There was also a heavy fall of rain in the forenoon.

BRIEFS

Arsenic Eaters.

The average Englishman has a horror of arsenic, but the peasantry in Austria-Hungary and other parts of eastern Europe eat it habitually, believing that it gives plumpness and beauty to the figure and longness of breath. Peddlers sell white arsenic about the countryside quite without restriction. The quantities taken are small, and so long as the doses are regular no illness results. Once they are stopped, however, symptoms of arsenical poisoning at once become manifest. Mountaineers in eastern Europe often take a dose of arsenic before commencing a climb, and it is also customary to give it to horses and dogs to give brightness and gloss to their skins.—London Chronicle.

GRAMMAR BOYS PLAY GOOD BALL

Gridley Bryant, Adams, and Lincoln Winners Monday

QUINN A VETERAN OUT

Gridley Bryant defeated the Massachusetts Fields school at Merrymount Park Monday afternoon, by a score of 3 to 1. Saville pitched his first game for Gridley Bryant, and did well. Quinn was out having reached the age limit 16 years. The losers had a fine chance to tie the score in the fourth inning when they had three players on bases, with only one out. But a fine double play, executed by the West Quincy boys prevented any scoring Fitzgerald played a fine game in the field for the winners.

Fast base running, which allowed the Adams school to come across the plate with two runs in the fourth inning, caused the Washington school to suffer a 5 to 4 defeat at Merrymount Park yesterday in one of the most interesting games of the Grammar school league this season. The losing team was leading 3 to 2 in the third inning, but after that failed to do any scoring. Swain was very effective for the winners and allowed only three hits. The score by innings:

Innings	1	2	3	4	5	6
Adams	3	0	0	2	0	0—1
Washington	2	1	1	0	0	0—4

Batteries—Swain and Byron, Gurney and McKenna.

A home run by Burnham saved Atherton Hough school from being whitewashed at Merrymount Park, Monday by the Lincoln school, the leader in the Grammar school league. The score was 6 to 1, the Lincoln boys displaying superior work in every department of play. McIntyre and Costa, both members of the winning team were conspicuous with the willow, the former hitting for two bases and the latter for three. The score by innings:

Innings	1	2	3	4	5	6
Lincoln	0	2	0	1	3	x—1
Atherton Hough	0	0	0	0	0	1—4

GRAMMAR BOYS FIGHTING IT OUT

Willards, Quincy and Wollaston the Winners Tuesday

The Willard school players found little trouble in fathoming the delivery of Cheverie and thus defeated the Coddington school, 8 to 1, Tuesday afternoon on the Water street grounds. The West Quincy players made two runs in the opening inning on hits by Bailer and Milford and an error by Johnson. In the second inning three runs were tallied on a single, a double by Milford and a base on balls. Errors by Whittemore and Geddes allowed a ru in the third, while their last two runs were made on hits, aided by errors.

The Coddington school boys scored in the second inning, when an error by Eagan, followed by a two base hit by Geddes, saved them from a whitewash.

The score by innings:

	1	2	3	4	5	6—R	H	E
Willard	2	3	1	0	2	x—8	10	2
Coddington	0	1	0	0	0	0—1	3	5

Batteries: Willard—Eagen and Hodge. Coddington— Cheverie and Geddes.

After being blanked for five innings the John Hancock school team made a strenuous effort to tie the score, but three runs were the most they were able to get and consequently were beaten 4 to 3, by the Quincy school park. In the third inning the losers had three players on bases, with only one out, but a fast double play by the Quincy boys prevented any runs crossing the plate.

Gnong was in the points for the winners, and allowed his opponents three hits, striking out eight. Jacobson also pitched well, but had poor support.

The score by innings:

	1	2	3	4	5	6—R	H	E
Quincy	0	0	3	1	0	x—4	6	2
John Hancock,	0	0	0	0	0	3—3	3	4

Batteries: Quincy—Gnong and Mc Nally. John Hancock— Jacobsen and Imray.

In a game that proved nothing more than a swatting fest, Wollaston school defeated the Cranch nine 16 to 3, Tuesday afternoon at Merrymount Park. In the fourth inning the winners made nine runs, every player crossing the plate. This is a feature that has not been contributed in a grammar school game this season and the score was the largest that has yet been made. Isbester, the Wollaston twirler, had the Cranch boys at his mercy throughout the game, retiring seven on strikes and allowing but one hit. Arbuckle was touched up for end hits and in addition was given poor support.

The score by innings:—

	1	2	3	4	5	6—R	H	E
Wollaston	2	0	0	9	3	2—16	10	2
Cranch	1	0	0	0	0	2— 3	1	6

Batteries: Wollaston—Isbester and Hamlin. Cranch—Arbuckle and Asklund.

TO OPEN SEASON.

The Quincy Yacht club will open the season of 1912 with a club race over the usual club course, Saturday afternoon. Three classes will start. The first gun will be fired at 2.45 o'clock, the preparatory gun at 2.50, and the starting gun for class D, at 2.55. The second class will be sent away at 3 o'clock, and the Sonder class boats five minutes later.

SENATOR CRANE OUT OF CONTEST

Announces the Field Is Open to All Ambitious

Washington, May 22.—Senator Winthrop M. Crane of Massachusetts announces that he will not be a candidate for re-election to the United States senate before the primaries in his state next autumn.

His statement follows:

"Some months ago I definitely decided not to become a candidate for re-election as United States senator, but I intended to defer making a statement to that effect until after the Republican national convention. There is, however, a proposition pending in the Massachusetts legislature for the nomination of United States senators substantiallyl similar to the existing law relating to the nominations of candidates for the presidency, representatives in congress and state elective offices. If this proposed law is enacted, a much earlier campaign for this office will be necessary and I therefore make known my position at this time in order that those who may be interested in becoming candidates may have the fullest opportunity to have their candidacies considered.

"In making public my decision not to become a candidate again I wish to assure the people of Massachusetts of my deep appreciation of the loyal support and confidence which they have always given me."

Senator Crane's term in the senate expires March 3 next. He was appointed to the United States senate on Oct. 12, 1904, to fill the vacancy caused by the death of Senator Hoar, and took his seat in December of the same year. He was elected by the legislature in January, 1905, to fill out the term, and was re-elected to serve the full term of six years in 1906.

QUINCY COURT FORTY YEARS OLD, NEW BUILDING TO BE DEDICATED

Elaborate Program With Many Brilliant Speakers Will Mark the Occasion

The City the Home of Two Chief Justices of Massachusetts

Invitations were issued this week by the Justice of the District Court of East Norfolk for the dedicatory exercises at the new court building in Quincy which are to be held Saturday afternoon at 2 o'clock, June 1. In addition to the dedicatory exercises an added interest to the affair will be the celebration of the fortieth anniversary of the establishment of a court in Quincy.

Plans for the celebration are now well under way and from the fact that upwards of three hundred invitations have been issued, a large attendance is assured. A still further interest is the fact, perhaps not generally known, that Quincy was the home of two Chief Justices of the Commonwealth of Massachusetts. The first of these was President John Adams, who was the first Chief Justice of the Superior Court of Judicature and the Supreme Judicial Court of Massachusetts since the revolution, and who was appointed in 1776, but who however never took his seat on the bench, owing to other events which arose during that period which caused him to resign. The second member of the Supreme bench from Quincy was Hon. George Tyler Bigelow who was appointed in 1868 and resigned in 1878.

Rev. Dr. Adelbert L. Hudson, pastor of the First church, and who at one time was a member of the bar, will be the chaplain of the day and will make the opening prayer.

Hon. Everett C. Bumpus, a former judge of this court and a resident of Quincy will give a historical address, covering the forty years of the court in Quincy, and an address of congratulation from the District Court Justice Association of Eastern Massachusetts, will be made by Hon. Frank A. Milliken, judge of the third Bristol District Court at New Bedford and President of the Eastern Massachusetts District Court Justices Association.

The dedicatory address will be given by John W. McAnarney, City Solicitor of the City of Quincy.

It is also expected that Chief Justice Arthur Prentice Rugg, Chief Justice John Adams Aiken, and Superior Court Justice John Henry Hardy, will be present, and if so will make brief addresses, while Hon. Asa P. French, United States District Attorney and President of the Norfolk Bar Association will also speak, as will Mayor Eugene R. Stone of Quincy and Hon. John F. Merrill chairman of the Norfolk County commissioners and others.

The new building will be open for inspection at 2 o'clock and it is expected that the speaking will commence at 2.30.

CORPS TO HONOR SAILOR DEAD

Services to be Held at Water's Edge Saturday

PLANS OF RELIEF CORPS

Memorial services for "sailor soldier dead" will be held Saturday afternoon at 6 o'clock at the water's edge on River street, by Paul Revere Corps, 103, W. R. C. and Mrs. Eliza A. Penniman patriotic instructor will be in charge.

Sunday the corps will attend divine service at the Park and Downs church, Wollaston Park.

Monday, Mrs. Idilla I. Savage and assistants will place wreaths on deceased members' graves.

Wednesday, a delegation from the Corps will attend Patriotic exercises in the schools, also meet at Faxon hall to arrange the flowers for Memorial day.

Thursday the dinner will be in charge of Mrs. Anna J. Gould, assisted by W. R. C. Ladies Auxiliary to the S. of V. and Ladies' Auxiliary to S. W. V. At 2.30 the corps will attend services at the Soldiers' monument after which the corps will assemble at the Grand Army lot where services will be held in memory of the "unknown dead."

CHILDREN'S SUNDAY.

Floral Sunday will be observed by the First Church and Sunday School on Sunday, June 9, 1912. Persons having children to be christened will please send the names to Mr. Hudson or to Mr. C. H. Johnson, Supt. of Sunday school.

FIRST CHURCH MEN'S CLUB SURE

Monthly Suppers and Informal Talks Planned

MEMBERSHIP LIMIT 200

The success of the Men's club being formed in the First church is assured. At a meeting held this week it was found that up to the present time over 160 have signed the papers to become members of the club, and there are still others who will become affiliated. At this meeting it was decided that in view of the limited quarters that the membership should be limited to 200. It is thought that no trouble will be experienced in reaching that membership. It has been decided to call a meeting of the signers early in June at which time the club will organize and officers will be elected. The committee appointed to draw up suitable by-laws will also report at this meeting.

As now planned the club will hold seven meetings during the season. These will probably be held on the second Tuesday evening of each month. A hot supper will be served at 6.30. By this arrangement members may come to the dinner directly from their business, as informal or business dress will be the rule. After dinner, and cigars lighted, the members will listen to an informal talk by some well known speaker. An air of informality will prevail at all of the meetings, the plans being along the same lines as the Unitarian club of Wollaston which is such a social success.

FORESTERS THANK DUGGAN

Quincy Man Remembered For Faithful Service

A rising vote of thanks was tendered Cornelius M. Duggan, of Quincy, retiring High Chief Ranger of the Massachusetts Catholic Order of Foresters, by the delegates of the order assembled in convention at Ford Hall, Boston, Wednesday.

He responded feelingly and thanked those present for the assistance rendered him in his five years' service on the high standing committee and one year as High Chief Ranger. James Dignan, of New Bedford, was elected High Chief ranger for the current year.

Former Mayor William T. Shea addressed the delegates. The delegates will take a trip down Boston Harbor this afternoon.

UNIQUE MENU AT PINK TEA

Dianthus Club of Atlantic Carried Out Original Ideas

SUMMER ACTIVITIES PLANNED

The Dianthus club of Atlantic were entertained at the home of Mrs. B. Pray, Walker street, Tuesday afternoon by the prize committee which served gentlemen's night, Mrs. Smith, Mrs. Walter Hill and Mrs. B. Pray, who comprise this committee had planned a Pink Tea to be served at 12.30 o'clock. The dining room which had been darkened presented a very pretty sight when the lights were thrown on, the color scheme being pink throughout. Carnations were at each plate and the napkins and decorations were all suggestive of the occasion, large pink T's being in abundance.

The menu was unique in itself, the first letters of the lines spelling "Dianthus Club." For D, the first letter Dandy Start was served, this being a delicious vegetable salad. For I, inexpensive drink water, for A, a hard problem, rolls, etc., the whole menu being as follows:—

D andy Start, Vegetable Salad, I nexpensive Drink, Water, A hard Problem, Rolls, N ature's Grease, Butter, T rifles, Olives, H ard tack, Crackers, U. S. A., Cheese, S uccess in making Coffee, C ombination, Candy, L ove's Token, Kisses, U nlike the others, Salted Peanuts, B efore you leave, try me, Toothpicks.

The latter part of the afternoon was spent playing whist, for which souvenirs were awarded, they being won by Mrs. William I. Hartley of Appleton street, Mrs. Smith of Newbury avenue, and Mrs. Walter Hill of Clive street.

The ladies enjoyed the afternoon immensely, especially the Pink Tea which will not be forgotten very soon. The committee certainly did well and the club members all agree that it was a great success.

The next meeting will be in charge of Mrs. William I. Hartley, Mrs. Brown and Mrs. Percy Rogers, who form the punch committee, the place of meeting being at the home of Mrs. Hartley, the president, Tuesday, June 4. Although this will be the last formal meeting of the season the club anticipates picnics, bathing parties, and excursions during the summer.

THEY SAILED THE OCEAN BLUE

After Eating Chowder and Listening to Words of Wisdom

CLUB PARTY A SUCCESS

The ladies of the Quincy Women's Riverside club were kept busy Wednesday afternoon from 1 to 2 o'clock. As was advertised, the chowder was served promptly at one o'clock About 150 persons partook of it and all pronounced it first class, and if there is truth in the old saying, "The proof of the pudding is in the eating", it certainly must have been good. Potato salad, rolls, gelatine and coffee, were also served. After the dinner speeches were made by His Honor, Mayor Eugene R. Stone, Commodore Crane of Town River Yacht club, and a most able talk by Frank F. Crane, his subject, "Inland Waterways." The ladies seemed much interested in the subject and felt that they had learned a great deal in regard to the Canal of which there has been so much said. The speeches were interspersed with piano solos by Mrs. Charles Hodgkinson and singing by a Ladies' Trio consisting of Mrs. Madie Millette, soprano, Miss Evie Sherman, second soprano, Mrs. Annie McDowell, alto. Mrs. Mary C. Flint accompanied the singers and also rendered several selections and met with hearty applause. After the entertainment was over many of the ladies availed themselves of the opportunity of the sail down the river in the power boats, Gay Lad and Bunnie which were very kindly tendered to the club by Messrs. Harmon and Graffe.

MISS PRIEST'S BIRTHDAY PARTY

Young Girl's Friends Presented Her With Signet Ring

The numerous friends of Miss Dorothy E. Priest, 58 Old Colony street, Atlantic, tendered her a surprise party on Monday evening, the twelfth anniversary of her birthday.

A beautiful signet ring was presented to her by Miss Mary Creedon as a token of esteem from her assembled friends, which was very much appreciated by Miss Priest.

During the evening refreshments were served and the children enjoyed themselves by playing games until a late hour, when they went home after having spent a very pleasant period.

The children who contributed to the pleasure of the evening were the Misses Ruth Miller, May Keohane, Mabel Baldwin, Jessie Smith, Muriel Fratus, Hazel Leeco, Edith Leeco, Mary Creedon, Alice Christensen, Lillian Golden, Mildred Golden, Augusta McMahon, Marion Creamer, Alice Creamer, Lena Cullen, Nellie Cavanagh, Mary Cavanagh, Beatrice Landry.

QUINCY'S NEW TEMPLE OF BLIND EYED GODDESS OPEN FOR WORK

Fine Structure Meets With the Approval of Justices and Lawyers Who Inspected It

Commissioner Merrill Gratified at Results Secured. Noted City's Wants

Quincy's newest public building, the court house, was occupied for business for the first time this morning. There was an unusual large attendance of police officials, members of the bar and spectators. As the official dedicatory exercises will not take place until June 1, the exercises this morning were of a brief nature.

HON. ALBERT E. AVERY,
Presiding Justice of the District Court.

It lacked but a few minutes of 9.30 when the door of the judges office opened and from it appeared Judge Albert E. Avery, Hon. John F. Merrill, chairman of the Norfolk County Commissioners and Rev. Robert H. Corcoran, pastor of the Union Congregational church of Weymouth and Braintree, all of whom took seats on the bench.

Inside of the bar were the following members of the Norfolk Bar association, Hon. George F. Barnes, Senator from the First Norfolk district, Paul R. Blackmur, Jeremiah J. McAnarney, Frank A. Tirrell, John J. O'Hara and Louis A. Cook, Jr., and Associate Judge E. Granville Pratt.

Among the police officials present were Chief Frank E. Burrell, of Quincy, Chief Maurice Pierce and Deputy Chief Timothy McDermott, of Milton, Chief Thomas Fitzgerald of Weymouth, Chief Amos Loring of Braintree, Inspector Patrick Butler of Weymouth, Charles H. Johnson Truant Officer and County Court Officer John Drummond.

On the judge's bench were two handsome boquets of carnations. Clerk Lawrence W. Lyons, Court officer William M. Marden and Acting Probation Officer Arthur C. Hultman were also in their positions. As the court entered the main room Court Officer Marden cried out "Court."

And while everybody remained standing the court officer made the following announcement: "Here Ye! Here Ye! Here Ye! All persons having anything to do before the Honorable, the Justices of the District Court of East Norfolk, now holden at Quincy, within and for the Judicial district of East Norfolk, draw near, give your attendance and you shall be

HON. JOHN F. MERRILL,
Chairman County Commissioners.

heard. God save the Commonwealth of Massachusetts."

While all remained standing, Rev. Mr. Corcoran offered a brief prayer.

Judge Avery then said that Chairman Merrill had been very assiduous in looking after the construction of this building and that while the dedication would not take place until June 1, it was fitting that he should say a few words. He would therefore call upon him.

EDITORIAL COMMENT.

The merger bill passed the senate without its utilities appendage, which means that it will go back to the body in veto from the governor.

Puck has started a presidential boom for Ex-Governor William L. Douglas, but nothing has been heard from the Brockton man as to his intentions on the subject.

Senator Crane is evidently disgusted with the political situation.

Both presidential candidates lost their own state, which goes to show that the favorite son does not cut much ice when voters are swayed by self interest, oratory and sensationalism.

For a poor man, Charles W. Morse paid big lawyers' fees and is having an easy time of it since his release from the Federal prison at Atlanta, Georgia.

Those seniors of the Woodward Institute are some consistent athletes.

Reading the report of a base ball game in some of the newspapers is like negotiating a pie galley upside down. It is a pleasure to read the safe and sane story as written by the old reliable writers.

The retirement of Senator Crane will be deplored by all people irrespective of party.

The police are to be congratulated upon the speedy manner in which they run to earth that sensational story of the Monday night fire.

It is about time to get into line for a safe and sane Fourth of July celebration.

"All aboard," is the cry of the yachts men, and the rocking chair fleet roll the harder and echo, "Let her go."

The "high brow" newspaper bunch from the capital will soon invade Beverly.

The White house could not have been a very cheerful place Tuesday night, when the clouds of Ohio defeat rolled by.

Look out for your pocket book when in Boston, as pick-pockets are circulating around the Union and elevated stations.

TARRED WITH ONE BRUSH.

The comedy scene enacted by the scramblers for the republican nomination, on each and every platform would be amusing if it was not done to a turn at each gathering. In fact if anything it is overdone. This sketch is the reference each candidate makes of the other charging the dominance of bossism. Of course there are bosses. The people expect them. In a free land where everyone is a sovereign, there the bosses prosper. It is only in constitutional monarchies where the people are supreme and free from the control of political bosses who drive them harder than any slave driver.

It is an insult to the intelligence of the average voter to have any candidate accuse another of having the bosses behind him. The people know it. The people also know that the moneyed interests finance the campaign and they are human and expect their reward. This reward may be in the form of a post to a foreign court, a step up the social ladder, but aside from this must develop privileges which will provide the means to pay for this great outlay. And who are to blame for the machines, the bosses, and whole impure , imperfect system which holds forth at the present time? The people. No one but the people themselves, and the system will not change or improve until the people desire it, and when they feel in that frame of mind the change is bound to come.

BIG GATHERING LETTER CARRIERS

Expected at Annual Reunion in Boston Next Week

QUINCY MEN ASSIST IN WORK

The annual reunion of the Boston Letter Carriers' Mutual Benefit association will be held in the Mechanics building, Boston, Tuesday evening, May 28, and it is expected that the attendance will surpass that of last year, when nearly 10,000 participated. One of the chief features of this year's reunion will be a military march by the letter carriers in full uniform under the direction of Captain Curtis of the Hanover street station, who was formerly attached to the United States military service. Rehearsals for this parade have been in progress for some time so that it is fully assured that it will be a feature well worth seeing.

The invited guests include Gov. Foss and staff, the representatives in congress, Mayor Stone of Quincy and many others. They will be escorted to the main hall by the letter carriers' band and assigned a suitable place to witness the parade.

For the concert a sanctuary choir of 60 boys will render a number of selection. The proceeds of the reunion will be devoted to the fund for assistance of members who may by sickness or accident become incapacitated for duty, as well as to assist in the payment of the death benefits of members.

On the committe of arrangements from the Quincy station are John J. Cunniff and C. J. Connor.

SENATOR CRANE'S RETIREMENT.

The announcement of Senator W. Murray Crane that he will not be a candidate for re-election to the United States senate was received with regret by all classes in the state irrespective of party. That he has been a good and faithful guardian of the interests of the people in this commonwealth in National affairs and an able representative of the interests of the people of the entire country has been conceded. He was not an orator, but he was a business man, tactful and his views and opinions and the few words he uttered carried weight and conviction.

It is the service of such men in the halls of congress that redound to the credit and honor of the nation as a whole.

As to the cause of this loss of an able man to the public service little can be said at this time, which would be understood. In the sober, common sense consideration of such a condition and mature deliberation, the people will as usual render a correct verdict and until that time arrives, there is nothing that can be said which would be of any avail.

CHRIST CHURCH.

The Men's club held an important meeting Monday night and talked over the matter of re-organization which will be determined at the next meeting, Monday evening, June 3. Arthur Thomas presided.

Complete returns from the play of the Boy's Club, net the club $28.25. The boys and their leaders have done excellent work during the year and are to be congratulated upon their showing. Wednesday night at the regular meeting, Mr. Hodgkinson spoke upon the Boy Scouts.

The Reapers circle will meet in the parish house, Friday evening.

At the special meeting of the parish Walter A. Deacon was elected to fill the place of Roy Prout, resigned. Mr. Prout served the parish well and efficiently. Mr. Deacon brings good qualifications to the position.

OBJECTIONABLE SIGN REMOVED

Interest Centers in Who Permitted its Erection

ANOTHER SIGN CONDEMNED

The large advertising banner which was strung across Beale street, Wollaston, last week has been taken down, but the citizens of that ward are interested in the city officials who allowed it to be hung up. There is another private advertising sign on the grass plot at Presidents bridge which is wholly out of place and should be removed. If the city officials allow one concern to use the highways for advertising purposes it establishes a bad precedent. The next step would logically be to allow Merrymount park to be bill-boarded, to say nothing of the other playgrounds and school grounds. And there is another point of view: What right has a city official to grant any such permits?

REPUBLICANS NON-PLUSSED

At the Decision of Senator Crane to Retire

AT SEA FOR CANDIDATE

The sudden decision of Senator W. Murray Crane not to be a candidate for re-election at the expiration of his present term, leaves the republican party of the state in a peculiar position, in a state of uncertainty from which it will be slow to recover.

There are plenty of candidates, but the trouble is for the party to unite on a man who will possess many if not all the qualifications of Senator Crane and who will be agreeable to the party throughout the state. The proposition is not an easy one by any means.

All wings of the party would undoubtedly unite on Hon. Curtis Guild, ambassador to Russia who would undoubtedly be elected.

Although the ambassador's return to this country at this time, was in the nature of leave of absence, it seems significant it should come, just at the hour that Senator Crane made public his position.

Lieutenant Governor Robert Luce, Hon. Samuel L. Powers, Ex-Governor Eben S. Draper, Congressmen John W. Weeks, Augustus P. Gardner, George P. Lawrence and others are mentioned as possible candidates.

Mayor John F. Fitzgerald of Boston has announced himself as democratic candidate for the place.

ST. CHRYSOSTOM'S CHURCH.

Mrs. George Curran announces a party for this evening, for members of the choir and glee club. Entertainment will be provided, and refreshments served.

One hundred babies on the Parish grounds will be a pretty sight! Such a sight will be the Baby Party on Saturday afternoon, May 25, beginning at 2.00 o'clock. Mothers, fathers, with babies or without, with children or without; older children, young men and maidens; the presence of all is desired. The director is Mrs. H. K. Ellis who managed the similar pretty affair of February 10 last.

Supper will be served in the Parish Rooms by the Woman's Guild on Saturday evening between 6.00 and 8.00 P. M. A committee with Mrs. D. C. Miller as Chairman, has the supper in charge.

The date for the annual lawn party is set for Saturday, June 22, afternoon and evening. The committee consists of the Rector and Wardens, Mr. Briggs, Mr. and Mrs. Vibert and Miss Weeks, thus making of the undertaking a matter both of the Vestry and of the Parish organizations.

In the early fall a Parish Fair will be held under the auspices of the Woman's Guild. The following list of tables with those in charge has already been arranged. Posters and tickets, Mrs. Jewell; Linen table, Mrs. Albee; Grab, Mrs. Walker; Miscellaneous table, Mrs. Landry; Candy table, Mrs. Campbell; Household table, Mrs. Miller, Baby table, Mrs. Cleveland; Apron table, Mrs. Stanley and Miss Clean. A supper will be arranged in connection with the fair.

ROADS "USED" JUDGE

Pennsylvania Roads Found Archbald Very Convenient In Business

Washington, May 23.—W. P. Boland of the Marion Coal company, Scranton, Pa., author of the charges which have threatened to cause the impeachment of Judge Robert W. Archbald of the court of commerce, told his story to the house judiciary committee.

Boland declared he had become convinced that the coal railroads in Pennsylvania were using Judge Archbald and that "it was not the exception but the rule that Judge Archbald was willing to serve the railroads." But most of Boland's testimony was of a heresay character.

HEART PULSATION RENEWED AGAIN

Surgeon Starts Organ Beating By Gripping It

Schenectady, N. Y., May 23.—In all truth it can be said that Miss Anna Loebenstein came out of the valley of the shadow of death. She owes her life to Dr. Charles G. McMullin, who set her heart to pumping again after it had ceased to beat.

Dr. McMullin anaesthetized her with nitro-oxide oxygen and ether, because her heart was not strong. To perform an operation it was necessary to make a long incision through the muscular wall of her abdomen.

The operation was ended, Dr. McMullin was sewing up the abdominal incision when Miss Loemenstein's heart stopped beating. She was pronounced dead.

Instantly Dr. McMullin cut the stitches he had made in the incision and reaching up through it gently seized Miss Loebenstein's heart. Rhythmically he compressed the heart, then relaxed his hold.

The heart fluttered and slowly took on its normal action.

RICHESON'S FUNERAL RITES

Quietly Conducted and Body Shiped to Virginia Home

Boston, May 23.—An impressive funeral service was conducted secretly yesterday afternoon in the Warren Avenue Baptist church over the body of Clarence V. T. Richeson, who was electrocuted at the Charlestown state prison.

The services were attended by Richeson's brother, Douglas, of Chicago; his sister, Louise, of Saranac Lake, N. Y.; the dead man's counsel, William A. Morse; Rev. Dr. Campbell of the Central Square Baptist church, Cambridge; Rev. O. B. Gifford of Brookline, and a man and woman friend of the relatives who refused to give their names. The only other persons in attendance were twenty newspaper reporters and photographers who were confided in.

The last wish of Clarence V. T. Richeson, that his body be buried in the family lot at Amherst Courthouse, Va., is to be fulfilled.

With the arrival yesterday morning of his sister, Miss Louise B. Richeson, the decision was reached that the family would accept the body, which had lain unclaimed until then at the morgue.

The remains were shipped last night on the 8 o'clock train to the south.

R. R. MERGER MEETS DEFEAT

Goes Down With the Amendment on Trolley Lines

DIRECT ELECTION SENATORS

New York, New Haven and Hartford Merger With Boston and Maine Defeated In Senate—Foss Wants a Merger Bill and Public Utilities Bill Passed—House Adopts a Substitute Trolley Bill

Boston, May 23.—The New Haven-Boston and Maine merger bill went down to defeat in the senate eysterday afternoon by a vote of 15 to 20. The Tinkham resolve for a further study was also defeated.

All the amendments for extensions of trolley lines were killed.

This settles the railroad question unless Governor Foss takes the matter up in a special message.

The governor said last night that he probably would insist upon a bill. He is anxious for a merger coupled with his public utilities bill which shall supervise all public service corporations. It is one of the things that he talks of holding the legislature in session for.

The fight comes today upon the trolley merger bill, which is another New Haven proposition, permitting the New Haven to acquire the trolley lines now held by voluntary associations.

The Grand Trunk bill also is before the house today for debate and the predictions are that it will go through.

The house adopted wihout debate the substitute trolley bill presented by the ways and means committee. This amends the first bill so as to meet the objections of the railroad commision, which said that the bill was faulty in respect to capitalization, and that there should be no provision for appeal to the supreme judicial court.

Adopts Senatorial Elections

Boston, May 23.—Massachusetts took its place as the first state in the union to ratify the constitutional amendment for the direct election of United States senators yesterday. The resolutions which went through the house were adopted in the senate by a vote of 30 to 0.

It is the first poitical move following the announcement of Senator Crane that he will not be a candidate for re-election. The pasage of the resolutions, however, would not mean a direct election this fall.

TWO MORE BISHOPS

Eleventh Ballot Counts and Makes a Total of Three So Far

Mineapolis, May 23.—Dr. T. F. Henderson of Brooklyn and W. O. Shepard of Chicago are the new bishops of the Methodist Episcopal conference, elected on the eleventh ballot. Dr. Henderson received 562 and Dr. Shepard 532. Necessary to elect, 524.

Dr. R. E. Jones, negro, of New Orleans, who received 194 votes on the last ballot, withdrew his name.

Dr. Henderson is 44 ears of age, and will be the youngest member of the board of bishops. He is a graduate of Wesleyan university of Connecticut and Drew Theological seminary and is pastor of the Hansen Place church, Brooklyn. Dr. Shepard is a graduate of De Pauw university, has been prominent in the work of Northwestern university at Evanston, Ills., and at present is district superintendent of the Rock River conference.

Union of Methodists Desired

Baltimore, May 23.—Expressing the conviction that the other two branches of the Methodist denomination, the Methodist Episcopal and Methodist Episcopal South, have been encouraged by the progress of the negotiations made by the three commissions on church union, the commission of the Methodist Protestant church in its report made to the general conference here asked to have the work thus far done indorsed and to be given instructions to continue for another four years along the same lines.

FORTY FOR INDUSTRIAL SCHOOL.

Nearly forty names have been received from boys desiring to enter the half time in dustrial school in September, amply sufficient to organize the school. The majority of these boys will begin work in the machinists' course, the remainder taking the joiners' course. The boys who are planning to leave school this summer are especially interested in getting started in productive work and many applications have been received from boys who could not be taken because of lack of physical and mental maturity to undertake the work.

EVENING SCHOOLS.

The committee on evening schools held a meeting Wednesday evening in the school committee rooms for the purpose of discussing the scope of the evening instruction for the next season. Mr. Charles R. Allen of the State Board of Education was present at the meeting and gave an account of what had been done in another industrial city, and of what possibilities there were in this direction. There were present also representatives from two of the skilled labor organizations of the city. It is planned to hold another meeting next month for consideration of the same subject and it is hoped to have other skilled crafts represented at this session.

NEW SCHOOL DISTRICT.

The sub-committees of the Quincy and Wollaston schools are to hold a public hearing this evening in the Wollaston school building for the purpose of giving any parents interested in the district lines of the new Montclair school, opportunity to express their opinions. It is quite apparent that the bulk of the attendance in the new district will come from the present Quincy district. A considerably smaller number will be taken from the Wollaston district. Owing to the present overcrowded condition of the Massachusetts Fields school it is clear that some relief must be provided by making the district smaller and sending pupils either to the Quincy school, the Montclair school or to both.

LITTLE FELLOWS WOULD TRAVEL

Were Found Just About to Board a Train From Atlantic

SOUGHT SEVERAL HOURS

George Witten, aged four, of 16 Clark street, Atlantic, and Stanton Glavim, aged five, of 1 Clerk street, caused much trouble this morning by suddenly disappearing from their homes. The police were asked to locate the missing boys and the lost child signal was given out at 10.15 o'clock. It seems that the boys were playing together in the yard of the Witten home, when their disappearance was noticed. Efforts by the parents of both boys to locate them in the vicinity proved fruitless.

Both children were found at the Atlantic depot shortly before noon, as they were in the act of boarding a train.

STOVE RAGS START FIRE

Home of Walter S. Pinkham Scene of Stubborn Blaze

LOSS $1,000, INSURED

The alarm from box 53 this morning was for a lively blaze in the house of Walter S. Pinkham at 111 Warren avenue. The fire started from some old stove rags that had been thrown into a closet near a hot water boiler. Mrs. Pinkham said that the rags had not been used since Wednesday morning to wipe a stove, and it is thought that they must have been smouldering since that time. The fire was a hard one to fight and it was sometime before the allout was sounded. The loss is estimated at $1,000, covered by insurance.

TO CELEBRATE THE FOURTH

Plans Will Take Definite Form at Meeting Next Week

A meeting of the July Fourth celebration executive committee was held Wednesday evening at the rooms of the Board of Trade. The meeting was an informal one and consisted of a discussion of the question of celebrating the National holiday this year. It was decided to call a meeting of the general committee for next Wednesday evening at which time plans will take definite shape and arrangements will be made for the collection of funds for the celebration. It was also announced that there would be a hearing before the State Board of Charity of June 10, relative to the incorporation of the committee.

CITY COUNCIL INVITED.

Members of the City Council have received invitations to attend the opening games of the Quincy City league on the Water street grounds on Memorial day. The morning game will be between the Makarias and Quincy A. A. at 10 o'clock and the afternoon game at 3 o'clock between the West Quincy and South Quincy teams.

DISTRICT COURT.

Judge Avery presided at the session of the district court today.

Edward Harris was arraigned charged with being idle and disorderly at Quincy. Case continued in $500 bonds until Friday.

William D. Porter was fined $15 for drunkenness at Quincy.

William D. Foster was arraigned for alleged neglect to send his children to school at Milton. Case continued until December 3.

Margaret Shea was found guilty and fined $10 for neglecting to send her children to school at Quincy.

Carl Lanpon and Amos Haltara were charged with drunkenness at Quincy, and they were placed on probation until August 8.

The continued cases of Catherine Delory and Amos Lovell for a statutory offence at Weymouth were called. The court declined jurisdiction and held them in $500 bonds each for the grand jury.

INDIA CONVERTS SPREAD SEED

According to Mrs. Herrick a Missionary Worker

BETHANY CHURCH GATHERING

A missionary meeting was held in the vestry of Bethany church, Wednesday night under the auspices of the Bethany Woman's Missionary society. There was a good attendance. Mrs. M. E. Wetherell presided and welcomed all very graciously. The meeting was opened with prayer by the pastor, Rev. Benjamin A. Willmott. Mrs. Emma Schufelt Moore sang "The Holy Well," accompanied by Mrs. Charles Sampson at the piano. Mrs. Wetherell then introduced, the speaker of the evening, Mrs. David Herrick, a missionary to India, but who is at home now in Auburndale taking a much needed rest. Mrs. Herrick's husband is in India engaged in missionary work and Mrs. Herrick will join him in a few months.

Mrs. Herrick spoke of the wonderful work accomplished, and how reverent the converted natives are, and eager to spread the good seed among their people. The contrasts in social status between the heathen and the Christian natives are simply amazing. The evidences of the uplift of the natives by means of Christian schools and churches are numerous and conspicuous. More money and missionaries are needed, but results show that we are abundantly paid for what America has contributed to this work by what our missionaries have achieved in the past, and what they are accomplishing in the present.

Mrs. Moore sang, "Arise and follow me," with Mrs. Sampson at the piano. The meeting closed with benediction by the pastor, after which a social informal hour was enjoyed.

Some fine views of the Mission schools and churches were shown.

COMPLIMENTARY BANQUET GIVEN

Those Who Took Part in Houghs Neck Minstrel Show

DANCING FOLLOWED FEED

A banquet was given Wednesday evening in Associates hall, by members of the Houghs Neck Associates, to those who took part in the minstrel show performances held under the auspices of the Improvement society last month. After the banquet, the gathering repaired to the Bungalow Dance hall, where all present tripped the light fantastic until midnight. The guests of the evening included Mayor Eugene R. Stone, Mrs. Eugene R. Stone and Miss Edith Stone.

The banquet was served by a Boston caterer and the menu comprised lobster, chicken and vegetable salads, turkey, mashed potato, banana fritters, frozen pudding, ice cream, coffee, cake and fruit. After the banquet, the post prandial exercises were in order, presided over by Henry W. French, president of the Associates.

Various parts of the minstrel performances were given and those who took part in the entertainment were Mrs. Edna Catarius, Mrs. Clara Norteman, Miss Mary A. Leary, Mrs. Etta Norteman, Clement R. Rose, George O'Brien, Charles O'Brien, Harry Kiesley and Miss Grace McGivney.

The music for dancing was by Lowe's orchestra. The committee in charge comprised Henry W. French, David H. Fenner, Michael C. Coughlin, Hiram C. Darrow, Albert Acorn and Albert F. Baker.

☞The first part of the program of the Hospital Aid Concert closes with Wilfred Bendall's Cantata for Women's voices, "The Lady of Shalott." Charming melody and graceful rhythm characterize the opening pastoral scene. Next the procession of knights is depicted with brilliant tone coloring and rich harmony. This leads to the climax a dramatic solo for soprano. The closing scenes are full of reverence and pathos. The second part of program closes with The Song of Liberty for mixed voices by Mrs. H. H. A. Beach a composer of international reputation.

Foy Clerks Victims of Blue Coat Swatters

CLERKS WERE TRUMPS

That the Quincy "cops" can play the complete satisfaction of a large number of spectators on the Water street grounds, Wednesday afternoon when the Quincy guardians of the peace played and won their first game of the season, over the clerks of theR. E. Foy grocery company, by a score of 18 to 8. The policemen did some heavy hitting and showed superior work in every department of the game.

Canavan, who has worked out to great advantage for a number of local teams, was on the mound and was very effective throughout. Duane was on the receiving end and his pegging to bases was of a commendable order. Tinney and Caddy did the battery work for the losers. The most conspicuous figure in the game was Henry Thorne, the elongated first sacker for the policemen, who accepted many difficult chances.

NOMINATE OFFICERS.

—At Cornell they took a vote to see which great inventions the students considered the most useful. This is the order in which they voted: Wireless telegraphy, synthetic chemistry, radium, anti-toxins, aviation, the Panama canal and the telephone. Some people would put the telephone second and aviation third.

MRS. WHEELER WON HER MATCH

Scored 86 and Beat Miss Wells Five to Four

CHAMPIONSHIP FORM

Playing in championship form, Mrs. E. C. Wheeler, Jr., of the Wollaston Golf club scored her third victory this week, Wednesday for the championship of the Women's Golf Association of Boston on the Montclair Golf links.

Mrs. Wheeler had Miss L. A. Wells for an opponent and won five and four.

Some excellent play was shown by the winner during her round as she scored 86, which was five strokes better than her medal card in the qualifying round.

Mrs. E. C. Wheeler, Jr's golf was well up to the standard of the best players in the former tournaments of the association and encouraging from the point of view of the play at Englewood by Miss Bishop of the Metropolitan District and at the St. David's Club, Philadelphia, by Mrs. R. H. Barlow, the Eastern champion.

Mrs. Wheeler defeated Miss Wells by 5 and 4, though Miss Wells played very pluckily and well to the turn of the match, where she was only one down. Mrs. Wheeler taking advantage of the favoring wind, was on the green of the 10th hole, 252 yards, after her drive, and ran down a 15-foot putt for a 2. To drive this hole it is necessary to have a carry of about 180 yards and then the ball runs down a slope to the green.

Mrs. Wheeler won the 12th hole in 6 the short 13th hole in 3 and the 14th in 4. Having won the match by 5 and 4, Mrs. Wheeler played on the round, getting a string of fours, making her total 86, figures which illustrate the real game of this fine golfer. The cards:

Mrs. Wheeler 7 6 4 4 5 7 5 6 4—48
Miss Wells 6 5 5 6 7 6 7 6 4—52
Mrs. Wheeler 2 7 6 3 4 4 4 4 4—38
—86

Miss Wells 5 7 7 4 7

In the first round for the beaten eights, Mrs. W. C. Johnson of the Wollaston club, defeated Miss E. W. Allen of the Oakley club, 4 and 3; and Miss G. W. Edlefsen of the Commonwealth club defeated Miss L. M. Kendall of the Wollaston club, by default.

In the handicap no logy competition Mrs. E. C. Wheeler, Jr., of the Wollaston club won the prize having a handicap of one stroke and finishing 5 down

Mrs. W. C. Johnson, also of the Wollaston club with a handicap of 9, was finished 11 down.

GUILD PLANS FAIR.

At the meeting of the Women's Guild of Christ church, held Wednesday afternoon, in the parish house, plans were formulated for the annual fair, to be held in the parish house, the first week in December. Tea was served and the afternoon was pleasantly spent. Mrs. George Pawsey and Mrs. Charles M. Chase were in charge.

COLLEGE RACING CREWS.

The Harvard, Cornell and Princeton varsity college eights will race on the Charles river this afternoon, and the Harvard and Cornell freshmen crews will also try conclusions. Cornell varsity eight was the favorite today.

BOY SCOUTS LECTURE.

Benjamin F. Hodgkinson, Jr., master of the Quincy division of Boy Scouts, gave an address on "The Boy Scout Movement," before the Boys' class of Christ church, in the parish house, Wednesday evening.

CAMPAIGN IS WAGING HOTLY

Only a Change of Scene With Same Old Players

HARMON SNATCHES VICTORY

Taft Secures 10 Delegates In the Primaries—Will Probably Add the Six Delegates-at-Large—Teddy Lands 32.—In Some Districts La Follette Outran the President—Possibly a Balance of Power Candidate

Columbus, May 23.—Nearly complete returns from Ohio's presidential preference primary indicate that Colonel Roosevelt has 32 of 42 delegates to the Republican national convention selected in twenty-one congressional districts, and that President Taft was given 10 district delegates, or slightly less than a third of the total number named.

Contrary to striking early reports yesterday, on the Democratic ticket Governor Harmon is believed now to have won by a larger percentage than Colonel Roosevelt, being credited with 35 district delegates as against 7 for Governor Woodrow Wilson of New Jersey.

Although President Taft secured but 10 out of the 42 delegates, the Taft-Roosevelt fight in Ohio is not finished, but will be carried into the state Republican convention which on June 3 will select 6 delegates-at-large to the national convention.

Governor Harmon, on the Democratic ticket, unlike Roosevelt, will not be forced to make a further fight for delegates-at-large, as the Democratic call specifies that the winner of the presidential preference primary shall name his own delegates-at-large.

Amplified returns in the Republican contest show that Senator La Follette polled a heavy vote in several counties and it is possible the final results will show that he ran second to Colonel Roosevelt in a number of counties.

Washington, May 23.—The result of the Republican primary in Ohio is understood to mean that Taft and Roosevelt will each go into the Chicago convention "claiming" enough strength to nominate. The managers of the president's campaign were maintaining their candidate was assured of 562 votes before the Republicans of Ohio spoke. This would be twenty-two more than the number required to nominate. An estimate of this kind, of course, includes all the delegates that are being contested by the third-term candidate as well as all the uninstructed delegates. Roosevelt now has more than 400 delegates on whom he can rely, and this estimate does not include delegates instructed for Taft, but contested. Neither does it include the uninstructed delegates, except where their known preference is for Roosevelt.

The closeness of the contest between the president and the former president adds importance to the position in the fight occupied by Senator La Follette. The Wisconsin senator has only thirty-six votes, but they are of the kind that will stick, and the politicians foresee that he might develop a situation which would give Senator La Follette the balance of power in the convention. It is pointed out that this is hardly probable, but it is possible. Senator Cummins of Iowa, with his ten votes, is also keenly interested in the very remarkable situation.

New Jersey's twenty-eight votes are now move valuable than ever before. The primaries will be held there next Tuesday. Today the president and the former president will go into the state, and will stay in it until Monday evening. Senator La Follette, who never gives up the ship, is also to make a stumping tour of the state.

BABIES ENTERTAINED.

It was "baby day" at the home of Clyde Cox, the well-known Quincy druggist, 38 Greenleaf street, Wednesday, where a party was held in honor of his daughter Muriel, and Louise Pierce, daughter of Curtis Pierce, both children observing their second birthday.

Twelve other babies, averaging from two to three years of age were present, as were also the mothers of the babies. Many gifts were presented by the different parents and the occasion was a gala one.

NEW RAT CATCHER FOR BARGE RUTH

Green-Eyed Cat Escaped From Yacht in Quincy

Hollis Burgess's sloop yacht, Little Haste, has arrived from Philadelphia, and is being fitted out at Baker's. The yacht was dropped into Boston harbor from the barge Ruth, on whose deck she was cradled and towed to Quincy. Hiding aboard the racer was a green-eyed cat belonging to the Ruth, the feline evidently having been asleep when the hoisting overside began and was too much frightened to make its presence known. At Quincy the cat jumped ashore and disappeared, and the captain of the Ruth is seeking a new rat-chaser.

SAFFORD PARK SURE SHOW PLACE

If the City Council gives the use of the old school-home lot to the citizens of Wollaston, that ward and incidentally the city, will come into the possession of one of the most beautiful small parks in suburban Boston. With the aid of a landscape architect, assisted by a $1000 donation from the leading citizens of Wollaston, besides the unexpended balance of the ward five Third bill appropriation and what little is received from the sale of the old buildings, Safford Park will be one of the show places of the city.

MAINE SCHOOL.

Preliminary steps for the establishment of a boarding school for boys in Maine, the plans call for a sum not less than $200,000, and it is hoped the school will be ready to start in 1913. George S. Stevenson, of Waterville, for seven years principal of the Coburn Classical institute will be in charge. The movement has the endorsement of: ex-Governor William T. Cobb, of Rockland; Hon. W. Scott Libbey, of Lewiston; Robert H. Gardiner, Esq., of Gardiner and Boston; William F. Garcelon, Esq., of Lewiston and Boston.

PUBLIC UTILITIES BILL.

Ex-representative William E. Dorman of Lynn, appeared before the directors of the Board of Trade, Tuesday night and spoke in favor of the public utilities bill advocated by Governor Foss. Mr. Dorman will deliver an address before the full Board of Trade at the next meeting, Wednesday evening, June 5.

SILENT SENATOR WAS A POWER

Others May Follow His Course and Seek Private Life

PATRIOTS WILLING TO SERVE

Winthrop Murray Crane Was a Power In the Senate—Silent, Never Making a Speech—The Arbitrator or Compromiser of That Body—But the Old Guard Is Surely Disappearing—Many Named to Fill the Seat

Washington, May 23.—The announcement of Senator Crane of Masaschusetts that he will retire from the senate at the end of his present term, is the leading topic for discussion here. Coming so soon after the passing of Senators Aldrich and Hale, whose trusted lieutenant he was and whom he succeeded as the silent leader of the old guard, it is regarded as the final step in the dissolution of the powerful coterie that for years dominated the policies and business of the upper house.

Mr. Crane will have served nearly nine years at the time of his retirement. He entered the senate by appointment, Oct. 12, 1904, taking his seat Dec. 6. The iron hands of Aldrich and Hale were then in control. Mr. Crane at once became their most valued and trusted lieutenant. He attended all fateful councils and invariably was the special emissary to arrange compromises and smooth out troubles. The chief word in his dictionary was "compromise."

A man of extreme silence, who has never delivered a speech in the senate, the pre-eminence of Mr. Crane's popularity with all factions was admitted. He exerted a wonderful influence, but the time has passed for oil and persuasion to pass legislation in the senate. He could not longer be a controlling power in the matter of adjustments.

Fitzgerald First to Speak

Boston, May 23.—Soon after the news was received in Boston that Senator Crane would not be a candidate for re-election, Mayor Fitzgerald announced his candidacy for the place.

Several Patriots Suggested

Boston, May 23.—Among others suggested to fill the coming senatorial vacancy are: Lieutenant Governor Luce, Matthew Hale, Louis A. Frothingham, Ex-Speaker Walker and Norman White.

HAYTIEN NEGROES

Urging Those In Cuba to Create a Black Man's Republic

Havana, May 23.—While the situation arising from the racial revolutionary movement is unquestionably serious and apparently growing more dangerous, the reticence of the government renders impossible a precise determination of its gravity.

The new cruiser Cuba, which has arrived here with her consort, La Patria, had hardly anchored before she received orders to take aboard 600 infantry and artillery and proceed to Guantanamo. It is expected that La Patria will take more troops aboard.

A serious feature of the situation in Oriente province is the pressure of many Haytian negroes, who recently surreptitiously entered the province, and who are reported to be inflaming the Cuban negroes by citing the example of the Haytiens in exterminating the whites in their country and urging the establishment of a black republic in the eastern end of Cuba. These Haytians, it is said, number several thousand. It is rumored that several schooners from Hayti have landed cargoes of arms.

Santiago, May 23.—The situation in Cuba is rapidly growing more serious. It is now estimated that over 5000 negroes have taken up arms in the province of Oriente alone.

Two American citizens, Floyd Schick and Joseph Ryan, have complained to Ross E. Holaday, United States consul at Santiago, of being assaulted and robbed while they were on their way to Siboney by a band of armed negroes.

SWAMP PENSION OFFICE

Increases Date From Day Application Is Received at Office

Washington, May 23.—Thousands of applicatons for pension increases under the recently enacted Sherwood "dollar-a-aday" law are pouring in.

Commissioner Davenport estimates that fully 25,000 applications have come to him so far, and since increases will date from the day applications are received, the office probably will be flooded for many days to come.

Re-elect Judge Lindsay

Denver, May 23.—The citizens' ticket, headed by Henry J. Arnold for mayor, defeated that of the Speer Democratic organization by a plurality of more then 12,000, according to late returns. Juvenile Court Judge Ben Lindsay was re-elected by a conceded overwhelming vote.

JURY ADJOURNS

In the Meantime I. W. W. Members Are Gathering From Various Sections

Los Angeles, Cal., May 23.—More evidence will be required before the federal authorities take any action in the case of the Industrial Workers of the World disturbances at San Diego, according to Assistant District Attorney Robinson, who has charge of the federal grand jury investigation. The grand jury adjourned until Firday.

At the Industrial Workers' headquarters it was stated that 200 Industrial Workers between Los Angeles and San Diego are preparing to advance on San Diego, enter the city and renew their free speech tactics. It is asserted that there are 1000 Industrial Workers on their way to the coast from New York, Philadelphia and Boston. Others are being picked up at way points. It was said the men are coming west to help carry on the fight at San Diego, that they are traveling in small groups to escape the notice of authorities, and that as soon as they arrive a concerted movement will be made against the city.

San Diego, Cal., May 23.—The people of San Diego accept Governor Johnson's statement in ordering Attorne General Webb to prosecute those who had interfered with any one's constitutional rights as a declaration against the vigilantes, and in favor of the I. W. W. They note especially that part which read:

"No organized government can tolerate the administration of the law by vigilantes or by any extra judicial body. I shall direct the attorney general of the state to proceed to San Diego, that the laws may be enforced, that justice may be done."

The vigilantes met and afterward it was stated that they would keep up their work until troops were sent to protect the people of San Diego from the I. W. W. or the latter driven out of the city. Five Industrial Workers who had been in the city jail for 110 days awaiting trials on a charge of having violated the city street speaking ordinances, were released, a physician having pronounced them too ill for further confinement.

PASSENGER VESSELS MUST PROVIDE BOATS

Will Only Be Allowed to Carry Number Provided For

Boston, May 23.—As a result of the investigation now being conducted by officials of the department of commerce and labor, it has become known that vessels which sail from the port of Boston, either coastwise or oceangoing, are not equipped with enough life-saving apparatus to save, in most instances, one-fourth the number of passengers aboard if a disaster should occur on the high seas similar to that whch happened to the ill-fated Titanic.

The pleasure boats between Boston and Plymouth, Provincetown, Gloucester and Nantasket and other points on the New England coast have life-saving apparatus on board that would not accommodate one-half the number of passengers on board if a serious accident should occur.

Under a new order the vessels will be given certificates to carry only that number of passengers who could be cared for by the life-saving facilities on the vessel.

This order, which will apply to all ports, which the government officials say will be enforced to the letter, means that vessels which have a carrying capacity of 1000 passengers but which have on board life-saving facilities for 250 will be allowed to take only the latter number of passengers when they leave port.

PATRIOTISM IN CATECHISM

Presbyterians Introduce Innovation by Requiring That Among Beliefs

Louisville, May 23.—Duty to country contained in the intermediate catachism approved by the Presbyterian general assembly is an innovation in catachisms. The answer to the question relating to duty to country is: "Our duty to our country is to love and pray for it, to obey its laws, to secure and sustain good worthy officers and to serve the common good."

The report of the committee on temperance, approved as reported, urged that membership in the church be refused to men engaged in any way in the liquir business.

Ancient Ship to Sail

Bath, Me., May 23.—Nearly a century old, the schooner Hiram was hauled from her resting place on the shore of Docket island recently and is now being repaired and refitted. After the work has been completed her owner, Captain J. A. Orne, will take the schooner around Cape Horn to be placed on exhibition at the Panama-American exposition at San Francisco.

Taft Gets Third Term

Boston, May 23.—There was not the slightest objection to a third term for President William H. Taft as honorary head of the National Unitarian Laymen's league and he was so chosen.

NEARING END OF SESSION

The Legislature is making fair progress toward prorogation. So far as one may judge today, however, it is not likely to come much before the middle of June. A number of the members will probably wish to attend the national conventions, and in order to do so the Republicans would have to leave Boston as early as June 16th. That may have something to do with shortening the length of the session although it would not be likely to be a strong element.

The discovery that the Legislature was going strong on appropriations and that the state tax might be the largest in the history of the Commonwealth has aroused a good many members of the Legislature and started a policy of retrenchment. Both bodies of the Great and General Court are apparently determined not to invite criticism by reason of an unusual state tax if such a result can be avoided. There are those who now believe the tax will not be any larger than last year, which would be $5,500,000. For the last year or two many expenditures upon state institutions in the way of repairs and extensions have been refused by the Legislature although the necessity seemed fairly apparent. The longer they are delayed the more it will cost the Commonwealth to make them. Probably they will have to be postponed this year if the state tax is to be kept down to the limit of last year.

Some of the members are inclined to think it would be better to face the situation now without regard to what the state tax may be. It is understood that Governor Foss is fearful of a large state tax by reason of its possible effect upon his political future. Of course, none of the members like to see an unusually large state tax but some of them do believe that repairs and extensions on the buildings used for state institutions should not be longer delayed, since they must inevitably be taken up in the very near future and it would cost much less to make them now than later on.

Unemployment In Massachusetts.

The quarterly report of the Bureau of Statistics relative to the state of unemployment in the Commonwealth on March 30 give some interesting figures. This report gives the number and membership of labor organizations unemployed as 22,788, or 14.1 percent. While this is a higher percentage than any corresponding one since June, 1908, the report states that of this total number of unemployed over nine thousand were involved in a strike at that time going on in Lowell. The percentage of unemployed owing to lack of work or material represents, according to the bureau, more accurately the general state of unemployment prevailing throughout the Commonwealth, particularly in this instance where the inclusion of such a large number of strikers so greatly increases the percentage. In this case the percentage of unemployment was only 5.1 percent, the smallest for many years.

The percentage of unemployment from all causes in Taunton was 4.8; Springueld, 4.3; Quincy 4.1; Lawrence 3.1. The conclusion is reached that in Lawrence, following the long textile strike there, lasting from early in January until the middle of March, there was a prompt and almost complete resumption of work in the mills and in other lines of work which had been indirectly affected thereby, for which reason there was even less unemployment there than is ordinarily the case.

The percentage of unemployment in the transportation business on March 30 was unusually small, only 1.9 being out of work. In boot and shoe manufacturing 13.9 percent were out of work. In Brockton 21.3 percent of the shoe workers were unemployed; in Lynn 13.3 percent were unemployed.

In some other cities the unemployment showed the following percentages: Fall River, 9.7; New Bedford, 8.5; Fitchburg, 7.7; Boston, 7.5; Salem, 5.6; Haverhill, 5.1.

MRS. PANKHURST JAILED

With Companions Gets Nine Months' Jail Sentence For Conspiracy

London, May 23.—Mrs. Emeline Pankhurst, the militant suffragette leader, and Mr. and Mrs. Pethick Lawrence, joint editors of Votes for Women, were all found guilty at the Old Bailey sessions and each sentenced to nine months' imprisonment, on the charge of conspiracy and inciting their followers to malicious damage to property.

The judge ordered the prisoners to pay the heavy costs of the trial. As the defendants were removed the women crowding the court hissed and cheered.

DELICIOUS VEGETABLE DISHES.

SPRING vegetables served in dainty forms may be made attractive features of the bill of fare. Here are some nice recipes:

Combined With Gelatin.

Celeriac Jelly.—Simmer in a pint and a half of chicken or veal stock a cupful of celery root which has been cut into small pieces. Add several slices of carrot, a slice of onion and a sprig of parsley. Season to taste and strain. To a pint of the broth take a quarter of a box of gelatin and soften in a wineglassful of water. Add this to the broth and again strain. Pour into a mold, preferably one that will form a hollow in the middle of the jelly. Fill the hollow with minced chicken and English walnuts. This may be served with mayonnaise dressing.

Delicious Potatoes.

New Potatoes With Sauce.—Select new potatoes as nearly of one size as you can. Scrape and take out the eyes. Drop a teaspoonful of salt into boiling water in a saucepan on the fire. When they are done, drain, dry and sprinkle a little salt over them. Then set the potatoes aside until the sauce is made.

For the sauce, bring a pint of milk to the boil. Rub together a tablespoonful of flour and one of butter, drop these into the milk and stir till it is thick and creamy. Season and pour over the potatoes.

Served With Sauce.

Asparagus Tips In Cases.—Take stale breakfast rolls and scoop out the inside, leaving only the crusts. Coat the outside and inside of the rolls with butter and set them in the oven to brown. Make a white sauce as follows: Take a tablespoonful of butter, one of flour and a cup and a half of milk. Salt and pepper to taste. Place the boiled asparagus tips in the cases and pour the white sauce over them. Put the rolls again in the oven just long enough to heat.

With Chopped Vegetables.

Mushroom Timbales. — Take six ounces of mushrooms, two ounces of tomatoes, three ounces of breadcrumbs, one heaping tablespoonful of butter, one egg, the juice of half a lemon and a little stock, mushroom liquor or milk. Beat the butter to a cream, add the yolk of the egg and beat a little longer. Chop up the mushrooms and tomato and add them, also the breadcrumbs and enough stock or milk to moisten the whole. Season to taste. Whip up the white of egg till stiff, then mix in very lightly. Fill the cases with this mixture.

FRUIT COMPOTES.

COMPOTES are fruits in sirup served in such a way as to preserve their forms, either whole, halved or quartered.

Some recipes for delicious compotes are given here:

Cream and Berries.

Strawberry Compote.—Take a pint of fresh solid berries, sprinkle over them one cupful of powdered sugar. Dissolve a tablespoonful of gelatin in a little warm water. Crush one cupful of stale sponge cake crumbs. Mix the gelatin, berries and crumbs and turn into a mold.

Whip one cupful of cream until stiff. When the fruit gelatin is firm dip by the spoonful into a glass dish, alternating with spoonfuls of cream until the dish is full. Finish with the cream and a few whole and perfect berries.

Apples In Sirup.

Apple Compote.—Pare and remove the cores from six large apples, throwing them into cold water with lemon juice. Then blanch in the same water till tender enough to show if pressed with the finger. Lift out the apples and arrange on the dish on which they are to be served.

Make a sirup of loaf sugar, using one lump to each apple and either lemon or vanilla flavor. Boil all together until thick and pour it over and around the apples. Serve with or without cream.

This Looks Handsome.

Rhubarb Compote.—Take nice, well colored and thick stalks of rhubarb. Cut it into lengths of four or five inches. Put into a saucepan two pounds of sugar with a pint of water. Bring to the boiling point and skim. Then boil the sirup till it is quite thick. Add the rhubarb and simmer gently till soft. Lift each length carefully and lay it on a glass dish, then boil the sirup for a few minutes longer. Let it cool, then add a few drops of red coloring and pour over the rhubarb.

This Is Basted.

Banana Compote.—Take the skin off your bananas, cut them crossways and lengthwise. Lay these strips in a baking dish. Pour over them, for each banana, two tablespoonfuls of water, one of sugar, one teaspoonful of butter, melted, the juice of one lemon and a small pinch of salt. Bake slowly for half an hour, basting constantly, until the fruit is red and the juice is thick. Serve very hot.

The Wreck of the Titan

By Morgan Robertson

Copyright, 1898, by M. F. Mansfield. Copyright, 1912, by Morgan Robertson. All rights reserved.

SYNOPSIS

The great steamer Titan, supposed to be unsinkable, starts across the Atlantic. Rowland, once a lieutenant, now a common sailor, meets his old love Myra. She is with her husband and child.

The Titan cuts a ship in two, and her captain endeavors to conceal the crime. Rowland objects. The captain gives him whisky, so that he will be discredited. Myra accuses him of attempting to murder her child.

Rowland is drugged by the captain's order and is then given the starboard bridge lookout, so that he will disgrace himself. Myra's child steals away and joins Rowland.

The Titan strikes an iceberg and sinks. Thousands are lost. Myra escapes in a boat. Rowland and the child find refuge on the iceberg. He loses an arm in a fight with a polar bear.

Rowland, who has been an atheist, prays for help, and he and the child are rescued. Meyer, a marine insurance man, is heavily hit by the loss of the Titan and the Royal Age.

Meyer will be ruined if the Titan insurance is paid, and Selfridge, little Myra's grandfather, will be ruined if it is not paid. Meyer finds Rowland and relies upon his story to break the insurance policies. Rowland's story helps him.

Captain Barry, Rowland and Myra, followed by a parting, heart borne malediction from the agitated underwriter, left the office and reached the street. The carriage that had brought them was still waiting.

"Settle inside," called the captain to the driver. "We'll take another, Rowland."

Around the first corner they found a cab, which they entered. Captain Barry giving the driver the direction—"Bark Peerless, East India dock."

"I think I understand the game, Rowland," he said as they started. "You don't want to break this child."

"That's it," answered Rowland weakly as he leaned back on the cushion, faint from the excitement of the last few moments, "and as for the right or wrong of the position I am in—why, we must go farther back for it than the question of lookouts. The cause of the wreck was full speed in a fog. All hands on lookout could not have seen that berg. The underwriters knew the speed and took the risk. Let them pay."

"Right, and I'm with you on it. But you must get out of the country. I don't know the law on the matter, but they may compel you to testify. You can't ship 'fore the mast again, that's settled. But you can have a berth, mate, with me as long as I sail a ship if you'll take it. And you're to make my cabin your home as long as you like, remember that. Still, I know you want to get across with the kid, and if you stay around until I sail it may be months before you get to New York with the chance of losing her by getting foul of English law. But just leave it to me. There are powerful interests at stake in regard to this matter."

What Captain Barry had in mind, Rowland was too weak to inquire. On their arrival at the bark he was assisted by his friend to a couch in the cabin, where he spent the rest of the day, unable to leave it. Meanwhile, Captain Barry had gone ashore again.

Returning toward evening he said to the man on the couch: "I've got your pay, Rowland, and signed a receipt for it to that attorney. He paid it out of his own pocket. You could have worked that company for fifty thousand or more, but I knew you wouldn't touch their money, and so, only struck him for your wages. You're entitled to a month's pay. Here it is—American money—about $17." He gave Rowland a roll of bills.

"Now, here's something else, Rowland," he continued, producing an envelope. "In consideration of the fact that you lost all your clothes and later your arm through the carelessness of the company's officers, Mr. Thompson offers you this." Rowland opened the envelope. In it were two first cabin tickets from Liverpool to New York. Flushing hotly, he said bitterly:

"It seems that I'm not to escape it after all."

"Take 'em, old man, take 'em. In fact, I took 'em for you, and you and the kid are booked. And I made Thompson agree to settle your doctor's bill and expenses with Meyer. 'Tisn't bribery. I'd heel you myself for the run over; but, hang it, you'll take nothing from me. You've got to get the young un over. You're the only one to do it. The old gentleman was an American, alone here, hadn't even a lawyer that I could find. The boat sails in the morning, and the night train leaves in two hours. Think of that mother, Rowland. Why, man, I'd travel round the world to stand in your shoes when you hand Myra over. I've got a child of my own." The captain's eyes were winking hard and fast, and Rowland's were shining.

"Yes, I'll take the passage," he said with a smile. "I accept the bribe."

"That's right. You'll be strong and healthy when you land, and when that mother's through thanking you—and you have to think of yourself, remember—I want a mate and will be here a month before sailing. Write to me, care o' Lloyd's, if you want the berth, and I'll send you advance money to get back with."

"Thank you, captain," said Rowland as he took the other's hand and then glanced at his empty sleeve, "but my going to sea is ended. Even a mate needs two hands."

"Well, suit yourself, Rowland. I'd take you mate without any hands at all while you had your brains. It's

"You could have worked that company for fifty thousand or more."

done me good to meet a man like you. And say, old man, you won't take it wrong from me, will you? It's none o' my business, but you're too all fired good a man to drink! You haven't had a nip for two months. Are you going to begin?"

"Never again," said Rowland, rising. "I've a future now, as well as a past."

CHAPTER VIII.
The Kidnaper.

IT was near noon of the next day that Rowland, seated in a steamer chair with Myra and looking out on a sail spangled stretch of blue from the saloon deck of a westbound liner, remembered that he had made no provisions to have Mrs. Selridge notified by cable of the safety of her child, and unless Mr. Meyer or his associates gave the story to the press it would not be known.

"Well," he mused, "joy will not kill, and I shall witness it in its fullness if I take her by surprise. But the chances are that it will get into the papers before I reach her. It is too good for Mr. Meyer to keep."

But the story was not given out immediately. Mr. Meyer called a conference of the underwriters concerned in the insurance of the Titan, at which it was decided to remain silent concerning the card they hoped to play and to spend a little time and money in hunting for other witnesses among the Titan's crew and in interviewing Captain Barry to the end of improving his memory. A few stormy meetings with this huge obstructionist convinced them of the futility of further effort in his direction, and, after finding at the end of a week that every surviving member of the Titan's port watch, as well as a few of the other, had been induced to sign for Cape voyages or had otherwise disappeared, they decided to give the story told by Rowland to the press in the hope that publicity would avail to bring to light corroboratory evidence.

And this story, improved upon in the repeating by Mr. Meyer to reporters and embellished still farther by the reporters as they wrote it up, particularly in the part pertaining to the polar bear, blazoned out in the great dailies of England and the continent and was cabled to New York, with the name of the steamer in which John Rowland had sailed (for his movements had been traced in the search for evidence), where it arrived too late for publication the morning of the day on which, with Myra on his shoulder, he stepped down the gangplank at a North river dock. As a consequence he was surrounded on the dock by enthusiastic reporters, who spoke of the story and asked for details. He refused to talk, escaped them and, gaining the side streets, soon found himself in crowded Broadway, where he entered the office of the steamship company in whose employ he had been wrecked and secured from the Titan's passenger list the address of Mrs. Selfridge, the only woman saved. Then he took a car up Broadway and alighted abreast of a large department store.

"We're going to see mamma soon, Myra," he whispered in the pink ear, "and you must go dressed up. It don't matter about me, but you're a Fifth avenue baby—a little aristocrat. These old clothes won't do now." But she had forgotten the word "mamma" and was more interested in the exciting noise and life of the street than in the clothing she wore. In the store Rowland asked for and was directed to the children's department, where a young woman waited on him.

"This child has been shipwrecked," he said. "I have $16.50 to spend on it. Give it a bath, dress its hair and use up the money on a dress, shoes and stockings, underclothing and a hat." The young woman stooped and kissed the little girl from sheer sympathy, but protested that not much could be done.

"Do your best," said Rowland. "It is all I have. I will wait here."

An hour later, penniless again, he emerged from the store with Myra, bravely dressed in her new finery, and was stopped at the corner by a policeman, who had seen him come out and who marveled doubtless at such juxtaposition of rags and ribbons.

"Whose kid ye got?" he demanded.

"I believe it is the daughter of Mrs. Colonel Selfridge," answered Rowland haughtily—too haughtily by far.

"Ye believe, but ye don't know. Come back into the shtore, me tourist, an' we'll see who ye shtole it from."

"Very well, officer; I can prove possession." They started back, the officer with his hand on Rowland's collar, and were met at the door by a party of three or four people coming out. One of this party, a young woman in black, uttered a piercing shriek and sprang toward them.

"Myra!" she screamed. "Give me my baby! Give her to me!"

She snatched the child from Rowland's shoulder, hugged it, kissed it, cried and screamed over it; then, oblivious to the crowd that collected, incontinently fainted in the arms of an indignant old gentleman.

"You scoundrel!" he exclaimed as he flourished his cane over Rowland's head with his free arm. "We've caught you. Officer, take that man to the station house. I will follow and make a charge in the name of my daughter."

"Then he shtole the kid, did he?" asked the policeman.

"Most certainly," answered the old gentleman as, with the assistance of the others, he supported the unconscious young mother to a carriage. They all entered, little Myra screaming for Rowland from the arms of a female member of the party, and were driven off.

"C'man wi' me," uttered the officer, rapping his prisoner on the head with his club and jerking him off his feet.

Then, while an approving crowd applauded, the man who had fought and conquered a hungry polar bear was dragged through the streets like a sick animal by a New York policeman, for such is the stultifying effect of a civilized environment.

"C'man wi' me," uttered the officer.

A BIT OF ADVICE

First—Don't Delay. Second—Don't Experiment.

If you suffer from backache; headaches or dizzy spells; if you rest poorly and are languid in the morning; if the kidney secretions are irregular and unnatural in appearance, do not delay. The kidneys are calling for help. Slight symptoms of kidney trouble are but fore-runners of more serious complaints. They should be given attention before it is too late.

Doan's Kidney Pills cure kidney trouble. They are recommended by thousands. Can Quincy residents desire more convincing proof than the statement of a Quincy citizen who says that the cure Doan's Kidney Pills effected years ago has proven permanent?

W. Charlesworth, 33 Cranch St., Quincy, Mass., says: "Doan's Kidney Pills are certainly an effective kidney medicine. They fixed me up in good shape some years ago, and since then I have had no kidney trouble."

For sale by all dealers. Price 50 cents. Foster-Milburn Co., Buffalo, New York, sole agents for the United States.

ITALY UPSETS EUROPE'S NERVES

Solidity of the Triple Alliance Is Threatened

Paris, May 23.—The extension of the Turco-Italian war is awakening the powers to the necessity of making renewed attempts to bring the conflict to an end. Italy's steady occupation of the Turkish islands in the Aegean sea, which Turkey has answered by expelling Italians from the Ottoman empire, is regarded here with considerable inquietude.

This, it is pointed out, totally nullifies the equilibrium of forces in one section of the water route round the world which, with the completion of the Panama canal, means a continuous global marine movement.

The Temps declares that Italy's occupation of the archipelago changes the whole political map, as the eastern Mediterranean enters into the dominion of the triple alliance. The turn of events, therefore, is distinctly against the interests of the triple entente and chiefly against those of Russia, and the time has arrived for the members of the triple entente to examine the situation seriously.

MISSIONARIES FORCED TO FLEE

Child Born While Parents Were in Flight in China

CARED FOR WOUNDED

Driven from their station at Wu Chow in North China because of the revolution the Rev. and Mrs. W. H. Oldfield, missionaries of the Christian Missionary alliance, arrived in Boston Wednesday, on the steamship Armenia from Liverpool. They were forced to leave their mission while Mrs. Oldfield was in a delicate condition, and at Hong Kong, where they went for refuge, a daughter was born.

The little one, now five months old, is named Mildred E. Oldfield.

Because of Mrs. Oldfield's condition it was hoped their departure could be delayed, but the climax came with a terrific battle outside the city. Mr. Oldfield and other members of the missionary colony worked for hours caring for the wounded in improvised hospitals.

They will remain in Boston for some months and then visit Mr. Oldfield's home in Ontario.

Mrs. Oldfield went to China nine years ago.

QUINCY'S NEW TEMPLE

Chairman Merrill said that he was the opening of this new building. If the officers, and citizens of the district and the people of this city were pleased he was more than satisfied. He had been a resident of Quincy for upwards of 33 years and had seen the growth that had been made by the court. Long before he entered public life he could see that larger and better quarters were needed. When he first came to Quincy the court was located in poor and inconvenient quarters near the Hancock cemetery. From there it was moved to the Adams building and eight years ago to the new building known as the Hancock building.

Almost from the beginning of his term as County Commissioner it had been suggested that Quincy ought to have a new court building but he had hesitated, as he was an official from taking the initiative. This was finally done by the Board of Trade and in 1910 a bill was introduced in the legislature for $100,000. The committee cut this to $80,000. The Board of Trade did valiant work in securing the passage of the bill. He had told the legislative committee that East Norfolk should have suitable quarters. There was practically no opposition. Last year we went to the legislature and got a bill passed for an additional appropriation as we thought that we should build for the future. Today we present to you the finished building. The location was the most central that could be secured and "I want to thank the citizens for their support in this work."

Judge Avery said this is one of the most beautiful buildings in the Commonwealth set apart for court purposes. There were but few district court buildings. One at Lynn and one at Fall River. But little in the way of criticism could be said. It is well adapted in every way for the use of the courts. The first presiding justice was Hon. Everett C. Bumpus who had won distinction for himself in many ways. He presided for ten years. His clerk was J. White Belcher. Judge James H. Humphrey succeeded Judge Bumpus. He had done valient service in the state and in his native town of Weymouth. He was well grounded in the principles of law and all remember and honor him. His clerk was the late John P. S. Churchill.

The present clerk is Mr. Lyons, who has sacrificed his future to fulfill the the duties of the office. In closing, Judge Avery said that he trusted in these new surroundings the justice would strive to do better service for the district and the people of the court.

The first case was then called, which was that of Amos Lovell of Weymouth.

WONDERFUL WORK BY WILLIAMS 15 YEAR OLD MOUND ARTIST

Only 18 Players Faced Him in Six Innings of Play in Grammar School Game

Mass. Fields Boys Slaughtered in Game with Adams

The Quincy school made a desperate struggle Wednesday afternoon on the Ward Six playground, Atlantic, to lower the colors of the leaders of the Grammar school league, but when the contest ended, the Lincoln second was found to be a winner by the close score of 3 to 2. Both pitchers were very effective and the game was stubbornly fought from start to finish.

McIntyre who pitched for the winning aggregation, allowed two hits and struck out nine. McNally gave three hits and fanned six. Only one error was made in the entire game.

The score by innings:

	1	2	3	4	5	6	R	H	E
Lincoln	0	0	1	1	1	0	3	3	0
Quincy	1	0	0	0	1	0	2	2	1

Batteries:—Lincoln. McIntyre and Tite. Quincy—McNally and Gnoug.

The Washington school team defeated Atherton Hough in a cleanly played and most interesting game Wednesday afternoon at Merrymount Park. The score being 3 to 1. Errors were largely responsible for the defeat of the Houghs Neck boys.

The score by innings:—

	1	2	3	4	5	6	R	H	E
Washington	1	1	1	0	0	x	3	3	1
Atherton Hough	1	0	0	0	0	0	1	3	3

Batteries: Washington— Guerny and McKenna. Atherton Hough—Lemons and LeCain.

All records of the season in the Grammar school basketball league were put in the shade at Merrymount Park Wednesday afternoon when the Adams school boys whitewashed the Massachusetts Fields team by a score of 19 to 0. Williams, who pitched for the victors also established a record for the season, for in the six innings of play, only eighteen opposing batsmen faced him.

He had the Massachusetts Fields players at his mercy throughout the game and allowed them but a single hit. Williams himself secured two three base hits.

The game was nothing short of a swatting fest, in which all the honors were carried off by the Adams players.

The result of the game was a source of great consolation to Arthur S. Townsend, the principal of the Adams school, for on the day previous, the Cranch school, of which he is also principal, went down to a 16 to 3 defeat at the hands of the Wollaston school boys. The game was considered the record breaker of the season, but Mr. Townsend had the satisfaction of seeing David H, Goodspeed, principal of the Wollaston and Massachusetts Fields school, placed in the same predicament as he himself was the day before.

The game was largely attended and the Adams boys are now eagerly awaiting the day when they cross bats with the Wollaston school. A foremost contender for the first place honors. The Adams boys played an errorless game.

The score by innings:-

	1	2	3	4	5	6	R	H	E
Adams	1	3	1	0	7	7	19	14	0
Mass. Fields	0	0	0	0	0	0	0	1	9

Batteries:—Adams, Williams and Byron. Mass. Fields:—Ganzel, Fowler and Drew.

YACHTING NOTES.

The opening banquet of the Wollaston Yacht Club is set for May 25.

Hanley is building a large steel shed for storage purposes at his yard in Quincy.

There will be no joint race by the Squantum and Wollaston yacht clubs, as proposed at the last meeting of the interclub to adjust an unfortunate situation in which the Wollastons found themselves. The date assigned the club proved to be unsatisfactory on account of the stage of the tide. The Squantums do not feel willing to unite with their neighbor on the date assigned the former organization. A way out of the difficulty, however, has been suggested, having the Wollaston club take Sept. 7, on which date also falls the Quincy Yacht Club race. Sept. 7 is one day before the rendezvous, and should the club accept there is probability that the inter club would award championship pennants after the race at the Wollaston clubhouse. Another date that might prove acceptable to the Wollaston club is June 17, when tidal conditions will prove favorable.

GARRISON END BY LOCAL BOYS

Quincy High Won from South Boston in Ninth

SPIRITED GAME THROUGHOUT

Quincy High defeated South Boston High at Merrymount Park Tuesday by a score of 5 to 4. Brown doing the trick in the ninth inning. The first batter up scored a hit, but was out, McMahon to Sullivan, when Holmes was safe on a fielder's choice. Blackmur hit, stole second and Holmes came in when McMahon, after fumbling the ball, tried to get Barry at first, with the winning run.

The game was close from start to finish. McDonald, who twirled for the home team was in rare form, striking out ten of the opposing batsmen and allowing but four hits. In only one inning did he lose his effectiveness, in the seventh, when three hits and a base on balls allowed the Peninsular lads to tally three runs. Gerry, who occupied the mound for the visitors, was hit quite freely, although the playing of his team mates kept the local boys from rolling up a much larger score.

Quincy High made a run in the second inning when Mattson hit, stole second and came home on a hit by Little. Another run was annexed in the following inning on an error, two fielders' choices and hits by Barry and O'Dowd. The Granite City players got another run in the fourth inning on two bases on balls, a fielder's choice and a hit by Brown. In the sixth a run was made on a two bagger by McDonald, an error and a fielder's choice.

For five innings the visitors were blanked and it seemed that they would return home with nothing but goose eggs. In the sixth Gerry was given a pass. He stole second and scored when Little made an error of Hanlon's drive. In the following inning Skayhan started out by connecting safely. Donnegan accomplished the same feat and McMahon did likewise, Skayhan and Donnegan scoring. A passed ball allowed McMahon to cross the plate with the last run made by the visitors.

Features of the game were a fast double play by McMahon, Kehoe and Skayhan. Both Holmes and Hanlon played well behind the bat and their pegging to bases was good. Blackmur was again seen at second for the local team and played exceptionally well, accepting every chance and getting two hits. Considerable improvement was noticed in all round work of the home team. The spectacular play of the game was a pretty back hand catch, of a line drive by Brown, while running at a fast rate of speed. Mattson and Little also did well for the winners, while the best work for the losers was done by Hanlon, Murphy and Donnegan. The score by innings:

Innings	1	2	3	4	5	6	7	8	9
So. Boston H. S.	0	0	0	0	0	0	1	3	0	0—4

Runs made by Holmes, Blackmur, McDonald, Mattson, Baird, Skayhan, Donnegan, McMahon, Gerry. Two base hits—McDonald, Mattson. Stolen Bases—Blackmur, Mattson, Kehoe, Hanlon, Sullivan. First base on balls by McDonald 4, by McMahon 2. Struck out by McDonald 10, by McMahon 8. Double plays, McDonald to Little to O'Dowd. Passed balls—Holmes, Hanlon. Time 1 hour, 45 minutes. Umpire—LaRose. Attendance 500.

HANGING BY AN EYEBROW

Lincoln Boys Have No Cinch Leading League

LEADERS PLAY FRIDAY

With a record of nine victories in the ten games played, the Lincoln school leads the teams that comprise the Grammar School Baseball league. At the start of the season the Lincoln players did not give much promise of rounding out into an aggregation that would be the foremost contender for the honors at stake, but consistent playing has won many a hard fought game and it now looks as if it will be a difficult task for any other team of the league to lower the colors of the Lincoln boys.

Although the championship of the league is still in doubt, owing to the fact that a week yet remains, in which games are to be played, the real test of the season will take place Friday afternoon at Merrymount Park, where the leaders try conclusions with the Wollaston school, runner-up for the title. The Wollaston players, who were in the league since the start of the season, received their first setback at the hands of the Gridley Bryant school last week and gave way to Lincoln.

The Adams school has yet to play a game with the Wollaston and with the best team fighting it out next week It is not impossible that a past season series may take place in order to decide the question of the championship.

The standing to date is as follows:—

Team	Won	Lost	Percent
Lincoln	9	1	900
Wollaston	7	1	875
Gridley Bryant	8	2	800
Adams	7	2	778
Willard	5	4	556
Washington	5	5	500
Hancock	4	5	444
Quincy	4	5	444
Cranch	2	6	250
Coddington	1	5	166
Mass. Fields	1	8	111
Atherton Hough	1	10	091

FRANK MOESER LEFT HOME EARLY RAZOR MISSING FROM USUAL PLACE

Had Been in Poor Health For Some Time Wife and Daughter Fear For His Safety

Message in German Deferred Plans For a Visit With Friends

Frank Moeser aged about 47 years of 51 Rodman street is missing and fears are entertained for his safety. It seems that Mr. Moeser, who is a stone cutter by trade, was to leave town today with his wife for a visit to friends. With this in view they packed their trunk last night so as to be able to get a good start this morning. When Mrs. Moeser got up this morning her husband was missing and as near as could be learned he left the house at 4 o'clock. Nothing strange was thought of that as it was believed he had gone for a short walk.

Shortly before noon Mrs. Moeser picking up a newspaper found a message written in German on one corner. This message read: "Do not ship trunk until I get back. Am doing all I can." This alarmed his wife and daughter who began to look about to see if anything was missing. The only thing found missing was his razor, which Mrs. Moeser says is always kept in a certain place. This caused her some alarm and the police were notified of the disappearance.

Mrs. Moeser told the police that her husband had not been well for some time. That some weeks ago he did the same thing, that is he got up early one morning and left the house. In that case however he returned about 7 o'clock.

A search was immediately instigated but up to 1 o'clock no trace of the missing man was found. This afternoon a squad of police and friends are searching the quarries and woods between Quincy and Braintree to see if any trace of him can be found. The police of Braintree, Weymouth and Milton have also been notified to look

MUSIC PUPILS ASSISTED RECITAL

Miss Holbrooks Event Attended by Quincy People

LOCAL STUDENTS PERFORMED

Miss Marguerite Louise Holbrook of Bellevue Park, Quincy, gave a recital Wednesday evening at the Weston school for girls, Boston, where Miss Holbrook is instructor of voice. There were over one hundred guests present, more than half that number being Quincy people. Miss Holbrook was ably assisted by her pupils who always are a credit to her, and by William Wentworth of Boston, reader, and Miss Emily Bjorkman of Wollaston, accompanist.

The programme was a long one and full of interest. Miss Holbrook's pupils played with a style and expression seldom heard in young players. Mr. Wentworth's readings were well received one selection was entitled "The Sleeping Car" and the other "Aunt Melissy's Nephew."

The pupils from Wollaston who took part in the recital were Miss Irma Douglass, Mrs. Ada Malcolm Waite, Miss Florence Hall from Norfolk Downs, Miss Mabel Morrison, Miss Mabel Doring, Miss Dorothy Fratus, Miss Mildred Harriman, and from Atlantic, Master Francis McCabe, Miss Eldeine M. Young, and Miss Ruth Fiske of Huntington, Massachusetts and Miss Evylyn Cheney of Lyndonville, Vermont.

After the concert ices and fancy cakes were served.

SOMEWHAT PREMATURE

That Rev. Mr. Sneath Accepted Wollaston Call

EXPECT FAVORABLE RESPONSE

Persons in authority contradict the reports that have appeared in some of the Boston and Quincy papers regarding the acceptance of the call to the Wollaston Congregational church by Rev. Isaiah W. Sneath of New Haven. Mr. Sneath has the matter under his consideration and, although it is probable he will reply favorably, nothing definite has yet been given to the Wollaston church or that where he is at present pastor.

COMMUNITY SPIRIT URGED

By Houghs Neck People in Seeking Street Improvements

NO CROSS PURPOSE WORK

At the meeting of the Houghs Neck Associates, held Thursday evening in Associates hall, it was voted to adjourn till Wednesday evening, May 29, at eight o'clock, at which time a mass meeting has been called for all of the residents of that section of the city, to discuss the question of having Sea street placed in a proper condition. This action was taken in order that the residents of Houghs Neck may be a unit in their petition to the City Council, and not have their plans spoiled as they did two years ago when the residents failed to agree upon the proposition.

Two years ago the City Council appeared favorable to an order calling for $10,000 to be used in repairing a section of Sea street. The majority of residents seemed agreed on the proposition, but at the eleventh hour some of the property owners whose residences adjoin Babcock street, thinking that the fixing of Sea street would mean the removal of the car tracks from Babcock street to Sea street, opposed the proposition, with the result that it was turned down by the City Council.

The weather this morning was a reminder that there is a warm wave hanging about somewhere in the vicinity. It is the first real summer morning of the season.

FORMER QUINCY MAN GOT HEAVY VERDICT FOR DEATH OF SON

Superior Court Awarded $4,500 to Martin H. McConnell of Wiscasset, Me., Today

Death of Clyde L. McConnell Occurred in Quincy Nearly Three Years Ago

After a trial of over two years and a half standing, Martin H. MacConnell, formerly of Quincy, but now operating a farm at Wiscasset, Maine, was handed down a verdict of $4,500 against the Old Colony Street Railway Co., by the grand jury of the Norfolk Superior Court at Dedham, at ten o'clock this morning, for the death of Clyde L. MacConnell, his eighteen months' old son, which occurred Sunday afternoon, October 10, 1909, as a result of being run over by a trolley car. Of the amount awarded for the death of the child, $4000 was for the death itself as a result of the accident and $500 for the continual suffering of the lad from the time of the accident until the occurrence of his death.

Mr. MacConnell was represented by John D. Mackay the well-known attorney of Quincy, who acted as senior counsel and Albert P. Worthern, junior counsel. The interests of the defendant in the case, the Old Colony Street Railway, were looked after by United States District Attorney Asa P. French, James S. Allen, Jr., and Foster and Turner. Mr. Mackay was widely congratulated this morning on the victory he had attained and for the untiring zeal he displayed since the time of the accident for the interests of the grieved parent.

The accident was on of the most unfortunate that ever occurred in Quincy. The little MacConnell child was playing near the farm with his brother Robert, when he chanced to become tired of the monotony and wishing to have a variety, began to perambulate by himself. His disappearance was not noticed by either his playmate or his father until it was too late. The child wandered on the car tracks and it happened that the cars on that day were bearing a number of passengers. A new motorman was operating the car and before he could avert danger, had run the car over the child. The passengers at the time were stricken for nearly all of them had been eye witnesses to the accident.

An effort was made to pull the child from under the car, but they having proved fruitless and the passengers were compelled to lift the car off the child's body. To do this, took much time, yet when the lad was finally taken from under the wheels, he was found to be still living, though his body was badly mutilated. He was removed to the Quincy Hospital, where both legs were amputated. At first it was thought the child might live, but he died that evening about eleven o'clock. The parents of the child were deeply sensitive of the loss of their loved one and even the sympathy of their many friends, together with the sympathy of the numerous Quincy people who happened to be on the car at the time of the accident, failed to appease their grief.

The accident was widely discussed and a movement was started at the time to have all trolley cars equiped with lifting jacks, for it was thought that had the child been relieved of the weight of the car earlier, he might have lived. The matter was brought before the legislators on Beacon Hill but the bill calling for such a provision was defeated after a great deal of deliberation.

CHARLIE KNOWS EVERY ONE.

Perhaps there is no one in the little old town of Braintree who is better known to young and old than "Charlie" Lothrop, proprietor of the little store in South Braintree square. "Charlie" has a speaking acquaintance with almost everyone in town, and when a stranger is seen, he immediately gets on the trail and finds out who he is. His store is a veritable gossip shop and more momentous questions are argued and decided there in one evening than in a week in the national Congress. If you want to know anything about Braitnree and what is going on here, just look up Charlie and you'll find out.—Rambler in Boston Herald.

HONESTY IN EVERYTHING

EDITORIAL COMMENT.

The fight is now transferred to New Jersey and "Dear Will" and "Dear Theodore," will hammer each other in the most brotherly fashion.

Boston has another female murder case which may go down into history with the criminal undiscovered.

Amundsen having conquered the South pole turns his gaze northward. He would have two magnetic needles in his case. Peary is satisfied with one, and "Doc" Cook—well he pulled down the money.

If any part of the Deer Island guard could smuggle dope and liquor to inmates the system at the place must be so lacking discipline that a clean-out from top to bottom is needed to improve the system.

The British public will be free of the exhortations of Mrs. Parkhurst for nine months, at least, unless she gets out sooner for good behavior, which is hardly probable in the light of her previous conduct.

Bryan did not cut such a swath in Ohio as was supposed. His tour of the state against Harmon was a clear case of money thrown away.

Cobb is credited with calling President Johnson the short and ugly term. People can judge of this case as it progresses without investigation of previous events.

A Chicago woman declines the honor of being on the tax list unless she has the right to vote. Now what would a man do in a case like that?

It is now settled that President Taft polled a larger vote in the Massachusetts primaries than Col. Roosevelt.

Morse's health is improved. In a few months the bulletin if one is issued will be "fully recovered," then hie for Wall street and the big shipping lines.

Possibly some people may not know, but as a matter of fact, the short and hobble skirt are no longer fashionable. To be in the swim a woman's street skirt should just clear the ground.

Italy is gathering up a lot of islands in the Aegean sea. But how will the Turks and Italians assimilate when the war is ended? If Italy holds the islands, murder, rapine and guerilla warfare may follow for many a day.

Johnnie Fitz's hat is already in the ring for senator. Is there anything in the office line beyond the aspiring ambition of this young man? All he has to do is to get a tight fitting swallow tail coat, a convention badge on one side of it, stick his right hand in the breast, bend his head, scowl, haul the cow-lick a little further forward, put his hat on cross-wise and there you have the American Napoleon of politics.

Curtis Guild won't take second place, but he would make a dandy president, a credit to Massachusetts.

What is the matter with the poor cats that so many people bob up occasionally and want them licensed? The question naturally arises would nine licenses be required and who would determined the period of renewals.

LACK OF CORDIALITY.

Lack of cordiality on the part of the dignitaries and parishioners of a church in a certain Pennsylvania town lost a $100 bill from its collection box one Sunday morning.

A wealthy Buffalo jeweler, about to set out on a tour of the country, promised his bishop, that he should leave a $100 offering in every church which he visited, where a proper spirit of cordiality was manifested towards strangers in the congregation.

Reaching the Pennsylvania town on a Saturday night, the Buffalo man attended church the next day.

Peary's reception at the North pole, or "Doc" Cook's treatment when discovered could not have a more congealed atmosphere. The Buffalo man was Buffaloed. The church people took no more notice of him than if he was a yellow dog.

Pastor, deacons and church people gave him the frigid stare and passed him by.

Clutching the $100 in his hand, where he had kept it in case of emergency, and the possible breaking of the cloudy atmosphere into the clear and inviting sunshine, the Buffalo man grimly strode from that church, and the church people did not realize until long after that they had been harboring yet snubbed a financial unawares.

SAFE, SANE CELEBRATION.

A movement is already on foot to celebrate the great and glorious Fourth of July in Quincy. The idea meets with the approval and endorsement of every loyal and patriotic citizen.

In the tremor and excitement of loyal patriotism and devotion to celebration, the safe and sane idea of celebration should not be lost sight of. A celebration or demonstration which is productive of maimed limbs or the loss of life is robbed of its pleasure by a community. By all means let us have the celebration, but let it be of the safe and sane kind, which will not leave disaster or regrets in its wake.

NO EASY PROBLEM.

The problem which the republican leaders of Massachusetts face at the present time is one which might well tax the powers of those responsible for leadership. Some time ago Senator Lodge is said to have cast aside the mantle which gave to him unlimited powers in guilding the party, clear of pitfalls, around jagged rocks and shoals, into clear open water. Criticism of the senator's acts in some cases were heard but they did not serve to disturb the serenity of the sage of Nahant. The senator is now 62 years old.

He was forced to battle for his last term in the upper branch of congress, a thing which was not much to his liking. Now the question arises, upon whom will this mantle of leadership fall? He who would wear it must be a leader in every sense, suave, tactful, a magnetic man who can sway people to views or convince them that he is carrying out their ideas. There are many who would aspire to the herculean task, whose difficulties are increased by the present peculiar situation. It will be with a great deal of interest that the people of Massachusetts will watch the Republican party unravel this great tangled skein.

BAZAAR AND SALE.

The bazaar and fancy sale of the ladies of the First U. P. church opens in Electa hall this afternoon and will continue through tonight to Saturday afternoon and evening. The "Deestrict Skule" will be given tonight by local talent.

THE COMMONPLACE.

I thank God for the commonplace—
The joys that garment every day—
The unremembered, unseen things
That keep the common way.

The routine sun that all the years
Has kept his one unchanging place,
Unmurmuring through cloud and mist,
A smile upon his face.

Man's life is like a little road
That runs beside a cabin door,
Feeling its way among the flowers
That bloom forevermore.

And hedged about by common things
That change not as the years run by
The ancient landmarks lead him on Toward the homing sky.

The heavenly glory does not hide
Far off in some sequestered place—
The morning's opening door reveals
God in the daisy's face.

Glad They Told Him.

What it is to be a genuine, single minded egotist is illustrated by an occurrence related by an American who spends much of his time in England. Among his acquaintances is a certain distinguished Britisher who is a great invalid and spends most of his time in bed, a fact which, however, does not prevent him from receiving a great deal of company. One day while thus in bed the Britisher received several guests. They all began to shiver and pull their coats about them as they huddled around the bed.

"What!" exclaimed the invalid. "Is it cold here?"

"We are freezing," answered a guest.

"Thank you for telling me," said the distinguished invalid, who thereupon rang a bell. The guests supposed that he was summoning a servant to build a fire, but when his man came in the invalid said:

"Mullins, bring me my down coverlet."—Harper's Magazine.

MYSTERY FIRE AT E. WEYMOUTH

Destroyed a 21-Room House, With a Loss of $4,000

PERSONAL PROPERTY BURNED

Fire of mysterious origin Wednesday afternoon entirely consumed the 21-room house on Red Top Farm, East street, East Weymouth, the dwelling of Bernard Iskvitch, by whom it was owned.

The loss was estimated at $4,000, which included the furniture and all personal possessions, none of which was saved. A large barn on the farm was saved from destruction only by the hardest work by the firemen.

Mrs. Iskvitch smelled smoke for half an hour before the source of the fire was discovered, and shortly afterward the flames had wrapped themselves about the entire house.

The "Y. F. K's" a club of West Quincy young ladies, whose name has been changed to "Upsilon Phi Kappa" held a private dancing party Wednesday evening at Ellsworth hall, East Milton which was attended by fifty couples. Morrissette's orchestra furnished the music for the dancing which was from 8 to 12. Miss Anna Lynch and Master John Lynch officiated as program distributers. The committee in charge were; Misses Anna and Louise Mullen, Lillian and Olive Barry, and Louise Driscoll. Frappe was served during the entire evening.

MARINES FOR CUBA

Uprising May Prove Serious For American Lives and Property

Washington, May 24.—As a result of reports of danger to American lives and property in Cuba, the navy department at the request of the state department has ordered the naval transport Prairie to embark 500 marines at Philadelphia and proceed immediately to the United States naval station at Guantanamo to join the gunboats Paducah and Nashville.

It is stated at the state department that this action is taken wholly on the ground that a serious state of disturbance is indicated in the easternmost province of the island, where there are important American interests. A number of these have already complained that their property has been seized and that the lives of their employes are endangered.

Officials here believe the Cuban government underestimates the strength or the purpose of the present insurrectionary movement.

It has been a matter of discussion for some time among the diplomatic corps here that the Cuban government itself might be tempted to encourage a rebellious movement in the hope of securing a continuance in power by American backing.

Santiago, May 24.—A body of 700 negroes under the leadership of General Estenoz set fire to the canefields in the Esperanza, Santa Rosa and Cervantes plantations owned by Spaniards. The rural guards remained inactive, as they were unable to control the situation.

CONSUL GENERAL KILLED

Our Representative at Frankfort-on-the-Main Dies From a Fall

Frankfort-on-the-Main, Ger., May 24.—United States Consul General Frank D. Hill of Minnesota was killed by falling over the railing of the staircase in a big hotel here yesterday.

He was found on the ground floor with a broken skull. It is assumed the fatal accident was caused by a spell of dizziness.

Richeson Buried

Amherst, Va., May 24.—The body of Clarence V. T. Richeson, who was electrocuted at Boston for the murder of Avis Linnell, was buried at his boyhood home here yesterday beside his mother, thus fulfilling his last wish. No services were held.

SERIOUS RIOTS IN BUDAPEST

In Revolver Duels Police and Strikers Are Killed

Budapest, Hungary, May 24.—This city was almost in a state of siege last night. Great columns of troops were massed on the public squares and at every point of vantage, and the government seems determined to put down with an iron hand all riotous demonstrations.

Seven persons have been reported killed outright and 350 wounded, some of whom will die, as the result of the clashes between the military and police and the strikers. Further trouble is feared, as the temper of the people is very bitter against the government.

The riots were a continuation of the trouble that followed the defeat of the opposition in the chamber of deputies, when Count Tisza, bitter opponent of universal suffrage, was elected president. The Socialist council called a general strike of all union workmen, exempting the municipal employes, as a protest, and the order was generally obeyed.

SERIOUS FOR SHIPPING

London Dock Handlers 150,000 Strong Go Out on Strike

London, May 24.—The national executive committee of the Transport Workers' federation has entered upon a general strike in support of the Thames lighter men in their dispute with their employers and also to enable the federation to endeavor to adjust its own grievances.

No fewer than 150,000 dockers, carmen, lightermen, laborers and others connected with the docks will be immediately involved in the strike and the entire transport work of the port of London will be brought to a standstill.

Work at some of the London docks is already paralyzed and numerous vessels laden with foodstuffs are unable to discharge their cargoes, while perishable food is rotting in the warehouses.

Wilson Turned Down

Louisville, May 24.—Members of the Presbyterian general assembly in session here voted to rescind its action in naming Secretary of Agriculture Wilson as a delegate to the Pan-Presbyterian congress at Aberdeen, Scotland. This action is said to have grown out of the attendance of Secretary Wilson at the Brewers' congress in Chicago last summer, as honorary president.

COAL STRIKE HITS CONSUMER

Operators Charge Increase Paid Miners to Production

MAKES MILLIONS IN PROFITS

Prices Advance on June 1—Increase Far Exceeds the Added Cost of Increased Wages—Annual Profits of $46,852,611 For the Operators—Consumer Pays the Wage Increase and a Large Profit

New York, May 24.—That the public will have to pay the increase in the wages of the anthracite mine workers granted by the operators was demonstrated yesterday when it was announced that the price of hard coal would be advanced 25 cents on June 1, thereby increasing the maximum price of coal at tide water from $5 to $5.25 a ton. The coal companies estimate that a price advance of about 20 cents a ton on domestic sizes will be required to cover the wage increase, while the balance of the price advance of 25 cents will go toward making up the increase in the cost of production, aside from the cost of labor, that has taken place in the last ten years. This, it is said, is due to the greater cost of materials and to the greater outlay for pumping, ventilation and underground transportation.

The anthracite mine operators have practically decided that the amount they will take from the American people this year in return for the increase granted to the miners is $6,006,745.10. And it may not end with this year. It will be remembered that in 1911 the coal operators took an added profit from the public of $40,845,868 on account of the increase granted to the miners in 1900 and 1902. In the ten years from 1902 to 19912 their unearned profit because of the increase of 32 cents a ton in the miners' wages has been 68 cents for every ton of domestic sizes of coal sold to the public, or approximately $317,712,000.

They are going to raise the miners' wages 5¼ percent. Calculated on the basis of the 1911 production, which is expected to be increased this year, the increase in wages will be $6,026,417.09. They could, therefore, have allowed the miners their increase and deducted it from the profits, and still have had the profits annually of $34,819,449.59. They decided, however, to increase the price of coal sufficiently to cover the rise in wages to the miners and add a small additional profit for the operators, so that their total annual unearned profit will be not $6,006,745.10, but $46,852,611.78.

As the production this year is expected to equal that of 1911, this new price list means that the consumers of domestic sizes of coal will pay the operators an unearned profit of 10 cents at ton above all increases in cost of production on 60,067,451 tons of anthracite, or $6,006,745.10.

COUNTY ADMINISTRATION

Subect of Special Message to the Senate of Massachusetts

Boston, May 24.—A sensational denouncement of county administration in this state, with a veto of the bill to increase the salaries of county commisions in proportion to the population of their respective counties, was expressed in a special message sent by Governor Foss to the senate yesterday.

Gross extravagance, lax business and financial conditions and disregard of public interest were some of the charges made by the governor in his message against the county commissioners' administration.

Among other salient points in his message Governor Foss scored conditions as follows:

The existing system of county administration is the sore spot on the body politic of Massachusetts

Sufficient power still remains in the hands of county officials to enable them to oppose and thwart every effort to establish modern and efficient methods in the management of public business.

Our county prisons remain a reproach to the commonwealth. Unsanitary conditions, improper herding of prisoners, immorality, and many gross injustices have occurred.

Fourth Bishop Chosen

Minneapolis, May 24.—Dr. Naphthali Luccock, pastor of the Hyde Park church, Kansas City, Mo., is the fourth bishop of the eight to be elected at the present session of the general conference of the Methodist Episcopal church here. This was the result of the fifteenth ballot.

Third Auto Victim

Lowell, Mass., May 24.—Adelard Landry of this city is dead as the result of injuries received in an automobile wreck last Friday night. Landry is the third to die from this automobile, Joseph Suprenant, will recover.

AMUSEMENTS

DOINGS ON THE STAGE OF

LOCAL AND BOSTON THEATRES

BOSTON THEATRE.

Theatre-goers will have to hurry! Julian Eltinge, the famous feminine impersonator who is at present creating a positive sensation at the Boston Theatre as the star of "The Fascinating Widow," is going to close his season in two weeks and amusement-seekers who have not yet seen this play and player should take advantage of these remaining performances without fail. The closing date has been set for Saturday night, June 8th. The announcement has been made that Julian Eltinge and "The Fascinating Widow" will positively not appear in any other New England city this or any other season, which means that the coming two weeks ending June 8th will be the only opportunities anybody in this section of the country will have to catch a glimpse of the famous actor whose skill as an impersonator of beautiful women has placed his name in the front rank of America's greatest character actors. "The Fascinating Widow" is easily the reigning triumph of music and mirth in Boston at the present time and all who visit the city should not fail to include a visit to the Boston Theatre in their schedule. The Wednesday and Saturday matinees at popular prices are admirably suited to convenience of out of town patrons.

MAJESTIC THEATRE.

When William A. Brady determined over a year ago to produce a monster revival with an all-star cast of some great melodrama that thrilled the fathers and mothers of a generation ago, he selected as the very best vehicle for his venture "The Lights O' London." Thrills it had aplenty, and the opportunities it offered for scenic magnificence and the display of histrionic ability were practically unlimited. Mr. Brady's revival of this great play is now a matter of history. It marked an epoch in stage productions. This same production, is to be Mr. Lindsay Morison's offering to his patrons at the Majestic Theatre next week. His daring in attempting such an undertaking for stock shows more clearly than anything else his determination to give his patrons the very best obtainable, regardless of expense. Every piece of scenery used in the seventeen scenes of the Original Brady production will be used in the Morison production. Two large railroad cars will be required to transport it from New York, and the cost of it all is going to be in excess of $550. Boston will thus be the first city outside of New York to see this great revival. Mr. Morison's production will be given with the entire strength of his company, including Howell Hansel, Mary Sanders, H. Dudley Hawley, Rose Morison and all the other Morison favorites.

B. F. KEITH'S.

With Jesse L. Lasky's big musical production, "The Antique Girl," and Maude Lambert, late of "Over The River" as the two star features, next week's bill at B. F. Keith's Theatre promises to be one of the strongest of the season. Mr. Lasky is the most skilful and prolific producer in vaudeville today. His productions are internationally famous for their lavishness and beauty. This season he has outdone all previous efforts. In many respects "The Antique Girl" is the best thing he has ever done. The book is by Cecil DeMille, and the music by Robert Hood Bowers, composer of "The Red Rose." A pretty love story runs through the plot, and the score is very tuneful. Mr. Bowers has written many tinkling melodies that are bound to be whistled all over town before the week is up. The cast of "The Antique Girl" includes Fletcher Norton, Charles Pusey, Doris Wilson, and Maude Earl. The supporting company numbers sixteen pretty girls, and the stage setting is both elaborate and beautiful. Miss Lambert last appeared in Boston in New Fields' "Midnight Sons." She makes her vaudeville debut in a new act, assisted by Ernest Ball, the well-known song writer. Miss Lambert will sing several new and original ditties, and wear some wonderful gowns.

CASTLE SQUARE THEATRE.

The play and the dialogue of "A Night Off," which Mr. Craig will present at the Castle Square next week are brimful of mirth. One of the most famous of Augustin Daly farces, and produced during many seasons with Ada Rehan, John Drew and John Craig in its leading roles, it comes to the Castle Square once more after an absence of several seasons assured of a hearty welcome. It is because Mr. Craig knows the play so thoroughly, having been in it many times, that he is reviving it for this spring season.

The plot of "A Night Off" centres around a professor who thinks he has the ability to write a play, and who having written one, finally secures its production at the hands of a strolling manager. His wife is dead-set against his theatrical aspirations, and the play is a continuous conflict between the two. The professor especially has a hard time of it to secure its production unknown to his wife. When it is produced, everything goes wrong, and the climax of all comes when all the personages in the play assemble in the professor's home after the performance is over.

The cast of "A Night Off" at the Castle Square will add to its humor. John Craig will appear as Harry Damask, a role he has acted many times and Mary Young will give personal charm and spontaneity to the sprightly Nisbe. Others in leading roles will be Donald Meek, George Hassell and Mabel Colcord.

The play at the Castle Square during the week of June 3rd will be "The Climax," with a specially engaged cast including Donald Meek Carney Christie and Florence Webber,

MANY GOING TO CIRCUS.

Barnum and Bailey Attracting Thousands with Many New Novelty Features.

The Barnum and Bailey Greatest Show on Earth is attracting unusual interest this season with its wonderful program of European novelties, its rebuilt parade, its complete menagerie, and its recently added $500,000 wordless spectacle of "Cleopatra," all of which will be seen in Boston, on week of May 27.

The parade, which takes place at 10 o'clock in the morning, is three miles in length. In the menagerie will be found the only baby giraffe on exhibition anywhere on earth. The inaugural spectacle of "Cleopatra" is produced on the biggest stage ever devoted to an open air amusement. It is erected in the main tent of the show. There is a cast of 1,250 characters, a grand opera chorus of 400 voices, an orchestra of 100 musicians, a ballet of 350 dancing girls, 650 horses, five herds of elephants, caravans of camels, and an entire trainload of special scenery, costumes and stage effects. This is the greatest spectacular, theatrical, and circus event in the history of amusements in America.

The Barnum and Bailey circus for more than fifty years has stood at the head of the world's amusement affairs. This year it is more interesting than ever before, and twice as big. It travels on a train more than a mile in length, covers fourteen acres of ground, has nearly 1,500 employees, 700 horses, nearly two-thirds of the elephants in America, 110 cages in the menagerie and over 2,000 wagons and other vehicles. The two performances that will be given in Boston will be exactly the same as those presented at Madison Square Garden, New York, where the season was opened in March.

PARAGON PARK.

5th Season of the Park and Its Famous Palm Garden and 2nd Season of Greater Boston's First Cabaret Open May 30th.

Paragon, that most brilliant gem in the collection of seaside parks, famous for seven seasons for its Palm Garden, the heaven of the automobilists, the trolley tripper, the beach excursionist, and the steamboat joy rider alike, and made more notable than ever last season as introducing the first genuine European "Cabaret" in America, will open its eighth season on Decoration Day, next Thursday. It has hitherto been Manager Dodge's policy not to open the park until the Saturday before the 17th of June, but so many have already moved into their summer homes at Nantasket and so many requests have come from all sides for an early opening of at least the Palm Garden and "that delightful Cabaret" that he has decided to inaugurate his season on May 30, and while the season will not be in full swing, as far as all the attractions in the park are concerned, the Palm Garden and its Cabaret every evening from 8 to 11, with band concerts on Saturdays, Sundays and holidays up to Bunker Hill Day, will be running full blast. It is realized by this time that here is the real Cabaret as it is known in continental cities. Even New York has not given a genuine "Cabaret Performance."

The most notable change in Paragon Park for the coming season will be found in the section which has been rebuilt on account of the fire last fall which wiped out the boulevard front up to the administration building. This site is now occupied by the "Green Streak Railway," a scenic railway variation which provides a ride a mile long with many novelties, as one feature. Then there is the new dance hall, the biggest in New England, and one of the largest in the world. A thousand couples may be accommodated at one time. Another new feature is the new moving picture theatre which will seat a thousand people.

—In the sunset of life the members of the Grand Army of the Republic should have more assistance from the public on Memorial day. There should be no lack of funds, nor speakers, nor refreshments. The veterans march with a good deal of pride and would probably remonstrate against any change. But they are well worthy of riding in decorated automobiles that would enable the route of the procession to cover the whole city—Haverhill Gazette.

FAREWELL DANCING PARTY

Tendered Councilman Sandberg and Brother Oscar

WILL ATTEND OLYMPIC GAMES

A farewell dancing party was tendered to Councilman Edward J. Sandberg and his brother Oscar S. Sandberg, the well-known jeweler, both of whom depart next Tuesday en route to Sweden, to be present at the Olympic games in Colonial hall, Thursday evening. The affair was attended by a large number of friends of both gentlemen and they were the recipients of many well wishes.

The guests of the evening included Albert L. Whitman, Attorney John D. Mackay, Fred F. Green and ex-representative Peter T. Fallon. An entertainment was provided by Adolph estelli, Perry Green and Neil Miller, all of whom rendered solos in a manner that caused them to earn well merited applause. They were all forced to respond to repeated encores. Oscar S. Sandberg made a decided hit with his selection given on a bass drum.

The music for the occasion was furnished by Provost's orchestra. An intermission took place at ten o'clock, during which refreshments were served under the direction of a committee composed of Percy Taber, Alfred Bean and Perry Green. The gathering dispersed at midnight, after a most enjoyable time had been in order. The general committee comprised Leon C. Claflin, Miss Dorothy Huht, Mrs. Walter F. Carmen and Mrs. Albert Whitman.

SCHOOL SYSTEM CRITICISED

Teachers Too Carelessly Picked and Much Underpaid

BURDEN ON INSTITUTIONS

Modern school systems came in for some sharp criticism at the ministers' meeting of the Unitarians at the Arlington street church Boston, Wednesday when the denomination's attitude toward education was under discussion.

Rev. Theodore C. Williams said:

"The schools are too heavily loaded with work, and the teachers are too carelessly picked and are underpaid. The Unitarian church needs to help dissipate the burden which is being put on the schools—of being a mother and father, a doctor and minister all in one. We have a duty to promote greater co-operation of the home, church and school."

Rev. Jenkins Lloyd Jones of Chicago remarked: "I was brought up in a rude country school, but often I think the huge chunks of so-called ignorance which I acquired there are wha did he business for me."

MOONLIGHTS SATISFIED.

A very pretty dancing party was held in Pandora hall, Thursday evening by the J. T. society. Dancing was enjoyed by 60 couple, from 8 till 12. Moonlights were the features. Music was furnished by Wilson's orchestra. The affair was in charge of John Green, Frank Boutilieh and Jasper Johnson.

AT CORNELL REUNION.

James E. Neary and Carl Sheppard attended the annual reunion and dinner of graduates of Cornell university, residing in the vicinity of Boston, Wednesday evening in Boston. Thursday they rooted for the college team at the races on the Charles river.

MRS. THOMAS' HIGH SCORE.

At William C. Caldwell's whist party Thursday evening, eleven tables were in play. Mrs. Thomas had a score of 57, G. Crane 6; Mrs. Gragg 50; E. A. Hayden and Mrs. Griswold 49; C. L. Lewis and M. E. Goode 48 each; Charles Steward 47; Mrs. Starr 46 and Mrs. Saunders 15.

CASH BAIL $50 FOR ANDERSON

Warned by the Court There Should Be No More Trouble

WIFE THE COMPLAINANT

The case of Dr. John H. Anderson who it is alleged threw his wife out of their home on Washington street Wednesday evening, thereby drawing together quite a large crowd, came up in the district court before Judge Avery, this morning when he was arraigned on a complaint charging him with assaulting his wife. Anderson was arrested on the complaint late Thursday afternoon but was admitted to bail. He entered a plea of not guilty and the case was continued until next Wednesday, as his counsel is engaged in court at Dedham. He was admited to bail in the sum of $50 cash. The court however told the defendant that the bail was with the understanding that there should be no more trouble between him and his wife.

WHEEL WOBBLED AND BOY THROWN

Struck Road Roller in Pitching Over Handle Bars

GREATEST INJURY TO RIBS

While Charles Boiclair of Newbury avenue, Atlantic was riding his bicycle to the Quincy school, Thursday morning, he met with quite a serious accident. As he turned out for the street roller at work on Newbury avenue the front wheel of his machine caught in some way throwing the boy over the handle bars, striking the large roller. He was carried to Faxon Billing's yard near by, where Dr. D. A. Bruce was called and he was taken to his home. It was reported later that the shoulder was not broken, as was feared, but that the most injury was to the ribs. He had a bad shaking up and it is hoped the injuries will not prove to be as severe as was at first indicated.

MAKARIA VS. CHELSEA CLUB.

Saturday at Merrymount park Makaria meet the Chelsea Clock team. The team is one of the strongest semi-pro teams around Boston, and last year defeated such teams as the United Shoe Machinery Co., Plymouth Cordage and Everett City. The Makaria team has been going good, not having lost a game this season. Rice willd o the twirling and Chapman will catch. Game will start at 3.30, and this will be the last chance the fans will have to see the Makaria team on Merrymount park this year, as the Quincy City League starts May 30.

Primrose Day.

Primrose day in England, the anniversary of the death of Benjamin Disraeli, Lord Beaconsfield, had its origin in the tribute, a modest wreath of primroses, sent by Queen Victoria for the funeral of Beaconsfield. The general impression that the primrose was Beaconsfield's favorite flower came from a misunderstanding of the words attached to the queen's tribute—"F. Victoria. His favorite flower." The public thought the queen meant that the primrose was Beaconsfield's favorite flower when in truth she meant that it was the favorite flower of the prince consort.—New York American.

Meteors.

The frequency of meteors is at its highest toward the end of July and the beginning of August. During the first six months of the year the total number of meteors observed on a clear, moonless night is only about six an hour. At the beginning of July the frequency increases and attains its maximum, sixty-nine an hour, on Aug. 10. The mean for the entire year is twenty-four meteors an hour.—London Standard.

—The State board of health will spend a thousand dollars this year in teaching local boards to fight the mosquito. That sum will not go a great way, but it will piece out the present limited instruction. The mosquito as well as the fly should be fought. As an insect it is quite as dangerous as a disease carrier and more obnoxious in other ways. Persons can aid in fighting the pest by destroying its breeding grounds, which are pools or puddles of water and swampy places. A little kerosene oil, properly applied, will help to get rid of the plague and the remedy is well worth trying.—Framingham News.

NO ROOM FOR HARRIS IN QUINCY

He Pleaded Guilty to Being Idle and Disorderly

SENT THRILLING MESSAGES

Edwin E. Harris, from whom it is alleged the sensational telegram were sent to the Chief of Police, Tuesday saying that he was on his way to Quincy with a gun to kill his wife, entered a plea of guilty in court this morning to a complaint charging him with being idle and disorderly. The court imposed a sentence of three months in the house of correction but suspended the sentence until December 31, with the understanding that he should keep out of Quincy in the mean time.

Two startling telephone messages were received by the police Wednesday both of which were in relation to Edward Harris. The first said that Harris was on a train coming from New Bedford and that he had a gun and was coming to Quincy to shoot his wife. Sometime later, the second message was received. This came from the South station and said that Harris was there with two guns and was on his way to Quincy to kill his wife. The messages while startling were similar to messages received at other times about Harris's movements. Nevertheless the police were on the lookout for him. That evening Officer McNamara found him in a garage on Washington street and locked him up. No guns were found in his possession however. This morning he was examined as to his mental condition but found to be perfectly sane. He was then arraigned in court for being idle and disorderly and his case continued in $500 until today for a hearing.

"THE CHOIRMASTER."

The members of the Braintree Baptist church choir presented the operetta, "The Choirmaster," Wednesday evening in Cochato Hall. The audience enjoyed a laugh all the way through. J. Frank Scott directed the play, assisted by Miss Clara Holbrook.

The cast included Frank Patch, Charles Kohler, W. P. Battles, Alton Wood, Warner Hill, Arthur Mack, E. W. Chamberlain, G. W. Burton, John Smith, Miss Olive Hill, Miss Helen Galland, Mrs. F. A. Swallow, Mrs. M. E. Hoe, Miss Minnie Loring, Miss Fannie Close, Miss Kisbro Burton, Miss Florence Galland and Miss Nina Galland.

CIVIL SERVICE EXAMINATION.

A competitive examination will be held on June 18, to fill a vacancy in the position of assistant librarian, female, in the office of the State Board of agriculture, and similar vacancies as they may occur. The salary is $660.

The examination will consist of handwriting, spelling, arithmetic, stenography, typewriting, the Dewey system of cataloging, and the use of the multigraph.

Only citizens of the United States, who have been residents of Massachusetts for the past year have a right to apply.

Women desiring to take this examination may secure application blanks by applying in person, or by letter, at the office of the Civil Service commission, room 152, State house, Boston.

Applications may be filed at any time, but in order to entitle a person to appear at this examination, the application blank must be filled out and placed on file in the office of this commission on or before June 8, 1912.

TWO ADDITIONAL JUDGES INVOLVED

Names Secretly Told In the Archbald Investigation

Washington, May 24.—Before the house judiciary committee, in his accusation against Judge Archbald, W. P. Boland of Scranton, Pa., testified that Attorney George Watson of Scranton told him that Judge Archbald could influence two other judges in the commerce court in favor of the railroads.

"Did he give you the names?" asked Attorney Worthington.

"Yes," replied the witness, who offered to communicate the names. Instead he was directed to whisper them to Attorney Worthington and Acting Chairman Floyd.

The committee adjourned until Monday without completing Boland's cross examination.

Boland related at length his part in the negotiations for the Katydid culm bank from the Erie railroad, and smilingly acknowledged that he sent E. J. Williams to interest Judge Archbald in the matter. The witness was asked if Williams was ever intoxicated when dealing with him or Judge Archbald.

"Oh, no," Boland answered. "He was always in shape to call upon the judge. Williams thought it was a great position for him to go out and command a federal judge to see a railway president. I did, too, and would hardly believe it, when Judge Archbald convinced me."

HOW TO CHOOSE A FREEZER.

Good Materials May Be Spoiled by a Poor Machine.

The quality of ice cream is due not only to the materials employed in its making, but also to the kind of freezer that is used. The good freezer makes a cream of smooth, velvety texture, seemingly richer in character than that coming from a poorer device. The poor freezer actually produces a cream of snowlike texture, seemingly made without cream, and if one did not know the truth one would say it had been both carelessly made and frozen.

The best freezers are those having wooden pails and well made metal cylinders. The pails are usually made of pine staves, held in place by welded hoops. In a few years we will probably have fiber pails, which will be lighter and probably more effective. The cylinder should be large in proportion to the size of the pail in order to facilitate the process of freezing, as well as to be saving of the ice and salt mixture. Time, labor and material are saved in the using of a freezer which is built in this way, and this is one of the most important things to look for in selecting a freezer. There should be no hole for escape of water, even with a plug in it, in the pail near the bottom. But one hole should be bored in the pail and that near the top, and no plug should be placed in it.

Two quarts of cream should be well frozen in from five to seven minutes and with ease in turning the dasher. Most good freezers are now fitted with large flywheels, turned by a small handle, which can be used in place of the old crank handle.—Good Housekeeping.

SIKH SOLDIERS.

An Interesting Division of the British Army In India.

In the English papers one may frequently see pictures of tiny soldiers, about seven or eight years of age, gravely saluting elderly officers. These infants at arms are boy recruits holding regular and dignified places in the Indian army. Each Sikh regiment is allowed twelve of these little chaps, who are trained almost from babyhood. They are paid each 3 rupees and 8 annas a month and at the age of sixteen enter the regular army.

The Sikh soldiers are an interesting and remarkable part of the British army in India. Their conduct in frontier engagements has distinguished them as brave, steady and devoted to their English officers. Yet about fifty years ago these well ordered soldiers were fanatical savages who in their mad uprisings shook the power of Great Britain. Once conquered, they accepted British rule and were trained and disciplined into a well equipped army of 30,000 soldiers. They formed part of the force that subdued the mutiny. The Hodson's horse troops, which helped capture Delhi, were composed of Sikhs whose devoted service to their leader made them famous. Their scarlet sashes and turbans gained them the name of "Flamingoes." Their descendants are no less determined fighters and stanch soldiers.—New York Press.

NEW JERSEY BATTLEFIELD

Three Republican Richmond's In the Field Today

WILSON MAKES NO SPEECHES

President Is Optimistic and Full of Fight—Senator Root Believes T. R. Will Carry New Jersey—Talk of a Third Candidate or a Bolt Will Not Down—La Follette Strikes Hard at Two Rivals

Washington, May 24.—President Taft is the most cheerful man on his side of the fight today. He is not cast down by the Ohio result and has given orders to proceed with full steam in the campaign for the New Jersey delegates, into which fight he has plunged and will continue until next Tuesday.

His optimism has heartened his supporters, many of whom were ready to concede that nothing could stop the nomination of Colonel Roosevelt after they had heard from Ohio. The president insists that he has 570 delegates, thirty more than enough to nominate, and that the southern delegates instructed for him will stick.

Mr. Root, and those with whom he talked seemed to regard it as certain the New York delegation would split in half, that Roosevelt would carry New Jersey and that a number of the states now nominally for Taft, such as Michigan and Indiana, would swing loose and vote for Roosevelt.

Should this be done, there is a possibility of three Republican tickets in the field, for friends of Senator La Follette say that he will carry his fight against Roosevelt beyond the convention and up to the election. Whether he does or not, the bolt by the conservatives seems imminently probable.

Jersey Hears La Follette

Jersey City, May 24.—Senator La Follette said in his speech: "I want to say that from the very beginning a year ago, and ever since, I have been and will be clean to the finish, a candidate for the Republican nomination for president. No party ever nominated a man for president who has said the things that Roosevelt has said about Taft or the the things Taft has said about Roosevelt. No party will make that kind of a nomination unless it wants to meet with defeat."

He referred to candidates with a few delegates who in the days gone by have beaten the two highest men at Republican national conventions, and said: "I've had Wisconsin for six weeks; if it wasn't for being personal, I'd say I was the only one who could carry his own state."

Referring to the Taft-Roosevelt controversy, the senator said: "I think there is not a serious minded men or women in America who hasn't been mortified over the conduct of the campaign. Each has held the highest office in the gift of the people. They have lowered the standard of political ideals and have dragged them into the mire of personal abuse."

Mr. Roosevelt In New Jersey

Paterson, N. J., May 24.—Declaring that he was fighting, not for himself and not for the Republican party, but for the people, and that the fight is the most important since the days of Lincoln, Theodore Roosevelt opened his four-day campaign here.

He said that his campaign for the presidency was only a means to an end, his primary object being to restore and strengthen the simple healthy idealism which characterized the men who, a century and a quarter ago, founded the union, and the men who, half a century ago, restored and perpetuated it.

"I believe in a protective tariff," he said, "but I want to see the benefit get into the pay envelope as well as appear in the dividends. For this reason I advocate the creation of a national bureau whose business it shall be to investigate protected industry and see that protection does really benefit the workingman."

Wilson Only Candidate

Newark, N. J., May 24.—Governor Wilson is the only candidate named on the Democratic primary ballots, but the governor's campaign committee is opposed by a strong anti-Wilson organization, which is trying to elect "uninstructed" delegates.

Governor Wilson made known several days ago that he would make no public appeal for the primary votes of the Democrats of his own state.

Mexican Rebels Gain

Rellano, Mex., May 24.—After three hours or more of fighting between the Mexican federal and rebel armies, reports from the rebel front seemed to indicate a slight advantage over the army of Madero. The insurgents are holding firm their positions, having captured several federal guns and have epulsed a federal attempt at flanking. The fighting is declared to have resulted in a loss of 150 or more government troops. It is claimed Orozco drove off a federal cavalry charge with great loss to the assailants.

IMPERATOR; CAPTAIN

World's Largest Ship Just Been Launched

Above, how Imperator will look when completed; below, Captain Hans Ruser, who will command it.

WORLD'S GREATEST SHIP

The Imperator Surpasses the Ill-Fated Titanic in Many Ways

Hamburg, Ger., May 24.—The Hamburg-American line's new mammoth transatlantic steamer Imperator, the biggest vessel in the world, was successfully launched here yesterday. Emperor William acted as sponsor.

The Imperator is nearly 4000 tons heavier than the Titanic and having a length of 900 feet, or more than four city blocks. She has a beam of ninety-six feet, and her essential structure weighs 50,000 tons.

Among the innovations introduced into the new vessel as a result of the Titanic tragedy, the company has decided to swing outboard the lifeboats, in which room is provided for every person carried by the steamer, and they will be thus in readiness for launching at any moment.

The Imperator will carry three wireless operators, thus providing for continuous service. The dynamo for the illumination of the vessel and for the wireless apparatus is to be carried above the water line.

Captain Hans Ruser, the veteran of the line, will take her to America in the spring of 1913.

FOUR BILLS GO OVER FOSS VETO

Two Hospital Appropriations Sustained In the House

Boston, May 24.—Four bills were passed over the veto of Governor Foss yesterday in the most notable veto-smashing session seen in the general court. And the governor riddled the legislature in his veto message upon the raise in salaries for county commissioners.

The senate promptly passed that bill over the veto. It goes to the house today, where it is expected to be passed.

The word was passed that prorogation was to be had next Wednesday, and business was transacted with breakneck speed. Bills were advanced with little debate. Reports were literally thrown out of the window.

The four vetoes upset are upon the following bills:

Appropriation of $64,750 for improvements to the Westboro state hospital. Vote, 142-61. House.

Appropriation of $111,000 for the Worcester state hospital. Vote, 188-26. House.

Raising salaries of governor's council from $800 to $1000. Vote, 156-63. House.

Bill to raise salaries of county commissioners. Vote, 25-2. Senate.

Beat Both Horse and Self

Malden, Mass., May 24.—Frank Shea of Wakefield pleaded guilty to a charge of cruelly beating a horse and was fined $25 in the Malden court and then he asked to have his case tried. He said that he had not been cruel and had struck the horse only twice, whereupon witnesses testified that they saw the horse cruelly beaten and Judge Bruce then fined the man $40.

HARVARD LOSES TO CORNELL

Freshmen Dual Race Was the Close Event

TRIANGLULAR VARSITY RACE

Each Race Was Made In Very Quick Time—Cornell Adherents Carry the Brooms—One and Seven-Eighths Miles Made in 9 Minutes and 26½ Seconds—Princeton Was Third In the First Race

Boston, May 24.—Cornell oarsmen and Cornell student rooters returned to Ithaca last night carrying brooms, for yesterday, in two splendid races her varsity and freshmen made a clean sweep on the broad basin of the Charles.

Both races, the triangular varsity, in which Cornell had for rival contestants Harvard and Princeton, and the freshman event, in which Harvard was the lone opponent of the Red and White, were rowed in remarkably fast time.

The varsity race went to Cornell in 9 minutes 26½ seconds, while the freshman event was won in 9 minutes 59 seconds, both crews covering the entire course of one and seven-eighths miles with that powerful Courtney stroke now so well known on the river.

Of the two races, that between the freshman crews was really the better, for Harvard pressed Cornell all the way, and at the finish the victors were but one length to the good. In the varsity, Cornell led from the start, crossing the finish line off the Union Boat club a winner by about three lengths.

Three Crew Race

Winner—Cornell by three lengths. Time, 9m 26⅕s.
Second—Harvard. Time, 9m 35s.
Third—Princeton. Time, 9m 36s.

Freshman Race

Winner—Cornell by one length. Time, 9m 59s.
Second—Harvard. Time, 10m 3s.

COASTWISE VESSELS FREE

Panama Canal Will Be Open to That Class of American Ships

Washington, May 24.—By a vote of 147 to 126, the house reaffirmed its decision that no toll should be charged American vessels engaged in coastwise trade for passage through the Panama canal. The provision was bitterly fought and the result was received with cheers.

As passed the bill contains the following essentials respecting tolls and railroad control of vessels using the canal:

First—No tolls shall be levied upon vessels engaged in the coastwise trade of the United States.

Second—For foreign vesels using the canal as well as for American vessels using the canal, not in the coastwise, but in foreign trade, the toll is not to exceed $1.25 per net registered ton, nor to be less than the estimated proportionate cost of the actual maintenance and the operation of the canal.

Third—After July 1, 1914, it will be unlawful for any railroad company or other common carrier subject to the interstate commerce laws, to own, lease, operate, control, or have any interest whatever, by stock ownership or otherwise, through holding company, or by stockholders or directors in common, or in any other manner, in any common carrier by water with which that railroad competes for traffic.

UNITARIAN ASS'N CLOSES

Protest Against Resolution Passed In Favor of Female Suffrage

Boston, May 24.—A protest against the action of the American Unitarian association indorsing woman suffrage was filed yesterday afternoon.

The resolution favoring woman's suffrage which was passed by a large vote, however, will not be repealed or amended in any way.

John T. Shea, president of the Catholic Total Abstinence society, and Rev. Jenkins L. Jones of Chicago, were the speakers at the annual meeting of the Unitarian Temperance society yesterday afternoon in King's chapel.

Officers were elected as follows: President, Rev. Edward Cummings, Boston; vice president, Mrs. Frank L. Young, Dorchester; secretary, Rev. Alfred D. K. Shurtleff, Wayland; treasurer, Charles H. Stearns, Brookline.

The KITCHEN CUPBOARD

EGGS FOR LUNCHEON.

THOSE of us who care to cut meat from the luncheon bill of fare and substitute eggs in the many nutritious and appetizing forms in which they may be served will profit to the extent of a clearer and better skin and an improvement in general health. Once a day is often enough for meat in summer. Eggs may be combined with cream, with stock or with chopped vegetables.

With Fried Bread.

Steamed Egg and Tomato.—Take small cups or molds, butter and put a teaspoonful of vegetable puree in these.

Break a new laid egg into each and set the cup in a pan of boiling water, cover with buttered paper and allow to steam till firm.

Have ready rounds of fried bread and turn an egg on each. Pour a little hot puree round each egg and serve.

Baked With Tomatoes.

Eggs With Cream.—Take for each person half a large tomato, a round of buttered toast, one tablespoonful of cream, one tablespoonful of chopped parsley, salt and pepper and a little butter.

Skin and wipe the tomato, then cut in half and remove the core. Bake in the oven till tender.

Next melt a tablespoonful of butter in a stewpan, beat up the eggs, add to the latter milk, parsley and seasoning to the cream. When the butter is hot pour in the egg mixture. Stir it over a slow fire till it is creamy and just lightly set.

Put a half tomato on each round of toast. Heap the egg mixture in the middle of each. Sprinkle with finely chopped parsley and serve at once.

The Spanish Way.

Spanish Eggs.—Take an onion, half a pound of tomatoes, pepper and salt, butter, three eggs and a half a cupful of white stock. Chop the onion fine and fry in butter until brown and add the tomatoes; also cut up, flavor with pepper and salt and add half a cupful of the stock or water. Simmer for a quarter of an hour.

Have ready three hard boiled eggs, shell them and cut in quarters lengthwise. Lay them on a hot dish and cover with the tomato sauce. A few croutons or slices of toast should be served. This a favorite Spanish dish.

American Securities in Switzerland.

The better feeling among Swiss investors in general in regard to American industrial shares and bonds has been apparent within the past year. A Zurich firm has issued an attractive Manual of American Railway and Industrial Securities. The character of the publication which contains maps of the territory covered by the different railways and detailed statements of the various companies whose securities are offered is evidence of the interest prevailing in Switzerland concerning American securities.

Swiss investors, who are as a rule very conservative, have been imposed upon in a great many instances, especially in the shares and bonds of new industrial concerns and mining companies, offered by clever promoters, which resulted in a prejudice against foreign securities in general and American securities in particular. But in the past few years the business has assumed a more conservative form, and investors now have an opportunity to obtain desirable securities through reliable local bankers and brokers, who offer to their customers every facility for investigation and obtaining reliable information concerning the properties back of the bonds and shares they are offering. The result has been a general improvement in the market, and a decided increase in the sale of the better class of American securities in Switzerland.

Gold Mining Not Encouraging in Bolivia.

Many American citizens are coming to Bolivia in search of gold, being misled by what is now stated to be a fake letter signed by one Ferguson. Unfavorable reports are brought by miners who have returned from Tipuani and the outlook is not encouraging.

According to advices received at this legation numerous Americans in the western part of the United States are preparing to go to Bolivia on the strength of these false reports. This warning should deter them from embarking on such hazardous undertakings. A further report will be made in the event that any of the prospectors whom the Bolivian Government has sent to various districts are successful in their search for gold.

Wireless Telegraph In Central America.

The National Electric Signal Co., of Pittsburgh, Pa., has corresponded directly with Minister Canton relative to establishing in Nicaragua, at their risk, several wireless stations. This company is the one which put in the stations of the United Fruit Co. and is now taking up the matter of establishing a number of others along the Atlantic coast of Mexico and Central America with the purpose of obtaining constant communication between these countries and the United States. The company also offers to put in at Managua a wireless tower of sufficient power to communicate with Salvador. It is probable that within a month the engineers will leave for Nicaragua to carry out the work.

Automobile Race In Italy.

An international automobile race is contemplated for May 26 and 27, 1912, under the auspices of the daily paper L'Ora, of Palermo, and the Gazzetta dello Sport, of Turin. The race, starting at Palermo, will go through Messina, Catania, Syracuse, Terranova, Girgenti, Marsala, and Trapani, finishing at Palermo, the total distance being 652 miles.

All types of automobiles are admitted, but must have at least two seats. The maximum time prescribed to cover the distance is 48 hours.

The Wreck of the Titan

By Morgan Robertson

SYNOPSIS

The great steamer Titan, supposed to be unsinkable, starts across the Atlantic. Rowland, once a lieutenant, now a common sailor, meets his old love Myra. She is with her husband and child.

The Titan cuts a ship in two, and her captain endeavors to conceal the crime. Rowland objects. The captain gives him whisky, so that he will be discredited. Myra accuses him of attempting to murder her child.

Rowland is drugged by the captain's order and is then given the starboard bridge lookout, so that he will disgrace himself. Myra's child steals away and joins Rowland.

The Titan strikes an iceberg and sinks. Thousands are lost. Myra escapes in a boat. Rowland and the child find refuge on the iceberg. He loses an arm in a fight with a polar bear.

Rowland, who has been an atheist, prays for help, and he and the child are rescued. Meyer, a marine insurance man, is heavily hit by the loss of the Titan and the Royal Ago.

Meyer will be ruined if the Titan insurance is paid, and Selfridge, little Myra's grandfather, will be ruined if it is not paid. Meyer finds Rowland and relies upon his story to break the insurance policies. Rowland's story helps him.

The Titan's captain admits that he drugged Rowland. Selfridge, thinking himself ruined, dies suddenly. To save a fortune for little Myra Rowland refuses to testify in Meyer's behalf.

Rowland sails for New York with little Myra. He is arrested in New York for kidnaping the child

(Concluded from last issur)

In New York city there are homes permeated by a moral atmosphere so pure, so elevated, so sensitive to the vibrations of human woe and misdoing, that their occupants are removed completely from all consideration of any but the spiritual welfare of poor humanity. In these homes the news gathering, sensation mongering daily paper does not enter.

In the same city are dignified magistrates—members of clubs and societies—who spend late hours and often fail to arise in the morning in time to read the papers before the opening of court.

Also in New York are city editors, bilious of stomach, testy of speech and inconsiderate of reporters' feelings and professional pride. Such editors, when a reporter has failed through no fault of his own in successfully interviewing a celebrity, will sometimes send him news gathering in the police courts, where printable news is scarce.

On the morning following the arrest of John Rowland three reporters, sent by three such editors, attended a hall of justice presided over by one of the late rising magistrates mentioned above. In the anteroom of this court, ragged, disfigured by his clubbing and dishevele by his night in a cell, stood Rowland, with other unfortunates more or less guilty of offense against society. When his name was called he was hustled through a door, along a line of policemen—each of whom added to his own usefulness by giving him a shove—and into the dock, where the stern faced and tired looking magistrate glared at him. Seated in a corner of the courtroom were the old gentleman of the day before, the young mother with little Myra in her lap and a number of other ladies, all excited in demeanor and all but the young mother directing venomous glances at Rowland.

Mrs. Selfridge, pale and hollow eyed, but happy faced withal, allowed no wandering glance to rest on him.

The officer who had arrested Rowland was sworn and testified that he had stopped the prisoner on Broadway while making off with the child, whose rich clothing had attracted his attention. Disdainful sniffs were heard in the corner with muttered remarks: "Rich indeed! The idea! the flimsiest prints!" Mr. Gaunt, the prosecuting witness, was called to testify about the incident.

"This man, your honor," he began excitedly, "was once a gentleman and a frequent guest at my house. He asked for the hand of my daughter and as his request was not granted threatened revenge. Yes, sir. And out on the broad Atlantic, where he had followed my daughter in the guise of a sailor, he attempted to murder that child, my grandchild, but was discovered"—

"Wait," interrupted the magistrate, "Confine your testimony to the present offense."

"Yes, your honor. Failing in this he stole or enticed the little one from its bed, and in less than five minutes the ship was wrecked, and he must have escaped with the child in"—

"Were you a witness of this?"

"I was not there, your honor, but we have it on the word of the first officer, a gentleman"—

"Step down, sir. That will do. Officer, was this offense committed in New York?"

"Yes, your honor. I caught him meself."

"Who did he steal the child from?"

"That leddy over yonder."

"Madam, will you take the stand?"

With her child in her arms, Mrs. Selfridge was sworn and in a low, quavering voice repeated what her father had said. Being a woman, she was allowed by the woman-wise magistrate to tell her story in her own way.

"Madam, this man has merely saved your child's life."

When she spoke of the attempted murder at the taffrail her manner became excited. Then she told of the captain's promise to put the man in irons on her agreeing to testify against him; of the consequent decrease in her watchfulness and her missing the child just before the shipwreck; of her rescue by the gallant first officer and his assertion that he had seen her child in the arms of this man, the only man on earth who would harm it; of the later news that a boat containing sailors and children had been picked up by a Mediterranean steamer; of the detectives sent over and their report that a sailor answering this man's description had refused to surrender a child to the consul at Gibraltar and had disappeared with it; of her joy at the news that Myra was alive and despair of ever seeing her again until she had met her in this man's arms on Broadway the day before.

At this point in her narrative outraged maternity overcame her. With cheeks flushed and eyes blazing scorn and anger, she pointed at Rowland and all but screamed, "And he has mutilated, tortured my baby! There are deep wounds in her little back, and the doctor said only last night that they were made by a sharp instrument.

"And, judge, this man must have tried to warp and twist the mind of my child or put her through frightful experiences, for he has taught her to swear horribly, and last night at bedtime, when I told her the story of Elisha and the bears and the children, she burst out into the most uncontrollable screaming and sobbing."

Here her testimony ended in a breakdown of hysterics, between sobs of which were frequent admonitions to the child not to say that bad word, for Myra had caught sight of Rowland and was calling his nickname.

"What shipwreck was this—where was it?" asked the puzzled magistrate of nobody in particular.

"The Titan," called out half a dozen newspaper men across the room.

"The Titan," repeated the magistrate. "Then this offense was committed on the high seas under the English flag. I cannot imagine why it is brought into this court. Prisoner, have you anything to say?"

"Nothing, your honor." The answer came in a kind of dry sob.

The magistrate scanned the ashen faced man in rags and said to the clerk of the court, "Change this charge to vagrancy, eh"—

The clerk, instigated by the newspaper men, was at his elbow. He laid a morning paper before him, pointed to certain big letters and retired. Then the business of the court suspended while the court read the news. After a moment or two the magistrate looked up.

"Prisoner," he said sharply; "take your left sleeve out of your breast." Rowland obeyed mechanically, and it dangled at his side. The magistrate noticed and read on. Then he folded the paper and said:

"You are the man who was rescued from an iceberg, are you not?" The prisoner bowed his head.

"Discharged!" The word came forth in an unjudicial roar. "Madam," added the magistrate, with a kindling light in his eye, "this man has merely saved your child's life. If you will read of his defending it from a polar bear when you go home, I doubt that you will tell it any more bear stories. Sharp intrument—umph!" Which was equally unjudicial on the part of the court.

Mrs. Selfridge, with a mystified and rather aggrieved expression of face, left the courtroom with her indignant father and friends, while Myra shouted profanely for Rowland, who had fallen into the hands of the reporters. They would have entertained him after the manner of the craft, but he would not be entertained, neither would he talk.

He escaped and was very speedily swallowed up in the world without, and when the evening papers appeared that day the events of the trial were all that could be added to the story of the morning.

On the morning of the next day a one armed dock lounger found an old fishhook and some pieces of string, which he knotted together; then he dug some bait and caught a fish. Being hungry and without fire, he traded with a coaster's cook for a meal, and before night caught two more, one of which he traded, the other sold. He slept under the docks—paying no rent—fished, traded and sold for a month; then paid for a secondhand suit of clothes and the services of a barber. His changed appearance induced a boss stevedore to hire him tallying cargo, which was more lucrative than fishing, and furnished in time a hat, pair of shoes and an overcoat. He then rented a room and slept in a bed. Before long he found employment addressing envelopes for a mailing firm, at which his fine and rapid penmanship secured him steady work, and in a few months he asked his employers to indorse his application for a civil service examination. The favor was granted, the examination easily passed, and he addressed envelopes while he waited.

Meanwhile Rowland purchased new and better clothing and seemed to have no difficulty in impressing those whom he met with the fact that he was a gentleman. Two years from the time of his examination he was appointed to a lucrative position under the government and as he seated himself at the desk in his office could have been heard to remark: "Now, John Rowland, your future is your own. You have merely suffered in the past from a mistaken estimate of the importance of women and whisky."

But he was wrong, for in six months he received a letter which in part read as follows:

Do not think me indifferent or ungrateful. I have watched from a distance while you made your wonderful fight for your old standards. You have won, and I am glad, and I congratulate you. But Myra will not let me rest. She asks for you continually and cries at times. I can bear it no longer. Will you not come and see Myra?

And the man went to see—Myra.

STILL BAFFLES POLICE

Mrs. Jewer Believed to Have Died by Hands of a Woman

Boston, May 24.—Loose bits of gossip, picked up in the neighborhood of where she lived, are being investigated by detectives in an effort to locate the strangler who murdered Lillian Eleanor Jewer in her apartments in the Hotel Baldwin four days ago.

Medical Examiner Leary holds the opinion that the Jewer woman was killed by one of her own sex, or perhaps by two women. He points out that a man, unless insane, would hardly have stopped to have put pieces of string in the woman's nostrils, as was the case.

Cusumano Petition Filed

Boston, May 24.—The fight to save the life of Mrs. Lena Cusumano and Enrico Mascioli, convicted and sentenced to death for the murder of the woman's husband, took the form of a petition filed with Governor Foss, asking for the commutation of the sentence of both parties.

Technically Explained.

A Rockford (Ill.) boy, while at the table the other day asked what a spinster was. Before anyone else had time to explain his ten-year-old brother condescendingly said: "Huh! Don't you know? A spinster is a woman who ain't married to her husband."

PUBLIC HEARING.

Notice is hereby given that the State Board of Charity will give a public hearing at Room 38, State House, Boston, at 2 P. M. on the 10th day of June 1912, in the matter of the incorporation of "Quincy 4th of July Association," under the provisions of chapter 125 of the Revised Laws, as amended by chapter 181 of the Acts of 1910.

STATE BOARD OF CHARITY.

Mortgagee's Sale of Real Estate

By virtue of a power of sale contained in a certain mortgage deed given by James Craig and Annie L. Craig, his wife, in her own right, to Fred W. Wood dated January 25, 1905 and recorded in the Registry of Deeds for the County of Norfolk Book 999, page 583, will be sold at public auction, for breach of the conditions of said mortgage, on the premises hereinafter described, on Monday, the 10th day of June 1912, at forty-five minutes after two o'clock in the afternoon, all and singular the premises conveyed by said mortgage deed, and therein described substantially as follows:—

The following parcel of land situated in that part of Quincy, Massachusetts, known as "Norfolk Downs" being lot numbered 17 on plan of Charles D. Elliot, dated April 1892, and recorded with Norfolk Deeds, Book of plans No. 14, plan No. 640, and bounded and described as follows, viz:—Northeasterly, by Hancock Street, fifty (50) feet; Southeasterly, by Lot No. 16, on said plan, one hundred twenty-eight and 48-100 (128.48) feet; Southwesterly, by lots No. 28 and 29, on said plan, fifty 2-100 (50.02) feet; Northwesterly, by lot No. 18, on said plan, one hundred twenty-nine 99-100 (129.99) feet. Containing according to said plan, sixty-four hundred sixty-one 8-10 (6461.8) feet of land.

Said premises will be sold subject to the restrictions set forth in the title deeds and to any and all unpaid taxes and assessments.

$100.00 will be required to be paid in cash by the purchaser at the time and place of sale, balance in ten days from day of sale at twelve o'clock noon, at the office of the mortgagee, Room 43, 15 School Street, Boston, Mass.

QUINCY SCHOOLBOY ATHLETES BEATEN BY MELROSE IN DUAL MEET

Kingsbury and Schwartz Turned the Tables on Each Other in Two Different Events

Milton of Melrose Leading Point Getter. Trask, Quincy Second

In a dual meet that furnished many closely contested events, held Thursday afternoon at Merrymount Park, Melrose High defeated Quincy High, 40 points to 32. The meet was attended by a large number of spectators and was pronounced one of the best ever held in Quincy between those schools.

The rivalry between the two track teams added greatly to the interest and the spurt of enthusiasm displayed by supporters of the contending teams was of the most genuine character.

The event that created the greatest excitement was the 880 yard run, in which Kingsbury of Quincy and Schwart of Melrose were the leading actors. The Granite city runner, by a remarkable burst of speed towards the end of the race forged to the front and won out by five yards.

The same two runners were the star performers in the mile run, but Schwartz turned the tables on his opponent in this event, and defeated the Quincy lad by 25 yards. In this event, Williams of Quincy high set the pace and maintained the lead for half a mile, his time for this distance being two minutes and 25 seconds. He was unable to maintain the pace, however, and was passed by Kingsbury and Schwartz, but managed to cling to third place himself against the field.

In the broad jump, Harry Trask, although finishing second, established a new record for Quincy High athletes in this event, by jumping 19 feet, 7 3-4 inches.

There was some doubt as to whom the third place in the 100 yard dash should go to, owing to a foul but the judges after deliberation gave the place to Chisolm of Melrose.

Milton of Melrose was the high individual point winner, capturing three first places for a total of 15 points. Trask of Quincy High was next with a total of 11 points.

The officials of the meet were Louis F. LaRose, physical director of the Quincy Y. M. C. A., starter; Roche of Quincy and Albert Jennings of Melrose judges; and timers Samuel Gordon of Quincy, field judge; and Roland Estey of Quincy scorer.

The summary:

100 yards dash—first heat; won by Milton of Melrose, Trask of Quincy, 2nd, time 11s. Second heat: Chisolm of Melrose, first; White of Quincy, second; time 11 3-5 s. Final heat won by Milton of Melrose, Trask of Quincy, second, Chisolm of Melrose, third, time 10 2-5s.

880 yards run—won by Kingsbury of Quincy, Schwartz of Melrose, second; Atkins of Quincy third, time 2m 12s.

Putting 12 lb. shot—won by White of Quincy, Bill of Quincy, second; Favorite of Quincy third, distance 33 ft. 1 3-4 in.

Running high jump—won by Wells of Melrose, Weiler of Melrose second, Trask of Quincy third, height 5 ft.

220 yards dash—Milton of Melrose first, Chisholm of Melrose, second, Trask of Quincy, third, time 25s.

Mile run—won by Schwatz of Melrose, Kingsbury of Quincy second, Williams of Quincy third, time 5 minutes 3 2-5 s.

Running broad jump—won by Chisolm of Melrose, Trask of Quincy, second, Lundin of Quincy, third, distance 19 ft. 11 in.

440 yard dash—Won by Milton of Melrose, first Trask of Quincy, second Atkins of Quincy third; time 56 4-5 s.

THIRD FATAL FOR CODDINGTON

Fusilade of Hits and Errors Helped Gridley Bryant

QUINCY, WASHINGTON WIN

Two costly errors in the third inning by players in the Willard school nine allowed the Quincy school to secure a lead which the West Quincy players were unable to overcome and when the game ended the Atlantic boys were found to be winners by a score of 4 to 2 at Merrymount Park, Thursday afternoon.

The game was very interesting, at all times and was replete with many good features.

The Quincy school players seemed at their best and kept masters of the situation throughout the entire game. Both McNally and Eagan pitched well and the support accorded the former was a great asset in bringing home a victory for his team.

The score by innings:—

Innings	1	2	3	4	5	6	R	H	E
Quincy	0	0	1	1	0	0	4	6	2
Willard	0	0	3	0	0	1	2	5	4

Batteries: Quincy—McNally and Guong. Willard: Eagan and Hodge.

It was only in the third inning that the Gridley Bryant boys were able to bring any runs across the plate, but at this critical stage, the West Quincy boys made sufficient to defeat the Coddington School 8 to 1 Thursday afternoon at Merrymount Park. Outside of this one inning, the game was fast and interesting.

Nearly all the hitting of the Gridley Bryant team was done in the third inning and to add to the disaster, all the listless playing of the Coddington boys was contributed at the same time.

The score by innings:—

Innings	1	2	3	4	5	6	R	H	E
Gridley Bryant	0	0	8	0	0	0	8	7	2
Coddington	0	0	0	0	1	0	1	4	4

Batteries: —Carroll and Saville; Cheverlie and Geddes.

After pouching the ball all over the diamond in the first two innings of play and obtaining a 6 to 0 lead over their opponents the Cranch School boys were unable to maintain the pace and suffered a 7 to 6 defeat at the hands of the Washington school, in a game played Thursday afternoon at the Water street grounds. The Quincy Point lads played a steady, uphill game and scored in the last four innings of play.

Both Gurney and Arbuckle were hit quite freely. The former was given good support at opportune moments and thus was enabled to nose out a victory.

The score by innings:

Innings	1	2	3	4	5	6	R	H	E
Washington	0	0	2	2	1	2	7	10	3
Cranch	2	4	0	0	0	0	6	10	4

Batteries: Washington—Gurney and McKenna. Cranch —Arbuckle and Asklund.

YACHT RACING.

A club race for all classes of the Quincy Yacht club will be held Saturday, starting at 2.45 off the club house. A race for small boats and launches will be held on morning of May 30, and in the afternoon the larger yachts will participate in the annual open race under the auspices of the South Boston club, off City Point.

RACE TO MARBLEHEAD.

FREE FLYING BY NAVY BOMBARDER

Arch Freeman to Exhibit at Revere Beach Saturday Afternoon

WILL CARRY PASSENGERS

Archie Freeman, the aviator who "attacked" the forts and battleships in Boston harbor this week promises to be this year's star flyer if the number and sensation of his flights is any criterion. Freeman will give a public exhibition at Revere beach Saturday afternoon, carrying passengers and going through several new performances which he has planned.

Freeman will leave Atwood park, in Saugus and arriving at the beach try for an altitude record which he will follow with volplanes, double dips, figure eights and speed tests. Following this exhibition he will return to Atwood park and take up H. R. Waite of Wintlfrop, his pupil who accompanied him on his harbor flight and return to the beach. Several passenger-carrying trips will be made.

TIME-TABLE CHANGE.

Important changes of time schedules of passenger trains on all divisions of the New York, New Haven & Hartford railroad will go into effect at 12.01 o'clock Sunday morning, June 2. Time-tables giving full particulars will be in the hands of the agents, May 31.

BRIEFS

The City Council committee on Public Buildings and Licenses meet tonight at City Hall.

William I. Hartley of Appleton street, anticipates building in the near future a six-room bungalow which he will occupy. The location is on Atlantic street.

DISTRICT COURT.

Judge Avery presiding.

James W Hynes was fined costs of $2 and Daniel M. Shea costs of $3.20 for drunkenness at Weymouth and their cases were placed on probation until August 8.

PAWN SHOPS SEARCHED

Fail to Produce Evidence of Tierney Girl's Lost Jewelry

ROBBERY MYSTERY DEEPENS

The police as yet have been unable to get any trace of the man who it is alleged held up Catherine Tierney, the domestic employed in the family of James H. Penniman at Wollaston and robbed her of a chatelaine bag, rings and money last week.

Inspector McKay has visited some of the Boston pawnshops with a description of the rings claimed to have been stolen but has been unable to find any trace of them. According to the girl's story she was held up by a strange man as she was about to enter the yard of her employer and robbed of $8 in money and several rings, valued at $160.

The man snatched the chatelaine bag from her hand and held his hand over her mouth to smother her screams. According to the police the mystery of this case deepens day by day and there is hardly a clew which they find produces tangible evidence after being run to earth.

MRS. WHEELER TO THE FRONT

Engaged With Mrs. Roope in Finals at Montclair Today

CLASSY GOLF EXPECTED

Mrs. E. C. Wheeler, Jr., of Wollaston and Mrs. G. W. Roope of Brae Burn reached the final round in the Massachusetts Women's Golf Association's championship tourney at Wollaston Thursday. Mrs. Wheeler defeated Miss F. M. W. Phelps, 4 and 3, and Mrs. Roope, quite to the surprise of everybody, defeated Miss H. S. Curtis of the Country Club, former national champion, in a match that went 21 holes. Mrs. Wheeler's medal score was 89 to 92 for her opponents. She is the only golfer in the match at this meeting who has covered the course in less than 90.

From the outset she led Miss Phelps. At the eleventh hole a steam roller crossing the fairway flattened Mrs. Wheeler's ball into the turf. The machinist was advised to dig it out and Mrs. Wheeler picked up and dropped the ball in the hole whence it came. She took six for that hole. The card:

ROGER WOLCOTT IN NO HURRY

Would Wait Maturity and Experience Before Seeking

CONGRESSIONAL H NORS.

(Special to the Ledger.)

State House May 24.—Despite the persistent rumors to the contrary, Rep. Roger Wolcott, of Milton, will not be a candidate for congressional honors from the new fourteenth district. At least, not this year. On the floor of the House, during the recent debate on the new redistricting bill, he said he had no intentions of running for the nomination until he is older and more experenced.

He told the Ledger correspondent today that he would do all in his power to help elect Congressman Robert O. Harris of East Bridgewater, to another term at Washington.

This statement should put at rest all the rumors that the Milton representative is preparing to contest for the nomination of Republican candidate for Congress in this district next September.

NEPONSET BRIDGE BILL REFERRED TO THE NEXT GENERAL COURT

Ways and Means Committee Recommended Such Action Which Will be Accepted

Much Disappointment in Quincy and Neponset Over Such a Course

(Special to the Ledger.)

State House, Boston, May 25.—There is nothing doing in the matter of the proposed new bridge over the Neponset river this year, as the committee on Ways and Means have recommended reference to the next general court as the time for prorogation is rapidly drawing near, the chances are that the legislature will take the course recommended on the measure.

There is no denying the fact that the people of Quincy and Neponset are very much disappointed over this proposed course of action. They had hoped to see the measure take some tangible form which would mean the movement in the right direction of the preliminary steps towards this needed improvement. However the Boston Finance Commission, and Mayor Fitzgerald, praise be, for once agreed, in all the course of their long bickerings and other deserving communities had to suffer.

The claim was made that Boston was called upon to pay more than a proportionate part of the cost in view of the benefit desired. The only thing for those interested in this project is to bide their time, and enter upon the campaign to have notice taken of it by the next legislature right away, and bring all possible pressure and influence to bear to bring about the desired result.

At a special session of the House this morning an attempt was made by Representative Carr of Neponset to substitute the original bill for the report of the Ways and Means committee. The attempt failed however. Representative Leslie spoke in favor of the substitution.

WHEREABOUTS OF MOESER SHROUDED IN MYSTERY

If Ground Opened Up and Swallowed Him Disappearance Could Not Be More Complete

Hope Entertained That He May Have Gone to Baltimore

Although the police and friends searched high and low all Friday afternoon and night for some clew that would lead to locating the whereabouts of Frank Moeser, who left his home 51 Rodman street that morning leaving a mysterious note behind him, no trace of him was found. The police searched the woods about South Quincy as well as the quarries while Chief Burrell of Quincy, and Chief Loring of Braintree searched the woods on the Braintree side yet no trace was found.

It seems that Mr. Moeser was at one time employed in the Metropolitan park, and the officers there knew him very well. They were also requested to make a search which was done but with the same result. Mr. and Mrs. Moeser were planning a trip to Baltimore to visit friends, and were to leave Friday afternoon. It was thought by some that possibly he might have started alone for Baltimore and his friends there have been communicated with but up to this noon nothing had been heard from them.

It is somewhat of a mystery how a man like Mr. Moeser could have so suddenly dropped out of sight without some person having seen him. The search will be continued today although there is but little hopes of finding him.

BRIEFS

The City Council has an off night Monday. The next regular meeting will be held Monday, June 3.

There will be a patriotic service at First church Sunday morning, being Memorial Sunday. The minister, Rev. Adelbert Lathrop Hudson will preach on "A comparison of Washington and Lincoln."

—Every careful householder will see that his home is properly screened. In spite of this precaution flies will invade houses. Should they do so no mercy must be shown them. They should be killed whenever found. There is no telling from whence they have come, but one thing is certain; they have come from no clean place. There is not one chance in a million that they have not come from a manure pile, a garbage can or a sick room.

VARIETY IN THE WEATHER

Beautiful Sunset Followed by an Electrical Storm

WONDERFUL DISPLAY

Quincy had its first real touch of summer weather Friday, experiencing about all the varieties such as only New England is capable of handing out. The sun was hot and the air sultry all day bringing out an army of last year's straws and light clothing. In the late afternoon the weather vane swung around to the east and the air cooled and before midnight there had been a great variety of weather. Shortly after 5 o'clock the sky darkened and there was a roll of distant thunder. Then came flashes of lightning and a light rain.

Following this light shower came one of the prettiest sunsets ever seen. The sun went down in a blaze of glory in the western sky, making a most beautiful sight. The sky took on a bright red and it seemed as though a large fire must have been in progress in the direction of Boston, and not a few called up the central telephone office to inquire where it was.

Later the air again darkened and again there was a heavy thunder and flashes of lightning accompanied by a downpour of rain. While the storm did much damage in some places, Quincy escaped, except small washouts of the gutters.

The electrical storm did not appear to be right over Quincy or in threatening proximity, but seemed to work all around the city from all points of the compass, playing hide and seek pranks which were delightful to behold if one was not timid. From one point would come a heavy rumbling of thunder, while from an entirely opposite direction the heavens would seem to open and emit streams and volumes of eager, panting scintillating light. The chain lightning display was marvelous, extending for miles across the dark sky, zig-zagging in and out in a serpentine form.

CITY PLANTS TO BE INSPECTED

Board of Trade Planned Unique Trip for Purpose

TO VISIT ALL INDUSTRIES

The Board of Trade is planning a unique trip to be held sometime during the early summer. It will be known as an automobile trip and is for the purpose of making the members better acquainted with the industries of the city. While there are some members who are of course perfectly familiar with Quincy's industries there are many others whose business is in Boston, and who never have had an opportunity to see what Quincy really has.

While definite plans have not as yet been decided upon the scheme as outlined is for as many members as have automobiles, and there are many of them, to report at the rooms of the Board in the morning. It will be planned to visit some of the larger quarries and granite cutting plans, the Wollaston Foundry, Tubular Rivet and Stud Company, the Pneumatic Scale Company, the Fore River Shipbuilding plant and other industries.

Should the party start in the morning as now planned it will bring up at Houghs Neck at noon where a shore dinner will be had at Norteman's. If however it should be decided to delay the trip until afternoon it is planned to wind up at Norteman's for a dinner in the early evening.

Such a trip is quite an innovation and would be productive of much good as well as to show the industries that the Board of Trade is interested in their welfare.

SCHOOL COMMITTEE PLAYING CHECKERS ON MONTCLAIR SCHOOL

To Justify its Erection the Claim of One Speaker at District Line Hearing

Object to New School Lines Between Wollaston and Montclair

Nearly 200 residents gathered at the hearing concerning the school district lines held in the hall of the Wollaston school Thursday evening. The hearing concerned the placing of the line between the Wollaston and Montclair districts at Hobart street or North Central avenue.

This change would affect some seventy school children, about forty between North Central avenue and Hobart street and thirty north of Hobart street.

John LL. Miller, chairman of the school committee presided and on the platform were Albert L. Barbour, superintendent of schools and three members of the school committee.

Irving L. Shaw opened the speaking for the remonstrants with a long list of well founded arguments against changing from the present conditions. He spoke of the greater distance the children would have to go to Montclair along streets that were not accepted highways. The roads at the best were poor and in rainy weather were simply mud holes. In stormy weather or in staying after school the road home was nothing short of dangerous for the children.

Mr. Shaw also spoke of the depreciation in the value of property that would attend the change as a large number would move away. He hoped it would not be made.

A. L. Baker, L. C. Merrill and Mr. DuPlessis, Carroll Bates and Mr. Turner were among those protesting. Many others spoke, among them a number of ladies.

A delegation was present from Lunt and Lane streets, Norfolk Downs in protest of the transfer of their children to the Montclair school. The course would take their children accross the dangerous crossing at the Norfolk Downs station and with so many trains going by morning and evening would be bound to result in fatalities sooner or later.

One speaker charged that the school committee were playing a game of checkers in order to cover up the mistake of the Montclair building.

By proposing to take some out of the Massachusetts Fields school and putting them in the Wollaston school and transferring the Wollaston pupils to Montclair they were simply trying to cover it up and fill up the Montclair school.

As a result of votes taken there was found a unanimous sentiment in favor of leaving the lines as at present.

The school committee were urged to give the matter their early consideration and the hearing closed.

NO OPPOSITION TO FUNDING QUINCY TEMPORARY $150,000 LOAN

Committee on Cities Voted to Report Favorably Upon the Subject to Legislature

Given First Reading in the House Reaches Governor Tuesday

(Special to the Ledger.)

State House, May 24.—In executive session today, the committee on cities unanimously voted to report favorably upon the bill of Mayor Stone where in he asks for authority for the City of Quincy to borrow $150,000 to fund the temporary loan debt.

The report was immediately put in to the House and had its first reading in that branch of the legislature this afternoon. No great opposition to the bill is anticipated and there seems to be no reason why it should not go speedily and successfully through its several readings in both branches and reach the Governor by Tuesday of next week.

CLASS OF 1907 HELD REUNION

Massachusetts Fields' Boys and Girls Had Good Time

OLD TALES REHEARSED

The fifth annual reunion of the class of 1907, Massachusetts Fields school, was held Friday evening in the school hall, a large number of the class being present.

The evening opened with a business session at which the vice president Arthur Robinson presided in the absence of the president, Edward Finnegan.

Among other business it was voted to make the reunion an annual event to be held during the last week in March or the first week in April of each year.

C. Ralph Taylor, a former principal of the school spoke briefly and games were enjoyed. Dancing and refreshments closed the evening.

Among those present were David H. Goodspeed, principal and Miss Ruth Taylor and Miss Bennett teachers in the school.

The affair was in charge of an entertainment committee consisting of Arthur Robinson, Harry Wilson, Donald Welch and Miss Jessie French.

HONESTY IN EVERYTHING

EDITORIAL COMMENT.

Boston will soon reach the dignity of being the collapsible wonder of the world.

Brother Guild is on the horns of a dilemma. He would and he wouldn't and then again.

If there is anything that Mr. Brandeis favors except such as are proposed by himself people would like to know it. He is getting peevish now over the B. & M. lease, which was defeated a few days ago. It's the things that are before us we should worry over not those we have left behind in the march of time.

Publicity! Well it is a very good thing at times. The trouble is so much has been going on behind closed doors, that the people have been unable to keep an eye on those things which interest their welfare, hence the high cost of living and few other things to add to life's burdens.

Don't the architects think things are flighty enough on Beacon hill, without putting wings on the state house?

As usual it is easy to place the blame without fear of contradiction upon one who is dead and gone and unable to defend him. But a higher power knows that the Titanic disaster was due solely to greed and much loss of life to one who should have answered the call for aid.

Uncle Sam is about to take another hand in Cuban affairs. He may soon be looked upon by the island republic, as too bothersome a foster parent.

Boston wants either a corps of building inspectors who will inspect or enough of them to go round.

Gracion here is some one with hardihood enough to ask Lillian Russell's age and there was found a man with courage enough to give the year and month. A divergence either way will afford the fair Lillian grounds for malicious slander.

Possibly the free use of the Canal may increase the number of vessels sailing under the American flag.

The news bureaus in Washington are all doing a guessing stunt, afraid to come out and say what they think of the situation. All in all it is a pretty weak exhibit by people who are supposed to be such a power.

The Columbia college student who lived on $1.45 a week while his wife was away must have had an appetite like a canary bird, as according to his menu he must have bought an ounce of each article he purchased.

With his usual modesty, Tom Lawson has gloriously thrown his chapeau into the ring for United States senator and promises the people a run for their money if they pledge him their support It is a new method of campaigning in the East but it has its redeeming features Mr Lawson will not thrust himself into the melee unless assured of a certain amount of support He promises to assist in knocking out the high cost of living. If Lawson is satisfied he has a chance the people can be assured of a red hot unique campaign.

The backward spring has forced up the price of flowers to the top notch and it looks as though the supply for Memorial day would be much smaller than usual. The wild flowers will be scarce and garden blooms will be few in consequence of the cold rainy weather. Do not delay too long in sending your order to the florist for flowers for Memorial day purposes and do not order many carnations unless you are prepared to pay almost prohibitive prices as these flowers will probably be scarce and high.

MEMORIAL DAY MEMORIES.

In these days when competition is speeding up men's powers to their highest gear, it is natural enough that the workingman should turn on a holiday to the ball game rather than to the burial ground.

This ignoring of a past so vital to the veteran, as reflected at the smaller attendance seen at both the National and Confederae Memorial day observances, must seem a sign of frivolity and ingratitude to the men who offered their lives in that passionate sectional conflict.

If one has not the patience or the patriotism to hear the words of the orator, or the sentiment to lay a flower on the grave of some veteran, at least something can be done in every home to tell the children about it.

Tell them what their grandfathers and grandmothers did to sustain an unselfish cause! Don't forget Grandma's part! Perhaps it was the greater!

No younger man can possibly feel what that moment must have been, when the veterans, throats choking, tried in vain to say goodby, and took their last looks at weeping wives and daughters.

There is little in our lives that corresponds to the strength and courage of the Mothers of Israel, who bravely smiling, sought to fill the hearts of the younger women with a strength and hope they did not feel in their own hearts.

The lot of the soldier must have been preferable to that of the dear one who stayed at home. In danger, action is far better than inaction. When not in imminent peril, the duties, the humors, the companionships of camp life occupied the mind of the soldier. Morbid thoughts did not enter much. Even in actual battle, the mind could hardly stop to realize the real situation.

At home, how different! Every step was dreaded. It might be the bearer of a letter or a telegram bringing fatal news. Every newspaper was opened with shaking hands.

It is harder to get the citizen of 1912, to turn out to the caucuses on a rainy night, to save his state and country from grafters, than it was to persuade the boys of '61 to stand up to be shot at

IS GUILD UNCERTAIN?

That Ambassador Curtis Guild returned from Russia at an opportune time to be in at the death, to use a fox hunting term, for the senatorial roundup, is to some people incomprehensive. To others who have followed the trend of Republican politics in this state, there appears a strong probability that there is more in this impromptu appearance of the popular Curtis than appears on the surface.

One Boston paper the other day peddled out two columns of twaddle, ostensibly throwing light upon the terrific diplomatic interests which called Mr. Guild on this side of the water at this time. All that it contained could be conveyed in one sentence of ten words, and then nothing new would have been given out.

Is it not just possible that the situation in Massachusetts at this time called for the presence and candidacy of just such a man as Hon. Curtis Guild?

There are dissensions in the party, division, and bitter feelings, which might result in a democratic legislature and even if the primaries provision becomes a law, in time to be operative this year, for the election of senator, with the divisions which have cropped out in the party and a preliminary contest for the senatorial nomination, it might not be so difficult for a Democrat to be elected by popular vote.

The Republican party has some astute and clever leaders. They do not always permit the rank and file to be cognizant of all their plans or movements. And many things which appear to be entirely spontaneous and the product of the natural course of events, are really the developement of plans carefully laid months before.

Curtis Guild is the man of the hour. While friendly both to Taft and Roosevelt he has not been identified with either in this strangest of all campaigns in the United States. He is popular, a good mixer, a man without enemies, and what more likely than at the proper hour with the proper setting he should arrive on the stage, and respond to the popular demand that he accept the senatorship from the people of Massachusetts.

HIGH COST OF LIVING.

Many people have proclaimed that they know the cause of the high cost of living and could apply a remedy. Both cause, effect and remedy seem to be plainly revealed in the latest move of the coal operators. The coal miners demanded an increase of wages. This was granted by the large hearted coal barons, the advance being less than three cents a ton on each ton of coal taken from the earth by the miners.

Of course it could not be expected that the financially distressed and straitened coal operators should bear this burden. No indeed, the consumers were the ones upon whom to tag this additional cost per ton. But how was it done? The three cents per ton could not very well be charged up to each consumer. That would be very small. The consumer would feel that he had been belittled and his dignity hurt if called upon to make up a difference so small.

The coal barons solved the problem. They raised the rate of coal twenty-five cents a ton almost three times as much as the advance allowed the miners. The consumer would not stop to figure this out. Where does the balance between the three and twenty-five cents go? On an output of 1,000,000 tons of coal this twenty-five cents would total up to something like $220,000.

A rather tidy sum, when compared with the meagre $30,000, which the miners received as an advance on a similar output.

Right here it seems is one of the causes of the high cost of living and the remedy it would seem would be in an equitable adjustment of prizes, arranged by some commission appointed for that purpose, based upon the cost of production, tariff schedules, wages paid employers and profits accruing to the producer.

PATRIOTIC WARD SIXERS

Atlantic July Fourth Committee Wants Hall

MAY BUY MUSIC HALL

The Fourth of July committee has had its organization incorporated and is now the Ward Six Patriotic Association of Quincy. At their meeting in Music hall, Wednesday evening, the men discussed the needs and possibilities of a suitable hall in Atlantic for entertainment and social purposes. There seems such a need for a public hall that many of the men feel willing to invest and are assured it would pay well.

Music hall, where most public performances have been held, is in bad repair. This hall was built years ago by such an organization as the present Patriotic Association, but as the men died, or sold their shares, the building became private property. It is possible to have Music hall repaired, and the association may yet see fit to make an offer for it and fix it up.

If the association either builds a new hall or buys and repairs Music hall, putting in bowling alley, pool room and reading rooms, and the city has the assembly hall finished in the school building, Atlantic will be well equipped for social, religious and educational activities.

TEACHERS' CLUB FINE MUSICALE

Arranged by Misses Fraher and Ferguson, Great Success

ENTERTAINING PROGRAM

A musicale of a particularly artistic order, given by Miss Ruth S. Ferguson and Miss Annie A. Fraher to the Humphrey Teachers' club and their friends, was held at High school hall, East Weymouth, Tuesday evening

The musicale was given under the direction of Enrico Barraja, assisted by Mrs. Herbert Y. Follett, soprano, Mrs. C. Ray Blanchard, violinist; Miss Miriam Davenport Gow, reader; Olindo Tadeii, cello and J. Barraja Frauenfelder, bass.

The programme was greatly enjoyed by a large and appreciative audience. The numbers were splendidly rendered and the interest of the audience was held throughout the entire performance.

Mr. Barraja is a concert pianist and was educated abroad. His compositions and selections particularly the Grand Polonaise A Flat Op. 53 Chopin were applauded again and again, the audience feeling it to be an unusual privilege to listen to one so wonderfully artistic in his interpretation of Chopin's masterpiece. The selection was filled with graceful and original harmonic effects. His execution was perfect.

Mr. Frauenfelder's bass solo, the Prologue from Mefistofele was another interesting number, as was also his solo, "Lovelight," Mr. Barraja's composition. In fact, the audience could hardly decide which of his five selections deserved the most applause. His solo, "Adoration," Violin Obligato Mrs. Blanchard, was in especial favor with many.

Miss Gow, who reads with the Lotus Quartet gave three readings. Her last "The Sign of the Cross," being particularly worthy of mention. Her great charm of manner won all hearts.

Mrs. Blanchard's violin selections are always well received. Her execution was in every detail perfect and true and with tasteful shading, giving as a whole interpretations full of life, sentiment and plasticity.

BETHANY CHURCH SERVICES.

The services on Sunday will be full of interest and help for all. The music will be as follows: In the morning, prelude, "Prayer and Cradle Song" Gulimant; anthem "The Lord is my Shepherd" Smart; offertory, solo by Mr. Hayden and postlude by Clark.

In the evening, special music will be as follows: prelude, Grand chorus, Dubois; chorus "How beautiful upon the mountains," Stainer; soprano solo and chorus, "Jerusalem, O turn thee unto the Lord," Gounod; anthem, "Saviour when night involves the skies", Shelly and postlude, Fugue, Denham.

The special meeting of the C. E. will be led by Lex Barbrick of Somerville, and a delegation from the Highland Congregational society of Somerville will be present. All are cordially invited.

At the evening service the pastor will speak on the theme appropriate to Memorial day, "A Moral Warfare."

Hot Work and Hot Weather

Boston, May 25.—After Representatice Cox of Boston, the Republican leader of the house, had stated to the members yesterday that by sitting all day and holding a session today the house will be able to complete its business in the first three days of next week, the members decided to suspend the rule providing for adjournment at 2 o'clock on Fridays, and with the exception of the ordinary recess at noon, the house continued in session until it disposed of all business on the calendar.

SEEKING LOCATION.

The American Voting Machine company is seeking a location for a factory for the construction of their machines.

Conference is already being held by the Board of Trade with the treasurer of the company to see if any inducements can be made to have them locate their factory in Quincy.

Parties having desirable sites or buildings are requested to communicate with the secretary of the Quincy Board of Trade, John O. Hall.

Burns a Possible Witness

Los Angeles, Cal., May 25.—Detestive William J. Burns is expected here within a few days. It is generally supposed he is coming to the trial of Clarence S. Darrow, accused of bribing a talesman in the McNamara case, but the prosecution refuses to say that he will be called as a witness. The trial i still delayed by a futile attempt to select the thirteenth, or alternate juror.

Really Remarkable Rugs

Do you know there are so many different grades of domestic rugs sold under a given name that the average buyer is confused? It's true. Axminster Rugs, for instance, can be sold all the way from $15. to $35. There are three distinct grades of Body Brussells. And so on through the list.

So it is always well to look twice before buying a rug bargain that looks cheap. There are times when you can pick up a real rug bargain, but for your own sake, unless you are an expert, we suggest you buy only of a store in which you have confidence.

OUR Rugs are REALLY REMARKABLE

We speak of Our Rug display with Special Pride. With perfect frankness we admit it may not be the largest in the State, BUT LISTEN—not in all New England can you find a more carefully selected assortment of Reliable Rugs. And they're reasonably priced.

You'll find today between 300 and 400 of these "different," "distinctive" Room Rugs on our up-to-date swinging display rack. Every single one right in color, quality and price. Every one selected from America's best Mills with the "Know how" acquired in 25 years' experience.

Take half a minute to read about half a dozen.

CREX

New, very pretty pattern just in fresh from the factory. Body of light green with a scroll of rich red running heavy across ends and lightly along sides. Size 8x10. Price 6.98

TAPESTRY

Good serviceable rugs in several artistic patterns. No. 1421 has a center of dark brown surrounded by small squares of light brown enclosed with just a touch of black. Its Price for 9x12 size is only 14.75

VELVET

No. 2610 is a 9x12 handsome 2 tone green velvet with a pretty scroll of red. Made by one of the high class manufacturers. Worth every cent of $25.00

AXMINSTER

No. 2550 is an extra heavy Axminster Rug of Oriental design. A green and brown you'll never tire of or wear out. 3 yards wide and 4 yards long, it's well worth 30.75

WILTON

See No. 3121—one of the Arlington Mills 9x12 Royal Wiltons. Very best of wool and vegetable dyes. Colors resemble rich autumn foliage. You'll never wear it out or buy its like less than the price we now name 40.50

SAXONY

483-C is a splendid Hartford Saxony. Large center square 2 tone red with 18-in. border of beautifully blended colors. Service and beauty put in to stay in. Size 9x12. Particular people perfectly pleased to pay 50.00

Only a personal inspection can prove their beauty. Remember a visit entails no obligation to buy. Come and see them—there is just the rug you want HERE, and Say, we'll gladly send it to your home on approval. Could anything be more fair?

ATHOL REVELS IN RIPE OLD AGE

150th Anniversary to be Celebrated June 16, 17 and 18

ADDRESS BY BISHOP FEEHAN

The town of Athol celebrates its 150th Anniversary June 16, 17, 18.

There will be special rates on the Boston & Maine Railroad.

Sunday forenoon the churches will hold special services. Sunday afternoon at 2.30 there will be a mass meeting on the common at Athol Centre with a chorus of 400 voices and an address by the Rt. Rev. Daniel F. Feehan, Bishop of Fall River, a native of Athol. At 5 o'clock the Masonic lodges of the town will unite in dedicating a memorial tablet on the site where the first Masonic lodge was instituted in the town in 1803. It is expected that the entire 2nd Regiment, M. V. M., will go into camp on the anniversary grounds. In the evening there will be band concerts in both of the villages.

Monday at 10 o'clock there will be a parade which will be participated in by the militia, societies, manufacturers and merchants. There will be sports in the afternoon on the anniversary grounds and fire works and band concerts in the evening.

Tuesday forenoon here will be a ball game and an automobile sightseeing tour. In the afternoon there will be an address by the Hon. J. H. Atwood of Kansas City and others, and in the evening an anniversary ball at Brookside Park.

WEST END CLUB'S ANNUAL PARTY

Attended by Over 300---Many Visiting Guests

The West End club, one of Quincy's foremost organizations of young men, held their ninth annual dance in Alpha hall Tuesday evening and despite the bad weather, fully 300 people attended.

The guests of the evening included Councilmen Harry T. Boyd, John J. Mahoney and Daniel F. Forde of Ward Four. Various organizations of Quincy and other places were represented among the dancers.

Music for the occasion was by Joyce orchestra. Moonlight Waltzes featured the dancing.

The floor was in charge of Joseph Brunett, with Lawrence Donovan, as assistant while the corps of aids included Bartholemew Flaherty, Edward Bennett, Charles C. McCue, Richard Joyce, John Perkins, James Donovan, Thomas Flaherty, James F. King, James O'Brien, Joseph Wade, William Belanger, James Belanger, Joseph Fitzgerald, James McDonald and Joseph Farrell.

The officers of the club are:
President—Bartholemew Flaherty.
Vice president—James Donovan.
Secretary—Joseph Farrell.
Treasurer—Joseph Fitzgerald.

WEDDING ANNIVERSARY.

Mr. and Mrs. G. Henry Jones of Braintree with the assistance o friends and relatives celebrated the twenty-seventh anniversary of their marriage at their home last evening. The affair was planned by their daughter, Mrs. J. Warren Bates and her husband. Mr. and Mrs. Jones were presented by the S. of V. Auxiliary, No. 16, of which Mrs. Jones is a member, with a chest of silver. The presentation speech was made by Mrs. Stella Fox, president of the auxiliary, and the happy couple responded in well chosen words. There were numerous other gifts from relatives and friends.

Delightful music was rendered by De Fabrio orchestra of South Braintree, and there were fine piano solos by Mrs. Eva MacDonald. Mrs. J. Warren Bates rendered readings in a stirring manner and was accorded loud applause.

Refreshments were served and a general good time was enjoyed until a late hour, the guests departing to their homes, after wishing Mr. and Mrs. Jones many happy returns of the day. Guests were present from Braintree, Boston, Lynn, Salem and other places. Mr. Jones is employed by the Stevens & Willis Co., Braintree, and Mrs. Jones is an active member of S. of V. auxiliary.

QUINCY SHORE ROAD PASSES

$100,000 For It In the Omnibus Boulevard Bill

UP TO THE GOVERNOR

The omnibus boulevard bill which carries an appropriation of $100,000 to complete the Quincy Shore Boulevard from the shore to Hancock street was passed at a special session of the House this morning and now goes to the Governor for his approval. The bill was originally passed Friday but this morning a reconsideration was attempted. This caused a long debate in which Representatives Piper and Leslie spoke in favor of the bill. Reconsideration was then refused.

NEGROES SACK SMALL TOWN

Insurgents Capture El Caney del Sitio Cuba

RURAL GUARDS INADEQUATE

General Ivonet Makes Himself Felt—Town Centre of Rich Section of Country—Regulars Arrive Too Late to Meet Insurgents—Attempt Frustrated to Raid Santiago—Americans Pillaged Near Guantanamo

Santiago, May 25.—A band of negro insurgents, apparently under the command of General Ivonet, has attacked and captured El Caney del Sitio, four miles from Palma Soriano on the Bayamo branch of the Cuba railroad. They sacked the town, committing many outrages. A small detachment of rural guards stationed at El Caney del Sitio was unable to offer any effective resistance to the rebels. El Caney del Sitio is in the centre of a rich coffee and cocoa region and the amount of damage done by the rebels is estimated at a very high figure. A body of regular troops left San Luis for El Caney del Sitio on the receipt of the report that the insurgents were marching on the place. They arrived too late, however, to prevent the sacking of the town but intend to pursue and attack the insurgents today.

The newly-organized corps of volunteers while patrolling the streets of Santiago last night captured a negro cutting down the electric light posts near the power house. Apparently it was his intention to plunge the city into darkness in order to facilitate a night attack by the insurgent forces in the immediate vicinity.

Palma Soriano is about twenty miles northwest of Santiago. El Caney, the scene of a battle in the Spanish-American war, is east-northeast of Santiago, less than five miles away.

Two stores in the village of San Marcos, in the vicinity of Guantanamo, belonging to the Fidelity company, an American concern, were pillaged by a rebel band. The negroes carried off all the stock as well as eight horses and $500 in cash. The Cuban cruiser Cuba has arrived at Guantanamo with reinforcements of infantry and artillery and arms for the local volunteers.

THE LONDON STRIKE

Quiet Now, but Threatens to Extend Over the Entire Island

London, May 25.—Although the strike of the transport workers has not become nearly general, a quietness resembling that of Sunday prevailed in the streets of London in the morning owing to the absence of the usual long line of trucks and drays. The order to lay down tools affects upwards of 100,000 men in central London alone, but those engaged on jobs will be permitted to complete them before joining their fellows who have already struck. The full effect of the strike order will therefore not be felt for several days. Everything is quiet at the docks, and in the immediate vicinity. Picketing is being carried on by the men in an absolutely peaceful manner, and no disturbances such as were associated with the strike of last year have been reported.

The general opinion is that the strike will prove a more serious matter for London than even the recent coal strike. Little hope is held out for a speedy settlement, and unless the men's demands are granted, they intend to call out the transport workers of the whole country, and possibly also the railway men, thus involving the kingdom in the gravest labor crisis it has ever experienced. At least 500,000 men would be involved.

SAN DIEGO PLOTS

Police Heads, District Attorney and Mayor Marked For Assassination

San Diego, Cal., May 25.—That a plot is on foot by the Industrial Workers of the World to kill Mayor Wadham, Superintendent of Police Sehon, District Attorney Utley and Chief of Police Wilson, was the assertion made by Wilson, who said that six men chosen by lot to do this killing are already in this city.

Wilson, said local detectives learned that the six left Los Angeles together, each carrying a rifle, equipped with a Maxim silencer. Three left the train at Ocean Park, he asserted, two at Delmar, and the other came on into the city. Wilson added that automobiles running without lights met the five men who dropped off in the suburbs and carried them here. The chief asserted that his officers are now searching for the six men.

The chief's statement has served to inflame again the feeling between the members of the I. W. W. and many citizens of San Diego.

It is feared the citizens will attempt further reprisals against the Industrial Workers.

BRIEFS

Councilman Sandberg who sails early Tuesday morning for Sweden has promised the members of the City Council that he will send them souvenir postal cards from some of the places which he is to visit. He expects to get some new ideas on street building before he returns.

First Church Sunday school has decided to omit the usual picnic this year.

The fire Thursday morning at the home of George F. Pinkham, Warren avenue was of special interest to the older residents of Wollaston as the house and its owner are closely identified with the history of Wollaston. Mr. Pinkham might well be called the father or founder of this beautiful hill settlement and his house was almost the only residence for years. In it the first church, the Wollaston Baptist was started, services being held in the library, also the first school, for the district. Every one is glad the house was not badly damaged by the fire.

Because of the fire at his home on Thursday, Mr. George F. Pinkham of Warren avenue, is stopping with Mr. and Mrs. Herbert W. Pinkham, at 109 Grand View avenue.

Carl C. Davis of Billings road, who has been in the real estate business with William Arthur of Hollis avenue has accepted a position on the railroad, in Canada.

Mrs. Eben W. Shepperd is quite ill at her home on Greenleaf street, with Dr. Welch in attendance.

The Get-to-Gether club of Memorial church had their last social of the season, Wednesday evening. Charles E. Stearns demonstrated his griddle cake flour to the enjoyment of the club. Mr. and Mrs. Henry Mallock had general charge of the social.

The first quarterly conference will be held at the Hall Place M. E. church Tuesday evening. In the absence of Dr. Dillon Bronson, district superintendent who is attending the general conference at Minneapolis, Rev. Wesley Wiggin of Wollaston will preside.

The attractions at the May party on St. Chrysostom's rectory grounds today are many—for both young and old. Miss Estelle Orrisey Wilcox, whose readings gave so much pleasure at the recent Glee club concert is to be heard again. The party will be held regardless of weather conditions and supper will be served at six o'clock.

The Walther Men's class will meet Sunday at 12.15 in the Wollaston Baptist church, Rev. Joseph Walther will lead the discussion, subject: "Is a lie ever justifiable?" All men not in other similar classes invited.

DONATION DAY.

The annual donation day for Pond Home will be held at the home on Saturday, June 1st. The train leaves the South station, Boston, for Pondville at 12.07. It is hoped a large delegation of King's Daughters and friends will go from Quincy. It will not be necessary to carry luncheon as it can be secured at the Home. Donations can be left or sent to Mrs. Thomas Fenno, 538 Hancock street, Wollaston, or sent to Mrs. C. W. Guy, 42 Butler road, Quincy.

SPECTACULAR ELECTRICITY

Marked the Storm and Caused Great Damage

SAUGUS TROLLEY ACCIDENT

Hottest May Day Brings Wild Electric Storm—Two Powder Mills Blown Up—Damage Is Widespread—Street Car Accidents In Saugus and Somerville—Oil Tank and Railroad Station Go Up Flames

Boston, May 25.—Boston's suffering from the hottest May 24 on record at the local weather bureau office ended shortly after 5 o'clock yesterday afternoon in a disastrous and spectacular electrical storm, accompanied by torrential downpours of rain and in many suburbs by heavy falls of hail.

A more marked contrast in weather conditions in two hours would be hard to find. At 4 o'clock the city was sweltering in the grip of the first real hot wave of the season. Hundreds had visited the beaches for their first dips in the ocean, and in the business section straw hats were blossoming out by thousands.

At 6 o'clock lightning was playing across the sky in jagged streaks and the telephone and electric light services of many suburbs were seriously crippled.

A trolley car was struck in Boston, houses were hit in cities and towns on every side, and the rain wore gullies in the unpaved streets of the suburbs. The train shed at the North station was also struck.

The most remarkable fall in temperature was recorded in Malden, where the thermometer dropped from 82 degrees to 17 degrees in less than an hour, during a violent hail storm that literally covered Glen Rock Circle with the frozen pellets.

Serious injuries resulted from the rain and lightning. In North Saugus the street car rails were made so slippery by the heavy downpour that Motorman Edward Pranker was unable to bring his car to a stop in time to avoid a collision with another car which had been brought to a standstill by a blown-out fuse. In the crash when Pranker's car struck the other, twelve persons were injured, Pranker and a woman passenger seriously.

Panic broke out on the ferryboat Brewster of the Revere Beach line when the vessel was hit by a bolt of lightning. Many women fainted and hundreds of passengers fought wildly to get to the decks or inside the cabin. No one was seriously injured, but few escaped without minor cuts and bruises.

There were 200 passengers on the boat at the time, and the going out of the lights and a terrific crash of thunder that came almost at the same time as the darkness created panic among them.

With a crash that shook the surrounding country two mills of the American Powder company on the outskirts of Acton were blown up during the thunder storm, causing a damage estimated at $5000.

Workmen were in both buildings only a few minutes previous to the explosion. One of the mills was hit and the other was destroyed by an explosion produced by the first concussion.

Lightning struck a large tank of kerosene oil in the upper floor of the New York, New Haven and Hartford railroad station at Webster and the station was destroyed by fire.

The damage was estimated at about $4500. Three times the blaze started afresh after the firemen had left it, each time making it necessary to resummon the department.

A bolt hit a Somerville car at the corner of Revere and Charles streets, burning out the fuse box and mushrooming blinding sheets of flame along both sides of the car. Sparks jumped from the controller. The vivid electrical phenomenon, together with an especially violent clap of thunder immediately following it, sent the seven women passengers into hysterics. The flashes of light that shot about the car on every side blinded the bystanders for a short time, during which the car caught fire.

OROZOCO WOUNDED

Federals Win a Decisive Engagement With Mexican Rebels

El Paso, Tex., May 25.—General Pascual Orozco is making a final desperate effort at Jiminez to halt the advance of General Huerta's Mexican federal army and turn the tide of defeat which swept his army in confusion from the rebel stronghold at Rellano.

Orozco himself was wounded during the battle by a bursting shell, pieces of which struck him on the leg.

Hundreds of dead and wounded rebels still are lying in the alkali district around Rellano, according to federal advices, and it is believed Orozco lost nearly 1000 men. Federal losses exceed 200.

KING FREDERICK LAID AT REST

Many Royal Heads Pay Their Last Honors

Copenhagen, May 25.—With impressive pomp and ceremony, marked by the presence of four kings, four queens and 2000 notables from all over Europe—in striking contrast to the lonliness and obscurity of his sudden death in Hamburg—the body of the late King Frederick VIII. was laid to rest in Frederick V.'s chapel at Roskilde, after lying in state since Monday in Christiansborg chapel.

Great diplomatic importance was attached to the meeting of the three Scandinavian kings—Christian of Denmark, Haakon of Norway and Gutav of Sweden. It was the first time in 1000 years that three Scandinavian monarchs had met on friendly terms, and it was said they became so agreeable at the dinner following the funeral that further meetings were planned for Stockholm and Christiania.

Other royalties in attendance at the funeral included King George of Greece, the dead king's brother; Dowager Queen Alexandra of Great Britain, a sister; the Dowager Empress Dagmar of Russia, a sister; Queen Maud of Norway, Archduke Peter Ferdinand of Austria, the Duke of Genoa, Italy, and the Infante Don Carlos, Spain.

The United States government was represented by Charge d'Affaires Richardson, in the absence of Minister Egan, who is in America.

AGAINST NEGRO ELKS

New York Court Orders Them to Change Their Name

Albany, May 25.—The "Improved Benevolent and Protective Order of Elks of the World," a negro organization, must adopt another name which contains no reference to the Elks, and its members must not wear the Elks' emblem according to a decision by the court of appeals.

The action was brought by the Benevolent and Protective Order of Elks, incorporated by a special act of the legislature in 1871, to restrain the "colored" organization from using the corporate name adopted in 1907, so closely resembling that of the original order of Elks "as to be calculated to deceive the public and persons having transactions with either corporation."

Heat Causes Six Fatalities

Pittsburg, May 25.—With the government thermometer registering six degrees higher than on the same day last year, six infant deaths from the heat were reported to the coroner yesterday.

The KITCHEN CUPBOARD

THE ESCULENT CUCUMBER.

CUCUMBER salad made with vinegar and salad oil or with vinegar alone is familiar in every household. Some less well known recipes are here given for serving this vegetable.

The seeds and coarse skin must be removed from cucumbers before cooking. The ends should also be cut off. The cucumber should be sliced and soaked in cold water to crisp it if it is to be used as a salad.

A Useful Recipe.

Cucumbers In Sauce.—Pare and cut the cucumber into dice and boil in salted water till tender. Then throw the pieces into cold water for a few minutes to make them crisp. Drain and reheat in white or bechamel sauce. Serve in patty cases or on squares of toasted bread.

Dipped In Batter.

Fried Cucumbers.—Pare the cucumbers, take out the seed. Cut into half and soak in iced water for half an hour or more. Make a batter of a beaten egg, a cup of milk, a dash of salt and a large cup of prepared flour. Dry the cucumbers on a towel, dip them into this batter and fry to a golden brown in deep fat. Drain and serve.

Vegetable Fritters.

Cucumber Fritters.—Pare, cut off ends and remove the seeds from the cucumbers. Then pass the pulp through a coarse sieve. Beat an egg, season with salt and pepper and add flour to make a batter. Stir into this the cucumber. Put fat into frying pan and when it is hot drop the mixture into the pan, spoonful by spoonful, and fry like pancakes. Serve hot.

A Novel Method.

Cucumber Scallop.—Butter a baking dish and sprinkle it with breadcrumbs. Pare and take the seed from a cucumber and cut the firm white pulp into cubes. Put a layer of these in the baking dish, sprinkle with salt, pepper, minced onions and bits of butter. Then put in a row of breadcrumbs and after that more cucumber. So continue till the dish is filled. Then pour in a cup of white stock, white sauce or chicken broth. A half cup of grated cheese added to white sauce also makes a rich dressing. Bake for half an hour in a quick oven or until the crumbs brown.

STATE LEGISLATURE DEFIES GOVERNOR

General Court Threatens to Adjourn If Not Prorogued

Boston, May 25.—Thomas W. Lawson was boomed for the United States senate yesterday afternoon by Martin M. Lomasney, who linked his name with that of Justice Hughes in an impassioned speech favoring the establishment of a public utilities board in accordance with the recommendations of Governor Foss.

Mr. Lomasney pointed out that both these men favored such a board, and that Hughes is a compromise candidate for President of the United States, while Lawson is a candidate for the United States senate.

The utilities bill, however, was defeated. When Governor Foss heard of it he declared that he would today send another special message to the legislature and keep the legislature in session until it should respond to the needs of the people.

But the leaders on both sides say that they will never pass the utilities bill. If the governor does not prorogue them they will meet and adjourn the rest of the summer.

It was said last night that the special message of the governor would be forthcoming before next Wednesday and that it would include the entire subject of railroad legislation and public utilities which the legislature has refused to enact.

The breach between the governor and the legislature was widened again by the passage over his veto of the $110,000 appropriation for the Worcester hospital. This was the day before passed over the veto in the house. It is no wa law.

The appropriation bill for the Westboro state hospital was defeated in the senate.

Two big labor matters won a victory yesterday. One is the amended minimum wage bill which was passed to be engrossed in the senate. The other is a new board of labor inspection which takes over the duties of the chief of police and state board of health.

A HOP, SKIP AND A JUMP

Is the Nature of the New Jersey Campaign

CANDIDATES KEEP MOVING

The Seekers For Presidential Honors Skip Around Like One of the Native Insects—Strong Talks Being Offered For the Twenty-Eight Delegates—Governor Wilson Waxes Warm Against State Opponents

Newark, N. J., May 25.—The New Jersey primary campaign is now in full swing, with three of the Republican candidates for the presidential nomination speaking in the state at the same time. Campaign oratory in every quarter is awakening the people to the importance of the part they will play in the country's political destinies when they select their twenty-eight delegates to the national conventions next Tuesday. President Taft began three days of hard campaigning when he left Trenton, the capital, with a speaking schedule that carried him to Jersey City. Between these two cities he planned to make short talks at more than a dozen places.

Colonel Roosevelt was astir as early as the president, bound south and going in the opposite direction. He ended his tour for the day at Trenton, where a long speech was scheduled. His route took in Burlington, Egg Harbor, Atlantic City, Camden and several smaller places between. Thus far in his New Jersey campaign Colonel Roosevelt has confined his speeches largely to the general issues and principles of the national campaign.

Senator La Follette at Atlantic City addressed a large audience on the steel pier. Then he campaigned in the northern and central parts of the state, stopping at Lakewood, Asbury Park, Long Branch and Red Bank and wound up with speeches at Paterson and Newark.

The Democratic campaign, which, on account of the decision of the other candidates, not to oppose Governor Wilson within his own state, has attracted less attention than the Republican, gained warmth when the governor issued a statement attacking his opponents within the state who are trying to send New Jersey's delegation to Baltimore uninstructed. In this statement Governor Wilson explained why he did not consider it becoming for him to take the stump in a home primary campaign.

HOLYOKE "SIAMESE" TWINS

Only Two Other Cases of That Character Known In Surgery

Holyoke, Mass., May 25.—The third case on record of twins connected by a homogeneous tissue went on the record books when a Holyoke woman gave birth to twin daughters at the Holyoke hospital. The infants have perfectly formed bodies, separate hearts, lungs and other organs, but are connected by homogeneous tissues just back of the hips.

Prominent physicians and surgeons have been called in to examine the twins, and all have agreed that any attempt to separate them would result fatally. The other two cases on record of such a union are the famous Siamese twins and twins born in Bulgaria a few years ago.

NEED ONE BISHOP

Seven Have Been Selected by the Methodist General Conference

Minneapolis, May 25.—Francis J. McConnell, president of Depauw university, Green Castle, Ind., was the fifth bishop to be elected. He was chosen on the twenty-first ballot.

Dr. McConnell was born in Trinway, O., in 1871, and at present is the youngest bishop. He was educated at Ohio Wesleyan university and at the Boston School of Theology and has been president of Depauw since March, 1909.

Dr. F. D. Leete of Detroit, was selected sixth of the eight new bishops of the Methodist Episcopal church on the twenty-third ballot.

R. J. Cooke, New York, book editor of the church, was elected seventh bishop on the twenty-fourth ballot.

In Richeson's Cell

Boston, May 25.—Enrico Mascioli, who, with Mrs. Lena Cusumano, has been sentenced to death for the murder of the woman's husband, is now in the cell that was occupied by Clarence V. T. Richeson in the Charlestown prison.

Unlawfully Possessing Morphine

Boston, May 25.—George Reilly, an inmate of the house of correction, was sentenced to six months at the Deer island institution on a charge of unlawfully having morphine in his possession.

Earthquake In Hawaii

Honolulu, May 25.—The island of Hawaii was shaken by the severest earthquake experienced in years. Wireless messages report Mauna Loa smoking.

SHOE CONTRACTS MAY BE DIVERTED

Inspector Says Boston House Was Unduly Aided

Washington, May 25.—Confessing that an inspector who so desired could rule out shoes made by one manufacturer in favor of those made by another, Government Shoe Inspector Finnegan of St. Louis gave the house committee on expenditures in the war department some interesting details of his work in passing footgear made for the men in the navy and marine corps.

Representative Difenderfer brought out this fact in order to lay the foundation for the investigation which he is conducting, and to show that Hermann & Co. of Boston have been unduly aided by the inspectors while other shoe manufacturers have been "so harrassed that they could not accept orders."

The witness testified that a "fine inspector" could condemn a commercially perfect shoe on a technical point, such as the difference of a fraction of an inch in the length of a heel, or the number of nails to an inch.

NOMINATION BETS POSTED

Book Makers Believe Taft Will Not Be Elected

New York, May 25.—When the stock market is inactive these days some of the room traders in Wall street are making pools on the presidential nominations. The concensus of the bettors follows:

Two to one that Taft will not be the next president.

Five to four that Roosevelt will not get the nomination.

Two to one that Speaker Clark will not get the Democratic nomination.

Four to one that Woodrow Wilson will not get the nomination.

Ten to one that W. J. Bryan will not be nominated.

Some curb brokers said they have sums from $100 to $500 to wager at these odds. But betting is not active.

WOLLASTON BOYS TAKE FIRST PLACE

Lincoln Boys' Title Wrecked in One Inning

QUINCY AND ADAMS WON

First place in the Grammar school went to the Wollaston school players, who defeated the Lincoln school, 10 to 5 in a one-sided game Friday afternoon at Merrymount park. A series of hits, together with a few errors, proved disastrous for the Lincoln team and as a result Wollaston was enabled to score eight runs in the second inning and keep control of the situation throughout the remainder of the game.

The score by innings:

Innings	1	2	3	4	5	6
Wollaston	1	8	0	1	0	x-10
Lincoln	0	0	0	1	0	4—5

Batteries: Wollaston—Isbester, Cox and Hamilton; Lincoln—McIntyre and Tite.

QUINCY VS. CODDINGTON.

In a game that required two extra innings, the Quincy school triumphed over the Coddington school at Merrymount Park, Friday afternoon by a score of 4 to 3.

The score by innings:

Innings	1	2	3	4	5	6	7	8	·
Quincy	1	0	0	0	0	1	0	2	—4
Coddington	1	0	0	0	0	1	0	1	—3

Batteries: McNally and Guong for Quincy; Cheverie and Geddes for Coddington.

The Adams school defeated the Willard school by the close score of 2 to 1 on the Water street grounds Friday afternoon.

The score by innings:

Innings	1	2	3	4	5	6
Adams	1	0	0	0	0	1—2
Willard	0	0	0	1	0	0—1

Batteries: Adams—Swain and Byron, Willard—Eagan and Hodge.

Goldbergs Get New Trial

Boston, May 25.—By a decision of the supreme court Joseph and Jacob Goldberg, who were convicted of breaking and entering the jewelry store of Samuel Ullian, 1113 Washington street, in February, 1910, and are serving from 14 to 16 years in state prison, are to get a new trial.

—The comparison is rather striking which the Springfield Republican makes between the elegant and modern jail buildings that the city of New York is to erect, and the miserable dwellings of the honest common folks. The condition is not usual. Public standards also require better housing for the pauper than for the self-supporting poor.—Spencer Leader.

SIX CLUBS SEEK QUINCY CUP

Harpoon Will Again Be the Quincy Cup Defender

DATE OF RACES NOT FIXED

While no definite date has been fixed for the series of races for the Quincy Yacht club Challenge cup now held by the Quincy Yacht club it is certain that the races will be more interesting even than last year. The time for challenging for the cup has passed and there are now six challenging clubs, viz:— Boston, Corinthian, Eastern, Manchester, Beverly, and Hingham. The Boston club will probably enter the Ellen, and the Hingham club the Eel. The other clubs have not named the boat they will enter as yet and it may be sometime before the names of the challengers are known as they have until 24 hours before the first race in which to name the boat.

The cup will probably be defended by the Harpoon owned and sailed by ex-Commodore Charles F. Adams, 2d.

The cup was defended last year by the Harpoon which had as competitors the Ellen, Beatrice and Seal.

SCHOLARS WERE RATHER YOUNG

At the "Deestrict Skule" Session of Church Folks

SALE NOW GOING ON

The ladies of the United Presbyterian church held a successful entertainment and fair Friday evening in Electa hall. There was a large attendance and the amount realized will be used to defray the expenses of repairing the church.

The fair will continue this afternoon and evening. The various booths were prettily arranged and the decorations of the hall presented a pretty scene

The first part of the evening was devoted to the "Deestrict Skule." which was very ably presented by young folks of the parish. Duncan Mc Kellar, as principal, made a decided hit, while all the members of the cast acquitted themselves in an able manner.

Many jokes were handed out while the "skule" was in session and the audience was kept in a state of continual mirth and laughter throughout the performance.

Fred Nord and Charles McKenzie rendered solos in conjunction with the entertainment and received great applause. The accompanist was Miss Mary Smith.

SPLIT EVEN ON THE SLUGGING

But Lurid Errors of Brighton Clouded Their Sky

BAIRD'S SENSATIONAL CATCH

Although each side made the same number of hits, seven errors proved the undoing of the visitors and thus it was that Quincy High secured an 11 to 3 victory over the Brighton High nine at Merrymount park Friday afternoon. The game was witnessed by a large crowd of rooters and while the playing the the Brighton boys was very listless at times, the work of Coach Staff's combination was just the opposite and from a standpoint of fielding, the Granite city players displayed their best form of the season.

STRIKE CALLED OFF

But Budapest Rioters Continue Despite Instructions of Leaders

Budapest, Hungary, May 25.—Fierce fighting has broken out again in the streets of this city between the strikers and the police who are aided by a large force of troops. A big mob of men disobeyed their leaders' orders to return to work and began again the wrecking tactics indulged in Thursday.

The strike called by the Socialists and whose sequel was a series of bloody conflicts between the police and the infuriated workmen all over the city, was called off at midnight. The troops, however, still occupy the streets, especially in the vicinity of parliament house and the government offices.

LARGEST GUARANTEED CIRCULATION IN THE CITY

Vol. 27 No. 125 QUINCY, MASS., MONDAY EVENING, MAY 27, 1912 PRICE TWO CENTS

AUTO PASSED LENGTHWISE OVER BODY OF CONDUCTOR A. S. FRENCH

Concussion of Brain Resulted. Man in a Dangerous Condition but Will Recover

Dr. Sibley's Machine Struck Him as He Came From Behind Car

Arthur S. French, aged 32 years a conductor on the East Weymuoth line of the electric cars was run over by an automobile on Washington street at 3.30 Saturday afternoon and received serious injuries. French was in charge of a car bound for Quincy. His car was stooped at the easterly end of the Graham turnout opposite Mill street. He left the car and started around the rear end to throw the signal switch. As he came from behind the car he stepped directly in front of an automobile going toward Quincy Point.

The automobile was owned by Dr. S. A. Sibley of 102 Pleasant street, Stoughton, and in the car at the time was the Doctor and a gentleman friend. For some unknown reason Dr. Sibley instead of keeping in the street, which was on the north side of the car, drove his machine on the down rail between the car and the sidewalk, a space hardly ten feet wide.

The motorman of the car saw the danger and waved his hand to the driver of the car but he evidently did not see the warning for he kept right on. The automobile struck French, knocked him down and passed over him, the wheels of the automobile going over the body lengthwise.

Passengers in the car were horror-stricken and their shrieks could be heard for some distance. Andrew Gibbs and James Mullen, who reside nearby hearing the screams rushed to the scene and together with Dr. Sibley they picked up the prostrate man and carried him to the office of Dr. Middleton, a short distance from where the accident happened.

As they were taking him into Dr. Middleton's house Dr. Stephenson and two other physicians made an examination and found no bones were broken but that he was considerably bruised and that he had concussion of the brain.

The police ambulance was called and the injured man taken to the City hospital. He remained unconscious until 8 o'clock when he partially came to. He was in a comatose state all day Sunday but the attending physician, Dr. John F. Welch gave it as his opinion that he would probably recover.

Chief Burrell after making an investigation of the accident, and finding that it was purely a case of accident, did not place Dr. Sibley under arrest.

The place where the accident happened was nearly directly opposite the house where French lives and but a short distance from where the Walter boy was killed by an automobile a week ago.

HOLIDAY TRAIN SERVICE.

Following the usual custom the New York, New Haven and Hartford railroad has posted notices in stations discontinuing a number of local trains into Boston in the morning and return trains in the afternoon on Memorial day, May 30th. MOESER'S BODY HUNG FROM TREE

Found by Joseph Chardi Near Braintree Line

MISSING SINCE FRIDAY

The body of Frank Moeser aged 47 years, who has been missing from his home 51 Rodman street since early Friday morning was found Sunday noon hanging from a tree near the old Quincy reservoir, on the line between Quincy and Braintree. The body was found by Joseph Clardi, aged 15 years of 306 Water street who was with a party of searchers.

Sunday morning at 10.30 o'clock, Chief Burrell had police call sounded on the fire alarm signals. This was to organize a body of searchers. Headed by Chief Burrell and Councilman C. A. Ross, the party began a systematic search of the woods between Quincy and Braintree. The party spread out over quite a space and the woods were thoroughly searched.

Young Clardi stopped to look into an old manhole. Getting up his breath was almost taken away when he saw the body of a man hanging to the limb of a tree, near the edge of a brook running to the old pumping station in Quincy. The body proved to be that of Moeser. He had tied a piece of rope about his neck and made it fast to a tree. He then had let himself down until he was in a kneeling position, where he was strangled to death.

As soon as the body had been found the recall was sounded and Medical Examiner Frederick Jones and Undertaker John Hall notified. Dr. Jones said that it was a clear case of suicide and that the body had evidently been dead since Friday. The body was then taken to Quincy. Mrs. Moeser who has not slept since her husband mysteriously disappeared was prostrated, when Chief Burrell notified her that her husband's body had been found.

Mr. Moeser had been in poor health for some time and was somewhat despondent. He and his wife had planned to pay a visit to friends in Baltimore and were to leave Friday afternoon. Mr. Moeser got up at 4 o'clock that morning and went out. Nothing strange was thought of this as he had frequently done the same thing before. Failing to return as noon approached Mrs. Moeser became alarmed and a little later in searching about the house found a short message written on the edge of a newspaper.

This message was written in German and translated read: "Do not ship trunk until I get back. Am doing all I can." She then notified the police who immediately instituted a search but were unable to find the least trace of him, up to yesterday.

MEMORIAL MASSES.

A memorial mass for the deceased members of Quincy Court, M. C. O. F. will be said in St. John's church, Memorial Day morning at 7 o'clock.

In St. John's church, Memorial Day, at 8 o'clock, a memorial mass will be said for the deceased members of Quincy Council K. of C.

RECEIVED FIRST COMMUNION.

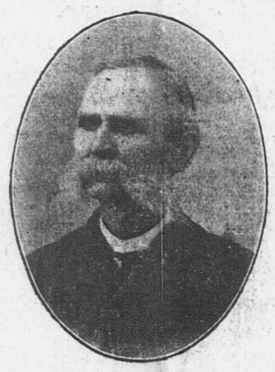
C. A. R. MEN AND ORGANIZATIONS ATTEND MEMORIAL SERVICES

Wollaston People Thoughtful of Years and Trials of Their Veteran Visitors

Splendid Tribute to Victims and Survivors of Civil War

Memorial services were held at the Park and Downs Congregational church on Sunday morning by Paul Revere Post, No. 88 G. A. R. and kindred organizations.

The post assembled at its quarters at 9.30 in company with the other organizations and at 10 o'clock special cars were taken for Wollaston.



COMMANDER FRANCIS P. LOUD, Paul Revere Post 88, G. A. R.

Through the thoughtfulness of the people at Wollaston automobiles were provided for the Post, the trip to the church and return being made by this method instead of the electrics. Those furnishing autos included Hazen B. Chapman, Charles L. Gilliatt, A. R. MacDonald, T. C. Gram and others.

The line was formed on Beach street and commanded by Francis P. Loud the 26 members of Paul Revere Post passed in review of the other organizations who fell in behind as the veterans entered the church.

The organizations represented included John A. Boyd Camp, No. 2, Spanish War Veterans, Verne G. Brooks, commander; Abner Packard Camp, Sons of Veterans, Frank H. Stoddard, commander; Paul Revere Women's Relief Corps, Mrs. Mary Power, president; Spanish War Veterans Auxiliary, Mrs. G. A. Wardwell, president; Sons of Veterans Auxiliary, Mrs. Emma Stoddard, president, Wollaston Boy Scouts, Ira Gilliatt, patrol leader.

The decorations in the church were beautiful. At regular intervals American flags were hung, the bright colors being in harmonious contrast with the banks of white lilacs in the chancel.

Behind the pulpit and on the right of the speaker were huge flags. The balcony was hung with the national colors.

The decorating committee consisted of Mrs. Charles F. Bryant, Mrs. Arthur F. Capen, Mrs. Chester A. Boynton, Mrs. J. A. Boone and Mrs. Willett, assisted by Charles F. Bryant, Charles Tanner and Charles Richardson.

The service opened with the voluntary by an orchestra consisting of Miss Emily Bjorkman, Miss Louise Steffens, Ernest Pletch, Charles A. Richardson and Miss Henrietta C. Gram.

The choir entered to the processional "Onward Christian Soldiers", followed by the Doxology and a prayer by the pastor, Rev. William B. Ayers.

Responses and a congregational prayer were read and the "Star Spangled Banner" sung. This was most inspiring, a large flag being slowly waved by its bearer during the singing.

Scripture reading and the choir selection "To Thee, O Country" was followed by a prayer of inspiration by the pastor and then "America" was sung.

Rev. William B. Ayers took his text from I Corinthians XV, 26—"The last enemy is death."

He said in part:

"In the calendar of America the Blaze Started Back of Stove, But Quickly Conquered

The alarm from Box 321 at 12.32 Sunday noon was for a slight fire in a house at 106 Intervale street owned by John Harkins and occupied by Henry Collins. The fire started back of the kitchen stove, probably from the stove becoming overheated or from a lighted match thrown into the coal hod. The fire did not get out of the kitchen and was quickly extinguished with a loss of not over $15.

SANDBERGS GOT TRAVELLING BAG

To Hold Clothes and Other Things on Journey Abroad

EDWARDS' HOUSE SCENE

Councilman Edward J. Sandberg and his brother Oscar S. Sandberg were made joint custodians of a handsome travelling bag Saturday evening at the home of the former, Buckley street, West Quincy. The affair took the form of a farewell party and was attended by more than a hundred friends who showed their well wishes upon the brothers who depart for Stockholm, Sweden, Tuesday morning to be present at the Olympic games. The presentation speech was made by ex-representative Peter T. Fallon.

In accepting the gift, Councilman Sandberg responded very feelingly and the remainder of the evening was then devoted to merrymaking.

Mr. Fallon drew a worthy picture of the genial "Ed" talking to a gathering of Stockholm citizens and telling them about his experiences in politics in Massachusetts. The speaker did not forget to relate a few incidents dealing with the time when he himself was numbered among the illustrious solons on Beacon hill.

Attorney John D. Mackay gave a vivid account of the court procedures in which Councilman Sandberg has been implicated and added that it was almost useless to conduct a suit against the gentleman in question in so far as his word was "golden" with almost any court.

Attorney Edward J. Fagan talked in a similar vein and his jocosity was such that it proved a treat to all present.

Other speakers included Dr. John H. Ash, Amos L. Litchfield, chief of the fire departemnt, Albert Halvosa and Perry Green. Miss Hannah Sandberg gave a number of piano selections that were favorably received. There was a large delegation from the order of Moose present, as well as members of other fraternal organizations with which Councilman Sandberg is affiliated. The best of good wishes were showered upon Mr. Sandberg and his brother, and all expressed the hope that his voyage and return would be most pleasant.

HONESTY IN EVERYTHING

EDITORIAL COMMENT.

Brazil has taken a hand in the Coffee hold up, which indicates much to the observant citizen.

A clear understanding of Judge Putnam's criticism of publicity in the Shoe Machinery Company case at this time, shows that the judge had good ground for his position.

Senator Crane will attend the Chicago convention as a member of the national committee, but there is nothing to prevent him exercising his tact and judgment in steering the convention craft clear of rocks, breakers and shoals.

The Lambs will gambol in Boston Friday, but as their flights will be in aid of a good cause they will be forgiven.

Now my son it is about time to afford grandpa or uncle, the annual excuse for attending the circus.

Things look rather black in Cuba with a negro insurrection on its hands.

By the time the coal barons get through juggling with the price of coal, the poor consumer will need a detective agency to determine the nature of the offence.

"Not enough of the politicians left to put in a coal scuttle," is not convincing argument for or against a candidate's efficiency, but this year most any old thing seems to satsfy the voters.

LaFollette says he is opposed to prohibition, and one could hardly blame him if he had qualified it by saying " of the Maine brand."

Hockey is not considered classical enough for elevation to major sport, or worthy of the H by Harvard.

A Charlestown woman found a pork chop diet too monotonous and now seeks divorce from her husband whom she married seven months ago.

Boston has a celebration director at $1500 a year. In most places public spirited citizens are willing to give not only their time free, but money to direct and promote celebrations. As the new director now holds one job, the people would probably like to know what is being done for one department, while he is engaged on the duties of the other.

The New York Sun man who wrote that editorial on Senator Crane must be in the habit of swallowing sour milk to save its souring on his stomach

Free churches in a free state. Certainly all good people will pledge themselves to that.

TOO MANY RETIRED.

Congressman Hobson is right. There are too many officers of the navy in the retirement class. In fact this same might apply to other branches of the public service. We have nothing to say upon the ethics of the pensioning of public officials in general. That is a problem that will adjust itself in the years to come when the people make up and realize to what an enormous degree they have committed themselves, or at least their representatives who should guard the public interests, have committed, city, state and nation. There are certain classes in the public service who risk life and limb in the pursuit of duty. But the peculiar thing about it is that this class find it most difficult to secure pension recognition. But that is not the point which is emphasized by Mr. Hobson's position. Army and navy officers are retired on half pay at a certain age.

The amount allowed them is by no means so small that they need worry for the rest of their natural life.But if they are retired on pension they should refrain from engaging in any other business and if they are capable of making big money in some occupation after retirement they should not enjoy the fruits of a pension.

It is not very long since a well-known naval officer of high rank retired on a pension and in a short time he was exploited as a high official in some mining operation. Now his knowledge of this enterprise was probably all gained by reading the prospectus but his name was worth a great deal to that concern and he no doubt received a big salary. Why should the public funds be paid out to men who are making big money from other sources?

CUBAN REVOLT.

Cuba is having another of her semi-occasional little disturbances. While the colored people are the ones principally in revolt it does not appear that the outbreak is racial, but rather factional, fostered by influences, hostile to President Gomez. Assurances have come from Havana that the government has the situation well under control.

However that may be the uprising was spontaneous and vigorous. The United States has felt it necessary to send a transport with troops to the island.

This is not the first time since the Spanish war which gave freedom to Cuba that the United States has felt caused upon to stretch forth a restraining hand in the affairs of the island republic.

That the Cubans do not relish interference in their internal affairs is well known, and despite the fact that the United States practically gave freedom to Cuba, the people of that republic are not breaking their necks in friendly manifestations towards the people of the larger republic on this side of the water.

OPENING PLAY GROUNDS.

The Sabbath opening of play grounds for all that they imply may not meet with the hearty approval of all the people, but in a modified form of such a proceeding would not be against public order or good morals. The playing of base ball and other games could be prohibited but no harm would be perpetuated if the grounds were thrown open Sundays as a recreation place for women and children. Such privilege would be a boon to many a poor, wearied woman tired after her days at the wash tub in a cramped tenement.

NEW SYSTEM OF ELEVATION.

Wouldn't it be a mighty good thing if every American boy came out of the public school thoroughly competent to make a living at a trade or on the soil, and if every girl was trained to keep house in the most scientific way? In that case, wouldn't we have a generation of splendidly useful men and women?

Senator Page of Vermont is quietly pushing his vocational education bill through congress. It appropriates $15,000,000 to be divided among the states on condition that they supply a similar amount. It brings into existence an entire new system of education, capable of indefinite extension. Labor leaders are supporting the Page bill because they prefer public trade schools to those financed and managed by great industrial corporations.

It looks as though all elements of opposition had been eliminated. The men and women who suffer most in this world are those who don't know how to do anything well. Senator Page's idea is to have no such men and women in the future.—Haverhill Gazette.

NEW ENGLAND'S RESORTS.

The June number of the New England Resorter, just out, surpasses even the beautiful initial number of that interesting magazine which preceded it. Its cover, a charming automobile girl by Chase Emerson,, the Boston artist, is worth framing. And the body of the magazine is simply packed with wonderful pictures of New England scenery and luxurious portraits of interesting personalities. Its pictorial features alone are among the very finest produced in America.

In addition there are a number of fascinating articles about New England. In "Over the Road to Restland," Miss Charlotte Mayfair gives the most realistic impression of the Sea of Clouds in the White Mountains that we have ever read. "Vermont and the Three Magicians" is a fascinating article by William T. Marmon. "Little Pastime Journeys" is composed of a dozen favorite motoring trips of from one to five hours, duration covering the most interesting and beautiful places of New England. "Behind Quaint Doorways," by Mary Emery Smith, tells the secrets of by-gone generations hidden in several old houses in Portsmouth, N. H. And, besides all this, the magazine is replete with bright, readable information as to what fashionable America is doing at New England's resorts.

CAPE COD CATS IN FIRST RACE

Quincy Yacht Club Opens Season With Eleven Starters

UNSATISFACTORY RESULTS

The Quincy Yacht club opened its racing season Saturday afternoon, with a race off the club house at Houghs Neck for the class D cape cat boats and for class B the boys' cape cat boats. There was a fair sailing breeze from the northeast and all the old rivals in the cape cat class were out for the first contest. The yachts were sent twice around a triangular course giving them a run, beat and reach. The race was somewhat unsatisfactory however for the reason that one of the buoys was out of place which confused some of the skippers. Then again none of the yachts had been measured, so that no corrected time could be given. Most of the yachts however were measured after the race but the figures have not been made up as yet as to time. The Dolly III of Wallace Arnold, won the race with a fair lead with Edgar Emery's Mudjekeewis second. The order of finish of the other boats was as follows:—Clara, Herbert W. Robbins; Iris, Frank F. Crane; Dartwell, Commodore Ira W. Whittemore; Busy Bee, W. J. Coombs.

There were five starters in the boys' cape cat class and they were sent once around the triangular course. Their order of finish was as follows:—Rutland, Mr. Olsen; Nipi, George W. Gavin; Polaris, W. G. Vose; Alpha, Edward Whittemore; Yarita, Holbrook Ayers.

The judges were John O. Hall, George S. Morse and William W. Huy.

ELKS PLAN BIG ENTERTAINMENT

Exalted Ruler Announced Committee for the Year

Exalted Ruler George A. Jordan of Quincy lodge has arranged for an elaborate entertainment to take place after the next meeting which will be held on Tuesday evening at Greenleaf hall.

The Exalted Ruler also announces the appointment of the following committees.

ACTIVITY IN THE FLEET

Clifford W. Bean's Class S. boat Toss has been put in fine condition for the season and will be raced by Vice Commodore G. H. Bean of the Squantum Y. C. She has been renamed Ketchup.

Roy Paris and Frank Brown of Quincy went to Five Islands, Me., the past week to bring back a cat boat for use in Quincy Bay.

A statement of fact comes from an official measurer of some nearby clubs. He says there are scores and scores of boats in this neighborhood that have not been measured. According to the rules these cannot race on Decoration Day without certificates of measurement. He adds that a measurer can measure just so many boats in a day, and that if owners refrain from making appointments until Tuesday or Wednesday, there will be many boats barred from racing.

Chester Mellen of the Quincy and Town River Yacht Clubs has bought the sonder boat Wendy, built from Crowninshield designs in 1906, and purposes to race her in class S. Interclub. As she will race on over-all length her advent is not much feared, but she ought to make it hot for the class in the right kind of weather.

FOUR HEATS FOR CLASS E RACERS

Lively Work Cut Out For Racers at Matinee Event

Ideal conditions were handed out to the Old Colony Gentlemen's Driving club for their weekly matinee meet at South Weymouth Saturday. The class E pacers furnished the most excitement, carrying the contest to four heats and was finally won by B. Ford's Sally Hal.

The winners in the other classes were:—class A, Willie John; class B, Willie J; class C, King Bruce; class D, Fancy Grey; class F, Nance; class G, Gypsy Dillon; class H, The Senator; class I, Bud Fisher; class J, Ned Farnum; special mixed class, Pansy Blossom.

MEMORIAL DAY.

Amos R. Wells.

The Day of Memories!—Remembering what?
The cannon's roar, the hissing of the shot?
The weary hospital, the prison pen?
The widow's tears, the groans of stalwart men?
The bitterness of fratricidal strife?
The pangs of death, the sharper pangs of life?
Nay, let us quite forget the whole of these Upon our sacred Day of Memories.

The Day of Memories!—Remembering what?
The honored dust in every hallowed spot;
The honored names of all our heroes dead;
The glorious land for which they fought and bled;
Our nation's hopes; the kindly, common good;
The universal bond of brotherhood:
These we remember gladly, all of these,
Upon our sacred Day of Memories.

G. A. R. MEN

thirtieth day of May is set apart as Decoration Day, in commemoration of those patriots and heroes who died in the defense of their country.

A day when America plays tribute in reverent memory, with flowers, memorial words and tears, to her soldiers, dead and dying, the fast disappearing old guard making its final stand in the face of the last enemy.

With our collective national thought purified and consecrated by religion the day rises from a specific occasion into commemoration of the great general idea of heroism and patriotism. The memory of a great war remains, leaving its scars on the national life. The men who have gone into that war and survived have come forth to other battles, less bloody perhaps, but as bitter and as full of heroism.

"It is right that we should employ one day in the year in deeds of gratitude to those men who stepped forth into the other world from the bloody shores of rebellion. Their loyalty will be a thing dear to us forever. Their voluntary sacrifice belongs to the very substance of which our land's history is made.

"It is fitting and right that the whole nation should come year after year to honor with flowers the memory of the men who died that she might live.

"So long as the truths of liberty and the principles of justice and right remain the basis for the common character of the American people the dear dead will speak to us out of their graves and loving memorial tributes will be strewn where lie the veterans of the Civil War.

"If sacrificial devotion to their country inspired them, if intelligent chivalry led them, if nobleness of purpose held them true, how can we best keep their memory green in our hearts? How can we best honor their graves? Simply by keeping those same purposes burning in our own bosoms and by making over these same convictions into the life we live.

"As wars are not ends in themselves so this war did not end anything. Your duties had only commenced when you returned to your native towns. There were a thousand battles for you, yet to fight. There were other banners under which to march; other dangers to overcome.

"No man in this world is spared from any peril to no purpose. You were left because you were needed in other forms of service, other battles yet to be fought. Other men could be spared but you must be kept for larger things still.

"You were spared from the war that you might be leaders in the campaign to build out of the same material our war was made of a new national integrity.

These enemies of our national life have been met all along the way. How well you have met them, what battle you have done with them is not for me to say. You know better than the voice of any preacher can tell you, whether the whole influence of your life stopped at the close of the war or went on and down until it meets you today in this act of worship.

"The influence of this Grand Army should be more than an inspirer of nationalism. Suppose if by some sweep of a magic wand the Grand Army of the Republic had been converted into a Grand Army of Saints. What a monumental and everlasting influence would they have sent coursing down through the ages of mankind.

"The last enemy is death. How fast the men of the war are passing away. I think it one of the saddest things in all history the way these stalwart but whitened men are passing year by year. How soon they will be gone. Against this enemy there is no triumph save in the oneness with God that brings the resurrection.

"Men of the War! We will not forget you. I pray that you may lift up the meaning of that great conquest so high that men cannot be blind to it. This day is yours. You see here the endowment which you have laid up for yourselves of honor and glory which you have earned by the highest service any citizen can render his country.

"March on! March on! Your campaign is well nigh closed. Already the feet are marching with unsteady tread. The long procession nears its end and angel hands are bearing up the faltering remnants of war. Already from afar you catch the murmur of angel wings hovering near to bear you to where the long last roll is called. March on! On to the fray! There is one last enemy yet to meet and overcome, and only Christ can arm you to victory over death. Then go forward in Christ and hear the words of your commander—'Well done!' "

The meeting closed with "The Battle Hymn of the Republic" and a benediction by the pastor.

SUNDAY IN OUR CHURCHES

Topics and Anncuncements For Coming Week

SUNDAY SCHOOLS

WOLLASTON UNITARIAN CHURCH.

The last meeting of the season of the Unitarian Church Helpers will be held with Mrs. Rowe, 132 Winthrop avenue, on Tuesday, at 2 o'clock. Every member is requested to attend this business and social meeting.

The members in our parish are invited to attend the Fourth National conference on City Planning to be held in Boston today, Tuesday and Wednesday, in the lecture room of the Boston Public Library.

The annual picnic of the Boston Federation Y. P. R. U., will be held Saturday, June 1.

All parents in the parish who wish their children to receive the rite of baptism on Children's Sunday, June 24, will please communicate with the minister.

Our Sunday school library has received a large number of new books.

The marriage of Dr. John L. Merrill and Miss Ordelia Elizabeth Barber takes place in our Church, Saturday, June 1, at 8 o'clock.

The annual meeting of the Greater Boston Federation of Churches will be held in Trinity church, Copley square, Monday evening, June 3.

The Norfolk conference of Unitarian churches will be held with the First Congregational parish, Sharon, Mass., Wednesday, June 5, from 10 A. M., to 4 P. M. The topic for the morning discussion will be "The Labor Troubles in Merrimac Valley." Rev. George F. Kenngott of Lowell will speak on "Life in a Mill City." Rev. Nicholas Van der Pyl of Haverhill, on "The Significance of the Lawrence Strike" and Rev. George C. Wright of Lowell on "The Duty of the Church." In the afternoon George P. Morris will speak on "Journalism, Clean and Otherwise" and Mrs. Susan W. Fitzgerald of Boston on "Women's Responsibility to the State."

The Uuitarian headquarters at Chautauqua, New York, will be open from June 28 to August 25. Among the prominent preachers and lecturers are the Rev. Prof. Francis G. Peabody, D. D., President David Starr Jordan and the Rev. J. T. Sunderland.

The Unitarian Summer meetings at the Isles of Shoals, N. H. will be held July 7th to 19th and those at the Weirs on Lake Winnipesaukee, August 4th to 11th.

Rev. Frank Wright Pratt, oour former pastor, was a most welcome visitor at our Church yesterday. His pastorate there was one of the best in the history of our Church, and his many friends were glad to take him by the hand, once more. Mr. Pratt also attended the Sunday School session and gave an account of his missionary work in the northwest.

It is one of the strange things in this world that so many fail in cheerful support of the Church. When a man stops to think of the financial value of the Church, with all the good influences that center in and flow from it—to say nothing of the vastly greater moral and spiritual values—he admits that it is really worth more to him and his family than he has ever given. Put out the light of the Church in any town and the darkness that spreads, gradually at first, soon rapidly, affects values in all parts of that town. It becomes a run down place in which nobody of any self-respect wants to live.

WOLLASTON CONGREGATIONAL.

The Wollaston Congregational church was very prettily decorated with flags and flowers yesterday in commemoration of Memorial day. The music which was in accordance with the day, was enjoyed by all.

Rev. Edward Norton took for his subject "Our Heritage"—John 4:38. "I sent you to reap that whereon ye bestowed no labor, other men labored, and ye are entered into their labors."

He said: "Our country has a pleasant heritage. Other countries have much of which to boast, but in none have the people so many physical comforts as we have in our own beautiful land. How came we by all this? by toil, labor and sacrifice."

He related the experiences of successive generations laboring to make this country what it is and cited many reminiscences of the war. In order to enter into the labors of those who founded our land, fought for it and established the union we must show a patriotism that will vie with theirs. Patriotism should be taught in the home school and church.

Memorial week, when we remember those who saved our country in its greatest peril, is a good time to think of this. A nation's wealth is in its manhood and womanhood and they must shape its destiny.

Mr. Norton announced that Dr. Sneath to whom a call had been extended had accepted and would begin his duties as pastor September first. He added his congratulations and spoke highly of their choice.

At 12.15 the usual Sunday school service was held.

The Christian Endeavor met at 6 o'clock. Mr. F. J. Hamel wave a stereopticon talk on "Helping the Men of the Navy."

The weekly service will be held Friday evening in the vestry at 7.45. Mr. Norton will speak on "Decoration Day; what it Ought to Mean to Us."

BETHANY CHURCH.

"Why we pray," was the subject of the message given by Rev. Benjamin A. Willmott from the pulpit of Bethany church Sunday morning. The scripture lesson was taken from Luke 18, beginning at the 19th verse. "Two men went up into the temple to pray."

Rev. Mr. Willmott said that during one summer several years ago he had at his disposal a large library of religious works and during that summer he made exhaustive study of the subject of "Prayer." The one book which appealed to him above all others was written by Mr. James Freeman Clark and he recommended it to his auditors most heartily.

The gist of the message by Mr. Willmott is this: We pray first because Jesus told us to and taught us how and also because human experience has taught us that what Jesus said was true. The reality of prayer depends upon the definiteness of our conception of the personality of God.

There can be no doubt that there is a difference between the man who prays and the man who does not. God surely answers prayer. Prayer is not begging for material things, it is getting in communication with God, by means of His higher laws.

Religion is an everlasting reality and prayer is an everlasting necessity.

As an ancient axiom put it: 'Praying will either make a man leave off sinning or sinning will make a man leave off praying.'

In concluding the message, the pastor urged his people to think more earnestly on the things of God, to pray mere fervently to Him, and to trust in Him more fully to bring things to pass.

Preceding the regular sermon to the older people, the pastor gave his shorter message to the younger people with the text; "Whose children are you."

The Christian Endeavor society held a special meeting at 6.15 under the leadership of Mr. Lex Barnack, a former president of the society in the Highland Congregational church, Somerville. A delegation of Endeavorers from Somerville accompanied the leader.

The Sunday evening service was held in the auditorium and the very large congregation which was present served as a testimonial to the growing popularity of these evening meetings.

Special music was rendered by the choir and the pastor's address was appropriate to the approaching holiday. "A Moral Warfare" was the subject of the address.

Announcement was made that since Memorial day falls on Thursday the mid-week Fellowship meeting will be held on Friday evening.

The Junior Christian Endeavor meeting will be omitted this week.

It was also announced that all those who have flowers which they would care to contribute to the church for the purposes of decoration are asked to have them at the church Sunday mornings by 10.15.

FIRST M. E. CHURCH, WOLLASTON.

"A Good Warfare," was the subject of the sermon preached by Rev. Wesley Wiggin at the Wollaston Methodist Church Sunday morning. It was a sermon in memory of the honored dead and those who fought to save the union.

The Sunday School was well attended and full of interest under the leadership of Mr. J. A. Sedgwick, the Superintendent who made many practical applications of the lessons at the close One hundred new song books were used in the School for the first time yesterday.

The Junior League meeting was in charge of Miss Mary Cleveland. At 6 o'clock, Mr. F. G. Bennett led the Epworth League service. The young men's quartet sang.

At 7 o'clock Rev. H. E. Dorr of Boston University School of Techology preached from the text found in Romans 1:16. "I am not ashamed of the gospel of Christ for it is the power of God unto Salvation." Mr. Dorr spoke of the desire of many seeking other attractions such as philosophy, and art. But after all there is nothing like the gospel to satisfy the needs of mankind. After all these centuries it lives with all the freshness of former days. Paul believed in it. He was not afraid to preach it. He knew by experience that it could save . He had tested its power. Man is unable to make himself better without some power outside of himself. The gospel of Christ is the only power that can meet that need. Paul preached Christ and the resurrection. This is the message we are to preach today. If our Lord is not divine if he did not rise from the grave then is our preachin vain. This gospel reaches to the greatest depths to save men and transform into the image of Christ.

The Ladies' Aid society will hold a Social in the vestry Tuesday evening evening at 7 o'clock. During the summer months the prayer meeting will be changed from Friday evening to Thursday evening at 7.45 o'clock. At the close of the meeting this week there will be an official board meeting. The choir will rehearse in the vestry this evening at 8 o'clock.

Next Sunday at 10.15 o'clock there will be a love-feast in the vestry. At the close of the sermon there will be a reception of membrs and Holy Communion.

Plans are being made for Children's Sunday. Mr. F. G. Bennet's class are in charge of the program with Miss Mildred Dunham as chairman. Any one desiring to have children baptized will speak to the pastor. The mothers' meeting will be held in the vestry Wednesday afternoon at 2.30 P. M.

ST. JOHN'S CATHOLIC CHURCH.

Impressive ceremonies marked the opening of the forty hours' devotion in St. John's Catholic church Sunday morning. A solemn high mass was celebrated at 10.30 o'clock by the pastor, Rev. Fr. John J. Coan, assisted by Rev. Fr. John J. Casey as deacon and Rev. Fr. Patrick J. Scannell as sub-deacon. The Gregorian music was chanted during mass by an augmented choir under the direction of organist John Mahon.

The soloist for the occasion was Miss Mary Ecker, who rendered the "O Salutaris."

The sermon, an able discourse on "Faith" was delivered by Rev. Fr. John J. Casey. In the course of his remarks the reverend father descried the spirit of modernism that is greatly rampart at the present time and showed the necessity of inculcating those principles that conduce to the common good. He said that it must be continually borne in mind that God is the beginning and end of everything and that without Him nothing can be done. Steadfast adherence to faith was brought out by the speaker as a most invaluable asset in attaining to eternal salvation.

At the conclusion of the mass the procession of the Blessed Sacrament took place. The procession was headed by the altar boys of the church, followed in turn by the pupils of the Parochial school. The boys were attired in white blouses while the girls dressed in white, thus presenting a most edifying spectacle. A large floral cross was carried by one of the girls, who took the part of the May Queen.

In the evening at eight o'clock benediction services were conducted by Rev. Fr. Patrick J. Scannell, assistant pastor. Confessions were heard in the afternoon and evening and will continue to be heard this afternoon and evening. Italian priests are in attendance today to hear those who desire to perform the service in the Italian language. Masses were celebrated this morning at 5, 7 and 9 o'clock, the last mentioned being a high mass at which the celebrant was Rev. F. John J. Casey.

The forty hours' devotion will come to a close Tuesday morning, when a solemn high mass will be celebrated at nine o'clock. The services are being largely attended and many are availing themselves of the opportunity to perform their Easter duty.

COAL PRICES STILL HIGH

Operators Attribute Raise to Increased Wages of Miners

NO RELIEF IN SIGHT

Retail prices on all sizes of anthracite coal except pea were reduced fifty and seventy-five cents a ton in Greater Boston today, it is expected, and will not be advanced again until September 1.

The new price schedule will be as follows: Broken $6.75, egg $7.25, stove $7.50, nut $7.75, pea $5.75.

By the reduction the retailers say that they are charging the public only the extra twenty-five cents a ton put on by the operators as a result of paying the miners more, and for loss of dis counts for purchases made from the operators for the months of May and June and possibly July.

HIBERNIAN MAY PARTY.

A whist party and dance will be held in Hibernian hall Tuesay evening uner the auspices of Division 5 A. O. H. The committee in charge reports that a large number of tickets have been sold and the event promises to eclipse any of the May parties that have been held in previous years.

STRUGGLE ON BEACON HILL

Between the Governor and Member of the Legislature

BOTH SIDES ARE DETERMINED

The Legislative Bodies Desire to Close Session—The Governor Says More Business Must Be Transacted—Public Utilities Commission His Great Desire—Senator Tinkham Scores Haste Used

Boston, May 27.—A crisis is coming this week between Governor Foss and the legislature. The Republican leaders in the house and senate say that the legislature will be through on Wednesday. Governor says that the legislature will not be through on Wednesday.

He declared that the legislative work was being slighted. The governor is planning one or more special messages that may keep the legislature an indefinite time.

He is dissatisfied with the usage given his plan for a public utilities commission. He objects to the fact that the legislature has failed this year to make what he considers a proper regulation of automobile fees.

Storm clouds are gathering that may make the last days of this legislative session as spectacular as the days of last year when the governor kept the legislature in session almost until Aug. 1.

Matters have been drifting toward open warfare all the week. Four vetoes have been overridden. The governor has been openly attacked in the senate by a member of his own party. His proposals have been ridiculed and rejected. His income tax proposal was overwhelmingly defeated.

"This week will be the last that the general court will sit," said President Greenwood and Speaker Cushing of the legislature.

"The general court will not be prorogued until it has given proper consideration to the public utilities bill and some other things,"—Governor Foss.

A protest against speed in handling legislation was raised Saturday by Senator Tinkham, who called it a scandal. Tinkham was severely criticized by Blanchard of Somerville, who declared that Tinkham was seeking notoriety.

Both branches were in session Saturday morning to carry out the plan of early prorogation. The most important action on the part of the house was the defeat of the bill to enable employers to fix their own scheme of compensation under the compensation act, and to insure themselves. This was defeated at third reading by a vote of 82 to 121.

BABIES SHOW AT THEIR VERY BEST

But All Ages Took Part in Successful Event

ST. CHRYSOSTOM'S CHURCH

In the midst of the golden afternoon and sunlight and tender green of fresh budded trees, a May party in aid of the fund for the parish house of St. Chrysostom's church was held Saturday on the rectory grounds adjoining the edifice.

The affair was under the direction of Mrs. H. Kneeland Ellis, Jr., assisted by her sisters Mrs. William Hallett and Mrs. Henry J. Landry. It was a gala time for the babies and children as well as their fathers and mothers. The grounds were decorated with flags, Japanese lanterns and a May pole in all its glory.

Charles Henry Mahn as Old King Cole took the tickets at the gate and over the lawn were scattered Old Mother Goose's children.

Among them were Mistress Mary, Marion Leach; Jack and Jill, Marion Hallett and Roger Ellis. Little red riding hood, Viola Oswell; Queen of hearts, Helen Arthur; Priscilla Margaret Buzzler; Gypsy girl, Grace Purdom; Little red riding hood, Esther Bowman; and Flower girl, Gweldolyn Ellis.

The Candy table was in charge of Ethel Vogler, Dorothy L. Brokaw and Dorothy E. Joyce.

Ice Cream table, Mrs. Percy L. Gavidson and Miss Gertrude M. Thorn. Thorn.

Cake and sandwiches, Mrs. Geo. E. Allen and Mrs. William H. Spooner.

Japanese fish pond, Miss Eleanor S. Roberts and Miss Gladys E. Phelps both dressed in pretty Japanese costumes.

Fancy table, Mrs. Henry J. Landry.

Rebecca at the well, Grace F. Purdom.

At 3 o'clock "Ye olde-tyme May pole dance by ye merrie Mayde" in white costumes with pretty pink wreaths was in order.

Those taken part were; Helen Arthur, Marion Brooks, Thelma Buzzler, Margaret Buzzler, Hildergarde Ducey, Charlotte Fox, Dorothy Hennigar, Marion Hallett, Henrietta Joralemon, Josephine Kessler, Edith Lund, Marion Orr, Gladys Parlee, Ruth Parker, Grace Purdom, Inez Parlee, Annie Pope, Mary Pope, Lois Parlee, Dorothy Parker, Alice Vibert and Lorna Weston.

An entertainment at 4 o'clock with a program that highly delighted the little folks was as follows:

Reading—Angie Lawson.
Reading—Rachel McTear.
Reading—Marion Hallett.
Violin solo—Muriel Wheelen.
Reading—Dorothy Joyce.
Punch and Judy.
Reading—Marion Orr.
Reading—Miss Wilcox.
Song—Grace Purdom.

In the evening an entirely different program was given for older folks and each number was generously applauded. Mrs. Spooner's numbers were aspecially effective, Miss Wheelen played with great delicacy of touch and expression, Miss MacDonald's dancing was greatly enjoyed. Little Miss Austin was charming, and particular mention should be made of Miss Wilcox's reading "The sign of the Cross" which was exceptionally fine.

The program was:

Reading—Miss Estelle Orrisa Wilcox.
Song—Mrs. William H. Spooner.
Reading—Miss Gertrude Austin.
Reading—Miss Wilcox.
Violin solo—Miss Muriel Wheelen, accompanied by Mrs. Spooner.
Fancy dancing Miss Grace MacDonald, Miss Hazel Webster accompanist.
Reading—Miss Wilcox.
Song—Mrs. Spooner.
Violin solo—Miss Wheelen.

A fine supper was served in the parish rooms at 6 o'clock under Mrs. Daniel C. Miller's direction, assisted by Mrs. Atkins, Mrs. Bent, Mrs. Coleman, Mrs. Croucher, Mrs. Drew, Mrs. Eastman, Mrs. Parlee, Mrs. Parker, Mrs. Poch, Mrs. Stanley, Mrs. Vibert and Mrs. Waite.

JOHN BRUNETTE GIVEN RING

Surprised at His Home by Party of Seventy Friends

Assembling at the Parkway bridge, a number of friends marched to the home of John Brunette, of Bunker Hill avenue Friday evening and tendered him a surprise party. No sooner had the gathering taken possession of the home, when Miss Julia Dennehy stepped forward and in a few well chosen words, presented Mr. Brunette with a handsome signet ring. The recipient of the gift responded.

Songs, jokes and games of all sorts held sway throughout the evening and a most enjoyable time was in order till midnight when the party dispersed. There were more than seventy present and a fine program of music was furnished by the talent in attendance. Howard Johnson and Nicholas Reinhalter were the accompanists. The affair was brought to a close by the serving of refreshments.

BRIEFS

City Solicitor McAnarney goes to New Jersey this week on a business trip. He will probably return Friday.

The damp weather this spring has been a great mosquito breeder and in the evenings the air is full of the pests.

Everybody who owned an automobile or had money enough to hire one was out for a spin Sunday. It was an ideal day for automobiling.

People who have summer residences at the seashore are moving down. The great rush to the beaches however will not take place until schools close which will be early in June.

NAVY ENROUTE FOR CUBA

Army Ready to Act at a Moments Notice

ADM. OSTERHAUS IN COMMAND

Activity at All Navy Yards—Indications That Situation Is More Serious Than First Believed—Gunboat Paducah at Guantanamo—10,000 Men Within a Day's Sail of Havana Harbor

New York, May 27.—Four battleships and one armored cruiser, the flagship of the Atlantic fleet, stole into New York harbor Sunday, took aboard 700 marines, with ammunition and field equipment to supply them for an indefinite time, and stole out again. As soon as they had cleared Sandy Hook they pointed their noses south and made for Key West at almost top speed.

The tense activity about the navy yard, at the man-of-war landing at Tompkinsville, and on board the warships, and the business-like precision with which everything was handled, gave rise to the rumor that the naval officials had received word that the situation in Cuba was more serious than had been supposed, and it was necessary that a strong armed force be on the spot in the quickest possible time.

The cruiser Washington, flagship of Read Admiral Osterhaus, who is commander-in-chief of the Atlantic fleet, arrived from Provincetown, Mass., and is now at sea en route to Key West.

Washington, May 27.—Secretary of the Navy Meyer directed (by wireless) Commander George C. Mitchell, commanding the gunboat Paducah—the first American vessel to arrive at Guantanamo since the present trouble in Cuba started—to land marines upon the request of Americans on the island without waiting for instructions from Washington.

The third and fourth divisions of the great Atlantic fleet, Rear Admiral Osterhaus commanding, have been ordered to Key West.

The third division is now at sea steaming to Hampton Roads, where it will coal and await the fourth division, which sailed Sunday from Newport for New York.

With the arrival of the naval transport Prairie at Guantanamo with 750 marines aboard and the fleet at Key West with 1300 more marines, and from 3500 to 5000 bluejackets available for landing duty, the United States government will have within a day's sail of Havana, a sufficient number of men to handle any situation; at least until the regular army can be moved.

If the conditions grow worse in the next few hours the president is expected to make a quick trip to Washington from New Jersey and personally order out at least 5000 men of the regular army.

A dispatch received at the war department late this afternoon stated that the negroes operating in south western Cuba are mad with a desire to wreck and loot all property. They confine their operations to sections where the number of government troops are the fewest.

The quartermaster general has communicated with various railroads asking that transportation for 5000 men be made available at once.

Boston, May 27.—The Charlestown navy yard was practically stripped of marines when the detachment of 200 men and four officers left for New York on their way to Cuba, while 190 marines from Portsmouth, N. H., passed through here Sunday morning. All bound for the Brooklyn navy yard.

BRITISH GIRL SENTENCED

Russia's Act May Stir Up an International Situation

Warsaw, Poland, May 27.—According to advices received here from London only an international situation of the utmost delicacy will prevent the British government from making representations to St. Petersburg concerning the sentence of four years' penal servitude inflicted on Miss Kate Malecka.

Miss Malecka is a British subject, charged with complicity with Polish revolutionaries, but whose only crime laid bare in open court was that she held opinions permitted in her native land, but prohibited in Russia, and that she had met and conversed during a visit to Warsaw with certain members of the Polish Socialist party, a prohibited but not revolutionary organization.

High Bail For Goldbergs

Boston, May 27.—The two Goldbergs, Joseph and Jacob, who have been in the state prison at Charlestown for seven months past on a 14 to 16 year sentence, as a result of being granted a new trial by the supreme judicial court, were admitted to bail in the sum of $33,000 each. Neither one has as yet secured it.

SENATOR LORIMER

Who Has Been Asked to Resign From Office

ASKS LORIMER TO RESIGN

A Poll of the Senate Indicates Illinois Senator Would Lose

Chicago, May 27.—Vice President James S. Sherman visited this city burdened with a doleful message to Senator William Lorimer. In substance the vice president set forth that a careful poll of the senate indicated a majority would vote to oust the senator.

The vice president, in a diplomatic capacity, informed the senator, it is said, that the thing best for the party would be for Senator Lorimer to retire by the way of the resignation route. The senator has been ill at his home since the Illinois primaries.

Certain for Lorimer, 40; certain to oppose him, 39; doubtful. 16. There is one vacancy.

The poll was made a week ago and since then the Lorimer element has not been able to add any of the doubtfuls to their list. Those claimed as doubtful refuse to give any indication of their intentions.

PARK POLICEMAN RESCUES CANOIST

Long Pulls Three Men Out of the Charles

Boston, May 27.—Before thousands of spectators yesterday afternoon, Patrolman William F. Long of the Metropolitan police at Riverside, after a desperate struggle, managed to save the lives of Frank Portas and Edward Duenesnel of Brighton, who came near drowning when their canoe capsized near Weston bridge.

Patrolman Long heard the cries for help when he was over 300 yards away and hurried to the scene. One of the men had gone below the surface and could not be seen. The other was struggling. Patrolman Long took him by the wrist and pulled him in the boat and then took the other man by the hair and turned him over until he could get a better grip, and then dragged him into the boat.

The rescue was the most spectacular that has been witnessed on the Charles river for many years. Thousands of spectators were lined up on both sides of the river and along Weston bridge.

Long was given cheer after cheer when he returned to his post of duty, after he had made the rescue.

The first accident reported was shortly after 3:30, when Sergeant William H. Chiasson rescued a young man from drowning when his canoe capsized near the Waltham line.

Shortly after this accident Patrolman Long made his first rescue when he also pulled a young man out of the water opposite the police headquarters. This was followed by his other rescue in about an hour.

SPEAKER CLARK WISE

Will Stand For Re-election From His Missouri District

Washington, May 27.—While expressing the conviction that he would be the Democratic nominee for the presidency, Speaker Champ Clark has announced that he would file his candidacy for re-election to congress from the Ninth Missouri district.

In a statement, which was alternated by another signed by the entire Democratic Missouri delegation in congress, he said he did so because of the pressure brought to bear upon him by his constituents.

Union Wins an Injunction

Cincinnati, May 27.—Holding that the alleged lockout of union horseshoers is in restraint of trade and illegal, Judge Dickson, in the common pleas court, granted a temporary injunction to the journeymen horseshoers.

Industries All Shut Down

Winnipeg, May 27.—Fire has destroyed the city power house at Moosejaw, Sask., and machinery valued at $500,000. The city's water and light are cut off and all concerns using water, including the newspapers, are shut down.

PRESIDENT'S CAMPAIGN

In New Jersey Principally For the Moral Effect

ROOSEVELT LIKELY TO WIN

Friends of Taft In Washington Expect Him to Lose It—Therefore Campaign Watched With Indifference—Taft's Adherents Look For Big Reaction Later—Jersey Probably For Wilson

Washington, May 27.—President Taft is not expected to win the New Jersey delegates for which he and Colonel Roosevelt have been battling during the week just closed. Washington politicians have followed this fierce New Jersey contest with indifference. Ohio was enough for them.

Nevertheless the potentiality of the voting in New Jersey, as about the last of the full-fledged primaries, is not to be ignored. The result there will have no little influence alike upon Republican and Democratic candidacies. There is no particular warrant for inferring that Taft will lose the state overwhelmingly.

Neither is there any particular reason to expect that Governor Woodrow Wilson will lose the Democratic preferences. But if Governor Wilson should lose it would not only be a great triumph for ex-Senator "Jim" Smith of Newark, who has been seeking revenge for many moons, but it would be a blow between the eyes for the waning Wilson cadidacy.

And, by the same token, if President Taft gets a good share of the twenty-eight delegates to be elected in New Jersey or a majority of them, his cause would be tremendously bolstered and his friends would proceed to Chicago with the greatest enthusiasm.

Accordingly everything Taft gets in New Jersey tomorrow will be a gain. And if he loses the state by a big vote, of course he would be badly off, but not much more so that he was after the Ohio returns came in.

No one, however, is expecting him to do much in New Jersey. A big reaction of popular sentiment in the president's favor is expected, but it is hardly time for it to set in yet. The president's friends, who are planning for a long, hard, desperate fight at Chicago in his behalf, really believe he has a chance yet for the nomination, but will be very grateful for any favor New Jersey voters may tender.

President Taft, ex-President Roosevelt and Senator La Follette rested Sunday after three days of the hardest campaigning they have experienced since they began the fight for the Republican nomination.

The president and Colonel Roosevelt had made more than forty speeches each since last Thursday, and they planned to wind up their speaking tours by two days more of rigorous work. Senator La Follette has made fewer speeches but he has addressed many thousand voters in nearly every quarter of the state.

LAWRENCE AGAIN AGITATED

Rioters and Police Both Roughly Handled In Contest

Lawrence, Mass., May 27.—Rioting broke out again in the foreign quarter of the city.

Two police officers were severely handled, one of them receiving a blow

A cordon of reserve officers was have fractured his skull: Nine rioters were arrested, fighting until actually knocked out by the clubs of the arresting officers.

The patrol wagon in which the first load of prisoners was carted to the police station, was showered with missiles. In self defense the police were obliged to discharge their revolvers, although no one was hit by bullets.

Several revolvers in the crowd of rioters barked in anwer to the fusillade of the police, also without effect.

A cordo nof reserve officers was immediately thrown about the police station, and extra men were stationed in the district where the fighting started.

Those who were arrested, when asked their nationality, all answered "I. W. W.," refusing to tell where they were born. The station cells, and the streets about the station echoed all night with the songs of the "I. W. W.," made familiar during the big strike.

Negro Burned in Texas

Tyler, Tex., May 27.—Dan Davis, a negro, was burned to death at a stake in the streets of Tyler after he had confessed to attacking Miss Carrie S. Johnson of this city a week ago. Two thousand persons participated in the lynching.

The KITCHEN CUPBOARD

PREPARING MACKEREL.

FRESH mackerel may be broiled or baked, and in either of these forms it is appetizing. Fresh mackerel are so much more palatable than salt ones that, now they are in season, they are deservedly popular.

Served With Potatoes.

Broiled Mackerel—Cut off the fins, split and dress the fish. If convenient take out the backbone. Broil in the usual way. Serve on mashed potatoes molded to suit the shape of the fish. Dress with melted butter; garnish with watercress.

Baked With Roes.

Baked Mackerel.—Clean the fish; take out the roes. Fill up with forcemeat and sew up the slit. Flour and put them in a dish, heads and tails alternately with the roes. Between each layer put some little pieces of butter and pepper and salt. Bake for half an hour. Serve with either melted butter or a maitre d'hotel sauce.

This Tastes Good.

Filleted Mackerel:—Remove the two fillets from the mackerel, first cutting off the head and tail and making an incision down the back and underside. Cut the fillets in two or three pieces, according to the size. Flatten them with a heavy knife dipped in cold water.

Thickly butter a pan or buttered pie dish, put in the fillets and dust them over with salt, pepper and a teaspoonful of lemon juice. Butter a round of paper and lay it over the fish.

Put the pan in a moderately hot over for about ten to fifteen minutes. When cooked lay the pieces overlapping each other, in two straight lines down a hot dish and pour parsley muce over it.

A Handsome Dish.

Mackerel Loaf.—After it has been cleaned cut a mackerel in thick slices. Place in a kettle, cover with a pint and a half of cold water. Add a slice of onion, a sprig of parsley, a bay leaf, two cloves and six peppercorns. Simmer for an hour. Take off the fish and separate in pieces freed from skin and bones.

To the liquid in which the fish was cooked add one tablespoon of gelatin which has been soaked in one-fourth cup of cold water. Season with salt and pepper. Strain into molds which have been wet with cold water, having pieces of the mackerel in the bottom.

Serve on lettuce leaves with the following sauce: Beat a half cup of cream stiff, add two tablespoons of grated horseradish, one half teaspoon salt, one-fourth teaspoon paprika and one tablespoon of vinegar.

Anna Thompson

Cotton Growing in Chihuahua.

Consul Marion Letcher, of Chihuahua City, states that not much cotton is produced in the Mexican State of Chihuahua. The latest statistics—those for 1908—show only 499,400 pounds, of which 455,400 pounds were produced in the district of Camargo, of which Santa Rosalia is the principal city. However, the consul is informed that with the completion of the irrigation dam on the Conchos River at la Boquilla, a few miles from Santa Rosalia, cotton planting in the irrigated territoory will be begun on a considerable scale.

Snails a Plague in Ceylon.

The region about Bernwala, in Ceylon, was not long ago afflicted with a veritable plague of snails. Though these animals are extraordinarily prolific, they do not often appear in sufficiently large numbers to make themselves obnoxious.

"Swallowed a Word."

Little Mary was telling what she thought was an exciting story about a dream. She stuttered in her effort, gulped and paused hopelessly without completing the sentence.

"Why, child, what is the matter?" her mother asked.

The little girl smiled ruefully and replied. "I swallowed a word."—Indianapolis News.

A WOMAN'S BACK

The Aches and Pains Will Disappear if the Advice of this Quincy Citizen is Followed.

A woman's back has many aches and pains.
Most times 'tis the kidney's fault.
Backache is really kidney ache;
That's why Doan's Kidney Pills cure it.
Many Quincy women know this.
Read what one has to say about it

Mrs. F. Curtis, 54 Quarry St, Quincy Mass., says! "We used Doan's Kidney Pills in our family with good results and in 1908 publicly endorsed them. At the present time I am pleased to confirm that statement. A member of my family was in bad shape from kidney complaint. He wore plasters and tried several well-known remedies but did not improve until he began taking Doan's Kidney Pills. They effected a cure in two weeks and restored him to better health than he had enjoyed for years. I have also taken Doan's Kidney Pills myself and have found them excellent for strengthening the kidneys."

PATRIOT OR ADVENTURER

"by Arthur W. Dunn"

THE story of Joseph H. Maddox and his claim against the government is one of those wonderful recitals which are stranger than fiction. The claim has been before congress since 1874. At first it was the claim of Joseph H. Maddox. He died, and it was then presented for Laura E. Maddox, his widow. She died, and the claim is now pending for the legal representatives of Maddox. It has been the subject of thirteen different reports in senate and house, eleven times favorable and twice adverse. The bill once passed both houses of congress, but was vetoed by President Cleveland.

The Maddox claim involves President Lincoln, Secretary Fessenden, Secretary Seward, Secretary Stanton, Charles A. Dana, General Grant, General Butler, Judge Advocate General Holt of the Union interest, President Davis, Secretaries Randolph and Seddon and a number of officials of the Confederacy, many army officers, treasury officers and others who were well known during the civil war. With his name on the records of several departments of the United States and in the Confederate archives, with a vast amount of documentary evidence, it has not yet been determined whether Maddox was a loyal Union man and a valuable spy, whether he was true to Dixie and a spy within the Union lines or whether he was a shrewd trader using two governments to make a vast fortune.

Maddox, according to his own statement, was born in Georgetown, D. C., and was about thirty-three years old when the war began. Just previous to the war he bought a farm on the banks of the Potomac in St. Mary's county, Md. He was at one time editor of the New Orleans Crescent and had also lived in Virginia. He acknowledged that his sympathies were with the south at the beginning of the war, but that he opposed secession. Previous to the battle of Bull Run he was in Richmond and soon after returned to the north side of the Potomac. In 1861 he was arrested for disloyalty and confined at Fort Warren, but was subsequently released and soon after again went to Richmond. He had a pass from Secretary Seward countersigned by General McClellan. He said he went on business for McClellan and accomplished what he went for.

After one of his visits to Richmond he called on Colonel J. L. McPhail, provost marshal for Maryland, and convinced that officer that he could obtain valuable information about the Confederacy, and through McPhail's influence he became connected with the government service, but was never in the government pay. He became a trader in products of the south, carrying goods from the Union side into the Confederacy and purchasing tobacco, turpentine and resin, which he brought through the Union lines, disposing of his wares south and north at a large profit. He traded upon Confederacy currency and, in fact, was doing a very extensive business. His last venture and the one upon which his claim is based was in 1865. Through agents in Richmond he bought 4,042 boxes of tobacco, paying for it $1,921,944.50 in Confederate money. This tobacco, under orders of General Grant, was captured near Fredericksburg, a large portion burned and the remainder taken and distributed to the colored troops, who were unable to purchase tobacco. Maddox first made his claim for the whole value of the tobacco, $526,481.25. This was afterward modified so as to seek pay for 530 boxes distributed to the troops, for which Maddox claimed $67,000. That sum, without interest, is the amount of the claim at present.

TOBACCO CAPTURED AND DESTROYED.

According to the official reports, the government entered into relations with Maddox early in 1863. It was at this time that he was employed by McPhail, to whom he sent reports. They were forwarded by McPhail to Colonel George H. Sharpe, who was provost marshal for the Army of the Potomac. Both McPhail and Sharpe swore by Maddox, and the public records contain many letters commendatory of him written by each of these officers. It was about the first of May, 1863, that Maddox returned with the first information, which was at once forwarded to headquarters. It seemed to cover the entire situation concerning the Army of Northern Virginia. Colonel Sharpe was so pleased that he wrote, "You have done us more good than any man in the country."

The next information furnished by Maddox was contained in a letter dated Richmond, Nov. 20, 1863. He says, "Universal gloom hangs over the south." He explains with some detail how 2,000 men could "land on the Pamunkey at dark and carry off Jeff Davis;" also that "now is the time to capture Richmond," and "Davis is the head and front of the rebellion; with his capture it would go to pieces."

In June, 1864, Maddox was under arrest in the Union lines and confined in Carroll prison. He made an application to be released on his own parole, and by direction of the secretary of war this was done.

In November of the same year Maddox seems to have again been in high favor. Hanson A. Risley, "special agent of the treasury department for the purchase of products of the insurrectionary states," made a contract with Maddox and others for the purchase of tobacco, turpentine and resin. Risley asked safe conduct within the Union lines for Maddox and his partners and his means of transportation. Contracts were drawn up for the goods and upon the permit or request of Risley was an indorsement by Abraham Lincoln dated Nov. 17, 1864. "It is ordered," says the president, "that products moving in compliance with and for the fulfillment of said contract and being transported to said agent under his direction shall be free from seizure or detention by any officer of the government while same are moving in strict compliance with regulations of the secretary of the treasury and for fulfillment of said contract with the agent of the government."

To go back and trace Maddox's connection with the Confederacy is interesting. In June, 1862, E. J. Allen, the assumed name of Allan Pinkerton, the noted detective in the employ of the government, learned that Maddox was engaged in a movement to operate signals from the Virginia shore to his home in Maryland to indicate to the southerners the movement of the Union troops.

MADDOX SENT TO A MILITARY PRISON.

In September, 1862, a captain of the signal corps, Confederate army, wrote to Secretary of War George W. Randolph concerning the transmission of army intelligence through lower Maryland. In part he said: "Trusty messengers and the Federal mails will be the agents relied upon across the Potomac. Mr. Maddox, now raising a regiment of cavalry in Maryland, has, with great spirit and self devotion, volunteered to execute this part of the duty. His means for obtaining intelligence from men of judgment and position in Washington are peculiarly great, also his facilities for forwarding dispatches." In June, 1863, this same officer writes that "M. informed him that the force of General Keyes at Fortress Monroe did not exceed 6,000."

The Confederate government was warned against Maddox July 4, 1863, in an anonymous letter. "If there is no secret understanding," writes the informant, "between Maddox and our government he is undoubtedly a spy. He is certainly on very social terms with the Yankees. For twelve or eighteen months of the war he was pretending to raise a company of Marylanders, which he has never found it convenient to do. He is an extensive blockade runner and has made largely thereby and has been known to remark that he had bought up both governments."

A document dated July 19, 1864, unaddressed and unsigned, giving information concerning Grant's army is among the papers. It states that the outer ports are mined, with 250 barrels of gunpowder under the principal ones. The only manner in which reference is made to Maddox is in the following: "They have a vast force of miners from Pennsylvania. If this fails then Grant will give up, so says M. He furnishes from Grant's books statistics of Grant's forces."

During the summer of 1863 Maddox was detained in Richmond under suspicion, but allowed to go about on his parole. He complains of this in a letter to General Winder and says that he would like to have the charges, if any, against him specified so that he might answer them. In a longer letter he says: "I thought I had been of great use to the authorities of the Confederacy, as I certainly had the desire to promote the interests of this country and the successful progress of its cause. In acquiring information in the United States which would be of interest to the authorities here I have necessarily come into contact with and associated much with prominent officials of the Federal side. This association, it would seem, started suspicion of my loyalty to the south."

In a letter to Jefferson Davis he says, "Under other circumstances services like mine would have attracted a regard more in accord with my zeal."

What happened between August and November, 1863, is not apparent, but Maddox in December was about to leave Richmond. He wrote to Secretary of War Seddon and announced his intention of removing his family to Virginia and to remain in the Confederacy. He thinks this is a "proof of my loyalty." He asked permission also to capture Leonardtown, Md., and use the cavalry equipments for the cavalry battalion he intended to raise.

On March, 14, 1864, Maddox wrote a letter evidently to McPhail, giving information about the Confederacy and its condition and expressing regret that a certain expedition had failed. It is a very chatty letter and encouraging to the Union cause.

From Fortress Monroe on April 18 General Benjamin F. Butler wired Secretary Stanton: "I have captured J. H. Maddox on the Virginia shore with 150 boxes of tobacco. He claims to be a confidential agent of the war department. What shall I do with him?"

Maddox was sent to the military prison at Camp Hamilton, where he again indulged his habit of letter writing. He wrote to Butler, explaining what he had done for the Federal government and saying, among other things, "All the agents of the government in the rebel lines cannot render the service that I can." Colonel McPhail wrote an indorsement of Maddox to Assistant Secretary Dana. He was also indorsed by Colonel Sharpe. Both of these officers asserted that his services were invaluable.

Maddox did not long remain in prison. The secretary of war directed that he be released on his own parole. But he continued in the tobacco business, evidently, for it was in 1865 that, under the orders of General Grant, the large quantity of tobacco was captured and destroyed. Beginning early in 1865, Grant telegraphed Stanton that supplies were being sent to the Confederacy by the Fredericksburg road. He also announced that he should "clear out that country" as soon as he could move men for the purpose. A little later he says that bacon was being exchanged along the Potomac. He suggests that General Singleton and Judge Hughes should be recalled from Richmond and that all permits issued to Singleton and Hughes should be canceled. He speaks of a deep laid plan for making millions.

Stanton in a reply says that he is "unable to control the influences that procure permits," but "understand that the president's passes and permits are subject to your authority." Lincoln telegraphed Grant saying he believed he did give Hughes and Singleton a card. "However this may be," he continues, "I now authorize you to get Singleton and Hughes away from Richmond if you choose and can. I authorize you by an order or in what form you choose to suspend all operations on the treasury trade permits in all places southeastward of the Alleghenies."

The Hughes mentioned had once been on the bond of Maddox when he was in a military prison and procured his release. Both Singleton and Hughes were heavy operators. It was evident that Grant thought the tobacco captured and destroyed on the Rappahannock belonged to them instead of Maddox.

When this tobacco was captured and all the men in the employ of Maddox were arrested Maddox gave himself up and began an active campaign to recover the value of the tobacco destroyed, a quest that has been pursued for more than forty years.

That Maddox furnished information to either side to the detriment of the other is apparent, but that was necessary for the business he was carrying on. He could not have passed from one side to the other and have carried on his lucrative business dealings without furnishing some equivalent to the governments. This was information. Maddox never was on the payroll of either government. Colonels McPhail and Sharpe, through whom he worked, said that he should receive a high reward.

The late Senator Hoar in reporting against the right of Maddox to recover from the government characterized the claimant as "a citizen of most active and unquestioned loyalty."

For four years while war raged around him the claimant was a daring adventurer, going and coming through the lines of two great armies. He appeared in each capital and was on terms of intimacy with high officials and able to reach the heads of both governments. He risked his life.

Was Maddox a loyal Union man, and did he perform services for the country? Was he loyal to the Confederacy? Was he simply an adventurer, loyal to both governments at times and ready to betray either when such betrayal served his purpose?

TO HELP EACH OTHER

Foss and Fitzgerald to Further the Ambitions of Each

Boston, May 27.—Mayor Fitzgerald is Governor Foss' candidate for the United States senate, and the mayor believes the governor is the logical candidate for the Democratic nomination for the presidency and the one Democrat who can sweep the New England states, New York, New Jersey, and carry Ohio, Indiana and Illinois with the solid south.

If plans formulated during a conference between Governor Foss and Mayor Fitzgerald and be carried through, Massachusetts will be looking for a new governor and Boston a new mayor next year.

Despite the fact that Ambassador Curtis Guild may be the Republican candidate for Senator Crane's seat at Washington, Governor Foss believes Mayor Fitzgerald's ability to campaign will win him the election. He told that to the mayor and also said that Washington influences are trying to unite the Republican party in this state for Ambassador Guild.

All doubt relative to Governor Foss' ambition to become president was dispelled yesterday when he and the mayor analyzed the figures of the last presidential election. Both agreed that none of the avowed candidates for the Democratic presidential nomination would get the required two-thirds vote at the Baltimore national convention, and that there is an exceptionally good chance for a New England man to step in as the compromise candidate.

LINEMEN ARE KILLED

Reading and Stoneham Workmen Meet Death on Poletops

Boston, May 27.—Two men met death by electrocution Saturday, one in Stoneham and the other in North Reading, in accidents which were strangely similar.

Arthur Roberts, 28 years old, an employe of the Reading municipal lighting plant, fell from the top of a pole at Mill and Park streets, North Reading, while fixing a transformer in front of a house. Roberts leaves a wife and two children.

While fixing wires at the top of a pole Martin Kelley was electrocuted when he inadvertedly grasped the broken end of a live wire. Kelley was 32 years old, unmarried, and lived at 948 Parker street, Roxbury.

LONDON IS QUIET BEFORE THE STORM

Strikers Adopt Resolution Favoring General Tie-up

London, May 27.—Although tonight sees 125,000 men on strike at the port of London the general public is quite unexcited and the newspapers are not using scare headlines as they did during the railway strike. Nevertheless the situation is serious, as there is positive danger that the strike will spread to the provincial ports in a few days, and it is asserted that many railway men may strike in sympathy.

A great mass meeting of stevedores unanimously adopted a resolution in favor of a national stoppage of work. The leaders say that they will be able to call out 245,000 trade unionists without difficulty and they expect to secure the support of 200,000 nonunionists.

There are now 200 ships in the Thames with cargoes untouched. The price of many foodstuffs, including meat, eggs, cheese, bacon, flour, oranges and apples, are already rising.

Several ocean steamers have been held up, among them the Atlantic liner Minneapolis. Soon none will be able to sail unless they leave without cargo.

Children Are Saved

Saco, Me., May 27.—Frightened by a barrel beside the road, a horse attached to a carriage in which Mrs. Napoleon Mendor and her three children were riding jumped so violently that Mrs. Mendor was thrown out and killed. The children were able to keep their seats and were not hurt.

FIRST BALL BY MAYOR STONE

He Will Open the Makaria League Memorial Day

SPECIAL POLICE FOR DUTY

Mayor Eugene R. Stone has accepted the invitation to be present and open the season for the Quincy City League, at the Water street grounds, Memorial day morning. His Honor will pitch the first ball. All of the councilmen have expressed their intention of being present and as the Makaria and Quincy A. A. teams furnish the attraction a record breaking crowd bids fair to be in attendance.

The Mayor has appointed special police officers for the occasion and the demonstration gives promise of being the best that has ever taken place in the City of Presidents.

SUNDAY IN OUR CHURCHES

FIRST CHURCH.

Floral Sunday will be observed by the Church and Sunday School on Sunday, June 9, 1912, at 10.30 A. M. Any one having children to be christened on that day, will send the names to Mr. Hudson or to Mr. Charles H. Johnson, Superintendent of Sunday School.

Atthe meeting of the Officers and Teachers of the Sunday School it was voted to omit the Sunday school picnic—also not to open Sunday school in the fall until the first Sunday in October.

CHRIST CHURCH.

Whitsun day. This day falls on Sunday of this week. It is one of the great feast days of the Christian year, having the same rank as Christmas and Easter.

Ember days. Wednesday, Friday and Saturday of this week are Ember Days. They form one of the four seasons which precede the set times for Ordination to the Sacred Ministry.

Galahad Brotherhood class. Tuesday evening at eight o'clock the Rector will give the fifth instruction in the course of Social Aspects of Christianity.

Junior Auxiliary. The closing party will be Tuesday afternoon. Every Junior is invited whether she has been regularly to the meetings this year or not.

St. Margaret's Guild. Friday of this week is the Annual election of officers. Following the business meeting there will be an entertainment and chafing-dish supper.

ELEVEN INNINGS.

It took eleven innings for the much heralded United Shoe Machinery A. A. team to defeat the South Quincy team at Beverly Saturday by a score of 4 to 3 It was the first defeat of the season for the local team. Beverly was a 1 to 0 leader in the eighth inning.

In the first half of the ninth the Quincy players got two runs, and for a time it looked as if they were to gain a victory, but the Beverly team proved equal to the occasion and succeeded in tying the score.

No further scoring was done until the eleventh, when South Quincy scored, only to lose the game when the United Shoe team came to bat.

Woods was on the mound for the losers, and though bit quite freely managed to keep them well scattered Hughes and Higgins excelled for the winners, while Ganzel was conspicuous for the losers. The score:—

ACME BEATEN IN GOOD GAME

Quincy A. A. Put Up Fine Article of Ball Saturday

HEBERT MADE GOOD

Displaying an article of ball that is not often to be seen only in the height of the season, Quincy A. A. played its initial baseball contest of the year with the strong Acme A. A. of Somerville, Saturday and by defeating the latter to the tune of 4 to 2 upheld the prestige that has been acquired during the past year by the Granite City's foremost athletic organization.

The local boys, under the able guidance of Captain "Ted" Keohane, whose fame as a ball tosser is too well known for him to require any further introduction to the sporting bloods of Quincy, entered the field with but little practice, yet their work throughout the game had a tendency to make the spectators believe that the team had been carefully drilled for some weeks past.

There was a large crowd of rooters on hand for the game, all of whom, when the struggle came to a close, were loud in their praises of the Quincy team, at the same time asserting that it would be a most formidable contender for the honors of supremacy in the Quincy City league, which opens its schedule on the same ground Thursday morning. Not the least interested was "Gus" Bates, a veteran of pioneer days, who was thoroughly pleased with the game and pronounced it to have been one of the best he had ever witnessed. Mr. Bates is head of the new league and claims that the teams which comprize it will exhibit a calibre of ball, the like of which has never been given to the fans of Quincy.

The game Saturday was closely played and was most interesting from start to finish. It resolved into a pitcher's battle, between Weeden, who has already made a name for himself on various semi-professional and minor league teams and Charles Hebert, a West Quincy boy, whose work on the firing line only began last summer. Hebert carried off the pitching honors however, for he allowed one hit less than his opponent and retired eleven on strike-outs. He kept the four hits made by the visitors well scattered. Three of the four hits credited to the Acme A. A. players were made by Cameron, the former New England League player, who later performed in the outer garden for the Boston Nationals.

Cameron covered the second sack and played a remarkably fine game in the field as well as at the bat. "Buddy" Ryan, who played for Boston College at one time was in centre field for the visitors and made a couple of fine catches. His old hoodoo seemed to follow him Saturday, just as in previous years, for he failed to get even the semblance of a hit. The Acme A. A. had men on bases in many innings of the game, but the failure to hit when hits meant runs, caused the Somerville players to return home in defeat.

As for the Quincy team, the entire combination played brilliantly and Hebert was accorded fine support at all stages of the game. "Sid" Duggan worked on the receiving end in his usual reliable manner and aided by Boyle, contributed one of the fastest double plays executed on the Water street grounds. Kelly, however, carried off the batting honors. On every time at the bat, he swatted the ball hard and on one occasion secured a three bagger that surely looked good for a home run which would have gone for four sacks had not the centre fielder of the visiting team recovered it in fast time. He also played a splendid fielding game and threw to bases in grand style. The base running of Keohane was also conspicuous, while Creswell acquitted himself with honors on the initial sack. For five innings both teams played evenly, but by annexing two runs in the sixth, Quincy A. A. obtained two runs and thus secured a lead which the visitors were unable to overcome.

QUINCY WAKING TO IMPORTANCE MOVING FORWARD IN PROCESSION

So Many Matters Before Legislature, Leslie Could Not Get a Nap on His Job

Wit and Wisdom Flowed at Wollaston Yacht Club Banquet

One of the biggest and jolliest social gatherings ever held in yachting circles along the coast took place at the Wollaston Yacht club, Saturday evening, when that club observed its season's opening.

With the festive board graced with the presence of His Honor, Mayor Stone, Representative William J. Leslie and many prominent visiting yachtsmen, the occasion was indeed a happy one.

MAYOR EUGENE R. STONE.
And What He Told Wollaston Yachters

With a menu par excellence, good cheer and cigars, fine speakers and with a varied entertainment that left nothing to be desired all joined in voting the affair the biggest and best ever.

There were 250 present, a happy crowd that filled all the places and kept the ball rolling with popular songs while they enjoyed the fine spread.

Flowers adorned the tables and the hall was hung with banners. At each side of the stage a huge American flag was draped while over the entrances Old Glory was present in pleasing effects. A carnation graced the lapel of each guest.

At the head table were: Commodore Edward A. Bean of the Wollaston Yacht club, Mayor Eugene R. Stone of Quincy, Representative William J. Leslie of Wollaston, Commodore Ira M. Whittemore of the Quincy Yacht club, Commodore Eleazer F. Drew of the Squantum Yacht club, Commodore John F. Burke of the South Boston Yacht club, John J. Harland of the South Boston Yacht club, president of the Interclub Yacht Racing association, William L. Carlton, chairman regatta committee of the Corinthian Yacht club, Walter E. Stone of the Corinthian Yacht club, Vice Commodore Charles F. Austin, Secretary Arthur N. Potterton, Treasurer Carroll E. Bates, Ex-Commodore Louis E. Crosscup, Ex-Commodore William M. Chase, Ex-Commodore Joseph A. Fenno, Frank F. Taylor, Herbert C. Seymour and Charles H. Backus.

Cigars were passed with a liberal hand by the genial Charles Dill and as the blue smoke began to slowly ascend Chairman Frank F. Taylor of the entertainment committee rapped for order and turned the guests over to Commodore Bean.

Commodore Bean was glad to see so many present. He had expected Captain Day of the "Seabird" to be with them, but they would have the pleasure of hearing him later in the season. He introduced to the club for the first time Hon. Eugene R. Stone, Mayor of Quincy.

The Mayor congratulated the members and committee on the splendid supper. "This is not the first time, however, that I have been to the club house, he said.

"Early in the Spring I shinned across the floats when the Legislative committee was here in its autos to look into the condition of the channel and boats at low tide.

"The Legislative committee was well taken care of and I hope you get your channel because I believe you deserve it. (Cheers.)

"Your locality is one of the best in the city although I naturally don't think your club is quite as good as the Quincy club because I am a member there.

"For one thing, I hope the people of Wollaston will get the park I am trying so hard to give them. (Cheers.) Another is a satisfactory settlement of the school question in this district. It is pretty hard to suit everybody but I hope that the School Committee will see that you do not have to send the children too far."

His Honor complimented the club on the high type of citizenship the club represented. Regarding the channel he would see the Governor the first of the week as it was practically up to him now.

Continued applause followed the Mayor's speech and a loud call of "What's the matter with Mayor Stone?" was answered by "He's all right!"

"I am deeply interested in local matters" said Representative Leslie "and am pleased that you are to retain that little breathing spot on Beale street. It is time Quincy looked ahead. Ever since she was incorporated she has gone in a rut until the last few years when Quincy has come out of her dreams

"Quincy is alive. Her Board of Trade is alive. Her Mayor and yacht clubs are alive and here in Ward Five we have some live politicians. Quincy is the thing to look for and everything we can bring to Quincy we should do it.

"In the Legislature this year there have been more matters pertaining to Quincy than ever before and I have had no time to go to sleep on the job."

Representative Leslie told of the Boulevard bill that had been reported. This called for an appropriation of a million dollars in ten years. Of this Quincy is getting $100,000 toward the completion of this end of the boulevard.

In the bill is also a provision for the Old Colony boulevard which will connect South Boston with the end of the Quincy boulevard at Atlantic.

The $25,000 bill for dredging Town River and the $6000 bill for the Wollaston channel were mentioned. The first goes to the Governor Monday, and it is hoped the Ways and Means committee of the Senate will pass the other Monday also.

"I cannot," said Representative Leslie, "say much about yachting, but I will say that I hope it will be my experience this summer to sit on this piazza watching that big dredge at work on the channel and see you fellows get stuck on the flats trying to go around it."

Commodore Bean referred to the bond of fellowship and good will existing between the Wollaston and Squantum clubs and called on Commodore Eleazer F. Drew. Commodore Drew endorsed the sentiment expressed by Commodore Bean and reminded those present that the Squantum's latchstring was always out.

Commodore Ira M. Whittemore brought the greetings of the Quincy Yacht club. He had raced there in the afternoon and as luck would have it had come in last. For this reason he was all the more thankful to come to Wollaston in the evening as it was not pleasant to stay around town under the circumstances.

The Wollaston Yacht club certainly knows how to feed and entertain. Each year he enjoyed it more and more. Commodore Whittemore, who is a member of the Park Board told of the playground they hoped to have near the car barn before summer.

Commodore Burke of the South Boston yacht club spoke of his club's starting of the yachting season, Memorial day, when the opening race of the Interclub will be held at South Boston. A hearty invitation was extended Wollaston yachtsmen.

"Jack" Harland, president of the Interclub Yacht Racing association spoke briefly laying special stress on the first ocean race to be held on July 27. He referred to Wollaston as a thoroughbred yacht club.

William Carlton said it was a pleasure to see the interest the members here take in yachting. He hoped there would be a good many from Wollaston at the mid-summer series at the Corinthan yacht club.

Walter E. Stone was introduced as "the other stone" and immediately cries of "What's the matter with Stone" were in the air. Walter was in his usual happy vein and after felicitating the members, cracking a few jokes about the two Stones present and booming the City of Quincy in general and the Wollaston Yacht club in particular proceeded to the stage to sing a song.

With Miss Stella Baker, pianist of the evening, as accompanist he rendered "If I only thought you wouldn't tell," in conjunction with a jig in a manner that brought down the house. This was followed by "If I was only a millionaire," and Stone retired amid waves of applause.

The speaking over, Frank Taylor gave the signal that started one of the most elaborate vaudeville programs ever given in Quincy.

Claire D'Arcy and Grace Everett headed the list in a taking sister act, opening with the song "College Rag," "That Boogy Boo," and "Highland Mary's birthday," were given with changes of sostume, a spirited Highland fling accompanying the latter. "Jungle Moon" with appropriate steps closed the act.

Ed Daley, as a black face comedian came next with "Good old Yankee Land," and "When you're married" and running through a whole gamut of jokes and stories ended up with "Theodore."

Louise Eliot in her chic sailor costume drew a great hand with her pleasing manner. Her selections were "Dixie," "Send for me," "Frisco Town" and "Where the ocean breezes blow."

The Banjo Duo were clever and their violin selections and eccentric clog dancing was well received. Elizabeth Kelly gave an impersonation of Maggie Klein, telling a number of stories and ending with the song "Gilligan."

The next number which proved one of the hits of the evening consisted of a trio of dancers whose twinkling feet fairly flew over the floor.

The spirit and rapidity with which they went through their evolutions drew applause loud and long, several costume changes adding to the variety of the act.

The colored quartet, who were boys in the front row when it came to harmony received a fine reception. They mingled with their notes a running fire of gags, jokes and dance steps.

Among the numbers were "Meet me tonight," a medley of popular songs, "I've got you, Steve," and the closing selection "I'd rather be a minstrel man."

The singing of popular songs rounded out the evening's entertainment. Frank Taylor spoke briefly concerning the evening's program and the crowd dispersed with loud cheers for the chairman of the entertainment committee.

LEADER AMONG FINN PEOPLE

Eric Likander Only Three Days Sick, Dead

WROTE MANY POEMS

Considerable regret was expressed in Finnish circles this morning when it was learned that Eric Likander had passed away at his home, 1 Sampo Place. Mr. Likander expired shortly after four o'clock this morning after an illnes of three days with pneumonia. For twelves years he has been a resident of Quincy and besides being a prominent parishioner of the Finnish Congregational church, was a widely known and highly respected citizen.

He was 37 years of age and had written many Finnish poems from time to time. A wife and four children survive him. The funeral services will be conducted Tuesday afternoon at the Finnish Congregational church by the pastor Rev. J. E. Lillback.

SONS ST. GEORGE HOLD SERVICES

Members Hear Informal Talk by Rev. R. E. Johnson

Granite Lodge Order Sons of St. George held a memorial service for departed members in Clan McGregor hall at South Quincy. They were addressed by Rev. Richard E. Armstrong of Christ church, who spoke on "Immortality." Music during the service was furnished by members of the lodge.

Rev. Mr. Armstrong's talk was entirely informal. He said such services were fitting and the results obvious. He referred to the immortality and dwelt at some length upon that state which is open to all at some time.

KINCAIDE THEATRE TO OPEN DOORS TO AMUSEMENT LOVING PUBLIC

New Structure Started on Hancock Street One Story With Balcony to Seat 1300

Estimated Cost of This Addition to City is $20,000

A permit was issued by Inspector of Buildings Warren S. Parker, Monday for the new theatre building to be erected at 1569 Hancock street, by Henry L. Kincaide & Co., and work on the foundation has already commenced.

The contractor is the C. S. Cunningham Sons Construction Co., and the architect Albert H. Wright. The building is to be of brick and steel and the cost is estimated to be upwards of $20,000.

The building will have a frontage on Hancock street of 64-7 feet and a depth of 127-6 feet. It will be a one story structure and be exclusively for theatre purposes. The seating capacity of the main auditorium and balcony is about 1,300.

Swinging doors on the Hancock street front open into the main lobby 31 by 13 feet, on either side of which to the ticket office. From the main lobby entrance is had to the foyer 21 by 6 feet. From this foyer stairs on either side lead to the balcony above. There is also an ample cloak checking room leading from the foyer.

From the foyer are several entrances leading to the main auditorium which is about 70 by 59 which has twenty-five rows of seats, arranged in the form of a semi-circle.

The stage front opening is 36 feet and the depth of the stage about 31-10 feet. On one side of the stage are two dressing rooms and lavatory while on the opposite side is the stage manager's office, property room, etc.

There are two stairways leading from inside the building to the balcony and four leading from it to the street, the additional stairways being in case of fire or other emergency.

The balcony has nineteen rows of seats, arranged in two sections.

Over the front of the building will be a sign reading "Kincaide Theatre."

BON VOYAGE TO SANDBERGS.

Quite a few of the friends of Councilman Edward J. Sandberg and Oscar Sandberg were present in East Boston this morning to see them start on their voyage to Sweden. The Laconia, upon which they sailed, left the wharf at 8 o'clock.

EIGHTEENTH ANNIVERSARY

Norfolk Lodge A.O.U.W. Growing in Years and Members

ENTERTAIN THE LADIES

The eighteenth anniversary of Norfolk Lodge, 178, A. O. U. W. was observed with a ladies' night in Poland hall, Monday night and was attended by a large number. The guests of the evening included Mayor Eugene R. Stone of Quincy, Grand Master Workman Clark and District Deputy Reedy of the A. O. U. W., Mrs. Clark, Grand Chief of Honor and Mrs. Todd Grand Recorder of the Degree of Honor.

The feature of the evening was the presentation of a loving cup to James J. Reedy, the district deputy in appreciation of his good work in connection with the Lodge. Mr. Reedy was overcome by this token of regard but waxed eloquent as he spoke of his interest in the order whose welfare was the dearest wish of his heart.

Mayor Stone entered to the strains of "Hail to the chief" and all present arose to do honor to the city's executive. He was loudly applauded and spoke of his pleasure in being present. Organizations of this kind should be pushed forward as fast as possible as they not only protect the men but the homes also. The Mayor told of some things that were being done for Quincy including the channels, the public dock, the new Montclair school and the new hall for the Quincy school. He promised that the streets in this section would be speedily repaired as he had the Commissioner's word that he was going to get down there in the near future.

The meeting was called to order by Master Workman Cahill who, after welcoming those present turned the evening over to chairman Kolstad of the entertainment committee.

The program opened with a piano solo by Miss Ruth Cahill and a song "My man from Louisville" by Mr. MacDonald.

A movement has been started to organize a Degree of Honor, the auxiliary of the A. O. U. W., in this lodge and two speaker were present from the central body.

Grand Recorder Todd spoke of the large amount of good the order had done since its institution. She urged a large membership from Norfolk Lodge. Grand Chief of Honor Clark added her word of inspiration to that of the former speaker.

Miss Ruth Cahill and John C. Ward entertained with two novel duets "A. B. C." and "No; Sir!" which brought loud encores. They were accompanied by James P. Cahill.

The loving cup was presented Deputy Reedy by James Flanagan who told of the earnest efforts of the Deputy in behalf of the order.

Vocal selections were rendered by the Agony Quintet, Walter Knapp, William Hill, Ralph Knapp, Henry Colstad and George Turner. They were accompanied by Miss Edith Colstad.

Following Mayor Stone's speech a vocal solo "A china tragedy" by Miss Edna Fowler accompanied by Miss Grace Horsman was enjoyed.

Grand Master Workman John A. Clark relate some incidents showing the immense help of the A. O. U. W. He urged that the women remind their husbands of the Lodge meetings.

"Dixie" a duet by Masters Robert and George Cahill concluded the entertainment and the audience adjourned to the banquet hall where refreshments were served.

Dancing followed to the music of an orchestra consisting of Miss Ruth Cahill, E. Thornton Walter and Herbert Percival.

CELEBRATION MEETING.

Postals inviting the general public to meet at the rooms of the Board of Trade, Wednesday evening, have been sent out today. The meeting is to decide whether or not there will be a celebration of the National holiday this year, and if so to take the necessary steps to raise funds.

QUINCY HOSPITALITY EXTENDED TO MEN HIGH IN MASONIC BODY

Grand Lecturer Hunt and Suite Paid Official Visit to Local Commandery

Quincy Given Picture of Grand Commander by First Commander Fay

Monday night was certainly a red letter one in the history of Quincy Commandery, Knights Templars. Aside from being the occasion of the annual inspection of the commandery, the conclave was marked by several pleasing events the most prominent of which was the presentation to the commandery by Em. Sir Albert W. Fay, Grand Lecturer, and the first Eminent Commander of Quincy Commandery, of a handsomely framed portrait of Rt. Em. Lafayette G. Blair, Grand Commander of Massachusetts and Rhode Island, and an honorary member of Quincy Commandery. The portrait was a full length view and showed the Grand Commander in full uniform, as he appeared on the night upon which he constituted the commandery.

SIR WALTER E. PIPER, Genaralissimo.

The presentation was made during the early business session, the portrait being placed in front of the Commander's stand in the east. It was presented in remembrance of the official who signed the charter and was accepted by Commander Henry P. Furnald with the sincere thanks of himself and the Sir Knights. This receipt was the occasion of a great cheer and a rising vote of thanks to the donor.

The reception of the grand officers took place at 7.45, the appearance of the Em. Sir Merton L. Hathaway, Deputy Grand Warder at the outer gate was signaled by a call from the bugle by the Veteran Thomas Carter. He announced the presence in the anteroom of Em. Sir Charles R. Hunt, Grand Lecturer and suite who were present to make an official inspection.

A committee headed by Generalissimo Sir Walter E. Piper and including Em. Sir Albert W. Fay, Em. Sir Arthur W. Stetson, Sir George H. Field, Sir Alfred H. Richards, Sir Stephen B. Willey, Sir Jonathan S. Swingle and Sir Henry R. Holden accompanied by the escort in charge of Adjutant Sir David Hansen, proceeded to the outer room and conducted the inspecting officer to the asylum.

The entrance of the inspecting officer and suite was a most imposing sight for Em. Sir Hunt was accompanied by a suite of upwards of forty who included the following:—

Very Em. Sir—Frank L. Nagle, Deputy Grand Commander.

Rt. Em. Sir, William H. H. Soule, Past Grand Commander.

Em. Sir Charles E. Pierce, Grand Warder.

Em. Sir Merton L. Hathaway, Deputy Grand Warder.

Em. Com. Sir Elton S. Wilde, Past

EM. SIR ALBERT W. FAY. G. L.

Commander Elisha H. Fisher, and Captain General, Charles S. Coombs of Sutton Commandery, New Bedford.

Em. Com. Sir Varnum Waugh, and Past Commander George W. Knowlton of Joseph Warren Commandery of Roxbury.

Em. Com. Sir Charles W. Kiddel, Generalissimo Sir Edgar W. Evans and Captain General Sir Edward E.

QUINCY MANSION PUPILS PLEASE

Parents and Friends in Commencement Recital

FOURTEEN IN PROGRAM

The commencement recital at the Quincy Mansion school was given by the pupils Monday evening and was enjoyed by the relatives and friends who filled Livermore hall. It was under the direction of Messrs. William Howard and S. Newton Cutler, teachers of violin and piano and Mrs. Bertha Cushing Child, vocal teacher. The varied program gave much pleasure and showed the careful and systematic training given the young ladies, each member meriting the appreciative applause it received.

Near the close of the program, Mrs. Willard announced that the pupils who had sung had not taken a lesson until this year, and when that was taken into consideration their work was remarkably good and proved without a doubt the policy of the school, that if the pupil's mind can be brought to bear in an intelligent and practical way upon the subject of voice culture, the most satisfactory results, not only in the production of a pure resonant tone, but also in a deeper and truer insight into things musical, are obtained which renders the interpretation of good music possible.

The instrumental part of the program showed the result of most careful instruction and drill in such foundation work as major and minor scale and chord work in all keys, and in all grades a thorough study.

Miss Williams played with artistic execution in an expressive manner and her three selections were much enjoyed.

Although Mrs. Child had not expected to sing, she delighted the audience with "Bendemeer's Stream," an

EDITORIAL COMMENT.

Bicycle riders who invade sidewalks possibly do not realize they are violating the law.

More explicit guides as to reaching the Shore boulevard from Hancock street, would be appreciated by automobilists and strangers in the city.

It is up to the Wollaston yacht club to corral Mayor Stone now that he owns to membership in the Quincy club.

The cottagers who visited their summer seaside homes, Sunday enjoyed the relief from the crowded city.

Some one must have blundered, if a half crazy girl was permitted to testify against her mother, when the latter's life was at stake.

All hats should be doffed to the heroes whose ranks are rapidly growing thinner on Thursday.

The legislators might have had lots of fun with Representative Leslie, if they knew he was of the "Rocking Chair fleet," when urging passage of the dredging bills.

Now that the United States attempted intervention in Cuba, a howl has come that we must keep out.

Limit on the town and city debts indeed: the legislator who will produce a bill to that effect which cannot be evaded by.

A bright looking girl tripped along Hancock street Monday with a carpenter's hammer firmly gripped in her hand. The look of determination in her indicated that she was out to hammer some one or something and Lord help any one who interfered.

The condition of Neponset bridge at present is not creditable to those responsible for its up-keep.

New Jersey registers its decision today.

Some people feel that people who disagree with or oppose them are crooks, fakirs and not worthy of consideration. If we all agreed it would indeed be a funny world.

Col. Roosevelt has got into the habit of using the imperial "We."

College education is higher than primary, but in the political educational race the primaries are far ahead of the presidential elective college which only costs $14,000.

One Boston paper by no means dying of love for John F. Fitzgerald, announces he will be the next junior senator unless the Republican wounds are healed. There is nothing to it from any angle but Fitzgerald if the Republicans keep up their fantastic internal squabbling. It reminds one of the good old Democratic party of a few years ago.

WOMAN BEATEN AND TARRED.

While broad minded men and women of this state imbued with a sentiment of christian charity and a desire to save the state from the odium of electrocuting a woman from Maryland comes a strange story of excessive cruelty and brutality in the treatment of one of the sex. The unfortunate woman was accused of misconduct which she resolutely denies. A gang of men, took her from her home, beat and kicked her and threw her into a vat of tar. All this in the presence of her eleven year old son. What a blot upon our boasted enlightenment and civilization. If that boy has a spark of love for the mother who bore him, he will remember that act to his dying day, and when the flight of time has brought him to the power of manhood, he will be likely to repay for the outrage.

Can this innocent be blamed if he fails in allegiance to the law, when men who should know better outrage his finer feelings by this treatment of his mother.

If the unfortunate woman was guilty of the charges laid at her door steps should be taken to have the law of the state check her criminal career. The hasty action of those men can only arouse public indignation towards them and sympathy for their victim. Whatever her alleged faults the woman should have had an opportunity to face her accusers and prove her innocence if possible. The act of this self-appointed purity brigade of ruffians is not creditable to the fair fame of Maryland.

MANY VIEWS OF THE WORLD

BY DEAN BROWN OF YALE

The baccaulaureate sermon to the graduating class of the Quincy Mansion school was delivered in Livermore hall Sunday evening by the Rev. Dr. Charles R. Brown dean of the Yale divinity school. His subject was "The World We Live in."

The speaker said that each person dwells in a world of his own. He makes his world. "Some live in a world which is to them one of material value, and they cannot see it from any other standpoint. Others view the world as being one of ideals, outlooks and discrimination. Still others view it with suspicion and distrust. To them every one has his price.

"Then again there is another who views it from a personal standpoint. We may well ask the question, how large a reign of life do we have? It is simply what we make of it. We should build for an eternal purpose; we should ever be actuated by the spirit of Jesus. His life was one of service; He sought to do the will of His Father. If we are making our world a narrow and shallow one, we should move to a higher and broader one."

THE HALF CENT.

If any one can come forward with any real reason for the coinage of a half cent United States money, he should be entitled to a reward. What particular use would such a coin serve? Its purchasing power under present conditions would be valueless. It is true that in some department store sales articles are offered for a certain number of cents and a half, but the purchase of two articles prevents any loss to the purchaser. To set the government to the useless task of presenting this denomination for circulation seems a needless expense which will serve to no particular good. And as to the demand for it there does not appear to be any.

NEPONSET BRIDGE.

Those responsibilities for the upkeep of Neponset bridge have no occasion to congratulate themselves upon its present condition. The surface planking has been worn and scarred by daily usage, and splintered in places to such an extent that it resembles an impromptu tooth-pick factory. Then again holes have been worn through at points where the planks join which makes it disagreeable. At the present rate of wear the bridge will soon become dangerous to horses and pedestrians who may take to the middle of the travelled way. A small expenditure at the present time would save a greater outlay in the future and may obviate suits for damages which might occur as the condition of the bridge grows worse.

REV. DR. SNEATH FOR WOLLASTON

Accepts Call Extended by Congregational Church

PLANS FOR RECEPTION

The Wollaston Congregational church has received an acceptance of the call extended to Rev. Isaiah W. Sneath, Ph.D., of the Grand Avenue Church, New Haven, Connecticut, to become its pastor.

Dr. Sneath accepts to assume his new pastorate on September 1st. Action on his acceptance will be taken by the church at a special meeting to be held in a few days.

Commenting editorially a few days ago the Boston Herald referred in the highest terms to Dr. Sneath. He comes to Wollaston after an eight years' successful pastorate at New Haven.

Plans will be made for his reception and installation in the fall. Since the leaving of Rev. Edward A. Chase, the former pastor, the parsonage on Marion street has been thoroughly renovated and many improvements made.

TOWN RIVER CLUB GOT FLAG OUTFIT

Woman's Riverside Club Remember Floating Friends

The Quincy Women's Riverside club have presented the Town River Yacht club with a beautiful American flag, size, 7 1-2 by 12 feet, halyards and pole, to be erected on the club house.

The flag was informally presented to the club by the president of the Women's club, Mrs. Carolyn B. Mellen. It was the intention of the club to have presented it so it could have been flung to the breeze for the first time on Flag day but as Decoration day was so near it seemed most appropriate that the flag should be flung to the breeze on that day.

WATERS STREWN WITH FLOWERS

For Sailor Dead at River Front Service Sunday

UNDER WOMAN'S DIRECTION

Memorial services for the soldier and sailor dead were held Saturday afternoon at the foot of River street, Quincy Point, by Paul Revere Corps, No. 103, Ladies' Auxiliary to the Sons of Veterans, under the direction of Mrs. Eliza A. Penniman. Paul J. Revere Post, No. 88 G. A. R. was represented by Commander Francis P. Loud and the Spanish War Veterans by Commander Brooks. The exercises consisted of addresses, singing and the strewing of flowers on the waters of the river.

The first speaker was Mayor Eugene R. Stone, who paid a glowing tribute to those who had given their lives for the country. This was followed by a song rendered by Mrs. Elexia Nason. Mrs. Kate A. Blaisdell gave a reading appropriate to the occasion.

The "Gem of the Ocean," was next sung in a most able manner by fifty pupils of the Washington Grammer school, under the direction of Mrs. Ella Hayden. Mrs. Walter Perry sang the "Star Spangled Banner." The last number of the program consisted of a flag salute by members of the corps, assisted by the school children, who also sang "America." A short address was given by Rev. Charles P. Marshall who closed the exercises by giving benediction. There was a large crowd of people present to witness the impressive ceremonies.

PROFESSIONALS AND AMATEURS

Give Services to Make Hospital Concert a Success

Professional musicians and amateurs are giving their services to make The Hospital Aid concert in Alpha hall, tonight a success. As the expenses are slight, a good sum should be netted for the Hospital needs.

May music, tunes familiar and harmonies modern will prevail. Vocal solos, duets and part songs, guitar and 'celio solos, with Tennyson's "Lady of Shalott," present a full programme which will begin promptly at eight o'clock.

Mrs. James E. Neary will play the guitar solos and Miss Olive Allen will accompany most of the songs. Much interest has been aroused in this performance of Quincy talent for so worthy a cause.

Many Offenders Added to Golden Store of Country

George Reiley, Robert Whiteway, John H. Johnson and Joseph Christopher were fined $3 each on account of costs for drunkenness at Quincy and were placed on probation until August 8.

Patrick Murphy of Quincy was arraigned for the sixteenth time in three years for drunkenness. He was in court February 27 on a similar complaint and at that time received a sentence of three months. He promised to let the red liquor alone and his sentence was suspended until August 8. His promise was broken however and this morning the court retracted the suspension and he will have to spend the summer months at Dedham jail.

James Fogarty was sentenced to three months in the house of correction for drunkenness at Weymouth. Sentence suspended until August 8.

Timothy Monyhan of Randolph came from Boston Saturday night and refused to pay his fare. When the train arrived at Braintree he was placed under arrest charged with drunkenness and for evading fare. The court fined him $10 for drunkenness and his car fare 20 cents and $5.60 costs for evading his fare.

James Pratt was fined $4.20 costs for drunkenness at Weymouth. Case continued on probation until August 8.

John Uranskia was fined $5 for drunkenness at Weymouth.

John Leary was fined $25 for assault on John Norton at the American Fertilizer works in Weymouth. Leary was mending a pair of shoes when Norton remarked that it would be cheaper to buy a new pair. Leary resented the remark and struck Norton over the head with the hammer.

Funeral of Eric Likander Held From the Church

HIS PRAISES SUNG

The funeral of Eric Likander, of 1 Sampa place, was held from his late home this afternoon. Services were conducted in the Finnish Congregational church at 2 o'clock by the pastor, Rev. Johana Lillback, who also pronounced a fitting eulogy over the deceased, extolling his virtues and telling of the influence he brought to bear at all times in the interests of the community and especially for the welfare of the Finnish residents of the city. Rev. Mr. Lillback spoke of the long connection of the late Mr. Likander with the church and the amount of good he had done for the parishioners.

The regular male choir, under the direction of organist Miss A. W. Oksanen rendered music appropriate to the occasion, and there was a large gathering of relatives and friends. Burial was at Mt. Wollaston cemetery. The late Mr. Likander was one of the most popular Finnish citizens of the city and his death came as a severe blow to the wide circle of friends to whom he had always endeared himself and who now share the bereavement of his wife and four children. There was a profusion of floral tributes.

The closing number "Ave Maria" showed the usefulness of cultivating the singing voice, Mr. Howard accompanying with that elegance of expression and finsh that distinguishes his work.

Mss Beatrice M. Haskell played the accompaniments with marked taste.

The program was:—

Misses Hayden and Kerlin, Tancred Overture—Rossini.

Barbara Switzer, Slumber Boat—Jessie Gaynor.

Bernice E. Savage, Austrian Song—Pacher.

Mary Williams, Wiegenlied—Beazley.

Pastorale—Sitt.

Caroline Hayden, Air de Ballet—Chaminade.

Semi Chorus and Mr. Howard, Ave Maria—Bach Gounod.

—Postmaster-Gen. Hitchcock has certainly "put the post office department on a business basis" and enforced economies and reforms. The vulnerable point in his work is that some of the economy has been at the expense of service. The little expedient of omitting the back-stamp on letters, has saved time and money, but it has made it impossible to know the time of receipt of letters which lack that once valuable identification. Omission of the return card for registered letters, except upon request, has been a vexation, and probably a loss to many—Boston Record.

FORTY HOURS OF DEVOTION

Closed With Solemn High Mass at St. John's Church

FR. HARKINS OFFICIATED

St. John's Church was thronged with parishioners at the solemn high mass at nine o'clock this morning, to close the forty hours' devotion.

The celebrant of the mass was Rev. Fr. J. Howland Harkins, a Quincy boy, now stationed at Amesbury. He was assisted by Rev. Fr. John J. Casey as deacon, and Rev. Fr. Patrick J. Scannell as sub-deacon. Rev. Fr. John J. Coan, pastor of the church was master of ceremonies.

An augmented choir under the direction of organist John Mahan rendered Gregorian music, while solos were sung by Mrs. Mary Burns King and Miss Angela McCarty.

At the close of the mass, a procession of the Blessed Sacrament took place.

The procession was headed by the alter boys of the church, followed in turn by the pupils of the Parochial school. The line of march was through the aisles of the church and the spectacle presented was a most edifying one.

WEST QUINCY M. E.

"Let the words of my mouth, and the meditation of my heart, be acceptable in thy sight, O Lord, my strength and my Redeemer," was the text of the sermon at the Hall Place M. E. church, Sunday morning by the Rev. T. C. Martin. Mr. Martin emphasized the fact that we shoud be careful in regard to our inner life, for "as a man thinketh, so is he," and it is not that which goes into the man's heart but what comes from it that defiles him, and we should also be careful to use as few words as possible. Following out his custom on previous Sundays during the month of May the pastor spoke briefly on the work of the General Conference now in session at Minneapolis. The choir sang "I'm a Pilgrim," with Miss Helen Martin as soloist.

The session of the Sunday school was held at the close of the morning service with a very helpful and interesting lesson on "Truthfulness." At the close of the study hour, Mr. Alex Steward, superintendent, gave an interesting talk on the books of the Bible. Plans are being made for the annual children's day concert, June 9.

J. M. Francis led the Epworth League meeting at 6.15, on "The False use of Religious Symbols." Miss Helen Martin sang a solo and Miss Martin and Camille Fuller sang a duet.

At the evening service the pastor spoke on "Why some people commit great and awful sins." His text was Ecclesiastes, 8,11. "Because sentence against an evil work is not executed speedily, therefore the heart of the sons of men is fully set in them to do evil." A delegation from the G. A. R. was present. This evening the first quarterly conference will be held. Rev. Wesley Wiggin of Wollaston presiding in the absence of the District Superintendent, Dillon Bronson.

The prayer meeting will be omitted Thursday evening.

GOVERNOR SIGNS MOSQUITO BILL

Outcome of Petition of William L. Kenyon of Atlantic

BOARD TO DEMONSTRATE

State House, May 27—Governor Foss today signed the far-famed "mosquito" bill. The bill is the direct outcome of the petition of William L. Kenyon, of Atlantic, who introduced the subject at the first of the session. Mr. Kenyon wanted the State to appropriate the sum of $1,000 for the purpose of allowing the State Board of Health to make experiments in the effort of determining the best way to rid the communities of the deadly pest, the mosquito. The resolve based on Mr. Kenyon's petition and which has finally become a law provides:—

That the State Board of Health is to advise local boards of health throughout the Commonwealth as to the best methods of exterminating mosquitoes and to give practical demonstrations of such methods wherever advisable and an appropriation of $1,000 is allowed for the work.

LACK OF AMMUNITION

Mexican Rebels Claim Americans Halt Success by Preventing Importation

Chihuahua, Mex., May 28.—The Mexican rebels are rapidly running out of ammunition and feeling against the United States for preventing exportations of arms into Mexico runs high in the rebel zone. Lack of ammunition is given as one of the principal reasons why the insurrectos have retreated before the advancing federals. To date the rebels have evacuated nearly 250 miles of territory along the Mexican Central lines, and General Orozco, who arrived here yesterday, is mustering his men in an effort to check the federals at Bachimba. This is a naturally fortified place, with plenty o. water, lack of which made fighting heretofore difficult.

The exact position of the federals is not known here, but they are believed to be near Jiminez, 150 miles south, which has been evacuated by the rear guard of the rebels, charged with the task of wrecking the railroad and burning bridges. Should the rebels be defeated at Bachimba and driven out of Chihuahua, it is practically certain that they will split into small bands and harrass the government in guerilla warfare until such time as they gather enough ammunition for a concentrated stand.

The rebels have about six thousand men in this vicinity, losses in the retreat having been comparatively few. Only sixty-six men have been reported missing by the commanders since the battle of Rellano. There are hardly any sick, but about 150 wounded are in the hospitals.

MARYLAND OUTRAGE UPON A WOMAN

Place Her In a Tar Vat and Maltreat Her

Ocean City, Md., May 28.—Sheriff Hanson has begun the investigation of an assault case here, which he declares most outrageous. Mary Holzman was taken from her home here by several men who, it is charged, kicked and beat her, finishing up by dipping her into a vat of tar.

The crowd numbered about ten men. "Three of these," she said, "I recognized as Fred Hayman, Brownie Savage and Frank Gray. The others I did not know. When I screamed they struck me and sometimes kicked me. Every tooth I have is loose. My back and limbs are black and blue from kicks. The lights were out, and I know that the town officials were aiding the men because the light continued out for half an hour. When the men finished their work, the whole town was lighted as usual."

Past Commander Sir Luther E. Cowles of Natick Commandery of Natick.

Past Commander Sir Alfred B. Parker of Cambridge Commandery of Cambridge.

The line was in charge of Captain General John Morgan and consisted of 60 swords.

In receiving the Grand officers, Commander Furnald said that not only as the head of the Quincy Commandery but personally it gave him exceeding pleasure to welcome to the asylum as a representative of the Grand Commander, one who once walked the streets of Quincy. "As the prodigal son I am willing to kill the fatted calf in your honor" and be sure that you and your staff are most cordially welcomed.

Grand Lecturer Hunt replied saying that it was a high honor to be present as a representative of the Grand Commander, and that he was happy indeed to come back to Quincy, in which city, then a town he had the honor of being a resident 35 years ago. He also brought the regrets of Grand Commander Blair, who had intended to be present but was just convalescing from a severe illness.

The Order of the Red Cross was presented by the officers of Quincy Commandery, music during the work being rendered by the Quincy Commandery quartet, composed of Sir Knights, Harold E. Tripp, Vernon S. Brokaw, Herbert Y. Follett and George E. Willey, who were assisted by bugler, Sir Knight Thomas Carter and Sir Knight Bailey as organist.

After the work the drill squad under Sir Knight David Hansen, gave a series of evolutions. It was the first appearance of this squad in an exhibition drill and their work was accorded a hearty and well deserved applause.

Brief remarks followed by Grand Lecturer Hunt who said this was one of the happiest moments of his life. He also took occasion to compliment the officers on their work. Others to speak were Deputy Grand Commander Nagle, Past Grand Commander Soule and Grand Warder Pierce who said that he had received a telephone from the Grand Commander just as he was about to start for Quincy, in which he sent his regrets at his inability to be present.

In reply Commander Furnald requested the Grand Lecturer to convey to the Grand Commander the best wishes of Quincy Commandery for his speedy recovery.

Commander Furnald then presented as mementoes of the visitation, Templar emblems to be conveyed to Mrs. Charles R. Hunt and to Mrs. Merton L. Hathaway. These mementoes were a solid gold maltese cross suspended from a gold bar across which were the words "Quincy Commandery 1912."

At the conclusion a banquet was served by Westover & Fo.s.

This was the last official inspection of the year in this jurisdiction and it was a most notable occasion.

Flask With Whiskey Found After 25 Years' Storage

SECRETED IN CHIMNEY

A relic of by-gone days was unearthed in the Greenleaf block Saturday by workmen engaged in making additions on the Granite street side. There is a large chimney on this side and in tearing out part of this the workmen found a small bundle. The bundle proved to be a half pint of whiskey flask with a small amount of whiskey in it. This was done up in a Boston Globe bearing date of February 18, 1887. It is thought that the bottle was put in the chimney by some of the workmen on the building at that time.

MARRIAGE ANNOUNCEMENT.

Invitations have been received in Quincy from Mr. and Mrs. Edward Henry Shelley of Garfield place, Brooklyn, New York, for the marriage of their daughter Doris Marguerite, and Algernon Raymond Burchsted, of Wollaston on Saturday evening, June 8th at eight o'clock.

Miss Shelley is a member of the graduating class of Barnard college. Mr. Burchsted is the son of Mr. and Mrs. J. T. Burchsted of 219 Beale street, Wollaston and a graduate of Adams Academy, also a student at Thayer Academy, Braintree, for a short time, after which he entered Lehigh University at South Bethlehem, Penn., from which he graduated.

OUR CAMP BEYOND THE RIVER.

Dr. Henry M. Kieffer.

Oh, comrades, we are marching
With the sunset in our face,
And behind us fall the shadows
That are lengthening apace.
The column's moving slowly
Toward the setting of the sun,
And our ranks are growing thinner,
For our march is nearly done.

Behind us are the memories
Of the toiling and the pain,
The biting of the night-frost
And the pelting of the rain.
'Tis only in our dreams we pace
The lonely picket post
And march and camp and fight
With our country's mighty host.

But the column's moving slowly now,
With a heavy, weary tread,
For, by army corps, our comrades
Now are sleeping with the dead.
We are bringing up the rear, boys,
And our march is nearly done,
And our camping place is yonder
At the setting of the sun.

And they tell me that ahead,
Where the mountain shadows sleep,
There's a valley we must cross—
A valley dark and deep;
And through the very middle flows
A roaring torrent wide—
But there's a pontoon down there
That'll reach the other side.

And they tell me when we've crossed
That deep, dark river o'er
We'll never have to fight again
Nor march in any war;
We'll stack our arms forever
And break our ranks for good,
For in that blessed country
They shed no human blood.

On those everlasting hills of heaven
There's a glorious camping place,
And a river clear as crystal
Flows along its every base;
There'll be no hunger there,
Nor pain, nor sickness—no,
For there the Tree of Life
And the Balm in Gilead grow.

And there'll be no sorrow there,
No burning heat nor cold,
And there the camp's laid out
With streets of shining gold.
And they tell me when we get there
The band will always play,
And we'll all be off o' duty
Through the everlasting day.

From each succeeding hilltop
As the column moves along,
Far from across the river,
I catch the voice of song.
It's a new song the boys are singing,
And it's wonderfully sweet,
And "Home, sweet home" the band is playing
On every golden street.

Oh! a glorious vision opens,
As I strain my eyes to see
The morning sunlight shining
In that land of Jubilee;;
And I'm longing just to be there
In that glorious camp of white,
Where the boys are resting after
Life's long and weary fight.

Oh, comrades, we are marching
With the sunset in our face,
But we're marching to a grand
And a glorious camping place;
And "Taps" are beating, comrades,
Just a little way ahead—
But the morning breaks with "Reveille,"
In the bivouac of our dead.

UNCLE SAM ON GUARD DUTY

Will Not Intervene Unless It Is Absolutely Necessary

SAFETY OF AMERICANS FIRST

President Taft Assures President Gomez on That Head—But the United States Will Omit No Precaution—The Security of American Interests and Lives the First and Greatest Object—Fleet on Shortened Cables

Washington, May 28.—President Taft replied to President Gomez's telegram regarding the attitude of the United States toward Cuba. He declared the American government's activity in mobilizing war vessels at Key West and dispatching the Prairie with marines to Guantanamo was not in any sense an intervention move. The following is the text of the message:

"I am sincerely gratified to learn of your government's energetic measures to put down the disturbance and to know that you are confident of being successful. As was fully explained to the Cuban charge d'affaires here, this government's motive in sending ships to Key West, just as sending the Prairie to the Guantanamo naval station, was merely to be able to act promptly in case it should unfortunately become necessary to protect American life and property by rendering moral support or assitance to the Cuban government. As was made quite clear at the time, these ordinary measures of precaution were entirely dissociated from any question of intervention."

Feeling assured that President Gomez has misunderstood the purpose of the American government in dispatching the large naval force now on its way to Key West, the state department after having instructed American Minister Beaupre at Havana, to make plain to the Cuban government the purpose of the movement, has now left to the discretion of Colonel Karmany, commanding the marine force, en route on the cruiser Prairie and due at Guantanamo today, the extent to which the marines shall be employed. It is believed that as soon as President Gomez is made aware of the fact that there is no sinister purpose behind the movements of the naval vessels, and their commanders will do nothing more than use their forces to prevent injury to American lives and property he no longer will object.

It is thoroughly appreciated here that the Cuban president must assume a rather resentful attitude toward what might appear to be an invasion of the island, lest the patriotism of the Cubans be stirred to resistanee. Should he persist in his objection, however, American naval commanders will not remain indifferent to the demands of the Americans for protection, where it is clear that the Cuban government cannot afford it.

Admiral Osterhaus' expeditionary fleet, which is due at Key West tomorrow, will not move at once into Cuban waters unless something should happen in the meantime to demand its presence there. It is said by the authorities here that the signal for the disposition of the American ships among the various Cuban ports will await the decision of American Minister Beaupre at Havana, unless he should be so hampered by destroyed telegraphic communication from obtaining information as to what is going on in the distant eastern end of the island, where the disturbances at presence are focused as to make it necessary for the state department to act independently of his suggestion.

Havana, May 8.—President Gomez has received a message from President Taft disclaiming the intent of the United States to intervene. He immediately summoned a meeting of the cabinet to which he communicated the text of the message, expressing his highest appreciation of President Taft's attitude. President Gomez is now engaged in preparing a reply.

Santiago, May 28.—Hurling direct defiance at the United States and all its fast resources of men, arms, fighting machinery and money, the two leaders of the revolutionary rising. Generals Estenoz and Ivonet, have declared their intention to carry on the war, whether the United States intervenes or not, and to fight against any and all odds until the Morua law has been repealed.

No Salary Increase

Boston, May 28.—Governor Foss' veto of the bill to increase county commissioners' salaries was sustained in the house which, 117 to 100, much less than the necessary two-thirds in the affirmative, refused to pass the bill over the veto. This kills the bill, although the senate had overriden the veto, 21 to 2.

Boston, May 28.—Henry H. Butts, 40, a negro, whose sentence was deferred on account of the desire of Clarence V. T. Richeson to have him as attendant at the Charles Street jail, was sentenced to the state prison for a term of not more than fourteen nor less than twelve years.

He pleaded guilty to manslaughter in having shot and killed Robert Williamson June 21, 1910, on Shawmut avenue. Butts was indicted for murder in the first degree, but the district attorney accepted a plea of manslaughter.

WOULD ARREST CHIEF-OF-POLICE

San Diego Belligerents Seek Court Action On Both Sides

San Diego, Cal., May 28.—The alleged abduction of W. R. Sauer, editor of the Weekly Herald, which defended the Industrial Workers of the World, probably will be the test case submitted to Attorney General U. S. Webb for prosecution of the alleged vigilantes. Messrs. Moore and Robbins, representing the Free Speech league, declare the expulsion of the editor to be the strongest case they have.

It is announced that efforts will be made to obtain a warrant for the arrest of Chief of Police Wilson on the charge of unlawfully deporting W. S. Rawlins, stenographer for Moore and Robbins.

Guards were posted about the offices of the San Diego Union, a newpaper which has been fighting the Industrial Workers of the World. Several known members of the organization were found near the building and were said to have been overheard making threats.

Two men who are said to have been picked by the Industrial Workers to explode the infernal machine under the valve which regulates San Diego water supply, near the Sweetwater dam, are under arrest.

"The flag means nothing to me," exclaimed J. A. Bost, a member of the Industrial Workers, who was arrested on a Los Angeles street on the charge of reviling the flag, when he was arraigned before Police Justice Frederickson.

Assistant United States District Attorney Robinson made an arrangement with Samuel L. Browne, chief of the secret service of the district attorney's office, to introduce the bombs which Browne recently found in a Los Angeles house, as exhibits in the investigation of the Industrial Workers by the federal grand jury. More than twenty bombs have been found.

FIVE YEARS PENALTY

Sentence of J. P. Maloy For Killing Two Men With Automobile

Boston, May 28.—The heavies punishment ever inflicted on an automobilist in this state, from five to seven years in state prison was visited on John A. Maloy, 30, married, of Cambridgeport, by Judge Chase in the superior criminal court.

Maloy had just pleaded guilty to a charge of manslaughter on April 27, when, in the early morning, he plunged his machine into a crowd of laborers at the corner of Boylston and Dartmouth streets and instantly killed Thomas Donahue and John Connolly, both of South Boston.

ROOSEVELT AND TAFT

Have Closed a Most Spectacular Primary Campaign

BOTH CANDIDATES CONFIDENT

New Jersey Has Been a Political Battleground—No Such Nomination Campaigning Ever Known—Taft and Roosevelt Each Knows He Will Carry the State—South Dakota Only Primary State Yet to Vote

Newark, N. J., May 28.—The New Jersey state primary election today will bring practically to a close the spectacular campaigns for the presidential nomination which have resulted this year from the adoption by several states of presidential preference laws.

The South Dakota primaries are still in the future, but it is believed that the opening of the polls this afternoon will see the end of the personal appeal for primary votes that President Taft and Theodore Roosevelt have voiced in many parts of the country.

This state will choose twenty-eight delegates to each national convention, four at-large and two each from the twelve congresional districts.

The polls opened at 1 p. m. and will close at 9 p. m.

With a speech last night to a crowd which filled Young's Pier back to the board walk, and an overflow on the walk itself, President Taft practically closed his campaign for New Jersey's twenty-eight delegates to the Republican national convention.

The president expressed himself as fully confident that New Jersey would stand behind him in the primaries.

Hoboken, N. J., May 28.—Roosevelt's campaign for the presidential nomination virtually came to an end here last night with cannon, bugles, red fire and plenty of cheering.

"This is the most remarkable ending to the most remarkable campaign I've ever taken part in," said Colonel Roosevelt, after he had witnessed the demonstration in his honor in Hoboken. "I have been in politics for thirty-three years and I never before have felt such unadulterated satisfaction in any campaign as in this one."

SENATORIAL PREFERENCE

Resolve Introduced by Senator C. H. Brown Is Adopted

Boston, May 28.—Senator Charles H. Brown of Middlesex, Republican, a middle-of-the-road progressive, won his fight on the United States senatorial preference contest in the senate. The upper branch on a roll call of 21 to 13, with two pairs, substituted Brown's bill, which provides for a preference within the parties, for the bill reported by the committee on election laws.

The gist of the bill reads as follows: For the purpose of instructing members of the legislature as to the preference of the voters of the various political parties, the secretary of the commonwealth shall place upon the official ballots of the various political parties at the direct primaries preceding the election of a senator in the congress of the United States by the legislature of Massachusetts the names of all candidates for senator in the congress of the United States who have been nominated in the manner now or which may hereafter be provided by law for the nomination of candidates to be voted for at a primary for offices to be filled by all the voters of the commonwealth.

The New Way
The Old Way

The new way to cook is to turn on a little switch, apply a match and get a strong, hot, blue flame of gas that will cook anything for you. No fuss or bother, no coal or wood to carry, no overheated kitchen, no dirt—and the meal always on time. But with the old coal or wood stove—well, we hate to tell you. There is no comparison.

AT BREWERS CORNER

The Mairoda Ruby.

Marshall Third stretched out a slim hand across the chessboard.

"You will forgive me remaining seated, Lady Borrodaile. I am, as you see, an invalid."

Lady Borrodaile, a pretty, well-dressed woman of five-and-thirty, took the proffered hand and discreetly veiled the astonishment she could not help feeling that this man of whom she had heard such wonderful things should be helpless and a cripple.

"You got my note asking for an appointment?" she asked. "I know your time is valuable, but the fact is, my jewels, about $30,000 worth have been stolen and Sir Francis Ramon, whom I think you know, advised me to come straight to you and waste no time."

The Vigilant sat upright.

"Thirty thousand pounds! That's a very large sum. When did you first miss them? Perhaps you had better tell me the story in your own way," he added hastily.

"My husband and I live at Duncroft, a few miles from Hertford," began Lady Borrodaile. "It is a two-story house, standing in about four acres of ground. The main road passes the drive gates in front. At the back and sides of the garden are grazing grounds and farm land. We live very quietly when we are there, and only keep five indoor servants, all of whom have been with us for at least seven or eight years. My jewels are kept in a case—a red morocco box, with trays and compartments. The case measures, roughly, twenty inches long by half as much across and in depth. This case is always locked, and I myself keep the key on a gold chain round my neck—here it is. The case stands on my dressing table to the right of the window. I sketch a little, by the way—and have brought you a drawing of the house. I thought it might be of use. There, you see those two windows marked with a cross, those are in my room.

"In the country I wear little or no jewelry. The last occasion on which I used that in the case was at a ball in town over a month ago. I replaced them myself the next day and locked the case. Since then I never touched it till yesterday morning, when I thought I would take out a tiara which needed resetting. I tried the key, which would not turn, and becoming alarmed, I got my husband to force open the lid. Not only were the jewels not there, but the case, which was identical with mine outside, was not my case at all: yet on the outside it had my monogram, and was exactly the same even down to a deep scratch in the left-hand corner." x

"Have you it with you?"

"Yes."

Third just glanced at it, and put it down on the table.

"Did you replace the jewels in town or when you got home?"

"Not till I got home. I only used a portion of them—those I carried in separate cases in my dressing bag. I returned on the 28th, the day after the ball, and locked them up some time that evening."

"That leaves a period of thirty-two days in which the robbery might have been effected." He placed the case before him, and examined it carefully with a glass. "This was made in Paris, I see, and for such an expensive article it is easy to see that it has been made in a hurry, the lining is very roughly finished, and some of the leather work is bad. It has been made quite recently, too. The signs of wear on the outside and on edges are purely artificial, yet well enough done to deceive a casual observer. The monogram die was, of course, cut from a tracing of your own—all of which means that the robbery had been planned and settled on at least five days before it was carried out, probably longer. Where was the ball to which you went on that last occasion of wearing your jewels?"

"At Mrs. Endover's, in Carleton House Terrace."

Marshall Third's pupils contracted to a pinpoint, as they always did when he was thinking hard and quickly.

"Among your jewels, if my memory serves me aright, there was a ruby known as the Mairoda ruby—a stone with a strange history?"

Lady Borrodaile nodded.

"Yes, that is so, though how you knew I—the fact is very few people know of its existence. It has a tragic story connected with it, and my husband has asked me not to speak of it to my friends— not to talk about it at all, in fact—and I hardly ever wear it."

Marshall Third moved a chessman thoughtfully across the board in a long diagonal.

"I remember seeing it mentioned in the papers at the time of your marriage, twelve years ago. You wore it at Mrs. Endover's that night?"

The question was rapped out sharply.

Lady Borrodaile looked a trifle confused.

"Yes, as a matter of fact, I did. It's—well, it went so well with my dress. I though it a pity not to. I've only worn it half a dozen times since it came into my possession."

The Vigilant's eyes gleamed.

"You will not wear it again," he snapped. "Your other jewels, yes; the Mairoda ruby, no. Ten days ago there was a small paragraph in the papers giving an account of a motor accident at the gates of your country house?"

"Yes, that is so. My husband was driving. We had just passed the lodge—there is a sharp, a dangerously sharp turn, coming out of the drive onto the main road Luckily we always make a rule of going slow here. Just as we got onto the road a cyclist coming in the opposite direction dashed into us before we could stop. We took him straight to the house, of course, and had him taken up to bed. We were afraid of internal injuries, for, barring a scratch or two and a cut knee, there was little to see, and my husband drove straight off to Hertford for a doctor.

"The poor fellow seemed in considerable pain, and the doctor could not discover the seat of the injury. He remained there in bed for a couple of days, and then, at his own request, he was moved into the hospital. He left, as a matter of fact, four days ago."

"The papers spoke of the cyclist as a student at Markham's Hill College," said the Vigilant, "which is, as you may know, a civil-service college, where they train, among others, the sons of Indians, Siamese and other potentates. This particular young man was a Siamese, according to their account."

"So he told my husband."

"That letter that he wrote to his friend contained an exact description of the outside of your jewel case. I have no doubt that he succeeded in getting a tracing, which was also sent in the letter.

"Now, to go back to the Mairoda stone. As far back as its history can be traced, it has been the cause of countless murders. It first comes to light in the hands of a Chinese mandarin. He was strangled, and years after the stone appears in Russia in the dagger hilt of a certain Duke Vlodimir, who also died a violent death, and so on through a period of 400 years— roughly, until your husband's grandfather won it at the gaming tables at Crockford's. Shortly afterward an attempt was made to assassinate him; it was unsuccessful, and since that time its history had been uneventful.

"Now I will read you one or two short extracts. Kioto!"

Third pointed to the bookshelves, and gave an order in a low voice.

The small Jap, soft-footed, laid some volumes on the table at his elbow. The Vigilant picked up the first.

"This is an exhaustive work on fire-worship. Toward the end we find this:

"'Notice must also be made of the Gaewaks, an almost extinct tribe of northern Siam, who in long past ages worshipped not fire, but a gigantic red jewel, probably a ruby of great size and value, which was supposed to have buried in its heart, liquid fire from the sun, so tradition runs; and, though it vanished, or was stolen, many centuries ago, there still exists a temple and a sect of priests of this peculiar worship at a little known place far up in the hills called, Meyrod, or by others Mairo.'

"Do you know who wrote those words? Mr. Endover, your host at the ball that night on which you wore the stone, and one of the greatest living authorities on Siam and its folklore and religions. He has spent, first and last, nearly ten years of his life there. When you mentioned his name just now I recalled the fact, and with it another that in an account in the Morning Post it mentioned that there were several princelings from northern Siam present.

"The case now becomes obvious; one of those bejeweled princes from the north saw your ruby and recognized it."

Lady Barrodalle started.

"You're right, quite right. One of them—I shouldn't know his name or be able to pronounce it if I did—asked to be introduced to me, and through his interpreter asked me all sorts of questions about English country life, and how we spend our time."

"Quite so. He found out what he wanted, and waited his chance as only an Oriental can wait. Finally, despairing of getting a glimpse of your jewel case, he or one of his dependents arranged with the cyclist, who was also a Siamese, for that little scene of the accident, which enabled them to duplicate the case."

"But why—why not have broken it open?"

"If only that one stone has been taken they would inevitably narrow the field of inquiry; by taking all, not only did they make it seem a commonplace robbery, but having found that you rarely opened your jewel case, they gained days, and but for your wanting a jewel reset would have gained weeks in which to get their Mairoda stone safely away.

"The cyclist, entering the hospital empty handed and helpless, would naturally be beyond suspicion. Meanwhile, the duplicate having been made the real thief, the prime mover, waited his chance and effected the substitution—it would take a moment or two at most, when his plans were complete."

"But what shall I do? What can I do? What can I do?" asked Lady Borrodaile.

"The one thing you must not do, if you value your life, and I speak in all seriousness, is to attempt to recover that stone. It is undoubtedly possible to do so, though difficult. It is probably by now well on the way to Siam. Should you send any one in pursuit they would inevitably lose their life before they so much as get a glimpse of the stone, and you, as the instigator of the pursuit, would probably share his fate. Take my advice, go away somewhere, take your dogs and your servants with you, and leave the house unguarded. If you do, you will get your other jewels back within the week. Mind you, these men have not stolen anything for its intrinsic value. They have merely, in their idea, rescued a precious and sacred relic from the hands of an infidel and an unbeliever."

Ten days later the Vigilant received a note from Lady Borrodaile.

"You were right. I returned to Duncroft yesterday. The case has been returned intact, with a duplicate key in gold. I found it in the lock. The ruby has gone, but in its place were three magnificent unset diamonds. I send you one as a token of my thanks and my admiration of your skill."—London Answers.

REFERRED TO COUNCIL

Cusumano and Mascioli Petitions Placed by Governor Foss

Boston, May 28.—Governor Foss will refer to the executive council the petitions of Lena Cusumano and Enrico Mascioli for a commutation of their sentences of death for the murder of Frank Cusumano.

The two petitions for clemency will be brought before the regular meeting of the council this afternoon.

HOT FOR THE COAL TRUST

When Federal Inquiry Begins to Probe Same

New York, May 28.—The announcement that the United states attorney of Philadelphia, acting under instructions of the department of justice in Washington, had been instructed to begin an investigation of the arbitrary advance in the price of anthracite coal, caused much comment in coal and industrial circles in this city. This action on the part of the department of justice followed the exposure a few days ago of the enormous revenue to be derived by the coal operators under the guise of obtaining sufficient revenue with which to pay the 10 percent increase of wages to the miners agreed to by the operators a week ago.

Numerous complaints have been filed with the department of justice against the alleged anthracite trust and its arbitrary methods. It is contended by the complainants that the acts complained of are in violation of the interstate commerce act and therefore brings them under the jurisdiction of the federal authorities.

Agents of the United States secret service already are in the field gathering evidence upon which the federal government is expected to act when the investigation comes to a close.

DOCKS ARE GUARDED

General Response by Laborers to Appeals to Throw Up Their Work

London, May 28.—Although everything is proceeding with the utmost quietness in the vicinity of the docks the police took precaution to ensure the removal of meat and provisions from steamers which have been tied up as a result of the strike of the riverside laborers, the truck men, and the transport workers. As it was necessary to move large quantities of provisions to replenish the supply after the holiday, large detachments of police reserves were sent to the landing wharves.

By the adoption of many ruses the retail dealers of Covent Garden market and many retail storekeepers secured supplies, some of them conveying the meat and vegetables in cabs from the docks to their shops.

The officials of the Transport Workers' union have not gone beyond the "peaceful picketing" allowed by the law in their endeavors to bring out every man employed in transport work. The men are responding generally to the appeals of their striking comrades to join them and at Covent Garden vegetable market practically all the unionists, who were, however, in the minority, have thrown down their tools.

NOW TALK BOLT IN WASHINGTON

Belief Grows There Will Be a Republican Party Split

DEMOCRATS WILL BE GAINERS

Compromise Candidate Alone Can Save the Party—Hughes Popular but Coy—Fairbanks Willing but Weak—Cummins In Strongest Position—A Safe and Sane Progressive—Senator Borah of Idaho Mentioned

Washington, May 28.—Dark horse talk in the Republican ranks has broken out again. Colonel Roosevelt threatens to bolt if not nominated at Chicago. Many regular Republicans declare that if he captures the nomination a conservative Republican ticket will enter the field. Whichever way you look at the matter a split is threatened that will help the Democrats.

The Republicans fully realize this, and as a result certain prominent members of the party are potential dark horses. Among delegates instructed for President Taft and Mr. Roosevelt, and especially among those instructed for neither, like the New York delegation, there is a strong and growing feeling that political wisdom advises the nomination of some man behind whom all factions may unite.

Of these dark horses Justice Charles E. Hughes of the United States supreme court and Senator Albert B. Cummins of Iowa are most mentioned, but friends of one-time vice president Fairbanks have quietly urged his availability, and Senator La Follette of Wisconsin has many supporters.

Although his mail is heavy with requests that he become a candidate Justice Hughes has returned but one answer: "I am not a candidate; my name must not be used." He is a warm personal friend of President Taft and would do nothing to embarrass his chances of renomination.

Senator Cummins of Iowa is an avowed candidate for the presidency, but has not made a single speech in advocacy of his claims. As one of the twelve Republican senators who voted against the Payne-Aldrich tariff bill he has been unremitting in his efforts to reduce the duties and is now in charge of the progressive metals tariff bill.

He is the recognized leader of the senate insurgents, and his leadership is influential because, unlike Senator La Follette, he is personally agreeable to the regular leaders and more moderate in his acceptance of the practical limitations of legislation. He opposed reciprocity, and this would presumably make him more acceptable to the farmers than either Taft or Roosevelt. No doubt has ever been cast on Senator Cummins' progressivism. It is the boast of his friends that as governor of Iowa Senator Cummins advocated railroad legislation and progressive policies long before Roosevelt ever thought of it.

As a lawyer Senator Cummins gained a wide and varied business experience, which shows in his handling of trust and railroad legislation. He is sound on the question of the judiciary and while disposed to favor Roosevelt as against Taft did not hesitate recently in the senate to denounce the recall.

The Fairbanks strength is negligible and labors under the disadvantage of the obscurity which surrounds all vice president both while in office and afterward. Senator La Follette is generally thought too uncompromising for a compromise candidate. The name of Senator Borah of Idaho often is mentioned. He is a progressive by affiliation, but intolerant of the recall of judges or judicial decisions.

MELROSE HIGH OUTCLASSED

Quincy Added Another to Its String of Victories

BROWN WELL TROUNCED

Steady and effective pitching by McDonald, together with opportune hitting in the sixth inning by his teammates, gained a victory for Quincy high over the Melrose high nine, yesterday afternoon at Merrymount Park, by a score of 7 to 3.

The visitors secured more singles than the Granite City tossers, but they were unable to connect safely when hits meant runs.

The Melrose team was blanked for five innings but managed to do all its tallying in the two succeeding innings while three runs in the third and four in the sixth proved sufficient to allow Quincy High to annex another victory to its long list.

Heartz, who started the game for Melrose, fared well for the first five innings, but when it became suspicious that he was due to get his bumps he was retired in favor of Ross, the star twirler of the Melrose nine. Ross started in well by fanning the first batter who opposed him.

There were two men on bases for Quincy High, and with Ross on the mound, the chances for scoring looked rather dubious. But Brown proved equal to the occasion and landed one of Ross' curved balls, knocking it into the right field hollow for one of the longest home runs ever made by a high school player on the Merrymount diamond. The home team scored three runs in the third, Holmes drew a pass. Blackmur was safe when Peabody dropped his long fly. Barry was hit by a pitched ball. O'Dowd rolled an easy grounder to Holt and Holmes beat the throw to the plate. In an attempt to head off the runner. Holt threw wild and Blackmur also tallied. McDonald hit a long high foul fly to left, which Wentzel caught after a hard run, Barry crossing the plate with the third run.

In the sixth inning Quincy got four runs, Blomquist walked. Mattson tried to bunt, but hit safely over Dieter's head. Ross replaced Heartz in the box, and struck out Little, the first batter to oppose him. Then came Brown's home run.

Holmes singled and stole second. Blackmur singled just over second base, but Holmes was held at third. Wentzel dropped Barry's short fly and Holmes scored. O'Dowd and McDonald were easy outs.

The visitors scored two runs in the sixth. Wentzel led off with a clean hit, only to be doubled at first when Brady popped to Little . ePabody singled and stole second. Holt was hit by a pitched ball. Both advanced Brady popped to Little. Peabody scoring when Holmes pegged the ball into deep centre, while in the act of returning it to the pitcher.

The last run for the Melrose team was made in the seventh when Blomquist hit to right field and circled the bases when Peabody let it roll through his legs. With two down in this inning, Wentzel hit to deep centre for three sacks. Brady drew a pass, but McDonald settled down and retired Peabody on strikes.

McDonald kept the hits well scattered and managed to fan ten. Wentzel's batting and difficult catch of a foul fly were noticeable features of the game. Other features were contributed by Brady, who made a running back hand catch of a line drive and Holmes, whose base running was exceptionally clever.

Little played a brilliant fielding game and handled thrown balls in a masterly way.

Four games remain on the Quincy High schedule. Thayer Academy will be played at South Braintree, May 29, Milton High at Milton, May 31, High School of Commerce at Quincy, June 5, and Brockton High the greatest rival of them all, at Brockton, June 8.

JOHN HANCOCK WALLOPED.

Wollaston school easily defeated the John Hancock nine, 14 to 4 Monday afternoon and by this victory made its hold on first place in the Grammar School league still more secure. Isbester was on the mound for the winners during the greater part of the game and his delivery proved a puzzle to the opposing batters.

In the third inning, Wollaston rolled up eight runs, every player in the lineup going to bat at least once. The game was one sided, yet it was replete with many brilliant plays.

Two double plays, one by Favreau and Johnson and the other by Favreau, Johnson and Isbester were cleverly executed.

The score by innings:—

Innings	1	2	3	4	5	6
Wollaston	2	3	8	0	0	1—14
Hancock	1	0	0	0	3	0—4

Batteries:— Wollaston — Isbester, Cox and Hamlin; John Hancock—Jacobsen and Imray.

CODDINGTON WON.

Timely hitting in the first and third innings gave the Coddington school a 6 to 4 victory over the Cranch nine at Merrymount Park Monday afternoon. Errors figured to a great extent in the defeat of the Cranch players and their work throughout the game was of a listless character.

Hoffses pitched for the winners and was steady at all times. The Cranch school had players on bases in the last two innings, but brilliant fielding by the Coddington boys prevented any scoring.

The score by innings:—

	1	2	3	4	5	6
Coddington	4	0	2	0	0	0—6
Cranch	1	1	1	1	0	0—4

Batteries: — Coddington — Hoffses and Cheveries; Cranch—Bill and Asklund.

WOLLASTON IN FIRST PLACE.

While the Wollaston boys feel confident, now that they are in first place, in the Grammar School League of winning the championship, the question will not be definitely settled until next Friday. On that day Wollaston crosses bats with the Adams nine. In their last meeting the game was called in the third inning, with Wollaston in the lead 1 to 0 on account of rain.

The Adams boys have been practising hard the past week and no stone has been left unturned in order that Adams may make Wollaston suffer its second defeat of the season.

If Wollaston wins, then the championship for the season will be settled, but a victory for Adams will mean that Adams, Wollaston, Gridley Bryant and Lincoln will be tied for first place honors.

The game is being eagerly awaited by hundreds of pupils and a record breaking crowd will surely be in attendance at Merrymount Park when play is called Friday afternoon at 4 o'clock.

MEMORIAL DAY GAMES.

University A. A. of Cambridge and the Mansfield town team will be the double attraction at the Ward Three playgrounds Decoration day. With a clean record of four victories and no defeats, the Orient A. A. will try their utmost to emerge a winner in both games of the double bill. The morning game will start at 10:30 with the University A. A. as the attraction and from the form shown by both teams a pitcher's battle is looked for. The Colonials of this city were forced to lower their colors to the University club and consequently a win for the Orients will boost their championship stock considerably.

In the afternoon at 3 o'clock the Mansfield team will endeavor to pin a defeat onto the Orients. They have one of the best teams in the South shore and come to this city with a splendid record. Bradley the clever Southpaw will endeavor to send them home a much more wiser team than on their arrival. Ciardi who has been putting up a fact game behind the bat will again be on the receiving end.

SURPRISED WITH LINEN SHOWER

Miss Mary E. Thompson Well Remembered by Many Friends

VERY PLEASANT GATHERING

The many friends of Miss Mary E. Thompson greatly surprised her on Friday evening by calling at her home and presenting with a great shower of linen. After she recovered from her surprise a very pleasant evening was spent. Refreshments were served and at a late hour the guests departed wishing their hostess great success in her new walk of life.

MORE MESSAGES EXPECTED

General Court Will Probably Hold Through Next Week

Boston, May 28.—Prorogation Wednesday does not seem so probable as some hoped it would last week. George M. Harlow, assistant secretary to Governor Foss, is not at all optimistic over the outlook.

"Governor, are you going to let us go home Wednesday night?" asked a state house reporter, as he approached the governor in the state house corridors.

"Not on your life," was the quick reply given by his excellency, with an expansive smile.

"Are you going to send any messages?"

"Yes," replied the governor, "and there is lots of buisness yet to be attended to," as he hurried into his office to attend to some of it.

Governor Foss is reported to have expressed his belief that prorogation would not be reached until a week from Saturday.

Governor Foss' latest plan, according to an afternoon rumor, is to send in a message advocating two more members of the board of railroad commissioners, by thus increasing their powers, and giving to them the regulation of telephones and telegraphs, now vested in the highway commission. He would leave the board of gas and electric light commissioners as now, but would give it the power over water companies, now held by the state board of health.

GRADUATES PASSED UNDER ARCH FORMED BY SCHOOL FELLOWS

Dignified Seniors of Quincy Mansion in Cap and Gown Reverenced by Others

Class Gives Splendid Presentation of Shakespeare's "As You Like It."

Class day exercises at the Quincy Mansion school took place Tuesday afternoon. The first part of the program was given in Livermore hall.

At 2 o'clock in marched the pupils singing the school song, and as the dignified Seniors in caps and gowns marched forward upraised hands formed an archway through which they passed to the platform. The class of 1912 number fourteen graduates.

The Class will by Miss Doble was a well executed document. It was bright and clever and caused many smiles among the pupils, as she read the bequeathing of the class spirit, Miss Levy's aspirations for historic art, Miss Hamilton, love for study Miss Crankshaw, heavy schedule, Miss Longley's powerful vocal organs, Miss Sanborn's artistic ability, Miss Stone's prowess on the tennis court, Miss Richards wonderful executive ability. Miss Perry's regular morning leter, Miss Drinker's marvelous self-poise and conversational French, Miss Arnold's quiet and unexcitable nature, Miss Lawton's alarm clock, Miss Hutchinson's dignity, and Miss Weil's unlimited supply of conservation, to the undergraduates.

The Class prophecy by Miss Lawton the vice president told of her telephone conversation with Miss Pitts who informed her that the class president, Miss Richards was very busy doing the society act, Miss Hamilton after leaving Vassar went to China as a missionary, Miss Sanborn was greatly interested in Woman's Suffrage, Miss Hutchinson was married and settled in Haverhill, Miss Weil after going through Wellesley was a teacher in the South, Miss Perry after returning from Europe had married and was fond of dressing her children in Yale blue, Miss Crankshaw had developed into a wonderful piano player, Miss Doble had married and was living way down in San Antonio, Miss Drinker, the secretary, after leaving Simmons had a large class in domestic science in Weymouth. Miss Arnold graduated from the Conservatory in Boston and now teaches music, Miss Stone now held a very responsible position in a large library in Vermont. Miss Levy was now a prima donna in one of the greatest grand operas of the day, Miss Longley was a nurse and soon to become the matron of a large hospital in the West.

After singing the Class song, all adjourned to the spacious lawn where the class planted a blue spruce around which they joined hands and gave their school cheer. The guests were served refreshments on the lawn.

Everything was beautiful, the green velvety turf, the noble old trees, flowers, shrubbery, hedges and groves, skilfully arranged, and with golden

A UNITED PEOPLE JOIN IN PRAISE

Impressive Services at Graves and Monuments Tomorrow

C. H. JOHNSON, ORATOR

Tomorrow the entire nation will join in paying a tribute of loving memory to the brave boys who went forth in '61 in the defence of their country. Their only thought of reward at that time was the consciousness of a duty which called them and a patriotism which could not be denied.

Today more than 50 years after the commencement of that great conflict there are not many survivors. Their ranks are annually growing thinner.

The grim reaper is gathering them in one by one and it will be but a few years when the last of that heroic band will have been gathered to the Father.

While one remains the nation will continue to honor him in a fitting manner and at the same time pay loving tribute to those who have gone before.

In every city and town of this country where a Grand Army post exists and in many places where posts have not been organized but where veterans dwell or where the graves of veterans are located proper measures will be taken to observe this great Memorial day.

In the South, now that the frosts of 50 years have softened the bitter feeling between the North and the South, the grey-haired veterans of the Blue and the Grey will unite in a common service.

Quincy will not be one whit behind other places in paying tribute to those who have gone before and honoring those who still remain.

The services tomorrow will be under the direction of the Paul J. Revere Post, 88, G. A. R., assisted by the several affiliated patriotic organizations.

Col. Abner B. Packard Camp, No. 95, Sons of Veterans will hold services and decorate the graves of its departed comrades.

John A. Boyd Camp, No. 2, United Spanish War Veterans will perform a similar service.

The members of Paul J. Revere Woman's Relief Corps, 103, assisted by the Ladies' Auxiliary to the Sons of Veterans will provide a luncheon for the members of the Grand Army and other organizations in Faxon hall.

Flags will be displayed at half mast all over the city, from sunrise to noon, and at the latter time they will be raised to the mast head and remain there until sundown.

In half masting a flag always raise it to the top of the staff and then lower it to the half mast.

PAUL REVERE POST.

The arrangements of the day for Paul J. Revere Post, No. 88, G. A. R. are as follows:—

The Post will assemble at Headquarters in full uniform at 7 A. M.

Comrade Luther S. Parrott will proceed to Mt. Auburn and decorate the graves of Col. Paul J. Revere and comrade Samuel W. Spear.

Senior Vice Commander Mark E. Hanson, accompanied by the Chaplain of the Day, Rev. William B. Ayers, and two comrades will proceed to the National Sailors Home and decorate the graves there.

Junior Vice Commander Edward Richardson in command of detail and Sons of Veterans will proceed to Mount Wollaston Cemetery and decorate the graves of the Comrades there.

Officer of the Day Warren Dunbar will with a detail of comrades and Sons of Veterans decorate the graves of Soldiers located in Hancock and English cemeteries.

Past Commander Thomas Ring with a detail of comrades and Sons of Veterans will proceed to the Willard and Catholic cemeteries and decorate the graves of comrades there.

WORTHY WORK CONDUCTED BY QUINCY ASSOCIATED CHARITIES

General Secretary Miss Purchase Submits Annual Report for the Year Just Ended

Joining the National Association Increases its Value in the Field

At the May meeting of the Quincy Associated Charities, it was voted to join the National Association of Societies for organizing Charity. This puts the Quincy society in touch with other organized charities and also gives it the advantages of free transportation and charity rates by signing the transportation agreement through the agency of the Russell Sage Foundation.

The number of family problems referred to the office equals the number referred last month. As this report is illuminating as to the need of the Associated Charities' work in Quincy it is here given.

The work in Quincy began on April 1st, and during the month of April we had referred to our Society 22 families which were not already known to us.

Each case has been personally investigated by the Secretary, and in connection with this and other business for the Society, 122 calls have been made, and 74 letters written. The records have been filed and made as complete as possible. There are now names of 83 families on our lists. We have been able to secure 5 new visitors, 2 of whom are intending to make Social work their profession, and are giving considerable time in order to obtain experience in practical work.

The Secretary has been invited to speak before six societies in the City, has told of our work and its needs, and has, as far as possible, improved opportunities to consult with public officials, representatives of Societies, clergymen, etc.

We already have the beginning of a Conference in the Committee which meets every Wednesday afternoon at 3.30 P. M., to discuss family problems. These Committee meetings have been well attended by those interested in especial families.

As Executive Committee has been appointed, which meets the second Tuesday of each month, to approve bills and discuss important matters of business and the work of the Society.

There have been donations of clothing from Mrs. Elizabeth H. Baxter, Miss Lucy Hallowell, Mrs. Theophilus King, Mrs. W. B. Nichols and Mrs. Francis Abele, Jr., who also gave a directory and maps.

Mr. Rufus B. Tobey who generously contributed a typewriter has also sent a desk, for the office.

There is still need of a small table for the typewriter and chairs for office work. Money for special relief has been given by the Katharyn Crane Memorial club, $5 to pay car fares for children who need hospital treatment, and $5 by the Wollaston Congregational Ladies' Benevolent society for the immediate relief of needy families. The willing co-operation of societies and individuals is an especially hopeful feature and that we have in our general secretary a person of rare tact and ability is shown as the work develops. All this goes to prove that the action of the Board of Directors of the Associated Charities of Boston passing a vote of thanks, "for the splendid service rendered this society in drawing the Social workers of Dorchester closer together and in many other ways forwarding the work of the society" is well deserved.

HONESTY IN EVERYTHING

EDITORIAL COMMENT.

The legislators' plans for an early adjournment are completely upset by the determination of Governor Foss that they shall earn that increase in salary.

Another probe of the coal situation is promised, which of course means a chance for another advance in the price. Probes instead of reducing prices, seem to send them shooting skyward.

President Mellen of the New Haven road has some harsh things to say about those men who sit in an office and criticize conditions that prevail hundreds of miles away. Unfortunately there is much truth in his charges.

The Port of Boston directors appear to be a busy body, but the greater part of their activities at present seem to be in entertaining foreign experts and committees and talking to this and that body on a subject, with which they cannot have reached the stage of experts in the short time they have been on the job.

The travelling public is now wondering if the differences between the Boston elevated and the Union men will bring a repetition of the Christmas walking of a few years ago.

Talk about the cost of living. It even costs more to die now-a-days that the stablemen have decided to put up the price of funeral carriages.

New York women credited with reducing the price of butter will now turn their attention to coal. May they be successful but they have a harder proposition.

And now the senate proposes to discuss the Titanic disaster. As they have very little knowledge of it and at present little control of big steamship lines, they might employ the time more profitably by a careful study and suggestions of remedy, than in long-winded speeches to empty benches.

The Chinaman who married the American girl and now waits a divorce is flattering the women of his own country.

The London board of trade is not very successful in terminating the last dock strike.

Lorimer has been advised to resign. That would look better than being voted out of the United States senate.

Maynor Gaynor of New York has complimened his police force on their powers of discrimination in not making needless arrests. Police of other places might well follow their example.

Think of it the Mississippi spreading death and disaster along its trail, yet a battleship grounded in its mouth. Possibly the Father of Waters wanted the iron monster for prey also.

SHALL UNCLE SAM INTERVENE?

People who have risked their money in Cuban enterprises naturally feel indignant as they view their smoking cane fields. That starting a revolution is merely the Cuban way of adding spice to a summer vacation outing, does not make it look any better.

Before our government decides to take a hand down there again, our statesmen should consider how very easy it is to organize an uprising in Cuba.

Take a man who is fond of adventure and politics, but who has been unable to secure for himself a seat in the Cuban legislative body as a means of expressing his political opinions. The natural thing for him is to appoint himself a general, gather a few score loafers, place bombs judiciously in a few factories, demand bread and bacon from the American manufacturers and Cuban planters, tear up a mile of railroad track, etc.

As all the representatives of American capital in Cuba are actively hoping or working all the time for annexation, such an incident soon acquires international significance. It really has no more connection with the temper of the Cuban people as a whole, than the views of our people are voiced by the orator who proclaims the triumph of anarchy from a soap box in our public square.

Our government of course has serious responsibilities in Cuba. It is entirely possible that eventually we shall have to annex the island, to keep European governments from taking possession of its custom houses and police. But the question how far we shall go to protect capital invested by Americans in industrial enterprises down there is a serious one.

More money can be made in all these rough countries than can be made at home, provided the government can be made stable. If we take over Cuba to enable our capitalists to earn 50 per cent annually in peace and quiet, why not Mexico and half South and Central America?

From our standpoint Cuban government may seem unsettled. But the Cubans have maintained and improved the sanitary work we started there under General Wood, banishing yellow fever, and they do a foreign commerce worth $250,000,000 annually. Some government, after all!

BEAM TRAWLERS.

The Congressional committee on Merchant and Marine affairs, are hearing evidence relative to the use of beam trawlers in the pursuit of the fisheries by Massachusetts men. Mayor John F. Fitzgerald of Boston is one of the committee to present the protest against this kind of fishing, on behalf of the Boston fishermen. Fortunately from other places there are practical fishermen who are engaged upon the same errand.

Otherwise it is doubtful if the views of Boston fishermen on the subject could be intelligently presented to the committee. Mayor Fitzgerald is willing to butt into anything from taking hurdle to the senatorial race, but when sent to represent fishermen and present their views and tell legislators what legislation is necessary to preserve this ancient New England industry than his presence is in the nature of a joke.

WHO WILL PRESIDE?

Senator Elihu Root of New York is not acceptable to the Roosevelt forces as temporary chairman of the Chicago convention. It is claimed that they support Senator Clapp for the post. While the temporary chairman may be chosen outside the delegation, the permanent chairman must be an accredited member of the convention.

Be this as it may, the temporary chairman of such a convention as this promises to be, has his work cut out for him at the start. The choice of Senator Clapp by the Roosevelt forces is considered an adroit move. When in Washington Senator Clapp works and votes with LaFollette and Cummings. It is pointed out that this effort to honor a friend of those candidates, neither one of whom has a chance of the nomination, but have votes pledged to them which might be handy to either candidate, is a clever move to have those votes swing to Roosevelt after the delegates have performed their obligations to the men for whom they were elected.

The question is will it work. To be consistent, LaFollette can never consent to his delegates voting for either Taft or Roosevelt and in case they bow to his will it may mean a dark horse after all as the Republican standard bearer.

FOSS IN VERMONT.

Governor Foss promises himself a vacation towards the latter part of August, but in his usual nnergetic manner instead of hastening to his country seat, or to the seashore or engage in any kind of pastime he proposes to plunge into the Vermont political campaign. He plans to tour the state in the interests of tariff reform.

Vermont electrions are to be held in September. As a native son and governor of an adjoining state the views of Governor Foss will undoubtedly have some weight. It has been the history of Vermont, that when a rank outsider goes into the state and attempts to tell the people how they should vote, they have tolerated him, listened to his arguments, permitting him to depart in peace and they have gone on voting the same old way. In this particular instance it may be different.

For some time there have been evidences of revolt among the Vermont people as to the "Divine Right," of the so called leaders of both parties to direct their destinies. Possibly it would be as well if the people awoke to the fact that they have something to say in the government of the country broke away from customs and devotion to the bosses and exercised a little of their own grey matter in the candidates they voted for and the issues they desired.

sunshine all added to the environment for the scene in the forest of Arden, for Shakespeare's "As you like it." The whole play was characterized by simplicity and graceful unconsciousness on the part of the actors, the two dukes, Duke Senior and Duke Frederick played by Miss Hutchinson and Miss Hamilton respectively were dignified and effective. The melancholy Jacques was exceedingly well played by Miss Drinker. Miss Richards made a very handsome and manly Orlando and her spirited acting won her much applause. Miss Lawton gave a very clever impersonation of Touchstone, a faithful servant devoted to Celia. Miss Longley as Amiens added much to the effectiveness of the play by her charming singing. Adam by Miss Doble, Corin by Miss Weil and Silvius by Miss Stone were all simple and artistic interpretations. Miss Perry and Miss Crankshaw were fully equal to the demands made upon them in the parts of Oliver and Jacques de Bois.

The William of Miss Mills was a fine piece of comedy acting and the scenes in which she appeared with Touchstone and Audrey proved a most amusing one to the audience.

Miss Levy as Rosalind was dignified, graceful and charming and acted with great intelligence as did Miss Sanborn as Celia whose dark beauty made her a striking foil to the blond Rosalind.

Miss Arnold made a very pretty Phebe while Miss Briggs made an attractive Audrey..

Misses Ellsworth, Sheffield, Faxon and Hayden added much to the stage picture as the Lords in attendance on the banished Duke.

The play was handsomely costumed and the participants showed that they had intelligently studied their parts under the careful and excellent training of Miss Lena M. Sibley, teacher of English at the school who selected the play and players and rehearsed it. Miss Sibley had the assistance of Mrs. Herbert J. Gurney as coach.

The cast was as follows:

Duke, living in banishment — Helen Hutchinson
Frederick, his brother and usurper of his dominions — Helen Hamilton
Amiens — Christine Longley
Jacques — Rachel Drinker
Lords attending upon banished Duke
Oliver — Lucretia Perry
Jacques — Alma Crankshaw
Orlando — Loraine Richards
(sons of Sir Rowland de Bois)
Adam, servant to Orlando — Clarice Doble
Touchstone, a clown — Evelyn Lawton
Corin — Helen Weil
Silvius — Edith Stone
(Shepherds)
William, a country fellow in love with Audrey — Dorothy Mills
Rosalind, daughter to the banished Duke — Inez Levy
Celia, daughter to Frederick — Alice Sanborn
Pheobe, a Shepherdess — Florence Arnold
Audrey, a country wench — Priscilla Briggs
Lords—Elizabeth Ellsworth, Mary Sheffield, Mary Faxon, Caroline Hayden.

QUINCY COUNCIL MAKES PROGRESS

Third Degree Will be Worked by Knights of Columbus

SECOND IN SIX MONTHS

For the second time within six months, the third degree, will be exemplified on candidates of the order in St. Mary's hall, West Quincy, this evening, under the auspices of Quincy Council, No. 96, Knights of Columbus. Usually a council is allowed to conduct the third degree once every two years. Rarely does it happen that a council holds a third degree exemplification more than once a year and that Quincy Council is able to hold two within a year, attests sufficiently to the rapid strides that have been made under he guidance of Grand Knight Edward D. Barrett.

A large number of candidates will be present, many of whom, in addition to Quincy candidates, will come from Dorchester, Milton, South Boston, Braintree and Weymouth District Deputy Charles J. Brady and suite will work the degree on the candidates.

WHIST AND DANCE BY A.O.H. LADIES

Division 5, A. O. H., held a whist party and dance in Hibernian hall, Tuesday evening. The first part of the evening was devoted to the whist and a number of tables were in play.

The gentlemen's prizes were won by John McVey and Joseph Dunlevey, while the ladies' prizes went to Miss Abbie Sullivan and Miss Mary Costello. Souvenirs were won by Joseph Capaferri and Miss Agnes Colligan. Refreshments were served at the close of the whist.

Dancing began at ten o'clock and music was furnished by Fay's orchestra. The committee in charge comprise, Thomas Welsh, James M. Cantfill, Patrick J. Ferguson, Daniel Mannix and Thomas J. Cotter.

BIRD PROTECTION.

The conservation department of the Federation of Women's clubs has issued the following bulletin on the conservation of birds:—

"Why they should be conserved: Because (1) they protect the trees from insects; (2) they protect the crops from insects; (3) they destroy insects which spread disease (like malaria, typhoid, yellow fever, etc.); (4) they est quantities of noxious weed seeds; (5) many birds act as scavengers; (6) many birds of prey live mainly on field mice, other mice, rats, and other rodent pests; (7) their song and beauty add to the pleasure of man; (8) of their educational value to young people, who acquire a quickness of perception through their study.

"How to protect the birds; Protect insectivorous birds by prohibiting aliens and small boys from using firearms, air guns, and sling-shots; by imposing a penalty for setting horsehair traps in trees to snare them (greatly practiced by aliens); by encouraging the study of bird life; by feeding them in winter; by establishing 'bird sanctuaries' or reservations. Protect game birds by prohibiting spring shooting of all game birds, shore birds, and wild fowl; by prohibiting the sale of all wild game birds; by prohibiting shooting of those that are in greatest danger of extinction (as the wood duck and inland plover) at all seasons for a period of years; by raising as many as possible on the preserves and in a semi-domestic state for the market, and establishing a system of tagging that may distinguish them from wild game birds. Protect all birds by prohibiting the sale of plumage."

FINE CONCERT TO AID HOSPITAL

Galaxy of Artistic Vocalists and Instrumentalists

PLEASED FAIR AUDIENCE

A very fine concert was given at Alpha hall Tuesday evening under the direction of Miss Carrie Follett Spear in aid of the Hospital Aid society. Assisting were Miss Ernestine Litchfield, contralto, Mrs. James E. Neary, guitar soloist, Miss Marion Moorhouse, 'cellist, Miss Angelina McCarthy, contralto, Mr. and Mrs. Herbert Y. Follett and the following chorus. Mrs. Titus, Misses Cahill, Carruthers, Crane Flieger, Olsen, Peterson, Thomas and Wilbas. Messrs. Adrien, Allen, Bullock, Carter, Luce, Pollard, Tourtelet, Townsend and Wrigley.

The program, a lengthy one, opened with a chorus, "Hey Lassies, Hark," followed by Miss Litchfield who gave a group of flower songs, "The Fox Glove and "The Columbine" and by a guitar solo by Mrs. Neary. Part one closed with a cantata for women's voices "The Lady of Shalott" with Mrs. Slade Mrs. Hill, Miss Allen and Miss Hardy as soloists and with Miss Olive Allen as accompanist.

Part two opened with "Meditation" from Thais by Miss Moorhouse, followed by a chorus of mixed voices who gave "Forest Ramble" and "Spring joy."

Other number included a contralto solo by Miss McCarthy, a duet by Mr. and Mrs. Follett who gave "The passage Birds' Farewell" and "Barcaroll" chorus by the choir, "Over the hills at break of day." Cello solo by Miss Moorhouse, "Tarantella" a" Fairy lullaby" by Miss Spear accompanied by Mrs. Neary on the guitar. The program closed with a "Song of Liberty" by the chorus.

The instrumental solos were finely rendered the soloists giving a superior rendition of their numbers. Both Miss Litchfield and Miss McCarthy have sympathetic voices and their numbers were greatly enjoyed as was also the solo by Miss Spear.

The chorus was a particularly strong one and the manner in which they rendered their numbers showed much careful training.

The audience while not as large as a concert of this nature deserved, was an appreciative one and accorded the artists well deserved applause.

The ushers were William Edwards, Jr., Frederick Atwood, Chester Bennett, Richard Crane, Andrew Deane, Todd Elwell, Raymond Hall, Herbert Johnson, Abbot Johnson, Allan Miller and William Roche.

PAINT CLEARED OF FIRE CHARGE

Blaze Started in Another Section of the Building

LOSS BY SMOKE LIGHT

The alarm from Box 74 at 6.40 Tuesday evening was for a fire in the basement of the house of Edward R. Blanchard at 380 Washington street. The cause of the fire is somewhat puzzling. Painters were at work painting the house and all of their paint pots were in the basement. The fire however started in a corner far removed from where the paint pots were. The fire was not a large one but made considerable smoke which penetrated the entire house. The loss will be entirely by smoke, will not be heavy and is covered by insurance.

MILLIONAIRE REBEL SHOT

Federal Troops Execute Him With Another Prisoner

Mazatlan, Mex., May 29.—Consternation reigned here when it became known that Robert Almada, millionaire member of one of the leading families of Sinaoloa, had been secretly executed for treason by the federals.

Another prisoner was executed by the firing squad of twelve at the same time.

Almada was a leader of rebels when Culican was taken. A month ago he sued for a pardon, and, believing that it was granted, came to Mazatlan ten days ago, was arrested, tried and found guilty of treason.

MILLIONS FOR GOOD ROADS

Spokane Plans to Build Three Trunk Lines to the Pacific

1,000 MILES HIGHWAY

Spokane, Wash., May 29.—Ten million dollars will be expended in this state in completing three trunk lines of a total length of 1,000 miles under the direction of the Washington Good Roads association if the recommendations of executive committee, headed by Frank W. Guilbert, are adopted by the Legislature at its session next January. Following favorable legislative action upon its program the association will support a bond issue for other road improvements. The work is to be undertaken in 1913 and includes:—

Sunset highway—From the Idaho state line at the eastern terminus of the Apple Way, to Puget Sound, 400 miles.

Inland Empire highway—From Spokane to Rosalia, to the junction at Ellensburg with the Sunset highway, 250 miles.

Pacific highway—From Blaine to Vancouver, 350 miles.

Use will be made of existing roads in the building of the three main arteries and all roads will start from trade centers or at the termini of graded roads which begin at such centers.

SPITTING BAD FOR HEALTH

Causes 95 Per Cent of the Consumption of Country

"Ninety-five per cent of our consumption," says the North Carolina State Board of Health, "comes from careless spitting, coughing and sneezing," particularly on the part of the consumptive, but also from people who are apparently healthy. "Spit is frequently laden with deadly disease germs, particularly that of consumptives.

"When one coughs, spits, or sneezes, a great multitude of tiny drops of spittle are violently expelled from the mouth and nose. The largest of these drops can be readily seen. A large number of smaller droplets can be found if a mirror or piece of glass is held before the face when coughing or sneezing. A tremendous quantity of still smaller droplets are discharged in the form of an invisible spray or mist, which floats about on the air for some time. Scientists have found that when a man coughs, spits, or sneezes in a large hall or room where the air is quiet, these tiny invisible germ-laden droplets will float in the air for a distance of 25 to 100 feet. These tiny droplets, in the form of mist or spray, may be breathed in by other people, or they may settle on objects with which they come into intimate contact, such as food and clothing. Viewed in this light, such conduct is at least impolite. Furthermore, it is dangerous to the public at large to have careless people actually coughing, sneezing and spitting germ-laden matter into their faces, even if it is invisible and in the form of fine mist."

EXPERTS TO PLAY AFTER WORK

After the Recreation congress at Cleveland, Ohio, June 5th-8th, several days have been set aside for the delegates themselves to play. Goodrich House, Cleveland, has arranged for its summer camp, which is on Lake Erie and has an excellent bathing beach, to be the playground for the delegates. College presidents, state superintendents of schools, mayors, will all play together. The women will also have a part of the playground set aside for them, though some of the sports will be shared in common.

FINE PROGRAM FOR SUMMER

Northfield Conference to be Exceptionally Interesting

SPORTS AS WELL AS PRAYER

The Northfield summer program, which has just been made public, indicates that the thirtieth session will be as popular as any previous one. W. R. Moody, who presides at the conferences and also directs the two Northfield schools, has arranged for speakers from ten states and five foreign countries; representatives of nearly every evangelical denomination will speak or attend as delegates. In addition to six different conferences a special Bible class will continue daily from July through September, taught by Rev. F. B. Meyer, of London, Prof. Charles R. Erdman, of Princeton, Dr. James A. Francis, of Boston, and Dr. G. A. Johnston Ross, of Montreal.

A special feature of the college men's conference, June 21 to 30, will be the meetings for theological students, addressed by Drs. John R. Mott, Robert E. Speer, G. Glenn Atkins, and D. S. Cairns of Edinburgh University. A number of Chinese students are also expected, and for the first time Northfield may hear sermons preached in a foreign tongue.

During July the Women's conferences will assemble, and men will be tabooed, except at the school for Sunday School Workers, which is co-educational. Young women from private schools will learn about Social Service work; a few days later their mothers, perhaps, will be here studying home or foreign missions. Among the speakers will be Drs. Cornelius Patton, John McDowell, I. G. Headland, Mrs. Helen Barrett Montgomery and Miss Margaret Slattery.

The August conference, second to eighteenth, will be open to everyone, and special meetings will be held for ministers, laymen, women, and children; sessions, sports will occupy most of the afternoons, and all the delegates, ministers, college men and young women, will take part in the baseball, tennis, and track games.

Opium Traffic Not Desired

London, May 29.—The Pekin correspondent of the Daily Telegraph says that a stringent anti-opium bill is now before the advisory council. It aims at the total suppression of the traffic before Dec. 31.

Dastardly Acid Outrage

Pawtucket, R. I., May 29.—Angelo Kapelisos was made blind and George, his brother, was badly burned by an unknown acid thrower. Someone reached through the window, it is believed, and threw acid in the faces of the sleeping men.

The New Way The Old Way

The new way to cook is to turn on a little switch, apply a match and get a strong, hot, blue flame of gas that will cook anything for you. No fuss or bother, no coal or wood to carry, no overheated kitchen, no dirt--and the meal always on time. But with the old coal or wood stove—well, we hate to tell you. There is no comparison.

U. S. MARINES HAVE LANDED

Are Now Encamped In Bay of Guantanamo

TO BE WAR OF EXTERMINATION

American Troops Will Be Used at Any Time Needed—Cuba's Consent Will Not Be Asked—Cuba Anxious to Avoid Intervention — Insurgents Have Destroyed Much Cane—Cuba Has 5000 Men at the Front

Santiago, May 29.—A body of insurgents burned 8000 tons of sugar cane, many cars and other property on the plantation of Marco Sanchez in the vicinity of Guantanamo, belonging to the American Fidelity company.

Quiet prevails in Guantanamo, where lives and property are considered safe. Many people from the surrounding country, however, are taking refuge here owing to lack of government protection in the outlying districts.

Havana, May 29.—The Cuban government continues to be unsparing in its efforts to rush reinforcements to Oriente province. The new cruiser Cuba has reached Santiago with the commander-in-chief of the army, General Monteagudo, the general staff, and 600 soldiers of all arms aboard. The chartered steamer Julia also sailed with 600 troops, including several companies of coast artillery and a contingent from the Cuban Red Cross. There also entrained for the front 500 mounted men of the rural guard, who probably are the most useful troops in pursuing the rebels. They are excellently armed and mounted and have been thoroughly trained in American cavalry tactics. These reinforcements will bring up the national troops facing Generals Estenoz and Ivonet to about 5000 regulars, well armed and drilled.

If needful, there is no doubt that the government would be able to recruit a very large number of volunteers. Already 700 volunteers, under command of General Piedra, are ready to proceed to the front. Precautions have been taken to guard against a possible uprising of the negroes in Havana province, but no extraordinary police measures have been considered necessary in the capital.

Washington, May 29.—The United States is prepared to send marines and bluejackets to the interior of Cuba for the protection of American and foreign interests where no Cuban forces are available for that purpose, even though President Gomez should object to such a course. It is emphatically held at the state department that American marine and navy officers are expected to take such measures as become necessary to protect foreign plantations as well as American ones.

Havana, May 29.—It was officially announced at the palace that as soon as General Monteagudo and his force of 2000, now en route to Oriente province, reached their objective a general war of extermination will be begun against the rebellious blacks. Until then the troops in the field will devote their time to guarding the plantations which are threatened.

Caimanera, Cuba, May 29.—The United States naval transport Prairie has arrived here bringing 775 men of the United States marine corps.

BOMBS AS EXHIBITS

Two Men Deported In California, Alleged Members of the I. W. W.

Los Angeles, Cal., May 29.—Deportation of two alleged members of the Industrial Workers of the World; the departure for San Diego of about 200 men all said to be Industrial Workers and the arrival here of Joseph Meyers of the San Diego police force bringing several bombs said to have been prepared as part of a plan to destroy the lives of officials of San Diego were the principal features in the Industrial Workers of the World situation in Los Angeles.

Attorney General Webb said that he told the police authorities of San Diego that if they were incapable of handling the Industrial Workers of the World situation it would be necessary for the state to take charge. The only way for the commonwealth to assume control, he said, was by martial law.

The attorney general made the statement after a disturbance had been caused by M. B. Carson, an Industrial Worker, in attempting to test the "move-on" ordinance by making a public speech. He was approached by a motorcycle office, Carson threw up his hands and asked the officer if he was under arrest. The officer, it was said, responded: "Get out of here. Get out of town."

Carson started toward the sidewalk. Before he reached it, the officer, it is alleged, struck him in the face and kicked him, causing him to fall. Carson recovered himself and ran down the street. A crowd of citizens and alleged "vigilantes" followed him. Cries of "kill him," lynch him," drown him," were heard.

DEMOCRATS UP A STUMP

Belief Growing No Candidate Certain of Nomination at Baltimore

Washington, May 29.—It seems to be certain that no one will go into the Democratic national convention with a majority of the delegates behind him. In the estimation of political prophets this situation will make the Baltimore convention an open one. This is to say that the representatives of the party will select a presidential candidate after they reach the convention.

A little while ago the supporters of Governor Wilson were confident he would have a majority of delegates committed to him, and the supporters of Speaker Champ Clark were equally confident that their candidate would go into the convention supported by more than a majority of the delegates. The men who are looking after the campaign of these two candidates now admit privately that neither will have a majority. As for the other candidates they will be considerably behind Wilson and Clark. Interest in the pre-convention contest at this minute centres around the question as to whether Wilson or Clark shall lead on the first ballot.

It seems to be true that within the last few weeks most of the Democrats here in public life have become more convinced than ever before that the party, if it is to elect the next president, must name a progressive candidate. This trend of things undoubtedly accounts for the constant mention of W. J. Bryan as the probable candidate. The prevailing view among the Democratic members of congress is that if Governor Wilson is not nominated the nomination is likely to go to Bryan or to someone suggested by him.

FIRE DESTROYS GOODS

Factory and Freight Cars at Millis Burned at a Loss of $75,000

Millis, Mass., May 29.—The boiling over of a vat of hot resin in one of the four buildings comprising the plant of the United Cork and Seal company caused a fire that destroyed a three-story building, five freight cars loaded with finished product, and threatened the entire plant. The loss is said to be $75,000.

The mills have been running night and day of late. The night shift was just about to go off duty when the explosion occurred on the top floor.

CANAL BURSTS FLOODING ANSONIA

Hundreds of Cellars Filled and Great Damage Done

Ansonia, Conn., May 29.—By the bursting of a retaining wall of the Ansonia Land and Power company late yesterday afternoon, the business section of this town was flooded and damage estimated at $150,000 was done. There were five feet of water in the streets, and conditions were growing serious, when workmen were able to close the gates above the canal, shutting of the flow of water.

Hundreds of cellars were flooded and two boilers in factories exploded. No lives have been lost as far as known. The principal damage done was to the factories of the Ansonia Brass and Copper company and the Ansonia Novelty company, whose first floors were flooded. Mercantile firms also suffered heavy losses.

Workmen had been at work repairing the wall at the point where the break occurred.

LEGISLATORS ON LABOR BILL

Three Addressed Local Members of Machinists' Craft

BIG CROWD HEAR THEM

Three Solons from Beacon Hill were numbered among the speakers at the opening meeting of the Quincy Local Amerincan Federation of Machinists held Tuesday evening in Electa hall. They were representatives John Cogswell of Lynn, Joseph Parker of Woburn and Hugh M. McKay of Revere. The meeting was presided over by George Loring and other speakers included Frank Franklin of the I. A. of M. of Salem and Harry Wilson, also of the International Machinists of Lynn.

All of the speakers confined their remarks to different labor measures that were affecting the interests of the working men and those in particular who were affiliated with the machinists' union. The different bills that had come up in the legislature during the past year and which would also come up in the next General court were discussed at length by the representatives. Representative Cogswell who organized the first wage earners' club in this city, spoke of the advantages to be derived from such an organization and urged that the matter be taken up by the Quincy machinists.

The speakers were tendered a rising vote of thanks by the number that taxed the hall to its seating capacity. An entertainment was provided at the close of the addresses and refreshments were served. William Westland assisted at the piano. The representatives were later entertained by ex-representativ William R. Thomas of Quincy.

ANDERSON FAMILY TROUBLES AIRED IN COURT AT HUSBAND'S TRIAL

Stories of the Doctor and His Wife Do Not Agree on Essential Points

Couple Only Married a Short Time in Peck of Trouble

Much interest was centered this morning in the hearing before Judge Avery in the district court in the case of Dr. John H. Anderson, who was charged by his wife with having committed an assault upon her May 22. The case was of unusual interest from the fact that the couple have been married but about two months and this is the second time his wife has hailed him into court, the first time being for non support. On this case he is now paying $3 a week for her support.

The first witness this morning was Mrs. Anderson. She testified that on the evening of the alleged assault she started toward the kitchen to get a few crackers before going to bed. This was about 9.45 and her mother and daughter were with her. He came out of his office and said you must all get out of here by 9 o'clock tomorrow morning as my mother and father are coming to live with me. Witness said that she replied that it would be impossible to get her things together and get a house by that time. She however turned to her mother and said if we must get out in the morning we must begin to get our things together now. She then told of a tapestry hanging to take it down when her husband grabbed her by the shoulder and threw her into the hall where she landed against the umbrella rack injuring her finger nail and ankle as well as being bruised, as she fell upon her knees. As she got up he again grabbed her and threw her out of the front door. She then had one shoe on and one shoe off. She ran to the house of Mr. Furnald shouting for help, and officer Nelson came along and took her back to the house. She had moved her things out the following Saturday and was now living apart from her husband.

On cross examination Mrs. Anderson denied that the trouble started cause of a bill Mr. Shaw had tried to collect for moving the furniture of her mother. That he had told her to get out at 9 o'clock or he would have an officer put her out. That she was lame and sore from the effects of the assault and that she had no tender feeling towards him.

Mrs. Charles Hall, mother of Mrs. Anderson coroborated the testimony of her daughter.

When the defence was called, counsel for Dr. Anderson put on several witnesses to testify as to the truth and veracity of Mrs. Anderson. All examined said that it was bad.

The court at this point however interupted to say that but little weight could be attached to this evidence in a case of his kind, as the question was one of assaulf and not as to the reputation of the plaintiff.

Dr. Anderson then took the stand. He denied striking his wife, and did not throw her out of the door. His version of the story was that he had met Mrs. Hall and told her that he thought that it was best for all concerned that she should move out. That he was now getting things straightened out and he thought there would be no more trouble. Mrs. Anderson then started to "holler" and I took her gently by the shoulder and pushed her out of the room. She then started toward the door and commenced to shout and I then took hold of her and brought her back into the house. He drew her back very gently. He did not know anything of her character until after he had married her.

Since then many persons had told him about her. People would come up to him and pat him on the shoulder and tell him about her.

Mrs. Anderson again taking the witness stand said that she was afraid of her husband. That she was now keeping house and had the doors locked. She thought he was a dangerous man, and either crazy or insane she did not know which. He had told her that his first wife had run away with another man and he got a divorce from her. It was she however who got a divorce from him. ?

Counsel for the defendant then argued the case at length after which the court again continued the case until June 8, under the same terms.

After court Dr. Anderson in an interview said:

"My friends require no explanation. They know what I have to contend with and they know that I am doing what is right under exasperating conditions. The Ledger has published fair reports and let it go at that. So have the Herald and Globe but certain other papers have sacrificed truth to enterprise."

SEVEN CENTS THE LIMIT

For the Social at the Wollaston Methodist Church

EVERYBODY HAPPY

A Seven-cent Social was held with great success in the vestry of the Wollaston Methodist church starting at seven o'clock Tuesday evening by the Ladies' Aid society.

Everything had some connection with the number seven. Seven cents was the price of admission and the tickets were in the shape of that magic number. For seven cents one might indulge in strawberries and cream, ice cream, shortcake or some other delicacies. These were passed by waitresses adorned with strawberry colored crowns on the front of which was a large figure seven.

The decorations were in strawberry color and were alternated with the figure seven in sizes large and small.

A pleasing entertainment was given intermittently during the evening.

Readings entitled "The slave that saved St. Michael's" and "Youthful experiences" by Mrs. Warren Wilbur were enjoyed as were banjo selections by R. B. Bliss.

A vocal solo "Awake! Awake!" by Mrs. Orville N. Estes found great favor as did a flag recitation by Leonard Blades, assisted by Arthur Palmer, Henry Crossley and Warren Cottrell. A phonograph concert rounded out the evening.

Mrs. George Smith and Mrs. Frank Foster, dressed in Colonial costumes circulated through the audience with big baskets selling candy and pop corn.

The affair was in charge of Mrs. Gerge Crothers, president of the Ladies' Aid and the following formed the committees:

Decorators and Waitresses—Mrs. T. N. Lane, Mrs. Eric H. Ewertz, Mrs. O. N. Estes, Mrs. Frank G. Bennett, Mrs. Howard Falconer.

Strawberries and Cream—Mrs. H. B. L. Dimmick, Mrs. L. C. Merrill.

Cake and Shortcake—Miss Helen Euerle, Mrs. F. W. Morgan.

QUINCY LEAGUE OPEN TOMORROW

Great Crowd Expected to Witness Two Games Here

MAYOR STONE ON DEGK

Everything is in readiness for the opening of the Quincy City league and no stone has ben left unturned by the officials in charge to accommodate the largest crowd that has ever assembled at a basegall game in Quincy when play is called Memorial day morning at 10.30 o'clock, on the Water street grounds between Charlie Ganzel's Makaria team and ex-councilman Flynn's Quincy A. A. combination. Special cars are arranged for and will be on hand both before and after the game for the convenience of the fans. Cars will also convey to the ball grounds those who desire to witness the game in the afternoon between South Quincy and West Quincy.

Over three hundred invitations have been extended to men prominent in all walks of life. When Umpires Cunniff and Kling are ready to start play Mayor Eugene R. Sone will walk to the box and pitch the ball that will officially open the season. Many city officials and representative citizens will attend, conspicuous among them being Hon. William T. Shea, Hon. Charles M. Bryant, Hon. Russell Sears, Hon. Henry O. Fairbanks, Hon. John O. Hall, Hon. Charles F. Adams, Representatives William J. Leslie and Walter E. Piper, Hon. George L. Barnes, Senator from the First Norfolk Distict, County Commissioner John F. Merrill, Charles C. Hearn, Chief Burrell of the police department, Fire Chief Litchfield, City Messenger Harry W. Tirrell and Clerk of Courts Lawrence Lyons. Invitations were also sent to all the clergymen of the city, the masters of the schools of the city, members of the school committee and captains of the grammar school baseball teams.

PUBLIC LIBRARY NOTES.

From time to time new photographs are added to the stereoscopic views of the library collection. Those of recent interest are 100 views of China showing the principal cities and villages of that country, 42 views of Constantinople, Turkey, and 39 views of South Africa, depicting among other places of note, scenes of Cape Town and the diamond mines of Kimberly.

Of special interest to Sunday school teachers and students may be found a complete set of Palestine pictures, including scenes made famous by Biblical history.

Fifty of the views may be taken out for seven days, with or without stereoscope as the borrower may desire.

HOPES HELD FOR FRENCH

Man Run Over by Automobile Still Unconscious

It was reported at the Hospital this morning that Arthur French the conductor who was so severely injured by being run over by an automobile on Washington street remained about the same. While still in a serious condition it is believed that he will recover.

ELKS HAVE GOOD TIME.

There was a large attendance at the chowder party and entertainment held in the clubhouse Tuesday evening by members of Quincy Lodge of Elks. The repast was pronounced most enticing and was a great treat to all present. George H. Sullivan assisted on the piano and songs were rendered and jokes distributed abundance from the talent in the gathering. Tonight a supper will be served and a most enjoyable program has been arranged by the committee incharge.

NOTICE

Store-keepers, dressmakers, dentists, and all others whom it may concern, are hereby informed that my wife, Eva Fryer Anderson has left me, that I am paying each week for her support the amount decreed by the Court, and that I shall not be responsible for any debts contracted by her.

DAMES MAY BREAKFAST

Talk on Immigration by Dr. Chauncey Brewster

The annual May breakfast of the Massachusetts Society of the Colonial Dames was held Tuesday afternoon at 4 o'clock at the Dorothy Q house and was very largely attended. The speaker of the afternoon was Dr. Chauncy Brewster, President of the North American Civic League for Immigrants. His subject was "A square deal for immigrants." On account of the high wind the speakers stand in the yard was not used but the address was given in the old kitchen. After the address tea was served by the ladies of the organization.

NEW JERSEY FOR TEDDY

Early Returns Give a 2 to 1 Sweep Against Taft

WILSON SECURES DELEGATION

Roosevelt Said to Have Secured 18 of 28—Voting Closed Very Late to Accommodate Commuters—Wilson Seems to Have Secured an Instructed Delegation—Taft Leader In New Jersey Gave Up Before Midnight

Newark, N. J., May 29.—Roosevelt swept New Jersey as he has swept ten great northern states before in the popular primaries.

He won eighteen of the twenty-eight delegates at the hands of the people.

The people flocked to the polls and cast a plurality of $30,000. The figures at this hour show about a 2 to 1 sweep, according to the league being 102 out of 1799 districts.

Shortly after midnight F. W. Gray, secretary of the Taft Business Men's league, conceded that Colonel Roosevelt had carried the four delegates-at-large.

"It looks as though the president is badly beaten," he said.

First returns from the southern part of the state gave the Wilson delegates a vote of nearly 10 to 1 over the uninstructed delegates running against them. In Essex county, the stronghold of the Wilson opposition, the first thirty districts to report gave the uninstructed delegates a vote of 1144 to 762 for the Wilson men.

Largely for the benefit of the army of commuters, which probably number more in New Jersey than in any other state in the union, the polls remained open until 9 o'clock, and the count was correspondingly late. Four-fifths of the ballots were poured in between 6 and 9 p. m.

Bench For Shoe Case

Boston, May 29.—In order to expedite matters United States Circuit Judges Colt and Putnam and District Judge Brown of Rhode Island have become a full court to sit in the suit of the government against the United Shoe Machinery company, which seeks to dissolve the corporation. The first question to decide is whether the hearings shall continue to be public.

Refuses to Participate

Melrose, Mass., May 29.—The Catholic people of Melrose will not participate in the exercises in connection with the laying of the cornerstone of the new Sailors and Soldiers' monument, which will take place Memorial day, because the Masonic rite will be used and the work done by the grand officers of the grand lodge of Masons.

HANCOCK WINS UPHILL FIGHT

Fields Team Swamped by the Cranch School

SOME GOOD PITCHING

In a game that went two extra innings, the John Hancock school triumphed over the Coddington nine at Merrymount Park, Tuesday afternoon. by a score of 9 to 7.

At the end of the third inning, Coddington was leading 7 to 2, but a steady uphill fight by the Hancock boys enabled them to win out.

Jacobson replaced Sherad in the box for the winners in the fourth and did not allow his opponents a run. In the eighth inning, the Hancock players scored two runs on timely hits, aided by a couple of errors and were thus fortunate enough in winning their last game of the season.

The score by innings;—

	1	3	4	5	6	7	8	H	E
John Hancock	2	0	0	4	1	0	0	2	8	3
Coddington	1	5	1	0	0	0	0	0	7	4

Batteries:— John Hancock —Sherad, Jacobson and Imray. Coddington Hoffses and Cheverie.

Cranch school had an easy time defeating the Massachusetts Fields' team, at Merrymount Park Tuesday afternoon and succeeded in rolling up a score of 18 to 3. The winners swatted the ball all over the lot and though Massachusetts Fields tried out three pitchers, each of them was handed the same fate.

The errors by the losers were frequent and their playing throughout the game was listless. It was the last game of the season for the Cranch school team.

The score by innings:

	1	2	3	4	5	6	H	E
Cranch	4	0	5	3	6	x	8	2
Mass. Fields	0	1	1	1	0	0	3	9

Batteries;—Cranch—Bill and Asklund.

Wollaston—Lyons, Fowler, Ganzel and Drew.

TWO WINNERS OUT FOR HONORS

The Colonials and Station Outing club, both of West Quincy and two of the greatest rivals in the city, will cross bats on the Ward four playground at 10 o'clock, Memorial Day morning. Both teams have yet to lose a game and as it took eleven innings last year to decide which combination was the better, there is every indication that the coming struggle will be fully as gruelling as that which was witnesed by hundreds of fans a year ago. The Station Outing Club has sprung more than one surprise in its baseball career and all those who travel to the West Quincy playground on this occasion are sure to be treated to a real article of ball tossing.

YOUNGSTERS WANT GAMES.

The Colonial Juniors composed of a promising bunch of youngsters, have organized for the season and are ready to meet any 15-16 year old teams in and around Quincy. "Chick" Desmond will perform the slab work, while Bonofini will be on the receiving end. John "Sally" Sullivan, the well known West Quincy rooter is to manage the team and games can be secured by writing to his address, 253 Copeland street.

The Colonial Juniors are prepared to cross bats with any 15-16 year old team for the championship of the city.

TODAY'S COURT.

The continued case of John H. Anderson for assault on his wife was heard and the case again continued until June 7.

Raymond J. Doherty was fined $10 and James R. Hood $5 for exceeding the automobile speed limit at the Blue Hills' Parkway.

NATURE WEEPS IN HARMONY WITH SPIRIT OF THE DAY

INTREPID SPIRIT OF '61 SHOWN BY VETS 50 YEARS LATER

To the Sound of Fife and Drum They Marched in the Pouring Rain as They Had in War Time

Fine Memorial Day Addresses by Rev. Fr. Grady, Rev. Mr. Ayers and Charles H. Johnson Mark the Day's Program

The heavy shower during Wednesday night served to temper the air for Memorial day much to the relief of the veterans of Paul Revere Post 88 G. A. R. who realized, had Memorial Day been as hot and sultry as was Wednesday it would mean a trying day for these veterans, now fast growing old and whose sacred Memorial Day duties are becoming more and more trying with advancing age, although the will is as fervent as ever.

COMMANDER FRANCIS P. LOUD, Paul Revere Post 88, G. A. R.

That the ranks of the Grand Army are rapidly growing thin was evident to all who witnessed the parade and more and more it became certain that these duties, while being looked upon as sacred, are becoming harder and harder each year. A Grand Army man is loath to give up that he is too old to march behind the flag but it seems as though there were enough public spirited citizens in the city, who would gladly contribute their automobiles for the use of the veterans on Memorial Day and thus relieve them of the marching. Next year this should be undertaken.

The grim destroyer, death, has laid a heavy hand on the post since last Memorial Day for during the past twelve months, eight comrades have been laid at rest. Six since January 1. Their names head this column.

The early morning did not give promise of a pleasant day. The dust in the streets had been laid and although the sky was overcast it held no terrors for these veterans and kindred organizations.

In accordance with the general order of Commander Francis P. Loud, the post assembled at headquarters on Hancock street at 7 A. M. in full uniform. Comrade Luther S. Parrott proceeded to Mt. Auburn cemetery to decorate the graves of Col. Paul J. Revere, for whom the post was named and the grave of Comrade Samuel W. Spear.

Senior Vice Commander Mark E. Hanson and a detail of two comrades, and the chaplain of the day. Rev. William B. Ayers proceeded to the cemetery at the National Sailors' Home where servicess were held and graves decorated.

Junior Vice Commander Edward Richardson, and a detail proceeded to Mt. Wollaston cemetery and decorated the graves there, while Officer of the Day Warren Dunbar visited the Hancock and English cemeteries and decorated graves.

These duties over the details returned to headquarters where at 9.30 a line was formed for the Hall and St. Mary's cemeteries at West Quincy. The order of procession for this line was Camp John A. Boyd, United Spanish War Veterans with Quincy Fife and Drum corps. Officer of the Day Warren Dunbar. Post 15 G. A. R. band. Col. Abner B. Packard camp Sons of Veterans and Paul Revere Post. A short march was had to the junction of School and Franklin streets where special cars were taken for West Quincy. Alighting at Copeland and Crescent streets the line was again formed and proceeded to Hall cemetery. The graves were decorated after which the command formed about the Willard monument where brief services were held with a short address by the chaplain of the day, closing with a salute by the color guard.

From here the commands proceeded to the St. Mary's cemetery where services were held and there was an address by Rev. Henry T. Grady, pastor of St. Mary's church.

CHIEF F. E. BURRELL, Who Headed Memorial Day Parade.

REV. FR. GRADY'S ADDRESS.

Rev. Fr. Grady spoke as follows:

Gentlemen, Veterans of the United States Army: I am reminded today, by your presence, of the words of your great leader General Grant: The war has made up a nation of great power and intelligence. We have but little to do to preserve peace, happiness and prosperity at home, and the respect of other nations. Our experience ought to teach us the necessity of the first, our power secures the latter.

I feel that we are on the eve of a new era, when there is to be great harmony between the Federal and the Confederate. I cannot stay to be a living witness to the correctness of this proprecy; but I feel it is to be so. The univerally kind feeling expressed for me at a time when it was supposed that each day would prove my last, seemed to me the beginning of the answer to "Let us have peace."

The expressions of these kindly feelings were not restricted to a section of the country nor to a division of the people. They came from individual citizens of all nationalities; from all denominations, the Protestant, the Catholic the Jews and from the various societies of the land. I hope the good feeling inaugurated may continue to the end.

It must be a great happiness for you gentlemen to see the fulfillment of the vision of your great leader, great not only in the camp or on the field, but also in the hall of council or law giving. It is but a reasonable expression of wisdom to manifest veneration and imitation for the great of the past. Its experience will ever be a guidance to the prudent and reverent in shaping the future. Before your great manifestation of a half a century ago, the very duration of our government was thought to be in the balance. It was a veritable rope of sand that might be parted in an instant. That it was not so, great credit must be given to you and your comrades, who during the dark days of the early sixties gave an example of devotion and patriotism, admiration of which will but increase with the lapse of years.

In the words of your leader, you made it a nation of strength and intelligence. Since you marched home, during or after the memorable April of 1865, where is the power that has not manifested a prudent respect for our country. Therefore would it be the basest ingratitude, it would be to act the part of a mere pigmy to refuse the full meed of justice which is yours towards the fulfillment of your commander's prophecy.

The force and efficacy of your example is amply testified to by the presence of your successors who like yourselves "ever willing to die that others might live." The historian of the future will lovingly entwine their ardor and constancy with yours in the wreath of patriotism. Standing today on the hallowed spots dedicated to the memory of your dear departed ones I am sure you renew once more your pledges to remain firm and close to your standard, as we gazing aloft try to learn something from the lessons of your devotion.

Long before the nation's danger called you from your homes, the ominous sound had gone forth through the land. It was unheeded or mininterpreted by most although to the knowing it meant catastrophe. Neither are there wanting signs now, which the keenly observant interpret as unfavorable to that peace and prosperity so dear to the heart of your great commander, and probably doubly so on account of the horrors which he witnessed and through which he passed.

Such signs however need cause no apprehension if those coming after us will adhere to that principle which has been a source of so much blessing—"God and Country—Fidelity to the eternal principles of God's law, without which neither home nor nation can rest secure." And we are confident that there shall ever be successors to your noble inspiration, men like yourselves who stand as a wall against the enemies of God who are also enemies of the country and true government. May a grateful posterity ever revere and appreciate what your labor obtained for it.

John A. Boyd camp Spanish War Veterans had proceeded to the grave of John A. Boyd, for whom the camp was named where brief services were held for the Spanish War Veterans buried in this cemetery. A delegation from the 9th regiment of which the late John A. Boyd was a comrade, was at the grave. Taps were sounded by the bugler and and three vollies fired by the color guard.

The commands then reformed and marched to Copeland and Crescent streets where the cars were again taken for headquarters for the noon rest and dinner which was served at Faxon hall by ladies of the women's patriotic organizations.

At the hour of 12 o'clock the commands were drawn up into lines, and the veterans stood with uncovered heads for five minutes during which the church bells were tolled, after which the flags which had been at half mast, were sent to the mast head.

After dinner the Grand Army returned to headquarters to wait until the time for the afternoon parade.

At 1.30 Col. Abner B. Packard camp, Sons of Veterans and John A. Boyd, Camp U. S. W. V. marched to the old Hancock cemetery where the Sons of Veterans held appropriate exercises at the grave of Col. Packard after which three vollies were fired and taps sounded by the bugler.

As the time for the afternoon parade approached the sky became overcast and there was a light rain. It was hoped this would cease but it did not. The parade however was started nearly on time, the line of march being down Hancock to Temple, to Coddington, to Sea street to Mt. Wollaston cemetery. The order of the parade was as follows:—

Chief of Police—Frank E. Burrell.
Squad of Police.
Quincy Fife and Drum Corps
Commander Vern G. Brooks Spanish War Veterans and Staff who included Major Daly of the Fusilier Veteran Association and delegations from the First and Ninth Regt. Veteran Associations.

UNBOUNDED ENTHUSIASM FOR A SAFE AND SANE CELEBRATION

Association Believes $2,000 is Needed to Carry Out Plans Which are Under Way

Event in the Two Years Saved City Money and Order was Excellent

In order to carry through the program for the celebration of the Fourth of July this year, the Quincy Fourth of July association believe that at least $2,000 is needed, which they believe may well be expended for the business, civic and moral welfare of the city.

This was the vote taken at the meeting of the association Wednesday evening at the rooms of the Board of Trade. The meeting was a well attended one and was presided over by Mayor Stone, the President of the association.

In opening the meeting the Mayor stated that at the meeting of the City Council next Monday evening an order would be introduced appropriating $1,200 for this year's celebration and he believed that the Council would give the association the money. He considered that this money would be well spent and that more than that amount would be saved the city. Not only would the citizens be kept at home, but the experience of the past two years had been such that it had been demonstrated to be a good thing for the city and children. Not an arrest was made for drunkenness last year and there was not an accident of any kind. Then there had been a saving in the expense of the fire department with the safe and saner celebration as there had been no fires.

EDITORIAL COMMENT.

Doc Wiley is sick. Wonder what he ate?

Quincy has plenty of base ball talent. It is good to see a community with so many people in it rooting for good clean sport.

The Senate report on the Titanic is held up as a model document. It is refreshing to see the Senate act promptly upon a measure without considering its party or political influence.

The Ledger was the only paper to openly announce that Curtis Guild would be a candidate for senator and the statement he issued justifies the contention of the Ledger's editorial of last Saturday.

Capt. Lord has been relieved of the command of the SS. Californian. Whatever it was, prudence or something else, he might have figured in a larger and more glorified light in the great Titanic disaster.

Rockefeller grilled, is the latest in newspaper headlines. What good does that do. What the people would like to see would be something that would "bust" the oil combination and create a drop in the price of that commodity.

The postal air line service has been postponed to some future date. It looked very much as if some one ambitious for advertising had cast aside judgment. But the advertising came without the worry or risk of the trip.

A nation showed its honor and respect for dead and living heroes yesterday.

A Boston woman has just married her third husband in New York and all three are living. What will she do on the day when we all meet, either above or below?

Another life prisoner for murder is to be pardoned. Some how those prisoners do not serve out the full period of their sentence.

It is reported that the Boston waiters are to follow the lead of their N. Y. brothers and ask for increased wages. Wonder if they plan to arange a schedule of tips as well?

The legislature and Governor Foss do not appear to have very pleasant relations these closing days of the session. It will remain for the returns in the fall to indicate which has gained the highest public approval.

Gov. Foss is to keep the legislators at work while there is anything to do. They are eager enough to be elected, the salary has been increased, yet their energy the past few days has been bent on geting ready to quit than to perform important business affairs which is before the body.

HURRYING TO PROROGUE.

The people in general will commend the efforts of Governor Foss to keep the members of the legislature on their jobs for the transaction of the business which is before them. This reference to the next general court is getting to be quite a chestnut. It does seem as if the body before measures are first introduced could easily find the time to carry those measures to their logical conclusion, either defeat or pass them. But no, the dodging idea becomes second nature when men get on Beacon hill. If they can shift the responsibility all the better for them and an early adjournment.

In the fall when the candidates for the legislature go around seeking election they act as though they would be willing to work on the job from January 1 to December 31. But after election all this is forgotten and after the inauguration there is some effort at good time, and along about this time, it is the adjournment that is the most important matter in the Solons' mind.

The legislators have had an increase of salary. They have a fairly good time off for the period they are employed. The tax upon their grey matter is not stupendous. Their energy is not taxed to the limit. Take it all in all they are not a very much abused class. So that when it comes along about the last of May when there is plenty of important matters which require attention, some of which affect the commercial supremacy of the entire state then those matters should receive the attention they deserve.

Just at present the railroad and docking systems in the state are claiming a great deal of attention, Legislature which has a bearing on those two important commercialisms cannot be permitted to lag. Delays in such matters are dangerous. Not a single moment should be lost where the commercial importance of the commonwealth is at stake. The legislators should act promptly, act intelligently devote all the time necessary and not be so crazy about adjournment.

HIGH COST OF LIVING.

The strangest part of all this terrible outrage is the fact that despite the great public indignation, the protests, the appeals to reason and government for a reduction and a means of bringing about relief, the prices of staple articles are constantly being boosted. This is done in the most barefaced and arrogant manner. No heed is given to the cries of the multitude that they are being taxed almost to the breaking point by the monopolistic controllers of the necessities of life.

The recent regulation of the price of coal is an ample exemplification of this. The miners got an increase of three cents a ton for producing the coal and the operators advanced the price 25 cents a ton, shamelessly attributing the advance in price due to the advance in the wages of the miners.

It is so with everything else. The men who control things appear undaunted by the great public clamor, the great unrest, the strikes, labor troubles, anarchistic doctrines promulgated and many other things which are not logical and should prove a warning of worse things to come. They seem to be perfectly sure that they will be protected. That they are a privileged class who can do just about as they like.

Where will it all end is the query which confronts us. Conditions appear to be serious, yet this controlling class go right ahead, charging prices for products far ahead of the figures they ask for them when exported and offered for sale on the other side of the water. They will have to come when this arrogance and heedless attention to the rights of others and the public demand for a lightening of the burdens placed upon them will have to be heeded.

MASSES FOR DEAD IN CHURCHES

Knights of Columbus' and Foresters' Tribute to Departed

Memorial masses were celebrated in two of the Catholic churches of the city Thursday morning. At St. John's Church a mass was sung at seven o'clock for the deceased members of Quincy Court No. 76, M. C. O.F. by Rev. Fr. John J. Coan, the pastor, while at eight o'clock Rev. Fr. John J. Casey officiated at the memorial mass for the deceased members of Quincy Council, No. 96, Knights of Columbus. The regular choir, under direction of John Mahan, organist, rendered music at both masses.

At St. Mary's Church, West Quincy, the pastor, Rev. Henry T. Grady celebrated a memorial mass for the deceased members of St. Mary's Catholic Total Abstinence and Mutual Relief Society. The music for the mass was furnished by the regular choir under direction of organist Mrs. Mary McKay Reardon.

Driven From Their Quarters of Many Years Surrender Charter

Lenox, Mass., May 31.—For the first time in forty years there were no Memorial day exercises in Lee. Several weeks ago the selectmen ordered Scott Bradley post, G. A. R., to vacate its rooms in the town hall.

The sixteen veterans were so indignant they surrendered their charter and refused to hold exercises of any kind.

SCHOOLS HONOR WAR VETERANS

Appropriate Exercises in Each Seat of Learning

SOLDIERS TOLD OF THE WAR

Wednesday was observed as Grand Army day at the Quincy schools, and in each of them exercises appropriate to the day were conducted on an elaborate scale.

In the schools which have halls, special exercises were held in those apartments and a member of Paul Revere Post, No. 88, G. A. R., gave a half-hour address.

In the other schools assignments of Veterans had also been made, and ten minute addresses were made in each room.

WILLARD SCHOOL

It was Parents' Day at the Willard Grammar school Wednesday and a most enjoyable program of exercises, which took the form of a memorial observance was furnished to a number that taxed the school to its capacity. All the rooms of the school were decorated for the occasion and the school work done by the pupils of the different grades was on exhibition in the respective class rooms. The exercises commenced in the afternoon at two o'clock. Thomas Ring of the Paul Revere Post G. A. R, related many interesting reminiscences of the Civil War, to the pupils and visitors.

Perhaps the class room that attracted the greatest attention was that of Miss Ellen Fegan, teacher of the fifth grade. Miss Fegan is the oldest teacher in the school and was widely congratulated for the artistic work of her pupils and the general arrangement of the room, which was symbolic of the days of the Civil war. The exhibition included drawings, paintings and portfolio work as well as work in the regular branches of instruction. Some very fine drawings were among the works of art and Miss Lillian Newman drawing teacher, received her full share of commendation for the accomplishments of her pupils.

Six large pictures one of which was a splendid view of the Capitol at Washington, were hung in the main hall, and added much to the general effect.

The pictures were selected as a result of the art exhibit held recently at the school. Stencil work was shown in great variety and the work of the pupils in printing was also conspicuous.

The following programs were carried out by the different classes

AMUSEMENTS

DOINGS ON THE STAGE OF

LOCAL AND BOSTON THEATRES

B. F. KEITH'S THEATRE.

As the summer time is the popular period for relaxation, Mr. B. F. Keith has attempted to follow out this idea in the selection of his warm weather attractions. This policy has been followed out in arranging next week's bill at his popular amusement resort, with the result that the opening week of the summer will find one of the strongest and most pleasing programs offered at B. F. Keith's Theatre in months. The two principal features are Trixie Friganza, and Dorothy Rogers & Co., both of whom are new to Boston vaudeville patrons. Miss Friganza has starred in a score of musical comedies, and is fresh from a highly successful run in Harry Askin's "The Sweetest Girl in Paris." For her vaudeville tour, Miss Friganza has secured an exceptionally strong repertoire of new and original songs. Another strong laughing feature will be the first appearance of Dorothy Rogers and her company in a screamingly funny farce comedy entitled "Babies a la Carte." As the title implies, this sketch deals with a mix-up in offspring that leads up to all manner of ludicrous situations. Still another feature will be Chick Sale, the impersonator, in his Country School Entertainment. Sale impersonates a dozen different characters encountered on a visit to a little district school on examination day. Others will be the three Lyres, liveliest of musical acts; Kluting's Animals, with his trained cats, dogs, rabbits, and pigeons; Cummings and Gladyings, novelty entertainers; the Flying Russells, two daring aerial wonders; and others yet to be announced.

CASTLE SQUARE THEATRE.

"The Climax" which John Craig will produce at the Castle Square next week for the first time at popular prices, is a play with an original plot and new and original characters. It mingles drama, music and comedy, and it tells a story that is continuously entertaining. Its heroine is a young woman with ambitions and aspirations and its plot involves a group of simple and artless people who live in New York's foreign quarter. Luigi Golfanti, an old Italian vocal teacher, Pietro his son, and Adelina Von Hagan, a distant relative dwell together, and to them comes Dr. John Raymond, who immediately proceeds to fall in love with Adelina. She has a beautiful voice, and wants to go on the stage, and Pietro, who is also in love with her, is naturally madly jealous. How Adelina is made to believe that she cannot sing, and how she eventually discovers that she has not lost her voice, forms but a part of a play that is continuously and absorbingly interesting.

The music and the songs are no small part of the entertaining qualities of "The Climax." In fact, "The Song of the Soul" would be sufficient to make the success of any play. The part of Adelina Von Hagan will be played in Mr. Craig's production by Miss Florence Webber, while Thomes Fallon will be the Dr. Raymond, and Carney Christie will appear as Pietro Golfanti. These three players were in the original cast of "The Climax," Mr. Christie, as is well known, also having been one of the Castle Square players ever since the opening of the present season. Also in the cast will be Donald Meek, who as Luigi Golfanti will show what he can do with a character role that is worth his while. If "The Climax" does not make a tremendous hit at the Castle Square, then all signs fail.

MAJESTIC THEATRE.

Owing to the enormous advance sale of seats for "The Lights o' London" at the Majestic Theatre this week, it is extremely likely that Mr. Lindsay Morison will decide to prolong the engagement for another week. He does not wish to do this unless absolutely forced to, for it has always been his plan to give his patrons something new every week. Mr. Morison's Stock Company has in preparation as the next attraction that great play on political intrigue, "The Typhoon," which is now having a most successful run in New York. Strenuous efforts are being made by the New York managers of the play to prevent Mr. Morison producing it in Boston, for it is their intention to bring the New York Company here later to play the piece at high prices.

Mr. Morison, however, has secured the right to play it, and he says that nothing but the burning down of the Majestic Theatre or the passing away of all his favorites, will prevent him from doing so. Boston will thus have the honor of being the first city in the country outside of New York to see this great drama. "The Typhon" was writen by a Hungarian and deals with the Japanese spying system. It is intensely thrilling throughout and will furnish an excellent vehicle for Mr. Morison's players.

WOLLASTON SCHOOL

Memorial day exercises and flag raising at the new Wollaston school Wednesday, 2.30 P. M. Nearly 300 parents and friends united with teachers and pupils in observing Memorial day in the new assembly hall, which was beautifully decorated with flags and flowers.

The program as prepared was given with great credit to all. On the platform were seven members of the Paul Revere Post G. A. R., and patriotic instructors of the Sons of Veterans' Auxiliary and Woman's Relief Corps.

At the close of the exercises in the hall, all marched out around the flag pole in front of the building, where a flag nine by eighteen feet presented to the school by the Sons of Veterans Auxiliary was raised with appropriate exercises.

The class of 1912 held a candy and ice cream sale Wednesday afternoon to raise money to purchase a class picture to present to the school, $26.31 was realized.

QUINCY MANSION 1912 CLASS MAKES EXIT FROM STAGE

Graduates Read Delightful Papers on Many and Varied Subjects Well Handled

Rachel R. Drinker and Clarice B. Doble, Quincy Girls in Class

Mrs. Willard is heartily congratulated on this the sixteenth annual commencement of the Quincy Mansion school.

The graduation exercises were held Wednesday afternoon in Livermore hall, which was filled with pupils, alumnae, teachers, parents and friends of the students. Soon after 2 o'clock lavender and green cords were drawn down the aisle and the processional "Angel of Peace" was taken up by distant voices accompanied by Messrs. S. Newton Cutler at the piano and William Howard violin. The voices became more distinct as the juniors and undergraduates entered the hall. They continued to the front where they faced the audience as the seniors in handsome white gowns made their appearance.

Mrs. Willard spoke briefly of her regret that the time had come for leave taking of the class of 1912. She said they had done their work well. Many would tell of what they had seen.

This class had followed the usual custom of grouping the flowers on the platform.

Many telegrams of congratulations had been received and some letters of regret, but all are truly grateful to have here today among our alumnae Gretchen Longley who was in the Titanic disaster.

The program was:—

Processional—Angel of Peace—Keller.

Music—Romanza—Anders Rachlew Messrs. Cutler and Howard.

Prayer—Rev. Joseph Walther.

Song—The Lord is my light—Allitsen—Mrs. Child.

Salutatory—Miss Drinker.

A Mountain School of the South—Miss Sanborn.

The Taj Mahal—Miss Perry.

The Life of Julia Ward Howe—Miss Lawton.

Chorus—Sunshine and Rain—Blumenthal.

A New Year's Festival—Miss Stone.

The Country Store—Miss Longley.

A Review of the Kaiser's Troops—Miss Weil.

Class History—Miss Arnold.

Plantation Life before the War—Miss Levy.

Chorus—The Angel—Rubinstein.

Three Musicians and Their Peculiarities—Miss Crankshaw.

The Fjords and Vikings of Norway—Miss Hamilton.

Cobalt, a Mining Town—Miss Doble

Valedictory—Miss Richards.

Presentation of Diplomas.

Presentation of Class Picture—Miss Hutchinson.

Unveiling of Picture—Miss Perry.

Song—It is not always May—Gounod—Mrs. Child.

Benediction.

Miss Drinker delivered the salutatory address in which she bid all a hearty welcome and paid a loving tribute to Dr. and Mrs. Willard who was always an example of good, beautiful honest, true womanhood.

A mountain school of the South by Miss Sanborn was a good description of how eager the poor whites of the Kentucky mountains are for an education. The growth of a school started by two women was surprising. It has changed the entire county and wiped out family feuds.

Miss Perry gave an excellent paper on "The Taj Mahal of India" as she saw it in the pale silvery moonlight, one of the wonders of the world and different from any other building, simplicity itself, yet so majestic.

Miss Lawton on "The Life of Julia Ward Howe" was a beautiful pen picture of this most highly esteemed woman.

"A New Year's Festival" which Miss Stone said she had the good fortune to witness in Southern California was an interesting paper about a carnival of flowers and tournament of roses held, at a time when the East was a mantle of snow.

Miss Longley's admirably sketched a "Country Store" in such a manner so that her hearers could almost see the confusion of the interior as well as the exterior which time had changed.

Miss Weil's paper on "The Kaiser's Troops" which she saw at Hamburg was an emphatic success; soldiers, 14,000 strong, decorations, flags, brilliant uniforms, Infantry and cavalry, bands, magnificent horses, royalty handsomely dressed all added to the glory of the day.

Miss Arnold's class history told of many good times. The candy pull, our spread, and then the play, the base ball game, the concert by the Andover boys and Mrs. Willard brought such people as Mrs. Ward, Mrs. Wood, Mrs. Pitts, Dr. Burton, Dr. van Allen, Dr. Headland, and Dr. Heath, Mr. Sanborn, Mr. Shields, Mr. Speaight, Mr. Sueman MacManus, and Hon. John A. Barrett, all enjoyed to the utmost a visit to Mr. C. A. Baron's home in Boston to see his beautiful pictures. The Exeter Glee club concert, the reception— the Theatre party were all told about..

No one knows better than Miss Levy how to treat the subject of Plantation life before the war as her people have always lived there. The actual home life, was adequately given, peace and harmony, content and comfort reigned in both the mansions and the cabins, and her recitation of verses in negro dialect was delightful.

Miss Crankshaw showed a careful study of the lives of Beethoven, Schumann and Chopin, and what they accomplished. Some of their peculiarties inflicted on the circles in which they moved were very amusing.

Miss Hamilton's paper The Fjords and Vikings of Norway, describing the romance and wonder of the land of the midnight sun, home of the Vikings, enchanting winter sports, most wonderful mountain scenery of the world. cascades, gorges, cliffs and peasant life were all presented most interestingly.

Miss Doble gave an excellent paper on Cobalt deep in the wilderness in extreme north of Ontario the largest and wealthiest silver mining camp in the world.

In 1905 rumors of the wonderful find was noised abroad and a rush like that of the forty-niners in California began, and the boom was on, and is still on. She graphically described the country, climate, buildings and people. The process of milling silver with cyanide. The view from the top of the shaft. The silver sidewalk and Cobalt's mascot, the homeliest bull dog in the world.

Miss Richards expressed herself most sympathetically in the Valedictory and her leavetakings showed even plainer than her words, the pain and sorrow of the class in leaving Q. M. S.

Mrs. Willard then presented the diplomas. The class picture was presented by Miss Hutchinson in a few well chosen words and Miss Perry pulled a cord that lifted a veil of greenery.

Rev. Father Field S. S. J. E., of Boston asked all to unite in saying "Our Father" after which he gave the peace and blessing.

The alumnae gave a reception to the graduating class in the gymnasium and the annual dance followed in the evening.

In the studio was a very attractive exhibition, the pupils have the usual merit of using figures and accessories from every day-life, yet in such a way that they are elevated into the realm of the poetic.

The alumnae business meeting was held at 11 o'clock. These officers were elected

President—Mrs. Elizabeth Decker
Vice-President—Mrs. Willie Foster
Secretary and Treasurer— Miss Dorothy Mills

OLD FATHER KNICKERBOCKER

Waits For the Waiters Who Do Not Wait

UNION GOES UNRECOGNIZED

Fashionable Hotels and Restaurants Are Affected—Whole Number of Waiters Out Is About 2000—Threats Made That All Union Hotel and Restaurant Employes Will Be Ordered Out

New York, May 31.—Father Knickerbocker had his dinner interrupted again last night when the union waiters, cooks and kitchen help in six leading hotels and two of the largest Broadway restaurants joined the strike.

Thousands of diners had given their orders and some had been served with the first courses when the hotel employes deserted their posts. In some of the hotels strike breakers, chambermaids and telephone girls were placed in the dining rooms, and service continued with slight interruption.

At the headquarters of the International Hotel Workers' union it wass announced that 900 men jcined the strike last night, making the total number now out about 2000. The hotels affected by last night's walkout were the Plaza, the St. Regis, the Astor, the Prince George, the Imperial and the Gotham. and the Shanley's and Louis Martin's restaurant and the Elks' club.

Unless their demands to recognize the union are complied with by the Hotel Men's association by tonight, leaders of the strike assert, waiters and cooks in all the restaurants in New York, including two long chains of popular price restaurants, will be ordered to join the strike.

Threats have also reached proprietors of the large hotels that the telephone operators may declare a sympathetic strike.

Telegrams were sent to all the eastern colleges by the hotel men inviting any of the students who are working their way through college, and are in need of additional funds, to come here at once to act as waiters. This idea originated with David Mulligan, manager of the Hotel Breslin, and was promptly taken up by the other members of the Hotel Men's association.

TIE VOTE IN COUNCIL

One Member Was Absent on the Cusumano Commutation Vote

Boston, May 31.—At the meeting of the governor's council, considering pleas for commutation of the death sentence of Enrico Mascioli, the decision was unanimously against him. On the vote affecting Mrs. Lena Cusumano, the council split even. Those voting "no" were Lieutenant Governor Robert Luce, Eben L. S. Keith, J. Stearns Cushing and Augustus H. Goeting. Those voting "yes" were Edward D. Collins, Edward D. Frothingham, Herbert E. Fletcher and Winfield S. Shuster. The law, as interpreted by Attorney General Swift, prevented the governor from voting.

Councillor Alexander McGregor was the only member absent. He alone can break the deadlock. But his absence means the reopening of the case before that body next week. Then more evidence and evidence of a more sensational nature than any yet offered, will be presented.

Both Mrs. Cusumano and Enrico Mascioli were sentenced to die during the week commencing June 2. A stay of execution was granted until after the meeting next week.

Mrs. Cusumano was taken from the Plymouth jail to Charlestown in the darkness of early morning and placed in a death cell of the state prison. After recovering from great depression of spirits, she assured Warden Bridges that if she was sent to her death she would go singing to the electric chair.

GEO. E. FOSS ILL

Condition Is Improved but All of Family Gathered With Him

Boston, May 31.—The condition of George E. Foss, father of Governor Foss, remains unchanged. His condition, though serious, is by no means hopeless. The patient was sleeping comfortably at a late hour last night.

Representative Foss, the governor's brother, has been summoned from Washington. Mr. Foss is 82 years old.

Strikers' Memorial Parade

Lawrence, Mass., May 31.—Memorial day in Lawrence was marked by a parade of over 5000 members of the I. W. W., who marched to St. Mary's cemetery and placed great wreaths and bouquets on the graves of Annie Lopizzo and John Rami; who were killed during the strike riots here in January. The parade was a very orderly one and no flag but the Stars and Stripes was carried.

INTREPID SPIRIT OF '61

parade but their train did not arrive until after the parade had gone down Coddington street. There was a squad of sixteen from the 59th coast artillery under command of Sergt. Harold Finley and a squad of the 83d coast artillery from Fort Strong who paraded with Camp Bumpus, which was in command of Commander H. E. Stilling. They joined the parade at the Soldiers' monument.

It was a source of much congratulation to notice that this year steps had been taken to keep the crowd from trampling on the graves near the Soldiers' monument. Every year hundreds of people, anxious to hear the exercises would trample on the graves in lots near the monument without a thought as to whom was there buried. This year however the main avenue had been roped off on both sides for some distance and the crowd was kept outside of this line.

There were the usual number of peddlers on Sea street outside of the cemetery but a squa d of police in charge of Sergt. Bishop kept these people away from the main street.

The exercises about the monument were similar to those of other years. There was the reading of Lincoln's speech at Gettysburg by Adjutant James H. Webb, a short address by Mayor Stone. In his remarks His Honor referred to the Revoluntionary war, the war of the Rebellion and the Spanish war. He also spoke of the d eds of valor of the 4th, 39th and 18th regiments during the civil war, in which many of Post 88 saw service. Of the late Col. Abner B. Packard and of the famous battles of the Wilderness, Cold Harbor and of the Army of the Potomac, paying a glowing tribute to the soldiers who stood shoulder to shoulder during those trying times and gave up their lives that this union might be preserved, that the citizens of this great country might enjoy the privileges which they do today.

Comrade Edward J. Lennon also read a brief address in which he made an appeal to the citizens for a memorial hall.

The address of the afternoon was delivered by the chaplain of the day Rev. William B. Ayer who spoke for about ten minutes.

Then came the depositing of the red- white and blue wreath, the emblem of Fraternity; blue Charity, red emblem of Loyalty and a mixed wreath to the unknown. Prayer by the chaplain music by the band, three volleys by the color guard and taps by the buglers.

From here the commands proceeded to the grace of Lieut. Edward A. Bumpus, who lost his life in the massacre at Samaar. The services here were conducted by John A. Boyd camp assisted by the Philippine veterans and the regulars from Fort Andrews. The orator was Charles H. Johnson who spoke as follows:

C. H. JOHNSON'S ADDRESS.

A few moments ago we stood around the shaft erected to the memory of the brave men of the Civil war. In yonder part of the cemetery are gathered the brave women of the Relief Corps assembled on one of the most solemn spots in this Cemetery, the mound dedicated to the memory of the unknown dead, where they will hold a service. Here we are assembled at the grave of the young patriot Bumpus, almost within touch of the house where he was born, the Church where he worshipped, standing on the fields where he played as a youngster.

OUR HONORED DEAD.

There is in every neighborhood a glowing pride in its martyred heroes; tablets preserve their names, pious love shall renew their inscription as time and the elements efface them, and the National festivals give multitudinous names to the orators' lips.

The untimely death of the brave Bumpus appears to many within the sound of my voice like the pages of an open book, stricken down in an unguarded moment as it were by the hand of an assassin, his blood mingled with foreign soil, his name to be handed down the years as a living example of youthful patriotism and fidelity to duty even at the loss of life itself.

The following incident of the battle of Recca, Georgia is related: In the hottest part of the battle of Sunday, a shell came screaming through the air from the works in front. It passed above a point where General Johnston and General Polk were standing; whistled like a top above them and before exploding whistled half a dozen notes clear as a fife to the drum-like rattle of musketry. The din had hardly ceased and the fragments fallen to the ground, when the attention of the party was directed to one of the upper boughs of a tall pine, where a mocking bird had begun to imitate the whistle of the shell. Neither the roar of cannon, nor the rain of balls, could drive this brave bird from its perch. It sat above the battlefield like a little god of war, and its stout heart as free as though it swelled to the breezy winds of peace in the summer woods.

Thou touchstone of the battlefield, mocking the very air of death and pouring out a cheery canticle for the slain, who are happy in dying for the land they love, thou art the true type of the great American Soldier's heart; Be it like thine, as bold and free. May it swell as it is pressed and grow strong as it hurls back the vandal and invader. May it stand upon its own door sill, as that gallant bird stood upon the bough of the pine, and trill a chant of defiance in the face of danger, and though despair span its bony fingers about its throat, may its armies take a lesson from thy pluck, thou valiant mocking bird, and sing in the breach and shout in the hills, to the music of minie ball and shrapnel, never doubting, never daunted, defying the power of the world, and obedient only to the God of the universe. For he who dies in the front dies in the love of the Lord, and there is not a sentiment truer for the soldiers than that the brave who perish in the cause of liberty are thrice blessed above the lazy sons of peace.

"Not man or monarch half so proud
As he whose flag becomes his shroud."

History records the stirring scenes in our state when the great war Governor John A. Andrew issued his call for Volunteers and page after page of blood, records the history of those brave men. Only a few years ago history repeated itself and the call came once more for men to defend the nation's honor. What a response to this call, the young blood of this nation ready at once to give their lives as a sacrifice that the honor of America might be upheld. You the young men before me of John Boyd Camp did your part in this fine display of youthful Patriotism. But great as was your work in the Spanish War a still greater task and larger responsibility rests upon you in the future. The broken figure, drawn lines of the face, grey hair of the Veterans of Post 88, indicate that in a short time you will be called upon to perpetuate the memories of this day. Look well to your trust! The lessons and teachings of Memorial Day are needed by our people. This is an age of unrest and a burning desire to tear down the old and tried institutions and policies of our nation. Only a few years ago a movement was started to do away with Decoration Day. Beware young men of the "despoiler" that flag that wafts its folds over your heads stands for Justice, Freedom and Stability of government.

Let no man or body of men take away from you the right to march with fife and drum under the dear old flag to the quiet resting places of the noble dead, that you may pay military honors to the sleeping soldiers.

"Let our colors fly, boys—
Guard them day and night,
For victory is liberty,
And God will bless the right."

Then may the lessons of this day increase our devotion to those principles that are the foundation stones of our government. I can do no better than to close this brief address by a few lines from Oliver Wendell Holmes.

"One flag, one land, one heart, one hand,
One nation evermore."

Prayer was offered by Rev. A. L. Hudson of the First church and three volleys were fired by the squad of regulars and taps sounded by the buglers.

The command then proceeded to the Woman's Relief corps lot where exercises were held in memory of the unknown dead by the Officers of Paul Revere Woman's Relief corps, Mrs. Mary J. Powers president. Those exercises included the regular service of the corps, a brief address by the President, singing by the corps and three volleys by the color guard.

The duties at the cemetery over for the day the line was reformed and a march taken to headquarters where the commands were dismissed and the duties for the year 1912 were over.

Just as the exercises were concluded it began to rain hard but nothing daunted the veterans and escort continued their march to headquarters, many of them being drenched by the downpour.

STOLEN JEWELS FOUND

Monument Beath Plunder to the Tune of $10,000 Is Restored

Bourne, Mass., May 31.—The families of George P. Gardiner, James Jackson and Fred Field, all of whom have summer homes at Monument Beach, were agreeably surprised when notified that $10,000 worth of jewelry which was stolen from their homes last September had been recovered.

As Frank Manniman, caretaker on the Parkinson estate at Rocky Point, was walking down an unused pathway to the shore he discovered a battered dinner pail under a pile of plank and in the pail he found all the stolen jewels wrapped carefully in a large silk handkerchief.

IN MEMORY OF FIREMEN

Firemen's Memorial Day will be observed Sunday, June 9. All the call men and as many regular firemen as it will be possible to spare from duty will assemble at the Central fire station on that day at 2 P. M. Headed by chief Amos L. Litchfield and District Chief Daniel J. Nyhan, who is to have complete charge of the affair, the procession will proceed to Mount Wollaston Cemetery where the grave of one departed brother will be decorated. The firemen will then repair to Quincy Square, where electric cars will be taken for West Quincy where the graves of eight departed fire fighters of Quincy will be decorated. A delegation will also be sent to Calvary Cemetery to place floral tributes on the former member of the Quincy department whose remains are interred there.

MEMORIAL SERVICE.

I. O. O. F. Memorial services will be held on the afternoon of Sunday, June 16.

RESPECTED CITIZEN BURIED.

The funeral of Thomas Robertson of 10 Goddard street was held from his late home Wednesday afternoon and was attended by a large gathering of relatives and friends. The services were conducted by Rev. Richard E. Armstrong, rector of Christ Episcopal church and were of a very simple character. There was a great profusion of floral tributes and burial was in Mount Wollaston Cemetery.

The late Mr. Robertson was 46 years old and was a highly esteemed citizen of Quincy. He is survived by a wife, a mother and two brothers. His mother and one of his brothers reside in England. He was an active member of Christ Church and has frequently taken part in many of its affairs.

REPUBLICAN COMMITTEE

Will Fight On Seating New Members Now

ROOSEVELT HAS 28 DELEGATES

Newly Chosen Members of Republican National Committee Want Seats—Ususally They Take Office After National Convention Meets—Wilson Secures Twenty-Four From New Jersey—Delegates Breaking Away

Chicago, May 31.—Word that R. B. Howell, recently elected Republican national committeeman from Nebraska by direct primary, would come to Chicago on June 6, when the national committee meets to hear contests, and demand his seat, caused a stir among members of the committee.

Roosevelt managers here say there are at least five new national committeemen who will try to assume their official duties before the question of contests is taken up by the committee.

Harry S. New, chairman of the sub-committee on arrangements of the convention, said:

"The term of a national committeeman begins with the adjournment of the committee, when the new members always are called upon to meet and assume their official duties. This is the rule and practice of the party and is as old as the party itself. There is no just demand nor reasonable excuse for a departure from this rule in my opinion."

New Jersey All For Teddy

Newark, N. J., May 31.—Theodore Roosevelt's clean sweep of the New Jersey primaries became clearly evident when late returns emphasized his large pluralities throughout the state giving all the twenty-eight delegates.

Governor Woodrow Wilson gained twenty-four of the twenty-eight delegates, including the delegates-at-large.

Incomplete returns on the vote for delegates-at-large and the presidential preference indicated that Colonel Roosevelt's popular plurality for the whole state would be about 15,000 and that Governor Wilson's state-wide lead, based on the vote for delegates-at-large, was about the same.

New York Breaking Away

Washington, May 31.—New Jersey's sweeping vote for Roosevelt has removed practically the last opportunity of the Taft forces to influence delegate sentiment favorably for the renomination of President Taft. The vital question is not how many delegates the president can count up now; undoubtedly he would be renominated if any such powerful influence were operating in his favor as is helping the Roosevelt cause every day. It no longer truthfully can be said that Mr. Taft can depend with certainty on many more votes than have actually been instructed for him, and these are less than the necessary 540. It was learned from sources which are credited here that the sixteen delegates from Brooklyn will vote for Roosevelt, New Jersey having spoken. It has been an open secret among the politicians that the result in New Jersey would have a direct influence upon the uninstructed New York delegation and the defection in Brooklyn probably is symptomatic of what may be expected in other states where conditions are similar.

Roosevelt's Defeat His Object

Washington, May 31.—Beyond his determination to fight Roosevelt to the "last ditch" President Taft has indicated no effect of the New Jersey defeat. That he was disappointed was apparent to his close advisers but his famous smile was on view and he made no reference to his complete rout.

Many of the president's closest friends believe he is now thoroughly angered at Colonel Roosevelt, and will not hesitate at any means of beating him at Chicago. Some suspect he may urge his followers to bolt as a last resort, or possibly to turn to Supreme Court Justice Hughes in a final effort to defeat the colonel.

La Follette Still Campaigning

Lacrosse, Wis., May 31.—In an interview here, where he stopped to confer with friends on his way to South Dakota, Senator La Follette reiterated emphatically that he would remain in the contest for the Republican presidential nomination on every ballot taken.

"I deem this course necessary to the integrity of the progressive movement," he said. "The conditions complained of grew under both Roosevelt and Taft. Those who are satisfied should vote for one or the other of these men. Those who wish a change cannot consistently support either."

Wilson Men Talk Bryan

Washington, May 31.—The Wilson advocates here are boldly declaring that the Democratic convention at Baltimore will either nominate Governor Wilson or Mr. Bryan.

UNBOUNDED ENTHUSIASM

This year they wanted to make the celebration even better than last year. A better showing in the antique parade was necessary, and the morning parade should be started earlier.

These sentiments were fully in accord with others present and considerable enthusiasm was shown by all.

A letter was read from Delcevare King suggesting as a new feature that an automobile parade be held. This could start earlier than the regular parade and visit some sections where it would be impossible for the parade to go. He sugested that Col. Henry L. Kincaide be selected as marshal of this division and he promised his hearty support if it was decided to have this feature.

All agreed that this feature would be a desirable one and Mayor Stone and Delcevare King were appointed a committee to interview Col. Kincaide in relation to the matter and it was voted that the matter of an automobile parade be left to Col. Kincaide. It was proposed to give prizes for the most elaborately and most antique decorated autos.

It was also voted that a letter be sent to all societies and organizations urging them to participate in the parade and to contribute to the fund and Messrs. James H. Elcock, Charles W. Hanscom and George T. Magee were appointed to draft a suitable letter.

It was voted to appoint a chairman for each ward to take charge of the collections in that ward and these chairmen were empowered to appoint as many canvassers as desired. It was also decided to provide the canvassers with receipt books and everybody who contributed would be given a receipt for his amount. The chairman of the several wards appointed were as follows—

Ward One—Charles C. Hearn
Ward Two—Jacob Peterson
Ward Three—Robert B. Craig
Ward Four—Louis K. Badger
Ward Five—David Hansen

It was also voted that the President invite President Taft to be present at celebration and that he communicate with Senator Lodge relative to having a battleship in Quincy waters on July 4.

It was voted that when the meeting adjourn it be until next Tuesday evening and that a general invitation be sent to all interested to be present.

James E. Neary brought up the matter of athletic sports and there was some informal discussion on this question but nothing definite decided upon. It seemed to be the sense of those present that track events should be cut out this year and that the sports be confined to baseball games. It was also the sentiment of those present that the evening band concert should be omitted and that more should be done in the way of children's entertainment than last year.

All of these matters however will come up for fuller discussion at the meeting next Tuesday evening.

Before adjournment attention was called to the hearing before the State Board of Charity, June 10, on the question of the association being incorporated.

HOLIDAY MARKED BY 3 DROWNINGS

Two Girls and a Man Overturned n Rapids

St. Johnsbury, Vt., May 31.—Three prominent young people of St. Johnsbury, Miss Hattie Ellis, Miss Helen Smythe and her brother, Herbert W. Smythe, were drowned in the Passumpsic river last evening when a canoe in which they were attempting to navigate the rapids overturned.

Louis Kimball, the fourth occupant of the frail craft, was saved by Herley Richards, who had been attracted to the river bank by the cries of the young people. Kimball, who was unconscious when pulled out of the water, had tried valliantly to save the life of Miss Ellis. He lost his hold on the young woman a few moments before Richards caught him.

The young people started up stream from St. Johnsbury on a pleasure trip. When that part of the river, known as "the rapids" was reached the party decided to attempt to paddle over the treacherous water. They had hardly entered the rapids when the canoe turned over, throwing the the four perons into the water.

CANDIDATES FOR SENATE

Retirement of Senator Crane Stirs Many to Run

GENUINE REGRET OVER CRANE

Record Foreign Commerce For 1912 Is Sure—Labor and Its Share In the Export Trade—Congressman Andrew J. Peters Is Being Talked of In Connection With Gubernatorial Nomination.

The decision of Senator Crane not to be a candidate for re-election has resulted in a number of candidates coming into the field. Already Mayor John F. Fitzgerald of Boston has announced himself as seeking the honor. He is the first and only Democrat to come into the field, although Governor Foss has been mentioned for the nomination.

It is understood that Congressmen John W. Weeks and Augustus P. Gardner would be willing to accept the position. There is considerable support also for former Governor Curtis Guild, who is now serving as ambassador to Russia. Thomas W. Lawson is also a candidate. A number of other prominent men are mentioned, among them Ex-Congressman Samuel W. Powers of Newton and Congressman McCall.

Former Governor John L. Bates is one of those discussed in connection with the office, but his friends feel very sure that he will not be a candidate, although they are confident that if he were he would have strong support.

Crane's Act Causes Regret

There is very general regret that Senator Crane is not to be a candidate for re-election. Leading men in in the state, without regard to party affiliations do not hesitate to say that he has been one of the ablest senators Massachusetts has ever had. All this he has accomplished by his ability as a man without the advantages of oratory. Mr. Crane is not a public speaker. In all his public career he has never made what might properly be called a public speech. During his services as governor he read his inaugural speeches, but outside of these he has never made a public address that would exceed in length a quarter of a newspaper column. His abilities do not lie in that direction. In the United States senate he has sometimes been known as the peacemaker, through his ability to get the opposing elements together and to secure unity of action. His ability in party work lay largely in his capacity to enthuse men, to set them at work and to unite all factions in common harmony.

It is unquestionably true that his retirement will be a great loss to Massachusetts. He has accomplished a great deal for the state during his career at Washington, and no commonwealth was better equipped to accomplish things in the senate than Massachusetts with Mr. Lodge and Mr. Crane as her representatives there.

The canvass for the successor to Mr. Crane will undoubtedly be a spirited one. When the two political parties have selected their candidates for the senatorship the contest will be stubbornly waged. Republican leaders believe there is very little doubt that the candidate of that party will be successful. There seems to be every probability that the different elements of the Republican party will unite upon a candidate and then win with him.

Governor Foss and Cost of Living

When Eugene N. Foss made his fight for congress in the Fourteenth district he did it on the cost of living. That was over two years ago. A year ago last fall he made his campaign for the governorship principally on the same issue, promising to smash prices if elected. Last fall he used the same issue as one of his campaign arguments. Nevertheless it is impossible to point out anything he has done to lower the cost of living. As a matter of fact he evidently forgets there is any such issue or that he is pledged to help the consumer reduce his expenses. As a matter of fact the cost of living has increased faster during his term of service than ever before in the history of the country. If he can really reduce the cost of living the poor consumer thinks it is about time he got busy; if he cannot and knows he cannot, as it would seem evident after so long a time, it would be common honesty to say so and not to use that promise as a campaign issue any further.

Congressman Andrew J. Peters is being considered as a candidate for governor. The congressman is in good standing with the Boston Democracy, consisting to a large extent of Mayor Fitzgerald and Martin Lomasney, and these men are said to favor his candidacy. Some people are wondering if there is a desire to shelve Mr. Foss in case he fails to get the Democratic nomination for vice president, and set him aside as to the governorship nomination this fall, in case he should wish it.

CUBAN LEADERS.

President Gomez and General Monteagudo, Facing Serious Crisis.

President Gomez wired President Taft not to intervene, and latter cabled that United States would not occupy Cuba unless Americans were imperiled. General Monteagudo is now in command of the government forces who are in the Oriente fighting the rebellious blacks.

A Record Foreign Commerce

Years ago it used to be a custom for free traders and tariff-for-revenue Democrats to declare that the United States could never secure a large foreign commerce until it abandoned protection and adopted free trade. Steadily year by year the figures of our expanding foreign commerce have given the lie to this statement until it is now never advanced as a tariff argument.

Notwithstanding the fact that for many years this country has adopted a tariff system which protects labor and aims to protect our manufacturers from the cheaper foreign labor, our commerce with other nations has grown by leaps and bounds. The statistical bureau of the department of commerce and labor in a recent statement shows that in both imports and exports the totals for the fiscal year 1912 will be the largest on record. On the basis of the first three months of that year it is estimated that our imports will reach a total of $1,600,000,000, and exceed by forty or fifty million dollars the high record import year of 1910. The estimate on exports is $2,200,000,000, or about $150,000,000 more than those of the previous high record of the fiscal year 1911. All this is very interesting to those concerned in tariff matters for it shows that since 1896 imports have increased about $850,000,000 a year while in the same time the exports have increased more than a billion dollars.

It is perfectly clear that American labor receives the wages for goods manufactured in this country and that the foreign laborer gets the wages paid for making imported goods. The labor element of the country has always insisted on a protective tariff because it sees the inevitable logic contained in that statement.

One of the big items of exports was sewing machines, of which over $160,000,000 in value have been exported in the last forty-eight years, and $80,000,000 since 1900. A very large number of these machines were made in Massachusetts and a big element in the total was the wages paid to Bay State mechanics.

The Great and General Court

The great and general court is likely to finish its work in a very few days if it has its own way about it. Governor Foss seems to think the legislators are in a hurry to get home, and he wishes them to pass all his measures before they go. If he waits until they do that it may be some weeks before prorogation is reached, for they do not on all things agree with him. His own party is fully as much against some of his schemes as the Republicans. Probably he will compromise by allowing prorogation when he gets a part of his measures through.

"492" SERVED 20 YEARS

W. E. Cunningham, a Murderer, Granted Pardon by Council

Boston, May 31.—The man who had been number "492" at Charlestown for twenty of his 52 years, limped into the governor's office to thank his excellency for permitting him again to become William E. Cunningham. He had been released from Charlestown state prison only a half hour before, his life term for the slaying of Margaret Williams being cut short by the clemency of the governor and his council.

Dies at Age of 101

Chaplin, Conn., May 31.—Miss Jerusha W. Crosby is dead here at the age of 101 years. She was born at Lisbon, this state, Jan. 14, 1811. When a year ago she celebrated her 100th anniversary, Chaplain made it a memorable town affair.

The New Way
The Old Way

The new way to cook is to turn on a little switch, apply a match and get a strong, hot, blue flame of gas that will cook anything for you. No fuss or bother, no coal or wood to carry, no overheated kitchen, no dirt--and the meal always on time. But with the old coal or wood stove—well, we hate to tell you. There is no comparison.

$22,000 PRIZE FOR WORLD'S FASTEST MOTOR BOAT

The Wm. Wrigley Jr. Trophy for the power boat championship of the world represents over $22,000. It is a perpetual trophy to be won each year by the club whose moter speed boat entry makes the best three out of five races in competition open to the world, free for all boats under 40 feet in length.

It is a reproduction in silver of a "Flying Mercury" presenting to Neptune a hydroplane motor speed boat. Neptune with his trident, dolphins and water surrounding are in bronze. The round pedestal is of green marble. The figure of Mercury and the model speed boat contain 1,000 ounces of sterling silver. The trophy stands 5 feet 5 inches high. The base is 47 inches in diameter.

Mr. Wrigley will provide annually a replica of this big $5,000 trophy, which becomes the personal property of the winner of each year's races. To provide this trophy annually will require an endowment of about $17,500, thus giving Mr. Wrigley's trophy a value of about $22,000. In addition to these prizes are a $1,500 cash prize for the winner and a $500 cash prize for the second boat.

The first races will be held at Chicago during the Water Carnival and Naval Review, Aug. 10 to 17 inclusive, 1912. It is expected that there will be boats from all over the world.

Water Carnival week at Chicago will include the other races in the Fourth Annual Regatta of the Western Power Boat Association, the International Yacht Race between the Royal Canadian Yacht Club of Toronto and the Chicago Yacht Club, the Lipton Cup Races of Columbia Yacht Club, fireworks displays, naval parades, swimming and diving contests and exhibitions by sailors, marines and naval reserves.

In all the competitions there will be handsome trophies or liberal cash prizes. William Hale Thompson, Commodore, Associated Yacht and Power Boat Clubs, Chicago, will be glad to supply information.

DEATH CALLS WILBUR WRIGHT

Keen Separation For the Two Famous Brothers

CALLED DEAN OF AVIATORS

Chill Followed Prolonged Fever of Three Days—Sister Katherine Was the Sustaining Spirit of the Brothers—Orville Was Prostrated by the Loss—Family Present at the Death —Brothers Students of the Air

Dayton, O., May 31.—Wilbur Wright, the aviator, died at his home here yesterday of typhoid fever.

For three days his death had been expected almost hourly. During Tuesday night he was in a state of coma. He rallied, however, and his fever abated. This was followed by a chill.

At midnight he began to sink and the end followed swiftly.

At Wright's bedside were his father, Bishop Milton Wright, his sister, Katherine, his brother and co-worker, Orville Wright, and Lorin and Reuchlin Wright, younger brothers. Orville Wright, the brother who has shared in Wright's work and his achievements, was overcome. Their sister, Katherine, who helped the brothers by her teacher's salary, when they were struggling with their invention, and who shared their triumphal European trip and their homecoming, though overcome herself, strove to comfort Orville. Wright's mother is dead, and his sister Katherine has taken the mother's place in the home since that time.

Wilbur Wright, who, with his brother, Orville, made flying in a heavier-than-air machine possible, was born in Millville, Ind., in 1867, and a short time later was taken by his parents to Dayton, O., where he has since resided. He was the son of Rev. Milton Wright, a bishop of the United Brethren church, and came from Puritan stock.

Wilbur Wright worked in a machine shop for a time and also learned something of carpentry. He and his brother became interested in air problems, and before they were 25 were hard at work on the series of experiments which have made them famous.

They began a study of the air, rather than of the theory of flying. It was the Wrights, Wilbur being the leader in thought and experiment, while his brother, Orville, did the best of the actual flying, who first acquired a clear idea of what it means to ride the air—the pitfalls and the cross currents and the waves that must be fought constantly.

The story of the early study of the air by the Wrights dates from the time when their father gave them a helicopter kite.

DEATH OF H. M. BAKER

Noted Member New Hampshire Bar and Executor of Eddy Estate

Manchester, N. H., Ma 31.—Word reached here last night that General Henry M. Baker of Bow, former congressman and national committeeman from New Hampshire, died yesterday in Washington.

He was the executor of the will of the late Mary Baker G. Eddy, founder of the Christian Science church.

General Baker was born in Bow Jan. 11, 1841. Death wa due to heart trouble, in the Homeopathic hospital at Washington.

PLAY A WAITING GAME IN CUBA

Federals and Rebels Wait Each For the Other

Havana, May 31.—General Mendieta, commander of the government army in Oriente, sent word that the proposed attack on the negro insurgents in that province had been suspended following an order from General Monteagudo, head of the army, that operations could be delayed until he could take personal charge.

The national and rebel troops have been face to face in the Guantanamo valley for several days and Havana has been eagerly awaiting news of a battle, but it seems improbable there will be a conflict before tomorrow.

Washington, May 31.—With the Cuban insurrection now showing signs of becoming a long drawn out guerilla warfare, not serious enough to necessarily threaten the public institutions on the island, President Taft is disposed to let the navy take the entire responsibility of protecting American life and property and to leave the army independent of the Cuban crisis.

Because of this Rear Admiral Hugo Osterhaus, commander-in-chief of the battleship fleet, who will have command of the naval vessels at Key West, will not count on the support of the army in any protective campaign he may be called upon to execute. He will increase the landing parties of blue jackets aboard each of the battleships and will be in a position to place 5000 bluejackets on Cuban soil without delay.

CHICAGO MEAT DEALERS

Send Retail Prices Up to Old War Time Rates

Chicago, May 31.—Highest prices for fresh meats since Civil war days reached here when retailers put into effect charges from 4 to 5 cents a pound higher for prime cuts of beef, veal and mutton than a week ago.

The packers blame the almost prohibitive cost of meat on the shortage of cattle, due to a scarcity of corn.

Less Than a Mile a Minute

Indianapolis, Ma 31.—One hundred thousand cheering spectators saw Ralph DePalma, the wonderful auto driver, break all world's records for 100 miles in the holiday 500-mile contest. He was closely followed by Dawson and by Tezlaff. DePalma's time for the 100 miles was 1 hour 18 minutes 1 second.

Chain of Food Stores

New York, May 31.—The latest thing in the line of combination of trusts is a chain of delicatessen stores, which are to be opened in this city by interests connected with the American Tobacco company. The statement is made that the men behind the delicatessen stores are prepared to spend $10,000,000.

Electric Vacuum Cleaners for rent $1.50 a day, at Kincaide & Co's.

AUTOMOBILE DEATHS

Car Plunges Backward Over Cliff—Another Runs Into River

Boston, May 31.—Plunging backward through a massive stone wall, a heavy automobile owned by George A. Ramsdell of Malden and driven by Miss Bessie Emerson of that city, hurtled over a precipice on the Smith Point road at Manchester-by-the-Sea, and dropping fifteen feet instantly killed Miss Helen Bean of Melrose, a 20-year-old Tilton seminary student, who was in the tonneau.

Miss Bean's back and neck were broken, and but for the miraculous intervention of a clump of shrubs and bushes the entire party would have been plunged into the sea and probable death.

Catherine O'Brien, a 5-year-old Roxbury girl, was struck and killed byp an automobile on Columbus avenue.

J. Travis Roberts, while driving through Lynn, had his car sideswiped by another car with such force that it dropped into the Saugus river. He swam ashore.

EUROPEAN TRIP GRAFT

Attorneys Said to Have Contributed For Judge Archbald's Vacation

Washington, May 31.—Members of the bar who practised before Judge Robert W. Archbald of the court of commerce, when he was United States district judge at Scranton, Pa., contributed to a fund for a vacation trip to Europe for the judge, according to testimony given the house committee on judiciary by John T. Lanihan of Wilkesbarre, a former member of congress.

Mr. Lanihan contributed $10 or $25, he could not remember which, at the solicitation of E. W. Searle, clerk of Judge Archbald's court. Another law firm in Wilkesbarre, he said, did likewise.

PURE FOOD EXPERT

Dr. Wiley as Head of Boston Board of Health Is Wanted

Boston, May 31.—Mayor Fitzgerald is awaiting a reply from Dr. Harvey W. Wiley to the proposal that he become the head of the Boston health board.

Boston doctors were enthusiastic over the prospect of Dr. Wiley's coming here. They declared the city could not do better, that the plan must be pushed through, and that if necessary, even more than $7500 be offered the great pure food authority.

TO TAKE CRANE'S PLACE

Is the Desire of Both Ex-Governor Draper and Congressman Weeks

Boston, May 31.—Ex-Governor Eben S. Draper has been entered in the list of senatorial candidates.

His friends have been circulating the story that he was to be counted on in any discussion of the situation.

One other development was the full disclosure of the Weeks boom as a reality.

Mortgagee's Sale of Real Estate

By virtue of a power of sale contained in a certain mortgage deed given by James Craig and Annie L. Craig, his wife, in her own right, to Fred W. Wood dated January 25, 1905 and recorded in the Registry of Deeds for the County of Norfolk Book 999, page 583, will be sold at public auction, for breach of the conditions of said mortgage, on the premises hereinafter described, on Monday, the 10th day of June 1912, at forty-five minutes after two o'clock in the afternoon, all and singular the premises conveyed by said mortgage deed, and therein described substantially as follows:—

The following parcel of land situated in that part of Quincy, Massachusetts, known as "Norfolk Downs" being lot numbered 17 on plan of Charles D. Elliot, dated April 1892, and recorded with Norfolk Deeds, Book of plans No. 14, plan No. 640, and bounded and described as follows, viz:—Northeasterly, by Hancock Street, fifty (50) feet; Southeasterly, by Lot No. 16, on said plan, one hundred twenty-eight and 48-100 (128.48) feet; Southwesterly, by lots No. 28 and 29, on said plan, fifty 2-100 (50.02) feet; Northwesterly, by lot No. 18, on said plan, one hundred twenty-nine 99-100 (129.99) feet. Containing according to said plan, sixty-four hundred sixty-one 8-10 (6461.8) feet of land.

Said premises will be sold subject to the restrictions set forth in the title deeds and to any and all unpaid taxes and assessments.

$100.00 will be required to be paid in cash by the purchaser at the time and place of sale, balance in ten days from day of sale at twelve o'clock noon, at the office of the mortgagee, Room 43, 15 School Street, Boston, Mass.

GOV. FOSS SIGNED QUINCY BILLS

Town River and Channel Appropriations All Right

ALSO FUNDING THE DEBT

Gov. Foss signed three bills in which the City of Quincy is vitally interested. The first for $25,000 for widening and deepening the Town river, $6,000 for dredging the channel off the Wollaston and Squantum Yacht club houses and the bill to allow the City of Quincy to fund $150,000 of its indebtedness at the rate of $15,000 a year.

MOHAWK'S CLUB OPENED CASINO

Houghs Neck Scene of a Brilliant Dancing Party

More than four hundred dancers attended the May party of the Mohawk Social club, held in Moore's summer ballroom at Houghs Neck Wednesday evening, the affair being designated as the official opening of the social season at this popular beach resort. Delegations from organizations in South Boston, Dorchester, Cambridge, Somerville, Braintree, Weymouth and Brockton were present in large numbers and the event was acknowledged to have been one of the best and most successful ever held at Houghs Neck.

Moore's orchestra furnished music and dancing was enjoyed till midnight. The proceeds of the party will be devoted to the maintenance of a cottage at Houghs Neck this summer for the club.

"Webb" McDonald, the well-known fistic artist, was floor director. Everett Harris was assistant floor director and Jeremiah Moynihan was chief of aids. The following members of the club were the aids: James O'Brien, William O'Brien, Joseph Wade, Frank Taylor. A committee of young ladies assisted the aids. They were Misses Laura Pinkham, Laura Sheppard, Florence Drysdale and Frances Goffe.

JUNE BREAKFAST.

A June breakfast is to be given tomorrow morning at Wollaston at the Unitarian vestry under the auspices of the Philanthropic committee of the Quincy Women's club, the proceeds to be used for the Charitable work of the club. A breakfast was also to have been held in Quincy at Alpha hall but owing to the illness of Mrs. Sheppard the club president, it was given up.

RAIN.

The baseball game between the Adams and Wollaston schools, for this afternoon at Merymount park, is postponed to Tuesday.

JOHN CURTIS SURPRISED

A surprise party, which took the form of a birthday celebration, was tendered John Curtis, at his home 54 Quarry street by a number of friends Wednesday evening. He was presented with a handsome signet ring. An entertainment was furnished and refreshments were served. Songs were rendered by Richard Collins, Sr. and the Rocky Hill quartet, composed of Albert Martell, Charles LaBrecque, Richard Collins and John Welsh.

SECOND GAME

The second game of the season in the Quincy City baseball league will be played Saturday afternoon on the Water street playgrounds, between Makaria and West Quincy.

AUTO ENGINE TO COME

The newspaper which Wednesday stated that Mayor Stone had taken its advice and vetoed the order for $6,000 for an automobile chemical, was mistaken in both views. The Mayor approved the order this morning and it has now become a law. The order provides for the purchase of a Kessel automobile combination engine to be placed in the house of Combination No. 2 at Atlantic and the moving of Combination No. 2 to the house of Hose No. 3 at West Quincy. The time limit for approving or disapproving the order would have expired at 5 o'clock tonight.

LEADING YOUNG ATHLETE DEAD

Harold W. Prout, Only Son Passed Away Thursday

SYMPATHY FOR PARENTS

Harold W. Prout, the 18 year old son of Mr. and Mrs. William Prout of 83 Independence avenue, died early Thursday morning. The parents of the boy are grief stricken and they have the sympathy of a wide circle of acquaintances.

The deceased was one of the best athletes ever turned out at Quincy High school. He played on the football and basketball teams of the last three years and was considered one of the fastest runners in interscholastic circles, being especially proficient in the century yard dash. He was greatly instrumental in advancing athletics at the local school.

For the past year he had been failing in health and it was feared that overtraining had proved injurious to him. He was sent to another climate in an endeavor to regain his health but without avail.

About a year ago his sister died and as Harold was the only son, his parents feel his loss most deeply. He was also a prominent member of Christ Episcopal church and frequently took an active part in many social functions. Funeral services will be held from his late home Sunday afternoon at 2.30 o'clock and will be conducted by Rev. Richard E. Armstrong, rector of Christ church.

BRIEFS

Em. Sirs Albert W. Fay, Arthur W. Stetson and Henry P. Furnald attended the semi annual session of the Grand Commandery Knights Templars of Massachusetts and Rhode Island, at Providence, R. I. Wednesday.

An entertainment and dance will be held at St. Mary's hall tonight by the St. Mary's Guild and will present the play entitled "The Kleptomaniac", to be followed by dancing. Charles J. McGilvray will have charge of the floor.

LAST MORNING MUSICAL TREAT

Of Women's Club Brought Out Large Audience

EXCELLENT WORK BY TRIO

The last of the May Morning Musicales at the Quincy Women's clubhouse on Wednesday of this week, attracted the largest audience of the series and a delightful program was given by the Mazah Trio and Miss Margaret L. Shepherd, contralto. In addition to the artistic numbers of the Trio, Mr. Ricker was heard to splendid advantage in a 'cello solo, winning most appreciative applause. He plays with much power in expression and resonance of tone, always pleasing his hearers. Miss Shepherd, who created such a favorable impression at her first appearance here, again delighted all with her beautiful singing. She is a rare artist indeed, possessing all the qualities that combine to make the truly great singer, beauty of voice, warmth of temperament, the ability to study and to interpret, all combined with a charming personality. It has been a great treat to music lovers not only to hear her but to personally express their appreciation of her singing. Mrs. Jennie Hocking Hunt has also been warmly congratulated for her artistic accompaniaments. The social spirit of these affairs has given much pleasure to those attending and the Music committee members have received many congratulations and requests for a repetition next season. The clubhouse grounds are most attractive at this time of year and many from out of town have enjoyed the wonderful view from the tower windows which extends over the city to the waters of Quincy bay.

The musicales have most pleasurably introduced to the people of Quincy and vicinity three excellent musicians in ensemble as well as solo work, in the personnel of the trio, Roscoe R. Ricker, violin, Miss Marion Moorhouse 'cello and Miss Grace M. Farrington, piano, and their work has been of great merit. They have given great pleasure and won many new friends, and it is certain that those interested in the musical career of these young musicians will watch their progress with much satisfaction.

The program

Trio Moderato
Allegro Jansen
Rec. and Aria from "La Favorita" Donizetti
"O Mio Fernando"
Violin solo Selections from "Il Trovatore" Verdi
Songs a "I Think" D'Hardelot

MEMORIAL DAY NOTES

The Coast Artillery and Bumpus camp were entertained by the Good Will club of John A. Boyd camp at Protection and Electa halls. A letter written by William P. Kenibbs, the first Commander in Chief of the Spanish War Veterans of F. J. Horneman, B. M. V. A., was presented to the camp as a relic by the latter. Commander Kenibbs was wounded at E. Cany in 1898 and was taken to the Brooklyn, N. Y., hospital. It was while there that the letter was written. It was a typical soldier's letter. Past Commander Matthews presented the Maine relic, a six inch copper powder can.

There was instrumental music by Antonio Martone and Richard Barnard of the Perkins Institute for the blind.

Short addresses by Commander Francis P. Loud of Paul J. Revere Post 88, G. A. R., Frank Stoddard of the Sons of Veterans, Sergeant Walter McDonald of Coast Artillery 83, U. S. A., Andrew Carson of Camp Bumpus, Commander William Y. Cole of the British Veterans, a member of the Royal Navy and a Victorian medal man, and Mrs. C. P. Gould of the Woman's Relief Corps.

Audrew McGuiness, who was present, enjoys the distinction of being a G. A. R. man and a member of the Spanish War Veterans, of Camp Bumpus Army of the Philippines, and Camp Bogar of Charlestown.

MARK TWAIN IN ANGER.

The Great Humorist Was a Volcano When He Broke Loose.

Famous authors are usually poor business men, but Mark Twain, according to William H. Rideing in his "Many Celebrities and a Few Others," knew his own value and had no unbusinesslike indifference to the substantial recognition of it. The only critic Twain "ever listened to with patience and respected and obeyed was his wife." Underneath his humor lay a deeply serious nature. Mr. Rideing says: "How mistaken were the people who, not knowing him, imagined that everywhere and on all occasions his attitude and point of view were those of the jester! I never knew a more earnest man than he was or one whose aroused indignation was so overwhelming. When anger moved him you could see his lean figure contract, and his eyes ominously screwed themselves into their sockets. Every fiber in him quivered, and for the moment his voice became acid and sibilant and out of tune—almost a whine.

"Then he would let himself out in a break, like that of a dam unable to hold the flood, in language as candid and unshrinkable as the vernacular of the Elizabethans. Epithet would be plied on epithet, one following another with cumulative vigor and distinctness and the disclosing and illuminative effect of explosives.

"And not a word missed its mark; not a word seemed superfluous or exchangeable for any other word. Each fitted the use he made of it as a cartridge fits a rifle or a revolver; each told."

CURIOUS BATTLEFIELDS.

An Indoor Attack and a Cavalry Charge on a Naval Force.

At the battle of Monterey, in the Mexican war, our troops were able to command the streets of the city with their artillery, but they experienced much difficulty in driving the Mexicans from their houses. Accordingly, as the city was built of stone or adobe, the Americans broke through the walls from one house to another, fighting and driving out the enemy as they proceeded. Thus, it appears, the battle of Monterey was largely fought indoors.

In the time of William the Silent, when the Netherlands were fighting the Spaniards, a number of Spanish vessels became frozen in on the Zuyder Zee. Out came the Dutch on horseback on the ice to attack the Spaniards. This is probably the only battle of record wherein cavalry was employed directly against a naval force.

There have been battles fought underground. Chiefest of these was the fierce encounter pertaining to the siege of Haarlem in the Dutch wars. The Spaniards mined and the Dutch countermined with equal industry, and below the ground a terrific conflict ensued.

When, after the commune, the Versailles troops took Paris they chased certain of the communist forces to the great sewers of the French capital, and in these more than one sanguinary battle occurred.—New York Press.

What Is Happiness?

Happiness is the greatest paradox in nature. It can grow in any soil, live under any conditions. It defies environment. It comes from within. It is the revelation of the depths of the inner life as light and heat proclaim the sun from which they radiate. Happiness consists not of having, but of being; not of possessing, but of enjoying. It is the warm glow of a heart at peace within itself. A martyr at the stake may have happiness that a king on his throne might envy. Man is the creator of his own happiness. It is the aroma of a life lived in harmony with high ideals. For what a man has he may be dependent on others; what he is rests with him alone. What he obtains in life is but acquisition; what he attains is growth. Happiness is the soul's joy in the possession of the intangible.—William George Jordan.

A Practical Husband.

Surely the Monmouthshire man who caused his wife's wedding ring to be inscribed, "If thee doesn't work, thee shan't eat," was determined that there should be no mistake in what he required in a wife. The only wonder is now any woman could be induced to marry him with such a threat before her eyes. The exact date of this ring is not known, but it is previous to the eighteenth century.—Chambers' Journal.

The Last Word.

Bobby—Is every word in this dictionary, pa? Peckley—Oh, no, my child. Every little while a new word comes into the language. Bobby—What's the latest word, pa? Peckley—Your ma will tell you. She always has the last word.

He Dodged.

A lady, observing that a stranger in her pew had no hymnbook, politely handed him one. "Thanks," said the gentleman, with great suavity; "I seldom use a libretto."—Argonaut.

Pathetic.

Daughter — I cried all through the play. Father — Was it pathetic? Daughter—Very. The hateful usher put Cholly on one side of the aisle and me on the other.—Judge.

Riches Versus Luck.

Wig—Would you rather be born lucky or rich? Wag—I'd rather be born rich. Then you don't have to be lucky.—Exchange.

My spark may grow greater by kindling my brother's taper.—Jeremy Taylor.

THE LEGISLATURE STILL IN SESSION

Unable to Finish Its Business and Close Up

Boston, May 31.—Hopelessly confused, uncertain of what it had done or what remained to be done, the senate gave up its plan to prorogue whether the governor was willing or not and adjourned over Memorial day to Monday next.

Governor Foss had declared that he would not prorogue the bod, but the upper chamber blocked itself. Its program was to have the Republican members clean their docket and walk out, thus breaking the quorum and making the further transaction of business impossible.

To make that possible it was planned to hold a continuous session to midnight, if necessary, and thus leave clear decks. It made a fine start, but in its haste in amending and re-amending the Grand Trunk bill it got into such a state of mind that the members had little or no idea of what they were doing or what they were likely to do. So at the last moment, having ordered the bill to a third reading, they actually did not dare to go any further, and President Greenwood sent word over to Speaker Cushing that the scheme was off.

K OF C EXEMPLIFY THIRD DEGREE

Class of Forty Took Part Under Quincy Council

MANY VISITORS PRESENT

A class of forty candidates took part in the exemplification of the third degree held Wednesday evening in St. Mary's hall, West Quincy by Quincy Council No. 96 Knights of Columbus. Candidates were present from councils in Dorchester, South Boston, Milton, Braintree and Weymouth.

The degree work was performed by District Deputy Charles J. Brady and suite. The affair was largely attended and among those present were Rev. Fr. Patrick J. Scannell, assistant pastor of St. John's Church Rev. Fr. Henry T. Grady, pastor of St. Mary's Church, West Quincy, Rev. Fr. John P. Cuffe, pastor of the Sacred Heart Church, Atlantic and State Warden John Quinn, sheriff of Suffolk County and a former member of the Governor's Council.

COLORS OF THE RAINBOW.

They Vary According to the Size of the Raindrops.

Violet, indigo blue, green, yellow, orange, red—the colors of the rainbow. Any child knows that, and the high school pupil can refer you to half a dozen textbooks to prove it. It is true, however, of only a very few rainbows, as C. Fitzhugh Talman demonstrates in the Scientific American.

The colors of rainbows vary with their width, and their width varies with the size of the raindrops, big drops producing narrow bows with bright, clearly defined colors, small drops producing wide bows with pale colors.

Here are the colors as generally seen: (1) When the raindrops average one millimeter in diameter, violet, light blue, bluish green, green, yellow, orange, light red, dark red; (2) when the drops average three-tenths of a millimeter in diameter, violet, light blue, bluish green, green, yellow, orange; (3) when the drops average one-tenth of a millimeter, very pale violet, violet, whitish blue, whitish green, whitish yellow, pale yellow; (4) when the drops average one-twentieth of a millimeter (fog), white tinged with violet, bright white, white tinged with yellow, very pale yellow.

SIGNAL MESSAGES.

Beacon Fires Were First Used, and Then Came Semaphores.

Signal fire telegraphing, with its very limited scope of information contained, seems to have been about the only means of communicating quickly across distances until relatively modern times.

It was not until the days of the French revolution that any material improvement over the beacon fire telegraph developed. Three brothers named Chappe devised the semaphore telegraph. This system got into active operation in 1794, and the first real message ever spelled out and telegraphed across country was in that year, and the text was as follows:

"Conde is taken from the Austrians."

The same day the national convention, sitting in Paris, sent back the following reply to the army:

"The army of the north deserves the gratitude of the country."

The semaphore operators attained a speed of three letters a minute in fine weather, with an average of one a minute over long distance. This made necessary the invention of condensed codes, which came into fashion.—New York Telephone Review.

The Soft Answer.

A couple of neighbors were leaning over the back fence. "My husband says he always does better work when thinking of me."

"I notice he made a very good job of beating the carpets."

And then the tomcat had a fit.—Louisville Courier-Journal.

CARD OF THANKS.
